NO MONOCLE FOR HIM.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—None of Eton's high silk hats for the 17-year-old Earl of Suffolk and Berkshire! Swabbing decks on the sailing clipper, Mount Stewart, suits him far better. Though he owns 10,000 acres of rich farming land, the youthful nobelman prefers the sea to terra firma!

ANNUAL REPORT OF CHIEF CONSTABLE

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall presented his fourth annual report to the Police Commission as follows:

I consider it a matter of great importance and satisfaction to be able to report that "murder" is not included in our statistics for the said year.

The Force numbers 15, including all ranks: One Chief Constable, one Inspector, three Sergeants, two Detectives, eihgt Police Constables.

The total area of the City is 2825¾ acres, within this area there are 160 streets and alleys, the total length of these being approximately 55 miles.

Day relief.....7 men
Night relief.....8 men
(Including Superior Officers)

Out of these numbers Traffic and Relief men have to be provided, taking into consideration sickness, special duties, men on leave, Court work and numerous other unforseen happenings. It is very difficult to attempt to render efficiency with a less number of men considering the vast territory to be covered especially in these days of crime and violence.

Traffic on Streets

For the prevention of vehicular accidents there should be posted at dangerous corners or localities warning signs or devices which will inform drivers of danger and what precautions to take to avoid accidents.

For the convenience of drivers of automobiles signs should be posted to inform them where cars may be parked or left standing or waiting with instructions as to what length of time such privilege is given and also where vehicles will not be permitted to stand or park in public streets.

Motor traffic continues to increase and traffic over the busiest crossings have to be regulated which still calls for extra men on duty day and where are the night duty men to come from, besides more responsibility being placed on the police for enforcing the new highway traffic act. It is obvious then that the hazard of the pedestrian is very great, and too, that precautions for their safety must be proportionate to the risk.

It is very satisfactory to report that no fatal street accidents occurred in this city during 1923. Good work was performed by the motor cycle men.

Over 100 drivers were cautioned for minor breaches of traffic regulations, without getting a police record all being first offenders.

Fires

To minimize fire hazards great precaution has been taken especially during the silent hours of the night by constantly keeping the police auto and motor cycle on the move all over the city which excellent system will be entirely destroyed should the present strength of the force be decreased.

Police Pay

I desire to draw the attention of the board to the fact that the members of this force are considerably underpaid in comparison with other towns and cities in Ontario of like standing and less in population, and whilst other places have pension funds, stated days off and so forth, we have no such facilities.

Signal System

I again draw the attention of the board to the fact that a police force cannot claim to be strictly efficient without a signal system, at present we have to rely upon the kindness of the manufacturers and other places where there are night watchmen for the use of their respective telephones in order to keep in constant touch with the police office.

Arms

During the past year and owing to the serious bank robberies and hold-ups the board were compelled and wisely so too, to equip the force with the latest arms, viz., Colt police positive revolvers which were greatly appreciated by the members of said force, who were badly equipped, but the payment of same was not provided for in 1923 estimates, neither was the payment of legal fees for counsel in the recent appeal case, City of Peterborough vs Samuel Newhall.

I strongly recommend that the entire interior of police headquarters be thoroughly cleansed, repaired and painted and again that the chief's office be enlarged and remodelled, also that the police garage be heated and put in proper order.

Crime

The crimes of theft being on the increase during the latter part of the year kept the detectives very busy with prevention work as well as with the work of apprehending criminals, and by them giving particular attention to places of public resort and by timely action preventing vicious characters from establishing themselves in the city.

The extraordinary precautions taken by the police to protect banks and transportation of money prevented robberies and perhaps loss of life.

There was evidence of professional thieving which were unpreventable owing to the wide spread publicity given to the supposed local disorganized police force which is to be regretted.

The law regarding carrying of concealed weapons has been strictly enforced.

The city is practically free from disorderly houses only one or two suspected exist at the present time.

Extra attention has been given to the conduct of pool-rooms and other licensed premises as it is in these places that many of the younger men receive their first tuition in crime.

The Ontario Temperance Act has been fairly and honestly enforced.

There are a few drug addicts in the city but strict watch is kept on those suspected of trafficking in narcotic drugs.

Quiet Zone

It was pointed out by His Worship the Mayor that a quiet zone might be a good thing, especially during band concerts in Victoria park, with that in view I recommend that the four streets surrounding Victoria park, viz., Water, Murray, College and Brock streets, be restricted and called a quiet zone during the hours of band concerts and that the regulation of traffic may be safely left in the hands of the constables on duty at such concerts.

In view of increased traffic conditions, it will be necessary to station a traffic officer from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the junction of Charlotte and George streets, and on busy evenings the three main crossings, therefore I recommend that a "Stop and Go signal" be purchased for the first named traffic point.

I also recommend the purchase of a new automobile, "Studebaker big six," preferred, as to keep up the old car will be very costly, besides it being worthless at the end of the year. I have set aside a sum in the estimates to meet this purchase.

Discipline

The personal conduct of the members of the police force has been exemplary, I have only found it necessary to prefer charges of breaches of the rules and regulations against one member of the force.

They have assumed a clear cut understanding of their duty and responsibility to the public, and I only know of one instance where an officer has neglected to act promptly and to the best of his ability in answering calls of an important nature.

The Police Matron

I desire to express my thanks to the police matron and her husband, Adjutant Smith, for their tireless and successful efforts in connection with immoral cases, also in cases of young girls and charity, which have come to the notice of the police and without whose excellent services there would be a vast number of unsuccessful cases finding their way into the police court.

In conclusion I wish to thank the board of police commissioners on behalf of myself and the members of the department for their assistance and co-operation during the past year, in all things pertaining to the well being and good government of the force, the members of which, through their unswerving loyalty to duty, enabled me to carry on, under such trying circumstances.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Bills for the incorporation of the United Church of Canada are now before the Federal and Provincial Parliaments. It is said that the only opposition comes from Presbyterians. Methodists are entirely in accord with union. It is not difficult to sympathize with those who have great traditions to cherish and who in addition do not wish to cut themselves off from the denomination in other countries. It no doubt will seem very strange to those who unite to find that they alone of all the Methodists and Presbyterians in the world have deserted the old ships. But there is a reason for it—in fact, there are two reasons for it. One is the loss of faith through the inroads of modernism, and the other is the shrinkage of missionary contributions. Loss of faith really reduces members of a church to the status of adherents only, who, as a rule, go from one church to another and care little for any. With modernism as the new faith of the new church, there will be little insermon, but talk, and it is very likely that another ten years will see the new church on the rocks, at any rate as a church. It would be better therefore for some churches to remain out so that in the event of failure the unionists may have some place to go. It will be easy to expand the old churches again to their former status, if not strength, and with a feeling of repentance, if not shame, they may go forward to a great work.

After Nights of Coughing

Sleep Comes at Last

Home Made Cough Mixture Best of All

The cough that hangs on and hangs on—the cough you've taken everything for with no results, is just the cough that your own home-made cough mixture will end speedily.

Make a supply yourself in a few minutes and keep it on hand this winter—a half pint doesn't cost much; it's better than any you can buy, and the kiddies love it.

With speed almost beyond belief this home-made cough mixture stops the toughest hang-on cough, and all because in it there is a substance (too costly for ordinary cough syrups) that immediately covers the membrane like a soothing, healing poultice and blessed relief comes at once.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one-half pint—that's all there is to it.

Any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

FELICITATIONS IN ORDER.

SOUTH CHINA DECIDES IN FAVOUR OF SOVIET

HONG KONG, Feb. 19. United Press. — The whole Chinese Press to-day emphasized reports that Sun Yat Sen, the South China dictator, has decied to adopt a Soviet form of government for Kwang Tung Province, nationalizing the land and big business. The movement, according to the newspapers, 'aparently follows a conference between Sun Yat Sen, and a Soviet representative from Moscow, who promised a large sum of money to support the experiment."

The foreign colonies here and in Canton were not alarmed, recalling the allied naval demonstrations last to abandon his threat to seize the customs house.

WILL SOON REACH EUROPE IN A DAY.

The Airplane Will Never Take Away Any of Our Present-Day Transportation Comforts.

DAYTON, O., Feb. 20.—The airplane never will take away any of our present-day transportation comforts. It merely will help us out in emergencies when speed is what we want most.

This cheering news for us poor landlubbers comes from no less a person than Anthony H G. Fokker, Europe's foremost aeronautical expert, whose commercial planes are flying today between the great capitals of the old world.

The enterprising little Dutch inventor, still under 35, who designed and built the famous Fokker planes, is in this country on business.

"It would be foolhardy for me to venture a prophecy. Yet I do believe the next five or ten years will see Americans flying to Europe in 24 hours or even less.

"But we should not be too idealistic. The automobile didn't supersede the train, the wireless didn't replace the telegraph. Neither will the airplane adge out our present forms of travel and communication.

"It merely will supplement them. When a man wants to get some place in a hurry, he'll go by air. When he wants to ship an important package in a hurry, he'll send it by plane. If he has plenty of time, the old order of things will suit him."

The American business man will be commuting through the skies from his suburban home to his city office only after municipal officials and chambers of commerce provide suitable landing facilities, Fokker said.

And real progress in aviation depends solely upon the co-operation of government and business, he believes.

VICTORIA, British Columbia.—The salmon pack of this Province, according to figures issued by the Board of Trade, was 1,341,681 cases in 1923, or about 50,000 cases in excess of that of 1922.

HOW MANY PEOPLE ARE REAL HONEST.

When Tested It Was Found That 200 Out of a Thousand Were Not.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 20.—How many of the people, whom you pass on the streets, are absolutely honest? "Four out of five!" answers Solomon Ulmer. He recently demonstrated this by an odd experiment.

Ulmer, head of a mortgage company in Cleveland, is raising money for a new tuberculosis sanitarium in Los Angeles. He picked 1,000 names at random from his local city directory. To each of these he mailed this letter, with a $1 bill enclosed:

"You can keep this dollar if you want to, but we hope you won't. We hope you'll send it and another one to me as your subscription to the fund. We believe everyone is really kind and generous. We are investing $1,000 to prove that belief. Have we made a good investment? What is your answer?"

Out of the 1,000 who received a letter and $1 bill, 600 returned the dollar with at least one more, 200 sent the dollar back alone, and 200 kept the dollar.

The 200, of course, are not dishonest as the law views such things. They were told they could keep the dollar if they preferred. But an appeal was made to them in a good cause and they were put on their honor to repay.

At an rate, at least four out of five are absolutely honest, and three out of five are generous as well as honest.

Cases like this give us renewed confidence in our fellowmen at large—especially the strangers whose elbows brush ours on the street.

As you follow the daily news and read of hold-ups, confidence games, swindles and burglary, maybe you occasionally get the notion that the world reeks with dishonesty.

Not so. The dishonest cases are the exceptions. That's why they are news—a record of the unusual. Honesty is so common and general, that cases of it are not news.

Treat Sore Throat With Vicks

FOLLOW THE EXAMPLE OF THIS NOVA SCOTIA LADY.

Mrs. F. S. Myra of Bridgewater, Nova Scotia, writes: "I am delighted to let you know of the good Vicks VapoRub has done me. A few weeks ago I had a very bad sore throat. I happened to have a sample of Vicks in the house, so I used it, and it did my throat so much good that I bought a bottle from my druggist. I cannot praise Vicks VapoRub too highly."

Treat one cold with Vicks VapoRub, and you will adopt this external treatment for all the cold troubles of the family. Vicks is a salve that acts like a plaster and a vapor lamp at the same time. It is absorbed and inhaled.

When the children come in wet and sniffling, apply Vicks liberally over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth.

Treated at bedtime, the child is usually better next morning and all the bad after-effects of internal dosing are avoided. Croup attacks are kept away, too.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P. Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

ENGLISH AS SHE IS SPOKEN IN LONDON.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(United Press).—In view of the approaching visit of thousands ot business men to London for the International Advertising Convention, the newspapers here are publishing lists of phrases so that the visitor can make himself understood and also understand what is said to him. A glossary such as the following appears in one paper:

DOESN'T CHEW GUM.

All us "stenogs" are liable to be huntin' other jobs. For a guy over here has invented a typewriter that writes straight from dictation. And it spells right, too, they say.

But after all, it's just a machine, and not a pretty rouged-up girl. So, maybe, we'll still be safe.

Can you chin a bar?

Can you lie flat on your back and come to a sitting position with a 10-pound weight behind your neck?

Can you raise either hand above your head, elbow rigid, with a 35-pound weight?

Can you squeeze between your knees a measuring device until it registers 150 pounds?

Can you register a 50-pound push in a pectoral, or chest, muscle test?

Can you register a back and leg lift of 500 pounds?

Can you demonstrate a squeeze of 60 pounds in either hand?

If, besides being able to do these things, you can pass a medical test for eyes, teeth and heart; if you can get by a mental test, and are at least 5 feet and 4 inches high and weigh not less than 130 or more than 160 pounds—you can qualify to become a policewoman.

"The strength required for a woman is about one-fourth that required for men," according to Michael J. Delehanty of the Institute of Civil Service here, but it is surprising how few women are able to pass the physical tests.

"Out of 500 women who recently applied for positions on the New York police force there were only 158 accepted for examination and of these only 115 passed the physical test. Of these about 70 per cent. are expected to pass the medical and mental tests.

"However, when women go into training for these jobs and spend an hour and a half twice a week developing their strength, the usually make much greater progress than men."

The policewoman, of course, is not supposed to act as the restraining element when there is a good gang fight or when a group of longshoremen are settling their difficulties by the well-known fist method.

"However," Delehanty points out, "as a matron in a police station or in many types of welfare and social work it is necessary to search women who are under the influence of drink or drugs, or to deal with hysterical women where physical strength is a decided advantage.

"The best way to acquire such strength is by the systematic exercise which makes it possible for a woman to pass the tests given her."

So when you get tired of your daily dozen or your rhythmic dancing, and want something more strenuous, try these.

No Need to Be Dyspeptic

One never grows too old to forget the delights of eating. And yet old people will sometimes play on these memories and bring on dyspeptic attacks even though the diet be simple. Every family should be supplied with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. From childhood to old age they daily overcome or prevent the distresses due to indigestion. They sweeten the stomach by giving it the alkaline effects as in health, they absorb the gases, they lift off the feelings of heaviness, they stop sour risings or heart burn, they actually assist in the digestion of food, and from all points of view are one of the most invaluable aids to health to be found. So, no matter what you eat, if your stomach rebels, always remember that a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will keep your stomach sweet and thus aid to prevent much of the distress that comes late in life.

1,800 FANATICS DIE, MORE TAKE UP ARMS

The Philippine Outbreak Growing Worse Despite Slaughter.

MANILLA, Feb. 20.—Eighteen hundred Colorum fanatics have been slain by constabulary riflemen on the islands of Bucas, Surigao and Leyte since the first little battle on Bucas Island a few weeks ago. After each killing new fanatical bolomen appear like sprouting dragon's teeth. The situation is now such that Gov.-Gen. Wood himself will leave Manila the end of this week for a personal tour of investigation.

The renewed strength of the fanatics is probably explainable on the ground that the relatives of the slain (who are not themselves adherents of the strange faith) take the field in an attempt to avenge their dead kinsmen.

Col. Bowers moved yesterday with 300 riflemen who have already tasted blood against 400 Colorums. The fanatics' stronghold is near Socorro Mountain. Bowers' force has two machine guns in addition to mountain pieces and will bombard the stronghold before commencing the assault. A fearful slaughter of the fanatics is anticipated owing to the fact that few if any have rifles

Students of Malayan psychology believe that conditions will grow worse as the killings increase and they express regret that the constabulary was unable to capture the ringleaders of the movements at the toutset without killing so many hundred ignorant followers.

A BLENDED TEA IS BETTER

Tea from one garden no matter how fine it is, possesses certain desirable qualities but may lack others, because all characteristics are not developed under the same conditions. If the tea has a perfect flavor it may lack body; if it has body it is perhaps without the same perfection of flavour. To combine all desirable characteristics in one blend has been the work of the 'SALADA' Experts for over a quarter of a century, and "SALADA" is the fruit of their labours. The flavour is more delicious than any unblended tea grown.

Permit Fishing For Herring on Sunday.

OTTAWA, Feb. 20. — (Canadian Press).—Herring fishing on the Pacific coast is legal seven days in the week under a regulation issued by the Government yesterday. The ban on herring catches between Saturday midnight and Sunday midnight has been lifted in the case of herring. It still remains, however, on halibut fishing.

JUDGMENT GIVEN FOR PLAINTIFFS

Peterboro Firm Secures Payment For a Sample Shade.

The following judgment in the case of Turner versus Duggan was handed down by Judge Huycke in the County Court. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr. Goodwin, of Stratford, for the defendants.

This is an action by the plaintiffs of Peterborough to recover $348.74, the price of a bill of goods alleged to be sold to the defendants, merchants of Stratford, Ontario. An order was given by the defendants in November, 1922, for certain window shades and other goods to be delivered in April, 1923, and to be paid for May 1st, 1923. A memorandum of the order was made in duplicate by the salesman, Mr. Dreyer, one of such memoranda being given to the defendants, the other sent to the plaintiffs at Peterborough.

These are goods made generally by the plaintiffs and it is not suggested that the goods were specially made up to fill the defendants order. The goods as ordered were shipped to defendants, per Canadian National Railways, on April 25th, 1923. The defendants refused to take them, or to pay for them, having a short time prior to the date of shipment advised the plaintiffs that they cancelled their order and asked that the goods be not forwarded.

The defence is two-fold—the first, and the one most relied upon in argument, being fraud and misrepresentation on the part of the plaintiffs' agent, Mr. Dreyer, the alleged fraud being statements said to have been made by Dreyer, that the firm of Daly & Morin, from whom the defendants had previously purchased such goods, had ceased to manufacture them, and that the plaintiffs company had taken over their business. This statement, if made, was not true. But the charge of fraud and such misrepresentation as this is a very serious one, and should be made with great care and not made at all unless well substantiated.

There are three witnesses as to this alleged conversation; the plaintiffs' agent, Dreyer, and two of the defendants employees, Vrooman and Heinrich. The whole three gave their evidence and all differed and differed materially in what was said on the occasion in question. Not only do Vrooman and Heimrich differ from Dreyer, but they differ from each other. The defendants on this ground fail, but in making this finding I do not desire to charge ill-faith or untruthfulness on the part of any of the witnesses. It is so long ago since the thing happened that their recollection is not accurate, and perhaps cannot be expected to be so under the circumstances. I do not think any consideration has been given to this conversation by any of the parties until after the lapse of many months when the trouble had arisen, and then they tried to rack their brains as to what had occurred, with varying results.

The other defence is, that the plaintiffs have not brought themselves within Section 6 of the Sale of Goods Act, 10 Geo. V, Cap. 40, sub-section 1, of this clause reads as follows:

"A contract for the sale of any "goods of the value of forty dolars or "upwards shall not be enforceable by "action unless the buyer shall accept "part of the goods so sold, and actually "receive the same, or give something "in earnest to bind the contract or "in part payment, or unless some "note or memorandum in writing of "the contract be made and signed "by the party to be charged or his "agent in that behalf."

This is Section 17 of the old Statute of Frauds, which has been Law in the British Dominions for 250 years slightly but not materially amended—sub-section 3 of the same section is relied upon by the plaintiffs as assisting them, and I am urged very strongly to find in favor of the plaintiffs, in accordance with that s. s., which reads as follows:

"There is an acceptance of goods "within the meaning of this section "when the buyer does any act in re-"lation to the goods which recognizes "a pre-existing contract of sale, "whether there be an acceptance in "performance of the contract or "not."

In March, 1923, the defendants wrote the plaintiffs to send them one of these shades for examination. This was done and although the sample was not returned and no fault found with it, the order was subsequently cancelled and the goods refused. It is not now contended that the plaintiffs' goods were not satisfactory, or within the terms of the order, but the defendants rely, and it is their right to do so, upon the sections referred to. The main shipment of the goods was not accepted, nor did the defendants actually receive the same, or did they give anything in earnest to bind the contract; nor did they make part payment, and no note or memorandum in writing of a contract was made by the defendants. If the defendants had signed the order as given to the plaintiffs' salesman, their position would have been different. Therefore, if none of these things are done, the contract is not enforceable pursuant to the Statute.

I have considered very carefully whether or not the sending, and receipt, and retention of the sample blind was not a partial acceptance of the goods so sold. The case of Abbott vs. Wolsey, 1895, Q. B. 97 (reference also to Page vs. Morgan, 15 O.B.D. 228) not referred to in argument, goes very nearly but not quite that far. In that case the goods were sent and delivered to the defendants, who took a sample out of the goods as delivered and then rejected them. It was held in that case that this was an act "in relation to the goods," recognising a pre-existing contract within the English equivalent of s. s. 3. But here there was no such thing, the sample was sent separately, and prior to the shipment of the other goods, and the letter ordering it specially refers to the one only as a sample and for examination, and the letter cannot to my mind be construed as an acceptance and ratification of the whole order. The letter does refer to porch shades "that we have on order" which implies and substantially admits the existence of an order, the giving of which is admitted by all. I seriously considered whether or not that statement—"that we have on order"—was an act "in relation to the goods"—and rather reluctantly concluded that it was not. All the English cases where this Act has been in force for a long time, in regard to this sub-section seem to refer to an actual dealing with the goods themselves, and not to written references to them. I would willingly have found the contrary if possible, because the plaintiffs have acted bona fide throughout.

The result of it all is that the plaintiffs must fail in their chief action, because they have not brought their action within the terms of what so long a time has been known as the Statute of Frauds, Section 17, and their contract duly made is non-enforceable. Part of the claim, however, is for the one shade sent as a sample for examination, the price being $4.38. This has not been returned and the plaintiffs are, of course, entitled to payment for it.

Judgment will go for the plaintiffs for $4.38 with Division Court costs, without set off. I make this direction for the reason that the defendants have made a very serious charge of fraud, which they have not substantiated, and in the absence of such substantiation their whole defence is not commendable.

Dated at Peterborough this 18th day of February, 1924.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A SUNNY RIDDLE

And Jack o' Lanter "The laziest fellow I ever knew

Lay in a cornfield and grew and grew,
It wasn't the scarecrow, goodness no!
For why should a scarecrow care to grow?

"He looked at the sky as he lay in the shade,
That the gracefully waving cornstalks made,
And he said to himself with a chuckle, 'Ah, me!
The sun's the color I think I'll be.'

"So he deepened by day to a rich dark yellow,
All the time growing bigger, this lazy old fellow!
Indeed it's a wonder his shiny tight jacket

"Summer flew by and the autumn came,
And there lay old Lazybones just the same,
His friends, the obligingly kind cornstalks,
Were dried up and withered and stacked in shocks.

"'That's the way with the world,' said our Lazybones friend,
'Most everything else must come to an end,
But not for important folk, such as I,
I and the sun up there in the sky.'

"'I can't grow any more so I think I'll snooze,'
And off he dropped—not a minute to lose,
But there came just then the farmer's good wife,
With (what do you think?') a long, sharp knife!

"The next day Lazybones stretched with a yawn,
'My goodness!' he cried, 'The winter's gone!
I never in all my life was so hot,
Or perhaps it's a fever that I've got!'

"With that he opened his lazy eyes,
But all that he saw were six round pies,
'I knew it!' he cried. 'I'm more than the sun,
For I am six and he is but one!'

Just grinned at hearing so silly a boast,
'Why I am only an empty head,
But I know much better than that,' he said."

"Well, what's theanswer, everybody? asked the Riddle Lady when she had finished.

Peter Peter was the one toreply. "I think it's as easy as rollingoff a log," he declared. "Its a pumpkin!"

Even Nick and Nancy keptquiet, for, like everybody else, they fel that Peter Peter had a right to th prize.

WAKE UP FRESH AND VIGOROUS AFTER USING VEGETABLE SYRUP

There are lots of people here who are neither very well nor very sick, but who never really feel their best at this time of the year. And the trouble, in the majority of cases, is due to the sluggishness of one vital organ.

This organ is your liver! When it is clogged up with impurities it cannot do these three things until it is properly cleansed and toned. Consequently you often wake up mornings feeling dull and tired, tongue coated, complexion sallow, digestion poor—often constipated, nervous and upset. You catch cold easily and your system is too rundown to throw of these ailments. You continue to fell badly until your liver has been properly cleansed and toned.

Get quick relief! Take just a spoonful of Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup after the next few meals. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. This vegetable syrup contains only ingredients that are known to the medical profession for their corrective and healthbuilding properties. It is pleasant to take, and you will be completey satisfied; otherwise druggists will return the small cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by J. P. Bond, McDermid & Jury and The Warnie Drug Company, Ltd., in Peterborough; The Tanner Drug Company, Ltd., in Lakefield, and by leading druggists in every city and town.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

A dollar in hand is worth two in land when your bills come due.

Money acquires most of its value from the fact that it is good anywhere as a medium of exchange. The workman wants his pay in money and not in the product he helps make because he might not be able to pay the grocery bill by giving the grocer something he has no particular use for, but the grocer will always accept money. An appreciation of this very simple fact has saved many men from a condition of insolvency.

Your estate may amount to much more than your debts, yet if you haven't enough money on hand to pay your debts as they come due, you are practically and legally insolvent! Your worth is invested in something that will not pass freely from hand to hand, and unless you can convert what you have into quick money or borrow more money—it's an expense to do either—your property may be taken and subjected to practically the same procedure as bankruptcy.

Always be sure that enough of your investments are sufficiently "quick"—convertible into cash—to meet obligations coming due.

SHOULD SELECT CLOTHES WISELY.

So They Will Remain Your Best Friends For Years to Come.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—That famous trio of old friends, old books and old wine should be expanded into a quartet so as to accommodate old clothes, according to Madame Madeleine Vionnet, exclusive French designer, who has just arrived here to study the American woman.

"When I go to the opera," she said in English slightly flavored with French, "I shall wear this grown, made in 1918. It is still my favorite frock."

From its tissue paper wrappings she carefully unfolded a gown of dull red crepe with a bluish-purple beads—a model that has been copied extensively over here and, so far as most of us fickle-minded Americans are concerned, is something of a back number.

But not to Madame Vionnet.

Harmony in Dress

"It's my color and it is beautiful," she maintained. "Why should I abandon it for something newer I might not like so much and would have no pleasant associations for me?"

The gown she wore was of the same shade of red, with the same subtle purple tone worked in bands on the sleeves and skirt. A string of cloudy amber beads reached nearly to her waistline.

"This dress is three years old," she admitted when I admired it, "and my coat is the same age. If I made new ones they would only be duplicates of these. So why bother?

"Women come to me in Paris and order a gown for a certain occasion when they wish particularly to shine. I always ask them why they select such a time to try out a new gown. How do they know how they will feel in it? How are they sure it will be comfortable everywhere?

A Suggestion

"Try out your new gowns at unimportant occasions, I advise, so they will be familiar to you when you really need them—so you can forget them entirely and thus wear them with distinction. Make them so much a part of your personality, or rather co-ordinate them so with your real self that your costume are a part of you, regulated no more by style than are your eyes or your smile. Beauty and art are superior to style, now and always."

We have this charming Frenchwoman to thank for many things. She was practically the creator of the simple straight frock with the graceful, flowing lines. She was the first to make dresses without tight linings. She helped oust the corset. She has advocated always the conservative and the beautiful in dress.

"Ten seasons' wear is not too much to expect from a good gown," she assured me. "And four gowns a year, carefully selected, should keep any woman well dressed."

Montreal Club Waiter Is Strangely Missing

MONTREAL, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Patrick Coleman, sixty years of age, for over 36 of which he has been a waiter of the St. James' Club, one of the most exclusive institutions of this city, has disappeared completely, it was learned here yesterday. Search has been in progress for Coleman for the past three weeks. He was last seen January 27, and when he did not report for work enquiries were made at his rooms. It was found that the tenants of the house had moved and nothing is known of Coleman's whereabouts by the present occupants.

The steward of the club believes there are unusual circumstances connected with the case.

STELLARTON MINERS TO RETURN TO WORK

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Stellarton miners, the last of Nova Scotia miners to hold out against the accepting of the recent wage agreement, decided last night that while not approving of the agreement they would return to work to-day, or soon as the management were ready to open the mines.

The miners were not backward in registering their disapproval of the agreement, but felt it better to return to work rather than take a chance of having their charter revoked by the Provisional Executive of the United Mine Workers.

Dear Marie,
Horrors! I'm most too scared to tell — but I guess I'll have to 'fess up sooner or later. And I was getting on so beautifully too. That last jump was really professional, but — crickle, crackle — and your perfectly good skiis were broken! I nearly broke my ankle too. Oh Marie, it was agony. However, Jack had my little bottle of Campana's Italian Balm in his pocket, so I rubbed some of it on, and it relieved matters considerably. I always carry it in cold weather to rub on my face and hands at intervals, and so keep them looking smooth and soft all the time

CHURCH UNION MEETING HERE

The Speaker Was Rev. Dr. Duncan of Montreal--Says Proposed Union is Not Organic.

"The terms Christianity and Union are regarded by some people as synonymous. But as no two branches of one tree are identical, so the branches of the church of God may be separate, and yet all one in Christ. Organic unity in Christ does not mean the tieing together of all the branches. The proposed union is not organic, but is a union on commercial lines. Spiritual uniformity in the church does not necessarily mean a commercial merging of external organizations. It does not mean ecclesiastical uniformity. Scripture and history and experience declare the peril of religious uniformity to religious vitality. Here, I believe, is the fundamental fallacy at the root of the present frenzied rush for union, in considering it as a Christian ideal, and failing to distinguish between union and unity. The principle underlying the proposed union is not uniformity of spirit, but external uniformity of organizations, which is a very different thing. Its defenders seek to create a highly organized machine for centralization of authority in officialdom, while to-day the need is for decentralization of authority. With union, we would have directors making a business of church-going, and turning congregations into concerns. Dr. Chowens' idea is to form a religio-political concern to do big business."

Rev. Dr. Duncan of Montreal, rector of the Presbyterian church of St. Andrew and St. Paul in that city, spoke under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church Association at St. Paul's church last evening, to an audience of between two and three hundred people, gathered to hear the reverend gentleman's arguments as to why church union should be opposed. Rev. Mr. Glassford, of Winchester, who accompanied the speaker, acted as chairman, introducing Dr. Duncan and speaking briefly at the close of the latters' address, which occupied the major portion of two hours, and was delivered with impassioned, fervid eloquence.

"We have no quarrel with the Methodists and the Congregationalists. We admire them, and we want to continue to live in fellowship with them. I have met several members of both churches who regret the spectacle of the splitting asunder of our great Presbyterian church, and who regard it with more anxiety than some of our leaders show toward the subject. Dr. Chowen, as reported in the Montreal Gazette recently, says: "It is very easy to see that those opposing the basis of union are being scared by the fanatical tricks of an uninformed or prejudiced imagination." That is not quite the game. There is such a thing as sincerity of spiritual conviction. We have no quarrel with the rank and file, with the ministers of our church. Our contention is with the present leaders of our church who are not meeting us as brethren or giving a fair deal to those who differ with them.

"We have no objection to community charges, but there is confusion in many minds between community charges and union charges. You have heard that there are 3,000 union charges. The fact, according to statistics, is that there are only 56 straight union charges in Canada. Chalmers church, in Kingston, is called a union charge. If economy is to be the supreme concern of the Christian church, then congregations will be united. Our theological colleges are staffed to the limit to-day, and our pulpits are full. Where is there going to be economy, if not in uniting congregations, whether they will or not? As to co-operation in missionary work abroad, this is going on to-day economically and quietly and efficiently. Surely the mission field is wide enough. Surely there are millions enough of un-Christian people to make it unnecessary for the Presbyterians and Methodists to go into the same place. There is a varying genius in heathen peoples with respect to Christianity. There is the Indian and the Chinese and the African mind, with its varying religious genius. Any student of China knows that there is no people in the world more accustomed than the Chinese to accept varieties in the same religion.

The speaker read a resolution sent from missionaries in the South China field, regretting the proposed union, and saying: "We deeply deplore the lack of spiritual influence in the movement."

"Some people seem to think that we anti-Unionists want to prevent our brethren going into this form of union. We think that disruption is too great a price for any kind of extended union. We are not opposed to a legislative union, by which the majority could go into such a union and take a fair proportion of the church property with them, but we object to legislation that would compel members to go into such a union against their wills and which would take all the property of the church and then dole it out through a commission, largely non-Presbyterian, from whose rulings no recourse would be allowed. Our desire is for a federated union. Again and again we have recommended a federation of churches. Dr. George Pidgeon, who said a year ago that the time for conciliation was past, now says that the way of reconciliation is open, but reconciliation on his terms means only surrender and complete capitulation. They say: "There can be no conference affecting the principle of the proposed legislation." Dr. Pidgeon and Dr. Gandier were the leaders who refused to allow a conference. It is said that the matter is already settled. But is it? What if the protest in the Assembly proves to be more legal than the decision of the majority. That matter is now being discussed in the courts of law. Principal Gordon says that the consummation of union is made to depend upon Parliament. If the bill passes, who will suffer? In this country, there will be scores of thousands of people who will be denied by Parliament the privilege of following the religion of their conscience and of worshipping God as they see fit and right. The 'minority' mentioned in the Bill does not mean 'minorities.' Minorities who will suffer are those bodies in churches where the opinion is divided, and where the majority of the congregation favors Union. The 'minority' referred to in the Bill, means only those whole congregations who are strong enough to vote themselves out as a body and keep entirely out of union. For the minorities in the other churches there is no recourse and no protection. Is Canada to be the only country on the globe where people are to be prevented by Parliament from following the religion of their consciences and in which they find the most spiritual benefit? What age of the Christian era are we living in when men and women are to be penalized for wishing to worship God in the way that they most prefer? Our forefathers in Scotland were driven to hiding because they would not worship as Parliament wanted.

"It is said that in the Assembly, only twenty-two per cent. of the members voted against the proposed union. But they do not say that only thirty-three per cent. of the whole membership voted for it. Only one-third of the whole church in favor! In common law, those abstaining from voting are held to be satisfied with conditions as they are at present. It is an innovation to consider those not voting as voting with the majority.

The speaker quoted from a letter received from a Harvard professor: "The Church in Canada is surely unfortunate in its present leaders," and said that the present leaders were like the man who remarked sorrowfully: "I am in a hurry but God is not." He said: "When men fail to lead us, they begin to drive us," and declared that the Scottish church leaders had waited twenty years for the temper of their people to change and bring about a desired change. The present proponents of Union, he asserted, were not always in favor of the change, but when they discerned a second vote casting an increase of 23,000 against as compared with a former vote, they decided to hurry matters. "They have substituted the authority of the church courts for the voice of the people. It is known perhaps only to historians, that at the time of the Reformation, the Presbyterian church took a middle course between the hierarchy of Rome, where authority rests in councils, and the Independents, where authority rests in the congregation. The Presbyterian has always declared that the sole authority is in the spirit of God, speaking to the consciences of believers, and the church courts shall voice that spirit. Authority in the Presbyterian church, therefore, rests in the people as in no other church. Do you think the Assembly of 1923 was perfectly represented? If the people are not to be consulted to-day, when are they to be consulted? The risk that these men are taking is a tremendous one. No wonder that many of them are nervous to-day. Instead of finding out the mind of the people, their policy has been to hush them, in a conspiracy of silence; an attempt to get people to smother their conscience, and say and do nothing until the Bill is passed. They want us to go into this unknown thing with our eyes shut and wait until Parliament lifts the lid, when we may scramble out as best we can. In a free country like Canada, is such stifling of free speech and thought to be tolerated, as it would be in no other country of the world, outside of Red Russia? Is it not any longer a purely Presbyterian issue, but a Canadian issue, in the great principle of religious liberty. The battle we are fighting is for every religion. If Parliament coerces one church, there is no reason why it will not coerce all religions. It may legislate regarding Anglicans and Roman Catholics and Baptists or any other religious body in Canada. No church is safe if this Bill goes through. We are face to face in Canada with one of the greatest menaces that ever confronted any religion. If others realized the danger, the Fiery Cross would flash through the whole land against a peril which has not shown its head for centuries, and never before in such a subtle way. The Canadian Parliament dare not pass this Bill if it is opposed. It is the sheerest sophistry to say that the Presbyterian church is going to preserve its identity. Her constitution, her faith, her government, her entire continuity will be merged and lost in the new Parliamentary Church. For freedom from this bondage of the State, our Covenanting forefathers bled and died. Dr. Gandier says there will be no Erastianism if Parliament passes the Bill. But Erastianism means interference by the State in the affairs of the church, and it is he who is really an Erastianist when he asks the Parliament to interfere."

Dr. Duncan went on to comment on essential differences in the proposed Union church, which, he said, would do away with the elders, the the Presbytery and the Session, and "mutilate and emasculate the faith that was made known for its goodness throughout the entire world by our forefathers. It is also claimed that this church will have the power to alter and change its subordinate standards and formulas from time to time, and it is this happy-go-lucky, chameleon system that Parliament is asked to give the sacred funds of the Presbyterian church.

"Don't you notice how extraordinarily indefinite they are as to faith, and how extraordinarily definite as to property?"

Dr. Duncan declared that a separation in the church would leave the minority to carry on with renewed zeal and fervor. "No doubt we needed this time of sifting. Many of us were beginning to drift."

"Standarization is a fad that that is creeping into every country to-day. It was found impossible in the medical profession, and there is one thing that cannot be standarized; that is the response of the soul to its God. If our friends want to go into a big, religio-political organization, let them go, and the blessing of God go with them. But they dare not seize our property. I know too that the Anglicans and the Baptists will not be dictated to, as is the hope of the Unionists once they get the big concern going. A unity of spirits amidst a diversity of operations is the spiritual way of God."

Rev. Dr. Glassford of Winchester, spoke a few words at the end of the address. He referred to the fact that Unionists had for some years been taking funds for their propaganda from the general and missionary funds of the church, but at the last Assembly the practice had been stopped. Since them, they were financing their own campaign, and the non-Unionists were compelled to do likewise. The sum of $50,000 would be required to present their case before the nine Provincial and the Federal Parliaments, and pay the legal expenses. Of this amount Toronto had been asked to contribute $15,000, but had offered to give $20,000, and it was understood that Montreal would give $14,000. The rest of the Dominion would be asked for the balance, to make up the requisite $50,000. Mr. Glassford asked anyone interested to see him after the meeting.

FARMER MEMBERS STUDYING METHOD

Accuse Provincial Treasurer Price of Juggling Books.

TORONTO, Feb. 20. — (Canadian Press).—Members of the Legislature are busy to-day studying public accounts and reports of the Budget speech by Hon. W. S. Price, Provincial Treasurer. U.F.O. members are ascertaining the system of book-keeping by which Mr. Price concluded that there was a deficit of $15,000,000 last year. They intend to do their utmost to show that there is actually no such deficit and will claim that the Government, in presenting the Budget, was playing politics and making another effort to wipe out the Farmers as a political force. They will couple this attack on their administration with the Premier's stand on the official recognition of their party as the chief Opposition.

Some of the reforms carried out in the Budget by Hon. Mr. Price were advocated last session in common with the Conservatives by the Liberals so that the party will probably approve much of the Budget. Mr. Harold Fisher, Liberal critic, is a new member of the House, but has had considerable experience in municipal finance in Ottawa.

To-day in the House private bills and perhaps some minor Government measures will be considered. The Budget debate proceeds to-morrow.

MAY REPLY LATER.

"It is ridiculous," declared Hon. Manning Doherty, the Progressive leader and former Minister of Agriculture, in a brief comment last night upon Provincial Government Treasurer Price's accusation of a $15,000,000 deficit in the final year of operation of the former Government. "It is simply book-keeping and juggling," he added.

Mr. Doherty said that he would reserve a more detailed reply until a later occasion in the Legislature. He had not as yet had the opportunity of going into the figures and calculations presented yesterday by the Treasurer.

"Financial buffoonery," says E. C. Drury, of the alleged fifteen million deficit. "All departments save one kept within the estimates last year," added the former Premier.

NO MATCH FOR KITCHENER

KITCHENER, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press). — Woodstock's Juniors proved to be no match for Kitchener lads last night, champions defeating red and white handily by 8 to 2, thus taking round 13 to 5. Kitchener lads shot into lead two minutes after play opened in first period and there after were never really in danger.

SCHELL TRIAL IS UNDER WAY

Several Witnesses Heard Today--Story of Bringing Out the Body.

Sunday, October 28, 1923

Monday

Tuesday
Constable Storey, investigating the death, stayed in the shack all night

Wednesday

Thursday
Charge changed to one of "wilful murder" Coroner's jury returned a verdict that MacNeal came to his death by the hand of a person unknown.

Friday
Preliminary inquiry opened before Magistrate O A Langley.

Saturday
John Schell committed for trial.

The grand jury returned to the court room at five minutes past ten this morning, presenting a true bill indicting John Schell on a charge of wilful murder of George Washington MacNeal on or about October 28 last.

Lou Hopkins summoned to attend the assizes as a witness for the crown failed to appear, and a bench warrant was asked for. Provincial Constable Boyd testified to serving a subpoena on Mrs. Henry Hopkins. Constable Boyd said he brought the missing witness as far as Haliburton where she took the train, presumably on her way to Peterborough.

Pleaded Not Guilty

On arraignment the prisoner pleaded not guilty.

The petit jury was composed of David Drain, T. J. Boland, E. P. Cuff, J. J. Dalton; F. W. Eggleton, Kenneth Eason, Harold Archer, S. J. Ridyard, W. W. Dawson, Frank Rome, Joseph White.

Crown Prosecutor's Address.

The prisoner on Saturday, 27th October last, was at a cabin in the Township of Galway On that day the deceased George MacNeal went into Schell's cabin, accompanied by Roy MacNeal and George Schell. About 5 o'clock on Saturday evening the two younger men came out from the camp and left there the two older men.

The shack is a small place with a low roof and one door. When the two younger men went out George MacNeal was there in perfectly good health.

There was a bottle on the table, containing some kind of liquor. That is the last, so far as we know, that MacNeal was seen alive.

About 5 or 6 o'clock on Sunday afternoon the accused, John Schell, appeared at the home of Thomas Lambert, 4 miles from the shack, and told Lambert that George MacNeal was taken down with severe cramps and he had spent a terrible night with the sick man, and as he spoke to him the deceased suddenly gave a terrific yell, pulled up his leg, and when Schell went to him a few minutes later he found MacNeal was dead.

The result was that on Monday morning MacNeal's son sent Hopkins into the bush to bring out the body. They brought it to Roy MacNeal's home, and Roy MacNeal sent for the coroner, who found that the deceased had died from a bullet wound

A post-mortem was held, and the doctors who made the examination are of the opinion that the deceased died as a result of this bullet wound. They are further of the opinion from the location of the wound that it was not self-inflicted.

Roy MacNeal's Story.

Roy MacNeal, son of the victim of the tragedy, was the first witness called. He told the story of Saturday and Sunday of the eventful week. The shack in the bush is seven miles from his home and is five miles north of Lambert's home, in rolling, rocky country, with hills, lakes, and swamps.

On Saturday he went to the shack in the forenoon and there were in the shack George MacNeal, John Schell, and George Schell. The party went to look at deer runways.

Did anything out of the way happen while you were there?

Absolutely nothing.

Was there anything to drink?

There was a bottle containing home-brew whisky.

When you left, where was the bottle?

On the table, about three parts full.

The witness identified photographs of the shack, and described the interior of the building. He left the shack about 5 o'clock. John Schell's rifle and George MacNeal's shot gun were in the shack.

When did you hear of your father's death?

On Sunday night

Who told you of it?

"Mrs. Harry Hopkins. I went right up to see John Schell, who was in bed. He told me, "Your poor father had cramps and I had an awful night with him. I got up and got breakfast ready. Your father pulled up his leg and gave an awful yell. I went over and pulled the clothes back and saw he was dead." Schell then threw water on the fire and locked up the shack, he said.

Cross-Examination.

In cross-examination by C. G. Frost, Roy MacNeal said his father was visiting him at the time of the tragedy. He came to visit at Roy's brother had been in an accident in Bobcaygeon. George MacNeal had been living 30 miles away with a man named Tom Newell.

The accused and George MacNeal had met several times and seemed friendly, but the acquaintanceship was not of long standing.

"We went to the hunting shack because we were asked. My father's intention was to look around the camp and come out the same day. We walked three or four miles over rough country to the shack. My father had a bottle, but no one in the party drank any of the contents on the way in. We sat at the table and had bread, butter, potatoes and tea for lunch. There was no meat in the shack, only what was in the sandwiches. The bottle was produced and the others drank some."

"Isn't it a fact that liquor of that type is very strong?"

"It certainly is."

"You left George MacNeal and John Schell in the shack while you went to a duck hunt, and when you returned neither was under the influence of liquor? You expected your father to go out with you?"

"Yes, that was the intention but father felt tired and said Mr. Schell had asked him to stay."

"But you did not say your father stayed in the shack because he was tired?"

"He said he did not feel like walking out."

Mr. Frost: "He stayed because he was friendly with Schell and wanted to stay with him."

Royal MacNeal: "He said he was tired and Schell asked him to stay."

"Well, when you walked outside the shack your father went outside the door with you and John Schell stayed in the shack. The bottle was on the table three parts full?"

"Yes."

The witness said that was the last time he saw his father alive. Next day when he went to Nogie's Creek to meet his father, as arranged, his father was not there. Accompanied by George Schell, he walked to the shack and found it locked.

On the way out the car ran out of gas and the witness walked to Schell's home, where Mrs. Lou Hopkins met him with the information that his father had died in the camp.

When he went upstairs he found John Schell excited and looking like a man who had received a bad scare.

He said: "Your poor father is dead in the shack. He had cramps."

"Are you sure he said your father died of cramps?"

"He said he had cramp and gave an awful yell and died."

Cot the Coroner.

Witness said he got the Coroner because he thought the Coroner had to deal with any person who died. He arrived at Dr. Johnston's at 2 o'clock in the mornig. The Coroner said he could not go to the shack that night, but gave orders for the body to be brought out.

Roy MacNeal went to see George Schell with reference to bringing out the body, and John Schell talked about making a coffin. Witness went to Burnt River to get lumber with which John Schell would make the coffin.

On his arrival home the body of his father had been brought to the house. The doctor went to view the body while Roy MacNeal held the lamp.

The doctor said, "I can't do anything for that."

Roy MacNeal: "I saw a bullet hole and I could see the flesh through a hole in his clothing."

Mr. Frost pressed for a definite statement that the witness had seen the flesh and skin surrounding the wound, but Roy MacNeal was unable to recall exactly.

"Your father complained of a pain over his heart?"

"Yes."

"Did he consult a doctor?"

"I don't hink he did."

"Did he ever do anything for it?"

"Yes; he rubbed it."

"Did you father drink to excess?"

"He drank regularly; he was never real drunk except once; he was always full of fun and joy when under the influence of liquor. He played the mouth organ very well."

Mr. Frost: "Isn't it a fact that when you were with your father hunting and he had liquor you would have to take his gun away from him?"

Roy MacNeal: "No sir; no such thing. He carried his liquor well. I never heard of such a statement before."

"My father passed as a physically fit man in the army and saw active service in the front line. At the time of his death he was not in as good physical condition as a few years before because of an attack of the 'flu.'"

"Did you ever send your father hunting with an empty rifle when he was drunk so that he would not hurt anyone?"

"No."

"And you never heard of such a thing?"

"No."

"At the time when you went to get the coroner did it cross your mind that there was anything extraordinary about your father's death?"

"I never thought of it; they were the best of friends."

"What dou you think now?"

Re-examination by the Crown Prosecutor:

"Did John Schell tell you of what your father died?"

"Yes; he said he died of cramps."

George Schell's Evidence.

George Schell, son of the accused, said he was 30 years old to-day. He was present at the hunting shack on October 27. There were two rifles, and a shotgun in the camp. One of the rifles belonged to John Schell, and the other to George Schell. The shotgun was the property of George MacNeal. When he left he took with him his own rifle leaving John Schell's 40-82 rifle, and a 12 gauge shotgun in the shack.

"What was there to drink in the camp?"

"About three parts."

"They were perfectly sober."

Did you have any conversation later with your father regarding George MacNeal's death?

"No."

"Or next morning?"

"No."

The witness and Bill Hopkins went to the shack to bring out the body. When they arrived at the shack they found the door locked. George Schell unlocked it with the key which he got from his father."

"We found the dead man lying on the floor near the front of the stove. The body which was on its back, was covered with a comforter. It was my father's comforter. The head was not covered There was only a shot gun there. My father had taken his rifle home. One of MacNeal's legs was drawn up and his arms were crossed."

"Did you notice any wound?"

"I saw blood."

"Was his side exposed?"

"There could not have been anything over the wound. When we raised him up we saw the blood spurt out."

"Was the clothing burned?"

"I didn't notice; itmight have been."

Witness said the dead man's clothes might have been pushed back from the wound, but he did not notice particularly.

"What did you do with regard to the shack? Didyou notice any blood."

"Yes, on the floor under where MacNeal lay."

Mr. Justice Mowat: "Can you produce the comforter, Mr. Cunningham?"

"No, my Lord."

Mr. Cunningham asked George Schell what was done with the comforter that covered MacNeal's body The witness said it was left in the shack.

HOCKEY

Tuesday night a very interesting game of hockey took place at the Mark street rink between the Bonner Worth and North Park street. The score 3-2 in favor of North Park The line-ups were as follows:—

Bonner Worth

E. Griffin, goal A. Mann and Larone, defence; F. Ronco, centre; C. Woodgate and Art Deal, wings. Subs, Ridyard and Tobin.

Park Street North

LAST GAME SERIES

SAULT STE MARIE, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press.—In last game of series with Iroquois Falls for season Greyhounds emerged victors last night 9 to 5. It was wide open game and team only played real hockey in spots. The Sault played couple of subs which added interest to fray and made play more even. Hounds took four in first and Falls three and in second Cook contributed only tally to score sheet.

GUELPH OFF TO BRANTFORD

GUELPH, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press).— Guelph Intermediates will step into Brantford Thursday night with flock of goals to rest on by virtue of their 6 to 0 victory over telephone city crew here last night in third round O. H. A. contest. Although it was expected that visitors would give orange and black a hard tussle, all advance dope was knocked higher than a kite.

PRESTON TRIM INDIANS

STRATFORD, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Preston trimmed the Indians 5 to 2 in fast senior O.H.A. game here, cinching second place and thus qualifying to meet the Indians in group play off. The Indians were without services of Dad Ashley and defence was considerably weakened. Junior subs worked well, however, and put up good brand of hockey for fans.

Curling News

The sixteen visiting Detroit curlers played a series of games against local players yesterday afternoon and evening, in which the visitors showed a low score in every instance except in three of the games, in two of which they tied with the local curlers, and in the other had a lead of one point in their favor.

At six-thirty last evening, the local club entertained their visitors at a small banquet at the Empress Hotel, the senior member, Mr. Thomas Brightman, presiding. At midnight last night, they left for Kingston.

The score in the afternoon games was as followes:

..Peterboro.		Detroit.
T. Brightman		J. Kerr
Skip 15	Skip	9
W. J. Oke		H. Ward
Skip 17	Skip	5
T. Donaldson		R. M. Watson
Skip 11	Skip	8
R. M. Hamilton		A. West
Skip 21	Skip	6

In the evening the score stood:

P. Lang		J. Kerr
Skip 7	Skip	8
W. T. Hall		J. Watson
Skip 10	Skip	10
R. Hicks		Dr. Tibble
Skip 15	Skip	3
W. G. Menzies		A. West
Skip 15	Skip	15

To-morrow, four rinks of Peterborough players go to Lindsay for morning games with the Lindsay clubs in the Lindsay-Peterborough Cup games, and in the afternoon four rinks from Lindsay will compete with local players.

OVERSEAS TO MEET WELLS LACKED NERVE TO KNOCK

Author of Main Street Lingered by the Hedgerow, Gazing Longingly at Master Puffing His Pipe

IT was about the time that Sinclair Lewis had finished his downward descent in journalism from $35 a week to $12.50 a week as a manuscript reader for a New York publisher that he took the notion to go to England to have at least a look at H. G. Wells. According to Mr. Lewis' confession that wasn't so very long ago, either. But never mind the exact date.

H. G. Wells

It was about this time that Sinclair Lewis was greatly influenced by the writings of H. G. Wells, and it was the ambition of his fair young life to meet Wells, to sit at the feet of the Master. He was tired of his $12.50 job as reader of manuscripts—most of them so stupid, dull and banal that they drove him wild—so he determined to make a literary pilgrimage to the home of H. G. Wells.

He crossed the Atlantic on a cattle boat as a valet to a deckload of steers, and he walked around England and saw it pretty thoroughly on the cheap. In veneration, he visited the home, business and literary haunts of H. G. Wells.

Once he lingered by the hedgerow, and gazed longingly at the Master, puffing his pipe at his ease in his library. Young Mr. Lewis longed to summon up courage enough to knock on the door and ask to see the great author and tell him how his books had helped and inspired him. But young Mr. Lewis, just off the cattleboat, realized he was shabby. His resolution faltered, and he turned and walked away through the darkness to London.

But, to show that sometimes things come true as we long and hope for, it may be said right here that after the great success of "Main Street," when it was the talk of the English-reading world and the royalties were rolling in, Sinclair Lewis journeyed abroad again—this was within the year—and was feted and cordially acclaimed by all the literary lights of London and of all these celebrated English writers none was more cordial than H. G. Wells. And when Lewis told him of how he had crossed in a cattle boat, mainly to see him, Wells gripped his hand in appreciation, too deeply stirred to make reply.

But Sinclair Lewis believes that Wells would have received him kindly had he had the courage to knock at the door and say that he had crossed the ocean on a cattle boat to see and speak to the author of "The War of the Worlds", "The Days of the Comet" and "Tona Bungay."

A Smoked Human Ham Over Sir Harry's Head

Cannibals With Whom Noted Administrator Made a Treaty Were First Inclined to Eat Him

ONE of the best adventure tales in Sir Harry Johnston's account of his life in South Africa, as traveler and administrator, describes how he made a treaty with cannibals, who at first were inclined to eat him and his escort, but decided to be friendly:

A horde of excited people armed with guns and spears waded out into the river and compelled the canoe to stop, in fact dragged it summarily into shallow water. Three or four lusty savages pulled me out of the canoe, mounted me on the shoulders of the biggest, and carried me off at a run to the town, where I was put in a hut with the door open.

Here I had to submit to be stared at for an hour by hundreds of inquisitive savages, unaware as to the fate of my Kruboys and Efik servants. Almost over my head, hanging from the smoke-blackened rafters of the house, was a smoked human ham, black and bluish green.

Sir Harry opened negotiations on behalf of Queen Victoria by saying he had come from a great white Queen to "make a book" with them. He was stumped for the name of the place, but his interpreter prompted him, and all went well.

I extracted a treaty from my despatch box and three or four persons of prominence (or so they seemed) crowded into the canoe to make crosses on it with my ink; but the proceedings were altogether too boisterous for serious treaty making.

I was longing to get away, as from various indications I realized we had come to this further inhabited region on a market day, when a great deal of palm wine had been drunk.

So after the crosses had been splodged on the treaty form and I had made up my present of cloth and beads, my crew was seated and ready to resume paddling while good humor prevailed.

The chief men of the town, however, insisted on giving me a return present—a hundred yams and two sheep; and at parting an old chief or medicine man bestowed on me a necklace of human knuckle bones from off his own neck. This I still have in my possession.

TOLD BY THE MARINES

AT a luncheon following the presentation of a film, the proceeds of which are to go to the "Save the Victory Fund," Admiral Sir Doveton Sturdee told an amusing story.

A suggestion was put forward to the effect that the film might be made more interesting to women by the introduction of Nelson's love affair with Lady Hamilton.

Whereupon Admiral Sturdee related how he once heard a marine, who was conducting a party of visitors round the Victory, exclaim, pointing to a particular chair in the cabin: "This 'ere's the chair Lady 'Amilton used to sit in when she came to visit Nelson."

"Well?" queried a lady guest.

"Unfortunately," said Sir Doveton drily, 'Lady Hamilton never set foot on board the Victory."

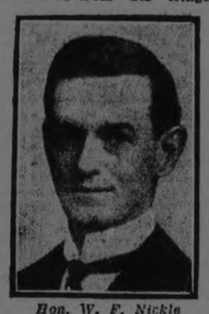
Drury-Nickle Melon Bet Was Flavorless Draw

The One Who Could Raise the Best Melon Was to Receive a Prize Hat

ATTORNEY-GENERAL NICKLE and ex Premier Drury have long been warm personal friends. One day the latter received from his Kingston crony a home-grown melon, which Drury declared was one of the finest he ever saw or tasted—a globe of nectar for the gods.



Hon. W. F. Nickle

He wrote Nickle gratefully and the latter answered offering to send some seed for growing the variety if the Crown Hill farmer would enter into a contest with the donor to see who could raise the best flavored melon, each contestant to aid in deciding as to quality, and the loser to buy the winner a hat.

The seed duly arrived, and in Simcoe and Frontenac counties were grown rival melons. They ripened and were picked, and the best samples of each forwarded. Honest tests were made at each end of the line, as to quality, and to the surprise of the contestants both samples proved flavorless as melons—duds, absolute duds!

TRAP FOR THE CURIOUS SET BY MRS. JAMIESON

WHEN Nina Moore Jamieson, the Canadian novelist, was attending Normal School in Winnipeg she was very much attached to a gold watch which had been presented to her ancestor at the Battle of the Boyne by William, Prince of Orange, wearing it on a chain around her neck. Of course such an unique locket called forth a great many comments from her schoolmates who were always pestering her to show the inside of the case. Becoming wearied of showing the works so frequently, she hit on the following happy device: Writing the initials "D Y. C." on a slip of paper, she placed it inside the case. The next one who asked to see the inside was confronted with these initials, and on inquiring what they stood for was much abashed to find that they meant "Darn Your Curiosity."

HEIRS HAVE BURDENS

WILLIAM A. BRADY, theatrical manager, recalls an amusing incident illustrating the fact that responsibilities of success have their burdens.

"It was in my young days in the west. I knew the son of a farmer who had died, leaving an estate of about $10,000. There were several children and my friend was executor.

"I met him coming into town one day, and we stopped for a chat.

"'Well, Bud,' said I, 'how are things going?'

"He shook his head sadly.

"'Bill,' said he, 'I'm worried to death. This here estate business keeps me runnin' to the court house. I'm getting so sick of the thing that, honest to Jupiter, Bill, sometimes I just almost wish Pop hadn't a-died.'"

MAKING HIS CHOICE

THE well-known American poet and humorist, Mr. James Whitcomb Riley, tells a story of a negro elector who was asked after an election how he voted.

"Well, sah," he said, "I voted for the Republican. It was like this, sah. The Democrats, they came and gave me fifteen dollars and the Republicans they came and gave me ten, and so I voted Republican."

"But why?" said his questioner, surprised.

"Well, sah, I tho't they was the less corrupt of the two."

Tells the Secrets of 1924

THIS is Mme. De Teleme, the celebrated Paris prophetess, at work in her study. She has just prophesied the great coming events among which she asserts will be a Labor government in England, which will revolutionize the entire country. A great political struggle between Poincare and Ebert and fierce natural earthquakes in America and Italy and a political one for India are also some of the most cheerful of her predictions.

Two Champs Get Together—Champion Invalid Receives a Call from Champion Heavyweight

NELLIE REVELL, described by Irvin S. Cobb as the "gamest guy I know," is here seen presenting Jack Dempsey with her book, "Right Off the Chest." Miss Revell wrote the book while in the hospital where she has been confined for more than 4 years with a broken spine. The title of the book is reminiscent of the little improvised desk invented by Miss Revell to rest on her chest. Her remarkable courage has attracted the attention of the whole world.

Gas Engineer in Three Years Grows The World's Most Famous Wheat

Young English Major of Alberta Awarded Grand Championship at Chicago International Grain Show for His Marquis Wheat—Went West on Account of Pulmonary Weakness Caused by Gas Poisoning

COMING to Alberta to be cured of pulmonary weakness caused by gas during the Great War, a young Englishman, in a little more than three years has become the most famous farmer in western Canada—the grower of the world's best wheat. To make such distinction the more impressive, it may be added that before settling in Alberta in 1920, he had no previous experience in agriculture.

The young man is Major H. G. L. Strange, M.C., owner and operator at Fenndale Farm, Penn, Alberta, and the achievement which won him fame almost overnight was the awarding to his Marquis wheat seed the grand championship at the recent International Grain Show at Chicago. Since he won first place in the wheat competition and in all, fifteen of the twenty-five prizes in this class, he was hardly challenged for the grand championship.

Major Strange's sweeping victory was all the more agreeable to his adopted province because Alberta had not previously captured the premier award in wheat, this prize going invariably to Saskatchewan. In fact, Alberta unostentatiously assumed that Saskatchewan's wheat seed was superior to that grown in Alberta and derived a compensating solace from the fact that this province took the first prizes for oats seed, which performance, by the way, it repeated this year, with J. W. Biglands, of Lacombe, in first place and Joseph Smith, of Wolf Creek, another Albertan, in second.

Alberta farmers could hardly realize that a gas engineer, for such is Major Strange's profession, could accomplish such sensational results in a scant four seasons' farming but he did more than that. Starting in 1920, he began showing seed at the Chicago exhibition the next year and in the face of the keenest competition he won third prize for his Marquis wheat, second for his Victory oats, fourth for his peas and seventh for his barley.

Only exhibitors at Chicago can realize fully what a feather it is in a farmer's cap to win these places in four distinct competitions. How much more remarkable is it that Major Strange should win them in his second year's operations, more especially in view of the fact that he had no previous experience in agrarian pursuits?

In 1922, he won eighth place with his wheat, third with peas and fifth with barley.

Then this year, he won the outstanding honors of the whole show.

Naturally the question is asked,—How did Major Strange so quickly become an expert farmer with an international standing?

When he came to Alberta in 1920, he had no definite intention of locating in there but after a careful investigation, involving tests of soils and examinations of weather records, he decided that here was an extremely fertile field if the proper methods were employed.

His next step was to consult the federal and provincial experts on agriculture. Principally he gained knowledge from the field husbandry department of the University of Alberta. His researches convinced him that success lay in growing registered seed and having bought about 1,000 acres at Fenn, he put this conviction into effect with what results his victories at Chicago indicate.

From the outset he used registered seed only and he bent every effort to improve it. Last year, for example, he imported from France what is reputed to be the finest seed cleaning machine in the world.

Major Strange does not confine his attention to grain. He is an enthusiastic advocate of the "Large Black" hogs as the best bacon type and he imported a pen of these from England to give him a start.

He is even more enthusiastic about poultry and it is his ambition to have the highest laying flock of Barred Rocks on the American continent.

These four short years in Alberta have brought him quick honors from his fellow farmers for already he is president of the Alberta Seed Growers' Association, director of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, member of the Dominion government's advisory seed board and secretary of the Alberta Record of Performances Poultry Breeders' Association.

This is his career: By profession he is, as mentioned, a gas engineer. He was trained at Sir W. G. Armstrong, Whitworth and Company, Manchester, England. He has to his credit three years' military service in the South African War. For ten years he was general manager of the Honolulu Gas Company, Honolulu, Hawaii.

He saw four years' service in France during the world war in the Imperial Royal Engineers, serving with the Poison Gas Offensive Corps. He was thrice wounded, was awarded the Military Cross and was mentioned in despatches twice. He also saw special service with the Grand Fleet and the Royal Flying Corps.

Gong Sounds, Skull Clicks Its Jaws, Thurston Enters by a Secret Panel

House of the King of the Magicians Is Weird Place—Parlor Is Decorated Like a Chinese Temple—Sepulchral Voice From Bronze Buddha Makes Visitor Jump—Hindu Servant Passes Silently From Room to Room

THERE is nothing disappointing about the house of Howard Thurston, the magician. It is exactly what you would expect the house of a twentieth century wizard to be.

Howard Thurston

Standing on a quiet street of Beechhurst, L. I., Thurston's home is guarded by two enormous and gaudily plumaged parrots which he brought with him from his last trip to India. The door, a massive affair, with the symbol of an ancient cabalistic order emblazoned on its central panel, opens and closes by itself, and the reception room is a luxurious mass of Oriental hangings, through which the magician's Hindu servant passes silently to and fro.

The parlor is decorated along the lines of a Chinese temple, and in the further end of the room a huge bronze statue of Buddha sits grinning upon a teakwood pedestal. Thin columns of pungent smoke rise continually from an exotic incense burner at its feet. The uninitiated visitor is usually greeted by a sepulchral voice issuing from the Buddha, which says: "The master bids you welcome." His attention is then attracted by a slight noise behind him. A gong sounds, and Thurston suddenly appears, having entered the room through a well-made sliding panel.

In his study a very realistic skull, resting upon his desk and apparently beyond his control, opens and shuts its jaws with a gruesome click.

A crystal bell, which can be thoroughly examined without the slightest trace of wires or threads being found, rings solemnly at the command of the magician and tells fortunes by ringing once for "yes," twice for "no," and a whiskey bottle on the bookshelf is suddenly transformed into a grinning statuette of Volstead, the framer of the famous prohibition act in the United States, as the innocent visitor reaches for it at the invitation of his host.

"I recall an evening last summer that I spent at his house with a number of other guests, when he drew our attention to the fountain on the lawn, which was clearly visible from the sitting-room," says F. Serreno Keating, in the New York World Magazine. "It had suddenly become a myriad of dazzling lights, like the Aurora Borealis in all its flaming glory, and from it arose the body of Jane, his eleven-year-old daughter, apparently asleep.

"When the child had reached a height of some three or more feet above the topmost spray she assumed a horizontal position and floated toward the window. Her shimmering dress fairly glittered in the multi-colored spotlights which were being played on her from without. Then she slowly receded toward the fountain and vanished into the iridescent foam.

Abdul, his faithful Hindu factotum, is also a student of the occult as well as of magic and juggling. In his particular tribe, he said, magic is practised only by those of the highest caste. Abdul's hobby is fire eating, which he practises with a vengeance when not engaged in performing some task for his master, or acquainting him with the esoteric aphorisms of higher Yoga doctrines.

As a demonstration of his power over the fire elementals, the swarthy fellow produced from his sleeve a handful of cotton batting, which he ignited. When the flame had reached its height, he opened his mouth and placed the fiery mass upon his tongue. Then waving his arms about him excitedly, he proceeded to send forth streams of smoke and sparks from his mouth and nostrils.

As well as his collection of magical apparatus, Thurston has accumulated a vast assortment of ingenious devices employed in the seances of fraudulent "spirit mediums" whom he has exposed during the course of his psychic investigations.

In a large black cabinet, which folds into a small size when not in use, he is apparently able to materialize a full-sized "ghost," and produce other weird effects, which he frequently does of an evening for the amusement of his friends.

Better All Women Envious Than a Single One Sorry

C.P.R. Bachelor President Has a Favorite After Dinner Quip at His Own Expense

ALTHOUGH Mr. E. W. Beatty, B.A., is often referred to as Canada's most eligible bachelor, the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company seldom has anything much to say about his state of single blessedness. Quite properly he considers his condition to be a strictly private matter.

E. W. Beatty

Once in a while, though, Mr. Beatty will crack a joke at his own expense. One of his favorite after-dinner quips, which he works into the course of speeches on such dry matters as trade and commerce, is that he considers it better to make all women envious than to make one single woman happy.

In a recent speech in Winnipeg, Mr. Beatty touched at some length of the need of greater settlement on the land, always one of his favorite topics. He deplored the tendency to crowd into the cities, and pointed out that higher education was partly responsible for this.

"One trouble with Canada," he went on to say, "is that she has too many Bachelors of Art in the cities, and too many bachelors of heart in the country."

And then, with a whimsical smile, he added: "As I happen to be both, you can appreciate why I speak feelingly on the subject!"

SPELLING REFORM OVERDONE

THE famous American evangelist, Mr. "Billy" Sunday, attributes much of his success as a public orator to the fact that he speaks to his hearers in language they are familiar with and can easily understand.

"It's no good talking over the heads of your audience," he told a reporter the other day, and as an illustration of his meaning he went on to tell the story of Mr. Curran and Mr. McManus.

The two friends came to New York to see the sights. Among the objects was a fine new public building. The feature of this building that appealed most strongly to Mr. Curran was an inscription cut into a huge stone.

"MDCCCXLVIII.," he read aloud. "What does them letters mean, Tim?"

"That inscription," replied the cultured Mr. McManus, "stands for 1848."

"Oh!" replied Mr. Curran. Then, after a thoughtful pause, he added:

"Don't yez thing, Tim, that these New Yorkers are overdoin' a bit this new craze for spellin' reform?"

AUTHOR OF BATTLE HYMN MARRIED FACTORY GIRL

Simple Humanity of "Onward, Christian Soldiers!" Expressed in Baring-Gould's Life—Was Dismissed by Bishop

When, last week, the Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould died at his home in England, his prolific pen was stilled, but, of his many works in poetry and prose, the Christian church will keep immortal, through countless generations yet unborn, that stirring, martial, devotional song, and his name will live as millions sing "With the Cross of Jesus going on before."

Surpliced choir boys have wafted the words through incense-laden air, as they marched up the vaulted aisles of churches and cathedrals; at Methodist revivals it has brought thousands to the altar rail in repentance and conversion; in Presbyterian and other houses of worship it has thrilled the Covenanter and dissenter; the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic fraternity, sing it at their public gatherings, and, at the conclaves of the Knights Templars, the watching thousands on the streets feel an exquisite thrill as the plumed Masons march, twenty abreast, singing the great battle hymn of the church.

Rev. S. Baring-Gould

Written in 1865, it never has lost its hold on the hearts of men battling for ideals. In the world war bands played the hymn while the youth of the warring nations rushed to the colors, and in the camps of armed men there rose the strain:

"We are not divided, all one body we"——

So great and universal is its appeal that it belongs to no sect, or no race—it has become the heritage of civilization, rather than exclusively the rallying cry of the Christian church.

The hymn was fortunate in finding a composer like Sir Arthur Sullivan to express its spirit in music.

"Onward, Christian Soldiers" was written on Whit Monday in a Yorkshire village where young Baring-Gould was then curate, as a marching song for a band of school children and with no thought of publication. He has told the story himself:

"I wanted the children to sing when marching from one village to the other, but could not think of anything quite suitable, so I sat up at night resolved to write something myself. 'Onward, Christian Soldiers' was the result. It was written in great haste, and I am afraid that some of the lines are faulty. Certainly nothing has surprised me more than its great popularity."

When the young curate wrote the words to swing his marching children along, they sang them to the tune of "Brightly Gleams Our Banner." Several musical settings have been given them at various times, but Sullivan's is the one everybody knows—the one with the thrill in it.

Dr. Baring-Gould also was a novelist and historian. He would have been ninety years old had he lived until the 28th of this month. He was one of the few surviving examples of the genuine English squire, living on the estate where his family had lived for almost three centuries.

At the same time, he was a country rector, a lord of the manor, a sermon writer, a student of comparative religion, an extremely popular novelist, a poet, an authority on medieval myths and legends, and an antiquarian of note in several branches of research. He is said to have been the most prolific and versatile of English writers, having more than 160 titles to his credit.

The simple humanity in the hymn was expressed in Baring-Gould's life. His friends cherish the story of how, when the clergyman, who was one of the most influential advocates of the High Church movement, wished to have his hymn sung in his own church, his bishop, who was very Low Church, objected to the lines:

"With the Cross of Jesus
Going on before."

which made the bishop so angry that he dismissed him from his place. Mr. Gladstone, however, at once presented him with the far better living of East Mersen in Essex.

In 1872, on the death of his father, Baring-Gould inherited the family estates, those of Lord Trenchard, consisting of 3,000 acres and the crown living that went with it. He lived in a beautiful old Elizabethan manor house where the family had lived since the days of James I.

With this background of birth and breeding the young curate doubtless could have married a lady of high degree if he had wanted to. But instead he fell in love, like the humblest of his country parishioners, with a factory girl, Miss Grace Taylor, and after sending her to a private school where she could be somewhat prepared for the social position she would have to enter, he married her. She died in 1916.

Baring-Gould's novel, "Through Flood and Flame," is said to be autobiographical so far as the details of this romantic courtship are concerned.

THE OVERSTAYING VISITOR

SENATOR HITCHCOCK of Nebraska has a favorite story:

"There was a man out in my state who was visited one time by an out of town minister. The weather was bad the morning after the visitor got there, and he decided to stay another night. It looked a trifle threatening the next day, and the minister said he thought Providence had intended that he remain there in their hospitable midst for one more night. So that evening when they held family prayer the host had this to say:

"'O Lord, we pray Thee that we may have a bright and propitious day to-morrow that the good brother may continue his journey.'

"In spite of this open hint the overstaying visitor was present at meal times afterwards until his host forcibly set him on his way as 'works were better than talk.'"

MARKHAM FULL OF CONFIDENCE

Will Make Petes Go at Top Speed in To-Night's Game in O.H.A. Series.

The hockey season is rapidly drawing to a close and whether the Petes battle their way into the finals or not tonight's game at Brock Street Rink with Markham as the opposition will be one of the last of the season, as at the most the blue shirts would not be called upon to play more than two more rounds.

Realizing that fact the biggest crowd of the year will turn out for the game and they should be rewarded with a rattling good exhibition of fast hockey, judging by the performance given by both teams in Mondays' game at Markham. The boys with the big M on their sweaters are going into tonight's game with a lot of determination and they should make things interesting all the way for the homesters.

Here is the Markham line up with their numbers given for the benefit of the fans: Moore, goal; Stewart, (2) and Robb (7), defence; Mason (9), centre; Cowie (4), right wing; Reesor (5), left wing; Underwood (3) and McGill (6), subs.

Referee Jacobi will get the teams under way at 8.30 o'clock.

The ice will be hard and fast.

MANY YANKEES ARE HOLDOUTS

Contracts Not Yet Received From Dugan, Ward, Pipp, Shawkey and Company.

NEW YORK, February 20 (Canadian Press). — Eighteen members of the New York Yankee and Giant squads have not yet signed 1924 contracts, club officials reported yesterday.

Of this number, only two Giant pitching recruits are known to be hold-outs, Wayland Dean, obtained from Louisville, demanding more salary, while Ernie Maun, bought his purchase price.

Herb Pennock and Wally Schang, from Wichita, Kas., wants a part of veteran Yankee battery, expect to confer with club officials on Thursday before signing. If they come into the fold, they will leave immediately for Hot Springs, Ark.

Harvey Hendrick, outfielder, and Adolfo Arguiko, a Mexican pitcher from Brownsville, Texas, sent in their signed contracts to the Yankees yesterday.

The Yankees, who have not yet signed include Joe Dugan, Waite Hoyt, Walter C. Pipp, Aaron L. Ward, Lawton Witt, Robert J. Shawkey, Robert Meusel, Samuel P. Jones Earl B. Combs, Milton Gaston, Herbert J. Pennock, Henry Swenson and Walter Schang.

LAKEFIELD SPORT

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 20.—It is expected that the girls' hockey team will go to Campbellford on Tuesday to play the first of the home and home games. The Campbellford girls will play here on Friday night, when a double-header will be staged. Warsaw's fast team will meet Hull's Hustlers and the girls' game will also be played.

Two Games.

The District Hockey League will play off two games this week in their schedule.

Tuesday night between Trude's Tractors and Young's Point.

Friday night between Hull's Hustlers and Warsaw.

	Played.	Won.	Lost.
Warsaw	1	1	0
Young's Point	1	0	1
Tractors	0	0	0
Grove	2	1	1

A Final Game.

The final game in the Junior Hockey League will be played at 4.15 on Tuesday between The Grove and the Rink Rats. This game will decide which team holds the Mackenzie Cup for the next twelve months, and will be a very pretty exhibition of junior hockey. Both teams have been carefully trained and are well balanced, and the result is hard to guess.

The standing of the teams at present is:

	Played.	Won.	Lost.
High School	3	0	3
Presbyterians	3	1	2

The High School team, which was only organized this season, has good material, but lacks practice, but another year should be much improved. The Presbyterian team is very much stronger than last year. They have some strong players, and by next season should be in the running for the cup.

Bantam Hockey.

It is possible that before the season ends there will be an effort made to organize a bantam hockey league in the village.

The Grove has an abundance of material for a strong team, and the Methodist Sunday School has a good team which has been working all winter. The Anglican Sunday School has organized a team, and others will follow no doubt. These youngsters are very keen and are intelligent observers at adult games, where they observe good plays as something to be imitated. Rev. A. W. Mackenzie and "Dad" Morin have given a great deal of encouragement to these boys, and by next year no doubt someone will put up a trophy for competition.

After a period of nine years with no hockey at all, the only way for Lakefield to really come back is by a persistent campaign, beginning with the small boys and continuing with all ages. The bantams are really self-organized. Rev. A. W. Mackenzie and "Dad" Morin are patrons of the Junior League and Dr. Kennedy is giving a great deal of time and energy to the development of the District League, and all this effort is bearing fruit as every team is stronger than last year.

SUGGEST TOWNS UNITE IN SPORT

Cobourg and Port Hope Put Ball Team in Central League.

COBOURG, Feb. 20.—A Cobourg citizen who is deeply interested in baseball, suggests that Cobourg and Port Hope unite and put a team in the Central Ontario League this season. It is pointed out that there is plenty of good material for a strong team. Moreover Cobourg has one of the best ball grounds in the district and plenty of accommodation for the crowds, which attend the big league games.

WINNING THIRTY OR MORE GAMES FOR THREE STRAIGHT YEARS REMARKABLE PITCHING FEAT

(By Billy Evans.)

The status of the major league pitcher has changed greatly in the past ten years, the difference being most noticeable perhaps in the last five years.

The lively ball and the deeds of Babe Ruth have been the contributing factors to the change. The pitcher is no longer supreme. This is the era of swat in baseball, in which the making of a home run has passed from a hero stunt to an ordinary event.

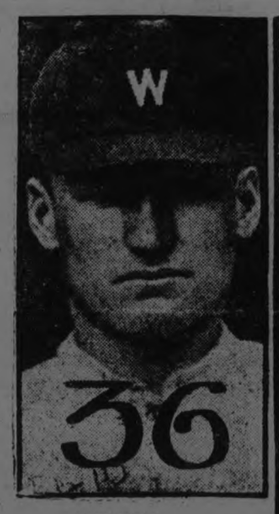
The pitcher who can win 15 games during a major league season is now considered a valuable asset. The pitcher who couldn't win more than 15 games ten years back was considered very ordinary. In these days usually a bonus of $1,000 goes to the pitcher who can win 15 games If he can turn in more victories the bonus is proportionately increased.

It wasn't like that in old days when Mathewson, Johnson, Alexander, and the other stars were at the top of their game. The star pitchers of those days could almost be figured on for 20 victories before the season opened, and it was not at all unusual for them to come through with 30.

Walter Johnson during the season of 1913 won 36 games and lost only 7 with a club that failed to reach the .600 mark in the percentage column.

In this connection Christy Mathewson and Grover Alexander have set a record that major league pitchers will be shooting at for some time. Probably it will never be equalled, certainly not with the ball now in use.

Winning 30 games during the major league season is a remarkable feat at any time. With the lively ball it is an extraordinary performance. Yet Mathewson and Alexander when in their prime won 30 or more games for three consecutive years.



JOHNSON.

Mathewson, with the New York Giants, won 30 games in 1903, followed it with 33 in 1904, and came back with 31 in 1905.

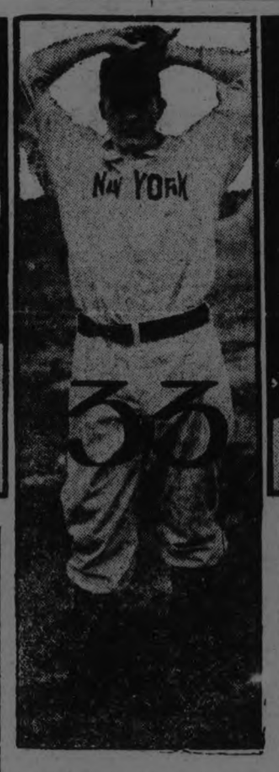
Alexander, then pitching for Philadelphia, captured 31 victories in 1915, reached the 33 mark in 1916, and finished with 30 wins in 1917.

In scoring 33 victories in 1916, Alexander turned in the remarkable number of 16 shut-outs, a major league record. Just think of it, not only winning 33 games, but shutting out the opposition in half of them, while both major leagues have

It is a rather interesting fact that boasted a great number of star left handers, only one of them ever managed to win 30 games in a season under the present pitching rules. Frank Killen, pitching for Pittsburg in 1893, won 35 games.

Strangely enough that was the year the distance was changed from 50 feet to the present distance. While more pitchers were being hard hit because of the lengthened distance, Killen was having the best year of his career.

Those were the happy days for the pitchers. They no longer exist. Baseball is now te batter's paradise. The hero stuff has been shifted from the pitcher to the batsman.



MATHEWSON AS HE LOOKED IN 1904 WHEN HE HAD HIS GREATEST YEAR.

OUTDOOR SPORTS HERE MEANS BETTER HEALTH

According to those who know, this winter season, as far as needy cases are concerned, has been an easy one. Last year was said to have been an improvement over the previous season, and this year shows a slightly cleaner record than last. City Relief Officer Miller reports fewer applications this year for relief, and charitable organizations carrying on good work in the city have had less work to do than usual. The most severe case coming to the attention of Adjt. Smith this season was that of a small boy going about in the cold minus boots, his feet encased only in stocking and rubbers. According to relief workers, there have been none of the "desperate" cases encountered in other years.

The general consensus of opinion seems to be that employment is more general this year than during previous season, and consequently the majority of people are better off. The only dissenting note in the almost unanimous chorus with regard to easier employment conditions was voiced by one lady, who, through remedial work of several kinds, sees a great deal of the lower strata of life in the city, and gave as her opinion that there were still a large number of men without work, whether through their own fault or not, she didn't say. She cited several instances where families were in want through lack of employment for the man of the house, and spoke of three recent calls for layettes by expectant mothers who were without means to provide supplies for the coming infants, as an indication of abnormal need in some places.

The fairly open winter has proven good-natured to those who lacked well-stocked coal bins, and another thing noticed is the lack of contagious diseases. Last year, during January and February, we had a great deal of bronchial pneumonia. This year, there has been no sign of an epidemic of any sort. The reason given by an experienced trained nurse is the popularity this season of outdoor sports. "This year, old and young alike are going in for sports, more than in any previous season for years past." Less disease is also attributed to the fact that this year's meed of strong and almost daily sunshine has a very beneficial effect on health generally. The severe frosts and winds of last year had a tendency to chill upper sleeping rooms and lower the vitality of their inhabitants to a corresponding degree. Evidently, exercise in the fresh air, a moderately cold winter and plenty of sunshine are the very best warders off of Canadian winter epidemics.

SENATORS MEET MONTREAL TEAM

Important N.H.A. Games To-Night — Battle For Right to Go Into Play-Off With Ottawa.

MONTREAL, February 20 (Canadian Press). — To-night may see an important shift in the position of the teams battling for the right to meet the Ottawa Senators in the post-season play-off for National Hockey League honours and the right to enter the Stanley Cup finals.

Canadiens meet their traditional rivals from Ottawa at the Mount Royal Arena, while at Hamilton the Toronto St. Patrick's will face a difficult problem in the Tiger outfit.

Canadiens and St. Pats are tied for second place, and a win for the locals with a loss for St. Pats. would leave the Montreal representatives in a fairly comfortable berth to start out on the final four games of the schedule.

On the other hand, a loss by the Canadiens would prove a severe handicap to the team, though with two games still to be played against St Pats, Canadiens and their supporters feel they would still be in a fair way of getting into the honoured ranks.

It is possible that Frank Nighbor will not start with the Ottawa club. The Senators' start centre player has been suffering for a few weeks with swollen wrists, and their weakened condition may keep him out of the fray.

While no definite announcement was forthcoming from the Canadien management it would not be surprising to see Odie Cleghorn doing considerable work around centre ice for the locals with Morenz, Billy Boucher, and Joliat carrying the burden on the wings.

The locals put in a light practice yesterday morning as a final limbering-up. All reported in excellent trim.

ICE HOCKEY POPULAR

The recent championship series between Cleveland and St. Paul hockey teams in the former city played to capacity crowds. All seats were sold weeks in advance, and the management said the demand indicated a possible 15,000 attendance.

RINK RATS TIED GROVE SCHOLARS

Came From Behind In the Last Period and Took Lead But Grove Evened It Up Before Finish.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 20.—Grove School and the Rink Rats played a tie game here yesterday afternoon in the Mackenzie cup series. The score was four all after one of the most interesting games of the winter.

The students had it three-nothing at the second intermission but the Rodents showed their teeth in that last frame, Stabler getting three goals in a row which with Morin's first counter put the school one down until Barnard tied it up before the gong ended the fray.

The teams were:

Grove—Goal, Griffiths II; defence, Cockburn and Pullen; centre, Barnard; right wing, Young, left wing; Loosemore II; subs., Miall, Robertson and Pringle.

Rink Rats—Goal, Junkin; defence, Lawless and Morin; centre, B. Wannamaker; right wing, G. Wannamaker; left wing, Stabler; subs. Hamblin, Sherin and Northey.

Referee—B. Blewett.

SUSPENSION OF BOXERS LIFTED

Mickey Walker and Joe Lynch, World Champions, Restored to Good Standing By Commission.

NEW YORK, February 20 (Canadian Press). — Two world's boxing champions—Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N.J., welterweight titleholder, and Joe Lynch, of New York, bantamweight king—were restored to good standing and title recognition in this State yesterday, under a decision of the State Athletic Commission lifting all suspensions made prior to 13th February last.

The Commission's blanket action also removes suspensions imposed upon managers, seconds matchmakers and others for various reasons .It leaves in force only the suspensions made last week when the Commission disciplined those involved in the championship fiasco of the Georgie Marks-Pancho Villa fight at Madison Square Garden.

Walker and Lynch, however, will be ordered to appear before the Commission at its next meeting, 26th February, and it was understood Lynch would retain good standing only on condition he accept a match with Abe Goldstein, of New York, who has laid claim to the bantamweight title.

Lynch was suspended last August for failure to accept a challenge from Joe Burman, of Chicago. This was conditionally lifted when he later agreed to meet Burman in October, but the match fell through at the last minute when Lynch injured a shoulder.

The title in turn was claimed by Burman and then Goldstein, who substituted for Lynch and defeated the Chicagoan.

BOWLING

EXAMINER LEAGUE.

Last night at Solomon's Alleys in the Examiner Intershop League the Directors eliminated the Linos from the running for the championship of the second half by winning two out of three.

As there was three teams tied for first place in the second half a play off was necessitated. The Jobbers who were the other team drew a bye and they meet the Directors tonight. The Directors have a good chance to win the second half as they eliminated the Linos the first half winners and the strongest team in the league.

Rollie Glover was the main cause of the Linos defeat for he rolled the sensationally high score of 651 for three games. Besides rolling the high three game score Glover had the high single of the evening with 254. Holyman was also a great help in the defeat of the Linos he rolling a nice score of 565. Gray had the high score for the losers rolling 552.

Following are the scores :

Linos—
Johnston	145	142	176	463

CITY TEN PIN LEAGUE

In the City Ten Pin League last night at Solomon's Alleys, the C.G.E. took two out of three from the High Rollers.

Some exceptionally good scores were turned in last night by both teams. Metherel was high man of the evening with a total of 574 for his three games. Following closely was Jackson with 560 and right behind him was Soloman with 551 and Miller with 520. These are all good scores and are worth more than a passing glance.

The games were all closely contested the C.G.E. just winning the first one by two pins.

Following are the scores:

C.G.E.—
Metherel	210	189	175	574

COMISKEY REFUSED TO RELEASE CHANCE

New Manager of White Sox Told to Take All Time Necessary to Regain Health.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 17.—Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago White Sox, yesterday telegraphed Charles A. Comiskey, club owner, asking that he be released. His action, he told Comiskey, was due to a severe illness, which, he said, would make it impossible for him to report to the Sox' spring training quarters in Winterhaven, Florida, soon.

Comiskey, however, refused to release Chance, sending this message:

"By all means remain on the job. Take as long as you need to get well, but come back by all means."

Chance will act accordingly, he said.

The illness, according to Chance, is one following a cold contracted in Chicago late last year and which affected his throat and bronchial passages.

EUROPEAN TITLE CHANGES HANDS

Ledoux Defeated Mascart in Paris For Feather-weight Championship—Won On Points.

PARIS, February 20 (Canadian Press). — Charles Ledoux last night defeated Edouard Mascart, on points, in a twenty-round bout, winning the featherweight championship of France and Europe.

Mascart's showing was a keen disappointment. The veteran Ledoux won fifteen out of the twenty rounds. The fight was a slugging contest throughout.

The defeat of Mascart probably will cause him to forego his proposed journey to the United States.

He had intended to leave for New York in March.

Mascart was awarded the feather-weight title of France in December because of the failure of Eugene Criqui, the champion, to meet him. At the time it was stated that Criqui was in bad shape physically, and unable to box Mascart.

CAMPBELLFORD TEAMS PLAY OVERTIME GAME.

High School League Fixture Was Fast in Spots—Overtime Necessary.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 20.—On Monday evening, C. Baker's team and K. Haig's team in the High School League played a good game of hockey that went ten minutes' overtime with the score 4-4 at the end of the three periods, and 4-6 in favor of Baker's team at the end of the overtime period. They refereed. The ice was hard and the game fast in spots. Some of the players were inclined to roam from their positions. C. Baker was the best for Baker's team and Blute and Reynolds for Haig's team.

The line-ups:

Baker's Team—Goal, Fox; r. defence, W. Baker; l. defence, Townsend; centre, C. Baker; r. wing, Craighead; l. wing, J. Haig; sub., Bland.

Haig's Team—Goal, Fairman; r. defence, Thomas; l. defence, Wallace; centre, Blute; r. wing, K. Haig; l. wing, B. Reynolds; sub., J. Hind.

TORONTO, February 20. Canadian Press. — Parkdale defeated the University of Toronto's mixed team of seniors and intermediates 5 to 3 last night, and the result created a jam in the O.H.A. group standing, owing to Varsity having played single games, counting as two, with Toronto teams.

LINDSAY LOST A GAME TO OMEMEE

Team Was Supposed to Have Been From Dunsford.

OMEMEE, Feb. 19.—Possibly the fastest game of hockey ever played on the Omemee rink was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators on Monday evening.

What was supposed to be a Dunsford team journeyed here to play a return game with the locals but only one Dunsford player put in an appearance in uniform, the balance being Lindsay men, some of whom had previously played O.H.A. However, the Omemee six were not to be baffled by experienced stick-handlers and started out with a determination to win. The visitors put up a good battle but they could not put the puck past George Morton in the Omemee nets, who seemed unbeatable.

At the end of the first period the score was 2-0, in favor of the locals. At the end of the second 3-0, and at the end of the third the score remained unchanged although the visitors battled hard to score a counter but without success.

The game could not be classed as a rough one although Mr. Ashmore, of Peterborough, who acted as referee and gave satisfaction, saw fit to impose about fourteen penalties, all of which were minor ones.

The line-up was as follows:

Dunsford—Goal, Unknown by Dunsford fans; defence, Thurston, Breens; R. wing, Brown; L. wing, Fortier; Centre, Hutton.

Bowling

Y.M.C.A. LEAGUE.

Nelson Routley rolled the highest single game of the season at the "Y" Alleys last night and helped his team score within two points of 1,000 in the last game. Barries fought hard in every game but failed to stop George Street.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

FILM ACTORS DIDN'T KNOW DRAMA'S END

"Who's guilty?"

This is the question the entire town is seeking, since "The Acquittal," Universal's new tale of bewilderment, coming to the Capitol Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Those who have seen it, and are in the know, smile wisely. They won't tell, for it has been suggested before that it's not well to give away the puzzle and spoil the play for those who haven't seen it.

That's why the audiences watch with bated breath, why they suspect every character in the play in turn, until the dramatic climax clears the mystery in a single flash.

Here's an interesting thing about the mystery; while Clarence L. Brown was directing it at Universal City, he took a page of the script every day, and none of the actors knew what the end would be until it was actually presented.

"I don't know whether I'm the hero or the villain," he complained, and Brown had to take him into the secret finally. Kerry and Miss Windsor head a notable all-star cast in the filmization of Rita Weiman's famous Broadway stage play; Richard Travers, Charles Wellesley, Barbara Bedford, Frederick Vroom, Ben Deely, Hayden Stevenson, Anton Vaverka, Dot Farley, Harry Mestayer and other film notables appear with them. The court room scenes are spectacular in the extreme. Several hundred people appear in the dramatic reproduction of a big murder trial, in which the evidence of the witnesses is translated in screen action.

AT THE ROYAL

PICTURE FILMED UNDER SEVEDE DIFFICULTIES.

Desert heat, thunder storms, and roadless canyons confronted 200 members of a Paramount motion picture company as they left Flagstaff, Arizona, for Lee's Ferry, Southern Utah.

The caravan faced hardships of the pioneers they imitate to secure authentic locations and local color for Zane Grey's "The Heritage of the Desert," which will be the feature at the Royal theatre on Thursday next.

Canyon roads obliterated by recent thunderstorms were repaired as the arty advanced. Motion picture players, road engineers, packers and a tribe of Navajo Indians were included in the train, the trip to location taking a week.

Lee's Ferry is the head waters of the Colorado, an inspiring desert location described by Zane Grey in his well known novel. The story deals with the primitive warfare between God-fearing pioneers and the bad men of the desert for the possession of water rights. To day this same fight has been changed to a legal conflict affecting national life.

"The Heritage of the Desert" is the third Zane Grey story to be picturized by Paramount. Irvin Willat was the director while featured in the cast are Bebe Daniels, Ernest Torrence, Noah Beery and Lloyd Hughes. Albert Shelby Le Vino made the adaptation.

Being 150 miles from civilization, the party was forced to live primitively. Camp was moved nearly every night and the caravan had all the characteristics of an original "covered wagon" expedition. Part of the journey was along a 62-inch road built on the sheer face of a narrow canyon. A motion picture actor's life is not all it is cracked up to be.

TWO NEW VAUDEVILLE ACTS FOR ROYAL THURSDAY.

For the last half of this week the Royal management have secured two vaudeville novelties of merit, Ross and Flynn, in a comedy skit, entitled "Bargain Day," and Nowatt and Mullen, "The Sunburnt Pair," a classy singing and dancing team. The first part of this week one of the acts advertised failed to put in an appearance. A letter was received on Tuesday, which stated that owing to sickness of the lady member of the team they were forced to cancel all contracts and return home to Brooklyn, N.Y.

DUNCAN, NOTED CINEMA STAR, LOVES HIS ART.

William Duncan, who stars with Edith Johnson, in "The Steel Trail," coming to the Royal Theatre, on Thursday, is internationally known as "the greatest bet in pictures." Stars may come and stars may go, but the name William Duncan always draws the public.

Duncan is unique among picture players in that he has made a serious life work of the photoplay. "Acting for the screen," he says, "is a profession, just as is law, medicine, or any other specialized calling. To succeed, one must keep abreast of the times. Many a star of former days has failed latterly because he would not adapt his acting to the wants of the public to-day.

"The motion picture audience has developed, and only the actor who has developed with it has suceeded. Productions to-day are bigger; stories to-day are more logical, and acting must be more logical to fit them. In the old days we over acted. We had to carry across the ideas of the crude stories we portrayed. The industry was in its infancy.

"Then the picture play developed. We learned not to over-act. We learned that with new cameras, new lenses, and new and faster films, more delicate shades of meaning could be transferred to the screen. The actors who realized this—who adapted themselves to the new demands of the public, and who attended strictly to business, remained successful."

In "The Steel Trail," a chapter plays produced by Universal. Duncan plays a railroad construction engineer. The story is a big narrative of railway building, with countless thrills, landslides, daring escapes from automobiles wrecks, a speeding freight car, and dynamite blasts —all bound together in a logical plot through which runs a pretty romance. It is staged in a manner almost spectacular. A large cast of standard players appear with Duncan and Miss Johnson in the new picture.

AT THE GRAND

"ONE EXCITING NIGHT" A GRIFFITH THRILLER.

Mystery plays have become the vogue, and last night at the Grand Theatre the fashion was set for mystery films. In "One Exciting Night" (a United Artists release), David W. Griffith has not attempted the spectacular or relied on stirring mob scenes, but has merely presented an excellent modern mystery drama in the Griffith way.

However, he was not content with the usual, so a hurricane, that for the present is the storm of storms on the screen, was used as a climax. It raised our hair just a little higher, and only Romeo Washington — a negro character who was a whole "movie" himself — could smooth it down with his extremely amusing antics. Porter Strong makes this ambitious, job-hunting Romeo the life of the film, so to speak, and his love-making to the maid, played by Irma Harrison, is done in a characteristic way.

It was requested that the plot should not be revealed, so what it is all about will have to be an added mystery. Feeling that half the pleasure would be spoiled by divulging the story, the request is heeded and only the characters will be brought forth.

"SO THIS IS LONDON"

From every point of view, the engagement at the Grand Opera House Friday and Saturday of George M. Cohan's special company of comedians in "So This Is London" should prove an enjoyable treat to lovers of the really worth-while plays. This remarkable comedy, which ran for a whole year at the Hudson Theatre, New York, was written by Arthur Goodrich and the wide experience and remarkable technique of the inimitable wizard of the stage, George M. Cohan, was brought to bear in the staging of it. Whatever Cohan does is sure to be done well. He bears the proud distinction of never having had a failure, or producing a play that in any way bordered on the risque or depended on the vulgar appeal for success.

"So This Is London" is just what the English have called it "A rare treat, and a ripping good comedy." It has been playing to absolute capacity for many months at the Prince of Wales Theatre, London. It's avowed object is to make good native fun of the nationalistic spirit and the mutual distrust that exist between Americans and Englishmen.

Clara Verdera, the sylph-like Cicely of "The Cat and the Canary" at the Grand Wednesday, February 27, is an enthusiast on the subject of life in the wild and wooley west.

"It is adorable," she declares. Whatever Clara means by that one can only surmise. She knows something about it, too, for she spent most of her childhood days on a big ranch in the Canadian North-West and claims she can ride a bucking cayuse like a veritable cowgirl.

"When I was a mere baby," says Miss Verdera, "my father and mother brought me from England, where I was born." Now and then she tacks on a bit of a British accent to her speech, which otherwise is pretty good American. But that is only to emphasize the fact that she was born under the Union Jack. "We went to Western Canada, where my father bought a great ranch and went into the wheat and cattle-raising business. We were miles and miles from any railroad. I had a governess to teach me and a great part of my life was spent outdoors. I learned to ride, to shoot and to swim like one of the boys. I still keep up my riding, for I love the exercise, but I miss the wide plains. Galloping along the bridle paths of the parks is not the same thing. And then the country roads. They are so crowded with motors that it is positively dangerous to take a spirited horse out, unless at some ungodly hour, when nobody wants to be abroad. And, I don't want a horse that hasn't some spirit in him.

"While we were very busy with life on the ranch, the world war broke out, and my father, who was a reserve officer in the English service, was called to the colors. We lived for a while on the ranch after my father left, and then mother and I started to do a bit of travelling. We went to California and wound up in Los Angeles, where I received an offer to go into the movies and accepted it. That kept me busy until I went to New York with my mother, at the end of the war, to meet father, who was returning from France. There I met Mr. Morris Gest, who gave me a position in 'Chu Chin Chow.' That is how I came to be an actress."

$3,139—NOT $1,139.
In connection with the item in regard to the special consideration granted to aged policy-holders which appeared in the Examiner yesterday, a typographical error gave a wrong impression. It was stated a well-known Montreal educationist who held an old policy with the Sun Life and had paid total premiums of $988 received a cheque for $1,139 on his 91st birthday, although under the terms of the policy the money was not due until after death. $3,139 was the correct figure, just $2,000 more than was shown by the paragraph in question.

CANADIAN PROBLEMS SUBJECT OF ADDRESS
The executive of Triinty Methodist Church Women's Missionary Society were at home yesterday to the Trinity Church Auxiliary, and had as their guests members of the W.M.S. of the churches of St. James, George Street and Mark Street. Between a hundred and fifty and two hundred ladies were present in Reid Street hall, which was prettily decorated for the occasion, with ferns and daffodils. An address on the problems facing Canada at the present time was given by Mrs. Buckler, a chapter from the study book was read by Mrs. Ray Brown, and Mrs. George H. King sang, with Mrs. C. Cragg at the piano Mrs. A. F. Lane presided over the meeting A Bible reading was taken by Mrs. R. J. Kidd, and the district organizer, Mrs. J. K. Moore closed the meeting, which was followed by a pleasant social hour and the service of refreshments.

MRS. FOSTER COMING HERE.
A very unexpected pleasure is being afforded the members and friends of the local Y.W.C.A. in the visit of Mrs. Foster of the Dominion Council staff to the city, this Saturday and Sunday.
Mrs. Foster is making a tour of the Canadian Y.W.C.A.'s from coast to coast during the next three months and thus providing a link of understanding between Dominion Council, and all associations. Mrs. Foster has had much experience in Y. W. C. A. work and has made a study of present day problems, world movements, ideals and present day thinking. Mrs. Foster comes to Peterborough with a message for every member, which will be an education and a pleasure.
In view of the Y.W.C.A. biennial convention to be held at Preston, Ont., May 17 to 21, Mrs. Foster will outline some of the discussions and hopes of the conventoin.
Three special meetings are being arranged for Mrs. Foster. The first on Saturday afternoon at 3.30, at which Board and Committee members are urged to be present. On Saturday evening a mass meeting for all girls and women and friends of the Association will be held and on Sunday evening at the regular sing-song, Mrs. Foster will bring a message.
Peterborough association has always been considered by Dominion Council as one of the best all-round associations and it is the desire of Peteborough to keep up this reputation. Those who cannot attend the meetings are invited to come in at any hour Saturday or Sunday and meet Mrs. Foster.

SPRING COATS.
Three-quarter length coats, sometimes banded with fur about the hem, collar and cuffs, are shown for spring.

Society

The many friends of Mrs. John Briggs, 113 Brock street, will be sorry to learn that she was taken to Nicholl's Hospital suffering from a broken bone of the leg, when she fell on the corner of Brock and Water streets, Sunday evening coming home from Church. She is doing as well as can be expected.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peters, 681 Reid street, a surprise party and miscellaneous shower was given last evening in honour of their daughter, Gwen., whose marriage takes place shortly. Some twenty-five of the girl friends of the bride-to-be were present for a jolly evening, spent in music and dancing, followed by the service of dainty refreshments.

A large number of ladies attended the first reception since her marriage of Mrs. Keith Lech (formerly Marjorie Eakins of Toronto), held yesterday at her home, 788 Aylmer St., from four to six o'clock. Mrs. Lech was assisted in receiving by her sister, Mrs. Erskine Oxley, of Toronto, and Mrs. K. G. Lech. Mrs. Keith Lech wore wedding dress of white satin brocade, trimmed with rose-point lace, with a coronet of the same. Her flowers were sweetheart roses. Mrs. K. G. Lech wore black velvet, and Mrs. Oxley a velvet dress of midnightblue. The color scheme carried out in the pretty rooms was rose and blue. Premier roses centred the tea-table, with its Cluny lace cloth, and rose candles in silver candelabra. Spring flowers, doffodils, narcissus and tulips, were in the living room, where Miss E. Morrow assisted. Mrs. A. W. MacPherson and Mrs. Cyril Lech poured tea, asisted by Mrs. Charles Ackerman, Mrs. Robert Abbott, Miss Dorothy Hill and Miss Helen Chalk, of Port Hope.

HOW TO DRESS WHEN YOU GO TO NORTH POLE.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 20.—(Unitel Press).—When Vihjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, here recently, told how he dressed in the coldest weather in the polar regions.
"Preferably, I begin with a complete set of underwear, including socks, of young caribou, with the hair next the skin," he said. "Outside of the fur undersocks, I wear two or three pairs of blanket slippers, and outside of them a loose boot with canvas uppers and sealskin sole.
"Outside my fur underwear, I wear ordinary cheap trousers, and outside of them several pairs of loose trousers, similar in cut to those worn by Chinamen. If the wind blows or the temperature drops, I put them on one by one until I had enough. I wear a fur shirt with the hair in, and a somewhat heavier fur coat with the hair out. Outside of this is a coat, or linen duster effect, made of light khaki. Dense fabrics are undesirable for snow shirts, because hoar frost forms within them instead of on the outside.
"A properly fitted Arctic traveller suffers less from cold than do the inhabitants of such countries as Scotland and Norway, who dress in porous clothing.
"There has not been a frost-bitten finger or toe in any party with which I have been connected during any but the first of my ten years north of the Arctic Circle, so we know the experience of working out logarithmus with tender, frost-bitten fingers (as told by Nansen) only by reading."

"THE NATIONAL WAY" TO THE NATIONAL CAPITOL

Trains at convenient hours, unexcelled dining-car service, trains operated on time, and fine steel equipment, including club-compartment and standard sleeping cars on night trains and dining and parlor cars on day trains, are features that invite public patronage to "The National Way" between Toronto and Ottawa.
"The Capital City" leaves Toronto at 12.10 (noon) daily except Sunday, arriving at Ottawa at 7.15 p.m. The night "Otttawa Express" leaves Toronto at 11.10 p.m. daily, arriving at Ottawa at 7.45 a.m.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, February 20 (United Press).—Irregularity predominated at the opening of the stock market, probably reflecting various sentiments in regard to the House's action on taxes. Bulls averred the fact that the House had done something that was constructive anyway.
The Steel opened off 1-2 and Baldwin off 1 1-8. Marland Oil was up 5-8 selling at 36 3-4 Coppers were firm with Anaconda selling at 40 1-4 unchanged.
The market developed firmness and activity following the initial quotations. Led by Southern Railway, selling at a new high of 48 1-4 the low priced rails developed considerable strength. Directors of Southern Railway are expected to consider dividends on the common shares next month. There has been accumulation of Seaboard Preferred, which sold at 20 1-8 up 1 1-8 from the opening.
Both Baldwin and American Can. recovered their early loss with shorts covering. Associated Dry Goods reflected excellent 1923 earnings, and sold at 88 1-2 up 3 points from the recent low.

THE KNITTED TIE STAGES COMEBACK

By "THE STROLLER."

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(United Press).—Turn attention to neckwear—that important adjunct to male attire—for a moment.
Just at present the knitted scarf is enjoying a popular success around the necks of New Yorkers. A few years ago, you will remember, the black, silk-knitted neckties were all the rage. You could buy them cheaply, or you could put real money into them. Half the sweethearts of America were knitting silk ties for their beaux (sometimes with painful results to the wearer). Then, almost as suddenly as a mid-summer storm, which has raged furiously for an hour, dies away, the fashion dropped out of sight. Today the black knitted tie, with its indispensible pearl scarf pin, is but a thing of memory.
Knitted scarfs of today are works of art, and they look mighty well. They don't wrinkle and lose their shape quickly Of course, as in all ties, there are those which are garish and offensive to those whose sense of order is disturbed by sensuous color. But, as a general rule, these are found mainly in the cheap ties, which are made expressly for that trade.
If you wear a colored shirt with a collar of the same material, try a knitted scarf which will harmonize or contrast with the shirt. The knot can be made large or small, as the taste dictates, but the large knot is the one which is most favored. Three or four dollars invested in a couple of knitted ties is worth while. They will retain their shape and their good looks for a long time, and while they are not adaptable to summer wear, they will always be in good taste.
It is a little too early to predict what spring styles in neckwear will be, but the best haberdasheries in New York are cleaning house with sales, so an official pronouncement may be expected momentarily.
The man who occasionally wears (and struggles) with his dress tie has been taken into consideration, and dress ties now have buttonholes in back and front just like a collar. This is a most welcome relief to the man who has often found the bow nestling under his ear, or the entire tie roosting on his neck, entirely off the collar. Once the tie is in place now, it sticks there and one worry and embarrassment incident to formal dress is eliminated.

ART ASSOCIATION TO STUDY FLEMISH WORK

The Art and Literature Study Club of the Women's Art Association had a meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. Rupert Gliddon, attended by twenty-one of the members. The subject under consideration was in line with the Club's study for this year of the great painters of former times, Flemish and Dutch art, through its greatest exponents, was considered last evening Mrs. B. L. Barns, convenor, gave a brief review of the Golden Age in Flemish and Dutch painting, followed by a paper on Peter Paul Rubens, given by Mrs. R. J. Bolton, who spoke of the different types of Rubens' work, particularly of his religious paintings, in which he excelled, and of his great pupil, Sir Anthony van Dyke, whose specialty was portrayals of court life.
A paper on Frans Hals was read by Mrs. R. J. Kidd, referring to the outstanding characteristics of his work, and his fondness for delineating the simple life about him, and Mrs. J. E. R. Munro spoke of Rembrandt, and how to detect the signs of the great master's work. the different speakers gave brief reviews of the lives of their subjects, and interesting glimpses of their lives of their subjects and interesting glimpses of their characters and temperaments.
The next meeting of the Club will be held on March 4th at the home of Mrs. J. M. McCulloch, Charlotte street.

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of economy extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

The death occurred last night at his home in Spencerville of Justin F. Barnard, a former resident of Peterborough. The deceased, whose wife died several years ago, is survived by three sons: Morley of Buffalo; Walter and Percy of Spencerville; one sister, Mrs. Nurse, in Toronto ,and one brother, Joseph C., of Peterborough.
The funeral will take place at Spencerville on Thursday afternoon.

JAMES TAYLOR.

The funeral of the late James Taylor, which took place yesterday on the arrival of the C.P.R. noon train, was largely attended. The members of Court Bridgenorth, Canadian Order of Foresters, attended in a body. At the chapel at the cemetery Rev. Mr Edgar, of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church, conducted the funeral service, after which the Foresters continued the service according to their ritual, each member dropping an evergreen on the casket.
Mr. Taylor was born in Smith Township, a mile from Bridgenorth, and lived on the old homestead until 22 years ago, when he and his family moved to Manitoba, where he took up farming, and lived until three years ago, when he moved to Windsor. At Christmas he went to visit his youngest daughter, Mrs. P. Porter, who lives in Indianapolis, Ind. He was in his usual health until the 4th of February, when he took ill with Bright's disease. Although the best medical aid was secured, he continued to grow worse until Saturday, 16th February, when he passed peacefully away.
Mr. Taylor was a man of sterling character and was highly respected by all who knew him. He leaves to mourn his loss two sons and two daughters, William of Seattle, Emerick of Windsor, Ont., Mrs. M. Mott of Nordan, Manitoba, and Mrs. P Porter, Indianapolis Ind., and one brother, Mr. Nathan Taylor, of this city.

YOUNG PEOPLE HELD CONCERT LAST NIGHT

Under the auspices of the Young People's League, a very enjoyable concert was held in the auditorium of St. James' Methodist church last evening, featuring Miss Jessie Tuite, elocutionist, of Albert College, Belleville. There was a good attendance, considering the inclement weather ,and every number was accorded an encore and an appreciative response from a well-pleased audience. Miss Tuite, who is a reader of charm and ability, with excellent powers of mimicry and a flexible voice, was compelled to respond to renewed applause at every appearance. Her selections comprised numbers both pathetic and humorous, in a range wide and pleasing.
The programme opened wtih a few remarks by the chairman, Rev. J. D. Richardson ,and two selections by the Sunday school orchestra were given. Miss Tuite rendered four selections, with a number of encores, vocal solos were given by Mrs. George H. King, Mrs. E. Kitney, Mrs. Mendell Braund and Miss Isabel Black, Master Walter Townsend played a selection on the piano, and Arnold Spencer gave a violin solo.
At the conclusion of the programme, a hearty vote of thanks to the assisting artists was moved by the president of the League, Elmer Frost, and seconded by Mrs. C. Hotstone.

TRAIN SCHEDULES ARE DEMORALIZED

All Lower Ontario Badly Affected by the Storm

TORONTO, February 20 (Canadian Press). — All lower Ontario, particularly in the Great Lakes regions, was heavily hit by the terrific gales and snowstorm which cut a wide swath from the Atlantic seaboard to Lake Superior and beyond.
Reports from nearly every city in Ontario this morning tells the story of disorganised train services, blocked roadways, and demoralised business conditions.
Many snow ploughs have been pressed into service on the railway lines, and thousands of men with teams are engaged to-day in the work of digging out stalled trains and buried cities.
Weather authorities report the storm as the worst general disturbance of its kind in Ontario for many years.
In some of the small towns and villages communication by rail and highway may be cut off for several days.
Toronto and other cities which are usually able to cope quickly with the weather conditions, found their surface traction fairly crippled for hours, despite the night long effort of snow sweeping equipment.
Thousands of people walked many miles to work through the blizzard, which is still of considerable force, although apparently moderating.
Observatory reports that 9 inches of snow fell in Toronto between 8 o'clock last night and 8 o'clock this morning.
The entire Province from Lake Huron to the Quebec boundary and as far north as the Georgian Bay, has been hit by the storm which extends on a more moderate scale as far east as Montreal.
The snow will continue falling throughout to-day, but to-night the weather will clear and the temperatures will be somewhat lower.
In Western Canada it is fairly cold with little snow
All traffic was demoralised at Oshawa this morning, and Oshawa is still trying to shovel itself out of one of the worst blizzards in many years.
Snow has drifted to a height of 6 feet on the main streets, and all the roads leading to Oshawa are blocked, reaching 12 feet in height in many places.
Last night's trains for Cobalt and Winnipeg are still in the station here, and the passengers are living and eating aboard at the company's expense.

TIED UP AT LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, February 20 (Canadian Press). — Not a train is moving on the C.P.R. or the C.N.R. here to-day.
C.N.R. trains from the east, north, and west have not arrived, and the C.N.R. train from Toronto had not left at 10 a.m.

GOOD CROWD SKATERS BROCK STREET RINK

There was a good crowd of skaters at Brock street rink last night. The ice was in excellent shape for skating. A special prize for the lady possessing a lucky number ticket, was won by Miss Marjori, Long, with No. 80, which secured her a handsome boudoir clock in French ivory.
The Examiner Girls' Club and some of the members of the Men's Club had another outing last night, in the form of a skating party at the rink, followed by a bountiful feed in the bindery-room of The Examiner establishment. Later, Harry Dugan and Fred Seate, entertained the company with a select repertoire of fanc dances and a Gallagher and Shean duet: Frank Gray brought along a phonograph for the devotees of the dight fantastic.

INTRODUCES A BILL FOR THE LIQUOR ISSUE

Provides Machinery For Taking Vote on Liquor Whenever the Public Demands It--New Legislation Announced For Regulation of Standard Hotels.

LIGHT SESSION.

TORONTO, February 21. — In the Legislature on Wednesday, Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney General, introduced a bill containing the machinery for the taking of a vote on the liquor question when and how the government desires.

The bill simply is enabling, and the government will decide upon the form of the questions to be submitted and when there is sufficient demand for a vote.

The Prime Minister in reply to a question said that the government intended to bring down legislation for the regulation and improvement of standard hotels. This legislation will stipulate what an hotel is. For different circumstances and different sizes of hotels there will be different stipulations. It is not likely that there will be any separate commission to handle the hotels.

Amendments to Acts.

Several government bills mostly from the Attorney-General's Department, making minor changes in various acts, were given the second reading without opposition. One amends the coroner's act, making it compulsory that the coroner notify the registry office of the death of persons which he has investigated, and file the causes of death. Another brings the dower act into conformity with the mortgage act.

By an amendmept to the railway act given its second reading, passengers on street cars who refuse to pay fare will be liable to the maximum of a ten dollar fine. This amendment is necessary because of the pay as you leave cars in some Ontario cities, where there have been refusals to pay after the passenger has been carried to his destination.

Another bill securing its second reading provides that where there is a change of venue for a trial that the original county where the trial would have taken place, had there been no change of venue pays the trial expenses.

Pool Room Licenses.

Mr. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer, secured second reading for two bills. One provides that in cities of over 100,000 population that pool room and bowling alley proprietors must receive approval of the Police Commission before they can get licenses from the province. In other places the law provided that the municipal council must approve by resolution.

The second bill of the Provincial Treasurer gives officers of his department the right at all times to have access to race courses and the pari-mutuel plants for checking up purposes on race betting.

Mr. Raney wanted to know if the Federal officers had put any obstacles in the way of the Provincial officers.

"No," said Mr. Price, "but our men were not received with open arms."

Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, got second reading of a bill whereby all dealers in unwrought metals must secure a license.

The quiet trade in these metals he said had an effect on the revenue of the department. The legislation had been requested by the jewellers' and miners' associations.

Questions Answered.

Replies to questions brought out the information that the Shevlin-Clarke company did not owe the province any more money, having paid up; that J. I. Hart is inspector of Crown Timber Agents at $3500 a year; that the late government received a petition signed by 150,000, asking for a referendum on the liquor question; that Mr. Hutchison, district representative in Simcoe county, had resigned, and that his service were not satisfactory to the department.

Mr. Raney said the premier did not make a real reply when he said all members of the government in the election campaign had promised that the O.T.A. would be enforced, and that there would be a referendum when the people demanded it.

Mr. Raney wanted a direct answer to this question if any of the government promised a referendum.

The second reading was given a bill introduced by W. S. Haney (West Lambton) making it possible for an acting judge to sit on a police commission in the place of the actual judge.

Didn't Slight Doctors.

Before the orders of the day, the Attorney-General read a statement from James Hales, the chairman of the Ontario License Commission, concerning a speech he made to the London Ministerial Association. Mr. Hales said he intended to make no slighting remarks against Ontario doctors, and that indeed he had complimented them. He expressed regrets if his speech had caused any annoyance to the House, the government or any officials.

TARIFFS HIGH ON DOMINIONS

Lord Beauchamp Declared the Proposed Imperial Preference Not "Worth a Candle" — Dominion Industries Protected.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable): — As a preliminary skirmish to parliamentary discussion of the economic conference resolutions, Lord Beauchamp a noted free-thrader entered thelists in the House of Lords last night against imperial preference which in effect, he stated supported by a maze of figures, was not worth a candle.

Lord Beauchamp stated that on dutiable and free Canadian imports from Great Britain the average import duty was twenty per cent. while the average rate on United States goods going to Canada was only fourèen per cent. and that notwithstanding the preferential rates that are supposed to operate in favor of Great Britain.

Higher in S. Africa

The South African duty on British goods, said Lord Beauchamp, had been increased in many cases since 1914. In Australia the preference on British goods practically amounted to one per cent. while the average rate on foreign goods had been decreased by six and half per cent. Therefore since preference was started more duty was paid on British exports to Australia than before.

The Duke of Devonshire as a protagonist for tariffs deprecated the suggestion that the assistance granted Great Britain by the Dominions was unappreciated. He expressed the hope that the government would be guided by the great results already achieved and would further develop imperial trade.

Duties Still High

Lord Arnold, under-secretary for the colonies, agreed for the most part with Lord Beauchamp's figures. After a long analysis of all the aspects of tariffs and preferences Lord Arnold was of the opinion that the Dominions on the whole had arranged their tariffs so as to favor British goods as against foreign goods but the duties in many cases were still high after the preference was deducted while in the cases whre it had been decided to protect Dominion industries, either no preferenct or an insignificant preference had been accorded. He was not suggesting a complaint however against the Dominions who, he agreed, had complete freedom to settle their own affairs.

Franc's Decline Worries French

PARIS, February 21 (Canadian Press). — "Can the franc fall like the mark?" is the query in large type heading the first article in La Liberte yesterday, being the first time that such a possibility has been placed bluntly before the public by a newspaper outside the Socialist press.

The newspaper hastens to say that such a thought is scandalous and impious, but is one which everybody is asking himself.

The franc now is, the paper says, about where the German was in October, 1919, when the pound sterling was worth 200 marks, ten months after that 300 marks, and then three months later it went to 1,000 because of unlimited inflation.

La Liberte declares that if the slightest inflation is admitted, the franc is doomed to follow the mark, adding that it is not enough to increase the country's receipts, as there is limit to such an increase, but the outlay must be reduced, and Mussolini's example of stopping waste and parliamentary demagogy must be followed.

AN EXPERT SURVEYOR OPENS DEFENCE CASE

On resuming the trial of John Schell this morning for the wilful murder of George MacNeal, Mr C. G. Frost, counsel for defence, asked for a non-suit saying there was no evidence against the prisoner, and that the doctors who had examined MacNeal's body said the wound might have been accidental.

On examining the bullet hole it was observed that it was impossible to say with any certainty what way the bullet had passed, he testified.

'We inserted a lead pencil through the hole, and it appeared the bullet took a southerly direction from the cabin and inclined to follow the westerly wall of the cabin, towards the south-east on the outside.

"We looked outside to see if the bullet had cut any trees, and found the bullet hole in a basswood tree 60 feet south of the cabin. The bullet hole would be about 20 feet above the ground. We had George Schell climb the tree with a tape measure. He held it exactly on the bullet hole We inserted twine through the hole in the shack wall, and pulled the tape taut in an endeavour to get a straight line. It was inclined into the westerly wall of the cabin The projection of that line appeared to strike about the centre of the upright of the bunk about one foot from the westerly wall.

The blood stains had had ashes thrown on them by those who had occupied the cabin before us. Under the end of the table we found a little piece of leather that had a peculiar hole in it. It was a belt, broken behind and bearing a circular mark and dark stains. We found six bunks in double tiers, and there were five of the bunks with straw in them.

The bunk in the northwest corner in the bottom had no straw in it. We found three cartridges in that bunk, one discharged and two were undischarged soft nose bullets."

"If the officer who examined that bunk stated there were no other bullets in that bunk what would you say?"

"The bullets were certainly there and we had no difficulty in finding them."

"In cross-examination Mr. Cunningham asked "Did the cabin look as if some one had cleaned it up?"

"No. The police officers stayed there a night and it was necessary to put ashes on the blood to make the place habitable. The cabin showed indications of having been occupied. The floor was extremely dirty.'

"The bullet hole has been changed to a slight degree?"

"Well if it had not been brought to my condition I might not have noticed it. It was undoubtedly changed by us in drawing the string through it."

"What effect do you think the striking of a board would have on the direction of the bullet?"

"The effect of hitting a bone would be to mushroom a bullet of this kind and it would assume a wobble."

"Wouldn't the bullet be deflected by hitting a twig?"

"It might."

"Do you think your deduction as to direction carries much weight?"

"Yes, I do."

"Here's a bullet that is deflected first by striking a bone, then it goes through this board, travelling in an irregular shape. Could the bullet travel straight?"

"I believe the line would be straight from the point of exit from the man through the board to the tree."

"Your evidence is that this board would not be likely to change the course of the bullet?"

"The hole would indicate that the bullet was travelling sidewise?"

"Yes."

"Yet you think it would go straight?"

"It would depend on the force and the board has not much stay-

Widows' Pensions Must Wait Funds

LONDON February 21 (Canadian Press). — Phillip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was obliged to admit in the House of Commons last night that lack of money prevented one of the social reforms to which the Labour Party was committed.

A motion.. was proposed to pension all widows with children, or mothers whose breadwinners are incapacitated, the estimated cost being £29,000,000 Yearly.

Mr. Snowden regretted that financial difficulties precluded the Government from agreeing to the scheme, which he would otherwise be pleased to do.

He begged the House to give him more time to get the nation's finances into a sound condition which would provide the means for this and other reform measures.

CARTER WANTED TO CONTROL SYNDICATE

LUXOR, Feb. 21. — United Press. —The Egyptian Director of Antiquities took steps to-day, preliminary to re-opening the tomb of Tutankhamen and safeguarding the contents thereof.

Following the cancellation of the license under which Howard Carter had been excavating, the Egyptian authorities moved immediately to deal themselves with the tomb and mummy of their former ruler.

The license which was cancelled was granted Lord Carnarvon in April 1915, when he took up the work of excavating in the Valley of the Kings for his health.

Then came the discovery of the burial place of Tutankhamen, unearthed in 1922, followed by the death of Carnarvon.

The license was then transferred to his widow, who has since married a British officer, Colonel Dennistoun.

Carter has been carrying on, amid frequent altercations with the Egyptian government, principally over the matter of press reports of progress, which the explorer wished to reserve to a syndicate with which he has a contract. The government insisted upon equal rights for all press organizations, and when Carter proved adamant upon this point, and in the matter of visitors to the tomb, which he came to treat as his private property, the Ministry of Public Works took away his license.

PIONEER'S CACHE FOUND.

VENTURA, Cal., Feb. 21.—(Associated Press).—Fortune smiled faintly on F. W. Barron, an indigent ex-Canadian soldier, when he was cutting down an old pepper tree near here recently. As the tree fell he noticed a knot hole in one of the upper branches with a piece of decayed wood nailed across it. Pulling off the board, he caused a piece of old burlap to drop and with it a roll of bills. Barron found $50, mostly of $1 denomination and all of 1841 date.

REBELS CLAIM VICTORY IN FEDERALS ADVANCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. — The claim that the "revolution in Mexico is making headway rather than losing force," is made in despatches received Wednesday from Adolfo de la Huerta, the rebel leader, by Alvirez Castillo, the revolutionary agent here

The rebels have gained a strategical advantage, planned more than a month ago, the despatches said, through the recent occupation of the larger cities by the federal forces. With large forces necessary to garrison these, it was said, the Federals were left without sufficient men to guard their lines of communication, which it was claimed had been broken by the rebels in numerous sections. In the western sector particularly, it was said, "boasts of Obregon, respecting his numerous victories are not borne out by the facts."

Normal Conditions Being Rapidly Restored, Says Obregon's Representative—Rebel Bands Dispersed in Oil Fields.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. — The Mexican Embassy declared in a statement last night that the conditions in Mexico are "rapidly being restored to normal after the decisive defeat of rebels."

"Rail communication has been opened from Mexico City to Tierra Blanca in Vera Cruz, and the line is being extended to Santa Lucrecia on the Tehuantepec Railroad," the statement said.

"An active campaign is under way in the oil fields and the few remaining rebel bands are being dispersed. Operations are going on as usual except in a few remote spots and these will be restored to federal control within the week.

"Rebels under General Estrada on the western front have evacuated Morelia and Uruapam, and the remainder of the State of Michoacan. They now are headed for Colima, with the Federal cavalry in hot pursuit."

DOCK WORKERS RESUME WHEN EMPLOYERS GIVE IN TO THEIR DEMANDS

Settlement Hailed as Due to Generalship of Premier MacDonald--Part of Increase Immediately and Part in Summer is Employer's Stipulation.

PEOPLE RELIEVED

(By Lloyd Allen.)

LONDON, Feb. 21. — (British United Press.)— The British dock strike was settled to-day.

The settlement was hailed as due to the generalship of Premier MacDonald. The general public heaved a sigh of relief when the morning papers announced that the strike of the dockers, which started on Saturday at noon, was practically at an end.

After a secret conference on Wednesday the employers agreed to the men's demand for a two shilling a day increase. They stipulated that the increase should come in two equal installments and agreed to an inquiry into questions of maintenance and steady employment.

The dock workers' delegates' conference, which meets to-night, must approve these terms to which their leaders agreed. The leaders are confident that this will be done.

There is a possibility that some of the delegates will balk at the proposed delay in payment of the second shilling increase which is to come some time early in the summer. One shilling increase is to be paid immediately.

Acceptance of the employers' terms by the dockers' leaders came early to-day at a meeting at the Ministry of Labor.

The Government successfully brought the heads of both sides together and thus gains the credit for facing and settling the second big industrial crisis it has had to face within a month of assuming office.

Met Yesterday.

LONDON, Feb. 21. —The hope that the dock workers' strike might reach a settlement last night received a setback when the National Council of Port Labor Employers, which had been discussing the suggestion that they concede a two shillings increase to the men and refer the question of decasualization to a special committee, adjourned at a late hour without reaching a decision.

This was due principally to the fact that the Liverpool employers do not belong to the Council, and their consent has not yet been secured. Hence the court of inquiry, which was appointed by the Minister of Labor, resumed its investigations to-day.

Employers Wavering.

Important negotiations, which involved temporary cessation of the investigations of the court of inquiry developed yesterday afternoon. It was then reported that the employers were prepared to grant a two shillings advance under certain conditions, but were waiting for agreement by all the ports concerned before making the offer officially.

The Cabinet held another council last night, dealing mainly with the strike. It is believed that the Cabinet took into consideration the offer of the Transport Workers' Union to permit free passage of essential foodstuffs, provided the Government would give a guarantee that profiteering would be stopped.

This was the fifth day of the strike, and there is yet no sign of a break on the part of the men. Unless a settlement is reached, it is thought the strike will soon extend to other directions.

Load of Kindling Wood Crushed Boy

MONTREAL, February 21 (Canadian Press). — Armand Renault, aged 14, was crushed to death under a load of kindling wood, when the waggon carrying the load upset on Parthenais Street, in the east section of the city, yesterday afternoon, burying the boy beneath the wood.

Anchored in Clyde.

GLASGOW, Feb. 21. —Shipping at this port is being seriously dislocated by the dock workers' strike. The sailing of the liner Marloch for Canada, scheduled for Friday, has been cancelled, and her 250 passengers sent to Liverpool to board the Metagama which sails that day. All the channel steamers and coasters are being laid up as they return to port, only the passengers and mail service between the Clyde and Ireland being maintained.

About three-score vessels are now in the docks or anchored in the river here.

Belfast Affected.

BELFAST, Feb. 21.— The mails reaching Belfast by water Wednesday were left untouched on the arriving steamers. At the port of Larne they were handled by the National Union of Railwaymen.

The coal situation is not causing worry at present as never in the history of the port had so much coal reached Belfast as in the near past, and all of it was discharged before the embargo entailed by the strike became effective.

Clerks Load "Olympic" Mail.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Feb. 21.—The White Star Liner Olympic sailed on scheduled time Wednesday, carried a thousand passengers, including Sir Esme Howard, the new British Ambassador to the United States. The liner also carries 6,000 bags of mail.

The mail and the passengers' luggage were loaded aboard during the night by clerks, substituting for the striking stevedores.

Fueled Own Ship.

PLYMOUTH, England, Feb. 21. —Before the Danish warships Niels Juel could leave yesterday for Copenhagen on her return from South America her own sailors had to load 200 tons of coal on board her because the dock workers refused to handle the fuel.

FILIPINO COURT MESSENGER, 50 YEARS IN SERVICE, SEEKING PENSION

MANILA, Feb. 21.—(Associated Press).—Having served as a messenger in the court of first instance in Manila for 50 years, Pastual Ramos, a Filipino now 80 years old, believes he is entitled to a rest. He feels that he is too old and feeble to continue his duties and has asked for a pension. Accordingly, a bill has been introduced in the Legislature to grant him $25 a month.

Pascual's service began under the Spanish regime more than a quarter of a century before American occupation. He then received eight pesos or $4 a month. When the courts were reorganized under American sovereignty his pay was increased to $10 a month and later to $25.

Canadian Bonus For Plasterers

LONDON, February 21 (Canadian Press Cable). — It was stated in the course of question time in the House of Commons yesterday that the Canadian Government was paying the plasterers who were working on the Canadian pavilion at the British Empire Exhibition Grounds at Wembley a shilling a day for their expenses, bonus of an hour's pay daily, and a bonus also of ten shillings a week to each man who stays on job till it is completed.

The Australian and Indian Governments, it was stated, were compelled to follow suit at Wembley in order to retain their plasterers.

The Parliamentary Secretary for Overseas Trade, William Lunn, stated that the British Empire Exhibition authorities were in nowise responsible in the matter. It was one which solely concerned the Dominions and India.

TUT'S TREASURE BEFORE GOURTS

Howard Carter's Claim to Half the Rich Discoveries In Tomb Will Be Heard Saturday — Government Cancels His License.

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 21.—The dispute between the Egyptian Government and Howard Carter over the conduct of the work on Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb was suddenly terminated Wednesday by a ministerial order cancelling the licens, of Countess Carnarvon under which Mr. Carter was operating. It is believed here that this action ends Mr. Carter's connection with these most wonderful of all Egyptian archaeological discoveries, unless, as has been intimated, there is recourse to legal procedure.

The ministerial order after traoing recent events which already have been cabled in detail describes Mr. Carter's action in l sing the tomb and abandoning the work as a grave infraction of the obligations assumed by him. Moreover, it contends that as Mr. Carter himself has avowed, it exposes the treasure to irreparable damage and thus gives the Government the right to cancel the license.

Disregard for State

This measure was further induced says the order, by Mr. Carter's constant disregard of the authority and rights of the Egyptian Antiquities Service, and by his published letter of February 3, in which he openly denied the rights of the State over the antiquities discovered.

"Having regard to thes, facts," continues the order "and on the proposal of the Director-General of Antiquities, the authorization accorded Lady Carnarvon, of July 12, 1923 and expiring November 24, 1924, is hereby cancelled and the Director-General of Antiquities is charged with the execution of this order. He will immediately proceed with the opening of the tomb the laboratories and other depots and take urgent measures to safeguard and preserve the antiquities."

The Minister of Public Works said yesterday that Mr. Carter's telegram of February 19, demanding an apology from the Egyptian Government and also making other stipulations, made a compromise impossible and in the presence of such an attitude the Ministry had no alternative but to take the course it has decided on. He also admitted that Mr. Carter had started legal proceedings, the first hearing of which will be February 23, claiming 50 per cent. of the treasurers discovered, which the Minister declared is totally contrary to the agreement.

POINCARE ASKS CONFIDENCE OF UPPER CHAMBER

Stakes Life of Cabinet on Ratification of Electoral Bill — Majority Will Be Smaller Than Expected — Reduced Probably to 20.

ADHERES TO TASK.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—Premier Poincare served notice on the Senate and over the Upper House to the country and the world Wednesday of his firm intention to continue the task he has undertaken of directing the destinities of France as long as Parliament grants him its confidence, thus setting at rest all talk that he was inviting defeat on a question of internal politics providing that it implied no rejection of his foreign policy.

"I have no intention of withdrawing," he told the Senate. "I intend to bring to a conclusion the heavy task you have intrusted to me. It has been said that I am not averse to going down on a question of difference of opinion between the Chamber and the Senate on a purely internal matter, but I have too much respect for the Senate and for Parliamentary procedure to seek such a pretext. I shall continue as long as I have your confidence."

Close Division.

Undeterred by the strong opposition manfest against the Electoral Bill, the Premier has staked the life of his Cabinet upon an uncompromising ratification of the measure as sponsored by the Government. Never since M. Poincare assumed power has the Senate appeared so evenly divided upon anything. The Government's supporters who were counting upon a majority of 30 to 40 last Saturday, now admit the Upper House may give the Government a reduced majority of around 20.

"You know me well enough," continued the Premier in his address, "not to classify me among those seeking subterfuge to evade responsibility. I have the sincerest desire to continue the work to which I have consecrated two years of my life. If I am successful in passing this message I will come before you also to ask you to ratify other measures recently passed by the Chamber of Deputies, of utmost importance to the country."

Return to Ranks.

In this the Premier referred to the fiscal measures now in the Lower House. "Nevertheless," he continued, "should you decide not to continue me in your confidence I shall come back among you and resume my place in the ranks with the feeling that I am leaving to my successors pledges that will facilitate their conversations with our Allies."

Try Taxi Driver For Injuring Passengers.

MONTREAL, Feb. 21 — According to the evidence here yesterday, J. Primeau, "who had much to drink" was driving a car containing four woman and a child at the rate of 40 miles an hour along St. Catharines St one of the principal thoroughfares of this city on December 6th. One of the party told him a side door of the car was swinging open, but he replied that it would be easier to get out.

The car struck a post and the child suffered a fractured skull, while the women all sustained serious injuries including concussion of the brain, broken knee, arms and noses, teeth knocked out, and injuries to the face.

PETERBORO COLLEGIATE ALUMNI

(Contributed.)

The first re-union dinner and dance of the newly formed Peterborough Collegiate Alumni Association was held Tuesday evening in the Carls-Rite Hotel, Toronto.

About forty graduates of the Collegiate were present and a most enjoyable evening was experienced by all those present.

The guests of honour were Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mr. D. Johnston, M.P.P., and Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, Principal of the Collegiate and honorary president of the Alumni Association.

Mr. B. Shelton, president of the Alumni Association, at the conclusion of the dinner, expressed his hope that the Association would grow and become a real factor in keeping old P.C.I. memories alive. Mr. Shelton then called for the toast to the King, which was responded to by the National Anthem.

Mr. C. Leggett then called for the toast to "The Collegiate," which was responded to by Mr. Kenner. Commencing with some humorous remarks about the present facilities of the Collegiate, he went on to tell how in three more years, 1927, the Peterborough C. I. would celebrate its one hundredth birthday. Over three thousand students had passed through the school during Mr. Kenner's term there. Mr. Kenner went on in a very inspiring manner to remind us that fifty-seven P.C.I. boys sleep over in France. Every heart in the room was deeply touched by the glowing tribute that their one-time Principal paid those who had given their lives for such principles that are upheld by the Peterborough C. I. Mr. Kenner emphasized 'service' as the keynote of life.

The toast "To Peterborough" was proposed by Miss Jean B. Elliot, vice-president of the Alumni Association. The toast was replied to by Mr. Bradburn, who told of some of the early history of the P.C.I. and who elaborated on the wonderful possibilities of a city like Peterborough. He deplored the fact that so many of our young people were leaving not only the city but the country and going elsewhere. He stated that the Provincial government was considering taking steps to prevent this "skimming of the cream" of the country.

After a few hearty yells the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and chatting over past happenings.

Some of those present were Misses J. B. Elliott, I. Baird, K. Anderson, V. Middleton, D. M. Clegg, E. Eastwood, M. A. M. Bailey, G. Conway, M. I. Harvey, M. Rae, M. Huff, Mrs. A. C. Conway, Mrs. (Col.) Cooper, Miss M. Connal, Mr. O. Robertson, C. Legget, B. Giroux, B. Shelton, C. White, A. Elliott, E. Burgess, G. Stevens, R. B. Cowan, A. A. Conway, E. B. Finlay, H. Bradburn, H. REV. ROBT. POGUE AT ST. CATHARINES

Conducted Anniversary Services and Gave a Lecture.

In St. Catharines on Sunday, Feb. 10th, Rev. Robert Pogue of St. Paul's church, conducted anniversary services in the First Presbyterian Church in St. Catharines. On the following Monday evening, Rev. Mr. Pogue gave a lecture on "Enthusiasm," which is referred to in the St. Catharines Standard in the following terms:

"The piece de resistance of the evening, was the lecture by Rev. Robert Pogue of Peterboro. Rev. Mr. Pogue chose for his subject, 'Enthusiasm,' and like the minister to whom he referred who preached a sermon on the devil, and was afterwards described by an admirer as 'full of his subject,' the speaker both on Monday evening and in his pulpit utterances on Sunday could well be described as full of his subject—enthusiasm. Mr. Pogue is an unusually gifted speaker, endowed with a rich fund of warm Irish humor and he held his delighted audience spell-bound as he delated on the virtue and value of enthusiasm, both in secular and sacred callings, and warned his hearers against some of the enemies that destroy it. The lecture was replete with effective illustrations and epigrammatic eloquence. 'Better zeal without knowledge than knowledge without zeal,' was his conviction. 'Name the great man that was not an enthusiast,' he challenged his audience, and from many diverse realms of achievement he drew telling illustrations of great men who were enthusiasts and by their enthusiasm had won their success."

"This is not Mr. Pogue's first visit to St. Catharines, and in the large audiences that greeted him on Sunday and on Monday evening the hope was expressed that it might not be his last.

"Rev. J. A. Pue-Gilchrist and Rev. J. H. Ratcliffe jointly officiated as chairmen for the evening."

CLAIMS TO HAVE MURDERED GIRLS

Strange Story of Man Held on Charge of Murdering Parents.

ST. PETERSBURG, Florida, Feb. 21. — Frank McDowell, 19 year old youth held in jail here for the murder of his mother and father on Tuesday night, has also confessed he had burned to death his two sisters, He was a child prodigy, having graduated from the George Washington University at Washington, when he was 16.

Although regarded by friends and neighbors as a "queer" boy he made an enviable record in the various schools that he attended.

His sisters, Williamsteen, 16, and Marion, 18, were burned, McDowell said in a signed confession, to atone for "blasphemy against the Holy Ghost," committed when he was 12 years old, and the murders of his mother and father were as sacrificial penance for killing the girls.

The deaths of the sisters had remained a mystery until McDowell's confession.

His original sin was committed on February 19th, the youth said, and every year as the date approached, his mind became hazy, and he believed his family to be aligned with "the Anti-Christ."

The girls were burned to death in their bedroom at Decatur, Ga., where the family then lived.

Placed between the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. McDowell, the authorities found a note typewritten on paper cut out in the form of a heart, containing the Lord's prayer, and excerpts of Bible phrases, which young McDowell told the officers were intended to refer to his three sins.

"It was the end of the first year of sin with me, and of mine sin when when I grieved the Spirit and now in the mouth of the father of the house of Satan do I offer up this prayer of mine; Heavenly Father write on the likeness of mine heart," the note read.

"It is the end of the second year of sin in me, and of mine sin before Thee, and likewise in watery sepulchres of Son of House of Anti-Christ shall mingle this prayer" was another phrase.

RUSSIA IS REAL STUMBLING BLOCK

Naval Conference is Not All Beer and Skittles

ROME, February 21 (British United Press Staff Correspondent, by Camillo Cianfarra). — The attitude of the delegates of Russia and of the smaller nations party to the International Naval Conference under the auspices of the League of Nations to-day proved the biggest obstacle to progress.

Concrete results conforming to the spirit and letter of the Washington conventions were in sight, but now the conference secretaries say, will not even issue a communique until something definite can be announced.

Argentine, Brazil, and Chili had expressed the intention of settling the question of naval tonnage in a way satisfactory to all parties when Vice-Admiral Berens, Soviet delegate, unexpectedly demanded for Russia an allotment of 400,000 tons.

In a lengthy speech, Admiral Berens said that while Russia theoretically was inclined to accept any reduction decided upon, she could not under the present circumstances relinquish the right to arm herself.

For two consecutive sessions influential delegates endeavoured to induce Admiral Berens to accept 110,000. They failed.

The attitude of Spain is also troublesome.

Rear-Admiral Magaz is demanding a considerable increase in tonnage, which the French delegates are strongly opposing.

While further efforts will be made to iron out these differences, a feeling of scepticism over the outcome of the conference apparent at the beginning has increased.

A balance of the countries remained non-committal awaiting final decision upon the matter of Russia's tonnage.

One delegate from a northern country remarked to the British United Press correspondent that instead of a conference on reduction of armaments the parley was turning out to be one for increase of armaments.

This delegate was inclined to blame Russia for what now appears to be a deadlock.

FRENCH EXCHANGE WILL BAR ALL FOREIGNERS

PARIS, Feb. 21.—(British United Press.)—President Millerand to-day signed a decree forbidding all foreigners to enter the stock exchange unless they are authorized to do so by the Ministry of Finance.

The purpose of the decree is presumbaly to check the promiscuous trading securities and exchanges by the speculators who would take an advantage of the weakened franc.

CONFUSION HEAPED ON WEATHER EXPERTS BY "OPEN" WINTER'S DRIFTS

PROF. COWELL ILL

CAMPBELLFORD, February 21. —Two or three local residents who, early in the season predicted an open winter, with very little snow, are now supposed to be in hiding. The storm of Tuesday night and yesterday is pronounced by old timers one of the worst in years, as not only the country roads but the railway as well were almost completely blockaded.

The train from Belleville due here at 9.46 arrived here behind time, and the train from Peterborough, scheduled to arrive at 1.33, was cancelled as the blockade was reported even worse in the Lindsay division.

The 1.33 train from Peterborough pulled into the depot one hour behind time, drawn by two engines that looked as if they had ploughed their way through snow banks as high as the tops of the smokestacks.

There was no Toronto mail received here at noon yesterday.

Division Superintendent McMillan, of Belleville, who telephoned early in the morning to different points to ascertain conditions along the line, reported the worst blockade for years, with snow ploughs and engines stuck everywhere.

Station officials at Agincourt, near Toronto, declared that the depot there was almost submerged.

Mail Carriers' Troubles.

The blocked roads interfered with the rural mail deliveries. Several of the carriers who started out in the morning were obliged to return, finding it impossible to get over their routes. The stage for Brighton did not leave until the afternoon, when Earl Williams, the driver, who also carries the rural mail over the Brighton Road, decided to make the attempt. Even if he does manage to reach his destination, he is not expected back until to-day.

One of the best rural mail carriers is George E. Hay, who rather than have his mail accumulate on his hands and disappoint those whom he serves, started from the local office about one o'clock, several hours after his regular hour for commencing his rounds.

Department Store Catalogues.

Four tons of catalogues from two department stores in Toronto arrived by express, and the books, all stamped and addressed, were distributed by the Post Office here.

Citizens Ill.

There will be no band concert on Sunday evening, owing to the illness of Bandmaster R. T. Cowell, who was overcome by heart trouble while playing the organ in the Methodist church Sunday morning.

W. G. Frazer is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Word has reached here that Dr. E. F. Richardson, who was in New York taking a special course, has been operated upon for appendicitis in a hospital in that city. He is reported as progressing favorably.

Temperance Mass Meeting.

There will be a temperance mass meeting in the Regent Theatre at 3.30 Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the Dominion Alliance. The speaker will be J. M. Connor, the well known temperance worker, and Ruthven McDonald, famous vocalist of Toronto, will sing. The chair will be occupied by Mayor A. J. Meyers.

Local temperance workers regard the attitude of the government at Toronto as other than friendly to the O.T.A. and they have determined that they will not be caught asleep at the swtich.

Life Snuffed Out.

Thomas Little, formerly a resident of Campbellford, expired as he sat in his chair while visiting at the home of Robert Thain in Rawdon township Tuesday afternoon. Heart failure is given as the cause of death.

The late Mr. Little for a number of years had resided at Morden, Man., but has fall he returned to Campbellford to spend the winter with friends. He went to Marmora recently to visit his sister, Mrs. William Knox, and on his way back to Campbellford, called at the home of Robert Thain, an old friend whom he had not seen for over 20 years. It was while the two were talking of former days that Mr. Little suddenly passed away. The remains were taken here and prepared for burial at the undertaking rooms of A. G. Watson and Company.

The late Mr. Little was 67 years old.

Mrs. Robert Fox, Mrs. James S. Hay, of Campbellford, and Mrs. Thomas Haig, of Seymour East, are sisters. One brother, David, lives at Blairton, and another resides in Minneapolis. A married daughter resides at Moose Jaw, and two sons are in the west.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2.30 to Mount Pleasant cemetery, from the residence of Mrs. James S. Hay.

When a button designating the floor in a building is pressed and a coin is dropped in a slot a new elevator automatically moves to the designated floor and stops there.

BLIZZARD WAS A TOUGH BIRD

It Will Take Ontario Several Days to Recover From Effects.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press). — King Winter dealt Ontario a staggering blow yesterday. A blinding 50 mile an hour blizzard swept the province from east to west, buried city and country under a 11 inch blanket of snow, piled up drifts of eight and ten feet, demoralized traffic on steam railways, obliterated the highways, isolated scores of towns and villages, cut off whole counties from communication with the outside world, and caused envious old timers to boast of good old stories. It was the worst storm in half a century according to many veterans.

At a late hour last night the western and central portions of province had more or less recovered from the effects of the blow, but the storm was then reported to be raging furiously at Smiths Falls and sweeping on toward Quebec and the Maritime provinces. Grey and Bruce counties were without train transportation all day yesterday while other north central districts were without passanger service until well on in the afternoon. Freight traffic on practically all branch lines was at a standstill all day.

North Bay and Parry Sound escaped the worst of the blow. Farther north the snow fall was light but Toronto and other lower lake cities were directly in the path of storm's fury. Here the street railway commission, after battling desperately with the elements during the early hours of yesterday morning, was able to carry only a small percentage of the usual traffic during the morning rush hour. The service on all the man travelled routes was re-established by noon but some of the suburban lines will not be in operation until this morning.

Movement of automobiles was possible only on the railway right of way and the snow plugged suburban streets were dotted with abandoned cars, hopelessly stalled in huge drifts.

Not since January 1911 has a snow fall over a 24-hour period been so heavy. Yesterday's gale left a 11-inch snow covering in its wake but that record according to the meteorological bureau was equalled 13 years ago. The record established on March 28th 1876 when the fall measured 16.2 inches still stands, and the older generation can recall that this was almost equalled no longer ago than December 5, 1898 when the tally showed 16 inches.

No single twenty-four-hour period has ever before beheld a more complete disorganization of railway service throughout the province. Not within the memory of the oldest employee have officials and men been called upon to perform such strenuous duties in a continuous battle with the raging elements.

PROFESSOR IN SUPREME COURT

OTTAWA, Feb. 20. —(Canadian Press).—The argument in the case of Morin versus Walter was continued before the Supreme Court of Canada to-day. Both appellant and respondent are professors in the Department of Modern Languages of McGill University Montreal, the appellant being the immediate superior of the respondent. Mr. Morin is taking action for $10,000 damages for slander.

Both parties involved in the case had summer homes in the county of L'Islet, and in 1920 the respondent had his house and sheds burned, his orchard injured and two of his dogs died. In the same year he received an anonymous, threatening letter. In August 1921 the respondent found that poison had been put in his well. Then the appellant learned that the respondent was accusing him to various persons as having been the author of all these crimes, and that the respondent (Mr. Walter) had written to the Attorney-General stating that if the appellant (Mr. Morin) should be arrested and he should be refused bail, as a criminal lunatic. The case will be continued before the Supreme Court.

OMAR MACKLEM IS AGAIN IN PRISON

Was Interested in the Return of Stolen Bonds

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The police last night restored to Mrs. Olive C. Waite, divorced wife of Archibald S. Waite, Cincinati financier, $100,000 in stocks which, with $7,000 in jewelry, had been stolen from her apartment in a local hotel February 9.

Three men, one of whom described himself as Colonel Omar Macklem, a former Canadian, were arrested. It was said Macklem's insistence to Mrs. Waite that he might be able to negotiate the return of the stocks led to their recovery.

CREAMERY FUND WRONGLY SPENT

Money Advanced to the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries By the Provincial Government Used For Capital Expenditure.

REGINA, February 21. — Declaring he would have statements to make at a later date, if given an opportunity, Prof. Archibald Leitch, the Ontario creamery expert, provided much of the sensational at yesterday's session of the investigation into the affairs of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries, before the select standing committee of the Legislature on Agriculture to-day.

The committee is now in possession of a definite statement that $192,000 of the money advanced to the company by the government for the trading account was transferred from the trading account to capital expenditure without the knowledge of the government. It has been told the company has lost approximately three tims as much on the general business as it did on the storage business, the department the company is seeking to have taken over by the government. In evidence it has been shown the reserve of $150,000 has been wiped out and the capital further impaired by $80,000. As against that alignment is the statement the company has improved its position within the past year.

Delving into the morass of the tangled affairs of the company under probe had revealed an alleged appalling lack of proper accounting system, recently remedied.

While the matter of the transfer of trading account money was only touched on in passing at this morning session it was stated it was practically impossible to find out when the transfers started. The company's bankers had been unable to supply accurate information on that score, and according to the Provincial Auditor, the company's own officials did not know.

PAID CAB HIRE WITH ORDER ON GOVERNMENT

"PIT PROP" CHEQUES.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Feb. 21. — (Canadian Press.) — Commissioner Walker is still investigating the disposal of the vote of a million and a half dollars spent during the years 1921 and 1922 on the relief of destitution in Newfoundland and applied to the main object by the cutting of pulpwood and pit props on Government account.

To-day the efforts of the Government counsel were devoted to the production of evidence to prove that Dr. Campbell, Minister of Agriculture and Mines during the period under review, charged up to pit props account expenses that were properly chargeable to his own personal account.

Pit Prop Cheques.

Cabman Bugden testified on the stand taht he had taken the Minister around the district of St. John's West during the last election campaign and that he was paid for his services with pit prop cheques issued at the Department under instructions from Dr. Campbell. He cashed one of the cheques for twenty one dollars at the General Post Office here. A member of the Opposition learned of the manner in which he received his payment and give him cash wherewith to buy back the cheque which was then handed over to the leader of the Opposition, who subsequently based charges in the House of Assembly on the transaction. Out of this cheque episode arose the general charges of extravagance aaginst Dr. Campbell, the full publication of the pit prop accounts and the agitation for a Royal Commission of Inquiry into allegations of utter extravagance or worse, on the part of the Minister of Agriculture and Mines in this connection.

Similar Cheque.

Cabman Cole, another of the witnesses, told the commission that on one occasion he conveyed Dr. Campbell to church and received a pit prop account cheque for his services. Questioned by counsel for the Minister as to the positiveness of his testimony re the nature of the cheque, Cole replied that at the time it was a by-word that all payments in connection with matters off the beaten track and handled by the Department of Ariculture and Mines were with "pit props" cheques, so he had examined the cheque given him with more than usual care and had discovered that it was indeed one of these notable and noteworthy scraps of paper.

WON A CHAMPIONSHIP.

OTTAWA, Feb. 21. — (Canadian Press).—By defeating New Edinburghs here last night by the score of 1 to 0, Montagnards won the amateur hockey championship of Ottawa. The game was one of the closest and most exciting seen here this year, the winning goal being scored with six minutes remaining to play in the third period. Montagnards will not enter the Allan Cup elimination series.

HASTINGS SHUT IN BY BLIZZARD

TREE CLIMBING FISH TAKEN FOR PICTURES

CHICAGO, Feb. 21. — (Canadian Press), — An expedition to take movies of tree-climbing fish of Malay Archipelago has been organized by former Mayor William Hale Thompson, George F. Harding, Eugene R. Pike and Robert H. Morse. A charter to the four as incorporators of the South Seas Research Company of Chicago was granted.

The primary object of the expedition is to obtain motion pictures of the heretofore unphotographed climbing perch. The secondary object is to conduct scientific explorations and research with money gains from the sale of the pictures. A specially constructed yacht will leave July 4th.

REGINA, Feb. 21.—The report of the Saskatchewan Liquor Commission for the year ending Dec. 31, 1923, issued here, shows that 83,164 prescriptions were issued by physicians of the province; 6,103 gallons of hard liquor, 2,011 gallons of wine and 6,081 cases of malt liquors were sold by the commission. Revenue collected on this amount was $20,386.72.

During the year 1,078 convictions for infractions of the Saskatchewan Temperance Act were obtained and fines imposed totalling $112,930.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odour, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% kerosene (coil oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him a to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

NOT LIKELY TO SUCCEED.

In view of the Budget figures and the tone of Hon. Mr. Price's speech, the municipalities of Ontario are wasting time in trying to convince the Ontario administraton that a portion of the money collected by the Province for motor licenses and from amusement taxes should be theirs.

Mr. Price expects the municipalities to co-operate in the Government's retrenchment programme by carrying their own burdens and by refraining from demands upon the Province

That being the case, it does not require a very vivid imagination to realize how a demand for a share of the revenue derived by the Province from these two sources will be received at Queen's Park.

No new taxation is to be imposed, and the Government hopes by exercising rigid economy to carry on on the revenue from the channels already in use.

That is a programme that deserves support and the municipalities in attempting to divert a portion of this revenue into their own treasury are not looking further than their respective boundaries.

In one sense, of course, there is a legitimate claim, from a municipal viewpoint, upon these revenues, but under the present financial conditions existing in Ontario the Examiner believes that the Government should be helped rather than hindered in putting into effect the programme of economy it has promised.

Later on perhaps the municipal side of the case can be successfully argued, but just now the Province should come first—if we are really sincere in urging that the spending of public money, except on essentials, be brought to an end.

EXEMPTING INSURANCE PREMIUMS.

A petition is being circulated in Peterborough as well as generally throughout Canada for ultimate presentation to the Federal Government asking that a reasonable amount of premiums paid for personal life insurance shall be exempt from taxable income.

There is much in this plea that deserves the consideration of the Government, and the reasons set forth in the petition are such as to command attention.

Life assurance is an effective and sure method by which men can accumulate an estate to provide for their maintenance in their old age.

If they live until they reach the sere and yellow leaf stage, they are saved from being charges on the public, and if they die before that time their insurance provides a fund that keeps their families from becoming a similar charge.

A tax on life insurance premiums is, therefore, a tax on a form of protection against poverty that should be encouraged.

This principle has been recognized in Great Britain, where the value of life insurance is attested to by the Government's action in allowing a deduction to be made from a taxpayer's taxable income up to one-sixth of his income if paid for premiums of personal life insurance.

The Canadian Government is being asked to amend the Income Tax Act so as to give holders of life insurance the same privilege as do policyholders in the British Isles.

STORM DRAINS.

The tentative estiates of the Board of Works for this year's operations have reached a total of $62,375, as against $48,600 last year.

The increase is large, representing another mill on the tax rate, and in view of the desire of the ratepayers for retrenchment the Council should be sure that there is nothing in the list that is not absolutely essential before giving final approval to the estimates.

One factor in materially increasing the proposed Works' expenditure is an estimate of $9,000 for storm drains.

That such drains are needed and would relieve sections of the city of a great deal of annoyance and inconvenience is a matter about which there is no argument.

At the same time it must be remembered that it is not very long since the ratepayers refused by a large vote to endorse a bylaw providing for the construction of storm drains.

And that was at a time when there were not so many persistent demands upon spending bodies to reduce expenditures.

If a similar bylaw were submitted at the present time there does not seem any doubt but that it would meet a like fate.

The Aldermen realize that storm drains are needed—in fact, that their construction should have been undertaken years ago, but in the face of this is the very evident fact that the people are opposed to any new expenditures.

Other estimates should be scrutinized very closely in an endeavour to trim off a sum large enough to provide the drainage work contemplated for this year without adding too much to last year's estimates.

An increase of nearly $14,000 is a hard morsel to swallow in a year when "economy" is the universal slogan.

ECONOMY BY PROXY.

Hon. W. H. Price in his Budget Speech on Tuesday touched upon the real lion in the path of all spending bodies when they resolve upon a policy of retrenchment.

"Most people when they discuss the expenditures of money affecting the Province generally," he said, "will acquiesce that certain grants of money should be cut down. When it comes, however, to their own particular locality they desire that the cutting should not take place there.

"Mr. Speaker, I want to say to honourable members of this House that if they view it in the right light—if they expect improvement in taxation—then they must be prepared to accept the cutting down of grants in their own ridings—they must be prepared to accept curtailing of expenditure on roads and other capital projects.

"It will not be sufficient to discuss economy in the abstract—it must be economy perceived."

Mr. Price is on sound ground here, for the whole question of Provincial economy hinges upon the point he has developed.

No Government can really retrench unless the private members fully co-operate in the endeavour, and unless the public generally assist their representatives by refraining from demanding the undertaking of projects that represent a further drain upon the Treasury.

The trouble is that every district is quite willing to have the Province retrench so long as the process does not involve any cutting down at home.

If their own section has all the road building it desires people are loud in their approval of eliminating a few roads down at the other end of the Province.

"Cut to the bone" is a popular slogan, but let the pruning knife begins its work and there is a chorus of protest from the particular section affected.

Most people believe in economy, but they believe it should be applied to somebody else, and until that frame of mind is overcome no Government is going to find the task of reducing expenditures a particularly desirable one.

THE OIL STAIN SPREADS.

The malodorous oil scandal which so dramatically bespattered Washington a few weeks ago seems at last to have seeped under the shroud of the late President Harding. Nothing could better illustrate the brutality of public life, in every land, than this surely needless cruelty to the bereaved. The exposure—if it proves to be an exposure and not merely a "dud"—was, it is only fair to note, launched by a financier and not by a politician. Yet the politicians must have long known the facts alleged; and they certainly did know and watched with apprehension the very close approach of the oozing filth to the innermost recesses of the Harding entourage. Daugherty was his personal agent and chosen henchman from Ohio, and Secretary Fall was his personal friend in the Cabinet.

The casualties among prominent aspirants for high office have already been considerable. McAdoo is the most conspicuous; for there can hardly be a doubt that his availability will not survive the sensational series of explosions which seem almost daily to detonate along the slimy trail. "Oil" is clearly going to be the issue of the campaign this year; and it would never do for the Democrats to spike their own guns by trying to run as a candidate an ex-hired man of the notorious Doheny.

President Coolidge is taking the only possible course in promising a relentless criminal prosecution of all guilty persons. The charge against him that he was virtually a member of the Harding Cabinet which approved the transfer of the naval reserve oil lands to these gamblers who boasted they would make fabulous millions out of them, has not as yet attracted any great interest. The American nation will be very slow to believe that Calvin Coolidge had any guilty knowledge of these transactions. It is a time when character counts. There is no more proof attaching to some other people who can hardly be described as in so secure a position.

The throwing of the Coolidge shield over Secretary of the Navy Denby is possibly more chivalrous than sagacious. It will become almost foolhardy if persisted in; for the accusation against Denby is not that he knew and knowingly participated, but that he lacked the intelligence to detect and prevent. His sin—to revert to the old McGreevy trial—is that he was "incapable," not "corrupt." But this is a very serious lack in a Cabinet Minister and especially in these testing times when the vultures who fatten on the carcass of political corruption and negligence seem to be unusually active.

The thing that will amaze and arouse the public is that the old king, Doheny, seems to have deemed it wise and to have been quite able to hire almost everybody of importance in sight without there being any very definite duties for them to perform. His huge retainer to McAdoo would have had a most suspicious look, even if there had been no previous upsetting of the "teapot." Why should an ex-Cabinet Minister—not especially prominent as a lawyer—get $25,000 a year for services which have not been described with any definiteness? Why should George Creel, the Wilson Government's publicity expert, have got $5,000? Why should other ex-Cabinet Ministers have got fat fees? Why is it that the President can hardly find a prominent lawyer to conduct the prosecution who does not smell of oil?

Where such immense profits are squeezed out of the public domain that fees of this colossal character and wide distribution can be paid, there is surely something else wrong than the mere manipulation of certain specific oil lands or the buying of a few silly or susceptible men. The American public should have kept all this oil wealth to lighten their heavy war taxes. And, by the same token, the Canadian public should stand on guard, too, and see that they get their full share of natural wealth hidden ages ago by a beneficent Providence beneath the soil of their country.

We should all arrange to do without our "Dohenys" and our deficits at the same time and by the same action.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Budgets often depend upon what method of bookkeeping is used. Nevertheless, there is not much in Mr. Price's figures that is comforting to the taxpayers of Ontario.

There isn't any payday for laboring under a delusion.

We have prosperity, but not enough of it to go around.

Hon. Mr. Price's $15,000,000 deficit and the blizzard hit Ontario about the same time, and the effect, to say the least, was striking.

Powerful as are the railways, every now and then Nature puts on a show to demonstrate how futile are man's efforts when the elements set out to do their worst.

Yesterday was one day in the year when Kipling's lines about "Our Lady of the Snows" were appropriate.

WANT A SANITY TRIAL FOR ADELARD DELORME

MONTREAL, Feb. 20.— (Canadian Press.)— One more effort to have Court of Kings' Bench postpone trial of the murder charge until a second "sanity trial" has been held, will be made by Gustave Monette, counsel for Adelard Tetrault, curator of the Delorme estate, when Rev. Adelard Delorme appears next Monday before Mr. Justice Martineau and jury.

The move will follow that made last June when the priest faced a murder charge on merits for the first time. The position taken by the estate cuartor and members of the Delorme family counsel is that before putting the Abbe on trial for his life the court should be sure beyond all doubt that he is sane enough to submit to that trial. They point to the fact that at a "sanity trial" of 1912 Delorme was declared insane and sent to an asylum after the evidence of six alienists had been heard. He is now out of the asylum they say, on the certificate of a single alienist.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 21.— It is estimated that there are fully 50 cars of cattle tied up by the storm and these are not likely to be delivered till tomorrow. Under the circumstances, it was natural to expect firm prices.

Some of the in-between cattle are selling 50 cents a cwt. higher than last week, but butchers generally are not more than 25 cents a cwt. The storm, however, cuts both ways, and the abattoirs are not too keen to buy, as their outward shipments are being held up, and Swifts have 500 heads still waiting to be killed. The exporters have taken 350 steers, 60 cows and heifers, and about 35 bulls for the three adys. The steers cost $7.25 to $8.15; cows, 5¼ to 9½ cents and bulls, 4 to 5 cents. For one choice heifers 8 cents a pound was paid.

This morning's sales took care of a lot of poor and medium cows at 3 to 4½ cents. There were very few choice butchers on sale. A few baby beeves sold fro $8 to $8.65 a cwt. Good handy weight butchers were about $6.75 to $7 and one 1200 lb. steer sold at $8.25. The market will be cleaned up of any good butchers today.

Any good calves had a ready market again with tops at 12½ to 13 cents, and good mediums 11 cents. The commoner calves went from 8 to 9 cents.

Lambs are strong. The first western shipments this season was sold on Tuesday afternoon at 16 cents a pound. These weighed 81 lbs. each, and the bunch totalled 400. They were shipped by Smith and Neilson, of Cardstone, Alta., and were sold to the four packers by W. H. Griffiths. Good Ontario ewes are 14½ to 15 cents, but these have more weight.

It was difficult to get a market on hogs today. Owing to the light run and the storm, sellers were sitting pat and the $7.50 a cwt. f.o.b. by the packers was for the time being ignored.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 21 (Canadian Press). — Increased selling both on the part of holders and from bear speculators weakened the wheat market yesterday despite a brisk transient upturn in the price of corn.

Liberal supplies of wheat in sight together with a dearth of buying had a nearish effect. At the finish wheat was unsettled, 1-8c to 5-8c net lower, May $1.10 1-8 to $1.10 1-8 to 1-4, and July $1.10 1-2, with corn at 3-8c to 33-4c decline, and oats unchanged to 1-8c off.

Provisions closed unchanged to 15c down.

An unusual circumstance was witnessed at the opening in the wheat pit. May delivery, which represents wheat grown in 1923, was selling at exactly the same price as July, which stands for the first supplies from the crop to be harvested in 1924. This identity of quotations was taken as showing notable indifference regarding the present demand situation.

As a consequence, selling pressure enlarged, especially on the May delivery. The fact that some houses were simultaneous sellers of May and buyers of July sent May soon to a discount under July and September as well, and this relation continued for the remainder of the day.

SAW GHOST OF IVAN IN KREMLIN PALACE?

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(United Press).—Newspapers here are printing a story sent through their Berlin correspondents, stating that the Soviet guards in the Kremlin are in a panic because the reproachful ghost of Ivan the Terrible, the first Czar (1530-1584), has been strolling around the old palace of the Czars, making harsh remarks about the Soviets. The Soviet authorities say that if anything has appeared, it is a counter revolutionary, who slipped into the Kremlin to terrify the city and town.

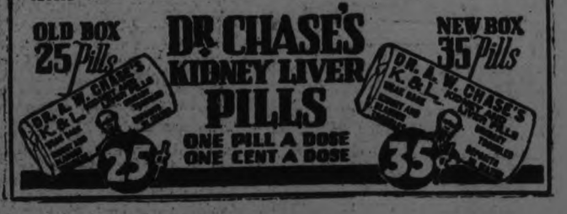
In Most Homes

In these days of sedentary habits it becomes necessary for nearly all the members of the family to use some treatment to arouse the sluggish liver and ensure regularity of the action of the bowels.

Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills can be depended upon to produce the desired results under all conditions they are the most popular of family regulators and are found in the great majority of homes as a safeguard against the scores of ailments which have their beginning in constipation, biliousness and a deranged digestive system.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has been increased to 35 cents, the box now contains 35 pills instead of 25 as formerly.

Likewise Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is 60 cents a box of 60 pills, instead of 50 cents a box of 50 pills. Edmanson, Bates & Co. Ltd., Toronto.



MILLBROOK MAN AT CONVENTION

Mr. W. E. Ball Returns From Inspirational Gathering of Associates.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21.—W. E. Ball has returned home after attending a two-day convention of the district representatives of the Massey-Harris Company in Toronto. A banquet was held on the second day of the gathering in the dining hall of the Massey-Harris building, at which, after a substantial menu had been served, addresses were delivered by leading officials of the company, including the chief inspector, H. Gaffney; the assistant branch manager, E. E. Fitzgerald; branch manager W. E. Greig; general manager, T. Bradshaw; director, J. G. Hossack; sales manager, C. L. Wisner, and others. The subject matter dealt chiefly with better methods of salesmanship, difficulties of the present market situation, suggested improvements, etc., the district representatives, who came from widely-separated areas, being listened to with close attention, as they also explained the obstacles met with and needs of experience in their various fields.

Nearly one hundred officials and local distributors attended the convention and banquet, and the company has issued an eight-page folder in connection with the gathering and the goods produced by the firm, with a large flashlight taken of the men in front of the building.

Mr. Ball, who is the popular President of the Millbrook Curling Club this season, and a successful business man in the district, is prominent in the row of those standing in the back row in the picture.

ON WAY TO CHAIR

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press).—John Farina was convicted this morning by jury of participating in robbery and murder of two Brooklyn Bank messengers for which two of his confederates, Joseph and Morris Barlow Diamond, have been convicted and are awaiting formal sentence to death.

BULLET HOLE IN WALL OF SHACK WAS ALTERED CROWN WITNESS AVERS

Constable Storey Causes Sensation in the Schell Murder Trial — Crown Witness Is Still Missing — Doctors Disagree As to Time of Death.

DEFENCE IS MUM..

Provincial Constable Hayston Storey created a furore in the trial of John Schell on an indictment charging the wilful murder of Georg Washington MacNeal in a Galway township hunting shack when he yesterday declared that some unknown had interfered with the bullet hole through the wall of the shack in such a way as to change the line of fire given by the hole. The startling statement that evidence had been tampered with was precipitated during cross-examination of Storey by C. G. Frost, representing the accused, and since Mr. Frost had been one of a party who visited the shack on the day previous to Constable Storey's second visit, he resented the implication that he felt might exist. Constable Storey assured him no accusation was levelled at him, but added that a knife had been used to change the direction of the hole so that it pointed down the side of the shack instead of into the corner near Schell's bunk as it originally did.

Provincial Constable W. H. Boyd of Haliburton corroborated Storey's statement in regard to tampering with the hole.

Mrs. Harry Hopkins, nee Lou. Schell, was still missing yesterday afternoon, and the court adjourned with only her evidence to be taken in the case for the crown. No inkling was given of the plea that will be entered by the defence, other than the cross-examination of crown witnesses by Mr. Frost in which he endeavoured to show the possibility of suicide. An element of mystery was introduced by his question to nearly every witness regarding the presence or not of meat in the shack. In his cross-examination of witnesses in the afternoon he also endeavored to throw doubt on a statement made by Roy MacNeal in evidence in chief in the forenoon, when the son of the deceased man said the coroner arrived at his home between ten and eleven o'clock on the Tuesday night. Dr. B. Johnston, who conducted a preliminary investigation as coroner of Victoria county, said he did not arrive there until midnight.

Continuing the examination of George Schell yesterday afternoon, Mr. Cunningham asked if the witness gave Constable Storey two shells from his home which were used for his father's rifle. The witness admitted he did.

Cross Examination.

Mr. Frost cross-examined the witness.

"Do you remember George MacNeal coming to live with his son Roy?"

"I do."

"How many times did MacNeal meet your father before going into the hunting camp?"

"Four or five. They seemed to get along well together."

"Why did you go in on Saturday, October 27?"

"To take in provisions and get the camp ready for the hunting season."

"On the way in when did it first come to your attention that the deceased was carrying a bottle of liquor?"

"When we stopped at Nogies Creek."

"Was any liquor consumed on the way in?"

"There was not. It was George MacNeal's liquor."

Only one drink was taken by the members of the party.

"Was there any meat in the camp belonging to your father?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"When did you first learn that George MacNeal was going to stay there that night?"

"George MacNeal said he would like to spend the night there, he didn't feel like walking out."

Kisses Son, Goodbye.

At the time of parting John Schell was peeling potatoes inside the shack when the young men and George MacNeal went outside. The senior MacNeal told Roy not to forget to come back. He shook hands with Roy and kissed him goodbye.

Next day on his way to the camp George Schell saw a man's footprints and the tracks of a dog.

"When you went into your fathers' room on Sunday night what condition was he in?"

"He appeared excited. He looked tired and haggard. He acted like a man who had been frightened."

Mr. Frost: "I want to impress that on the jury. Tell why you thought he looked frightened."

"He waved his hands some."

"He was not in a normal condition?"

"No."

At the Camp.

Shown a plan on which the blood stains were marked, the witness said the stains were nearer the bunk than indicated. In his opinion the marks on the plan were slightly wrong. On going in to bring out the body the two men had lunch in the shack before uncovering the body. Then Hopkins went to the feet and Schell to the head. When they lifted the body it sagged and blood spurted out. "We thought he had had a rupture," the witness said.

About 12 o'clock Dr. Johnston went to Schell's home and took George Schell to MacNeal's home.

"Did you notice that the top trousers button was open displaying a part of the stomach?"

"Yes, a couple of buttons were unfastened and I could see the spot where the blood was."

Whiskey Was Strong.

"When you tasted the whiskey was it strong?"

"It wasn't very weak."

"Was it hard to drink?"

"I didn't take enough to know. There was no other liquor that I know of."

"What kind of a man was your father when he had been drinking?"

"Very good natured, and musical."

"Your father is noted all over the country for his musical ability?"

"Yes."

"When you left the two men at the shack were they sober?"

"Yes."

"When you saw your father on Sunday night was he sober?"

"Yes."

The witness said he knew MacNeal was agreeable under the influence of liquor.

John A. Lambert of Galway township, who lives 4 miles from Schell's shanty was the next witness.

"Did you see Schell on Sunday October 28?"

"Yes. About 5 o'clock. He knocked at our door. He told me old Mr. MacNeal had died in the camp, of cramps."

William Hopkins of Sommerville township in Victoria county said the accused had told him of MacNeal dying during the night.

Hopkins went with George Schell to bring out the body and told of finding it in the locked shack.

Besides the blood that spurted from MacNeal's side when the two men picked him up there was blood on the floor under the body.

Nothing Unusual.

"Did you notice anything unusual before you saw this blood?"

"I saw the hole in his side just as I threw the cover back. The flesh was exposed to view through a dark hole. I thought it was a rupture. I never thought of him being shot. I didn't pay any particular attention to it. I never though that anything unusual had happened to him."

"Why wasn't the comforter brought that was over him?" "I dont' know. It was just left."

Mr. Frost, cross-examined. Hopkins said he brought home a cartridge belt and some uncooked potatoes from the shanty.

The position of the blood stains on the floor was doubted by this witness also.

Lyal MacNeal, a son of the victim of the tragedy, said he learned of his father's death about noon on Monday, and repeated substantially the story that John Schell told Roy MacNeal about the death of his father.

Under cross examination Lyal MacNeal said John Schell appeared agitated and complained of a fluttering. "He looked to me like a man who was worried."

"Like a man who had gone through a trying experience?"

"Yes."

No Suspicions Held.

Dr. B. Johnston, coroner of Victoria county, said he conducted the preliminary investigation into the death before finding that the tragedy had not been enacted in his territory. He was roused at 2.30 on Monday morning by Roy MacNeal, who informed him that there were no suspicions of foul play. On Tuesday, the coroner said, he went to MacNeal's home and examined the body. He found the upper button of the mans' trousers undone, and some of the clothing disarranged. It did not appear to have been forcibly disarranged.

After receiving a wound of that nature a man might live for an hour, but in Dr. Johnston's opinion he would be conscious for only a few minutes.

MacNeal's light undershirt, the witness said, was pinned around his abdomen in such a way as to suggest that it might have been to relieve pain or to stop a hemmorhage.

John Schell told Dr. Johnston that he had spent a hard night with MacNeal who had suffered from cramps. He had supported the suffering man all night, he said, and MacNeal died near daylight. Schelf waited until day break to start out for home but got wandered on the way and did not arrive until evening.

In cross-examination Mr. Frost asked "Would the fact of the trousers being open at the top convey anything to you?"

"No."

"Suppose he had been in pain, would he be likely to open the top button as relief?"

"It is possible."

"What reason do you assign for the undershirt being drawn down and pinned?"

"It might be there as a bandage for cramps or it might be to stop hemorrhage."

"Are you in a position to say that the shirt was over the wound or not?"

"Yes, it was."

"Could you see the wound? Are you positive the shirt covered it?"

Dr. Johnston, on considering, was not prepared to say that the undershirt covered the wound.

"Would it be your opinion that what George Schell saw when the fliud spurted from the wound would not have been possible had the shirt been pulled down over the wound?"

"Yes."

"Seeing what you saw, and knowing what you know, are you in a position to give an opinion as to the possible self-infliction of the wound?"

"It might have been self-inflicted accidentally."

Mr. Justice Mowat asked for an explanation of Dr. Johnston's expression "self-inflicted accidentally."

Dr. Johnston said the wound might have been caused while the deceased was drawing the rifle toward hm on a table if the trigger caught on something. He did not think a man would deliberately shoot himself in this part of his body.

The Post Mortem.

Dr. T. W. H. Young, who took the post mortem examination, indentified and acknowledged his report. All MacNeal's organs, he said, were normal, with the exception of an indication that the deceased had one time suffered from pleurisy. The wound showed that the bullet had entered on the right side, striking the illium or hip bone, and had passed through the body, being deflected upward as it left on the opposite side toward the rear. The hole in the skin at the point of entry was slightly above the injury to the bone, indicating that the victim was stooping in such a position as to bring the skin lower over the bone. The burns on the skin were, in Dr. Young's opinion, made after death by singeing of the clothes.

"What does the burned clothing indicate," crown prosecutor A. B. Cunningham asked.

"That if the wound were made by a rifle, the rifle was near enough so that the flame from the mouth of the muzzle set fire to the clothes. Death was about as instantaneous as you can get it. The damage done by the bullet was sufficient to cause death practically instantaneously. The burning of the body without blistering is an indication of quick death."

Mr. Justice Mowat: "How far would you say the muzzle of the rifle was from the man?"

"From a rough judgment I would say about 14 to 18 inches."

Mr. Cunningham: "Would it be possible for a man to shoot himself in this position?"

"Yes, it would be possible."

"Did you ever hear of one?"

"No. I don't think a man would commit suicide by shooting himself in this way."

No Evidence of Drink.

Mr. Frost in opening his cross-examination asked Dr. Young what degrees he held, but Mr. Justice Mowat objected.

Mr. Frost: "Did you find any evidence during the post mortem examination that the deceased had been drinking heavily?"

"No."

"If he had been drinking heavily would it have shown in the brain?"

"Yes, the brain would have shown congestion."

"If you opened up the brain of a man who had been drinking heavily and looked at it, what would it look like?"

"The small blood vessels would be much congested and the brain would look reddish."

"I notice according to the report of your post mortem examination the cause of death was shock?"

"Yes."

"What Dr. Johnston said about a man living some time after sustaining a wound of this character might be right, but in your opinion the immediate cause of death was shock?"

"Yes."

Dr. Young explained to Mr. Justice Mowat and later to the jury that a wound of the mag itude suffered by the deceased would cause such an outlet for the blood that he did not think any of the blood from the lower part of the body would get back to the man's heart.

Mr. Frost: "Would the shock which the body received possibly clear that congested condition of the brain before the man died?"

"It would have that tendency."

"Internal hemorrhage too would clear the brain?"

"Yes, it would act that way."

"Then the man may have been drinking heavily and yet there would be no indication in the organs you mention?"

"Not to such an extent as to show in his stomach or brain."

Dr. Young expressed the opinion that while the bullet may have been deflected upward while passing through the body the direction right or left was not changed.

Mr. Frost illustrated with the rifle the possibilities of committing suicide by shooting in the same location in which MacNeal was injured.

"Swamp whiskey might have befuddled the man's brain so that he did not think of shooting himself in the heart or head?" he suggested to Dr. Young.

"It might do anything."

Dr. C. H. Amys, who was associated with Dr. Young in the post mortem confirmed the report made by the previous witness. He judged MacNeal died instantaneously. The clothes were burned around the wound.

"I will go as far as to say unless a man was insane he would not commit suicide by shooting himself in this way," Dr. Amys said.

Mr. Frost, cross-examining Dr. Amys, asked how long it would take the flame to penetrate the clothes and reach the body. Dr. Amys could not say how long; it might be an imperceptibly short time or it might be five minutes.

Schell Did Not See Blood.

Provincial Constable Hayston Storey of Lindsay said he first heard of the death of George MacNeal on Tuesday.

A statement said to be voluntarily was made by the accused who was under arrest.

Constable Storey testified that he had warned the accused in the proper manner and had written the statement word for word, read it over and asked Schell to sign it, which he did.

The statement was witnessed by two provincial constables and by the chief of police at Bobcaygeon.

In the statement, which was read to the jury, Schell said he saw no signs of liquor in the shack and he and MacNeal were perfectly sober. He never shot a shot, he said, during the time they were in the camp. MacNeal seemed to be in perfect health until night when he was seized by cramps and groaned and shrieked all night. In the morning while Schell was getting breakfast ready, his statement says, MacNeal drew up a leg, shrieked, and died. "MacNeal was never out of my sight, and I heard no shots. I never saw no blood, although I rolled him twice."

Constable Storey said he went to the shack in Galway township and found two loaded shells and one empty cartridge in the bottom bunk in the north end of the cabin. It was pointed out to the jury on a plan of the shack that this bunk is at the other end of the shack from where the body was found, with a table and bench intervening.

The comforter mentioned in evidence given yesterday morning was found on the floor near the blood stains. There was no doubt the bullet had been fired from the inside of the shack. Looking through the bullet hole from the outside Constable Storey decided the bullet was rising at an angle of 15 degrees from the floor of the shack.

Mr. Frost asked insistently if Constable Storey was certain there were no other cartridges or shells in the bunk where he found those entered in evidence, and whether the constable had a light when he searched the bunk.

Mr. Frost: "Would you recognize the bullet hole if you saw it?"

"From my first visit I would."

"Why do you say that?"

"Because it had been interfered with after my first visit."

"Who, to your knowledge, had been there after your first visit and before your second visit?"

Constable Storey named Mr. Frost and his party.

"You dont' mean to insinuate that I tampered with the bullet hole?"

"Certainly not. But someone did."

"What had been done to it?"

"A knife had been used to change the direction so that the bullet hole pointed down the side of the shack instead of cornerwise as it did originally."

Mr. Frost produced a plank containing a bullet hole which he presented as the one in question. He declared the bullet would not pass through the hole, but Constable Storey said if it had the power behind it it would.

"When did you discover the bullet hole?"

"It was getting dark then?"

"Yes, just twilight."

Conflicting Statements.

Provincial Constable R. F. Davis of Peterobro said John Schell told him in proper form that he was at the spring for water when he heard two shots and rushed back to the shack. He looked through the window and saw MacNeal lying on the floor.

Statement Retracted.

Provincial Constable W. H. Boyd of Haliburton indentified the written statement made by Schell and witnessed by him.

Next morning Schell made another statement when Schell seemed to want to talk. No inducement was held out or threats used and his Lordship allowed the verbal statement to be given.

"He said the statement he had given the day before was wrong and McNeal had chased him out of the shack several times during the night," Boyd said. He was at the spring next day when he heard three shots and then a fourth. He found MacNeal squatting at the stove with the rifle across his knees. He gave a screech and fell over dead.

Schell said he was behind a shrub watching MacNeal.

Constable Boyd said the bullet hole produced by the defense was not in the condition it was when he saw it when the plank was part of the shack. The hole seemed to be larger and cleaned out.

Mr. Frost: "Is the only difference that the bullet hole has been cleaned out?"

This closed the case for the prosecution with the exception of the evidence from Mrs. Hopkins, missing.

let hole?"

"Five minutes after getting there."

"How long did you take in examining it?"

"I examined it all around, inside and outside."

Mothers know a dose of
DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE
SYRUP PEPSIN
Will keep them fit

'First Aid' For Sick Children

THE experienced mother is not alarmed when a child becomes sick. She knows that most of the ailments of childhood are trifling. If it seems serious she calls a doctor, but whether or not she calls him, she gives, first of all, a good laxative medicine. The doctor would advise that anyway. It is his "first aid." Such experienced mothers as Mrs. G. R. Paquette, Pierreville, Que., and Mrs. J. F. Beale, 325 Johnson Av., Winnipeg, always give Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at the first indication of sickness. Such timely doses have saved them much worry.

The Meaning of "Good"

All doctors agree that a thorough cleaning out of the bowels is of first importance for it removes dangerous intestinal poisons. They will also advise a "good laxative," and by "good" they mean one that is effective and yet harmless. They know that there are physics that never should be given to children — calomel, which is mercury and loosens the teeth; phenolphthalein, a coal-tar drug that causes skin trouble; salts, which concentrate the blood and dry up the saliva. They consider Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin safe for all ages as they know it is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. The formula is on the package.

Give Laxative for Colds

Adults should have at least one movement of the bowels every 24 hours, and children two or three. Failure to have it means constipation, then headache, biliousness, drowsiness, lack of appetite. Give a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at bedtime, and there will be health and good feeling by morning. A dose costs less than a cent, and a bottle can be had at any drug store. Colds and constipation come together, so if you notice coughing or sneezing stop it at once with Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

Many Social Events in the District — Baby Recovers.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Larmer, 7th Line, Cavan, were host and hostess for a delightful social event recently, a number of guests from Millbrook and vicinity being entertained for the evening in their home.

Through the kindness of Mr. Melville Ball, a sleighload of those going from here and the Fallis Line, were safely conveyed to their destination. A contest, cleverly arranged, was heartily entered into. Miss May Byam winning the prize—a large box of chocolates which was generously shared with other less fortunate, but cheerful, competitors. Round and square dances for which excellent music was furnished by the Byam family orchestra, with card games for those who preferred this form of entertainment, made the evening pass all too quickly. A dainty and satisfying supper was served about midnight, though this by no means closed the evening's pleasure, dancing and other congenial amusements being resumed for some time thereafter.

A hearty vote of thanks to host and hostess for their generous hospitality was unanimously extended, and suitable reply made, before the guests left for home. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Byam, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Elson, Mrs. W. E. and Miss Thelma Ball, Mr. and Mrs. O. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Fee, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McKnight, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dawson, Miss Florence Fallis, Miss C. Hunter, Miss E. Elson, Miss Ethel McKnight, Miss May Byam, Messrs. Eric Hunter, Archie Johnston, Lloyd Byam, Reg. Fallis, Melville Ball, W. Byam and others.

Baby Recovers

Mrs. Howard Lunn, returned from he Nicholls' hospital, Peterboro, on Saturday, having been obliged to take her three weeks' old baby boy there for treatment owing to the peculiar accident which had befallen the little one last Thursday. While Mrs. Lunn was bathing and dressing the baby a small safety-pin, from the front of the mother's dress, dropped into the child's mouth as the latter was crying, finally lodging in the stomach. Under skilful treatment the pin was safely removed on Saturday morning and the baby is now doing well, apparently none the worse for the accident.

R. J. Harding Death

Died—In Millbrook, on Friday, February 15th, 1924, Mr. Robert J. Harding, in his 81st year. The funeral took place from the residence of his niece, Miss L. Burton, on Monday, February 18th, at 1.30 p.m. Interment in Gardiner's cemetery. Two half-brothers, Messrs. A. Payne, Millbrook, and G. Payne, Lindsay, and one step-sister, Mrs. J. W. Walsh, at present in Vancouver, B.C., are the immediate survivors. Rev. Canon Allen had charge of the services at the house and graveside.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Will Payne, W. Tremaine, H. W. Johnston, George Payne, J. L. McCamus and G. A. Fair.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Jos. Porter, of Lakefield, a niece of the deceased, and Messrs. G. B. Walsh, A. Payne, G. Payne, of Toronto, W. Payne, of Lindsay, nephews.

Is Recovering

Miss Nellie Finnimore's many friends will be glad to learn that she is recovering satisfactorily from the painful accident met with last week when she fell in the hallway at Dr. H. A. Turner's private hospital, striking her face against the sharp corner of a table and breaking the cheek bone. Though her face is still badly bruised the bone is knitting and the effects from the accident are gradually wearing off.

Colonel A. E. and Mrs. Earchman, of Carleton Place, were recent visitors at the home of her sister, Miss Essie Hutchinson, Cavan. The former made a brief stay, leaving for Ottawa on a business trip. Mrs. Earchman returning home the last of the week.

Contest in Young People's League—Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21—The end of the contest between the two sides of the Young People's League of the Methodist church was recorded Monday night. The Lions won in points. The evening was spent very pleasantly. The Lions furnished the programme, which was a good one, as follows: Opening hymn and prayer and then Mr. T. Craighead, who was chairman of the first part announced the numbers; reading, Miss W. Phillips; vocal solo, Mrs. E. Bates; autoharp solo, Master Arnold Bates, with an encore.; Reading, Miss H. Potts; instrumental solo, Mr. Lucy. The Rev. W. Elliott, who was the chairman of the second part, gave an very interesting talk about what he did Monday afternoon. He visited Mrs. Minerva Benedict, who is one hundred years old and gave some incidents in her life which were of interest. Then the rest of the programme was given: Solo, Miss Cherrie Turner, with an encore; solo, Master Kenneth Collison.

Two young ladies (Misses Ruth Taylor and Myrtle Ford) dressed as valentine clowns and gave some instrumental music on "buzzoos," and entertained the audience with funny riddles and jokes and two valentine recitations.

The young people were then divided into sides and each one given a lozenge with Valentine verses on them. The one side read one and the other replied with one, causing much merriment among the young folks. At the end of the program the "Eagles" served refreshments and all the Lions were fed first and waited upon by the "Eagles." A most enjoyable evening was spent.

Mr. W. G. Frazer is very ill at his home near the station and little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Rev. G. A. Brown, of Barrie, a former pastor of St. Andrew's church here, has accepted a call to one of the Kingston churches.

Mrs. McClaren and daughter, Miss Peggie Dawson, are spending a days with Mrs. James Dickson, Bridge street.

Mrs. W. Dickey and Mr. Dick Scott have returned from their visit to Montreal and will remain in town with Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Phillips for a time before going to their home in the West.

Mr. Percy Johnston and his sister, Miss Jennie Johnston, who were visiting their brother in Peterboro, returned to their home on Queen street, Tuesday afternoon.

The girls hockey team from Lakefield and the local team were entertained at the home of Miss Eleanor Ferris on Tuesday night, after the game here. A pleasant evening was spent with music and dancing and then the hostess served a dainty lunch to all.

Born—In Campbellford, on February 17th, 1924, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rodgers, Sebastapool street a daughter.

Mrs. G. A. Payne, Frank street, received word on Friday of the death of her brother, Charles L. Harris, of Janesville, Wisconsin. Mrs. Payne is the sole survivor of the family.

FRANCE PLANS HEAVY TAX FOR AMERICAN GUESTS

PARIS, Feb. 21.—(United Press).—Following the old German system—"make the foreigner pay"—is now the sentiment of a large section of the French press, and people in face of the falling franc, and this has inspired a new bill providing special taxation for foreigners. It is aimed at foreigners enjoying a high rate of exchange, chiefly English and Americans.

The bill has been drawn up by Deputies Meunier, Gallois and Bosquette, and will be submitted to the French Parliament soon. It provides that all managers or owners of hotels, boarding and rooming houses are required to add a surtax of 20 per cent., which is to go to the state, to the bills of foreign customers, with the exception of Belgian citizens.

In the case of citizens of former allies of France whose exchange is not high, and also in the case of employees of French firms, exceptions would be made

It is expected that this measure, which resupposed that the low figure is due chiefly to speculation by foreigners, will add two billion francs to the annual receipts of the state.

BERLIN WANTS JAPANESE MUSIC

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—(Associated Press).—Berlin lovers of music recently listened to a programme of western music played by a German orchestra under the leadership of H. Konoye, a Japanese conductor. He was a distinct success, and the novelty will be repeated. The Japanese now is being asked to render the music of his native land.

Experience is, after all, the best teacher.

MONTHS ago when many women, eager to follow fickle fashion's decree, discarded corsets and took to the girdle and the wrap-around, the remark was sometimes made: "I'll never wear a corset again", in the false belief that the essential support of a proper corset, to which the figure had been accustomed, could be abandoned without serious results either in appearance or health.

The need of proper support

Time, has however, corrected this false impression. These same women are now coming into Corset Departments asking to be fitted with corsets that properly support the figure and protect the vital abdominal organs from strain and from possible misplacement.

Thousands of women are thus now convinced of the necessity of adequate corsetting, not only as a prime essential in the preservation of health, but also as a most important factor in the accomplishment of a perfect appearance.

A style to suit every type of figure

Women now appreciate, more so than ever, the many superior features of the Nemo Corset. Among the many models and styles available there is a Nemo Corset that meets exactly the individual requirements of your figure. BULLET HOLE IN WALL OF SHACK WAS ALTERED CROWN WITNESS AVERS

Constable Storey Causes Sensation in the Schell Murder Trial — Crown Witness Is Still Missing — Doctors Disagree As to Time of Death.

DEFENCE IS MUM..

Provincial Constable Hayston Storey created a furore in the trial of John Schell on an indictment charging the wilful murder of Georg Washington MacNeal in a Galway township hunting shack when he yesterday declared that some unknown had interfered with the bullet hole through the wall of the shack in such a way as to change the line of fire given by the hole. The startling statement that evidence had been tampered with was precipitated during cross-examination of Storey by C. G. Frost, representing the accused, and since Mr. Frost had been one of a party who visited the shack on the day previous to Constable Storey's second visit, he resented the implication that he felt might exist. Constable Storey assured him no accusation was levelled at him, but added that a knife had been used to change the direction of the hole so that it pointed down the side of the shack instead of into the corner near Schell's bunk as it originally did.

Provincial Constable W. H. Boyd of Haliburton corroborated Storey's statement in regard to tampering with the hole.

Mrs. Harry Hopkins, nee Lou Schell, was still missing yesterday afternoon, and the court adjourned with only her evidence to be taken in the case for the crown. No inkling was given of the plea that will be entered by the defence, other than the cross-examination of crown witnesses by Mr. Frost in which he endeavoured to show the possibility of suicide. An element of mystery was introduced by his question to nearly every witness regarding the presence or not of meat in the shack. In his cross-examination of witnesses in the afternoon he also endeavored to throw doubt on a statement made by Roy MacNeal in evidence in chief in the forenoon, when the son of the deceased man said the coroner arrived at his home between ten and eleven o'clock on the Tuesday night. Dr. B. Johnston, who conducted a preliminary investigation as coroner of Victoria county, said he did not arrive there until midnight.

Continuing the examination of George Schell yesterday afternoon, Mr. Cunningham asked if the witness gave Constable Storey two shells from his home which were used for his father's rifle. The witness admitted he did.

Cross Examination.

Mr. Frost cross-examined the witness.

"Do you remember George MacNeal coming to live with his son Roy?"

"I do."

"How many times did MacNeal meet your father before going into the hunting camp?"

"Four or five. They seemed to get along well together."

"Why did you go in on Saturday, October 27?"

"To take in provisions and get the camp ready for the hunting season."

"On the way in when did it first come to your attention that the deceased was carrying a bottle of liquor?"

"When we stopped at Nogies Creek."

"Was any liquor consumed on the way in?"

"There was not. It was George MacNeal's liquor."

Only one drink was taken by the members of the party.

"Was there any meat in the camp belonging to your father?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"When did you first learn that George MacNeal was going to stay there that night?"

"George MacNeal said he would like to spend the night there, he didn't feel like walking out."

Kisses Son, Goodbye.

At the time of parting John Schell was peeling potatoes inside the shack when the young men and George MacNeal went outside. The senior MacNeal told Roy not to forget to come back. He shook hands with Roy and kissed him goodbye.

Next day on his way to the camp George Schell saw a man's footprints and the tracks of a dog.

"When you went into your fathers' room on Sunday night what condition was he in?"

"He appeared excited. He looked tired and haggard. He acted like a man who had been frightened."

Mr. Frost: "I want to impress that on the jury. Tell why you thought he looked frightened."

"He waved his hands some."

"He was not in a normal condition?"

"No."

At the Camp.

Shown a plan on which the blood stains were marked, the witness said the stains were nearer the bunk than indicated. In his opinion the marks on the plan were slightly wrong. On going in to bring out the body the two men had lunch in the shack before uncovering the body. Then Hopkins went to the feet and Schell to the head. When they lifted the body it sagged and blood spurted out. "We thought he had had a rupture," the witness said.

About 12 o'clock Dr. Johnston went to Schell's home and took George Schell to MacNeal's home.

"Did you notice that the top trousers button was open displaying a part of the stomach?"

"Yes, a couple of buttons were unfastened and I could see the spot where the blood was."

Whiskey Was Strong.

"When you tasted the whiskey was it strong?"

"It wasn't very weak."

"Was it hard to drink?"

"I didn't take enough to know. There was no other liquor that I know of."

"What kind of a man was your father when he had been drinking?"

"Very good natured, and musical."

"Your father is noted all over the country for his musical ability?"

"Yes."

"When you left the two men at the shack were they sober?"

"Yes."

"When you saw your father on Sunday night was he sober?"

"Yes."

The witness said he knew MacNeal was agreeable under the influence of liquor.

John A. Lambert of Galway township, who lives 4 miles from Schell's shanty was the next witness.

"Did you see Schell on Sunday October 28?"

"Yes. About 5 o'clock. He knocked at our door. He told me old Mr. MacNeal had died in the camp, of cramps."

William Hopkins of Sommerville township in Victoria county said the accused had told him of MacNeal dying during the night.

Hopkins went with George Schell to bring out the body and told of finding it in the locked shack.

Besides the blood that spurted from MacNeal's side when the two men picked him up there was blood on the floor under the body.

Nothing Unusual.

"Did you notice anything unusual before you saw this blood?"

"I saw the hole in his side just as I threw the cover back. The flesh was exposed to view through a dark hole. I thought it was a rupture. I never thought of him being shot. I didn't pay any particular attention to it. I never though that anything unusual had happened to him."

"Why wasn't the comforter brought that was over him?" "I dont' know. It was just left."

Mr. Frost, cross-examined. Hopkins said he brought home a cartridge belt and some uncooked potatoes from the shanty.

The position of the blood stains on the floor was doubted by this witness also.

Lyal MacNeal, a son of the victim of the tragedy, said he learned of his father's death about noon on Monday and repeated substantially the story that John Schell told Roy MacNeal about the death of his father.

Under cross examination Lyal MacNeal said John Schell appeared agitated and complained of a fluttering. "He looked to me like a man who was worried."

"Like a man who had gone through a trying experience?"

"Yes."

No Suspicions Held.

Dr. B. Johnston, coroner of Victoria county, said he conducted the preliminary investigation into the death before finding that the tragedy had not been enacted in his territory. He was roused at 2.30 on Monday morning by Roy MacNeal, who informed him that there were no suspicions of foul play. On Tuesday, the coroner said, he went to MacNeal's home and examined the body. He found the upper button of the mans' trousers undone, and some of the clothing disarranged. It did not appear to have been forcibly disarranged.

After receiving a wound of that nature a man might live for an hour, but in Dr. Johnston's opinion he would be conscious for only a few minutes.

MacNeal's light undershirt, the witness said, was pinned around his abdomen in such a way as to suggest that it might have been to relieve pain or to stop a hemmorhage.

John Schell told Dr. Johnston that he had spent a hard night with MacNeal who had suffered from cramps. He had supported the suffering man all night, he said, and MacNeal died near daylight. Schell waited until day break to start out for home but got wandered on the way and did not arrive until evening.

In cross-examination Mr. Frost asked "Would the fact of the trousers being open at the top convey anything to you?"

"No."

"Suppose he had been in pain, would he be likely to open the top button as relief?"

"It is possible."

"What reason do you assign for the undershirt being drawn down and pinned?"

"It might be there as a bandage for cramps or it might be to stop hemorrhage."

"Are you in a position to say that the shirt was over the wound or not?"

"Yes, it was."

"Could you see the wound? Are you positive the shirt covered it?"

Dr. Johnston, on considering, was not prepared to say that the undershirt covered the wound.

"Would it be your opinion that what George Schell saw when the fliud spurted from the wound would not have been possible had the shirt been pulled down over the wound?"

"Yes."

"Seeing what you saw, and knowing what you know, are you in a position to give an opinion as to the possible self-infliction of the wound?"

"It might have been self-inflicted accidentally."

Mr. Justice Mowat asked for an explanation of Dr. Johnston's expression "self-inflicted accidentally."

Dr. Johnston said the wound might have been caused while the deceased was drawing the rifle toward hm on a table if the trigger caught on something. He did not think a man would deliberately shoot himself in this part of his body.

The Post Mortem.

Dr. T. W. H. Young, who took the post mortem examination, indentified and acknowledged his report. All MacNeal's organs, he said, were normal, with the exception of an indication that the deceased had one time suffered from pleurisy. The wound showed that the bullet had entered on the right side, striking the illium or hip bone, and had passed through the body, being deflected upward as it left on the opposite side toward the rear. The hole in the skin at the point of entry was slightly above the injury to the bone, indicating that the victim was stooping in such a position as to bring the skin lower over the bone. The burns on the skin were, in Dr. Young's opinion, made after death by singeing of the clothes.

"What does the burned clothing indicate," crown prosecutor A. B. Cunningham asked.

"That if the wound were made by a rifle, the rifle was near enough so that the flame from the mouth of the muzzle set fire to the clothes. Death was about as instantaneous as you can get it. The damage done by the bullet was sufficient to cause death practically instantaneously. The burning of the body without blistering is an indication of quick death."

Mr. Justice Mowat: "How far would you say the muzzle of the rifle was from the man?"

"From a rough judgment I would say about 14 to 18 inches."

Mr. Cunningham: "Would it be possible for a man to shoot himself in this position?"

"Yes, it would be possible."

"Did you ever hear of one?"

"No. I don't think a man would commit suicide by shooting himself in this way."

No Evidence of Drink.

Mr. Frost in opening his cross-examination asked Dr. Young what degrees he held, but Mr. Justice Mowat objected.

Mr. Frost: "Did you find any evidence during the post mortem examination that the deceased had been drinking heavily?"

"No."

"If he had been drinking heavily would it have shown in the brain?"

"Yes, the brain would have shown congestion."

"If you opened up the brain of a man who had been drinking heavily and looked at it, what would it look like?"

"I notice according to the report of your post mortem examination the cause of death was shock?"

"Yes."

"What Dr. Johnston said about a man living some time after sustaining a wound of this character might be right, but in your opinion the immediate cause of death was shock?"

"Yes."

Dr. Young explained to Mr. Justice Mowat and later to the jury that a wound of the magnitude suffered by the deceased would cause such an outlet for the blood that he did not think any of the blood from the lower part of the body would get back to the man's heart.

Mr. Frost: "Would the shock which the body received possibly clear that congested condition of the brain before the man died?"

"It would have that tendency."

"Internal hemorrhage too would clear the brain?"

"Yes, it would act that way."

"Then the man may have been drinking heavily and yet there would be no indication in the organs you mention?"

"Not to such an extent as to show in his stomach or brain."

Dr. Young expressed the opinion that while the bullet may have been deflected upward while passing through the body the direction right or left was not changed.

Mr. Frost illustrated with the rifle the possibilities of committing suicide by shooting in the same location in which MacNeal was injured.

"Swamp whiskey might have befuddled the man's brain so that he did not think of shooting himself in the heart or head?" he suggested to Dr. Young.

"It might do anything."

Dr. C. H. Amys, who was associated with Dr. Young in the post mortem confirmed the report made by the previous witness. He judged MacNeal died instantaneously. The clothes were burned around the wound.

"I will go as far as to say unless a man was insane he would not commit suicide by shooting himself in this way," Dr. Amys said.

Mr. Frost, cross-examining Dr. Amys, asked how long it would take the flame to penetrate the clothes and reach the body. Dr. Amys could not say how long; it might be an imperceptibly short time or it might be five minutes.

Schell Did Not See Blood.

Provincial Constable Hayston Storey of Lindsay said he first heard of the death of George MacNeal on Tuesday.

A statement said to be voluntarily was made by the accused who was under arrest.

Constable Storey testified that he had warned the accused in the proper manner and had written the statement word for word, read it over and asked Schell to sign it, which he did.

The statement was witnessed by two provincial constables and by the chief of police at Bobcaygeon.

In the statement, which was read to the jury, Schell said he saw no signs of liquor in the shack and he and MacNeal were perfectly sober. He never shot a shot, he said, during the time they were in the camp. MacNeal seemed to be in perfect health until night when he was seized by cramps and groaned and shrieked all night. In the morning while Schell was getting breakfast ready, his statement says, MacNeal drew up a leg, shrieked, and died. "NacNeal was never out of my sight, and I heard no shots. I never saw no blood, although I rolled him twice."

Constable Storey said he went to the shack in Galway township and found two loaded shells and one empty cartridge in the bottom bunk in the north end of the cabin. It was pointed out to the jury on a plan of the shack that this bunk is at the other end of the shack from where the body was found, with a table and bench intervening.

The comforter mentioned in evidence given yesterday morning was found on the floor near the blood stains. There was no doubt the bullet had been fired from the inside of the shack. Looking through the bullet hole from the outside Constable Storey decided the bullet was rising at an angle of 15 degrees from the floor of the shack.

Mr. Frost asked insistently if Constable Storey was certain there were no other cartridges or shells in the bunk where he found those entered in evidence, and whether the constable had a light when he searched the bunk.

Mr. Frost: "Would you recognize the bullet hole if you saw it?"

"From my first visit I would."

"Why do you say that?"

"Because it had been interfered with after my first visit."

"Who, to your knowledge, had been there after your first visit and before your second visit?"

Constable Storey named Mr. Frost and his party.

"You dont' mean to insinuate that I tampered with the bullet hole?"

"Certainly not. But someone did."

"What had been done to it?"

"A knife had been used to change the direction so that the bullet hole pointed down the side of the shack instead of cornerwise as it did originally."

Mr. Frost produced a plank containing a bullet hole which he presented as the one in question. He declared the bullet would not pass through the hole, but Constable Storey said if it had the power behind it it would.

"When did you discover the bullet hole?"

"It was getting dark then?"

"Yes, just twilight."

Conflicting Statements.

Provincial Constable R. F. Davis of Peterobro said John Schell told him in proper form that he was at the spring for water when he heard two shots and rushed back to the shack. He looked through the window and saw MacNeal lying on the floor.

Statement Retracted.

Provincial Constable W. H. Boyd of Haliburton indentified the written statement made by Schell and witnessed by him.

Next morning Schell made another statement when Schell seemed to want to talk. No inducement was held out or threats used and his Lordship allowed the verbal statement to be given.

"He said the statement he had given the day before was wrong and McNeal had chased him out of the shack several times during the night," Boyd said. He was at the spring next day when he heard three shots and then a fourth. He found MacNeal squatting at the stove with the rifle across his knees. He gave a screech and fell over dead.

Schell said he was behind a shrub watching MacNeal.

Constable Boyd said the bullet hole produced by the defense was not in the condition it was when he saw it when the plank was part of the shack. The hole seemed to be larger and cleaned out.

Mr. Frost: "Is the only difference that the bullet hole has been cleaned out?"

This closed the case for the prosecution with the exception of the evidence from Mrs. Hopkins, missing.

let hole?"

"Five minutes after getting there."

"How long did you take in examining it?"

"I examined it all around, inside and outside."

DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE
SYRUP PEPSIN
Will keep them fit

'First Aid' For Sick Children

THE experienced mother is not alarmed when a child becomes sick. She knows that most of the ailments of childhood are trifling. If it seems serious she calls a doctor, but whether or not she calls him, she gives, first of all, a good laxative medicine. The doctor would advise that anyway. It is his "first aid." Such experienced mothers as Mrs. G. R. Paquette, Pierreville, Que., and Mrs. J. F. Beale, 325 Johnson Av., Winnipeg, always give Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at the first indication of sickness. Such timely doses have saved them much worry.

The Meaning of "Good"

All doctors agree that a thorough cleaning out of the bowels is of first importance for it removes dangerous intestinal poisons. They will also advise a "good laxative," and by "good" they mean one that is effective and yet harmless. They know that there are physics that never should be given to children — calomel, which is mercury and loosens the teeth; phenolphthalein, a coal-tar drug that causes skin trouble; salts, which concentrate the blood and dry up the saliva. They consider Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin safe for all ages as they know it is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and agreeable aromatics. The formula is on the package.

Give Laxative for Colds

Adults should have at least one movement of the bowels every 24 hours, and children two or three. Failure to have it means constipation, then headache, biliousness, drowsiness, lack of appetite. Give a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at bedtime, and there will be health and good feeling by morning. A dose costs less than a cent, and a bottle can be had at any drug store. Colds and constipation come together, so if you notice coughing or sneezing stop it at once with Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

Many Social Events in the District — Baby Recovers.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Larmer, 7th Line, Cavan, were host and hostess for a delightful social event recently, a number of guests from Millbrook and vicinity being entertained for the evening in their home.

Through the kindness of Mr. Melville Ball, a sleighload of those going from here and the Fallis Line, were safely conveyed to their destination. A contest, cleverly arranged, was heartily entered into, Miss May Byam winning the prize—a large box of chocolates which was generously shared with other less fortunate, but cheerful, competitors. Round and square dances for which excellent music was furnished by the Byam family orchestra, with card games for those who preferred this form of entertainment, made the evening pass all too quickly. A dainty and satisfying supper was served about midnight, though this by no means closed the evening's pleasure, dancing and other congenial amusements being resumed for some time thereafter.

A hearty vote of thanks to host and hostess for their generous hospitality was unanimously extended, and suitable reply made, before the guests left for home. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Byam, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Elson, Mrs. W. E. and Miss Thelma Ball, Mr. and Mrs. O. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Fee, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McKnight, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dawson, Miss Florence Fallis, Miss C. Hunter, Miss E. Elson, Miss Ethel McKnight, Miss May Byam, Messrs. Eric Hunter, Archie Johnston, Lloyd Byam, Reg. Fallis, Melville Ball, W. Byam and others.

Baby Recovers

Mrs. Howard Lunn, returned from he Nicholls' hospital, Peterboro, on Saturday, having been obliged to take her three weeks' old baby boy there for treatment owing to the peculiar accident which had befallen the little one last Thursday. While Mrs. Lunn was bathing and dressing the baby a small safety-pin, from the front of the mother's dress, dropped into the child's mouth as the latter was crying, finally lodging in the stomach. Under skilful treatment the pin was safely removed on Saturday morning and the baby is now doing well, apparently none the worse for the accident.

R. J. Harding Death

Died—In Millbrook, on Friday, February 15th, 1924, Mr. Robert J. Harding, in his 81st year. The funeral took place from the residence of his niece, Miss L. Burton, on Monday, February 18th, at 1.30 p.m. Interment in Gardiner's cemetery. Two half-brothers, Messrs. A. Payne, Millbrook, and G. Payne, Lindsay, and one step-sister, Mrs. J. W. Walsh, at present in Vancouver, B.C., are the immediate survivors. Rev. Canon Allen had charge of the services at the house and graveside.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Will Payne, W. Tremaine, H. W. Johnston, George Payne, J. L. McCamus and G. A. Fair.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Jos. Porter, of Lakefield, a niece of the deceased, and Messrs. G. B. Walsh, A. Payne, G. Payne, of Toronto, W. Payne, of Lindsay, nephews.

Is Recovering

Miss Nellie Finnimore's many friends will be glad to learn that she is recovering satisfactorily from the painful accident met with last week when she fell in the hallway at Dr. H. A. Turner's private hospital, striking her face against the sharp corner of a table and breaking the cheek bone. Though her face is still badly bruised the bone is knitting and the effects from the accident are gradually wearing off.

Colonel A. E. and Mrs. Earchman, of Carleton Place, were recent visitors at the home of her sister, Miss Essie Hutchinson, Cavan. The former made a brief stay, leaving for Ottawa on a business trip. Mrs. Earchman returning home the last of the week.

Contest in Young People's League—Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21—The end of the contest between the two sides of the Young People's League of the Methodist church was recorded Monday night. The Lions won in points. The evening was spent very pleasantly. The Lions furnished the programme, which was a good one, as follows: Opening hymn and prayer and then Mr. T. Craighead, who was chairman of the first part announced the numbers; reading, Miss W. Phillips; vocal solo, Mrs. E. Bates; autoharp solo, Master Arnold Bates, with an encore.; Reading, Miss H. Potts; instrumental solo, Mr. Lucy. The Rev. W. Elliott, who was the chairman of the second part, gave an very interesting talk about what he did Monday afternoon. He visited Mrs. Minerva Benedict, who is one hundred years old and gave some incidents in her life which were of interest. Then the rest of the programme was given: Solo, Miss Cherrie Turner, with an encore; solo, Master Kenneth Collison.

Two young ladies (Misses Ruth Taylor and Myrtle Ford) dressed as valentine clowns and gave some instrumental music on "buzzoos," and entertained the audience with funny riddles and jokes and two valentine recitations.

The young people were then divided into sides and each one given a lozenge with Valentine verses on them. The one side read one and the other replied with one, causing much merriment among the young folks. At the end of the program the "Eagles" served refreshments and all the Lions were fed first and waited upon by the "Eagles." A most enjoyable evening was spent.

Mr. W. G. Frazer is very ill at his home near the station and little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

FRANCE PLANS HEAVY TAX FOR AMERICAN GUESTS

PARIS, Feb. 21.—(United Press).—Following the old German system—"make the foreigner pay"—is now the sentiment of a large section of the French press, and people in face of the falling franc, and this has inspired a new bill providing special taxation for foreigners. It is aimed at foreigners enjoying a high rate of exchange, chiefly English and Americans.

The bill has been drawn up by Deputies Meunier, Gallois and Bosquette, and will be submitted to the French Parliament soon. It provides that all managers or owners of hotels, boarding and rooming houses are required to add a surtax of 20 per cent., which is to go to the state, to the bills of foreign customers, with the exception of Belgian citizens.

In the case of citizens of former allies of France whose exchange is not high, and also in the case of employees of French firms, exceptions would be made

It is expected that this measure, which resupposed that the low figure is due chiefly to speculation by foreigners, will add two billion francs to the annual receipts of the state.

ONE OPPONENT FOR HENDERSON

Straight Fight Between Labor and Conservative Candidates in Burnley By-Election.

LONDON, Feb. 21. — (Canadian Press).—Prohibitionists have refrained from executing their threat to nominate a candidate in Burnley, where there is a by-election owing to the death of Dan Irving, the Labor member, and at the official nominations Wednesday the field was left to Arthur Henderson, the Home Secretary, and H. E. J. Camps, the Conservative candidate.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

PALESTINE'S COST.

LONDON, Feb. 21. — (Canadian Press). — The Labor Government took over Great Britain's responsibilities in Palestine as a going concern, Prime Minister MacDonald told a questioner in the House of Commons yesterday. Palestine had cost the British Exchequer £1,400,000 in 1923-24, he said, and it was estimated the cost would be £1,000,-

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain—How To Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms waich every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

VIGILANT OVER WEIGHING GRAIN

Government Weighmaster Explained the System Designed to Make Grain Traffic Secure — More Weighmen Needed.

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press). — Security thrown around the grain traffic in and out of the lake terminals by Government supervision was described to the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission by J. G. White, chief Government weighmaster and inspector of weights and measures for the Inland Revenue Department here.

Mr. White told the Commission that still further checks to prevent, by accident or design, possible irregularities had been decided on, such as putting a Government weighman constantly at the top of all public terminals and in the basement. He was but waiting permission of the Civil Service Commission to add these men to his staff.

Asked by the assistant chief counsel why such a persistent and consistent total of averages are registered, Mr. White said he did not know. "Perhaps the evidence given here by some of these witnesses about 'a shot for the house' might afford you a partial explanation." The witness said "shots for the house" could occur as a physical possibility between each load weighed and that it might be determined possibly by "how crooked the man at the lever is."

Intensive co-operation of all forces having the handling of grain would reduce the annual heavy loss occasioned through leaky cars, the witness said. The loss en route by leaks, pilfering and evaporation would explain some variations in weights as between country and terminal elevators. Mr. White advocated heavier punishment for those caught pilfering.

School Association Gave Surprise Party.

Mrs. V. Hamilton Was Presented With Pair of Candlesticks.

The members of the King George Home and School Association were moving spirits in a very pleasant surprise party at the home of their retiring President, Mrs. V. Hamilton, 40 Robinson street, Tuesday evening, when Mrs. Hamilton was presented with an address, a pair of silver candlesticks and a bouquet tied with the school colors, as a token of the appreciation of the members of the association for the capable manner in which the duties of the President were discharged. Mrs. Hamilton thanked the ladies in a few appropriate words. The remainder of the evening was spent in community singing, games and music. Miss Zoe Doyle gave a pretty vocal solo, with accompaniment by Miss Aleitha Scott. The following is the address, which was read by Mrs. Percy King. The presentation was made by Mrs. E. Scott and Mrs. Fred Milliken.

"Dear Mrs. Hamilton,—

"It is with pleasure that we are gathered here tonight, to pay tribute to your good work for our association.

During the last two years you have occupied the position of President, and as such have been a source of inspiration to the rest of us, who have had the pleasure of working with you. Under your leadership our society has made considerable progress, and we feel that a large part of it is due to the business-like manner in which you handled every occasion as it arose.

"On behalf of the association we would ask you to accept this small token of our esteem and affection.

"Signed on behalf of the King George Home and School Association—Mrs. T. H. Glover, Mrs. Langley, Mrs. Bethune, Mrs. Storey, Mr. Saunders, Mrs. Howland, Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Welch, Mrs. Starr, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. King, Miss Sisson, Miss Eastwood, Mrs. Ebbs, Mrs. R. Hamilton, Mrs. Milliken, Mrs. Yeotes, Mrs. Couper, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Dodds, Mr. Grierson, Mr. J. Munroe, Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Joyce, Mrs. Bettis, Mrs. E. Scott, Mrs. Pomroy, Mrs. G. Record, Mrs. Beavis, Mrs. McCartney, Miss Crookshanks, Miss Paxman, Mrs. Girven, Mrs. Smith, Mr. R. Hamilton, Mrs. Gemmell, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Heap, Mrs. Weese, Mrs. Grierson, Miss Fuccee, Mrs. C. MOTHERS' PENSIONS IN THE BRITISH COMMONS

Proposal Was Given an Attentive Hearing—To Help Widows.

LONDON, February 21 (Canadian Press) — The proposed establishment of pensions to all widows with children or mothers whose bread-winners are incapacitated, received a remarkably unanimous reception in the House of Commons.

It was broubht forward last evening on a private motion by Charles Dukes, Labour member, who was given a very attentive hearing, and no hostile word was uttered by any party.

Phillip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said the Government accepted the motion in principle.

"Even if our tenure of office is not long," he said, "we shall be disappointed if we are unaple to add to our legislative achievements a measure for doing justice to these deserving people, whose claims ought long ago to have been recognised."

GRADING POLICY IMPROVES BACON

The Swine Committee at Ottawa Holding Conference For Review of Hog Grading.

OTTAWA, Feb. 21. — (Canadian Press). — The operations of the Federal hog grading policy inaugurated a year ago by the joint efforts of the Federal Department of Agriculture, the producers and the packing industry are being reviewed by the joint swine committee in conference here. Matters of weight limits, country point grading and experiments in feeding will be taken up by the committee and a report will be issued at the close of the conference. Measures to promote further development of the hog grading policy will be considered.

The producers, the packing industry and the Department report considerable improvement in the type of hogs. It is reported that the official grading, the experiments and the investigations carried on by the Department, have borne satisfactory results. Improvement is also reported in the quality of Canadian bacon going forward to the British market. Livestock exchanges in Winnipeg and Toronto in co-operation with the livestock branch of the Department of Agriculture have carried on experiments in grading and grading equipment and their report is being considered by the committee.

At 80 Years of Age Was Troubled With Shortness of Breath Palpitation of the Heart And Fainting Spells

Mrs. M. O'Connor, Whitestone, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled, most of my life, with shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and fainting spells. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did, and at once found relief, and I have never had a really bad spell since.

I am 80 years of age and always keep them in the house, and when I feel any symptoms of my old trouble coming on all I have to do is to take a few doses. With the help of your Pills I expect to see many years yet. I always recommend them to any one who is suffering from heart trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price, by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

In most cases there really is no difference between buying a 4 per cent gilt edge bond selling under par, and a 6 per cent bond selling at a premium, if the yield is 5 per cent on both.

Of course a little more money would have to be invested to buy the 6 per cent bond, but the return would be 5 per cent on the money invested.

It is a strange thing that the majority of investors will not pay over par for a bond. They figure that at maturity there will be a loss. There is, but in the meantime each years' coupon has been larger.

In the above case the bond which sells above par pays $2 more than the other in interest each year.

SEVERAL RIDDLES

Sometimes they're silver, sometimes gold.

"Instead of a long riddle today," announced the Riddle Lady, "I am going to ask several short ones. Now see who can be first to guess this one:

"Sometimes they're silver, sometimes gold.
And like those things, are hard to hold,
The gold ones oft are kept in cases,
Made out of glass like precious vases.

"They keep no stores, and yet they've scales,
They have no feet, but all have tails,
They come in schools but have no books,
This is their motto, 'Beware of hooks!' "

"I know what it is," sang out Simple Simon. And at exactly the same instant didn't Tommy Tittlemouse say it, too.

"What?" said the Riddle Lady.

"Fish!" replied both Simon and Tommy promptly. No wonder they could guess so easily. Simon fishing the silly way he did, in his mother's scrubbing pail, and Tommy Tittlemous, who lived in the little house, fishing forever in other men's ditches!

"That's right," said the Riddle Lady. "The prize is a new fishing line for each of you. Now listen, everybody. What is this?

"It wears no gown, but ne'er the less,
It travels not without address,
It cannot walk, it cannot tramp,
Yet never moves without a stamp."

Now, of course, my dears, this riddle sounds as easy as pie for you, but nobody knew what it was but the twins. They knew for many reasons. First, because they had worked in the Fairyland Postoffice helping Mister Stamps. But anyway—did you ever, ever, ever hear of anyone in Mother Goose Land writing a letter?

Yes, that's what it was, a letter, and Nancy guessed it and got a nice box of writing paper of her own with pictures on it. The Mother Goose people thought it very curious.

"Now then, for the third riddle," said the Riddle Lady. "Listen carefully:

"It lives in a cellar,
But never leaves the kitchen,
It's one of the seasons,
Yet never sees the sky,
Cap is full of holes,
But never puts a stitch in,
Must have its reasons!
Can you tell me why?"

Well, sir! Everybody nearly guessed this head off. But not a person could get it. Not even Nancy and Nick, and usually they could guess anything.

"Perhaps the kitchen is in the cellar. Some are," said the Crooked Man, whose front door went in the back way.

"And a season just cannot be in the house!" declared the Old-Woman-Who-Lived-Under-the-Hill.

"This one can," smiled the Riddle Lady. "There are other seasons besides summer and winter and spring and fall. Perhaps I should have said 'The four seasonings' instead."

That let the cat out of the bag!

"Salt!" shouted everybody at once.

"That's right," laughed the Riddle Lady. "But there is no prize. You were all too slow!"

MINERS DECLARE ALL RELIEF IS CUT OFF

SYDNEY, Feb. 21.— (Canadian Press.)— With no official assurance that coal banking will be resumed at an early date, and left to their own limited resources to provide food for their families, two thousand miners employed in the Princess and Florence collieries are in a more serious predicament than before the new wage contract was negotiated between the British Empire Steel Corporation and United Mine Workers' executive. A telegram was sent to Premier King at Ottawa, and Premier Armstrong at Halifax, as follows: "Two thousand Nova Scotia workmen employed at Florence and Princess collieries locked out by British Empire Steel Corporation. Advise that your government take immediate action. Company refuses to bank coal and men anxious to return to work. Would ask government to make an allotment of $50,000 to meet emergency of present serious situation. All sources of relief cut off."

The sustaining qualities of the mind are so interwoven with bodily physique that the success or failure of your health condition is bound up in their co-operation.

GIVING TUT THE ONCE OVER

BY AMOS Q. PIPP

LAPIS LAZULI, Egypt.—Well I was among those at the lid-lifting of King Tut-Ankh-Amen's sarcophagus and can say it beat any show I ever saw. I had a ringside seat which I obtained by telling the manager I was a representtaive of the Sells-Floto Circus.

They insisted the choice were only for people who had a deep interest in mummies, but I explained that besides being authorized to book the act if it was a good one I was a close friend of Irving Berlin, who had written all the best known mummy songs like "I Gotta Dear Old Southern Mummy," "Mah Carolina Mummy," "You Gotta See Mummy Every Night," etc.

The sarcophagus was well worth the price of admission. Especially to me as I had never seen one before. To tell the truth I had always thought a sarcophagus was part of the human throat.

Mr. Carter called the meeting to order at 2 p.m., and, walking to the saragossa, asked in a loud voice, "Who's got an opener?"

All the Canadians present had one, of course. The saragassum bore the original seal. So far as I could see the labels had not been faked. Mr. Carter took one of the openers offered him and with a sharp twist opened the salamander with a loud pop.

I rushed forward with a look but Mr. Carter announced: "Gentlemen, I opened with kings cold and I will bet fifty cents." I raised him a dime.

"Ten better," said Carter. then called him.

"It's costing you seventy cents to see," he said.

"I know it," I replied.

"Royal flush!" he announced, tipping his sartorius and, taking a look, I saw the most gorgeous gold figure like the ones you see on each corner of the circus band wagons or the hippopotamus cage, only it was flat on its back. That, it was explained, was what is known as a dummy-case.

A lecturer was then introduced who explained that for ten cents he would give a lecture on what it all meant. We all paid him and he jumped on the sardanapalus and said:

"Now, ladies and gentlemen, if you will kindly step close up—don't be afraid—let the little boy up front, please—I will tell you the amazing, absolutely astonishing facts and figures about this epoch-making discovery of the only certified imperial mummy in the wor-r-ld. Kindly step forward."

I gathered from what he said that there was no question about it being a pre-war mummy and no Bahama imitation.

He said the carved figure on the dummy case, or humidor, was an excellent likeness to the king. I had no reason to dispute him. All I would say about this is that if it was a good likeness the king's liver was in bad shape as he was very yellowish looking around the gills.

He also had a wonderful beard of solid gold. This was pulled off and given to one of the workmen as his share of the loot.

Beside the king was a solid gold golf club studded with lapis mazola and on his chest was a Waterbury watch engraved "From Ella to Snookums". I shook dice with the lecturer for the golf club. A newspaper correspondent swiped the watch. I am going to get up a little game tomorrow and match Carter for the king.

Throughout the entertainment a jazz orchestra played the latest song hits and ushers sold popcorn, peanuts, souvenir programmes and red lemonade. Then a fellow went around selling tickets and urging us to stay for "the concert immediately after the big show."

I understand they will hold another show in a few weeks and open the dummy-case to find the king himself. After that they intend to take the king apart and see what makes him tick.

RICHEST ROYALTY IS PRINCESS LOUISE

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(United Press).—The Princess Royal, sister of King George, celebrated her 57th birthday today. The title of Princess Royal of Great Britain is conferred on the eldest daughter of the reigning sovereign and is held for life. Hence Princess Mary, King George's daughter, will have to wait for her aunt's death before she can get the title. Princess Louise, the present Princess Royal, made a love match with the late Duke of Fife, and never took a prominent part in court life. Of an exceedingly retiring nature, she was known as "Her Royal Shyness." The Fife estates are vast and of great value, so that the Princess and her daughters are probably the wealthiest British royalties living.

SOCIALISTS MAY OPEN AN ENQUIRY

Flag Incident Following Wilson's Death to Be Brought Up.

BERLIN, Feb. 20. — The Socialists are considering interpellating the government on its attitude regarding the Washington flag incident, at the ime of the death of former President Wilson.

They are also likely to charge the German forcign office with showing favouritism in the decision to release Lieut. Griffis, sentenced tor attempting to kidnap the draft evader Bergdoll.

If they proceed with their plans, it is believed probable that a new light will be cast on the role of the Foreign Office, and that the investigation would tend to absolve Ambassador Wiedfeldt and disclose the persistent programme against him on the part of the Foreign Office itself.

Previous to the opening of the Reichstag, the Socialists vowed that they intended to call what they termed 'Marx Dissolution Bluff," insisting that they would criticise some of the ordinances issued while the country was under a state of siege.

Meantime Chancellor Marx let it be known that he was willing to compromise and effect alterations in some of the ordinances, hoping there by to quiet the Socialist elements.

It appears that a crisis could not be reached earlier than next week, as the programme for the opening of the Assembly called for attention to matters of only minor importance.

SWEDISH FOREIGN OFFICE HAD RECORD YEAR OF ACTIVITIES

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 21.—(Associated Press).—The Swedish Foreign Office made a record for international activity during 1923, according to its report recently made public. It shows that Sweden took official part in 35 international congresses and conventions as well as in five sessions of the Council of the League of Nations.

Other activities of the Foreign Office included agreements with Denmark and Norway regarding aerial traffic; with Uruguay, regarding arbitration; with Finland, regarding navigation, and with Italy, Spain, Japan and Great Britain abolishing compulsory passport visas. Trade pacts with Esthonia and Bulgaria were signed.

PREMIER POINCARE APPROVES SCHEMES

PARIS, February 20. — Premier Poincare has approved in principle the main suggestions on experts committee No. 1 for the rehabilitation of Germany so that she can pay the reparations, the Petit Journal declares to-day.

These suggestions include:

1—A cash moratorium for Germany.

2—Creation of a German gold bank.

3—Suppression of the Franco-Belgian control of the Rhineland Railways in order to permit an international society to take up the administration of all German railroads.

4—Suppression of the Rhine customs barriers.

5—An interior German loan in gold for the purposes of repatriating German capital.

WOMAN'S GREATEST ASSET

Health is woman's greatest asset. Upon it depends charm, beauty, power to attract others, happiness and success, and it is what really makes life worth living. Thousands of women suffer from headaches, backache, nervousness, mental depression and mysterious pains, who could find immediate relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which is made from roots and herbs. For nearly half a century this medicine has been recognized as the standard remedy for womans' ills.

HARD TO LINE UP.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Percy Hambly, scout for the St. Pat's professional hockey team of Toronto, who is in the Soo trying to line up three or four players from the Iroquois Falls team to strengthen the St. Pat's was rather reticent about his success this far, or men he desired to land. "These amateurs are the toughets bunch going to keep an appointment with. I mustn't go away from here without signing up a player," he said. He hinted he would like to get Bellefeuille's name on a contract, and would not be averse to signing Dunfield and Fournier.

NOT EXPECTED LIVE.

OSHAWA, Feb. 20. — (Canadian Press).—Henry Baldwin, who was seriously injured when stabbed by burglars at the home he attempted to capture a week ago, is in a critical condition, and small hopes are held for his recovery. The condition of Fred. Habberfield, injured in the same affray, is unchanged.

Suffering Kept Him Awake For Hours

Young Peterborough Man Now Enjoys Splendid Appetite and Perfect Digestion and Above all, Sleeps Soundly, Thanks to Dreco's Wonderful Powers.

Mrs. T. Sisson of 492 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, was greatly worried over her son's condition. Now her worries are a thing of the past, for Dreco has toned and regulated his digestive system back to healthy working order.

"For over four years," says Mrs. Sisson, "my son has suffered from stomach trouble, so much so that we greatly feared a chronic state of catarrh of the stomach. His food fermented and a gas would form that would make him belch in a most distressing way. He also had severe headaches that we couldn't seem to get rid of no matter what we tried.

"He also had severe coughing spells that mostly troubled him at night and would keep him awake for hours.

"Finally, impressed by the splendid work Dreco was doing for others with similar symptoms, he decided to give it a trial in his own case and, truly, the result is most gratifying. He has only taken two bottles, but his cough is almost gone. He sleeps fine all night long now and is looking so much better. His food digests without any gas forming now and his appetite has improved 100 per cent. He hasn't had a headache since starting with Dreco."

Dreco is a scientific preparation of twelve medicinal herbs, roots, bark and leaves. It contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs and is a splendid and reliable tonic, blood food and body builder.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold as follows:

Lakefield—E. H. Northey.

Campbellford—J. E. Biffis.

And by a good druggist everywhere.

MARMORA BUYS LIBRARY BOOKS

New Shelves Added to Receive the Multiplying Volumes For Both Young and Adult Readers--Need Reading-Room

MARMORA, Feb. 21.—The Marmora Public Library has been having a few changes made lately. A number of new books have been acquired and in order to accommodate these a new book-case has been made.

About seventy small books of the "Bright Story" series have been purchased and any child, no matter how small, if he can read at all, can read these little stories.

The little ones may now come in and read in the library if they wish and it is hoped that some time in the future a regular reading room may be connected with the library.

For the older members of the library there are magazines and reference books on the table for all to read.

Amongst the new books in the library are: "Bread," by Charles Norris; "End of the House of Alard," by Sheila Kaye Smith; "The Hawk-eye," by Herbert Quick; "Spirit of Iron," by Harwoode Steele; "Mid-Winter," by John Buchan; "The Covered Wagon," by Emerson Hough; "My Experiences in Scotland Yard," by Basil Thomson; "Boswell's Johnson," by Archibald Marshall; "Cattle," by Watanna Onoto. These are only a few of those received within the last rew weeks. Besides these there are a great many juvenile books and a number of other adult books.

Considering the number of new books purchased during the latter part of 1923 the library is now well stocked with the newest books, and a new supply is expected any day now.

School Debate

On Friday the pupils of the Fourth Room in Public School debated the subject "Resolved that a man is better off who has education without wealth than the man who has wealth without education." The pupils in their debate proved that the man with the education is better fitted to cope with life, but the debate was keen and they won by only one point.

Thespians on the Road

On Monday, Feb. 18, the girls of the Dramatic Club presented their play "Miss Fearless & Co." in Campbellford. The two sleigh-loads of girls left early in the afternoon for Campbellford and it was early the next morning before they could get back.

Lecture on Egypt

Next Friday Professor Irwin of Toronto will give a lecture in the hall on "Egypt and Recent Discoveries There." As this subject is being so widely discussed at present the lecture will be doubly interesting. The prizes for any essays which have been handed in concerning the recent lecture course will be presented on Friday night.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—A true Canadian will analyse the condition of his country with reference to the facts and if the facts hit his party then so much the worse for his party. To sacrifice the welfare of a man's country on any pretence is unthinkable. At present there are two outstanding facts in Canada: (1) That the economic or trade condition of Canada is not satisfactory. The volume of trade has increased of late years, it is true, but there is much unemployment which the people and newspapers of Canada are trying to make worse by demanding the encouragement of immigrants, that we are in a bad way. They treat unemployment in Britain by trying to get the unemployed population to go abroad. We seem to glory in having a lot of people come in whom the country cannot digest. Then the people and the newspapers have demanded government ownership of railways with the result that we have a frightful burden of taxation on their account and an immediate prospect of its becoming worse if the branch lines and other capital expenditure of the National lines are proceeded with and as the whole west is demanding.

So much for taking the railways out of the hands of the owners and the management out of the hands of the government and yet making the latter liable for them and of course soaking the people, too. Then the people and the papers gave responsible government a bad name and called it patronage with the result that the Civil Service has become a huge affair requiring the payment by the people to their civil servants of over fifty million dollars a year. We cannot take authority away from our governments and yet hold them responsible. No reasonable people would think of such a thing. Yet it has been done in railways and the civil service, with the result that we are paying for them in taxes alone over ten dollars annually for every man, woman and child in the country. Until people elect men they propose to trust and do trust them and hold them responsible a system of government becomes as it is in Canada today, a danger in fact, an impossibility. The consequences fall directly upon the people and taxation is slowly but surely driving them to the wall, and it is their own fault. Throwing things at governments and members is no good. Don't elect them if you don't want them, but don't send a bunch of groups to make government an impossibility unless you prefer to have things made a mess of. If we seek to crush decent people by force we will turn them to enemies and haters of the commonwealth. No true man or woman will lie down to such a principle as that. That is the way they do in Russia. Surely we want freedom here and decent people are entitled to it and in time will find a way to get it. If we blackguard all our public men, denounce them and mistrust them, we will not get much in return.

What is the object of being decent and honest, if it is not valued?

J. H. BURNHAM.

CAPITALIZING A MISFORTUNE

NEW EXAMINER SERIAL STORY

"Hearts Afire" By May Christie Will Be Something Good For Examiner Readers.

"Hearts Afire," the new Examiner serial story which commences on Saturday next, February 23rd, is the work of May Christie, the distinguished English novelist of modern society life. In this story Miss Christie, the author of "The Vital Flame" and a score of other popular successes, has produced a genuine serial triumph, with romantic settings, daily climaxes, sustained interest, suspenseful situations and a real heart interest—all the ingredients which go to make a perfect newspaper serial.

It is a thrilling love story, with an unusual plot, and an American setting; one of those stories in which a sextette of varying characters make the eternal double triangle which offers such fascinating variations for entertaining tales. The heroine is Prudence Page, a pretty, attractive girl, high spirited and with a sweet disposition, who falls in love with Bert Traymore, a fascinating philanderer. Virginia Dale is her rival, and the other man is Peter Armstrong. Around the adventures in the land of romance of the quartette the author has woven a charming story, with a great deal of light and entertaining dialogue.

YOUR HEALTH

FROST-BITE

During the past five years a great change has taken place in the matter of winter clothing and footwear. The old style of bundling one's self up until you could hardly move, slowing down circulation on account of slow movements and inactivity, has greatly changed.

Thousands of men and women now make it a practice to wear low shoes and comparatively light stockings during cold weather. It is exceptional for anyone to suffer today from frost-bitten toes.

The feet are a long way from the central blood pumping station and are so built that they are subjected to more cold, according to their area, than any other part of the body. Frequent bathing of the feet in cold weather will be found of value, as the rubbing will increase circulation.

The advisability of freeing the lower extremities from any undue pressure in cold weather is advocated. This allows a much freer blood circulation and consequently warmer feet. Tight garters, tight hose, tight shoes or any bands or close-fitting articles of apparel should be taboo in extremely cold weather.

If you live in the country or have to be out in very cold weather be careful that your fingers, ears, nose or toes do not become white and numb. The time for the sensible treatment of frost-bite is before it happens. Should Jack Frost pinch you avoid entering a warm room. Seek a cool place and apply cold cloths and cold water or snow. Rub gently until the feeling in the frost-bitten parts become normal.

If the frost-bite is severe blisters may form over the parts frozen. In such a case a physician must be called at once as mortification may set in.

Altogether the evening was a excellent success and the proceeds amounted to about forty-five dollars.

'BESCO' CHARTER VOTE DEFEATED

Labor Resolution to Dissolve British Empire Steel Corporation Lost on Division in the Nova Scotia House.

HALIFAX, N.S., February 21 (Canadian Press). — That the industrial unrest in Nova Scotia was a reflex of world wide conditions and could not be ameliorated by revoking the charter of the British Empire Steel Corporation, and, further to this, trat any such act would bring into discredit the Government ther to this, that any such act would create a precedent for the wiping out of all industrial organisations which happened to meet with the disapproval of any body of citizens, were the arguments advanced by the Hon. D. A. Cameron, Provincial Secretary in the local Legislature, yesterday afternoon when the House resumed the adjourned debate on the amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The amendment called for revocation of the corporation's charter and the re-vesting of their assets in the constituent companies.

Mr. Cameron outlined the handicaps which had to be surmounted by the various coal companies antecedent to the merger and intimated that the amalgamation had been effected in order to eliminate those handicaps.

All that the Nova Scotia Legislature had done, he said, was to grant legislation enabling the directors of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company to exchange their shares on the basis of the other companies, the Dominion Coal Company and the Dominion Iron and Steel Company.

AN EXPERT

"You admit that the bullet hole indicates that the bullet came from below and was badly out of shape?"

"Yes."

The Belt

The only peculiarities about the belt were a hole and the fact that the belt was broken.

Mr. Cunningham said he did not see the significance in the exhibit.

George Schell said he saw the belt when it was found. It was MacNeal's belt. He also identified the three shells.

On January 22 this year at the cabin, Mr. Frost, Mr. Cavanagh the surveyor and George Schell were present when a basswood tree was cut down.

"What did you find when you split the tree?"

"I found the bullet."

"From your knowledge of bullets would you say the bullet went back foremost into the tree?"

"It did."

"How far did it go through the tree before it stopped?"

"About 4 inches."

Mr. Cunningham (cross-examining): "Who discovered this bullet hole?"

"Leslie Frost."

"How did he discover it?"

"By the mark."

"How far was it from the ground?"

"Twenty some odd feet."

"Did he discover it from the ground?"

"Yes."

"At a height of 20 feet?"

"Yes."

A ladder was produced and erected to the gallery at the rear of the court, and the rail was found to be 13 feet high. To the top of the clock was about 20 feet, and the section of tree was placed there.

Mr. Cunningham: "The evidence is that that bullet hole was discovered from the ground."

Mr. Justice Mowat: "It is a pretty difficult thing to understand how you could see a bullet hole 20 feet high, in a basswood tree, and probably forty feet from it in order to get a view of it."

Mr. C. G. Frost offered to go into the box to explain but Mr. Justice Mowat said he could not do that without giving up his case.

Mr. Justice Mowat: "It seems to me we are all groping here. I didn't understand the Crown to advance the theory that this bullet deflected from the man's body through this hole."

Mr. Cunningham: "I don't think this is material to the case. It may be very interesting from some points of view."

Mr. Justice Mowat: "I agree with that statement."

Mr. Justice Mowat: "You say you found the bullet 60 feet away and 20 feet high, and you are setting yourself the task of showing that this bullet is the one which killed George MacNeal?"

"Yes, my Lord."

"Leslie Frost must have very excellent eyesight to find that bullet mark. I am not suggesting any doubt of the evidence. I just say it is a marvellous feat."

J. C. Cavanah, surveyor, of Orillia, said he made a very particular and careful survey of the hunting camp. He identified the plan which he made from that survey.

He described minutely the cabin and its contents and identified two wooden hooks which he said were nailed to the wall on the west side of the shack, where the wall is five feet one inch high. The hooks were between the bunk and the roof over the upper bunk. The bunk was 8 feet 3 and a quarter inches from the south wall of the shack. He identified a peg that was 3 feet 4¾ inches south of the bunk, leaning towards the south. The peg looked as if it had been broken off, but was still in the wall when he saw it.

A nail had been driven into the bunk, one inch below the top, at such an angle that the top of the nail was about level with the top of the board.

Four other nails were in the wall with a piece of binder twine fastened on one.

Mr. Justice Mowat: "Significant of the fact that you had been there before. You were there with some binder twine. Where is this leading?"

Mr. Frost said the points were most important.

Mr. Cavanah said looking through the hole in the shack he could see the bullet hole in the tree.

Mr. Justice Mowat said in reference to Mr. Cavanah's evidence regarding the bullet that he was alarmed that too much opinion evidence was being presented, and that every man on the jury knew as much on the subject as did Mr. Cavanah.

Mr. Cavanah said the line from the bullet hole in the shack to the basswood tree would show a projection in the shack to the floor.

"Assuming this was the bullet that killed MacNeal, where would MacNeal have had to be standing?"

Mr. Justice Mowat said it is not in Mr. Cavanah's province to theorize as to the location of the man. "How can you call a doctor of medicine and ask him as to physics?" he asked, referring to other opinions expressed by Mr. Frost.

Mr. Cunningham: "That is my objection. This witness is a land surveyor. Let us have measurements, and not conclusions."

Mr. Frost: "Suppose a man were standing between the peg and the bunk facing the west, from what point in the shack could you get a clear sight at a point on his right hip?"

Mr. Cunningham objected.

Mr. Cavanah: "A person standing close to the peg could be hit from a point....."

Mr. Justice Mowat: "We don't want your opinion."

"The wall is 5 feet 1 inch high. Could a man 6 feet tall stand close to that wall?"

"Yes; by bending."

"From what point could a man be seen in that position?"

"From the northerly bunk."

"Could the right hip be seen from the north east corner of the shack?"

"No."

Mr. Cavanah said that the plan introduced by the Crown was incorrect but his evidence was ruled out by Mr. Justice Mowat.

Mr. Cunningham, cross-examining: "How far would the line produced from the basswood tree through the hole in the shack be from the floor, where it cut the southerly bunk?"

"Two feet seven inches."

"And how far from the wall?"

"About eight inches."

Mr. Justice Mowat, referring to an answer given out of order by the witness: "He is so full of a desire to make a point that he is not giving expert surveyor evidence at all, but his opinion."

"How high were the gun pegs?"

"Four feet five inches."

"How high was the bunk?"

"Three feet nine inches to the top of the board in the end of the bunk."

His Honor Judge Huycke sat with Mr. Justice Mowat for a time this forenoon.

J. C. Cavanah, the expert surveyor, who was called this morning by the defence, and cross-examined by Crown Prosecutor A. B. Cunningham, was subjected to a further gruelling cross-examination on resumption of the court after the noon adjournment.

Asked for a description of the tier of bunks near the stove, Cavanah had said on top of the deck of the upper deck and below there was a board ,one 6 7-8 inches and another 7 1-4 inches wide.

"Could you identify this as a photograph?"

"No."

"In the face of this explanation, I want to understand your evidence as to where a man might be seen."

"The south-east corner of the southerly bunk is somewhat higher than the other end."

"But the top bunk is open?"

"No, there is a sideboard 10 1-2 inches high."

"The bunk is more open than closed in. You can see through it."

"Oh, yes."

"In the face of that will you tell me what you meant when you said a man could not be seen?"

"The man could be seen from a certain location."

"What you meant then was that if a man was standing between the south end of the bunk and the south wall you could not see his hip?"

"A man could not be seen from certain positions in the north-east corner."

"Suppose a man was sitting down at the table he could see what went on in the south corner?"

"Oh yes. My idea was that a line of sight from a certain spot in the north-east upper bunk could not strike the thigh bone of a man standing up in the south-west corner."

"That's all you meant?"

"Yes."

"With reference to the nail you mentioned, could you see the nail when looking at the end of the bunk?"

"Yes. Six inches from the wall and 3 feet 8 inches from the floor."

"How far distant from the shanty was this tree containing the bullet?"

"Do you seriously assert you could see that bullet hole at 6 5feet?"

"Yes."

"How far did you put your eye from the hole?"

"Directly up to it."

"And you say that when you put your eye directly up to the hole that concentrated your vision?"

"Yes"

"What would be your range of vision from side to side?"

"About six or eight feet."

Mr. Cunningham asked the witness to look through the bullet hole, and say how many feet he could see.

"Ten feet."

"At a distance of 60 feet couldn't you see a width of at least 60 or 100 feet?"

"About 20 feet."

"You still say, looking through this hole concentrated your vision, but instead of 6 feet it is now 20 feet?"

"Yes"

In re-examination Mr. Cavanah said the only place from which a man's hip could be seen while he was standing south of the southerly bunk was from the top bunk near the wall.

Habit Evidence Excluded.

Joseph W. Dewell, of Brant township, said he knew George MacNeal very well since 1915 or 1916.

MacNeal lived in the same house as Dewell for a year and had seen him once or twice a week since.

"Were you ever hunting with him?"

"Yes."

"Was he ever under the influence of liquor?"

"Sometimes."

Mr. Cunningham objected to habit evidence and was upheld by the court.

Mr. Frost: "Have I not the right to bring a witness to attack the credibility of a witness who said MacNeal was jovial and friendly while intoxicated?"

"If the Crown presses I won't receive it."

"MacNeal," the witness said, "was very careless with firearms when under the influence of liquor. I saw him grab a gun at the muzzle without knowing whether it was loaded or not. On another occasion out of results of his carelessness I got out of a hunting shack for my own sake. He was under the influence of liquor most of the time. He was fairly good natured but inclined to romp around. He was playful."

"When he got drunker what was he like?"

"When he got so he couldn't walk he lay down. There was always something wrong with him."

Cross-examined the witness said: "I have not been hunting with him since 1920."

"How long did you stay at the shack?"

"Two days."

"Why did you leave?"

"I left because I did not want to be where there was liquor."

"That's not what you told my learned friend."

Dr. Phyllis Young.

Dr. Phyllis Young said she attended the post-mortem examination on the body of George MacNeal.

"Were you able to come to any conclusion as to the direction from which the bullet came that killed MacNeal?"

"Yes; a downward direction toward the illium. I agree with the other doctors that he was probably bending to the right or forward."

"Were you able to come to any conclusion as to the direction of the bullet leaving the body?"

"Yes; it had an upward tendency."

"Was the general tendency maintained at all times?"

"Yes."

"And the only change was in elevation?"

"Yes."

"What work did you do?"

"I wrote down the results of the findings and I examined the body."

"How long will it take for a stomach to empty?"

"Usually about four hours."

"If the man who was killed died from 8 to 9 o'clock in the morning, and had nothing to eat from the previous day, would you expect to find food in the stomach, and what would it suggest?"

"It would suggest that the man had delay in getting rid of the food that would cause pain."

"Was there anything to suggest the man had been drinking?"

"No. An excess of alcohol would cause indigestion."

Cross examined by Mr. Cunningham: "What were the contents of the stomach?"

"Could you say from that how long the man lied?"

"No."

"You could not say how long after eating a meal he died?"

"No."

"You tell us that the course of the bullet was changed while passing through the body?"

"Yes, with regard to elevation."

"Why?"

"Because the entrance had a downward direction and the exit had an upper.

"Could you point to one point where the course changed?"

"In my opinion it changed when it struck the sacrum."

Dr. Young did not think the illium deflected the bullet and on striking the sacrum it was deflected very slightly; so slight that she did not care to illustrate it in a sketch.

Mr. Justice Mowat: "Is there anything in the evidence of Dr. Young, Sr., from which you differ?"

"No."

EARLY REPORT FROM EXPERTS

French Premier Asks For Decision As Soon As Possible — Will Get In First Week of March — Committees Busy.

PARIS, February 21. — The committee of exprts on the German reparations problem, now hope to be able to present their report during the first week in March.

Premier Poincare has indirectly communicated to the experts the desire of the French Government for as early a decision as possible, and they will do all they can to satisfy him.

The accountants who have been figuring on the total amount of German capital placed abroad have presented their unanimous report to Committee Number Two, headed by Reginald McKenna. This committee has discussed these findings, and hopes to put its own decisions on paper before the end of the week.

The sub-committee on the proposed gold bank has completed the preparation of its statutes for the consideration of the full committee.

Thus this question is practically disposed of as the sub-committee's report probably will be accepted with little if any change.

RAILWAYS RETURN TO NORMAL AGAIN

Roads Still Blocked in Some Sections Including Campbellford.

TORONTO, February 21 (Canadian Press). — Transportation facilities are rapidly being restored throughout the major portion of Ontario following the terrific blizzard which raged on Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning.

Work is being hampered somewhat by a heavy snowstorm in Central Ontario this morning, but it is not expected that the storm will be of lengthy duration.

The majority of the trains scheduled to leave Toronto this morning got away in good time, but a few cancellations were made.

Some anxiety is felt by transportation officials regarding the fate of trains ploughing their way through districts where the blizzard was very severe.

The C.N.R. is still unable to get to Midland. Penetanguishene, and other points on Georgian Bay, while trains bound for the Campbellford district were again cancelled.

C.P.R. trains are not running in the Teeswater section, which serves a large dairy farming territory, and the shortage of milk is being felt to some extent.

Many highways throughout the country are still impassable owing to the huge drifts, and it is not likely that they will be cleared for some days.

Large gangs of street cleaners have effectively coped with the situation in Toronto, and the street car services were operating this morning according to schedule.

DOCTOR TOOK A NOTE FOR $1 000

Judge Morson's Trenchant Comment on Action of Doctor Whose Services Would Only Cost $100.

TORONTO, February 21. — "I think the Medical Council should have something to say about this," commented Judge Morson, in the action brought in the Division Court by Dr. A. J. McIntosh, against Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Walters, claiming $139 for professional services to their daughter Margery.

For the defence Tom Robinette elicited the fact that Dr. McIntosh had typed a promissory note for one thousand dollars which he required Walters to sign.

Margery Walters had been run down by a motor car, said defendant in explanation, and McIntosh had been called in. McIntosh had suggested that Walters should sue the owner of the car for $10,000, and that he should get $1,000 as doctor's fee. The doctor denied that he had made the suggestion.

"Then why," asked the judge, "did you take a note for $1000 for professional serices when your bill was about $100?"

The doctor explained that he had taken the note as security, knowing defendant to be "poor pay."

"Tell me seriously," the judge asked defendant, "did the doctor suggest that note for $1000?"

Defendant replied that not only did the doctor suggest it, but that he had typed the note himself on his own paper.

"I think that the Medical Council should have something to say about that,' said the judge, giving judgment for $55. Defendant had paid $35 into court.

"Are you going to sue defendant on that note?" the court asked counsel for plaintiff. "No," said counsel.

COMMEMORATE THE PASSING OF POOR

Twenty-Seven Slabs for Peterborough County Graves.

In the establishment of the Coughlin Monumental Works are twenty-seven little pieces of marble that disprove the assertion that nobody cares for the poor who are dead. In life, the poor man or woman is an object of charity, sometimes grudgingly given, sometimes with kindly generosity. But seldom, in fact, never, as far as annals of Canadian towns or cities or villages show, are the poor dead remembered or their memories kept green. It remained for a member of the Peterborough County Council of a decade of years back to father a resolution which led to the purchase by the Council of headstones for the dead inmates of the House of Refuge. At that time, stones were placed over their remains in the cemeteries of Lakefield and Young's Point, where the old men and women find their last resting place. And just recently, the matter came up again, and those who have passed to God's Acre in the last ten years will soon have their graves marked with the neat little marble stones, twenty-seven in all, that represent another order placed with the Coughlin Monumetnal Works. Twelve by six inches, they are ornamental small slabs, lettered with the name and the date of decease, in keeping with "the short and simple annals of the poor."

Homer said: "The poor and the stranger are sent by Jove, and what we give to them we lend to him." The modern version puts it: "Giving to the poor is lending to the Lord." But that applies usually to the living creature. To the kindly instinct of some bygone councillor, whose imagination stretched in sympathy beyond the gates of death, the old people in the Peterborough County of Refuge are indebted for commemoration in a manner that has in it no reminder of last days spent in the consideration of "the salt savor of other's bread."

THE GROWING GIRL

REQUIRES A MOTHER'S CONSTANT CARE AND WATCHFULNESS

In their early teens it is quite common for girls to outgrow their strength, and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time, for it is when strength is sapped by too rapid growth that anaemia develops. The first signs may be noticed by peevishness, langour and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation follow, with low spirits.

At the first symptoms of anaemia mothers should act at once. Neglected anaemia often leads to decline, but if you see that your daughter's blood is enriched there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood enricher ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pure, red blood created by these pills will quickly banish all signs of anaemia. They will build up your girl's health and ensure her a robust girlhood. Give your daughter a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Make her strong like thousands of girls and women throughout Canada who have been rescued from the clutches of anaemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Committee Appointed For Scientific Research Into Foot-and-Mouth Disease

LONDON, Feb. 21. — (Canadian Press).—Noel Buxton, Minister of Agriculture, moving in the House of Commons Wednesday the second reading of an amendment to the Diseases of Animals Act with a view to the possible prevention of another serious outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease such as has recently decimated many farms in this country, announced that it was proposed to appoint a committee for scientific research into the foot-and-mouth disease. Sir Charles Sherrington, president of the Royal Society, will be chairman of the committee, Mr. Buxton stated.

BOXING COMMISSION AFTER TEX RICKARD

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press). — An investigation by the State Boxing Commission is expected to follow charges made by Tom O'Rourke that Tex Rickard had aided ticket speculators in connection with the Dempsey-Firpo fight last September. Rickard, in a formal statement last night, flatly denied the charges, which were made before the boxing repeal hearing at Albany, specifying that the promoter had turned over to one broker a block of tickets worth $135,000, which later was returned unsold.

George E. Brower, chairman of the Boxing Commission, declined to comment on the charges. He made public a letter to Rickard, however, warning him that the Commission would close Madison Square Gardens to boxing bouts, and revoke its license, unless speculators who were alleged to be selling tickets around the arena were curbed.

PALATINATE SITUATION IS UNDER DISCUSSION

DUBLIN, Feb. 21.—(British United Press).—A debate on the palatinate situation was continued this afternoon in the Reichstag.

The Monthly Cheque — That Never Fails

How the Money was Lost

"You see I had only a few thousand dollars left after the estate was settled—and my brother borrowed some to help him along; of course that went and then—

I simply had to help father with his business, he was so worried—and I thought it best to make an investment at once. Well that failed—and, really, if it were not for the monthly income cheque from the Canada Life I don't know how I should be getting along now."

It is all so simple and effective!

Just a few dollars set aside regularly, and the Canada Life will guarantee to your home a continuous monthly income.

What a relief to know that no matter what may happen, the monthly cheque that never fails, issued regularly by the Canada Life, will come to your home!

"Your present Life Insurance will perhaps "clear the mortgage," pay off the obligations of your estate, and leave something for your family, but

Consider This :

Financial problems should not be thrust upon a woman who is not used to business deals.

Therefore in addition to a "lump sum" of money, you should provide a definite income that cannot fail—

Because a weekly or monthly income is the natural thing for most people—

The Monthly Income Plan

Will solve the problem.

Only a few dollars saved and set aside from your regular earnings can be multiplied into a substantial income for your Beneficiary. You will be surprised to learn what a reasonable proposition can be made to you.

Petes Win Markham Round 13-2 and Are Set For Semi-Finals

Bowmanville Crowd Mobbed Referee Last Night and Broke Up Junior Hockey Game

SUPREMACY OF EASTERN ONTARIO YIELDS TO PETERBORO BY DEFEAT OF MARKHAM INTERMEDIARES 8-1

History Repeating Itself This Winter in Elimination Series Decisively Upset By Peterboro With the Elimination of the Conquerors of North Toronto — Game Never in Doubt.

Combination Featured.

The Petes climbed another rung higher on the O.H.A. ladder last night when they walloped the Markham crew at Brock street rink in the second game of their fourth round series by 8 goals to 1, capturing the round by the handsome majority of 13 to 2.

As the score indicates the blue shirts were much the better team. They were in front 2 to 0 at the end of the first period and 4 to 0 at the close of the second and their supremacy was never seriously threatened at any stage of the proceedings.

Markham tried hard and at times contributed some pretty rushing and stick handling but their attack lacked team play and they failed to show the same tenacious checking as distinguished their work on home ice. They wasted a lot of time whanging away at Dwyer from outside the defence while the Petes almost invariably worked in close to do their shooting. The difference in tactics is represented in the scoring summary and at that the Petes total of markers should have been higher, great work in the Markham net by Moore keeping the home score from reaching double figures.

The victory gives the Peterboro gang undisputed sway over the intermediate teams east of Toronto and they are now ready for the semi-final. They have come through so far handily and in good shape, escaping injuries to players and are in fine physical condition for the acid test that lies before them.

Delighted the Crowd.

The form they displayed last night was a delight to the home fans. True, they missed some easy chances for goal, but what team doesn't? The main thing was that they were combining effectively and getting inside frequently by clever shifting and passing that made their attack a puzzle to the Markham defence. And defensively they were equally as effective, the forwards poke checking cleverly in centre ice and whirling back fast to help out their defence while Parker and Halpin dealt with opposing rushes cooly and steadily. With Dwyer stonewalling behind this steady defence work it is a tough proposition to score many goals against the blue shirts, the last five games showing a record of only six enemy counters while the average against the Petes in the ten O.H.A. games played so far this sesaon has been exactly 1 4-5.

Personal Performance

Some of the Markham supporters maintained that Dwyer was 90 per cent of the Peterboro team. The Petes net guardian was certainly almost unbeatable last night and pulled off some fine stops of close in shots while the long ones were easy for him. In front of him both Parker and Halpin turned in about their best performance of the season both offensively and defensively Parker repeated his Markham record of scoring three goals and figuring in a couple of others and Halpin although he failed to find the net rushed nicely and checked very effectively. Up in front there was plenty of "pep" and everybody had a hand in the fun. Burgess who has been having tough luck in his shooting unlimbered his artillery last night and drove home two pretty counters. Ranger helped himself to the same number and Collins registered one and a couple of assists. Rose missed the summary, and unusual performance for him but he played clever hockey all the way and was always working.

Markham's Work.

Moore the Markham goalie did his best to hold his team up and he stopped plenty, dropping to his knees or throwing himself across the net to block close in shots. He beat the attack at least ten times when a score seemed certain. The old timer Stewart gave a good account of himself on the defence while on the forward line Cowie and Reesor were much the best although the latter marred his work by inaugurating a guerilla warfare in the last period that earned him three penalties and started some of the Petes on a campaign of retaliation with the result that some roughness crept into what had been for the first fifty minutes an absolutely clean game. Reesor got the only Markham goal after a fine rush while Cowie shot accurately and with a sting to nearly every drive.

Referee Jacobi, though far from well, handled the game in excellent style.

The crowd was large and enthusiastic.

The Initial Play.

The game started off as if it were going to be a repetition of the Markham fixture. The visitors checked very closely the first few minutes and the play was in mid-ice for some time. Halpin made the first dangerous attack when he tore off a rink length rush and missed the corner of the net by inches. Cowie the Markham right wing man went down the side nicely and Dwyer had to move fast to save. Rose drew the first penalty for bodying into the boards and while he was off, Halpin uncorked another nice rush only to have Moore block the drive. Moore saved a sure goal a little later by dropping to his knees after a combination rush had given Rose the rubber close in. Markham retaliated with one of their few effective pieces of combination but Dwyer fooled Reesor on the latter's close range shot.

Finally after twelve and a half minutes of the period had gone the Petes broke the ice. Ranger got away for a pretty rush and with only one defence man to beat gave Parker the pass and "Snap" raced in to flip the rubber between Moore's legs for the first counter of the game.

The Petes came right back for another. A combination rush took them inside but Moore saved the situation temporarily by falling on the puck. From the face off that followed Collins flipped the rubber out to Ranger who whirled round and cut loose a shot that nearly tore the net from its moorings. Moore had no chance to save.

Robb the big visiting defence man drew a penalty for holding and after he got back his defence mate the veteran Stewart tripped Collins and was also chased, the period ending before his sentence had been completed.

The Second Period.

The visitors had the first chance to score in the second period, Cowie getting in close only to have Dwyer block his effort. It was a great save. The Petes lost a couple of opportunities in quick succession but finally Collins Parker and Burgess went down together, Parker carrying the rubber. He slid it out to Burgess as the defence was reached and the little right winger drove home a beauty on a quick shot from the side. That made it 3 to 0 and the fourth was not long in coming.

Moore beat the Petes several times and then Ranger was chased for tripping. Markham had no opportunity of taking advantage of their numerical superiority, however, for Parker went down alone, and taking lots of time to get his shot away, picked the corner of the net with a bullet-like drive that beat Moore cleanly.

There was no further scoring in the period, although the Petes were close half a dozen times. Parker missed the open net once when Rose pulled the defence over and then made a perfect pass. It was a tough break, but the Petes had plenty of goals without that one.

Early in the third period Reesor drew a penalty, and while he was off the Petes scored the prettiest goal of the night. Parker started a rush, passed to Collins when approaching the defence, and Collins, although inside, and in a good position to shoot, flicked the rubber back to Parker at the goal mouth and Moore was caught flat-footed on the play. It was unselfish hockey on Collins 'part and the kind that makes goals certain.

A minute later Ranger increased the Petes' majority on the game to six on the round and on the round to ten, by racing down alone and drilling a beauty under Moore's arm into the net.

Markham got their only counter at this stage, thanks to a pretty individual rush by Reesor, who stickhandled through the Petes' forwards, went round the defence and was in on top of Dwyer, who stopped the shot, but deflected the rubber over so that it struck Reesor's stick and glanced into the net.

An epidemic of penalties distinguished the next few minutes. Collins was the first to go, then Reesor, and finally Ranger. The Petes kept on hammering along, however, and Burgess made the figures 7 to 1 on a lone rush and a beautiful shot from outside the defence.

Collins got the last one a little later, after a splendid whirling rush by Parker, who worked through the whole visiting team, only to have Moore make a fine save. Collins, however, got the rebound and registered.

Parker found the nets again soon after, but the play was called back and the figures remained at 8 to 1. Reesor and Rose served penalties during the remaining minutes and the game wound up with Markham trying hard for a second goal and Dwyer having a lot of fun handling their drives.

SPECULATION IN FIGHT TICKETS

ALBANY, N.Y., February 21 (Canadian Press). — Re-sale of tickets for the boxing bouts in New York City at prices far in advance of their face value will probably be made the subject of a New York Grand Jury investigation, it was understood here yesterday, as result of definite charges of ticket speculation in the Firpo-Dempsey fight made by Thomas O'Rourke, veteran boxing promoter, at a Legislative hearing on Tuesday on the proposed repeal of the Walker Boxing Law.

SNOW PREVENTS SPEED SKATING

Lake Placid Blanketed By Storm That Conquered Scrapers and Shovellers.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., February 21 (Canadian Press) — Owing to a heavy storm that blanketed the ice of Mirror Lake, despite the efforts of shovellers and scrapers, the two events of the international speed skating championships scheduled for yesterday were postponed until Friday morning.

The competitors agreed to remain here, although they had arranged to leave this morning for St. John, N.B., for the international indoor championships.

Experts who pinned their faith on Joe Moore, New York, to win the international championships, yesterday had shifted their allegiance, and were divided in support of Harry Kasky, Chicago, the Olympic team member who has displayed good form since the return of the team to America, and Charles Gorman, of St. John, the new national champion.

Kasky now has 40 points and Gorman 30.

To-day the half-mile and three-quarter-mile races will be contested, and the meet will be concluded on Friday with the 440-yard dash and the three-mile contest.

RIDICULED CHARGE

NEW YORK, February 21 (Canadian Press). — Events moved rapidly yesterday in the wake of sensational charges by Tom O'Rourke before the boxing repeal hearing at Albany that Tex Rickard, Madison Square Garden promoter, had aided ticket speculators in connection with the Dempsey-Firpo championship fight last September, turning over to one broken a block worth $135,000, which was later returned unsold.

Rickard ridiculed the charges in a formal statement calling upon the State Athletic Commission for an immediate investigation, and it was indicated that this would be the first step in sifting the situation, despite reports from Albany that O'Rourke's accusations might be turned over to a special grand jury for possible action.

BOWLING

Tuesday night in the Brinton Carpet Five Pin League at Solomon's Alleys the Carltons took two out of three from the Windsors.

Great bowling was turned in by the boys, six out of the ten players rolling over 500. Thomas was high man for the evening with 596 for his three games. O'Dette was next with 590 and Anderson next with 588. All three scores were within 20 pins of 600 and this is sure nice rolling. T. Dorrel had the high single of 247.

The Carltons rolled a total of 2646 for the three games, having 999 pins in the last game, just one pin short of a 1000.

Following are the scores:

Windsors—
T. Martyn	158	99	181	438
T. Dorrell	247	193	104	544
Pearson	167	128	140	435

NEW SENATOR HITS 'EM HARD

BYRON SPENCE

By Nea Service

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 21.—Byron Speece, sensational young rookie and one of the three leading hurlers in the Western League last season, has been sold to the Washington Senators for Shortstop O'Neill, a pitcher to be named later and a cash consideration.

Speece is a regular Babe Ruth at the bat in addition to being a good slabman. Last year he finished the season with a batting average of .336 and was used as a pinch hitter many times.

In one game against Tulsa, May 2, he brought in all the runs, Omaha winning, 4 to 1. Two homers and two doubles did the business.

In 1923 he won 26 games and lost 14. The year previous, with Norfolk in the Nebraska State League, he won 14 and lost nine games.

He's married, is 23 years of age and lives at Waynesboro, Ind.

HAMILTON WON OVER ST. PATS

But Victory Was Marred by Fistic Encounter That Ended in Broken Ribs.

HAMILTON, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press).—St. Patricks hopes of getting into second place in the N.H.L. race for the right to meet Ottawa for group honors were slightly blighted here last night when the lowly hams handed them a 3 to 1 lacing. It was one of the finest games played here this season, but was marred by a fist fight between Noble and Randall, which later developed into a free-for-all, and police had to step in once to stop action.

With only three minutes of playing time left, Noble went on a lone rush and was stopped by Randall. He dropped his stick and piled into the Hamilton player, knocking him to the ice. Other players rushed to the scene, and in an attempting to stop the fight they all fell in a heap. Even after being separated the first time the players went after each other again, and it was then that the police stepped in. Both were ruled off for the remainder of the game, but no arrests were made.

Jack Adams suffered several broken ribs in game. The Clever S. Pats wing man received his injury in body check with goldie Prodgers. Wire was sent ahead of the train to Toronto for an ambulance to meet the train.

OTTAWA TEAM SNOWBOUND.

MONTREAL, February 21. — Canadiens and Ottawa did not play their important national hockey league game at Mount Royal Arena here last night. The Ottawa team failed to put in its appearance, being snow bound aboard a Canadian National Railways train, which left Ottawa at noon.

The game will be played this evening.

Anticipating the usual speedy and stubborn battle between the old-time hockey rivals, another record crowd packed the arena; well over 6000 jammed every possible vantage point in the rink.

At ten o'clock when word was received that the train was not in the city, and that no information could be given as to the hour of its possible arrival, it was decided to call the game off.

BOW IN LEGISLATURE.

EDMONTON, February 20 (Special to The Examiner). — The Speaker reads prayers for the Royal Family in the Legislature under the strong pressure from the Liberals. The latter group threatened to appeal all legislation enacted on days when prayers are not read.

CAMPBELLFORD CURLING NEWS

Still Playing Off the Campbellford Cup—Personals.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21. — The competition for the Campbellford Cup has been played down to a question of superiority between the rinks skipped by F. J. Smith and R. H. Cole, and the final game will be played to-night. It is likely to attract a large crowd of spectators. Skip Cole's players are J. Poulton, M. West and A. J. Meyers, while those of Skip Smith are C. Duncalfe, J. Gay and H. Denike. The former rink will play for the District Cup.

At the Regent.

The historical film, "Rob Roy," as shown at the Regent for the first time last night and drew a fair house. The dramatist has allowed himself plenty of latitude in the matter of following the text of either history or fictious records of the life of this turbulent Scottish chieftain, but the plot as unfolded on the screen is interesting from start to finish, and the leading characteristics of the hero, as recalled by readers of the story upon which the screen version is based, are depicted with fidelity. The author of the pictorial drama has bestowed upon Rob Roy a nastly different bride from the Amazonian Helen McGregor who figures in Sir Walter Scott's novel, but on occasion the wife of the chieftain is not lacking in a display of the pugnacity and fearlessness which made her prototype famous.

Personals.

Kenneth MacAlpine of Stanwood is spending a few days in town.

A number of the Marmora players, who took part in the play, "Miss Fearless and Company," in the Parish Hall here, attended the dance given by the Twelve O'clock Club after their own performance.

TO DINE WITH KING.

LONDON, Feb. 20. — (Canadian Press). — Premier Ramsay MacDonald, his daughter Isbbel, John Robert Clynes, Lord Privy Seal, and Mrs. Clynes were among the guests invited to meet the King and Queen at a dinner given in honor of Their Majesties last evening by the Earl of Granard, newly appointed King's Master of Horse, and his Countess (nee Beatrice Ogden Mills).

LOCAL JUNIORS LEAVE ICE IN THIRD PERIOD

BOWMANVILLE, Feb. 2.—In a game played here last night the Peterboro Juniors showed the riotous bunch of Bowmanville fans, led by a so-called Bowmanville millionaire lumberman that they could handle themselves in a fight as well as play hockey.

The game was fast and clean in the early stages of the battle with both tams having one counter when the first period ended. Early in the second period when Hooper was penalized for aiding H. McDougal into the boards the sham battle got its start. The lumberman in question rushed out on the ice and grappled with the referee declaring that he was not giving the Bowmanville team a square deal. He was not on the ice long when the whole crowd were out with fire in their eyes and cinched fists. After several minutes the referee and the manager of the Bowmanville team succeeded in clearing the ice, and the play was resumed as fast as ever. With both teams going at top speed and checking like fiends. Hooper scored Bowmanville's second goal 3 minutes after the go in. H. McDougal scored on a pair from Collins but the referee ruled it offside. The Petes missed several good chances when they could not raise the puck off the ice. Both teams battled on for seven minutes without a score. Lebarr was then penalized for two minutes for taking a pass at Cameron who chopped him several times on the hands and wrists when he was down on his knees in front of the net.

The crowd once more left their seats and threatened the referee and Lebarr. They were cleared off however and the game started with Frenchy Holland taking Lebarr's place in the net. He stopped several hot shots in succession but Chartrand put one of his bullet like shots in before Lebarr got back on the ice, making the score 3-1 in favor of Bowmanville. When Lebarr returned to his citadel the Petes cut loose and forced the play but they could not push the puck behind Martin in the nets who played a wonderful game.

The third period was the one in which the real free-for-all fight took place. The Petes made several nice combination rushes, but they were all fruitless. Then the tide changed and the Green and White sweatered boys forced the play, for several minutes and Chartrand scored the fourth goal for the homesters on a swift shot from outside the defence.

Two minutes later Chartrand came right back and registered again, tying up the round. The crowd now went wild, and for the next few minutes the Petes had the best of the play. Martin hurt his hand when he fell on the ice, and the so-called millionaire, taking it for granted that Thornton, who had closed in on Martin to get the rebound on Collins' shot, had slashed the goalie, leaped over the boards with over a hundred followers, and made for the Peterboro players and representatives, and started a free-for-all fight, with about twenty men against each Peterboro man, and referee, L. Lebarr, Jr., was overpowered and downed to the ice, where he was punched and kicked by about half a rozen brawny men. L. Lebarr, Sr., has a mark on his forehead which he received when somebody sneaked up behind him and hit him a smash. Referee Cummings was badly beaten up, and it is thought that he has two ribs broken; while the rest of the Petes, who were all in the squabble, came out without a scratch.

Manager Jackson then called the Petes off the ice and refused to play any longer, while Referee Cummings a few minutes later called the game.

The Petes will likely be given the game but they are willing to play Bowmanville in Port Hope a sudden death game to decide the group championship.

The Bowmanville players and their management are very highly respected by the Petes for their conduct, both on and off the ice, and neither they or referee Cummings were responsible for the squabble on the ice, which will give Bowmanville a black eye in hockey in the future.

Outstanding Players

For Peterboro all the forwards played a good game and their back checking was good. The defence turned in a steady game with Holland's rushes always dangerous. The subs were equally as good as the rest, while Lebarr in goal had a busy night, keeping off the outraged fans and the fast shots of Chartrand and Hooper.

Martin in goal was undoubtedly the best of the Bowmanville outfit. He was unbeatable after the first period and he deserves the greater part of the credit for keeping the Petes from scoring. Chartrand was the goal getter, while Hooper was always a dangerous man to the Petes The rest all turned in a good game and backchecked clean and well.

The teams lined up as follows:

Peterboro

Lebarr, goal; Thornton and Holland defense; H. McDougal, centre; N. Collins, right wing; H. Cheu, left wing; M. McDougal, Willianms subs.

J. Cummings of Toronto, handled the bell fairly, giving neither team anything and getting everything. The crowd got a little worked up when the game was close. They would have given anything or done anything to see their boys put the Petes out of it and when one man went out on the ice the rest followed suit.

First Period.

The first period started off fast from the face-off. H. McDougall carried the puck from centre ice and had the first shot at Martin, which was dead on. Holland missed a beautiful chance to score when he missed the open corner of the net by inches. Lebarr had to work quick to get Gilfillan's shot from a scrimmage in front of the net. Collins got through the entire team on a lone rush but the goalie rushed out and checked before he got his shot. Lebarr made a nice save on Hoopers' side shot. The Petes were robbed of another sure goal when H. McDougal batted the puck past the goal post after obtaining Holland's rebound. Chartrand drew the first penalty for slashing H. McDougal. Hooper followed him about two seconds later for slashing H. McDougal. While Chartrand and Hooper were off, Holland scored a goal on a pass from N. Collins, who had carried the puck the length of the ice. Thirty seconds later Chartrand scored for Bowmanville on a long shot from outside the defence. The Petes forced the play for the greater part of this period and when the gong sounded the score stood 1-1.

Second Period.

The second period started fast, with the Bowmanville aggregation getting a little the better of the play. Cheu robbed himself when he failed to raise the puck off the ice. Hooper scored a lucky goal from a scrimmage in front of the net, the puck bounding into the corner of the net. Gilfillan was sent to the bench for upsetting Williams. While he was off Williams nearly beat the goalie on a close-in shot. Hooper got a well deserved penalty for riding H. McDougal into the boards, laying him out. After this penalty was handed out the crowd mobbed the referee and grapled with him. H. McDougal scored on a pass from N. Collins, but the pass was offside. The Petes lost the chance of their lives when Holland missed the open net when Martin was laying on the ice. The puck took a regular pilgrimage from end to end for 7 minutes without a score. Hooper made a rink length dash, but Cheu forced him into the corner. Lebarr was penalized when he left his net and took after Cameron, who chopped him several times on the hands. When he was on his knees blocking the side of the goal, the crowd once more ventured out on the ice tried to cause trouble, but were chased. Charron skated down the boards and tore a fast one to Holland, giving him little chance to save. When the period ended the score stood—Bowmanville 3, Peterborough 1.

Final Period.

It was in this period that the real rough stuff was pulled off. The green and whites, with two goals down on the round and full of confidence, set up a fast, steady pace that kept the Petes hustling to keep up with them.

M. McDougal made a nice rush and passed to Holland, who shot high. Thornton circled in front of the net and lost the puck, giving Chartrand a point blank shot, but Lebarr made a beautiful save. Bowmanville came down the ice two and three abreast, but the Petes' forwards were checking like fiends and they spoiled several dangerous rushes. Hooper was rushed up on the forward line and they pressed the play for several minutes. After seven minutes of fast, clean hockey, Chartrand lifted one past Lebarr from close in, making the score 4 to 1, with Bowmanville still one down on the round. Williams and Cheu combined in a nice rush, but the goalie was unbeatable. Three minutes later Chartrand evened up the score on a long shot from outside the defence. Condon was given three minutes for tripping Collins when he was right in on the goalie. The Petes peppered Martin with loads of shots but he was unbeatable. Martin was hurt when he fell on his hand. The crowd, thinking Thornton was the cause of the accident, started a free-for-all, which ended with the Petes refusing to play. Final score—Bowmanville 5, Peterborough 1.

Summary.

1 Holland, assisted by Collins, 8.30 mins.
2 Chartrand, 9.00 mins.

Second Period.

3 Hooper, 3.00 mins.
4 Chartrand, 10 mins.

Third Period.

5 Chartrand, 7.00 mins.
6 Chartrand, 11.00 mins.

Penalties.

Peterborough—L. Lebarr 1.

CANADIAN BOXER WON.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Bobby Eber, of Hamilton, Canadian bantamweight champion, defeated Whitey Wimler, of Pittsburgh, here last night on points.

Eber outboxed Wimler in every round and handed out lots of punishment, and in the ninth and tenth rounds he staged furious attacks towards the close that had Wimler in distress.

Other results were:

Tommy Mitchell, Toronto (129), won from Sid. Conn, England (129¼), the referee's decision after six rounds.

Harry Freeman, Toronto (148½), knocked out Joe Bashara, Norfolk, Va. (150½), in the fourth round.

"WHEN ODDS ARE EVEN" GIVES RUSSELL CHANCE OF CAREER.

It was the ingenuous mind of Dorothy Yost which conceived the labyrinthian plot complications of William Russell's just completed William Fox production, "When Odds are Even," a romantic melodrama due to open at the Regent Theatre to-day for a three days' run.

William Russell is unusually favored in having a vehicle which, coming from the pen of this brilliant woman, suits his type perfectly. It is a story written directly for the famous player and Miss Yost has overlooked no potentiality he possesses in either dramatic situation or scenic background.

Continuing where Miss Yost left off, director James Flood has employed every resource to develop the story, according to its original conception. Where Miss Yost's script called for a South Sea Island, an authentic replica was created. Where the story required an ancient sailing schooner or a modern Atlantic liner, these were procured at any cost.

The famous line, "Things are not what they seem," does not apply to this production because director Flood and William Russell himself insisted on unadulterated realism, even where it was painful, as in the case of the man terrific fist-battles.

AT THE GRAND

"SO THIS IS LONDON"

Arthur Goodrich's comedy, "So This is London," a George M. Cohan success of New York and London, is offered at the Grand Friday and Saturday.

The play, though pure comedy, nevertheless takes the turn of a distinct appeal for international friendship. Coming close upon the visit of David Lloyd George to this country, it seems a happy coincidence that his plea for American understanding of England and continental Europe in the present state of unsettlement should be followed by stage propaganda—comedy though it is—for a less hostile attitude of American and English individuals against each other.

The play amuses the audience with the persiflage and wit of the two nationalities, running all the way from the turning off of Niagara Falls because of labor troubles to the July Fourth birthday of George Washington.

From a feminine viewpoint the show is quite attractive as a fashion display, for the women of the cast wear gowns of the most exquisite materials and designs, each act bringing its own distinctive creations.

"The very first position I ever had on the stage was obtained by telling an outrageous fib," laughingly confesses Edmund Elton, the robust asylum guard in "The Cat and the Canary," at the Grand Wednesday, February 27th. Mr. Elton, in private life is the very antithesis of the character he portrays on the stage. A quiet, refined gentleman, and earnest student of his art, he has a host of friends and admirers in his profession.

"Naturally, I would hesitate before advising anyone to attempt to gain an entrance through the stage door by the same means," he continued, "for I don't think it was a very nice thing to do. I was determined to go on the stage. For years I had dreamed of it, I had studied the principal Skakespearean plays until I knew several parts in each of them and had a good general knowledge of the entire plays. I never lost an opportunity of seeing one of the great tragedians and knew all the traditional stage business of the plays. One day Lewis Morrison came to Boston. He was playing a repertoire of his plays and I was beginning to get desperate. Summoning up courage, I called on him at the Parker House, where he was staying, and asked for a position.

"'Where have you played before?' he asked. I told him I had played with Alexander Salvini and mentioned some of the latter's performances which I had seen and knew the plays well. Mr. Morrison gave me a keen glance, as if he knew I was lying and then asked me if I knew certain scenes in 'Hamlet,' in 'Othello' and some of the other plays. Of course, I knew them. He then tried me in the dialogue, but I had the lines and played the scenes with him. He engaged me at the princely salary of $35 a week. He was a fine man and a real artist. Under his direction I learned my business well, and when I left him I was pretty well equipped as to technique. Thus, you see, while I told a lie to get the position, I was well prepared for it. Nevertheless, I don't think I would do it again and I certainly will not counsel any beginner to try the same course to enter the profession. I will confess, however, that there was nothing very original about the trick and it is being done every day, as any manager can tell you."

CAROL DEMPSTER in D.W. GRIFFITH'S "ONE EXCITING NIGHT" At the Grand last time to-night.

THRILLS AND LAUGHS IN NEW GRIFFITH FILM

"One Exciting Night" a Mystery Picture, and One that Will Live in Industry

There is a thrill, a chill and a good laugh at the Grand Theatre where D. W. Griffith's new cinema, "One Exciting Night,".

"One Exciting Night," a United Artists release, is a mystery drama, with just enough comedy to relieve a tense situation when the plot begins to thicken. While Mr. Griffith has departed from the heavy and spectacular, he has produced a picture that will live among the immortals of the silver screen. It is one of the best photoplays ever shown and a well balanced cast of characters, which is headed by Miss Carol Dempster, who shares the honors with Henry Hull.

The producer has left nothing undone to make the picture a real thriller. Spooky hands, secret panels, shadows and darting figures all have their play, while Porter Strong and Miss Harrison, playing servants are humorous throughout. Just before the identity of mysterious villain becomes known there is a storm scene, which is about the most realistic ever produced on the screen.

AT THE CAPITOL

FILM ACTORS DIDN'T KNOW DRAMA'S END

"Who's guilty?"

This is the question the entire town is seeking, since "The Acquittal," Universal's new tale of bewilderment starts today at the Capitol theatre. Those who have seen it, and are in the know, smile wisely. They won't tell, for it has been suggested before that it's not well to give away the puzzle and spoil the play for those who haven't seen it.

That's why the audiences watch with bated breath, why they suspect every character in the play in turn, until the dramatic climax clears the mystery in a single flash.

Here's an interesting thing about the mystery: while Clarence L. Brown was directing it at Universal City, he took a page of the script every day, and none of the actors knew what the end would be until it was actually presented.

"I don't know whether I'm the hero or the villian," he complained, and Brown had to take him into the secret finally. Kerry and Miss Windsor head a notable all-star cast in the filmization of Rita Weiman's famous Broadway stage play; Richard Travers, Charles Wellesley, Barbara Bedford, Frederick Vroom, Ben Deely, Hayden Stevenson, Anton Vaverka, Dot Farley, Harry Mestayer and other film notables appear with them. The court room scenes are spectacular in the extreme.

AT THE ROYAL

ZANE GREY STORY PRODUCED ON MASSIVE SCALE.

A whole town destroyed in a spectacular battle which brought lasting peace to the great plains—the strife of primitive men for a great patriotic cause—an epic in national progress.

This is the spectacle of "The Heritage of the Desert," an adaptation of Zane Grey's famous story which has been produced as a Paramount picture, due at the Royal Theatre to-day. The battle is for water rights—the thing which turns the blistering heat of the desert into an earthly paradise of fertility. This fight, started 45 years ago, is still being carried on to-day. Seven states are waging a legal conflict at Washington for possession of water rights to the Upper Colorado River in Southern Utah.

Hundreds of players, including a tribe of Navajo Indians, lend picturesqueness to this picture. A cavalcade of 300 persons travelled on horseback from Flagstaff into these beautiful locations 150 miles to record this great phase in American history upon the screen. They suffered the same hardships as the people they imitated, braving desert heat and passing along roads built along the sheer face of canyons.

THRILLS IN EVERY FOOT OF NEW FILM.

Railroad construction, plots and counterplots in a big engineering camp, hair-breadth escapes and breath-taking adventures form the background for "The Steel Trail," Universal's big chapter-play of railroad-building, starring William Duncan and Edith Johnson, which is now playing at the Royal Theatre.

Crammed with spectacular incidents, every foot of the fast moving story is crowded with action. Duncan, as the engineer in charge of the big construction camp in the wilderness, battling plots of enemies from financial centres on one hand and the fury of the elements on the other, has a virile role that he handles with all his skill at characterization.

The cast is a notable one. John Cossar plays the part of the owner of the road, Harry Carter is seen as Zabel, a financial wolf menacing the progress of the pioneer road, Ralph Fee McCullough as Norton, the loyal line surveyor, while Mabel Randall, Frank Whitson, Harry Woods and Cathleen Calhoun are among the players.

Scenes showing the actual laying of rails in a road specially constructed for the play, the swinging into place of a giant bridge, and other actual railway operations add a dramatic and natural touch to the story.

TWO CLEVER VAUDEVILLE ACTS AT ROYAL TO-NIGHT.

Coming here highly recommended by the Lyric Theatre, Kitchener, as two of the best acts they have played, Rittle Bros. and Nowatt and Mullen will make their bow to Peterboro audiences to-day, Friday and Saturday. The former team offer a strong act, "Muscular Marvels," while Nowatt and Mullen, as the sunburnt pair, offer a clever line of talk and new songs. This is in addition to the Zane Grey production, "The Heritage of the Desert" with Bebe Daniels and Ernest Torrence of "Covered Wagon" fame.

Alberta Farms Show Higher Cash Return.

EDMONTON, February 21 (Canadian Press). — That the average cash return per farm in Alberta in 1923 was actually $18.00 higher than the average for the years 1918, 1919, and 1920, when the grain prices were at their peak, was the statement of John Imrie, managing director of the Edmonton Journal in an address here yesterday.

Mr. Imrie said that the low prices in 1922 were more than made up by the increase in yield in wheat, oats and barley, the wheat crop being more than double the largest previous crop in the Province.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(British United Press.)— Initial trading in the stock market was fairly active, with prices irregular, showing fractional changes from the previous closing. After the first 10 minutes of trading the list strengthened, led by Independent Oils, Sinclair getting to 21 5-8, compared with previous close of 21. Marland was active, selling to 37, compared with an opening of 36 3-8. Standard Oil of New Jersey was up fractionally at 38 3-8. Steel common got to about 103 and other leaders improved on opening levels. Foreign exchange was better, reflecting settlement of English dock workers' strike.

The end of the second hour found the market showing a strong undertone with some short covering going on. Several wire houses reported service still crippled to various points. All eyes are on Washington in regard to tax matters, and undoubtedly this phase of legislation will be a pivotal one until it is cleaned up.

ANOTHER ORDER FOR THE HAMILTON FIRM

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., said to-day that the William Hamilton Company had received another Government order, which made something over twelve hundred dollars' worth of work they had received since the first of the year.

Mr. Gordon said he was hoping something might be done toward completing the canal this year, unless there was too much complaint of not balancing the budget.

HAD WEEKLY HIKE.

Last evening, the Peterborough Snowshoe and Ski Club to the number of about 35 of the members, held their regular weekly hike. Commencing at Rye's boat house, they proceeded on snowshoes and skis across the river and up to the lift-locks, finishing their tramp at the Westclox establishment, which was once more available, through the kindness of Mr. J. H. Vernor. Refreshments, community singing and dancing were enjoyed, the party breaking up at midnight.

Canada's Output of Pig-Iron Increases.

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The quantity of pig iron produced in Canada during the month of January advanced seven per cent. over the December output of 59,622 and showed a marked increase over the outputs in January of the last three years. The output of basic pig iron was 39,386 tons of which 1,625 tons was produced for sale and the balance was for further use in the industry. The production of ferro-alloys remained constant during the month at 3,910 tons consisting of the grade containing a low silicon content.

For Extension of Eastern and Western Lines This Year — 50,000 Tons of Rails From the Algoma Steel Corporation.

MONTREAL, Feb. 21. — The Canadian Pacific Railway has given an order to the Algoma Steel Corlines and 25,000 for eastern lines.

This year's program for improvements and betterments of western lines, that is lines west of Fort William and Port Arthur was made known to-day at the head office here of the company. The program for the eastern lines will be announced later.

18 PER CENT CABLE RATE IN FORCE ON THE C.P.R.

Company Maintains a Close Working Arrangement With Marconi.

Effective yesterday the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs have established an 18 cent cable rate from Eastern Canada to Great Britain and Ireland. The C.P.R. are fortunate in connecting with three powerful trans-Atlantic cables and wireless companies. The Commercial Cable Company who have quite recently completed laying of the most modern and efficient cables between Canada and the United Kingdom, the Imperial cable, British owned, is reliable, fast and accurate, the C.P.R. exchange wireless traffic and maintain a close working arrangement with the Marconi Wireless Company.

PETERBORO MALE VOICE CHOIR

The above organization had its forces depleted considerably at the regular weekly rehearsal on Tuesday evening. Bad weather prevailed and several of the members were indisposed. The 39 members, however, who attended, put in two hours of good work, and progress was made in the new selections and one of the new test pieces to be sung at the Ontario Musical Festival. Mr. Chenhall, the musical director, is well satisfied with the work of the choir at this stage of the season, and all that is necessary now is for full attendances at the future practices. The annual concert is fixed for Friday, March 28th at the Grand Opera House. The executive are confident of giving its patrons the finest offering yet attempted by the Peterboro Male Voice Choir, and a capacity house is expected. Subscribers' lists are now in the hands of the choir members and the public is asked to place their names on these early, so as to be assured of procuring good seats.

DYSPEPSIA WAS SO BAD Could Hardly Eat Anything

Mrs. C. Stone, Nanticoke, Ont., writes:—"Some time ago I had a very serious attack of dyspepsia and was also troubled with gas on my stomach. I could hardly eat anything, and very often had pains after meals. I had used different medicine, but they didn't seem to do me any good. At last I happened to run on the track of Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it for a short time I felt a lot better. I continued its use until I was completely relieved and now I am ready to recommend it to anyone troubled as I was."

Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ODD SITUATION ONTARIO HOUSE

Hon. Manning Doherty Gets a Leader's Salary

TORONTO, February 21 (Canadian Press). — There will be an odd situation in the House respecting groups if there is no change made by legislation or if the U.F.O. is not recognised as official Opposition.

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, stated that there must be fifteen members before the leader may have a salary.

Hon. Manning Doherty has more than fifteen followers, and therefore gets a salary. This creates this situation: That the leader of the recognised official Opposition, the Liberals, gets no salary, while the leader of the secondary Opposition, the U.F.O., gets $1,500 a year, in addition to his sessional indemnity.

Asked this morning if there would be legislation to change this situation, the Premier said he had not considered it.

The debate on the Budget will proceed in the Legislature this afternoon.

Harold Fisher, Liberal critic, will be the first speaker. He will be critical of both the U.F.O. financial policy and that Mr. Price proposes. He will be followed by a U.F.O. speaker although the main defence of the Party will not likel be brought forward to-day.

The Home Bank failure will probably come up for discussion in the Legislature because of a resolution placed on the order paper by J. W. Freeborn (U.F.O., East Middlesex).

Mr. Freeborn has given notice that he will move: "That in the opinion of this House the Federal Government should protect depositors of all banks chartered by the Federal Government, and should assume the responsibility of meeting in some way the losses sustained by depositors of the defunct Home Bank."

Opposition members of the Legislature protest against the employment of boys of 10 to 16 years of age as pages in the House. They say they are kept away from school.

OBITUARY

JOHN CROSS

The death occurred at Nicholl's Hospital, on Wednesday, February 20th, at 7 a.m. of John Cross, aged 47 years. The deceased was born in Lancashire, England, coming to Canada four years ago, after serving 22 years in the Scots Guards.

He is survived by his sorrowing wife two sons; John and William and one daughter; Winifred all at home.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, 57 Aylmer street, on Saturday afternoon, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Funeral of the late John Cross will be held at All Saints' church at 2 p.m. on Saturday afternoon Feb. 23rd with Rev. Dr. Blagrave officiating.

CHARLES BOSWELL.

The death occurred in Lakefield on Tuesday, February 19th, of Charles Boswell in his 88th year. Mr. Boswell has been in ill-health for the past two weeks. He was born in Cobourg, and spent practically all his life in Ontario. For the past 18 years he has resided in Lakefield. He was well-known in this district and highly respected.

He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his sorrowing wife, one son, William, of Schriber, Ontario.

The funeral took place this morning at 9 o'clock from the late residence to the G. T. R. Station. Interment took place in the Little Lake Cemetery. The service was held at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening, conducted by Rev. W. Cox, of the Anglican Church, Lakefield.

Curling News

In the first round of the Ladies' Tankard games in Toronto played yesterday morning in the Oakwood Club rink, the Peterboro players were victorious, emerging 2 up. In the preliminary round, they came out ahead by 1 shot. The Toronto Globe has the following to say about the games:

TORONTO, Feb 21. — At 10 o'clock this morning at the Oakwood Club's Rink, Peterboro' and Queen City will meet in the final of the ladies' Ontario Tankard. At the same time the final of the Consolation will be played between Oakwood and Toronto.

Stormbound though they were yesterday morning, the ladies got their competition under way in comparatively good time. Peterboro' beat Toronto Granite in the preliminary round by one shot, Mrs. Cork of the Church Street Club defeating Miss Gladman of the visitors 11 to 10, while Mrs. Hill of Peterboro' won from Mrs. Norman Smith by 9 to 7.

In the first round Queen City had a three-shot margin on Oakwood, winning 19 to 16, while Peterboro' duplicated their victory in the preliminary round by eliminating To-20 to 18. Oakwood beat Granite in the Consolation by two shots and will meet Toronto this morning.

The first round provided a most thrilling game between Peterboro' and Toronto, two extra ends being required. At the conclusion of the regulation ten ends the score was 18 to 18 on both sheets. On the eleventh end Mrs. Hill of Peterboro' was two up, but the tie remained unbroken when Miss McDiarmid finished two up on the other sheet. On the twelfth end Peterboro' were one up on each rink, winning by 22 to 20. Scores:

HYTHE, Feb. 21. — (Canadian Press.)—Sir Henry Lucy, known as "Toby, M.", of London "Punch," died last night in his 79th year.

ST. JOHN'S A.Y.P.A. HELD GOOD MEETING

In St. John's Parish Hall last evening, a very enjoyable concert was given under the auspices of St. John's A.Y.P.A., with a good attendance. The first part of the programme consisted of a school-room concert, by A.Y.P.A. members, and the second part was a miscellaneous programme, with visiting artists contributing to an entertaining portion of the programme. Rev. Dr. Blagrave spoke briefly at the intermission.

The stage was arranged to simulate a school-room, and much fun was extracted from the bright little offering, in which all were in juvenile costume. Miss Julia Nicholls acted as the teacher, Mr. George Wesley as the janitor, and Mr. Hugh Lush as the inspector. Vocal numbers were given by Mrs. F. Craig, Mrs. Kelsey and Mrs. B. Singleton, the Misses Florence Hutchinson, Lillian Farthing and Betty Smith, and Messrs. Gordon Ham, Ronald Fleming, Fraser Watson and George Wesley. The direction of the little play was in the capable hands of Messrs. George Wesley and Hugh Lush. Those taking part were: Mesdames B. Singleton, Kelsey, J. Cridland, F. Craig, the Misses Aloha Horn, Florence Hutchinson, Betty Smith, Grace Nicholls, Naomi Horn, Annie Shaw, Winnie Melton, Mildred Trollope, Lillian Farthing, Lillie Bacon and Julia Nicholls, and Messrs. Ronald Fleming, Bert Graham, Jack Stephenson, Buster Hutchinson, Jack Marshall, Gordon Hamm, Fraser Watson, Jack Collis, H. Lush and George Wesley.

In the second portion of the programme, vocal solos were given by Mrs. B. Singleton, who sang "Mignonette"; Miss R. Quartermaine, "Come to the Fair"; Mr. J. Smith, "The Grey Watch"; Mr. R. Hendry, "Bella, the Belle o' Dunoon" and "Back to Where the Heather Grows"; a solo and monologue by Mr. Hugh Lush, "That Old Gang of Mine"; a reading by Mrs. J. Cridland, and a sword dance by Miss Annie Logan. Accompanists for the occasion were the Misses Aloha Horn, Florence Hutchinson and Grace Nicholls and Jack Marshall.

JOHN SCHELL CHANGES HIS STORY OF COMPANION'S DEATH AND CALLS ON GOD TO WITNESS OWN INNOCENCE

Admitted Having Told Police There Was No Shooting in the Galway Shack But Swore in His Own Defence on Wednesday That MacNeal Shot Himself While Schell Went to the Spring For Water—Found Him Lying on Floor With Rifle Across Right Arm.

MAY HAVE BEEN ACCIDENTAL.

The end of the third day of the trial of John Schell for the wilful murder of George Washington MacNeal in Schell's hunting shack in Galway township found the accused in the witness box undergoing a gruelling cross-examination by the crown prosecutor, A. B. Cunningham, K.C. He was called shortly after four o'clock by C. G. Frost, his counsel, and told his story of the tragedy, in the course of which he passionately declared his innocence. "I am not guilty, as there is a God in the sky. I did not fire the shot. I am not guilty, so help me God", was his statement.

Martin Robinson, a rifle expert, said in his opinion the muzzle of the rifle projected south past the southerly bunk when it was fired, and the trigger was about the southerly rack, mentioned in the morning evidence. The police claimed the bullet was fired from the north east.

Mr. Robinson showed several ways in which the rifle might have been accidentally discharged. It was 37 years old he said, and the trigger had a very light action. There was no half cock, and these two facts made the probability of an accident more likely.

The jury spent the night at the Munro Hotel under the charge of two constables, and returned there after yesterday's hearing. It was expected that the case will be concluded today.

Ballastic Expert.

Martin Robinson, of the Winchester Arms Co. is a ballastic engineer with experience since 1904. He had been recognized in several courts in United States as an expert.

It was his opinion that the bullet found in the tree was a 40-82 calibre. It was probably the bullet that caused the death of Mac Neal.

"The man must have been facing the westerly wall," Mr. Robinson said, when he was stopped by an objection from the crown prosecutor.

Examining the rifle said to be Schell's, the witness said the gun left his factory about 37 years ago. The rifle was dirty inside and had a light trigger pull.

Mr. Justice Mowat: "Is that due to wear?"

The rifle had no half cock, he said.

Mr. Frost: "If there was a cartridge in the barrel and you pulled back the hammer to a position not quite at full cock and let it go would it discharge the rifle?"

"Undoubtedly, if it was pulled back far enough."

"Could the deceased have reached the rifle in the rack.....?"

The crown prosecutor objected and was upheld.

"Suppose the rifle was in the rack and the rifle was being withdrawn can you demonstrate any ways in which the rifle could be discharged?"

"If the rifle was cocked and was being pulled forward the trigger might catch."

Mr. Cunningham: "I submit that is not the evidence of a ballastic engineer."

The evidence was allowed and the witness said the rifle might have been discharged by a jolt. In the case of a gun not cocked the hammer might have caught on a projection and on being released it would discharge the cartridge.

"This particular gun has been tampered with or repaired by some gunsmith," he continued, "and the hammer does not stop at half cock. In sliding the rifle out of the rack the hammer might have caught and been drawn back. On being released it would set off the cartridge."

The burning of the skin around the wound would indicate that the muzzle of the rifle must have been held close to the body, within 24 inches. In this particular case the witness thought within six inches.

"Do you think the bullet going through the board in the shack would deflect it?"

"Not to any extent."

Mr. Robinson's opinion was that the rifle or the muzzle of the rifle was south of the southerly bunk. "In my opinion the trigger was at the south gun hook or thereabouts."

"When pulling the rifle out of the rack, might the hammer have become cocked and then the trigger have caught on the nail and the rifle discharge?"

"Yes."

Exhibiting the board containing the bullet hole Mr. Frost asked whether the hole had been cut. Mr. Justice Mowat said not to degrade the expert witness by asking a question that could be settled by the jury men for themselves with a magnifying glass.

In cross examination Mr. Cunningham asked whether a bullet striking a twig might be deflected.

"Are there not evidences that the bullet wen through the hole in a tumbling condition? Would you expect it to travel in a straight line?"

"It might be to some degree deflected by the tumbling. It would not be deflected by passing through the board.

"The bullet is deformed. Would you expect it to travel straight?"

"No. Perhaps not quite."

"The line on the plan from the tree to the shack is an absolutely straight line."

"Yes."

"Then the bullet would not probably travel that line."

"It's not probable."

The pull on the trigger of Schell's rifle is about 3½ pounds whereas rifles are now turned out with a pull of 6 or 7 pounds.

The witness admitted he had only examined one shell, that was given him by Mr. Frost.

"The distance at which the rifle would have to be held from the clothes to ignite them would depend on the charge of black powder?"

"No, it would not. The flame will not burn the clothing at a greater distance than two feet."

"This rifle is in safe condition outside of the light trigger pull and the missing half cock, the witness said.

Schell Tell His Story.

John Schell entered the witness box at 4.15, the last witness for the defence. He identified his cartridge belt which had been taken from the shack with MacNeal's body.

The first time he saw MacNeal was two weeks before he went into the shack. He told of the party going to his shack when he was there on October 27. He got a meal ready.

"Did you have any meat at the camp?"

"No."

"Did you see anything of a bottle of liquor?"

"Yes. An ale bottle."

"Where did you first see it?"

"When MacNeal came in to treat us all before dinner."

"What did it taste like?"

"It was hot burny stuff. I just took a swallow."

Continuing the story of the day, Schell said in the afternoon my boy George and Roy MacNeal went to a lake. George MacNeal went

FARMERS URGE LOWER TARIFF

Canadian Council of Agriculture Drafted Bill of Complaints to Be Presented to Ottawa—Rigid Economy in Administration.

REGINA, Feb. 22.—Decision to send a delegation to Ottawa to impress on the Federal Government the urgent necessity of giving consideration to matters of vital interest to the farming population of Canada, was reached at Thursday's session of the Canadian Council of Agriculture.

The measures suggested by the council include:

The need of immediate and substantial reductions in customs tariff;

The use of the National credit to provide the agricultural industry at reasonable interest rates with intermediate and long-term credits;

The need for rigid economy in Governmental administration;

The necessity for revaluing the Canadian National Railway System;

Providing equalized freight rates on grain on western and eastern routes;

Calling a conference of all interested parties to define the fields of taxation of the Federal, Provincial and Municipal authorities;

Immediate completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway;

The appointment of a joint committee of both Houses of Parliament to hear evidence and report on the matter of Senate reform.

Ontario for Abolition

The clause regarding the reform or the Senate was disapproved by the United Farmers of Ontario, whose representative stood fast for the abolition of the body. Another clause not agreed to unanimously was that in support of prohibition in Canada. The United Farmers of Quebec are staunchly opposed to this.

The question of the Vancouver terminal facilities was left in the hands of the executive which was instructed to investigate the matter thoroughly and act on their findings.

Amend Divorce

On recommendation of the women's section, the council passed a resolution urging the Dominion Government to amend the divorce law of Canada so as to make the grounds for divorce the same for women as for men.

A. W. Amos, president of the United Farmers of Ontario was re-elected president of the council, with C. H. Burnell president of the organization in Manitoba, as vice-president.

Officers for the women's section are:

President —Mrs. J. B. Amos, Ontario; Vice-President—Mrs. R. B. Gunn, Alberta; Secretary — Miss Amy Roe, Winnipeg.

Budget a Blunder and Burlesque Says Doherty

OPPOSITION IN HALIFAX HOUSE ARE TRUCULENT

Amendment Offered to Speech From Throne Proposing Dissolution to Test Electorate on Government's Record—Of Four Ministers Only Premier Elected By Contest.

Many Interruptions.

HALIFAX, N.S. Feb. 21—(Canadian Press).—Considerable cross-firing between Premier E. H. Armstrong and various members of the opposition featured the resumed debate in the address in reply to the speech from the Throne in the local legislature this afternoon. The Premier replying to an amendment of Howard Corning M.F.F. of Yarmouth which in effect asked for an investigation into the coal mining situation in the province and also asked for the dissolution of the House in order to test electorate on the Government's record was constantly interrupted and requested by the opposition to adhere to the amendment. The Speaker ruled that Mr. Armstrong was within the scope of the amendment and had to intervene on several occasions.

Usurping Power

The debate was resumed by Mr. Corning who delivered an onslaught on the Government's expenditures with particular reference to the high ways program. He accused the Government of "usurpation of power" and charged that they did not have the confidence of the electorate. He pointed out that of the four Ministers with portfolios, Hon. Messrs. Armstrong, Cameron, Chisholm and O'Hearn, only the Premier himself had obtained his seat as the result of a contested election.

Mr. Corning dwelt at length on the British Empire Steel Corporation and declared that when the legislation affecting this organization was under discussion in the Legislature the present Provincial Secretary, Hon. D. A. Cameron, was at that time enjoying a "retainer from the corporation" while at the same time occupying a seat in the Legislative Council. He twitted the Government with not calling an election when the executive council was reorganized following the resignation of Hon. G. H. Murray from the Premiership. It was commonly known, said Mr. Corning, that this had been under consideration "but the conditions at that time did not suit the machine" he said.

Partizan Amendment

In reply, the Premier charged Mr. Corning with being actuated by purely partizan motives in introducing the amendment. The Government would go to the country in their own good time said the Premier, when they would have a proper opportunity of consulting the people and, as in the past, they would stand by the verdict of the electorate. The Premier attacked the amendmnt in its various aspects and was frequently interrupted by the opposition.

POLICE SEARCHED MAN SURRENDERED

Gravina, Said to Have Shot an Automobile Salesman, Gave Himself Up.

HAMILTON, Feb. 22. —(Canadian Press.)—Sought by the police of many cities since the attempted murder of William Smith, an automobile salesman, last Friday, Antonio Gravina, a young Italian, walked into police headquarters last night and gave himself up.

From what the police learned, Gravina has been in hiding at the home of a countryman who lives close to Hamilton.

Gravina, it is said, will seek to defend his shooting of Smith on the ground that Smith first drew an automatic pistol.

Raw-Meat Wild Men Banned by Midways

CHICAGO, February 22. — The movement to clean up the carnival business and to protect carnivals deemed legitimate will be aided by a trade journal overlord as well as by a lawyer.

The Showmen's Legislative Committee elected Rick Collins, Chicago, editor of an amusement trade paper, as Deputy Commissioner and Adviser.

Mr. Collins stated that the Committee was embarked upon a rigid policy of enforcement of regulations. It bans all games where the attendant by mechanical device may determine the outcome.

Another rule provides that "no press agent is permitted to make false statements and representations."

All shows where persons eat raw meat and other unconventional articles of diet, to give the impression that they are wild men, also are contraband.

JUDGE AGHAST AT CRIME WAVE

Blames Home and School and Not Effects of War For Delinquency of Youth—No Respect For Authority.

NEW YORK, February 22. — "Civilisation should stand aghast at the increase of youthful criminals in the last ten years," Judge Alfred J. Talley, of the Court of General Sessions. He shook the ashes from his cigar sadly and with reflection as he continued:

"This has all come about with the disorganisation of the American home, and that disorganisation is caused by the growing congestion in living quarters and even more by our mad search for pleasure.

"It is highly significant that most of these young criminals are normal young men. They can not hide behind inferior mental or physical development. The fault lies in their training: First, within the home, and then within the school.

"In both places children have learned that they can overstep the authority of the mother or of the teacher. More rigid religious training would fill this need.

Blames All on Parents.

"As for the subnormal types that may become criminal, I would say that religion is the only means of keeping them from pitfalls.

"Parents are prone to insist on the respect and love of their children, without ever having trained them in a way to merit their love or respect. I cannot tell parents how to bring up their children; that is the office of an expert along those lines or else of a busybody.

"In fairness to young people, I will say that the girl who has no place to entertain her beau and the young boy who cannot bring his chums into the congested household have a hard lot of it.

"More than this, how can they be expected to revere the laws of the land when they see on all sides the prohibition laws violated, when they know that their own parents violate these laws and the people who have high positions do the same.

Menace to Morals.

"This disrespect for law is the greatest menace to youthful morals to-day. Quite secondary to it, and only incidental, is the fact that the young people drink in these days, who in other days would hardly have heard drink mentioned.

"I most emphatically say that the war is not the cause of our growing crime among young people. I might even say that the sudden religious impetus it brought was a check.

"Even economic necessity is not the cause of much of the robbery committed by young people. Most of such cases are caused by lack of responsibility — the very thing that religious training would give."

ESTIMATES OF FIRE STATION WERE REDUCED

Amount Required Will Be About the Same as Last Year—Annual Report.

A PENSION FUND

"Dobbin's" day at the Fire Hall is not yet done. An appropriation of $37,700 for the Fire Department, set by the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night, does not provide for additions to the motor apparatus of the department.

Last year Chief George Gimblett spent $38,257, less some credits for the sale of horses, etc., and he made a request for $38,700 for this year. After the estimates had been considered by the committee, the Mayor's motion that the appropriation be $37,000, and Ald. Maher's amendment that the amount be $37,700, brought a tie vote, which was broken in favor of the amendment by the chairman, Ald. Walter Stocker.

Further motorizing of the department was recommended by the Fire Chief to cost approximately $2,000, which amount would be reduced by $500, provided the sale of the team now hauling the ladders brought a revenue of $500.

Members of the committee were critical of the amounts asked for to provide new uniforms and overcoats, and all items under this head were cut.

Assistant Fire Chief James Ward asked for an increase in salary from $1,600 to $1,700. It was agreed that Ward is a good fireman and a valuable member of the department. The request was laid over for further consideration in the Committee of the Whole Council.

The Fire Chief recommended a pension fund for the department. Some correspondence on group insurance was read, and a committee of the Mayor, the chairman and the City Treasurer was appointed to take up the matter of group insurance and protection for the men and present a report.

The proper way to open a fire alarm box and send in an alarm of fire will be demonstrated at the moving picture theatres and the city schools if arrangements for the demonstrations can be made.

The annual report on the department was read.

This morning Mayor J. J. Turner, Aldermen W. Stocker, M. J. Maher, R. Jones and M. Turner visited the Fire Hall and inspected the clothing. The motors were also tested and everything found satisfactory.

THE WEATHER.

Up to the present snow has fallen this winter to the depth of 75 inches. While much of it has disappeared, there is still more than the usual amount remaining on the ground. Our heaviest snowfalls usually come in the first week of March, and a couple of more feet on what we have now would make things decidedly interesting.—W. P.

Women Disapprove Beauty Contests

STRATFORD, Ont., Feb. 22. —(Canadian Press). — Disapproval of the continuation of beauty contests was expressed in a resolution drafted by the Local Council of Women and its regular meeting held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Wm. Irwin. A copy of the resolution which urges that public opinion be developed against such contests, will be sent to everybody affiliated with the society. Another resolution urges that children be not left unprotected in the home.

Action by the Council was precipitated by a communication from the Y.W.C.A. which urged that a stand be taken against beauty contests on the ground that for the winner there is a prize and much notoriety and for all a setting up of false standards which frequently lead to disaster.

WHEAT POOLS IN U.S. LOST MONEY

WINNIPEG, February 22 (Canadian Press). — Quoting figures to show the farmers in at least eight States of the Middle West had lost money through the operation of the wheat pools on the long term contract, J. R. Howard, president of the United States National Transportation Institute and former President of the United States Farm Bureau Federation, addressed members of the Canadian Club here yesterday.

Mr Howard declared himself opposed to a wheat pool plan where a contract was in use directly from the grower to an overhead organisation not taking into account the local unit. This organisation on which wheat pools here are based can only be operated successfully where the product was raised in narrow limits, such as certain tobacco-growing areas is declared.

Local Unit Plan.

For marketing of wheat, the only successful co-operative plan, Mr. Howard declared, from the experience of the United States farmers was the local unit plan where producers banded together in their own organisation for the local marketing function, and the various local units in turn for terminal marketing.

This plan was successfully in vogue in the United States in some 50,000 local grain elevators, in all co-operative creameries and cheese organisations and in 10,000 live stock shipping associations.

Mr. Howard emphasised that he came to Canada to study the attitude of the farmers to the sales tax, which he found favourable, and also their attitude to the tariff on Canadian cattle. He did not come to oppose wheat pool organizers, who were good friends of his.

The trouble with pool organisations, he said, was that they could not keep down overhead, and thus all the benefit which would be derived from such a scheme was lost.

Budget Planned As U.F.O. Tragedy Turned Into Burlesque By Its Exaggerations U.F.O. Leader Declared — Set Out to Make the Farmers Look Extravagant.

PRESENTS FIGURES.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.— Vigorous defence of the financial policy and administration of the Drury government was made in the Legislature Thursday by Hon. Manning Doherty, U.F.O. leader. He accused the present government of spending more during their three and a half months of office in the fiscal year of 1923 of spending more than the U.F.O. government did in its eight and half months power in the same year.

Mr. Doherty said that in the budget a huge blunder had been made and that the blunder was not by the Provincial Treasurer, but by the "main artist behind."

"This budget which was planned to be a tremendous tragedy has turned out to be a burlesque. Any tragedy can be turned into a burlesque by the interjection of the element of exaggeration. Exaggeration has been put into this budget by the qaurt and the gallon and it is the greatest financial burlesque of the past quarter of a century. But let us look behind the scenes. The Conservtaives furious because of four years of absence from the trough, had only three and a half months left of the fiscal year in which they could say to the boys, "come on and get your share and we'll blame it on the farmers.' That last three and a half months of the fiscal year 1923 was the greatest orgy of expenditure this province ever knew, as I will prove in this speech.

Bought Movie Plant.

"The Indians wanted $400,000 and they came and got it. I hope they were all red Indians. Then the government decided to start a Hollywood in Ontario so they bought a movie plant in East Hastings for $24,558 and they spent $65,000 on a public building. During those three and half months they spent all they could and collected as little as they could. They invited everybody to send in their bills so they could make the farmers look extravagant on the year's showing. They weren't keen about revenue. Leave that to 1924 was the motto. But they made a bungle when they lost their sense of proportion. They might have got away with a two million deficit, but fifteen millions made the people laugh. Perhaps that is why there is no controller of finance.. No financial man of repute would put his signature to that budget.

"The deficit is made in this way; decrease revenue four millions, increased expenditure eleven millions. For that decreased revenue we hold this new government entirely responsible. The U.F.O. government increased its revenue every year and we believe we could have done so last year."

Mr. Doherty could not see how some of the so-called "extraordinary" accounts could have been placed in current account. Grants to universities were surely grants to the capital of the province.

Mr. Price thought the grants were gifts and should come out of ordinary account. Mr. Doherty said the transfer of these accounts was resopnsible for over three millions of the deficit.

The Years Expenditure.

"From accurate and official statements I have here," said Mr. Doherty, "I say that the old government up to and including the day it went out of office, July 15, spent $19,783,237 outside statutory ex-

SHERIFF'S SALE OF LANDS.

Under and by virtue of an execution issued out of the Supreme Court of Ontario and to me directed and delivered against the lands and tenements of William A. McIlmoyle at the suit of Henry C. Stabler, I have seized and shall offer for sale at my office in the Court House, Peterborough, on Monday, the 17th day of March, 1924, at ten o'clock a.m., all the right, title, interest, equity of redemption of the said William A. McIlmoyle in, to and out of the following properties, namely:

(1) In the City of Peterborough, and being composed of parts of Lots numbers six and seven, south of Clifton street and east of Rogers street, according to corporation plan number three "A" for the said city, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at the south-west angle of said Lot number six; thence northerly along the western limit of said Lots six and seven, forty-seven feet; thence easterly parallel with the southern limit of said Lot number six, one hundred and six feet; thence southerly parallel with the western limits of said Lots numbers six and seven, to the southern limit of said Lot number six, and thence westerly seven, to the southern limit of said number six to the place of beginning. Subject to the right on one Kylie, his heirs and assigns to the use and enjoyment of the well on the premises hereby assigned.

(2) In the City of Peterborough and County of Peterborough, and being composed of that part of Lot number twelve south of Wolfe street and west of George street, described as follows: Commencing on the west side of Stewart street at a point distant ninety feet south from the north-east corner of said Lot number twelve; thence southerly along the east side of said Lot number twelve, seventy-five feet, thence westerly parallel to Townsend street one hundred and seven feet more or less to a fourteen foot lane; thence northerly along the east side of the said lane seventy-four feet; thence easterly parallel to Towsend street, one hundred and seven feet more or less to the place of beginning. Together with the use of said lane in perpetuity in common with all others whose lands abut thereon.

F. J. A. HALL,
Sheriff, County of Peterborough.

DIP THE TOPS

Dip the tops of your bottles in paraffin when you pack them or send them through the mail and the danger of spilling is removed.

RUG EDGES

To prevent your rugs from curling sew a triangular piece of corrugated rubber at each of the four corners.

THREE PIECES

Three-piece costumes are held in great favor in Paris and very long coats are the most advanced type shown.

RUSSIAN TRIMMING

RED LEATHER FACING

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of economy extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

STORM HOLDS UP ORLAND INQUEST

Inquiry Into Death of Infant in Orland Shack Opens March 4th.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

BRIGHTON, Feb. 22. — The inquest into the death of the infant born in a shack at Orland, about two weeks ago, when the mother was alone in the house, and which died before the arrival of assistance, was postponed by Coroner Dure until March 4th at 8 p.m. The inquiry was set for last evening but it was found that owing to the blocked condition of the railways and highways, as a result of the recent snow, some of those whose presence was required to give evidence were unable to reach Brighton. Late in the afternoon Coroner Dure, after consultation with other officials, decided on the postponement.

Witnesses, who resided as far away as Tweed and Marmora, had been subpoenaed and traffic between Brighton and these places is practically suspended. Even the witnesses in Orland, the scene of the tragedy, could not make the trip over the highway on which the snowdrifts in places are 12 feet high. Mary O'Brien, the 17-year-old mother of the dead child, is still at Orland, and her testimony is the most important of all.

Alleged Father of Child.

One witness did arrive yesterday afternoon, the alleged father of the child, according to the statement of the O'Brien girl, who holds him responsible for her trouble. This witness now resides in Tweed, going to that town a short time ago from Trenton, where according to the O'Brien girl, he first met her. He is an employee of the C.P.R., and does not appear to be over 20 years of age. He was accompanied by his father. The two left on Wednesday morning in order to be certain to reach Brighton on time, but owing to the interrupted train service, did not arrive here until late yesterday afternoon. They had an interview with Coroner Dure last evening, and it seems that they must return home and come back to Brighton for the adjourned inquest.

Girl Not Blamed.

Just what the authorities hope to establish by the inquest, aside from fixing the paternity of the dead child, is not clear. The mother is not held responsible for her death. The body was exhumed at the request of Provincial Detective Cousans two days after its burial, and the physician who examined the remains decided that death was due to neglect.

Alone in the shack as she was, the unfortunate young mother was unable to give the infant the necessary care, and when the doctor and two kindly women arrived at the house the baby was dead.

Dr. Daley, superintendent of the Children's Shelter at Port Hope, went to Orland to make an investigation, concluded that the mother was not to blame for what she had been unable to prevent.

Mary O'Brien, who has been well cared for by the people of Orland, has given the authorities information which was valuable in cleaning up the gang, the last of whom is now either serving a jail sentence in Cobourg or awaiting trial.

The lot on which stood the Ash shack, which was destroyed by fire soon after the last of the inmates had been taken to jail at Cobourg, was recently sold, as reported at the time, the vendor being J. T. Hall of Cobourg, who held power of attorney from Ash.

Mr. Hall will defend Ash and the O'Brien woman when they are brought to trial on a charge of bigamy. The price received for the land is understood to have been $60.

A house belonging to Ash, and which was rescued when the stable was burned down at the same time as the shack will also be offered for sale.

Roads Almost Impassable.

The oldest resident cannot recall a time when the highways in this district were as badly blocked as they are at present. Brighton is practically isolated from the surrounding country, and pupils from the township are unable to attend school.

There was a brief connection established with the outside world on Wednesday when the stage from Campbellford arrived several hours late, Earl Williams, the intrepid driver, facing the elements in a desire to carry out the terms of his contract. Making the trip from Campbellford here he was obliged to change teams at Codrington and again at Hilton. He did not attempt the return trip until Thursday, and when he left there was not a single track on the road ahead of him.

ERA OF PROSPERITY IS FACING IRELAND

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(Associated Press).—An era of prosperity for Ireland is dawning, says Richard D. Trotter, head of the Provincial Bank of Ireland, and furthermore Irish bankers are ready to stand behind the Free State in its policy for the complete reconstruction of Ireland.

In speaking recently before a meeting of London bankers, Mr. Trotter said: "The gratifying response to the issue of the Irish Free State Loan has supplied a most encouraging evidence of a growing spirit of confidence in the stability of the Free State and its Government, and that feeling will be carried further when due importance is attached to the assurances of the President and his responsible Ministers of their intention effectively to regulate state expenditure and income until the national budget is balanced."

Mr. Trotter added that the Government has shown itself strong, firm and sympathetic, with the result that the majority of the people were with it, and most citizens respected the law.

Burial of Eleven Poison Victims

These coffins contain the bodies of 10 adults, and a baby, locked in death's embrace in the arms of its mother. They were stricken by botulism, a poison, after eating canned beans served at a dinner given by Reinhold Garber, at Albany, Ore. Joint funeral services from the same church were held for the victims.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Number of Social Events in Town, Including a Presentation.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22.—Miss S. Nevin, George street, is visiting firends in Peterborough.

Mrs. T. McCook entertained about twenty of her friends at afternoon tea on Wednesday in honor of Mrs. S. J. Fisher, of Belleville, who is visiting her this week.

Mrs. F. W. Wood, Front street, had a bridge party on Wednesday night. There were four tables and after a few hours at the game the hostess served lunch.

Miss Beryl Hill, who has been visiting her friend, Miss Helen Riendeau, Rear street, returned to her home in Hastings on Wednesday night.

Mrs. James Dickson, Bridge street, had an "afternoon tea" on Thursday afternoon, when about fifty of her friends were invited to her home. The afternoon was spent in pleasant conversation, then about half past five tea was served and all enjoyed the dainties. Mrs. C. L. Owen and Mrs. C. A. Wilson poured tea, while Mrs. George Dickson, Mrs. Glassford, Mrs. Dr. Fred Free, Mrs. F. J. Smith and Miss Fiske assisted in serving. Miss Roxy Wilson and Miss Peggy Dawson attended door. Mrs. McClaren, Mrs. Dickson's daughter, who is visiting her mother, assisted and received with Mrs. Dickson.

Miss Reta Baker, Front street, invited a few of her friends to her home on Tuesday night, in honor of Miss J. Nancarrow, who is leaving town. At the close of the evening, Miss Baker presented Miss Nancarrow with a string of pearls, given by a number of her friends. A dainty lunch was served. Miss Nancarrow left on Wednesday for Toronto.

On Monday night, at the close of the Twelve O'clock Club dance, the members presented her with a beautiful ivory clock. Miss Nancarrow has been the secretary of the club for some time.

Miss Helen Tait invited a number of her friends to a snow-shoeing party on Wednesday night. Those present were: Misses H. Redden, R. Ferris, H. Atkinson, L. Smith, G. Maynard, L. Hay, E. Archer, E. Dafoe, M. Smith, H. McAuley, Brunette, Mrs. H. Leonard, Mrs. S. Mitchell and Mrs. J. Tait of Belleville. After a couple of hours tramping, the guests returned to Miss Tait's home and spent the evening with songs and music. Those favoring were: Miss Brunelle, vocal and instrumental solos, Miss Atkinson, vocal solos and Miss Maynard instrumental solos. A very dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

Miss Loretta Gibson, of Lakefield, visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Gibson, George street, a few days this week.

The Bishop of Kewatin, who was to have been here on Thursday and speak at the Parish Hall, in the afternoon and evening, was not able to on account of the storm.

ADMITS HIRING TO START FIRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.— (Canadian Press.)—As nonchalantly as if he were discussing a sale of peanuts, Louis Walinger, confessed gangster and gunman, Brooklyn, told yesterday before Judge Nott in General Sessions, how he had hired himself out for fifty dollars a week to set fire to tenements which were crammed with sleeping persons.

He related how he received a bonus of $40 for firing a building on Orchard street in which 48 families or about 250 people. He also told how he set fire to four other premises. Even at the time of the first of these fires, he said, he was a veteran at the practice of arson. "It wasn't anything new to me," he said. "Id been doing it for years."

Even blazes specified in his testimony, Wallinger said, were set at the instance of Boris Aimis, former assistant manager of the Wet Wash Laundryman's Association, who is now on trial for arson in the first degree.

Aimis, according to Wallinger, wanted to wipe out the wet wash laundrys that were not in his association.

It happened that none of these fires resulted in fatalities, but Wallinger was not concerned in the least whether some of the tenants should be killed or not. When asked about this he merely said: "What might happen to them did not bother me. I was hired to set fires and I set them."

The trial of Aimis will continue Monday morning.

MARMORA REPORTS A HOUSE SCARCITY

Newcomers to the Village Emphasize the Condition That Warrants Building Boom in the Spring.

MARMORA, Feb 20.—Although there is by no means any signs of real estate "boom" in the village, indications at present are, that the number of dwellings is just a little too small for the demand. It is impossible to rent a house at the present time, as several would-be newcomers will testify. This is a condition which has not existed in Marmora for some time. There seems to be a scarcity of business places also especially after the two fires of late Mr. J. D. Narrie is having considerable difficulty in re-establishing his shoe busines, while it is stated that Mr. Michael Kouri, whose premises were destroyed Tuesday morning by fire, has announced his intention of locating elsewhere if he cannot secure another building.

Thus it looks as if spring should usher in a good season for the carpenters and contractors.

Deloro Road Heavy

Although the Deloro-Marmora road is possible, even for cars, it is stated that after the wind Tuesday night the north and south roads are so badly drifted that it is with difficulty that the trains are being met at Bonarlaw.

CANADIANS TO GIVE PAGEANT

Represent Historical Phases and Modern Conditions In Two-Day Performance at the Empire Exhibition.

LONDON, Feb. 22. — (Canadian Press). — Canadian residents in London yesterday discussed the matter of participation in a pageant of Canada in connection with the British Empire Exhibition. The pageant will be a two-day performance and will be repeated on a number of occasions in the summer.

On the first day of the pageant Canada's historical side will be represented, and on the second day some aspects of modern conditions in the Dominion will be depicted.

Many hundreds of performers will be required to put on the pageant, and it was suggested yesterday that a considerable proportion of the number wanted could be obtained from among the Canadians who reside in London, although London dwellers who are not Canadians, to the number of 15,000, have announced themselves eager to appear in this and other Dominion representations.

One suggestion submitted yesterday was that the modern side of Canadian life should be represented by a depiction of the Prince of Wales' ranch in Alberta. Some of those present, however, demurred because ranch life nowadays is not very thrilling.

Another suggestion was that a stampede should be portrayed, but doubts were expressed as to whether this would not arouse an outcry amongst the humanitarians. Further consideration of the suggestion was left to a later date.

One speaker at the meeting recalled seeing an Empire pageant in England some 20 years ago, when Canada was represented by a dray covered with cotton wool to represent snow, with a dummy Indian climbing up a tree trunk pursued by a stuffed wolf.

LABOR MESSAGE BELIEVED HOAX

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 22.—(Canadian Press).—An extraordinary report has been circulated here, purporting to have emanated from an "official British Labor source," and addressed to the Parliamentary Labor leaders of Australia, stating that instructions had been given relative to the tour of the special service squadron which is on a cruise of the Empire, visiting a number of Dominion and Colonial ports. The report had it that these instructions would "considerably nullify the jingo patriotism which the visit of the vessels had been intended to inspire."

The report has created a great stir, but the authenticity of the alleged instructions to the squadron is questioned. It is supposed that Australia is the victim of a hoax.

The touring squadron is expected here shortly.

The alleged cable to Australia purported to come from some person closely in touch with Premier Ramsay MacDonald. "There will be no warlike demonstrations or theatrical displays for the people of our Dominions," it quoted Premier MacDonald as saying. "They (the visiting naval officers) must be treated as comrades in industry and not as brothers in arms, and that will be our policy in regard to them."

The cable in question further said: "Officers of the Royal Navy are not to make any political distinctions. Where a Labor party is not in power they are to pay their official respects to the Labor leaders and the Opposition, and they must give as much public recognition to the trades hall as to the town hall. It is time that the spirit of internationalism should be spread throughout the world and be put into practice. We intend to start with our Dominions first. This naval tour affords us a splendid opportunity not only to give an object-lesson in internationalism but also in the propaganda of peace."

REVOLT OF YOUTH IS COLLAPSE RESTRAINT

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—(Associated Press).—One phase of what has been called the "revolt of youth" today may be truthfully called the "collapse of restraint," according to Dr. W. S. Bovard, Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"Parents have almost quit raising their children; teachers wear no badge of authority, and society in general refuses to train up children in the way they should go," Dr. Bovard asserts. "Even moral distinctions are denied if they offer the slightest barrier to the completest satisfaction of life's many appetites.

"Any hesitation to follow one's natural instincts to the fullest is branded as cowardice or hypocrisy. This teaching is finding its way into the thinking and living of our day.

"In this critical transition of authority it is our solemn duty to arouse the teaching capacity and kindle to a flame the spiritual devotion of the church in order that the on-coming generation may have an adequate personal experience of God."

Graduate Nurse Finds "The Perfect Remedy"

Graduate of National Temperance Hospital, Tells of Remarkable Cases Where TANLAC Has Proved Effective.

"From my long experience as a professional nurse, I do not hesitate to say I consider TANLAC the most efficient and natural stomach medicine and tonic to be had. It is undoubtedly Nature's most perfect remedy," is the far reaching statement given out for publication, recently by Mrs. I. A. Borden, Seattle Wash., a graduate of the National Temperance Hospital, of Chicago.

"I have used TANLAC often in treatment of my patients and my experience has been that for keeping the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning properly, and for toning up the system in general, it has no equal.

Tells of Case

"About a year ago I had a lady patient who could not keep a thing on her stomach fifteen minutes, not even water. I prevailed on her to try TANLAC and after the sixth bottle she could eat absolutely anything she wanted without the slightest bad after effects.

"I had another patient who simply could not eat. I got him started on TANLAC and by the time he finished three bottles he was eating ravenously and had regained sufficient strength to return to work.

"These two instance are typical of my experience with TANLAC. My confidence in TANLAC is unlimited.

PAVING THE WAY.

The way is being paved for the submission of the Ontario Temperance Act to the people of Ontario for their approval or otherwise.

The bill introduced by the Attorney-General will provide the machinery by which the question can be brougrt before the electors when the Government considers the time ripe for a vote.

There is yet no information available as to the probable date of the referendum nor as to the form in which the vote will be taken.

The Legislature as a whole is apparently to have nothing to say on these points for the Nickle Bill leaves everything to the Government to decide.

The Government will select the time for voting and will arrange the questions that are to be submitted, and the Legislature is simply being asked to issue a blank cheque, as it were, leaving the administration to fill in the details.

There will undoubtedly be some opposition to leaving the whole question to the judgment of the Government, but the bill will, of course, carry.

And then it will be a case of "wait and see."

There are not a few prophets who predict that the referendum will not be long in coming.

BRASS BAND VS. A HALL.

A rather long document comes from the Ontario Legislature, in the report of the reasons why Karl Homuth was declared not to be the sitting member for South Waterloo, says the London Advertiser.

A great deal of space is given up to a record of a picnic where Karl Homuth paid $45 for the Baden brass band to be present, and a professional entertainer was also engaged for the occasion. Mr. Homuth figured he could get all his constituents together in that way, and the amount expended for the entertainment was no greater than he would have spent in travelling and hiring halls in three or four different points.

Yet paying for a band constituted a corrupt practice in the eyes of the law, but hiring halls would have been regarded as legal.

It is a distinction without a difference. Mr. Homuth, as a public man, wanted a chance to talk to his constituents. There could be no objection to that—as a matter of fact it would be better if it were more generally done. He could talk to them by hiring several halls at different places, or by getting them together at one place. In either case it was going to cost him money.

Yet one case comes under the legal O.K., while the other comes under the ban. The line of demarkation is drawn too tight.

THE BOWMANVILLE RIOT.

The riot at the Peterborough-Bowmanville Junior hockey game at Bowmanville on Wednesday night when spectators rushed on the ice and assaulted the referee and members of the Peterborough team, is to be regretted because of the unfavourable light it throws upon a game that is fast, clever and full of interest when played under sporting conditions and by teams whose only ambition is to govern their conduct by the official rules and by the standard of sportsmanship.

Hockey as it is being played at Brock Street Rink this winter is a delight to patrons of the game, who have seen a programme of fast contests with a refreshing absence of rough play or illegal tactics.

It is sport at its best under such conditions—sport that women can enjoy and that leaves no bad taste in the mouth of fair-minded fans.

And so long as hockey is kept on that plane it will continue to grow into popularity.

The Bowmanville trouble is an isolated case, fortunately, for incidents of that kind played a big part in the decline of lacrosse, and hockey is a too splendid game to allow its future to be menaced by rowdies whose idea of fair play is ninety per cent. of the decisions in favour of the home team and an even split on the remaining ten per cent.

The governing body should see to it that the proper punishment is accorded those responsible for Wednesday's riot and insist upon it that the disorderly element must be eliminated from rinks under its jurisdiction.

THE DAIRY FARMER.

That the farmer who devotes himself to dairying has not a great deal to worry about and is in an enviable position in this country is a fact that is being realized not only in agricultural circles but outside of the farming industry.

"The dairyman—that little-appreciated industry that in total value of product handled outranks the steel industry—has been doing very well," says the writer. "The dairyman's dollar is right around par and has been so throughout nearly all of this post-war turmoil."

It is interesting to note that there are four important reasons why the dairyman is in a favourable buying position today.

First, he is not dependent upon world levie prices. He has very little to export, and his product is nearly all consumed at home.

The latter fact is made possible because of the recent greatly increased consumption of milk and milk products, due to the constructive advertising and educational work of the industry during the past few years.

The third important reason is that the dairy industry is well organized, and is in a position to deal with distributors on an equitable basis.

A fourth factor has to do with farm management. The work on a dairy farm is well distributed throughout the year instead of being bunched in seasons.

This makes it not only easier to get what extra help is needed, but possible to pay better wages.

CANADA'S BURDEN.

Elsewhere the Examiner publishes a report of a speech delivered recently by Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana believing that our readers will find it of great interest inasmuch as the conditions he complains of as existent in the United States are to a considerable extent duplicated on this side of the line.

There is the same need here of a simplication of legislation, and the elimination of some of the restrictive measures that are proving an intolerable nuisance to Canadians.

We are hopelessly over-governed, and the Dominion, the Provinces and the municipalities are becoming encumbered by a weight and variety of new laws and restrictions that are becoming most irksome to many of the people of this country.

Here with a population of less than nine million people we have legislative machinery enough to govern a nation with twenty times that number of inhabitants.

First, there is the Federal Government with its many departments.

Then each Province has its own Legislature, and here again the departments are numerous.

The municipalities in turn have their civic government under various municipal heads.

But these are not all.

In addition, there is a multitudinous assortment of commissions and boards, Federal, Provincial and municipal, almost too numerous to mention, including Municipal and Railway Boards, Provincial Public Utilities Commissions, Municipal Public Utilities Commissions, Public School Boards, Separate School Boards, Licensing Boards, Workmen's Compensation Boards, Mothers' Allowances Boards, Suburban Area Commissions and Taxation Bureaus without number.

In fact, it is almost impossible to estimate the number of governing bodies, boards and commissions that bear down and impose upon labor, capital and industry, upon which the welfare of Canada depends.

The student of the decline and fall of the Roman Empire should have no difficulty in discovering in the present conditions, both in the United States and Canada, ample evidence of the existence of the seeds of decay of our civilization in the destruction of individual liberty of thought and action that is taking place because of the mania for new laws and restrictions.

The ancient Romans had an effective means of curbing the legislators who wanted more laws and regulations.

The Locrian law, introduced to offset the growth of legislation, provided that any legislator who brought down a new measure must stand in the centre of the Assembly with a rope around his neck. If the law for which he was responsible failed to pass the rope was pulled and he was strangled instantly.

It is about time that thoughtful Canadians should begin to realize that our citadels of liberty and individuality are being over-run by poisonous vines which are already beginning to feed upon the decay.

How can Canada hope to compete in foreign markets if her industries, farming, manufacturing, mining and lumbering are hampered and beset by blood-sucking agencies of every description, is a question that suggests itself after reading Senator Beveridge's speech.

ANOTHER VICIOUS CIRCLE.

A mail carrier in Chicago was arrested for stealing revolvers from the mail bags. Some figures that have come out since lead to the belief that it was a good thing this man was stealing, a good thing he was arrested, and a good thing that some of the inspectors have pried into the business of shipping arms all over the country, says the London Advertiser.

The one mail order house, whose guns were being stolen from the mails, was sending out, according to the reporters, 1,100 revolvers per day.

That is only one mail order business, and there are scores of them doing the same thing.

The mails are used for this purpose, and it means that any thug can be armed by writing a letter and inclosing the price of a gun.

The mails are run by a service financed by the people.

The same people in turn pour out their millions to keep up huge police, detective and special squads to chase thugs and robbers.

It is about as silly a performance as could be imagined, and yet there it is.

If people want Governments to save they must stop asking Governments to spend money. That is a commonplace, but it seems difficult to put it over and make it stick.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Reports of the virtual settlement of the British dock strike led to something of an up turn in wheat prices to-day. Closing quotations here were unsettled but 1-4 and 3-8c to 1-3c net higher, May $1.10 1-2 to $1.10 5-8 and July $1.10 3-4 to $1.10 7-8. Corn finished at 1-8 and 1-4c net lower, to 1-4c advance; oats at a shade decline to 18c gain, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

As a result of news that the dock strike was practically over European demand for Canadian wheat became the best in weeks and it was estimated that 600,000 bushels of the Canadian grain were taken to-day for trans-atlantic shipment. The upward trend of values was also emphasized by gossip current that the crop scare times for domestic winter whtat is only a week or so away. Besides, primary receipts were notably smaller, as compared with a week ago, farm reserves were expected to make a bullish showing, and confidence was apparently stronger than ever that the import duty on wheat would be raised before the opening of lake navigation On the other hand, bears contended that with May wheat selling under the deferred months at this time of year, a bull campaign was untenable.

ANCIENT LEGAL PLAN MAY BE THROWN OVER

DUBLIN, Feb. 21.—(Associated Press).—The bill which proposes to abolish in the Free State the traditional legal system of centuries and set up in its place a more modern system, has passed through the Dail and now is in the Senate. In the latter body much of the preliminary discussion of the bill had to do with the question whether wigs and gowns shall continue to be worn. The bill provides that the decision as to whether the judges and members of the bar shall wear any special costume and what that costume shall be shall rest with the Minister for Home Affairs, acting with a committee representing the legal interests.

The legal profession is strongly attached to its wigs and gowns and the subject is likely to lead to heated discussion because the Government is in favor of some dignified costume that will impress upon the popular mind the realization of the change from British control of all law to the control of the Irish people. The power proposed to be given to the Minister for Home Affairs is challenged as an undue interference with the independence of the judiciary. It is expected that the Senate will make several amendments to the bill.

BALDWIN GROUP SUPPORT LABOR NAVAL PROGRAM

Government Will Proceed to Lay Down Five Cruisers and Two Destroyers, Secretary of Admiralty Announced--Part of the Conservative Policy.

"NEW COALITION."

LONDON, February 22 (Canadian Press). — The intention of the Labour Government to proceed with the laying down of five cruisers and two destroyers, which was announced in the House of Commons yesterday by the Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, Charles G. Ammon, was made the subject of debate last evening.

It had an amusing conclusion, with the Conservatives voting with the Government after Lieutenant-Colonel L. C. M. Amery and other Conservatives had supported the Government against the Liberals.

A Liberal, William M. R. Pringle, had raised the debate, apparently under the misapprehension that the Government intended to build the cruisers without first seeking the consent of Parliament.

This misapprehension being satisfactorily explained by the Prime Minister the bottom was knocked of the Liberal opposition to the Government proposals, and as these were a part of the late Government's programme, they had the support of the Conservatives.

Colonel Amery, who was First Lord of the Admiralty in the Baldwin Government, remarked on the curious position in his having to support the Labour Government against the Liberals.

Under Secretary Ammon, in winding up the debate, remarked that the Government was quite convinced other countries would fully appreciate that the Labour Government was carrying out the letter and spirit of the Washington agreement.

Finally the Government was victorious by defeating a motion for adjournment by 372 to 73, the Conservatives voting with the Government

Lords Give Legitimacy Bill Second Reading.

LONDON, Feb. 22. — (Canadian Press).—The House of Lords' Legitimacy Bill, moved by Lord Buckmaster, passed the second reading yesterday. The object of the bill is to legitimize children born out of wedlock if the parents afterwards marry one another.

Lord Haldane, Lord Chancellor, said the Government favored the bill and he expressed the hope that Lord Buckmaster would endeavor to satisfy the Archbishop of Canterbury and other critics in respect to certain amendments at the committee stage.

SOME PEOPLE BELIEVE CHINA HAS STONE AGE

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 21.—(Associated Press).—Discoveries made in China by J. G. Anderson, a Swedish scientist, establishes in his belief that China had a stone age. At Fengtien, the expedition headed by Professor Anderson, excavated a cave about eight by 18 feet. In it were found bones from about 40 human bodies and a large number of objects, none of which was of metal.

The objects included arrowheads, stone axes, bone awls, curious stone rings and a tiny piece of animal sculpture made of marble, fragments of remarkable vessels, some with pressed geometrical patterns and others with a polished red surface ornamented boldly in black. Professor Anderson dates the cave to the transition between the stone age and the bronze age, or about 2,000-1,500 B. C.

Large collections of remains also were found at Yang Shao, including specimens of red and black ceramic objects similar to those found at Fengtien. Heretofore leading experts on Chinese history have held that there was no evidence of a stone age in China.

Propose Central Fund to Help Poor Schools.

SASKATOON, Sask. Feb. 21.—Proposal for the establishment of a central education fund from which the poorer school districts in Saskatchewan could receive assistance and thus equalize education at opportunity, was made here by James F. Bryant K.C. in his presidential address to the Saskatchewan school trustees association convention.

Mr. Bryant remarked that many school districts but sparsely settled and short of funds it impossible to furnish the school accommodation and standard of instruction to which their pupils are really entitled.

JOHN SCHELL

out after them, twenty minutes later."

"When did you see the bottle next?"

"Eleven o'clock at night."

"Do you remember how full it was in the afternoon?"

"A little better than half."

The boys returned to the camp a little later than George MacNeal. "As far as I knew the old gentleman came to take a look around some runaways next day."

"Did you know about it when he came?"

"No. I expected they would all go home that evening. A little before the boys started away MacNeal mentioned staying that night. George MacNeal had something to eat about four o'clock."

"Alone in the camp."

"MacNeal came in and sat down and talked. He was quite sober, and I was sober. After I fixed the potatoes, quite a while after the boys left I went out to shoot some partridges."

"Where do you usually keep your rifle?"

"At the head of my own bed."

"Which was your bunk?"

"I slept in the upper bunk with my dog in the under one. The cartridge belt usually hung by my own bed.

There were four or five cartridges in my rifle."

"There was no meat in the camp. You saw a partridge, charged your rifle—?"

"Yes, and the partridge flew away. I walked around and back to the table, laying the rifle on the table without unloading it.

I grabbed the pail and went for water. The well is eight or ten rods from the shack. While I was going down I did not see any partridge. I dipped the water and started for the camp when I heard three or four—"

Mr. Frost: "Just a minute, Mr. Schell, keep your head, you're a day ahead."

"On this day you left your rifle on the table when you went out; was it there when you came back?"

"No. I saw it on the top rack on the west side with the muzzle pointing south. I left it there."

"Before you went for water, where was MacNeal?"

"Walking around the shack on the west side. And he was still walking around the shack when I came back.

Schell said he ate supper but MacNeal would not eat anything. This would be about 6 o'clock.

"That was the worst night I ever put in," he continued. "MacNeal was sitting around and every once in a while he would lie down. I sat on the edge of my bed and smoked and watched him." MacNeal gesturned with his hands and muttered. Schell did not drink any liquor. A few minutes after ten Schell wound his watch and at half past ten he shut the door. Between 11 and 12 MacNeal leaped up and threw his hands around without speaking or yelling. From then on sometimes he was awful, yelling "now I've got you," Schell said.

"It was about 1 or 2 when I got to sleep. He was in the southwest corner of the shack, lying on the floor. The straw in the bunk was wet and he preferred to lie on the floor."

MacNeal did not give any reason for lying on the floor, but Schell presumed that was the reason.

"On towards morning just before daylight MacNeal did something that woke me up. He was clasping his stomach and swinging his arms alternately, then he would lie down on the floor. I went to sleep again until about 8 or 9 o'clock on Sunday morning. I lit the fire and MacNeal was still on the floor. He had spilt my water and I had to get more. I got tea ready and shook him. He didn't answer me. I shook him again and he jumped up and acted like a mad man.

Then I saw the bottle in the same bunk the rifle was over and I hid the bottle under the hay in my bunk. There was about an inch of liquor in the bottle.

I went to the spring for water. I got to the spring, about ten or fifteen minutes it took me. I started for the camp. I heard two or three loud thumps when I was outside the shack. Just when I was at the southwest end of the shack I heard the report of a rifle. It was a funny noise. I heard something rattle inside. It set my pail of water down and went to the door and looked in. He was lying on the floor with his stockings——"

Mr. Frost: "Take your time, Mr. Schell."

"What way was he lying?"

"Near the western side, north and south with the rifle across his right arm."

"I grabbed the rifle and threw it out-doors. I ran back in and broke his belt trying to pull him away from the heat of the stove. I pulled him around until he was lying east and west. As I pulled him around I said, 'My God, George have you shot yourself?'

As I pulled him he let an awful yell so that I thought my head had split open. I saw that he had died.

I threw water on the fire and took my rifle and fired a shot to give warning and started off for home. I threw the empty cartridge over my shoulder as I walked along.

I was so excited I didn't know where I was going. Only I struck Lambert's house I would never have got out. I am 72 years of age.

Mr. Justice Mowat: "You put yourself down when you entered jail. Why did you do that?"

"I was born in 1853. It is marked in my mother's bible.

Continuing Schell said: "I told Lambert 'Roy MacNeal's father is dead in the camp.'

We went to Roy MacNeal's house and I ran in to tell him. I told his wife for he was not there.

When I got home I told Lou Hopkins and I went to bed."

"Did you know George Schell and Roy MacNeal were going out to the camp that day?'

"I did not."

"What conversation did you have with them when they came to your house?"

"I told them how he suffered from cramps. I was afraid to tell them their father shot himself. I got one thing in my head and couldn't get it out. There was no conversation between me and Dr. Johnston on the way to Bobcaygeon.

The provincoal constables had an interview with me when I was in the cell. I just woke up when they came in. One had uniform on, and it seems to me the other was a lawyer."

"I Did Not Fire the Shot."

"Do you remember the statement you signed?"

"I remember saying there was no shooting through the night. I meant it was in the morning."

"Was your statement right."

"It was wrong.'

"Why didn't you tell the truth?"

"I don't know, but I am not guilty as there is a God in the sky. I did not fire the shot. I am not guilty so help me God."

"Then you say this statement is not right? You said: 'MacNeal was never out of my sight or hearing'?"

"He was out of my sight three times that I know of."

You stated 'I never heard any shots'."

"Not in the night. The shot was fired between 8 and 9 in the morning."

"Do you remember later telling the police constable another story?"

"I do not. I sat all day yesterday wondering where he got that."

In cross-examination Mr. Cunnigham asked: "How long have you had that shanty?"

"Five or six falls."

"Hunted every season?"

"Yes. Two weeks every year and sometimes in summer."

"You are pretty familiar with that country?"

"Yes."

"Bass lake was between you and Lambert?"

"Yes."

"You have to go around it from your place to Lambert's?"

"Yes."

"How far from your shanty to bass lake?"

"Three miles, and 2½ to Lambert's."

"Yet you took from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 oclock in the evening to get there, and you were trying to get the quickest way you knew how?"

"Yes, but I had to go 6 or 7 miles. I got lost in the woods."

"You know that country?"

"I didnt know it that day with this head."

Schell said he had his head injured when he was 14 years old and his head hurt when MacNeal shouted into his ear in his death agony.

"Where were you lost?"

"Between Bass lake and Lamberts' in the pine woods."

"I can't understand how a man of your standing could get lost."

"I got lost."

"You gave Lambert to understand MaceNal died of cramp?"

"I told him he had acted as if he had cramps."

"You said he died of cramps, Lambert says."

"Maybe I did."

"Why did you do that. You have a very clear recollection of that day. Why did you tell this to Lambert?"

"Because I had the one thing on my mind and I thought I would be doing wrong by telling anything different."

"You thought you would be doing wrong by telling the truth. How do we know you are telling the truth now?"

"I am telling the God's truth. Thats all I have to say."

"Then you went to Roy MacNeal's wife and told her the same story, and again at your own home to Lou Hopkins. Or did you tell Lou Hopkins the truth?"

"I told her the same story I told the rest."

"Then about 11 oclock you told the story again to Roy MacNeal?"

"I told Roy MacNeal what I thought."

"Do you mean you thought MacNeal died of cramps?"

"I dont know what I thought."

"Then on Monday morning after a good nights sleep you told Bill Hopkins the same story?"

"I don't remember talking to Bill Hopkins."

"What did you do on Monday?"

"Cleaned my rifle and sat around the house."

"Did you tell Lou on Monday what had happened?"

"I answered that question."

"Did you repeat the story to Lyal MacNeal?"

"I didn' tremember at all."

"Then you had a conversation with Dr. Johnston?"

"That was on Tuesday morning. I had no conversation with him."

"Then Dr. Johnston is not telling the truth?"

"I dont remember telling him a thing."

"Then later in the day you had this conversation with the police officers?"

"Yes."

"Apparently wanting to talk?"

"I did not want to talk."

"They all says you did and that they warned you."

"I don't remember."

"Do you deny it?"

"I dont' remember."

"It seem to me you have a habit of remembering what you want to remember and forgetting what you don't want to."

"Do you remember signing this statement?"

"I do not, I don't remember signing a paper."

The crown prosecutor produced the statement to which he referred.

"Is that your signature?"

"It is."

"So that all this must have been done fairly deliberately? And this is what you led them to believe? Were you trying to deceive them?"

"I was not. I dont know what I was doing."

"The policeman did not know anything about the affair until they got there?"

"How did they know to go there?"

"They knew you were under arrest. They could not have made up these details. You must have put them into their heads?"

"I guess I must have."

"And the statement is nearly all true?"

"I couldn't tell."

The statement was read over clause by clause and assented to until the clause "we were all perfectly sober" was reached to which Schell added "until I saw the bottle."

Schell added to the statement that MacNeal had not complained in words about the pain, only by his actions.

There were no quilts over MacNeal's head, as appeared in the statement, when he went to him.

The statement reads: "I keep my rifle at the head of my bed and it was there in the morning."

"Why did you go out of your way to tell that? Can you explain it?"

"No."

Mr. Cunningham read from the statement: "It is my opinion MacNeal died of cramps. I never saw no blood although I rolled him twice."

Schell said: "I didn't roll him. I just pulled him around."

"Where was you dog all this time?"

"It came out home with me."

"Could you lose your dog in that distance?"

"I could not."

"So you were lost and the dog was not?"

"I don't know."

"How did he get lost that day?"

"He didnt get lost. He just wouldn't leave me."

"What were you doing?"

"Were there any hills there?"

"Yes, there were some high rocks."

"How long have you been over the trail to Lambert's?"

"Quite a few times a number of years ago but it is all grown over now."

"What was the last time you saw MacNeal alive?"

"Sunday morning about 8 o'clock."

HEART BEATS HEARD BY THE RADIO FANS

ST. LOUIS. February 21 (Canadian Press). — A newly perfected "Microphone Stethoscope" was demonstrated before the members of the American Congress on Internal Medicine here last night by Professor R. B. Abbott of Purdue University when he broadcasted the sounds of heart beats from radio station KSD.

Professor Abbott walked to and from the platform before the physicians, and the fluctuations of his heart like the ticking of a clock could be heard plainly, increasing or diminishing in measure as he moved rapidly or slowly.

OTONABEE COUNCIL MEETING

Regular monthly meeting of the Otonabee Council was held at town hall, Keene, on Feb. 18th, 1924. The minutes of the last meeting were read and the time extended for dealing with the request of a certain number of ratepayers asking to be transferred from School Section No. 16, Otonabee, into No. 10, and on motion Lot 18, Con. 14 and that part of Lot 18, Con. 15 not now in School Section No. 10 and the west halves of Lots 19 and 20, Con. 15, be transferred from S. S. No. 16 into S. S. No. 10, and the clerk notify both sections and public school inspector of their intention to pass a by-law to this effect at the next sitting of the Council.

Mr. Michael Ross was allowed $1.75 for damages to corn binder while moving it on the public highway. The reeve and clerk were authorized to convey 14 feet on the west side of the memorial lot to Mr. Andrew Rennie, at $4.00 per foot. Upon the request of a number of ratepayers of the Ninth line, the reeve and deputy reeve were appointed a committee to interview Mr. John McFarlane and Mr. Samuel Comrie with a view to having a wire fence built on the west sides of the Ninth line, opposite Lot 14 and part way across Lot 15. The deputy reeve was appointed to go with Mr. Plunkett to the township solicitor and get him to draw up an agreement for the construction of a poll line and operating an electric lighting system on certain streets in the village of Keene, in the township of Otonabee.

The treasurer was instructed to pay $67.55 to the treasurer of Asphodel township for a settlement in full for work done on the Asphodel-Otonabee boundary since 1910 to Dec. 31st, 1923, as the last settlement was in 1909.

STRENGTH AND NERVE POWER ARE CREATED BY RED BLOOD

To Build Up Vitality We Must Enrich the Blood Which is the Driving Force of Life.

What gives the athlete his strength? Red blood. What drives the worker, and the business man, also, up the steep hill of success? Red blood. What makes the glowing, vital beauty of woman? Red blood.

Rich, red blood is the supreme driving force of life. If our bodies no longer respond to Nature's processes that should rebuild strength and vitality, then we should look to our blood. We should enrich it, nourish it. Red blood feeds the body tissues, stimulates the nerves, makes our systems tingle with the pulsing of life.

If we lack strength and nerve power we should always think first of our blood. Discouraged or exhausted men and women should get from their druggists to-day a generous size bottle of Wincarnis. Start this home treatment at once. It costs less than ten cents a day. In twelve days see the improvement Wincarnis, the blood builder, brings. No need to worry. Wincarnis will give you new strength, vitality, nerve force.

CROP REPORTS

The following is a summary of returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat at present is well covered with snow, and the general impression is that the crop is safe up to date, although the representative of the county of Kent, where fully 11 per cent of the fall wheat of the Province is grown, reported as follows regarding wheat conditions a week ago: "Prospects for fall wheat are not as good as they were some time ago. We have had a couple of rain storms during cold weather which have put a covering of ice over all the fields, thereby endangering the crop to a considerable degree. This ice still remains below the snow."

The question of farm labor, with the nearness of spring preparations, is demanding more attention, some re presentatives reporting a dozen enquiries a week for help. There is a wide range in wages offered, varying all the way from $15 to $35 a month, with board, according to experience, and from $200 to $400 a year. Married men are not so much in request as formerly. Representatives say that there is a strongly expressed feeling among farmers that there should be more parity between the prices of farm products and the rates of wages. The Essex representative is making a county labor census.

Halton—Orchards are not receiving as much pruning as usual this winter owing to the great depth of snow, and I am afraid that many trees will be neglected in the later rush.

Essex—The Better Live Stock Campaign will send out some scrub bulls next month and bring in several more good bulls, mostly Holsteins. A number of farmers are expecting to buy bulls from the "Better Live-Stock train" which stops in Essex on March 10th and 11th.

Prices for hogs are not encouraging to raisers, the figures running from $7.00 to $7.75 a cwt., f.o.b. Halton claims that in a recent shipment of 216 hogs there were 86 selects and 92 thick smooths. Huron says that a shipment of 363 from Seaforth averaged 17 per cent. Selects and 67 per cent thick smooths. Essex reports a large number of lard typeboars for sale. Middlesex is of opinion that too many over-weight hogs are being put on the market. At a pure-bred hog sale held at Kitchener on January 31st, high class sows just about ready to pig, sold as high as $52.50, but open sows, about bacon market rates.

Kent We have had some complaints from farmers carrying Western feeders as to the slowness of gain due to low feeding value of the frosted corn. Good horses are in demand and are bringing good prices at the sales, averaging $250 to $300 per team. Dairy cattle are most in demand of any line of live stock, it being almost impossible to secure high producing cows locally and prices of dairy products remaining at high level.

Brant—Cattle at sales are selling well, grade dairy cows running uy to $60 and $75. Good horses, too, are selling well, good farm teams running around $300. On the other hand poor horses are very cheap.

Huron—Considerable livestock are being shipped out of the county at present. Cattle are bringing all prices up to 7¼c. per pound. Horses have been shipped from both Exeter and Seaforth stations during the week. About one car per week is being shipped from Exeter.

Leeds—The demand for straight young milch cows and heifers largely exceeds the supply. At an auction sale held recently a three-year-old Clydesdale stallion brought $300, a gelding of the same age and type, $190, and a pair of good Clydesdale brood mares $180 and $190 each.

Good grade dairy cows in Dundas county are selling at from $75 to $100. Some horses are also changing hands, farm chunks bring from $100 to $150 each.

Peterboro—The annual sale of the County Shorthorn Association was held yesterday. Twenty-three head were disposed of for a total of $1,580, an average of $68.70. The highest price paid was $105 for a bull. The association were pretty well satisfied with the prices.

THE MOUNT ROBSON ROUTE ACROSS CANADA

The delights of a trip across Canaad never fade in memory, the interest never wanes, and the ecstasy of one day's travel through the Canadian Rockies is an experience of a lifetime. The route of "The Continental Limited" which runs daily between Montreal and Vancouver with direct connections from Toronto, traverses the beautiful lake country of Northern Ontario. From Winnipeg to Saskatoon and Edmonton it passes through some of the most fertile lands of the great prairie provinces. A night's run from Edmonton and you are in Jasper National Park and the Glorious Canadian Rockies, embracing some of the finest mountain scenery in the world—then on to the Pacific Coast through an ever-changing panorama of magnificent and stupendous scenery. The Canadian National line through the mountains skirts Canada's highest peaks at the easiest gradient and lowest altitude of any transcontinental route, the highest point reached in crossing the "Great Divide" being 3,712 feet. You will consult your own interests if you will make your next trip west by the new way, "The National Way"—you have the choice of various routes. You have the option of making the journey in a splendid tourist car at minimum cost, or, if taste dictates the more luxurious Standard Sleeping Cars or Compartment - Library - Obervation Cars are at your disposal.

The equipment on the "Continental Limited" is all-steel and modern in every particular.

How Much Did Last Year Cost You?

One thousand, two thousand, three thousand, five thousand? How much did it cost you to live last year?

Most of that expenditure was on your family was it not? Food, clothing, fuel, rent or taxes, education, doctors, transportation, necessary recreation and so forth. Every cent of it seemed inevitable last year. Where will you reduce expense in 1924?

"It can't be done," you reply.

Well, put it this way: Where will your family reduce expenses this year if you are called and your income fails them entirely?

Blunt way of putting it, but face the question. One never knows. How much life insurance would it take to insure that your wife and family get say, one-half the income you are furnishing for them now? Just figure it out and compare the amount with the insurance you are actually carrying.

Our agent will gladly go into the matter of Mutual Income Insurance with you if you say the word. We'll send you literature on our Income Insurance Policy if you write our head office to-day.

NORTH MONAGHAN NEWS HAPPENINGS

Farmers Are Busy Cutting Ice—Roads Badly Drifted.

NORTH MONAGHAN, Feb. 21. —The farmers are busy cutting ice and filling their ice houses, especially dairy farmers, to whom the ice crop is as essential as any other crop in these days of scientific dairying.

Others are busy in the woods, getting out a supply of wood for next winter's use.

Work on the outfall sewer on Park street south is progressing and a good job is being done.

The Onward Bible Class held its first session on Sunday afternoon last when, eighteen persons were present. Mrs. A. Cuffe was in charge.

The high east winds and snowstorm of Tuesday night and Wednesday has resulted in many bad drifts. Some of the roads are impassable and traffic reduced to a minimum on the main roads.

The members of the Men's Club at St. George's Anglican church, South Peterborough, entertained their wives and the members of the choir in the basement of the church on Tuesday evening. The time was spent in games, etc. The carpet bowls being first favorites. The ladies are becoming adepts at the game.

A short musical programme and refreshments concluded the evening's entertainment. About fifty persons were present.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

EDITOR EXAMINER:

Dear Sir,—Having read the letter of "Subscriber" on the vaccination question in Wednesday's issue of The Examiner, I want, as a mother to deliver my soul, unjust memories have awakened and demand a hearing.

Subscriber mentions a doctor who makes the startling confession that he deserves to be hanged on the highest branch of the tallest spruce-tree of the Black Forest, as he had thousands of innocent children on his conscience. How awful to be in that man's shoes, and others like him. Talk about Herod and his cruelty in slaying all the little ones in Bethlehem and the region round about in order to kill Jesus, it was not in it compared with this vaccination business seemingly, but let me tell you about the unjust memory I spoke about. It was nearly 21 years ago a young mother lay at the point of death with her new-born infant, a frail little piece of humanity but dear to his mother's heart. She was making a brave fight for life when the nurse, a dear motherly soul, told her the baby was failing as the mother's milk had fled, but she begged the nurse to try and save him and she said she would and she did, some three or four months went by and the doctor, who attended the mother at the birth of the child, called to vaccinate the delicate little morsel but the parents had forestalled him and had him exempted, needless to say he went away in a rage. But some three years later this couple sold up their little home and set sail for Canada with their two children one three and the other six, both of them exempted from vaccination, but a day or two before landing everyone was informed that they had to be vaccinated, providing they could show no previous mark of having been done, in vain did this mother protest that her children had been exempted. The option was if you object you will be deported, that's all. I ask, after all these years, was this just, was it right. We were not told previous to sailing that we would be subjected to such inhumanity as this, but like rats in a trap we were caught and one mother has never forgotten, hence this letter. Let me ask, must we as mothers go through the pains of hell to bear children to be slaughtered this way. Would to God it would burn them as it did the palm of Judas when he sold his Master and that they, like him, would rather go and hang themselves than poison the blood or kill another little innocent.

Thanking you, dear sir, I am,
Yours truly,
MOTHER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER:

Sir,—The Baptist Bible League of Greater New York is defending the Bible against the attacks of many of the Baptist clergy, especially in the foreign mission field. According to the League's official organ, which it was kind enough to send me, Baptist missionary work in China is at a standstill. Modernism has apparently so unsettled both missionaries and people that Baptist work and presumably all other Protestant mission work is a thing of the past. The substitution of Social Service for Bible-teaching will not receive much support at home and is doing no spiritual good anywhere. A few conscientious missionaries have resigned rather than take pay for modernistic work when they were employed by the faithful at home for an entirely different purpose, but the balance hang on to their jobs. It is, of course, impossible for a modernist or any other man to write a bible or to correct what is written to suit his taste. That is, if the book is to have any pretence of being God's word about it, and pray what good is it if it has not? The sudden loss of faith amongst the clergy and their apparent determination to turn Protestantism topsy-turvy to suit themselves has excited the ridicule of scientists and the amazement of the people. Of what use is a union of churches which has no revelation to build on and nothing but the loud and pretentious vapourings of men who have evidently "just got tired" of the old faith. There is no need of a pulpit to teach Social Service and unless it reforms and that right speedily, it will disappear, at least where modernism holds sway.

J. H. BURNHAM.

TO THE EDITOR "PETERBORO EXAMINER":

Sir,—I have just read your editorial of yesterday under the heading "The Cost of Government," wherein you say that they pay five times over per capita for Cabinet services than the people of the U.S. and that we pay 15 Cabinet Ministers over $1,100 per month. It may surprise some of your readers to find that we are paying for the services of over 900 members of Parliament, Federal and Provincial. Usually four to each County. What business corporation would pay four men to do the work of two. One member each for the Federal and Provincial house is all that is required in any county—then we have 13 members for Toronto, eight for Edmonton, nine for Winnipeg, when either place could be as efficiently represented by half the number. We have all the Parliamentarians necessary to govern a population of 50 million. There is a movement now to reduce the Cost of Government. Commence with over-representation, even if it is necessary to amend or alter the B. N. American Act.

Yours, etc.,
J. F. LILLICRAP.
Lakefield, 20th Feb., 1924.

EDITOR OF THE EVENING EXAMINER:

Dear Sir,—Allow me a small space in your paper to express my opinion regarding "Hard Times," as we hear merchants and everybody complain. The merchants and people are to blame as well as the government for this. During the last four years, both the Conservatives and Liberals have been reducing tariff. Last June they still made another reduction on woollen goods. This has practically killed the industry in the Dominion, at the present time and has thrown from 40,000 to 50,000 hands out of employment.

Many people profess to believe that the importations of goods from abroad is not injuring Canadian mills and that the present duties are too high. Surely the above figures will convince any intelligent person that we need protection on these lines, unless the people desire to discontinue the textile industry.

We would also ask our member, Mr. Gordon, what stand he is going to take at this coming session, towards assisting us to have this tariff increased, so that we may continue to do business. If there is any information he requires on the knitting industry, we would be only too pleased to give it to him.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,

W. A. LAVOIE.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Your article in yesterday's issue regarding the accident at the Central School might lead your readers to infer that serious damage had been done. This is not the case. The fires were not put out, and little or no damage was done by water.

It was thought wise, however, to dismiss school for the day in order to put things alright. Work has been resumed without any further inconvenience.—Yours very truly,
A. MOWAT.

LEFT-OVERS

When the larder and refrigerator seem full of little dabs of left-overs don't instigate a reckless "clearing up" but carefully take stock and use your imagination.

A very little bit of many vegetables can be combined in a molded jelly salad or used with lettuce and a French dressing.

Two tablespoons carrots, two of peas and a stalk of celery can be combined with one or two pickles and two or three tablespoons of carefully chopped cold meat in an aspic jelly, making a salad any woman should be proud to serve.

Cauliflower, string beans and beets can be tossed together with a smatter of onion and served on crisp lettuce with French dressing.

Service Counts

Often the secret of the success of the left-over dish lies in its garnishing and serving. If the salad of odds and ends is served on the best salad plates with as much ceremony as if it were a salad of artichokes the family will more than likely "fall for" the atmosphere of the plates rather than the salad.

A jellied salad is often more successful molded individually. This gives the cook an opportunity to consider the individual tastes of the family and apportion her left-overs accordingly.

This holds true in reheated dishes as well, and makes ramikins invaluable to the housekeepter.

For the "rechauffes," meats can be used in croquettes, in cream sauce on toast or patties, meat pies and stews. Often the vegetables and meat can be combined to make a palatable stew or what is known as a "sea pie."

A chartreuse is always attractive and one of the cleverest ways of using up left-over meats. For this the meat is carefully minced and seasoned and combined with any gravy or stock. A mold is lined with rice or mashed potato filled with the meat preparation and covered with whatever is used for the disguise. The whole is then steamed or baked and can be served with a tomato or other piquant sauce. Individual molds are convenient for this concoction.

Sea Pie, or Stew

A sea pie usually makes a clean sweep of the pantry, using all the meats and vegetables at hand. The covering of the pie is made of mashed potatoes, corn meal mush or a biscuit dough.

The "tail" and bone of a rare porterhouse steak can be worked into a good clear soup. Cut the tail in tiny pieces, cover bone and meat with cold water, add the "soup bag" and let stand half an hour. Then bring slowly to the boiling point and let simmer an hour longer. Strain and serve very hot with a little steamed rice in each plate.

Vegetables that have been served with butter are good reheated in cream sauce. A sprinkling of grated cheese adds to the richness of the sauce and flavor.

THINKING HEALTH

It is well to think well and divine to act well. All the thinking you may be able to produce will fail to advance you either mentally or physically if your acts concerning the use or misuse of your bodily powers are not shaped to carry out your ideal thoughts.

A body that is not too fat or too slim and is kept clean and healthy by right living should, under the proper environment, produce a vigorous mind that is full of clean, helpful thoughts. These thoughts shape your life and make or break it.

The attitude of thinking health is necessary to body building and normal development. A clean, active mind will have a deep regard for the preservation and control of the bodily health and strength. Life's stream depends for its renewal in those who come after us, on clean, healthy minds.

Don't cause a let-down in your physical efficiency by carelessness in your mental makeup. The day you decide to take it easy, or run along in a rut, that day you have started a physical decline.

If your health thinking is strong and active, the stimulus will show returns in healthy, active bodies.

You can think yourself into many situations. Try it on health.

BEVERIDGE ASSAILS MEDDLESOME LAWS

Says Country Is Smothered By Legislation and Fears It May Result in Race of Hypocrites.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 22.—With America in danger of being transformed into a race of hypocrites through ever increasing governmental interference in private and business affairs, the "frenzy of law-making" nevertheless continues unchecked in Washington and goes hand in hand with a riot of corruption through officialdom. This was the assertion of former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana, in a Lincoln day address here before the Young Republicans Association, in which he made a fervent appeal for the simplification of legislation and the cessation of restrictive and oppressive measured formulated by topheavy and incompetent Government bureaucracy.

Mr. Beveridge mentioned the Teapot Dome scandal, the Veterans' Bureau frauds and the conviction of William H. Anderson as illustrative of conditions prevalent in the country. While public officials are proving themselves "whited sepulchers," the Government machinery, he said, continues to become more oppressive and "swarms of Government agents fly over the land disciplining industry and trade and eating up the substance of the people."

The people have come to find, he said, that "the odor of sanctity is mingled with the smell of oil" and a dangerous conditions has been created, with the public mystified, resentful, dazed and dangerous. No false sentimentality, he said, should divert the determination of Congress to sift the oil scandal to the bottom and bring the guilty to prison and give vindication to the innocent. "Let retribution," he said, "be swift, ample and all inclusive."

"Fewer laws better enforced, less government better administered, more liberty better ordered—these are the needs of the time," said Mr. Beveridge. The country is smothered by legislation. The boundaries of law have been broken over, and statutes have invaded the province of the pulpit and the school. The church has abdicated to the State, which cannot possibly do the church's work—the sermon on the Mount is higher than acts of Congress or Legislatures.

"The attempt to regiment the business activities of the people has resulted in multitudes of Government bureaus, boards and commissions, hives of bureaucracy, from which swarms of Government agents fly over the land, disciplining industry and trade and eating up the substance of the people.

"Expense of government has swollen to dropsical bulk, and administration of government has become so intricate and involved that nobody can comprehend its workings. For instance, when Lincoln became President there were, all told, fewer than one public official for every 800 adult citizens. To-day, according to the careful report of the National Industrial Conference Board, recently issued, there is one Government employee for every eleven persons over 16 years of age.

"The salaries alone of these millions of public employees is $3,800,000,000 every year.

"Those who do the day's work of the nation are so terrorized by tax gatherers and other Government spies and inspectors that American character is being transformed from that of upstanding, fearless citizens of a republic into tthat of furtive and hypocritical subjects of an autocracy.

"And while this frenzy goes on of making business toe the mark drawn by bureaucrats who know nothing of business and could not run any big concern—while this craze for compelling artificial business ethics proceeds—corruption riots throughout officialdom itself.

"The inside of the cup is putrid—even leaders of moral causes are found to be venal; and the odor of sanctity mingles with the smell of oil.

"We have enough Government guardians of business conduct to stop a wife from taking loose change from the pockets of a sleeping and stingy husband; and yet fraud pollutes the Veterans' Bureau at Washington, the Teapot Dome rottenness contaminates the national Government and an outstanding prohibition leader is convicted of forgery and graft.

"No political party has a corner on scoundrels, no religious denomination a monopoly on virtue; and the political or moral organization that shields its rascals invites its doom. Honesty is fundamental.

"Woe to the country whose citizens lose confidence and have cause to lose confidence in Government officials and especially in champions of moral causes. We may divide in opinion on public policies and all is well; but when the elect of the land prove to be whited sepulchers, suspicion of everybody and everything ensues, and all is ill.

"For years we have been riding for a fall. The stupendous profiteering during and after the war, the incredible overbuying and prodigious mispurchases by Government agents that only the plea of belated haste saves from a sterner branding, formed the looting habit of which freshly uncovered filth is only one noxious result.

"The Teapot Dome is but one evil shoot from the upas tree of spoilation that for years has been sucking the financial vitality of the nation. No matter what political party is hurt, no matter what moral organization is discredited, no matter what eminent personage suffers, let investigation tear that poisonous plant root and branch out of American soil.

"For the sake of public faith in free institutions everybody hopes that, in the end, all will be found straight; but I have a hunch that only the edges of deep and widespread rottenness have been touched as yet."

Legislation had reached a point, the former Senator said, where laws have become so complicated that even lawyers cannot understand them, and one of the tasks of the day is to restore the people's faith in the rectitude, alertness and capacity of public officials without further complicating the Government machinery and piling more laws on those already on the books.

He advocated the abolition of the Railroad Labor Board because it has outlived its usefulness, and the curtailment of the authority of the Federal Trade Commission on the ground that it has become a meddlesome busybody interfering with the normal flow of trade. Included in his remarks also were attacks upon the League of Nations, the Bok peace plan and any device that would involve America in European quarrels.

THEY'LL BE DUKES

PRINCE GEORGE (LEFT) AND PRINCE HENRY (RIGHT), SOON TO BE MADE ROYAL DUKES.

LONDON, Feb. 20. — Princes Henry and George, the third and fourth sons of King George, may soon be dukes.

The king is expected to call upon his sons and say to them:

"Arise, noble dukes."

And the two, having bent their knee in homage, will rise with new titles. Being a duke doesn't mean much, except to admit one as a full peer member of the House of Lords. To make his children royal dukes is one of the few prerogatives of the crown which the king can perform without consulting anybody.

Prince Henry, 24, may be the Duke of Edinburgh and Prince George may have the dukedom of Kent, Sussex or Gloucester.

OCEAN DIP ENDS IN DIVORCE.

"Immoral For Woman to Wear Bathing Suit," Said Husband.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22. — Mrs. Julia M. Hale went to Redondo Beach with a woman friend, donned a bathing suit and took a dip in the ocean.

George Hale, her husband, objected and, she says, told her "it was immoral for a woman to wear a bathing suit."

Mrs. Hale told her troubles to Judge Moncur in Superior Court, where she obtained a divorce for cruel and inhuman treatment.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OLD TIMERS WERE GORGEOUS EATERS

DRESDEN, Feb. 21.—(Associated Press).—Menus of olden times when kings and robber knights served tons of food and wine to their castle party guests during feasts which sometimes went on for weeks, have been appearing recently in the German newspapers which marvel at the capacities to eat and drink of the individuals living 300 or 400 years ago. Scientists, and letter writers to the newspapers in general, have taken up the subject of enormous repasts, and discuss at length the appetites of the nobility of former times. The scientists agree that it is scarcely conceivable how the kings and their friends could really consume the quantities of food and drink which has been accredited to some of the famous old characters of history in Europe.

An example of a feast at the court of Hanover in the sixteenth century when 13 different meat dishes were served has been published in virtually all of the newspapers of Germany recently, and has brought out much comment, especially by writers who make comparisons of the fat days of the past centuries and the "lean" days in Germany during the war, and since.

First section—Two kinds of wine soups, baked singing birds, meat pie, venison, mutton breast, wild pork, veal, roast chicken, boiled beef, two kinds of fish, vegetables and wine.

In those days, it is claimed, that even in the homes of persons of the middle class the dinner usually consisted of six courses, each course constituting seven to nine different dishes.

The old habit of gormandizing as practiced by the kings has passed forever, most of the writers agree, and the scientists aver that the people of today, who do not stuff themselves, are happier and in better health generally than their gluttonous forefathers who reveled in feasts of rich foods and strong drinks and some times died of apoplexy at the table before the eyes of all their guests who were also stuffed and trying to be merry.

British Farmers Are Opposing Cattle Pact.

LONDON, Feb. 21. — (Canadian Press). — The Council of the National Farmers' Union passed a resolution yesterday, protesting against the recent agreement between the Minister of Agriculture and the Canadian Government, whereby all cattle imported from the Dominion as stores are allowed entry into the interior of the United Kingdom provided they are suitable for 28 days more feeding.

The Council of the Farmers' Union, in the resolution referred to, point out that it is obvious that all cattle after such a long journey are suitable for 28 days more feeding, the effect of this rule being to admit to the interior markets Canadian fat cattle under the guise of store cattle.

Jolting Auto Ride Restores to Use Man's Paralyzed Hand.

PONCA CITY, Okla., Feb. 22.—A jolting ride in a motor car restored to use the paralyzed left hand of a man who had been given a "lift" by two residents of Tonkawa. The man, a stranger to them, climbed in at their invitation and sat on the rear seat. His left hand hung limp. The car hit a bump, the passenger's head struck the top, and the two in front were startled a moment later to see him wave the hand and cry, "I can use it, I can use it!"

CHANGE IN DIET

Sometimes, as a benefit to the depleted system through wasting disease or as a result of seasonal habits, a change in diet becomes necessary. But change in diet must not be entered into haphazardly. It should be made only upon the advice of your physician, if serious impairment of your health is to be avoided.

One may not be in the right physical condition to stand a change in diet, without careful preparation. But he may not be aware of this condition. If anything should go wrong the changed diet is to blame and not the careless action of the individual concerned. One is simply courting trouble to institute a complete change in diet without knowing the actual body condition, through a careful health examination. Often people regard a change in diet with no more concern than a change in clothes.

In the changing of any diet, special care must be given to the fats. These are not only a source of heat to the body but are very important in regulating other food processes. Vegetable fats and those of nuts and oils will be found more favorable when changing diet. The reason is they are more easily digested than the animal fats. Their nutritive value is just as great while the flavor is more pleasing and palatable.

Too much salt retains uric acid and therefore too much salt will cause catarrh and other similar troubles. It must also be practically avoided in all rheumatic troubles. Too little salt is the cause of malnutrition, owing to deficient assimilation of food.

The salts contained in vegetables, cereals, etc., are not the same as common salt. The vegetable salts are chiefly phosphates and carbonates combined with potassium, calcium and magnesium.

Be careful to remember in any diet change that the salts contain no protein, as many people consider them nourishing.

FULLNESS IN FRONT.

Front fullness for frocks is being stressed by a number of French houses, but the plain flat-back effect is almost invariable.

KEEP YOUR SUIT CLEAN AND NEAT

By "THE STROLLER."

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(United Press).—You've probably noticed how the "missus," when you positively refuse to authorize expenditure of domestic funds for a new dress or a new suit, resigns herself with a sigh to having her last year's model dry cleaned or dyed. As a general rule, men wear a suit until it is so shabby and worn that nothing remains of it except interment in the bag that goes to the old folks' home.

But sometimes (possibly most of the time) suits or topcoats are discarded when there is still a good bit of wear remaining in them. Take, for instance, that light suit which you bought last spring and wore pretty steadily throughout the summer and fall. It's a little spotted. Dry cleaning will eliminate that difficulty. Well, you don't like the color of it anyhow. In that case, take it around to the dyers and see what he will dye it for.

A suit that is dry cleaned and dyed looks like new and is well worth the expense that it takes to put it into condition. Of course, you can't take a worn-out suit and revivify it, but if it looks as though it might stand a few months' further wear were it spruced up a bit, consult your tailor or dyer.

A little neighborhood tailor told "The Stroller" that there wasn't a thing in connection with men's clothing that couldn't be fixed. Of course, when confronted with the question, "Can you take shine off serge?" he had to confess to being nonplussed, but as a general rule the crafty tailoring craft can remedy almost all ills of clothing. It's rather senseless to discard a suit just because there is a tear in the trouser leg. That's a little job that the subtitles of the sartorial art can fix up in a way that can't be discerned by the naked eye.

A good dry cleaning will add to the life of a suit or topcoat. Even the suits you wear frequently, even though they don't look as if they might need it, will improve considerably and live longer if the dry cleaner is patronized. It's a good investment.

* * *

While on the subject of making clothes live longer, it might be opportune to speak of properly caring for the trousers of your extra suits. The majority of coat hangers nowadays have a rod whereon to place the trousers. In most cases, this is a good procedure, but in certain materials, folding the trousers over the rod will make a crease. To avoid this, the best thing to do is to purchase some trouser hangers at the nearest "5-and-10." These hangers are equipped with wooden clips which are fastened to the bottoms of the trousers and they are hung upside down. The weight of the trousers is thus at the bottom and the crease is preserved. In many instances, that Sunday suit can be worn for three or more Sundays without pressing with the aid of the trouser hangers.

Also don't forget that the man who prides himself on the looks of his clothes always brushes his duds carefully before hanging them up in the clothes press

CONSTANTINOPLE TO GET MANY VISITORS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 21.—(Associated Press).—The tourist companies having announced that many American travellers are due to visit Constantinople this spring, the local Turkish authorities gave shrewd consideration to the impressions these foreigners might carry away of Turkey and the Turks.

As a result, it has been decided to provide the Americans with Turkish guides to the city, thus breaking an old precedent. Never in the past have Turks acted in this capacity; the work always has been done by non-Moslems. The guide service is to be without cost, so it is said, and as only Turks will be employed, there will be no danger of aliens spreading unfavorable reports of the country and the people.

It is estimated that some 3,000 Americans will visit the Turkish capital this spring, on the many tourist steamers that have placed Constantinople on their itinerary.

BELL TELEPHONE PROGRESS

The activities of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada in 1923, as disclosed by the Annua Report received by Manager J. McHardy yesterday, were on a scale unexamp ed in the history of the Company.

Perhaps the most significant development of recent years is the changed attitude of the public towards the telephone. As the report says:

"Service is now required of us in homes and small places of business which, a few years ago, could not have been considered as a possible market. Thus, within our present boundaries, the telephone field is broadening daily; therefore, we are obliged to meet demands for a rapidly growing local service."

Telephone revenues for the year amounted to $22,225,714.24, and expenses $18,044,455.87, leaving a ne of $4,181,258.37 from which to pay bond interest, dividends, a otment to the Benefit Fund and provision for suplus.

Increase in Stations

During 1923 there were placed in new locations, by addition or transfer, 120,084 telephones, and there were removed by cancellation or transfer 68,066, resulting in a net growth of 52,018.

This is the highest record of net growth in the Company's history, and indicates the extent to which new facilities were put into use—earning revenue.

While the number of local calls in 1923 increased 6.3 per cent over 1922, the long distance calls increased 11.4 per cent.

Additions to Plant

The gross additions to plant for the year amounted to $12,698,582.83 of which the following are the principal items already made available for service:

Land and buildings	$ 457,909.83
Central Office apparatus and subscribers' telephones	4,668,478.96
Exchange and toll lines	4,626,785.88

Financing for 1923

Under the authority previously given to the Directors there were issued during the year 78,804 shares.

61,553 of these were taken up by the shareholders.

4,751 shares were bought by employees under the Plan authorized in May, 1922.

12,500 shares were sold in one block in England at the market price.

Pension and Benefit Plan

There are now fifty-two persons on the pension roll, a net increase of nine during the year. With increasing years and numbers there is a cumulative liability on this and the Death Benefit account, to provide for which the Benefit Fund has been increased to $722,752.00.

2,311 Sickness Benefits were granted in 1923, an increase of 409 over 1922.

The report concludes, "The past year's achievements have been made possible by the splendid morale of our forces, fostered and maintained by employee organizations, and by the example of the supervisory employees.

ANDERSON—WHAT IS HE?

Martyr or Rogue? Drys' Faith Still Unshaken

A prize winning boy temperance speaker.

A brilliant student of law at the University of Michigan,

President of an Epworth League society.

The leader who put over the local option law in Illinois.

Head of the Anti-Saloon League in Maryland.

Convicted of forgery and sentenced for from one to two years in Sing Sing Prison.

WM. H. ANDERSON.

Such is the career of the hardest hitting, keenest and most feared foe liquor has met in the United States—William H. Anderson, until his resignation last week, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York State and the enigma of wet and dry interests alike.

What Next?

If he goes to prison, and go he will unless the subtle legal parries of Charles S. Whitman, his counsel, open for him a last minute escape, what next?

In his long career leading the battle on liquor, Anderson has hit hard and he has asked no quarter. His strategy has been subtle, and he has had the people with him. But now he stands, convicted by a jury of his peers, of forgery in the third degree. Significantly, too, his enemies point to the last minute efforts of former Gov. Whitman of New York, past master of legal strategy, to stave off the sting of the sentence—one to two years in prison—and spare his client the stigma of a felon's record. For Whitman has based his last ditch stand on technicalities rather than a denial or guilt.

"We love him for the enemies he has made," frequently quoted leaders in the dry movement when their leader never hesitated to make enemies. He attacked high and lowly alike. Even as a boy he was noted for that.

Striding to and fro on the platform as a youngster in short trousers, Anderson, the boy, hurled juvenile phillipics against the liquor traffic and its entrenched interests. Prizes for "white ribbon" orations showered on him right and left.

He went to Blackburn College when he finished high school and from there entered the University of Michigan to study for the practice of law. Returning home a full fledged attorney, he flung his full strength against the liquor traffic again. As president of the Epworth League in the Springfield, Ill., district of the Methodist church, he attended a state convention of the organization and listened to Dr. Howard W. Russell, founder of the Anti-Saloon League, then a new thing in Illinois, outlined the plans and aims of the organization. Thrilled with the possibilities of this new weapon against the saloon, he then and there "felt the call" to devote his life to war on the liquor traffic.

He began to organize and, though early in his 20's, he fought through the fight for a local option law in Illinois and then witnessed a triumphant fight in 1000 localities that ran the saloon out of town with the weapon he had placed in their hands.

He was offered the post of general counsel to the league in Illinois, but declined. But when the chance came to become superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in Maryland he accepted and plunged into the fight with both sleeves rolled up.

Mayor Preston of Baltimore early became aware of the presence of Anderson when his barbed darts given out in public statements and from the platform fell into city hall. Senator John Walter Smith and a regiment of governors, legislators, minor officials and mere candidates also soon became aware that there was a man in Maryland whom it did not pay to stir up.

Woke up New York

Then in 1914 the New York State Anti-Saloon League begged Anderson to come to New York and take up the fight. He did—and the fight is still on.

First there came a bill in the General Assembly at Albany requiring that all packages containing alcoholic liquor for beverage purposes with 2 per cent or more alcoholic content should be labeled with a skull and crossbones and bear the statement:

The bill didn't become a law,—Anderson never expected it would. But it stirred up interest and focussed the eyes of the state on the liquor question, and the head of the New York State Anti-Saloon League became one of the most talked-of prohibition advocates in the United States.

William Barnes, the big Republican boss of New York, next felt the smart of Anderson's lash when the league headquarters referred to him as "the boss of the liquor end of the Republican party." Barnes sued, but nothing came of the action and it was soon lost sight of in the flood of publicity attendant on his suit against the late Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

"Get Anderson" Cry

"Get Anderson" became the cry of the anti-Prohibition forces. But he was hard to "get." Agents trailed him, his whole life was raked over, until the attack at last, a flank attack, was made and the prohibition leader was accused of irregularities in his accounts.

With Charles S. Whitman as his counsel, he faced the withering fire of his accusers and gave and took with equal equanimity. Despite all the charges, the powers behind the league maintained their unflinching support and expressed full belief in his integrity, and it was not until his conviction that he tendered his resignation.

And now the question friend and for alike aks is: What next?

WHY MANY STILL DESIRE WHISKEY

Poisoned by Clogged Filter. They Seek Something to Brace Up System and Make Them Feel Better.

The majority of people desire whiskey because they don't feel well. Some may look healthy, but one vital organ of their bodies is out of order.

This organ is the liver, the body's filter! When it is out of order you often wake up feeling dull and tired, tongue coated, bad taste in your mouth, sallow complexion and unpleasant breath. You are bothered with such symptoms as poor digestion, no appetite, sour stomach and gas, irregular movement of the bowels and that run-down, tired-out, nervous and upset condition! Often you have splitting headaches, catch cold easily and your system is too run-down to throw off the cold.

Better than whiskey. Take just a spoonful of Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup after the next few meals. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. Let this wholesome prescription cleanse and tone your liver, put your stomach and system in condition and keep you feeling fine. It is pleasant to take and you will be completely satisfied; otherwise druggists are authorized to return the small cost. Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by J. P. Bond, McDermid & Jury and The Warne Drug Company, Ltd., in Peterborough; The Tanner Drug Company, Ltd., in Lakefield, and by leading druggists in every

ABDOMINAL INJURIES

When a careful study is made of the human figure one is struck with the adequate protection afforded against injuries. The cranium (head), which contains the brain, is securely boxed. The thorax or chest covers the heart and lungs, also carefully protected by the barred structure of the ribs.

But when we come to the lower division of the trunk, we find that the abdominal viscera are only protected by the walls of comparatively soft tissue. Practically all of the abdominal viscera are easily open to outside attacks.

Abdominal injuries may result from a great variety of causes. The first class are termed subcutaneous, including contusions. The second are open wounds.

Subcutaneous injuries may be confined to the abdominal wall or there may be lesions of the viscera also. Open injuries may be confined to the abdominal wall without penetrating it, or they may simply penetrate the abdomen, without injury to the cviscera, or there may be a prolapse or a wound of the viscera.

One of the chief preventive measures in guarding the abdominal viscera from injury is careful body posture both in standing and sitting. If the organs are not restricted by improper posture, they will be strong and healthy in repelling any injury, as well as aiding in rapid recovery. If the muscles are loose and flabby through lack of proper posture and exercise, their defense is practically nil.

Abdominal injuries may be just as serious when inflicted by oneself as though by an open knife wound or serious blow, kick or fall. Avoid sudden action in stretching or trying to reach your full limit. Injuries to the kidneys, a rupture or serious impairment to the other abdominal organs are often the result of such carelessness.

Pulp Embargo Opposed In British Columbia.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 21.—Logging operations in British Columbia pay out in wages approximately $100,000 a day and any embargo placed on the export of logs from the province at this time would seriously affect this contribution to the prosperity of the country, the Royal Commission on pulpwood was told by A. P. Wilson, a large logging operator. An embargo would be disastrous to the country, he said. It would compel protection for the home market only and necessitate closing down operations for four monthse each year. He stated that the class of log exported were largely those which could not find a market in this province.

PASSENGERS OF SNOW BOUND TRAIN SOUGHT SHELTER OF FARMERS

Haliburton Train Stalled At Fell's Station—Some Branch Lines Out of Lindsay Obliterated In Long Stretches By Drifts Twelve Feet Deep.

MAIN LINES OPEN.

LINDSAY, Feb. 21. — The snow blockade which has isolated Lindsay for the past two days, has been partially lifted with the arrival of a train from the east last night and one from the west this morning. Rail and highway traffic has been completely demoralized throughout Victoria County, and conditions are nearly as bad as six years ago, when a severe storm crippled the railways for a week.

The north country has been completely shut off from the outside world. A train from Haliburton attempted to reach Lindsay early Tuesday morning, but it was buried in snow at Fells station. The crew with some twenty-five passengers, were forced to seek refuge in nearby farm houses. An effort was made this evening to break the blockade, but the light engines used on this line struck a snag when they attempted to cut into the drifts. According to reports from the north country, the snow has gathered in drifts on the track to a height in some places of ten and twelve feet. In some places these drifts extend for three-quarters of a mile.

Stalled at Cambray.

A freight from Midland attempted to reach Lindsay Tuesday night. It came as far as Cambray where it encountered mountains of snow, and there it has remained ever since.

The Coboconk and Whitby lines are completely blocked and are likely to remain in that condition for several days.

Excavate Main Lines.

To-day a blizzard, though perhaps not quite as severe as Tuesday's, is sweeping over this section and the railway lines are filling in again. The railway authorities are concentrating all their efforts with a view to keeping the eastern and western lines open, and are, therefore, not in a position to pay much attention to the back lines.

According to reports from the townships, the highways are completely blocked and men will have to be employed to dig through the many drifts before they are fit for traffic. The drifts are so high in many places that a man can touch the telegraph wires without any difficulty.

Fresh Air Funds Will Take Risks

MARMORA, February 22.—If reports are true a local young lady had a very queer nocturnal visitor in the wee sma' oors of Sunday morning.

A small owl flew in through the open window, and when the young lady aroused from her peaceful dreams, there was Mr. Owl, calmly perched at the foot of the bed, viewing his new surroundings.

GRAINMEN DOUBT SHOT FOR HOUSE

Fort William Elevator Employees of Government Never Heard of the Alleged Irregular Practice.

FORT WILLIAM, Feb. 22. — If there are any irregularities, such as "a shot for the house," in the lake terminal elevators, the half dozen government weighmen and several government trackmen employed in these houses, examined by the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission yesterday, are in ignorance of the practice.

Most of these government weighmen have been connected with the service for ten and twenty years.

Not one man who testified before the commission had ever heard of manipulating the levers governing the valves in the granaries by which the farmers would be deprived of the proper weight of the grain sent in, as was described by the ex-employee of the Canadian National Elevator as "a shot for the house."

One witness this afternoon enlivened the session when he declared he had heard of "a shot in the arm," but never of "a shot for the house:" and another said "They would have to go some, and I do not believe they ever got away with it with me."

BUILDING NOT SOLD.

OTTAWA, February 21 (Canadian Press). — The reported sale of the Hotel Scribe in Paris, France, by the Canadian National Railways in a cable last night was discredited here to-day by the official of the Department of Railways.

The organisation mentioned as the purchaser in the transaction is the La Societe Immobiliere De La Rue Scribe.

It is stated that this organisation has taken over the building, and is to operate it for the Canadian National Railways.

THIS LADY SAYS

There's Nothing to Equal "Dr. Wood's" Norway Pine Syrup For Coughs and Colds

Mrs. David Thompson, West River St., Paris, Ont., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For myself and children I use nothing else.

My little girl, five years old, has had bronchial trouble ever since she had the "flu" a few years ago, and, now, whenever she gets a slight cold she develops a very nasty cough, but all I have to do is to give her a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Also for myself, and the other children, I can find nothing to equal it, in fact, it was only a short time ago that I gave it to my ten months old baby, and could immediately see the difference it made in her. Now, I always keep Norway Pine Syrup in the house, as I feel there is nothing to equal it."

MORE FIGHTING SHIPS.

LONDON, February 21. — The MacDonald governm nt in view of unemployment situation, has decided to proceed with the laying down of five cruisers and two destroyers, as soon as the parliamentary sanction is given, it was announced by Chas. G. Ammon, Parliamentary under-secretary to the Admiralty in the House of Commons this afternoon. No decision has been reached, he added, regarding submarines, depot ships and other items on the programme of the Baldwin government.

A TRAGIC DEATH.

HAMILTON, February 21 (Canadian Press) — Answering a call for teachers issued on account of a shortage at Queen Victoria School here, Mrs Ruth Browett walked several miles from her home yesterday ,taught a class all afternoon, although very weak, and then collapsed.

She died in the hospital at midnight of heart failure.

CITY FATHERS REMOVED SNOW

MILLBROOK, February 22.—Labour government found practical demonstration in Millbrook on Tuesday afternoon when the "city fathers," Reeve W. T. Wood, Councillors J. R. Eakins, G. W. Sayles, P. Stinson (Councillor T. J. Lang escaped duty by being out of town), ably assisted by Township Clerk J. N. McGill, armed themselves with snow shovels and proceeded to remove some weeks' accumulation of snow from the pavement beginning at the Town Hall corner and diligently pursuing their unwonted task to the limit of the Armouries frontage.

The stunt was in response to a "dare" from the merchants on the north side of the street, who had lived up to the letter of the snow by-law, and cleaned in front of their business places.

But the south side is a civic responsibility, and men must either be hired for the work, or the municipal representatives must forego their august dignity for a time and "bend unwilling shoulders to the lowly task."

Economy being preached both at Ottawa and Queen's Park, the Reeve and Council became shining examples of the same as, cheered by the encouraging comments of the admiring onlookers, they took up the challenge.

The "whisper in the air" seemed to insinuate that there were some aching backs and muscles from the unaccustomed labours at the completion of the heroic task which was in preparation for the Winter Horse Show on Thursda, and included the removal of the drifts where pavement and roadway meet.

In cruel irony, the Storm King and his snow allies were out in full force that night and all the following day, the Horse Show was postponed until next Wednesday, and now fresh drifts and layers of "white loveliness" await a second onlaught, and exhibition of municipal economy, on the part of those representing the citizens at the "city hall."

Dame Rumour has it that odds of three to one were refused by some of the leading business men, with consequent loss, when the "city fathers" actually "went to it," and became for the time being at least real employees in "civil service."

ORGY OF SPENDING

penditures and $807,462 on special warrants or a total counting the warrants of $20,590,699 for eight and a half months of that year. During the remaining three and a half months of that year this government spent $2,836,893. That is how and who spent the money."

Mr. Price—You didn't pay the seven million on Hydro interest which is due at the end of the year.

Mr. Doherty— On statutory expenditure for the eight and half months the old government spent $16,666,040 and the new government in three and a half months spent $27,747,668. In view of those figures and they are correct, this government cant get away with a financial tragedy and blame it on the U.F.O."

Speaking of tax exemption bond buying Mr. Doherty said that $8,889,000 worth of such bonds had been bought in by the old government for $6,806,000. He said that many financial men in Canada were trying to buy up these bonds for their own financial benefit. He was glad to see the success of the Ontario Savings Banks and hoped the government would continue the policy of the former administration. He would be against giving such banks the full rights of chartered banks. He claimed that every dollar spent by the U.F.O. had passed the Legislature item by item.

Seemed Proud of Deficit.

Harold Fisher, Liberal, Ottawa, said the people were more concerned with the present government than that of their predecessors. The provincial treasurer ,continued Mr. Fisher, seemed almost proud of the deficit and claimed it was not his child.

"As far as we Liberals are concerned the present government and the late government can apportion the credit or the blame between them. I know that of the two governments one is worse than the other but I do not know which."

The present budget he said, had been increased by the book-keeping, but he thought the changes perhaps correct. They were made, however at the wrong time and should have been introduced at the beginning of a new financial year instead of during one. The provincial treasurer should also remember that the deficit would injure the financial credit of the province. He had always been under the impression that the House controlled the expenditure of money but he found that the government voted itself money by way of treasury warrants.

Easy Borrowing.

"The curse of public finance today is the ease with which money can be borrowed," said Mr. Fisher. "Borrowing power is given the government in bulk and it can spend the money on anything it sees fit. The government should be limited to the amounts authorized by the Legislature whether for current expenditure or on capital account." He could not reconcile a deficit of $15,000,000 with the credit balance of $18,000,000 in the banks. It did not seem good business to borrow money at 5 1-2 per cent. and deposit it at 3 per cent.

"In regard to the notes sold in New York the treasurer has said too much or said too little," said Mr. Fisher. "If any one had a rake off a specific charge should be made. If the treasurer is not prepared to make a charge, what he said was unfair to the late government and the people of Ontario."

By the treasurers own figures he would have a deficit of six millions this year. "This is not good enough" said Mr. Fisher. "The people of Ontario want to pay their way as they go and the opposition is here to demand that the provincial treasurer shall balance his budget. The Minister is responsible for improving things. In all his speech he has indicated no improvement at all except in book-keeping and auditing." There was a great opportunity for a treasurer who would devise means of systematizing the whole taxation of the country federal, provincial and municipal.

The treasurer had not shown the house where he proposed to economize. He spoke of the several new jobs being opened up including the establishment of a secretaryship for Northern Ontario as reverse to economy. The present government had found things in a mess and were apparently prepared to perpetuate it. He thought before a comptroller of finance was appointed that his duties should be clearly defined and that he should not be a glorified auditor and that publicity should be given to his reports so that the public would see that the government accepted his recommendations instead of ignoring them. In conclusion he appealed to the Premier to appoint a Minister of Education as no man could fill both offices of Premier and Minister with fairness to deparments an to the people.

Thornton to Introduce the Baltimore Scheme.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 21. — The Baltimore scheme of co-operation, by which employees are given votes on the letting of contracts, distribution of work and working conditions, will be introduced in the near future on the Canadian National Railways, it was announced here to-day, by Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways.

The lowest laborer will have a vote on the policy of labor distribution, programmes of building, methods of work, and so forth, under the new scheme.

The Baltimore scheme is the latest step in uniting the forces of employees and employer, one labor official said to-day. It has been successfully adopted by the Baltimore & Ohio railway shops.

SNOW CAVED IN ROOF.

MONTREAL, Feb. 21. — Pressure of snow is thought to have caused the collapse of the entire roof of a four storey building at 505 St. Paul street west, in the down town section of the city to-day. The debris struck and killed a horse that was pulling a sleigh, the driver of which narrowly escaped death. Several persons passing at the time also had narrow escapes.

Have You a Daughter? If You Have, This Article Will Interest You!

Hamilton, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best medicine I have ever known for the building up of girls and women who are run-down in health. It has been taken by different members of my family with great success. My daughters have been wonderfully helped during motherhood by taking Favorite Prescription; it is the best medicine the expectant mother can take for health and strength. And after having the influenza my granddaughter was left in a very bad way and nothing in the way of medicine gave her any help until she began taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and through the use of this medicine her health was completely restored, and she is as well as ever." —Mrs. Sarah Wilshaw, 405 Cannon St., E.

ADVENTURES OFTHE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A SHADOWY RIDDLE

"Yet you'd think the Pied Piper were playing a dance.

"What is this?" asked the Riddle Lady. "Everybody should know because everybody has one."

"It must be a cold," declared the Barber, sneezing.

"Humph!" exclaimed Doctor Foster. "That's no cold sneeze! That's a snuff sneeze. You don't get a bit of sympathy from me."

"Doctor Foster! Mister Barber!" said the Riddle Lady sternly. "Please to behave your manners, both of you. This is no time for quarreling. Now to go back to where I left off—everybody has one."

"That doesn't tell you much," whispered Nancy to Nick. "It might be eyes or teeth or hair or—"

"Listen," said Nick. "She's beginning."

And sure enough, she was saying:

"Jack is nimble, Jack is quick,
Jack can jump over a candlestick.
He leaps over chairs, he climbs up walls,
He is quick as a cat and never falls.

"Sometimes Jack's thin, sometimes he's fat,
Sometimes he's short, but he is always flat
Like Wonderland Alice, one minute he's tall,
And the very next minute, he is nothing at all!

"He follows you 'round, he likes you so,
And sticks like a plaster wherever you go,
Sometimes he's ahead, and sometimes behind,
But never so very far off, you'll find.

"He likes the sun, and yet it is queer
How he jumps behind you as if in fear
The minute the sun sticks out his nose
From his bed of clouds where he loves to doze.

"The days Mister Sun forgets to rise,
And pull back the curtains that cover the skies,
Jack disappears, too, and not a soul knows
The mysterious places where Nimble Jack goes.

"But it must be Soot Town, for when he comes back
He is always appareled entirely in black,
No matter what color, you'll find that it's true
This rascal bears quite a resemblance to you.

"He's a silent young fellow, there isn't a sound
When he quietly mimics and follows you 'round.
Yet you'd think the Pied Piper were playing a dance
When Nimble Jack starts in to caper and prance."

"Well, I'm sure I don't know what it is," said Mister Piper. "So many things act that way when I'm around. it isn't anything unusual. The minute I get out my pipe, everything in sight begins to jig."

The Pied Piper laughed as though it was a joke, but everybody was guessing too hard to pay any attention to him.

"I know what it is," said Nancy, and she recited:

"I have a little shadow that goes in and out with me,
But what can be the use of him is more than I can see."

"That's right," nodded the Riddle Lady. "And your prize is a parasol. It's the only thing to keep your shadow from following you on a sunny day."

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

The man who coined the quotation, "Don't put all your eggs in one basket" did not mean to take the eggs out of a good basket and put them in several broken baskets just to have them mixed up a little. It would certainly be better to have them in one good basket than to have them in a dozen poor ones.

When any one suggests diversity in investment, it is assumed that securities of equal safety will be picked.

Consequently before starting to diversify holdings between public utilities, railroads, industrials, and municipals, be sure that the securities chosen are all high-grade.

DURHAM CIRCLE SHOWED PROFIT IN EGG SELLING

Gross of $1,952.25 Reduced to $211.36 By Several Accidents—Money Carried as Reserve For This Year's Operations.

COLLISION AND FIRE.

Co-operative Marketing of Eggs as recommended by the Poultry Division of the Live Stock Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa again proves to be a most satisfying way of handling farm products as instanced by the report of the Durham B. Egg Circle given at the annual meeting at Port Hope closing the year's work for 1923.

The principal underlying co-operative marketing as advocated and supported by the Live Stock Branch is entirely Democratic, the producers taking the initiative in organizing the association and electing the officers from their own ranks. This is a guarantee that the interests of the producers will not be lost sight of When the product is to be marketed At this point in the development of the Association the Department is of material assistance to the association in that they have ready, compiled from years of experience in this work, a complete set of Constitution and By-laws which the association does well to adopt. The first duties of the officers-elect, as set forth by the Constitution is to secure as manager of the Association the best qualified person obtainable having an eye to his business ability and his experience in marketing farm products. The success of the operation of the association is largely due to the vision a manager may have of his work and the assistance and supervision given by the officers.

Port Hope Manager

At the commencement of the year 1923, Durham B. Egg Circle were most fortunate in securing the services of Louis N. Clark of Port Hope as their manager. Mr. Clark has an interprovincial circle reputation as a commercial poultryman and the marketing of his own products has been to a large extent, the measure of his success.

Report for 1923

Report of Durham B. Egg Circle for 1923 follows:— Number of members shipping during 1923 was 175. No. dozen shipped 49,295. Gross value to circle $14,681.71. Cash advanced at time eggs were gathered $12,729.46. Gross profit $1,952.25. It is well to note that the price at the time the eggs were gathered was the local market price and it will be seen that the gross profit $1,952.25 is over and above the amount the receipts would have been, had no marketing association been operating in the vicinity of Port Hope. After deducting from the Gross Profit the manager's commission 274.74 plus the collector's commission $739.42 plus incidental expenses $233.78 the balance $704.31 would under ordinary operations be divided among the members according to the number of dozens shipped.

Extraordinary Expense

This year however, was not an ordinary year with the Durham B. Circle. During the early part of the season they sustained heavy losses. Their collecting truck was struck by a C.P.R. train and completely wrecked together with a truck load of eggs the collector having a miraculous escape. Later in the season a further loss was sustained by having a large batch of eggs burned. The building in which the eggs were stored was completely demolished. After meeting all these losses there was a surplus of $211.36 to be divided among the members. At the annual meeting held in the Agriculture office in Port Hope the members decided to leave the profits to the credit of the funds of the circle anticipating the expenses in connection with next year's operations. This speaks highly of the confidence the members have in their executive.

Average Price 29.78 cents

The average selling price for the year was 29.78 cents per dozen and the average price paid to the members 25.8 cents per dozen. The officers elected for 1924 are as follows President W. G. Chesnut, vice-president E. J. Symmons Secretary treasurer G. L. Kellogg, Director, Jas. Bosnel, W. J. Bamsey, A. J. Runnals; J. Pearce, Manager Lewis N. Clark. Collector B. Symmons. In an interview your correspondent had with the manager it was learned that, owing to the unfortunate losses experienced during 1923, the Association had not been able to extend their activities over as great an area as would be possible under normal conditions. It was intimated that receiving stations could be established at convenient points all through Durham County to which the producers could bring their eggs, thence to be trucked by the association to the railway for shipment Mr. Clark is to be complimented on his vision of the possibilities of the Association to serve the producers over so wide a range of territory.

RAILWAY CONDITIONS RETURNING TO NORMAL

TORONTO, February 22 (Canadian Press). — Following the steady two-day battle with the mountains of snow which blocked the right-of-way and held up the train operations, the railways in Ontario were yesterday slowly returning to normal conditions.

Listed schedules were by no means regularly maintained nor were all the regular trains operated several cancellations being made from Toronto headquarters.

Branch lines are still reported as blocked to varying degrees, the greatest trouble occurring in Western Ontario and the Bruce Peninsula.

No freight was moved all day yesterday through Toronto, but late last night several small trains of perishable goods were despatched East and West by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Through traffic continues to operate with higher efficiency than local divisions.

Transcontinntal train on the C.P.R. passed through Toronto yesterday only a few minutes behind schedule, while National service was held up to a somewhat greater extent.

On the third day of the storm-bound operation, centres of difficulty were located in North-Western portions of old Ontario and along the main lines paralleling the St. Lawrence.

KEY TO THE CITY OF LYONS WAS RETURNED

PARIS, February 22 (British United Press). — The Austrian Minister Eichoff has returned to France the keys of the City of Lyons, seized by an Austrian army in 1815.

The purpose of the affair is to demonstrate Austria's gratitude for the financial assistance accorded to her by the League of Nations with France's permission.

JEWEL CHAINS

To clean silver or gold chains put them in a wide-mouthed jar half filled with warm castile soapsuds. Add a teaspoonful of ammonia and a teaspoon of whiting and shake well. Then rinse in clear water and dry in jeweler's sawdust.

THE RIGHT TO STRIKE IS DENIED IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Feb. 22. United Press.—The right to strike was denied to-day by a Berlin court.

In a decision involving an entirely new principle of law the court held union laborers responsible for personal damages arising from any strike.

A Dutch traveller was awarde a claim against the Railwaymen's Union on account of the extra expense incurred by him when the railroad workers struck in 1922

The German unions intend to carry the fight to a higher court as otherwise it would mean the end of all strikes.

CHINA AND RUSSIA SETTLING AFFAIRS

PEKING, Feb. 22.—(British United Press.) — The recognition of Russia by China is imminent, according to the reports current in the diplomatic circles.

M. Karahau, the Soviet plenipotentiary, conversed informally with the Foreign Minister, C. T. Wang, Thursday, and another meeting will be held on Friday.

It is said that Russia is willing to evacuate Mongolia unconditionally and that Chian will grant dejure recognition to the Soviet regime, provided Peking is given a substantial voice in the affairs of the Chinese eastern railway.

With these arrangements made in advance it is said that other questions would be discussed after the recognition had been granted.

EXILES WHOLE FAMILY FOR ATTACK ON REGENT.

TOKIO, Feb. 1. — (By Mail). — Daisuke Namba, the young man who attempted to assassinate the Prince Regent last Decemebr, has brought punishment upon not only himself but upon all members of his family. That, too, in spite of the fact that Japan's modern criminal code does not contain the harsh old Oriental provisions that made an offender's relatives liable to punishment with him.

Namba comes of a family whose honorable traditions are long. His great-grandfather attained high court rank through services rendered in the Restoration of 1868, and his father was a member of Parliament until shame, brought down by his son's act, forced him to resign. Now the father is about to lead the family into exile in Java. Even a married sister of the would-be assassin will go, leaving her wealthy husband at her father's order to join the emigrants in their effort to escape the scorn the young man's act called down.

Namba was a student in Tokio when he made his attempt against the Prince's life. Japanese authorities say there is no precedent for such an attack upon the Emperor or a Prince Regent of the blood imperial. Namba is representative of a growing radical element among Japan's young men, some of whom seem half crazed by badly digested ideas of liberty and democracy.

It is noteworthy that newspapers here are still forbidden to publish full details of Namba's identity and that no announcement has been made regarding his examination or trial. Capital punishment is prescribed for the perpetrator of such an attempt as Namba's.

SCHELL MURDER TRIAL WILL PROBABLY REACH JURY'S HANDS TONIGHT

Defence Closed Its Case This Forenoon--Dramatic Address by Schell's Lawyer Pictured an Innocent Man Suffering Through His Friend's Death.

WITNESS MISSING

In a dramatic stillness that held the crowded court room this forenoon C. G. Frost, a brilliant young Lindsay lawyer, eloquently pleaded the cause of John Schell, charged with the wilful murder of George Washington MacNeal.

Schell, who was put in the witness box yesterday evening was this morning subjected to a further cross-examination, and the examination of Dr. Johnston of Fenelon Falls closed the case for the defence at 11.15. Mr. Frost immediately commenced his address to the jury, in which he re-enacted, moment by moment, the events of the tragic week-end. In a triumph of forensic oratory he painted the picture of Schell's return from the spring in the eventful Sunday morning, the thumps which he heard as he approached the cabin, the startling rifle report as he reached the corner of the shack, the heavy thud and the lighter rattle that succeeded, and Schell's perturbation as he approached to look on MacNeal's death agony.

The jury and the spectators in the rear of the court leaned forward in rapt attention as Mr. Frost graphically described the effect on Schell of his friend's piercing death-shriek, how it affected his injured head so as to throw him temporarily into a panic, how he later got lost in the bush in his eagerness to rush to civilization with his awful tidings, and declared Schell's statements were the outcome of his harrowing experience.

"Is there one tittle of evidence in this case that Gedrge Washington MacNeal was killed by another?" he demanded. "I do not remember one person saying he was killed by another. The crown has not produced more than a mild suspicion that John Schell fired the shot. That is not even circumstantial evidence. All they have is mere suspicion."

Mr. Frost pointed out that MacNeal's statements which were produced by the crown were not sworn. "There is no punishment named in the criminal code for telling an unsworn lie."

He told Schell's reason for altering the trigger pull so that it would be lighter, saying hunters prefer light pulls since they are not so likely to pull the gun out of alignment when firing. In explanation of Schell's not going to the assistance of the suffering MacNeal, Mr. Frost asked: "Have you ever been in a room with a drunken man? You want to keep away from him and leave him alone."

At the conclusion of the presentation of the defence, Mr. Justice Mowat asked for the missing crown witness, Lou Hopkins, and was informed by the crown prosecutor, A. B. Cunningham, K. C., that she had not yet been found. The case was closed without her testimony.

Schell Repeats His Story

John Schell in continued cross-examination today, said a porcupine had torn the roof of the shack so that it leaked. Water had wet all the bunks but his own and the dog's and MacNeal slept on the floor. He sat talking with Mac Neal on the Saturday night until about 9 o'clock, when MacNeal lay down on the floor south of the bunks. Up to that time there had been no drinking and MacNeal was in normal health. Schell did not know where the bottle was.

Shortly after nine o'clock Schell said MacNeal leaped to his feet, clasped his hands over his stomach and muttered,

"What did you do?"

"Sat and watched him."

"It seems to me very remarkable that this man should spend the night as you say he did and you never spoke a word to him, not even to ask what was the matter."

"I did not."

"Apparently he was in great pain?"

"Yes."

"And yet you did nothing to help him?"

"I did not."

"You knew he was in trouble?"

"Well, I thought he was."

"He was in plain sight of you."

"When he was standing up."

Schell said just after ten o'clock MacNeal took a drink and handed him the bottle. Schell said "I can't drink it."

The bottle was about half full. There had been no drinks taken out of it since the boys left.

"What became of this bottle?"

"Well, I saw the bottle in the bunk in the morning and grabbed it and put it under the hay in my bunk and I never saw it since."

"You say he had been performing around the bed?"

"Why didn't you do like any reasonable man would do and assist him?"

"I sat and watched him. He didn't speak at all. He just muttered something. He shouted: 'I've got you now; now, I have you.'"

"And you can't give any reason why you didn't go to his assistance?"

"I can not."

Mr. Justice Mowat: "Were you afraid of him?"

"More that than anything else."

Crown Prosecutor: "Did he act ugly?"

"No. He never said a cross word."

"Did you see your rifle before you went out in the morning?"

"Yes. It was in the rack."

"Where was MacNeal when you went out the door?"

"He was jumping around the camp, hollering."

"And you got up and went out and never said a word?"

"There was once—Oh, I don't know that there was."

"What happened then?"

"I baled my water and heard two or three bumps. Then I heard this shot and a rattle."

"Where did you look in?"

"At the door."

"Was there any smell of smoke?"

"I didn't notice."

"How long after he fired the shot before you saw him?"

"Not over a minute."

"What did the thumps sound like?"

"Like wood hitting the floor."

"What caused them?"

"I could not tell you."

Schell said when he heard the shot he was right outside the shack. When he was lying on his back with head twisted to the side.

"I don't think it was five minutes after till he was dead."

"What did you do?"

"I just stood over him till he was dead, then I threw a cover over him."

"Is there anything in that story to make you afraid?"

"I didn't know what to do."

"You remember what occurred to the veriest detail. Your mind must have been in pretty clear state then. You remember perfectly what occurred?"

"I remember what occurred around the camp."

"Then you immediately hurried out without anything to eat. What was your idea?"

"To give warning as quickly as I could."

Schell said he locked up the camp and started out with his dog. Bass Lake is between the camp and Lambert's. In going out Schell said he went around the south end and east side.

Nogie's Creek runs out of Bass Lake on the south end. He crossed the dam.

"My understanding is your son and Roy MacNeal say they saw your footsteps along the other side?"

Schell said the way he went was two or three miles longer.

"How did you get lost?"

"There are no trails near the dam. The trails are blocked up so you can't tell there was a road there. It was 20 or 25 years ago."

"You had been over this particular country many many times?"

"Not very many."

"Your dog with you?"

"Yes."

"And the dog was lost too?"

On request of Mr. Justice Mowat the crown prosecutor asked Schell regarding the statement said to have been made by him to the police on Tuesday. He remembered signing a statement.

"Constable Davis told of an interview with you that afternoon on which you told him of hearing a shot. Do you remember?"

"I don't remember. I remember him seeing me. I can't remember nothing about a statement."

"You were apparently in pretty good shape that morning. The following day you had an interview with another policeman?"

"I don't remember."

"You only remember one interview with the policemen?"

"I do."

In re-examination Schell showed some changes he had made in the rifle to fix a fault in the hammer and trigger.

Dr Johnston

Dr. Johnston of Fenelon Falls, previously examined by the prosecution was called by the defence and said John Schell came to him ten years ago for treatment for a headache. The doctor examined the cut on top of his head and he associated the noises with the condition of the top of his head.

He had visited the doctor four or five times since then complaining of noise affecting him.

"From your knowledge of Schell and he has sworn MacNeal yelled loudly and he was left alone in the shack with a dead man, what would you consider would be the effect of that on his mental system.

"In a man of Mr. Schell's condition, it certainly would affect him by making him nervous."

"Would it affect his getting lost?"

"He would not follow as straight a line."

The witness said a man might lose his reasoning faculties and the experience would lead him to make confused statements. He could not say as to whether Schell was normal or not. In his opinion Schell did not appreciate his position.

"Can you imagine it would have any effect on the nervous system of John Schell to be lost within a mile of the lake and three miles of a house, with his dog, in country over which he had travelled often?"

"Yes, I know of a case."

"Would it cloud his mentality?"

"Possibly."

"Would it cause this man to come out and forget the main incident in the tragedy?"

"It would tend to."

"Do you think it would make him forget?"

"For how long?"

"I dont know. One man would recover quicker from shock than another."

"Where was the shock?"

"Where was the shock after that?"

"In being lost in fear of perishing."

"With a gun in his hand and his dog by his side in broad daylight?"

"Yes."

"You said noise would have an effect on the nervous system?"

"Yes."

"I have a fairly loud and piercing voice?"

"A loud voice."

"Did you watch Schell when he was answering me yesterday?"

"Sometimes."

"Could you notice the slightest effect on his nervous system?"

"I didn't notice."

"You saw me standing as close to him as I could. I shouted in a loud voice; he was under great strain, and yet he did not show the least sign?"

"I did not see it."

"Neither did I."

The Crown Prosecutor produced the rifle and shell and asked how the noise of it would compare with the shriek of the dying man.

"It would be different."

"But the noise would be loud."

"I dont' know anything about anything but a .22."

"Then your professional treatment of Schell is confined to giving him a few headache powders."

"Yes, as far as the treatment to his head is concerned. The last time was about a year ago."

The headache tablets were of the usual class and of the same nature as prescribed for ordinary headaches.

This closed the case for the defence, and there was no reply.

When Canadian Girl Wedded Prince

This picture shows the climax of a modern-day fairy tale, the wedding of Prince Erik of Denmark to Miss Lois Frances Booth of Ottawa. The prince is a cousin of the Danish and English kings, but he came to America to learn agriculture. Falling in love with Miss Booth, daughter of a millionaire Canadian lumberman, the prince renounced his title. After the honeymoon, the pair plan to conduct an orange grove in California. Photograph shows the bridal pair, with the Church of All Saints, where they were married, as the the background.

MR. G. N. GORDON GAVE ADDRESS KIWANIS CLUB

Record Attendance at To-day's Meeting--Ladies' Night Tonight.

TODAY'S BOOSTER

There was a record attendance at to-day's Kiwanis Club luncheon and the speaker of the day was Kiwanian G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., who gave an intimate talk on sidelights in parliament. To-day's guests included Dr. N. D. Buchanan and Mr. D. Melton. The latter contributed a solo and responded to an encore. President John R. Marshall handled the gavel and incidentally collected a few fines from members who suffered from a lapse of memory in connection with their club numbers. The booster to-day was Kiwanian George Henderson and the prize-winners were Kiwanians John Meyers, Jack Dewart and Pete Lang.

Kiwanian Henderson told something about the growth and operation of public utilities in Peterborough. Both water and electrical energy are owned by the people of Peterborough, operated by the people, for the people. The physical assets of the commission amount to nearly two million dollars. Water and electric consumers total over five thousand each or over ten thousand for the two divisions. This means sending out 68,000 bills year ly. In 1915, which was the first full year of operation for the Commission in Peterborough, the total demand for electrical energy amounted to 2,950 horse power and in 1923 the demand was 5,830.

Kiwanian John Allen announced that on the evening or February 23rd, commencing at 7.30 o'clock, a Kiwanis programme will be sent out from the Twin Cities station, WLAG at St. Paul's.

To-night is ladies' night and all those who took part in the Kiwanis musical revene will be entertained at cards and dancing in the Business College. The gathering will be informal and in the nature of a family gathering to get together and get better acquainted.

Sidelights Parliament.

The Canadian parliament, said Mr. Gordon, has descended from the ancient customs of the Old Land. The first elective or selective system was adopted by the sea rovers who used to elect a captain or leader. This captain woud have the power of life or death. The British parliament is known as the mother of parliaments. It is surrounded with ancient and honorable customs and the English speaking people will not be stampeded off their feet by radical methods and changes in these customs. Some men find their way into parliament through accident. Others get there through the medium of ability and ambition. Among the noted chaarcterse in the Canadian parliament to-day, said Mr. Gordon, might be mentioned Rodolphe Lemieux, Sir Robert Borden, when he was a member of the House, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Hon. Mackenzie King and Mr. Robert Forke, leader of the Progressives. Mr. Gordon described certain intimate traits of these various men and concluded an intensely interesting address with some of the details of parliamentary procedure.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water.

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

The insular government of Porto Rico has employed an expert to try to develop the commercial fishing industry of the island in a scientific manner.

CANADIANS GOT GOOD SEND OFF

Olympic Hockey Team on Last Lap of Journey.

LONDON, Feb. 2. — Great crowds of Canadian residents in London gathered at Euston station to-day to give a hearty send off to Canadian hoskeyists, winners of the world's amateur hockey championship at the Olympic sports, who tired but happy entrained at Euston for Lierpool on the beginning of their homeward journey. The train pulled out amidst vociferous cheers for the champions.

The Canadians carried with them almost every conceivable sort of baggage, including birdcages, live rabbits and white mice.

They sail on the Metagama, which will call at Belfast.

In addition to the passengers originally booked b ythe Metagama that ship is carrying 250 passengers who had first engaged passage on the Steamer Marloch, but were stranded owing to the dockers strike.

PETERBORO LOST OUT IN TORONTO

Good Curling in the Ladies' Competition Yesterday.

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—The ladies of the Queen City club scored their third successive win in the Ontario Ladies' Tankard yesterday when they defeated Peterborough by a margin six shots in the final at the Oakwood Club. Mrs. Nettlefield was eleven up on Mrs. Hill of Peterboro, and Mrs. Moorehouse held Miss Gladman to a five point margin, the grand totals being 25 and 19. The Queen City ladies won the Tankard in 1922 and 1923. Mrs. Nettlefield took an early lead, counting nine on the first three ends. Mrs. Hill scored a single on the fourth and Mrs. Nettlefield two on the fifth. Mrs. Hill counted six on the next four ends, Mrs. Nettlefield made her margin secure with a five end on the eleventh. Miss Gladman won the first three ends against Mrs. Moorehouse, but they were on even terms at the seventh. Miss Gladman scored on four of the last five ends.

By doubling the score on Mrs. Whytock of Oakwood, in their game in the final round of the consolation event, Mrs. Sharpe of Toronto, helped materially in winning first prize for her club, as the Toronto's margin was only two shots. Mrs. Brereton, of Oakwood, on her last stone took out her own shot in the other game.

Following the completion of the games President Braithwaite of the Oakwood Club presented the prizes, and the skips of the Queen City and Peterboro Clubs responded. Umpire J. H. Bastedo also spoke. The scores:

REV. HAROLD YOUNG GOING TO TORONTO

Accepts a Call to Take Effect a Year From June

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—It was announced last night that Rev. Harold Young, M.A., B.D., pastor of the George Street Methodist Church Peterboro, Ont., had accepted the unanimous invitation of the quarterly official board of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Toronto, to become the pastor of St. Paul's commencing about June of next year. Mr. Young will succeed Rev. R. Newton Powell who will go to Centennial Church, this city, after filling out his pastorate at St. Paul's.

THE BALTIMORE PLAN WAS NOT PUT FORWARD

WINNIPEG, Feb. 22. — "Statements attributed to me in a Winnipeg paper yesterday in which I was made to say: 'The Baltimore scheme of co-operation by which employees are given votes on the letting of contracts, distribution of work and working conditions, will be introduced in the near future on the Canadian National Railways,' is an absolute fabrication and entirely without foundation," Sir Henry Thornton declared last night.

Sir Henry stated such matters were, of course, in the hands of the administration. "We have recently," Sir Henry added, "discussed with representatives of the men plans of co-operation in the shops to increase efficiency and output and to go into wage conditions generally, but nothing with regard to voting power, letting of contracts or purchase of equipment, etc."

YOUNG GIRL ON WAY TO AFRICA

Miss Carrie Saunders of the Gospel Hall Sets Out on Her Long Journey Saturday.

On Thursday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hartshorn, 10 Victoria Avenue, between forty and fifty members of the Gospel Hall assembled to bid farewell to Miss Carrie Saunders, who starts on a long journey Saturday morning for Africa.

Master Charlie and Winifred Norton entered the drawing-room with a huge basket beautifully decorated by Miss E. Mulligan. The basket was filled with many beautiful gifts, too numerous to mention, from the young people.

Miss G. Curtis spoke on behalf of the Girls' Mission Class, Mr. Parks for the Young Men, and Mr. Jack Curtis for the Sunday School. This was followed by refreshments.

The many friends of Miss Saunders wish her a safe journey and God's richest blessing in that dark land of Africa.

PETERBORO MERCHANTS SHORT ON SOME LINES

That is Reason Advanced at Local Council of Women Meeting For Buying Out of Town.

The Local Council of Women held their regular monthly meeting, with a good attendance, in the green-room of the Y. W. C. A., yesterday afternoon. The new president, Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, occupied the chair for the first time, and, in a brief speech, asked the support and co-operation of the members.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read by the recording secretary, Mrs. J. Wearing, and the new corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. Mowat, called the roll and read the correspondence. A letter was read with regard to the World Conference of Women on Prevention of Causes of War, to be held in London, England, on March 24th.

Consideration was given to resolutions from various Local Councils, involved in another letter, recording several subjects which will be presented by the Provincial Council before the Provincial Legislature on Wednesday, February 27th, at 11 a.m.

Various Resolutions.

A resolution, advanced by the Kitchener and Waterloo Councils, will ask that Bible history be taught in the schools of Ontario. The meeting considered this as a controversial question, which might involve conflicting opinions on the part of various churches, and decided to leave the matter in abeyance.

The same decision was arrived at in connection with a second resolution, from the Stratford Council, requesting that "Mr. Arthur Beal be set apart, with authority to select other suitable persons to help him, for the purpose of instructing our children in sex hygiene and personal purity." One lady remarked that some people do not believe in a man being delegated to give such instruction, another said "some think it just puts ideas in the children's heads."

Approval was given to the two remaining resolutions, one sponsored by Toronto Council, requesting that the Government establish a short, compulsory training course in Canadian home methods and management for immigrant girls, the other, sent in by Guelph Council, "that we ask for more adequate inspection of the homes in which immigrant children are placed."

Other resolutions which will be presented for Governmental consideration have to do with the quit stock question, town planning, mental defectives and women on juries, all of which have been approved of by the Local Council in the past.

Building at Exposition.

Miss C. E. Carmichael, the National President, wrote regarding a contribution toward a proposed pavilion to be erected at the British Empire Exposition for the use of the International Council. Canada will have a corner of the building, and the 63 Canadian Councils are asked to contribute the sum of $500 toward the project. A resolution was passed to donate $10 from Peterboro Council, same to be taken from the funds, or to be made up by special contributions at the next regular meeting.

Miss Carmichael also commended to the attention of the Council the "Save the Children" campaign for Greek refugee children, and co-operation in the League of Nations movement.

Reports of Committees.

Reports of several standing committees were given. Miss A. Walton, convenor for the Committee on Objectionable Films and Printed Matter, reported. Miss Walton read a list of 134 objectionable books and periodicals, banned from circulation in Canada by the authorities, many of them of American origin. Recently, the Morality Department of the Police in Toronto had paid a surprise visit to various bookstores and seized many of these publications. From the list, Miss Walton read several titles, which appeared to be quite innocuous, such as "Hours at Home," "The Hearthstone," "Thrift," "True Romance," "The Rambler," "The Truth-Seeker," "Our Country Home," "The Metropolitan and Rural Home," etc.

Mrs. J. B. Mann, convenor of the Household Economics Committee, gave several suggestions for consideration of the members, with regard to reducing the fire hazard by cleaning up domestic premises, and with regard to bettering the relations between the housewife and the retail dealers, with particular reference to the grocer, the butcher, and the dry goods merchant. A discussion of the latter suggestion brought out the fact that Peterboro stores do not furnish everything required by the woman in the home, such things as real lace and babies' supplies being unavailable. "Then they blame us when we buy outside."

Other suggestions for getting better service were advanced, such as ordering groceries before the Saturday rush in the stores, eliminating the telephone to a great extent, and carrying small parcels.

It was decided to ask the Retail Merchants' Association to send a speaker to one of the Local Council meetings, to give the dealers' side of the problem, and answer any questions that might be asked by the members.

Educational Questions.

Mrs. N. H. Sutton, convenor of the Committee on Education, spoke briefly, recording the present educational needs as being economy, more technical education, and more attention paid to the rural schools.

From a letter received from an educationist in British Columbia, the speaker gave extracts. In the opinion of the writer, the six great educational problems of the day were those of rural education, compensation and training of teachers, illiteracy, Canadianization, health education and citizenship training.

A clipping of a letter sent recently to the Toronto Mail and Empire was also read. The sender, in forcible language, portrayed his viewpoint on present educational training. He declared that the three great types of educational centres in Canada now were turning out in quantities only three varieties of worker: the teacher, the commercial scholar, and the university matriculation student. "If our population was entrusted to these three we would starve. How could a farmer make a farm pay if it were run only by a teacher, a stenographer and a university graduate? When the farmer sends his sons and daughters to the high school, most of them requiring to be driven to and from school or trains, their social atmosphere changes altogether. They require polished shoes, clean nails and good clothes. There is no more farming for them. That is infra dig. The amount of good farm material that has been absorbed into city populations, and into United States citizens during the past 50 years is traceable to our pernicious system of education."

Mrs. Sutton quoted from statistics to show that last year the cost per head of education in Toronto had increased by $1.67 in he public schools, $11.45 in the high schools, $7.03 in the high schools of commerce, and had DE-creased by $9.00 per pupil in the technical schools.

Mrs. Stevenson.

Mrs. Stevenson asked the Council to co-operate with the Travellers' Aid section of the W.C.T.U. in collecting soap wrappers.

Speaking of the work of the Local Council for this year, the president recommended a greater attention to the League of Nations, and thought that speakers from the Council, or invited by it from the teaching staff at the High School, might do good work by going out to various gatherings and speaking on the work of the League, Home Economics and Laws for Women. A committee to take charge of this work, and one to look after town planning was suggested. A letter in print recently from Mr. W. H. Barry, the architect, who removed to California some time ago, was referred to, in which the writer considered the Peterboro building regulations as too expensive, and detrimental to building. "It is not necessary to have wonders in your house. It is much better to own your home and have it plain, than not to have one, because it can not be a castle."

A recent investigation of meat conditions in Montreal raised the question as to whether it would be wise to ask Dr. Jessie Birnie, convenor of the Public Health committee, to report on the inspection of meat and the ice question in Peterboro.

It was announced that Dr. A. Y. McNair, the local director of the Provincial Board of Health, would address the Council at its next regular meeting. An address by Dr. Sutton, with a social hygiene exhibit, will also be given in the near future.

Mrs. M. A. Morrison spoke of a tea to be given next week in the Y.W.C.A. by the Travellers' Aid Section of the W.C.T.U.

Mrs. F. J. McFadden, speaking for the Catholic Women's League, asked the representatives of the Travellers Aid to inform the League of strangers of the Roman Catholic denomination looking for boarding houses.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

"SO THIS IS LONDON."

"So This Is London" is an established success on both sides of the "big pond." In the English Metropolis, it is being presented at the Prince of Wales' Theatre, where it has settled down for a run that is sure to equal that of the New York Company, which ran for a solid year at the Hudson Theatre.

John Meehan, George M. Cohan's general stage director, returned recently from London, after having seen this comedy properly staged over there. Asked how our English cousins liked seeing themselves caricatured, Meehan said: "They took to it like a duck—Oh! yes, they like it alright. You think you have heard them laugh at it over here; my, boys, it's a whisper compared to the way they received it over there. They simply howled, commencing with the line in the first act where the American boy says to the English girl—'My father thinks all Englishmen are either lords or butlers—one drinks tea all day and the other brings it to him.' That was the first laugh, but when a little later in the act the American father says—'I understand now why God made the ocean so wide,' that line knocked them for a row of goals—my word how they did laugh."

"So This Is London" will be at the Grand Opera House Friday and Saturday.

"THE CAT AND THE CANARY"

Ryder Keane, the handsome Charles Wilder of "The Cat and the Canary" company which comes to the Grand next Wednesday would have been a minister if his people had their way in directing his career. Had they forseen the career that he eventually did select for himself, they would have fainted at the shock, for they did not approve of such a profession for one of the family. Ryder did not set out to be an actor. His first thought was that he would follow the desires of the family and wear the collar, that buttoned at the back, but after due reflection, he decided on the law and took up that course at the Ohio States University. Getting enthusiastic he pursued that course at Columbia and won a degree there. A glance at the army of legal luminaries in New York convinced him that it was "hard sleddin'" in the game and he entered the office of a big advertising agency in the big city and soon became one of the expert ad writers of the concern. His success in private theatricals made him look to the stage as a better outlet for his talents, than advertising, and he entered the Sargent School of Acting, where his work attracted the attention of David Belasco, who gave him a part in "The Man Inside." This was followed by an engagement in "A Pair of Sixes," and another in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath." Then he wrote a sketch entitled "Tears," in which he starred in vaudeville. He then began the sequence of mystery plays, beginning with "The 13th Chair," in which he played the juvenile part, Billy Crosby. This was followed by an engagement in "The Bat," and then as Charles Wilder in "The Cat and the Canary."

AT THE REGENT

"WHEN ODDS ARE EVEN" ROMANTIC PHOTOPLAY WITH COLORFUL STORY

"When Odds Are Even," which opened at the Regent Theatre on Thursday for an indefinite run, with William Russell in the star role, was produced by William Fox from the popular story by Dorothy Yost.

It is a romantic melodrama of unusual merit, displaying imagination in story and development. William Russell is seen at his best in his role of the go-getter. He has an appealing personality and a style of acting that is charming by reason of its unaffected simplicity and frank forwardness.

Dorothy DeVore, who appears as his feminine lead, possesses a scintillating attraction that never becomes tiresome. She is volatile and intelligent, acting with an emthusiasm and a brightness that captivates at once.

In story and pictorial quality, "When Odds Are Even" stands head and shoulders above the usual run of pictures. The story is eventful and interesting, progressing, owing to Director James Flood's scrupulous care, with speed and clarity. It concerns Jack Arnold most intimately.

Arnold is the friend and business partner of the president of a mining company. Reports of a newly discovered opal mine, and news that a rival company is attempting to purchase it, send the young man on a helter-skelter adventure, in which he attempts to beat his rivals to the mine. This gives the cameraman a glorious opportunity to catch some beautiful scenes of the sea and South Sea Islands.

AT THE ROYAL

"STEEL TRAIL" LIVES UP TO EXPECTATIONS

Romance of Man's Victory in Pioneer Days Vividly Unfolded

Construction—steel rails groping their way into a waiting wilderness—the hammer of sledges on spikes and the might of steel giants spouting steam—these make the setting of "The Steel Trail,"—romance of man's victory over the primeval lands, the big chapter play now playing at the Royal theatre, starring William Duncan and Edith Johnson.

The much-heralded Duncan story lives up to all its advance praise, as the big audience who applauded it to the echo last night testifies in language more potent than words. There is a something behind the story—the sweep of power and the innate appeal of a great theme enacted by a great actor, that cannot be defined but can only be felt.

Duncan, as the engineer in charge of the big construction camp, battling the elements to push his road further into the unpenetrated lands, battling plots to delay his task, battling the intrigue of financiers whose tentacles reach from city offices into his lonely post—and battling innate radicalism that eats its way into American workers but loses through the same Americanism in the end, has a role human, appealing, and big;—big as the ideal of the author.

There are thrills, too—exciting events crowd the fast action of the story, and heart-interest lightens the struggles of strong men and steel Goliaths. Miss Johnson, as Judith, daughter of the railroad owner, has an appealing part in which, too, she is called upon for several daring "stunts." The cast is notable, including Harry Carter, Ralph Fee McCullough, Mabel Randall, John Cossar, Frank Whitson, Harry Woods and Catbleen Calhoun.

BEST VAUDEVILLE SEEN IN SOME TIME AT ROYAL

Two of the best vaudeville offerings that has come to our attention in some time are now included in the program at the Royal. Mowatt and Mullen, "The Sunbright" pair, have an offering consisting of singing, clever talk and expert club juggling. It is evident that this team are "old timers." They work hard and their efforts were certainly appreciated last night. The Ritti Bros., gymnasts, offer feats of strength and go through a difficult act with apparent ease. They are truly remarkable athletes. These attractions will remain for the balance of this week with two performances on Saturday night.

ZANE GRAY STORY MAKES A HIT AT THE ROYAL

At Last—This is Something Like It!

What a cast! What a story! Bebe Daniels, Ernest Torrence, Noah Beery and Lloyd Hughes featured in the Zane Gray Paramount production, "The Heritage of the Desert," which is packing them in at the Royal theatre where it was shown for the first time last evening. James Mason, Richard R. Neill and Leonard Clapham play in support. So much for the cast.

Now to the story:

A tale of the West at its wildest and wooliest. There's thrills, comedy, a pleasing love theme and big scenes throughout. With the killing of Snap, the dissolute son of August Naab of "The Oasis," ranch, the long-kindling feud between cattlemen and rustlers breaks into flame. It's a battle to the death—with Navajo Indians collecting scalps for the ranchers. The town of White Sage is but a thing of the past—Holderness and his reign of terror are but memories—great things have started in the west—ambitions are about to be realized. The irrigation waters, the life-blood of the desert, on "The Oasis" have been saved—fertility is about to come to the land. But why go on? Zane Grey tells it as only he can—he knows the West, and you will, too, after seeing "The Heritage of the Desert." Let the radio alone for one night and see it.

AT THE CAPITOL

With a top-notcher vaudeville team of musical artists and a picture that is one of the most artistically perfect and ultra-entertaining vehicles seen here in some time, the Capitol Theatre has a programme for this week end that could hardly be surpassed. "The Acquittal" is one of those pictures seldom seen, where every little detail of photography and movie art combines with mysterious crime to keep an audience on its toes from start to finish. The actual photographing of the picture illustrates some of the best art of the screen. It is clearly etched, in brilliant white and black work that makes the characters live on the silver sheet. A unique opening takes the watchers right into the court room where the trial for murder of Andrew Prentice is being staged. Out of the typed pages of the witnesses' evidence come the clear-cut faces of the speakers themselves, telling a story that unrolls itself in throwbacks from time to time, returning always to the crowded court room, where the lawyers for the State and the defence wage a battle. A peculiar and realistic bit is the fact that a man's life hinges about the veracity of a butcher's clock and the likeness it bears to something else in the picture. To tell the story outright would be taking much of the flavour from an extraordinary and eminently interesting production, absolutely out of the usual run.

"Who killed Andrew Prentice?" sounds like the title of a dime novel but it happens to be the thrilling question that absorbs the attention of the house before many minutes have passed. Love and intrigue and passion, the mystery surrounding a man who appears at one moment to be a villain and at another a hero, the web of deceit that causes murder and brings a man within the shadow of the electric chair, work out in a story of compelling charm, where the element of suspense is sustained without effort from one moment to another. The finale is surprising, dramatic and impressive, and the acting of the supporting cast of the stars, Claire Windsor and Norman Kerry is immense. A real honest to goodness melodrama is staged in a manner that leaves nothing to be desired, and would prompt a pleased watcher to a return visit before the picture vanishes, leaving a memory of a really interesting and thrilling story.

The vaudeville team is a novel programme. Rosa Lodder, in a distinctly different make up of maid's costume, with a bobbed head and near-sighted spectacles, displays a degree of musical versatility that keeps her audience in constant giggles, and is supported in fine style by her partner, Tom Lanny. The pair make a couple of rapid fire artists whose style is pleasing and effective. Their initial evening appearance last night was a real hit, and they were compelled to respond to repeated encores. The lady has a stage presence unique and fetching. Together, they do some eccentric dancing and play a little on the piano With their concertinas, little and big, they give a hilarious programme of music that ranges from jazz to popular selections. They have a list of variations of the "Angel's Serenade" that is a scream, and then the lady quiets down and gives a very special number, in Beethoven's "Rondo Brillante". A duett with the concertinas "Three O'Clock in the Morning," brought them back for a triple encore.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY AND "Y" MEET TONIGHT

Second Game of Ontario Basketball Schedule at Local "Gym" — Both Teams Have Beaten Belleville and Should Put on a Fast Game.

Queen's University will play the Peterborough intermediates on the local floor this evening in the second game of the O.A.B.A. This should be a "wow," if not the best of the whole basketball season. When the locals went through to the intermediate championship a few years back it was this university quintette that provided the acid test of the year. It appears when the dope is scanned that again this years Queens' and the locals are an even match. The locals beat Belleville by 18 points and the University boys beat the Quinte quintette by 12, showing up about of the same calibre.

Doug. Loomis will choose his line-up for to-night's game from the following: DeGraw, Pogue, Darling, Hardill, Elliot, Langford, McLeish and Fleming. All these have been practising regularly and are in tiptopform.

There will be a fast preliminary between the De Laval and a picked team. The big game will start about 8.45.

The NUT CRACKER
BY JOE WILLIAMS

Spring training noise is all one-sided, like living-room carpet. Self-feeding ball players with free-lance appetites aren't only unoiled citizens that thrive on leakproof southern sunburns.

* * *

Fans with nobby indestructible lungs need to be sent on training trips to develop razzberry cheering to highest points of offensiveness by opening day. Star swatters whiffling in pinch insist on being insulted by experts

* * *

Sweet young things who play ladies' day racket coming and going, in order named, will find spring workouts increase their charming dumbness to blunt point of perfection.

* * *

After a brief period of intensive training cute little blonde Gimme Thats will be able to ask such intelligent questions as "Why doesn't the catcher wear button shoes?" and "Isn't the right fielder ever wrong?" with practically no mental exertion whatever.

* * *

SPRING TRAINING CAMP ORDEAL IS HARD ON BALL PLAYERS. . . . IT IS HARDER ON FANS WHO MUST READ ABOUT THEM.

* * *

It will hardly be necessary to put the baseball ushers through any preliminary training. They can rush you to the wrong seat without half trying, as it is.

* * *

Vanguard of baseball word painters is headed south and if they get any kind of break in the weather all their snappy phrases—"Lined into a lightning double play," "Hit one of Casey's benders for a circuit smash," and "Whiffed with the bases drunk" —will be in the "proverbial pink" by 15th April.

BALL PLAYERS WHO THIN DOWN IN APRIL WILL HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE FATTENING UP BATTING AVERAGES IN JULY.

* * *

No reason why Cal Coolidge shouldn't go on training trip. Nobody knows whether he's in shape to throw out first ball of season or not. A Republican windup with a Democratic delivery and a non-partisan fast ball is all he needs to please everybody present.

* * *

Mr. Doheny ought to take his squad of trained Government workers down south and put them through snappy infield work . . The boys appear to be quite willing, but trifle crude

Christy Mathewson wants to cut out the ball player's bonus. . . . We can imagine no amputation that would cause the athletes greater pain.

Now if they plant to enlarge the size of the putting cup . . . . . However, it will be necessary to enlarge the beans of a golfer breaking 100 for the first time.

Lots of folks are wondering how Mr. Sinclair's Zev managed to make so much money on the track last summer without even holding a federal job.

England beats Ireland by eleven goals in a soccer match. The cables fail to give the number of knock-downs.

Your big league ball player is a fat actor . . . . After a winter long on ham and eggs he can look the head waiter of a swell southern hotel right in the eye and, with perfect poise exclaim, "Whaddamean serving me these here asparagus tips with a glass cover!"

If Stanley Harris is one of the "smartest ball players in the big leagues," as Griffith claims, then why did he agree to manage the Washington team?

So Gloria Swanson is going to do her stuff at the Yale Junior prom. . . . Well, the Vassar girls will just have to line up Benny Leonard, that's all.

SKATERS FACED DRIFTING SNOW

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Feb. 22. — Skaters competing in the International Amateur speed Skating Championships here Thursday faced the most severe weather of the contests, with a 40 mile an hour wind blowing out of the north, drifting snow across the course, and the thermometer hovering just above the zero mark.

Francis Allen, Chicago, and Richard Donovan, Saranac Lake, divided honours, Allen being awarded the 1-2 mile race when Charles Gorman, of St. John, N. B., was disqualified, and Donovan winning an easy 3-4 mile event which no one else appeared ambitious to capture.

The net result of the day was to boost Harry Kasky, of Chicago, into the lead in point scoring, and to place Allen and Donovan second and third respectively.

A second start was necessary in the 1-2 mile event, when none of the skaters showed a desire to take the lead—and wind breaking—position. At the second start, William Steinmetz, Chicago, set a fast pace, and maintained his lead until the home stretch, Gorman then began a sprint in the course of which he struck Donovan in the face with his arm. Gorman's sprint put him over the line first but he was disqualified for intentional fouling, although he protested that the blow was an accident.

The controversy over the incident stirred up trouble for a time, Donovan resenting the blow and threatening warfare.

The judges considered barring Gorman from the remaining events, but after a conference it was decided to disqualify him for the 1-2 mile event, and the first position accordingly was given to the second man over the line, Allen. Paul Forsman, of New York, was awarded second place, and Donovan was third.

LINDSAY HEARS OSHAWA RUMOUR

Report Inducements From Toronto Playgrounds League to Induce Dainty's Team to Leave C.O.B.A.

There is perhaps no baseball league in Ontario to which so many rumours are attached than the Central Ontario League, says the Lindsay Post.

The latest rumour, which is by no means a wild cat one, is to the effect that there is a possibility of Oshawa pulling up her skirts and flitting from the Central Ontario league Strong inducements, much coaxing, etc., have almost convinced many Oshawa fans that the Motor City team would do much better in the Playgrounds League of Toronto, otherwise known as the Hampden Park League.

This idea is gaining root because of the great expense Oshawa baseball authorities know that they will be up against in travelling to and from Kingston. It will take the Oshawa team two days to make the trip to Kingston and back. Two days at much cost. If the team linked up with the Toronto League the journey would be short, but 30 miles or so by car, and the team could return the same night.

It is understood that the Toronto baseball moguls have promised Oshawa twilight games in Toronto, and Saturday afternoon games in Oshawa, just in Oshawa's mitt. The class of ball would be fast and interesting and Oshawa would draw larger gates.

Oshawa looks like the team to beat this year for the Ontario championships, with Dainty and Tyson still the battery, along with Morley Jacobi at third, Saunders at second, Buck Wilson at first, Rowden at second, Thompson and other standbys. Beside these, Oshawa also have two players in from Owen Sound, a first baseman and a fielder. There is also some talk of the Motor City haing a couple of Yanks on their line-up.

It looks like a troublesome year for the Central Ontario League. Lindsay and Cobourg will be out while Port Hope and Bowmanville have been out for some time. The high cost of baseball is beginning to tell on the Central League.

Firpo and Lodge End Training For Fight.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 21. — Luis Firpo and "Farmer" Lodge ended treir training to-day for treir fight next Saturday night. Both men are said to be in the best of condition. Firpo is declared by the experts to have shown considerable improvement in the use of his left arm which he employed constantly against his sparring partners this week.

The preliminaries will begin at 9 o'clock on Saturday evening, and Firpo and Lodge are expected to enter the ring about 11 o'clock.

KINGSTON JUNIORS LOST

KINGSTON, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Belleville Juniors defeated Kingston juniors 6-2 in hockey game here last night.

QUEEN MARY'S LEAD LEAGUE

West-End School Has Four Wins and No Losses, Putting Them Far Out In Front of Field.

Every Saturday morning for the last month the rink in front of the Collegiate has been the scene of many a hard-fought battle and the P.C.I. boarded rectangle has formed the lists where, weekly, midgets struggle, like the titans and knights of old for supremacy. These battles have been hockey games played by the youngsters of the city in the Public School Hockey League's schedule. This league is supplying the 'coming stars' with their first real organized hockey.

There will be a falling off in the number or quality of the players who will wear Peterborough blue and white in coming games and carry it to victory, if the 'little fellows' keep up their present stride. Some of these chaps can already stick-handle and back-check with the best of them, and some have got the corkscrew act mastered and have a very crooked trail behind them. Some of the most consistent performers on the different teams are: "Pat" Calaldine and "Jimmy" Ellis, of King George, John Johnston, the Queen Alexandras defense man, and White of Queen Mary. What most of these teams need to be coached in is team work.

Queen Mary has practically clinched the championship, but it is rumoured that in the race for honours the West Enders' efforts have had lady luck always favouring them with a winning smile. They beat King George last Saturday by the narrowest margin, 3 to 2, and they needed overtime to put Central down. In their game with Queen Alexandra they scored twice within three minutes of the start, but for the remainder of the game the boys from the north held them closely.

With one more game to be played apiece, the team standings are:

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
Queen Mary	4	0	0
Central	2	1	1
King George	2	1	1
Queen Aexandra	1	1	2
King Edward	1	3	0
Prince of Wales	0	4	0

Queen Alexandra had a tie game with Central and King George.

COLLEGIATE TEAMS TO PLAY COBOURG

Boys' and Girls' Basketball Squads Off For Return Games Saturday.

To-morrow morning the P. C. I. boys and girls' basketball teams and their cohorts will board the train for Cobourg, wheer they will play the teams of the Cobourg High school.

Two weeks ago the Cooburg Collegians were here and played the locals, losing both games by narrow margins. The boys' game was especially close, overtime being necessary before the garnet and grey finally won the victory. So to-morrow in Cobourg things will likely fly and a keen game will certainly be on the boards.

Campbellford High School Teams Meet.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 22. —On Wednesday evening T. Ibey's team clashed with C Baker's team in a High School League fixture, and the former won by a score of 10 to 4.

C. Baker was absent from Baker's team. The ice was in good condition. K. Haig handled the whistle.

The teams:

MONTREAL, Feb. 22—(Canadian Press)—The Canadiens defeated the Ottawa Senators here last night three to nothing in a listlessly played game. Ottawa showed the effects of their previous night's experience aboard a snow-bound train. They were never dangerous during the game, Clancy being the only player to show his customary form. Sprague Cleghorn was the hero of the Canadiens' win, scoring two of the three goals on individual rushes, and otherwise turning in a remarkable game. The Canadiens are resting comfortably in second place in the N. H. L. race now, and their chances of entering the League play-off are brighter.

Swept off their feet by the Canadiens' dashing play in the first period, Ottawa's representatives could not get started thereafter and were simply swamped by the fast-skating locals.

SIKI IN COOP AGAIN.

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Battling Siki, French Senegalese boxer, arrived in Havana to-day for a series of exhibition bouts. He came over from Key West, where he had missed a previous boat by reason of getting in jail on charges of creating a disturbance. It was solely to Siki's sudden fancy to buy suits for two rather scantily clad Key West negroes that caused the disturbance, according to George Lawrence, a promoter, who, with Manager Levy, accompanied the big French negro. A crowd of other negroes followed and the policemen, who could not break up the gathering, took Siki in tow, but charges were filed and after a few hours he was released.

BEWARE, BOYS!

Dan Cupid Sends His Star Road Man Out to Line Up All Unmarried Notables in Sportdom

"Ill tell you, Arrow," he said, addressing the firm's star road man, and a go-getter of the high voltage type, "we've got to break all records for business this year. Its leap year, you know."

The well-dressed go-getter flicked some ashes from a monogrammed Camel with a graceful gesture and indicated that the idea, as outlined, was all right with him.

"We've got to go and open up a new field,' continued the great love magnate. "The sporting field, for instance. Now there are any number of birds in that field who ought to be using our stuff but aren't for the simple reason that they havent been sold properly. I think you, Arrow, with your magnetic—"

"I want you, Arrow," resumed Mr. Cupid, "to line these fellows up on a contract basis and bring them back to me, all happy and satisfied shareholders in the Happy Marriage Corporation."

The modishly attired go-getter scanned the typewritten list of prospects handed him and read the following names:

Tris Speaker, ball player.
Charley Paddock, runner.
Johnny Weissmuller, swimmer
Bill Tilden, tennis player.
Bobby Jones, golf champion.
Bill Mallory, football player.
Jack Dempsey, fighter

"You don't mean to tell me, sir, that none of these boys are married!" exclaimed the —(Well, you just ought to see the kind of clothes he wears!)

"I do and what have you to say of that?"

"Well, all I can say is, that the modern girl isn't as fast as she's painted."

BOWLING

Last night at Solomon's Alleys in the Brinton Carpet Five Pin League the Ardebils took two out of three from the Dominions.

The Ardebils have Shaughnessy to thank for their two victories. He was in great form last night and besides rolling three of the highest games rolled in the Brinton Carpet League, he rolled about as high as has been rolled this year on Solomon's Alleys. Shaughnessy last night split the wood for 827 for three games. These are three of the finest games ever rolled in the Brinton Carpet League and Shaughnessy sure deserves credit for his great rolling. Besides having the high three games for the evening and for the league he also got the high single of the evening and also of the league when he rolled 302. This is sure great rolling and it is not likely that Shaughnessy's efforts will be equalled by any of the Brinton Carpet bowlers in the few games remaining in their league. Hellewell was the next best with 563.

Following are the scores:

Ardebils—
Rundle	80	156	68—304
Kelbrick	147	171	138—456
Fields	159	127	95—381
Hellewell	180	186	177—563

MERCANTILE LEAGUE.

In the Mercantile Five Pin League last night at Solomons' Alleys the Western Clock took two out of three from the William Hamilton.

Good scores were turned in by both teams, the Western Clock having slightly the edge on their opponents.

Degraw was high man for the evening with a nice score of 610 for his three games. Following closely was Lebarr with 602. Lebarr just nosed out his rival Frost, who had 598 for his three games. Forst had the high single with 276.

Following are the scores:

Western Clock—
Wyatt	215	145	177—533
Degraw	227	185	198—610

EXAMINER LEAGUE.

Last night in the Examiner Intershop League at Solomons' Alleys, the Jobbers by winning two out of three from the Directors won the championship of the second half and thereby qualified to meet the Linos. first half winners, for the championship of the league.

The credit for the Jobbers victory over the Directors goes to Bobby Baker. The Jobbers had won the first and the Directors the second. With the third game went the championship of the second half and every bowler was on his toes for the acid test, and it was Baker who delivered. It was Baker, as Billy Evans would say, who had form. For he delivered in the pinch, came through with a wonderful score of 265 in the deciding third game and won the championship of the second half for the Jobbers. Baker was not high man of the evening but was close on. But that doesn't matter. He delivered in that third game and that is what counted.

DEFEATED DELORO.

MARMORA, Feb. 22.— Evidently thinking that, owing to the poor showing of Marmora's Trent Valley hockey team, the name of the village as a good hockey team should be upheld, a new team has been organized, called the "Rink Rats." Deloro hastily organized a similar team and the two clashed on Marmora ice Tuesday night. After ten minutes' overtime Marmora popped in the deciding goal, breaking a tie of 4-4.

EXHIBITION GAME AT CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22. — In an exhibition game between the Colts and Clerks here last night, the latter won by a score of 4 to 2. The Clerks showed good combination on fast ice. Cowell and Blue were the best for the Colts and Bulford and Wood for the Clerks. Both goal-keepers were good. Danny White was the referee. The teams:

Colts: Goal, Frazer; r.d., Flint; l.d., Cowell; c., Blue; r.w., McArthur; l.w. Brown.

Clerks: Goal, Saunders; r.d., La-Brash; l.d., Bulford;; c., W. White; r.w., Archer; l.w., Wood; subs., Atkinson.

COLLINGWOOD WON.

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., Feb. 22. —(Canadian Press). — Collingwood Intermediates defeated Rosedales here last night in the first game of the third round by a score of 9 to 1. The return game will be played at Newmarket to-night.

ST. ANDREW'S DEFEAT ST. JOHN'S.

A Church Juvenile League hockey game was played last night between St. Andrew's and St. John's and won by St. Andrew's 6-0.

The score, although one-sided, was not any indication of the play, as St. John's kept them working all the time, and only weakened after the second period.

Each member of the winning team had at least one goal to their credit.

The line-up:

St. Andrew's—Goal, Gillespie; defence, Jennings and Marshall; wings, Weir and Nixon; centre, Mowry.

St. John's—Goal, H. Coleman; defence, Howden and McDuffee; wings, Trebilcock and Graham; centre, Hutchison.

Referee—G. Coleman.

Babe Ruth's Terrier Puppy Placed Second.

BOSTON, Feb. 21. — "Babe" Ruth's first attempt at prize winning in the dog show ring was successful to-day. The ballplayer's nine months old bull terrier puppy, Cleveland Dot, which has been a pet at Ruth's Sudbury farm, took second prize in the Judging at the Eastern Dog Club Show to-day in the class for bull terrier puppy bitches.

ROUSH SIGNS UP

CINCINNATI O., Feb. 21--Outfielder Ed Roush and the Cincinnati League Club have come to terms, it was announced to-day. The terms of the contract agreed upon are for a term of three years, it was stated.

The deadlock between Roush and the Cincinnati Club has come up yearly, and on only one occasion since he became a member of the Reds, had he gone on the Spring training trip. This was in 1920.

BRANTFORD LOST GAME.

BRANTFORD, February 22. —In the return game here last night the Guelph Intermediates defeated the red and black by a score of 9-4, making a score of 15 to 4 on round. The game was fast, especially in the second period, neither team scoring a goal.

The visitors ran away in the third, scoring five goals, Bergault and Mitchell being the scorers.

The game grew very rough, and Referee Hiller handed out 15 penalties; Baird and Corrigan got five minutes for a little mix-up.

Summerhayes grew careless in the last period, not making much effort to stop the puck.

HAMILTON 5; VARSITY 2.

TORONTO, February 22. — The Hamilton Tigers stepped up another round nearer the Junior O.H.A. final by decisively beating University of Toronto Schools at the Arena last night by 5 to 2, thereby winning the series by 10 to 6.

In the first game in Hamilton the Toronto students made a much stronger stand than on their home ice, judging by the margin in goals in the two contests, but last night's struggle was not one sided by any means. The double blue and white gave their best against the weightier and speedier team and battled to the end. They showed at their best in the dying moments.

NORTHWESTERN GETS STAR

Swimming prospects took a big jump at Northwestern University recently. The reason was the entrance of Don McClellan, great breast-stroke swimmer, at the Evanston institution. McClellan hails from Detroit and is already being regarded as a likely Olympic entrant. He'll not be eligible for Big Ten competition until next season.

FARM FOR RACING STABLE.

WOODSTOCK, Feb. 21. — H. W. Fields of Hamilton, the well known driver of race horses, who won 30 out of 54 races last year, has purchased the old McBurney farm, a mile or two east of Woodstock, and made it the headquarters for a stable of standard bred horses, many of which have made enviable records on the tracks.

Curlers Tied Up.

Among the storm bound passengers on the C.N.R. is Mr. J. J. Thurston, M.P. of Fenelon Falls, who spent Tuesday at Omemee, finally got to Lindsay and was held here all Wednesday. No train has attempted the trip to Fenelon Falls and Haliburton in two days, every energy being spent on the main lines.

Two rinks of Fenelon Falls curlers, who had competed in the district cup games at Toronto also had quite an experience. They were shot around by Port Hope, thence to Lindsay and have been tied up here for a day and a half.

The train from Haliburton, which left that village Wedesday morning is still tied up completely in the snow banks around Fells station. Seventeen passengers are stopping in one small farm house and 11 in another.

Billy Evans Says

Praise be to Christy Mathewson for the movement that he has started to eliminate the giving of a bonus for good work in addition to the usual contract. The bonus is always based on the batting of say, .300 or better; if a pitcher, the winner of so many games. It is a practice that has been in vogue in the majors for years and I suppose gets an equal play in the minors.

I have seen so many cases where the giving of a bonus worked to the disadvantage of the player and the team involved that I am positive it is a bad scheme.

Well do I recall the case of a pitcher a few years back who was to receive a bonus of $2000 in addition to his salary if he won 20 games. With about three weeks to go the pitcher needed only two more wins to cinch the money. His next two starts resulted in defeats, despite the fact that he pitched great ball. The margin in each case was one run and the winning tally was the result of a misplay on the part of some player.

It is an easy matter to figure the feelings of the pitcher who would have had the extra $2000 sewed up had he been given perfect support in the field.

It so happened that the pitcher had a rather bad disposition. The misplays peeved him, and instead of pitching and letting the rest of the players do their work he began to rave at his infield. This stirred up considerable ill-feeling and didn't tend to help the morale of the club that happened to be fighting for a berth in the first division. Briefly, the pitcher failed to win a single start during the last three weeks, due in a measure to the strain he was working under, likewise the strain the entire team was playing under. He didn't get the bonus. No doubt he was peeved all winter and probably reported in the spring with a don't-care spirit.

Perhaps nothing affects the general play of a star batsman more than a slump at the plate. When said player sees a bonus slipping away in addition to his batting average, it makes the situation all the worse.

A certain player who always batted right around the .300 mark had a salary difference with his club. It was a matter of $1000. The club owner, in an effort to satisfy the player, said he would give him the disputed $1000 if the player reached the .300 mark in batting. The player agreed to the gamble. When the last week of the season arrived the player doped out just how many hits he had to make in so many times at bat to get under the wire. Never in all my life have I seen a more disturbed batsman at the plate. Every time at bat was an ordeal for him and everyone else. When he failed to hit on his last trip to the plate he was downcast, figuring he he had lost out by one point.

However, the unofficial averages had been slightly in error as to the times at bat. The official averages gave the player a mark of .301 instead of .299, as he had figured. He got the bonus, also earned it.

Last season a certain pitcher was promised a bonus of $1000 if he won 15 games. For two months that pitcher had the toughest breaks possible. He dropped 11 straight games, yet with good support he should have won half of them. So that with the season only one-third over, the pitcher had really lost the big incentive for him to try to win. At that he kept at his work and fell only a few games shy of the required mark. I hope he got his bonus. He deserved it.

Champions in any sport in order to hold their title must have that indefinable thing called class. In a sense, class is delivering in the pinch. In the fight game, champions in the various classes often look very ordinary in exhibition bouts. Every now and then some dub shades a champion. But with the old title at stake, the champ shows his class and thrusts aside the leading contenders for his crown.

It is in the pinch, when everything is at stake, that the real champion comes through. Class will tell, is a sport adage that usually holds good.

There is the case of Johnny Dundee for instance. Dundee, always a great fighter, didn't get his big opportunity until late in life. He won the featherweight championship after he had been in the fight game more than a dozen years. While his defeat of Criqui for the title was not unexpected, yet it was the unusual. In a number of no-decision bouts in which Dundee has engaged since winning the featherweight crown he has looked very ordinary. Many of the critics pronounced him through. When he agreed to meet Pal Moran, contender for the lightweight title, the impression among the fight followers was that Dundee would be knocked.

Class told the story in the Moran bout. Dundee, carefully trained for the meeting, swept aside any claim that Moran might have had for a Leonard bout, by winning easily.

No champion typifies the meaning of class better than Willie Hoppe, billiard king. For years and years Hoppe has reigned supreme. Recently he has been pressed to the limit to retain his title. With the exception of one meeting with Jake Schaefer he has always emerged victory. During the past three months, in quick succession, he twice disposed of Welker Cochran, and once, Jake Schaefer, in championship matches.

Hoppe has the class. He always raises to the occasion in the crisis. He is at his best when hard pressed. It seems the tougher the going, the better Hoppe plays.

Recently, after defeating Jake Schaefer in a title match, the champion and his leading contender played a series of exhibition games in the larger cities. In this tour with Schaefer, Hoppe on several occasions showed why he has ruled the billiard game for so many years. In one 400-point game, with Schaefer leading him 370 to 19, he ran 313 and then went out in the next frame to victory. His grand average for 10,000 points was better than 55. Hoppe has the class. He's a real champion.

MARKS A MARK FOR CHAMPION.

GEORGE MARKS

The dear old New York "booblic" was given the works again the other night.

George Marks, a Brooklyn boy with somewhat of a reputation as a four-round performer in California rings, was sent against Pancho Villa, flyweight champion of the world.

Marks wasn't even a flyweight. He proved to be a very heavy bantamweight and a very bad one, too.

Villa punched him dizzy throughout the 15 rounds of the fight —a fight that helped the ailing sport in New York in about the same manner that lethal gas strengthens a condemned man's vitality.

GOLF NEWS

BY JOE WILLIAMS

EVANS

Among the veteran campaigners Chick Evans probably has the most remarkable winning average in golf.

This is to say, he has been beaten fewer times and won oftener in national championship matches than any other player.

Over a stretch of 12 campaigns the Chicago crack has clicked off 34 triumphs against 11 reversals, a batting average, so to speak, of .756.

Jess Sweetser, blond Yale youth, has a better average in amateur play. So has Gene Sarazen, bronzed Italian, in profession match play. But these fellows are mere competitive infants in the game. At least in comparison with Evans and his long career.

Here are the 11 distinctive amateur in this country holding decisions over Evans: Chandler, Eagen, Bill Fownes, Fred Herreshoff, Jerry Travers, John Anderson, E. M. Byers, Ned Sawyer, Francis Ouimet, Jesse Guilford, Jess Sweetser and Willie Hunter.

Evans' record in Amercian golf is almost without a parallel. He has twice won the national amateur. Eight time, all told, he has gone as far as the final or semi-final round. He has won the national open once, and finished second once.

One year he won both the open and the amateur. Incidentally, he set a record in the open that year, 286, which has never been equalled, by amateur or pro.

Evans' most brilliant feat in the amateur was a spurt of 19 holes in 71 strokes, this against Francis Ouimet in the finals in 1920. Five under even fours is neat golf in a championship test, neat if not gaudy.

Evans' advice to golfers is this: "Strive for a simple, easy style."

His doctrine of simplicity is further evidenced in his stance which is the SAME FOR ALL SHOTS. Both toes are turned slightly outward but on a line parallel to the direction leading from ball to flag. Thus neither the right nor left foot is advanced beyond the other.

That this prduces oa great simplifying effect is obvious, for a change of stance also means a change of swing. That Evans' system of simplicity is practical is borne out by the fact that he is probably the most accurate shot maker in the game.

OLYMPIC HOCKEY PICTURES.

The new edition of the Hockey Year Book, which is now on sale at all newstands, is going big, and orders have been received from such far off places as California for the handbook of Canada's great winter game. Boston, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and St Paul enthusiasts are also evincing an interest in the handsomely illustrated publication. The Olympic competition no doubt is largely responsible for the deluge of orders from across the line, as the Americans generaly are beginning to awaken to the fact that there are games probably more worth while than base ball. In adition to the 200 group pictures which appear in this edition will be found photographs of the Canadian and the American Olympic teams.

BYE FOR PETES IN NEXT ROUND

Blue Shirts May Possibly Be Sent Direct Into the O. H. A. Finals.

The Petes will get a bye in the next round of the O.H.A. race and may possibly be sent directly into the finals without playing another round although that point has not been definitely settled. The blue shirts are the only intermediate team to complete their fourth round, hence the bye. The teams that will be left in the running after to-night will likely be New Hamburg, Guelph, Niagara Falls, the Collingwood Rosedale winners and Peterboro. New Hamburg and Guelph will clash and Niagara Falls will tie into the Collingwood-Rosedale winners. When that series is over there will be only three teams in the big competition including the Petes. The blue shirts will be idle for a week at least under this arrangement

ABOUT BILL GUTHRIE

BY BILLY EVANS

EVANS

Bill Guthrie was nothing if not original. During his stay of a couple of months he slipped the ball players a lot of new ones. The athletes are still talking about Guthrie.

One of the first things he did was put Manager Miller Huggins out of a game at Washington before he ever opened his mouth. Guthrie has chased Witt on the first play of the game. Huggins, coaching at third, rushed over to protest, but had a ticket to the showers before he ever reached his destination. Bill didn't wait for Huggins to express himself, but admits that the mite manager said a few uncomplimentary things to him after he had given him the gate.

Guthrie's ejection of Huggins before he even had a chance to speak his piece, recalled a similar incident in which Tim Hurst played the leading role. I was umpiring with Hurst at the time.

We were working a game in Chicago. Fielder Jones at that time was managing the White Sox. He had the very annoying habit of coming in from his position in center field on every close decision. In this particular game Hurst had just called a visiting player safe on a very close play at the plate. The moment oJnes saw Tim signal safe he started in to protest. At the same moment Hurst, from back of the plate raced out to meet him.

Jones perceived that Tim was riled. He reached second base about the time Tim arrived at the pitcher's box. Jones stopped in his direct course to the plate and detoured in the direction of shortstop where he held close conversation with George Davis, then playing that position for the Sox. Finishing, he started for his position in center field. In the interim Tim had stood in the middle of the diamond. The moment Jones started for his position Hurst shouted:

"You're going the wrong way, manager."

"What do you mean?" said Jones, a look of surprise playing over his face.

"The clubhouse for you," said Tim.

"How can you put me out of the game?" Why, I haven't said a word

Run in cut here

to you," was Jones' reply.

"It's not for what you said, but for what you are thinking about me," retorted Hurst. "On your way."

Jones went, but like Huggins, said a few things before departing. It is not necessary to add that Tim also said a few things that carried a tobasco flavor.

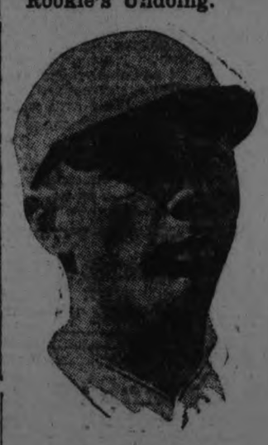
TOO BIG

Trying to Take George Sisler's Job Proves Rookie's Undoing.



CEDRIC DURST

A year ago the most talked of recruit in the major leagues was Cedric Durst of the St. Louis Browns. Coming to the club as an outfielder, he was touted the best prospect of the year.

Then came the break that probably had much to do with Durst's failure to deliver. When it was apparent that George Sisler was delegated to fill the shoes of the game's greatest players.

It was too big a task for the recruit. In the first dozen games he made only one hit, a home run.

Now he goes to the minors, being one of the players recenty traded to Los Angeles of the Coast League.

It is said that the largest piece of jade in the world is that in the American Museum of Natural History, in New York. At first glance it looks almost as large as Plymouth Rock; actually it is seven feet long and four feet wide.

COBOURG CURLERS HAD A HARD WEEK

Several Rinks Took Part in Outside Competitions.

COBOURG, Feb. 22 (Special).—Cobourg Curling Club is enjoying a busy and rather strenuous season. Two rinks of curlers skipped by A. W. Middleton and D. W. Cogle, went to Toronto on Tuesday to take part in the District Cup matches, but were defeated by Hamilton in the preliminary round.

Lifted the Simmon's Cup

Another recent event in which they were more successful was the lifting of the Simmon's cup by the close margin of 1, by two local rinks who went down to Colborne for that purpose. This trophy has been the source of a number of keenly contested curling games between Colborne and Cobourg.

Today five rinks of Detroit Curlers are expected in Cobourg to try conclusions with the local curlers.

Inter-rink Matches

The games in the Inter-rink curling series are going on apace. The standing of the three local group is as follows:

	Won	Lost	To play
GROUP I.
Turpin	4	2	0
Guillet	4	2	0
Allen	3	2	1
GROUP II.
McCallum	4	1	1
Middleton	4	1	1
Spragge	2	2	2
Odell	3	2	1
GROUP III.
Hayden	4	1	0
Throop	4	1	0

Billy Evans Says

Praise be to Christy Mathewson for the movement that he has started to eliminate the giving of a bonus for good work in addition to the usual contract. The bonus is always based on the batting of say, .300 or better; if a pitcher, the winner of so many games. It is a practice that has been in vogue in the majors for years and I suppose gets an equal play in the minors.

I have seen so many cases where the giving of a bonus worked to the disadvantage of the player and the team involved that I am positive it is a bad scheme.

Well do I recall the case of a pitcher a few years back who was to receive a bonus of $2000 in addition to his salary if he won 20 games. With about three weeks to go the pitcher needed only two more wins to cinch the money. His next two starts resulted in defeats, despite the fact that he pitched great ball. The margin in each case was one run and the winning tally was the result of a misplay on the part of some player.

It is an easy matter to figure the feelings of the pitcher who would have had the extra $2000 sewed up had he been given perfect support in the field.

It so happened that the pitcher had a rather bad disposition. The misplays peeved him, and instead of pitching and letting the rest of the players do their work he began to rave at his infield. This stirred up considerable ill-feeling and didn't tend to help the morale of the club that happened to be fighting for a berth in the first division. Briefly, the pitcher failed to win a single start during the last three weeks, due in a measure to the strain he was working under, likewise the strain the entire team was playing under. He didn't get the bonus. No doubt he was peeved all winter and probably reported in the spring with a don't-care spirit.

Perhaps nothing affects the general play of a star batsman more than a slump at the plate. When said player sees a bonus slipping away in addition to his batting average, it makes the situation all the worse.

A certain player who always batted right around the .300 mark had a salary difference with his club. It was a matter of $1000. The club owner, in an effort to satisfy the player, said he would give him the disputed $1000 if the player reached the .300 mark in batting. The player agreed to the gamble. When the last week of the season arrived the player doped out just how many hits he had to make in so many times at bat to get under the wire. Never in all my life have I seen a more disturbed batsman at the plate. Every time at bat was an ordeal for him and everyone else. When he failed to hit on his last trip to the plate he was downcast, figuring he he had lost out by one point.

However, the unofficial averages had been slightly in error as to the times at bat. The official averages gave the player a mark of .301 instead of .299, as he had figured. He got the bonus, also earned it.

Last season a certain pitcher was promised a bonus of $1000 if he won 15 games. For two months that pitcher had the toughest breaks possible. He dropped 11 straight games, yet with good support he should have won half of them. So that with the season only one-third over, the pitcher had really lost the big incentive for him to try to win. At that he kept at his work and fell only a few games shy of the required mark. I hope he got his bonus. He deserved it.

Champions in any sport in order to hold their title must have that indefinable thing called class. In a sense, class is delivering in the pinch. In the fight game, champions in the various classes often look very ordinary in exhibition bouts. Every now and then some dub shades a champion. But with the old title at stake, the champ shows his class and thrusts aside the leading contenders for his crown.

It is in the pinch, when everything is at stake, that the real champion comes through. Class will tell, is a sport adage that usually holds good.

There is the case of Johnny Dundee for instance. Dundee, always a great fighter, didn't get his big opportunity until late in life. He won the featherweight championship after he had been in the fight game more than a dozen years. While his defeat of Criqui for the title was not unexpected, yet it was the unusual. In a number of no-decision bouts in which Dundee has engaged since winning the featherweight crown he has looked very ordinary. Many of the critics pronounced him through. When he agreed to meet Pal Moran, contender for the lightweight title, the impression among the fight followers was that Dundee would be knocked.

Class told the story in the Moran bout. Dundee, carefully trained for the meeting, swept aside any claim that Moran might have had for a Leonard bout, by winning easily.

No champion typifies the meaning of class better than Willie Hoppe, billiard king. For years and years Hoppe has reigned supreme. Recently he has been pressed to the limit to retain his title. With the exception of one meeting with Jake Schaefer he has always emerged victory. During the past three months, in quick succession, he twice disposed of Welker Cochran, and once, Jake Schaefer, in championship matches.

Hoppe has the class. He always raises to the occasion in the crisis. He is at his best when hard pressed. It seems the tougher the going, the better Hoppe plays.

Recently, after defeating Jake Schaefer in a title match, the champion and his leading contender played a series of exhibition games in the larger cities. In this tour with Schaefer, Hoppe on several occasions showed why he has ruled the billiard game for so many years. In one 400-point game, with Schaefer leading him 370 to 19, he ran 313 and then went out in the next frame to victory. His grand average for 10,000 points was better than 55. Hoppe has the class. He's a real champion.

MARKS A MARK FOR CHAMPION.

GEORGE MARKS

The dear old New York "booblic" was given the works again the other night.

George Marks, a Brooklyn boy with somewhat of a reputation as a four-round performer in California rings, was sent against Pancho Villa, flyweight champion of the world.

Marks wasn't even a flyweight. He proved to be a very heavy bantamweight and a very bad one, too.

Villa punched him dizzy throughout the 15 rounds of the fight—a fight that helped the ailing sport in New York in about the same manner that lethal gas strengthens a condemned man's vitality.

GOLF NEWS

BY JOE WILLIAMS

EVANS

Among the veteran campaigners Chick Evans probably has the most remarkable winning average in golf.

This is to say, he has been beaten fewer times and won oftener in national championship matches than any other player.

Over a stretch of 12 campaigns the Chicago crack has clicked off 34 triumphs against 11 reversals, a batting average, so to speak, of .756.

Jess Sweetser, blond Yale youth, has a better average in amateur play. So has Gene Sarazen, bronzed Italian, in profession match play. But these fellows are mere competitive infants in the game. At least in comparison with Evans and his long career.

Here are the 11 distinctive amateur in this country holding decisions over Evans: Chandler, Eagen, Bill Fownes, Fred Herreshoff, Jerry Travers, John Anderson, E. M. Byers, Ned Sawyer, Francis Ouimet, Jesse Guilford, Jess Sweetser and Willie Hunter.

Evans' record in American golf is almost without a parallel. He has twice won the national amateur. Eight time, all told, he has gone as far as the final or semi-final round. He has won the national open once, and finished second once.

One year he won both the open and the amateur. Incidentally, he set a record in the open that year, 286, which has never been equalled, by amateur or pro.

Evans' most brilliant feat in the amateur was a spurt of 19 holes in 71 strokes, this against Francis Ouimet in the finals in 1920. Five under even fours is neat golf in a championship test, neat if not gaudy.

Evans' advice to golfers is this: "Strive for a simple, easy style."

His doctrine of simplicity is further evidenced in his stance which is the SAME FOR ALL SHOTS. Both toes are turned slightly outward but on a line parallel to the direction leading from ball to flag. Thus neither the right nor left foot is advanced beyond the other.

That this prduces oa great simplifying effect is obvious, for a change of stance also means a change of swing. That Evans' system of simplicity is practical is borne out by the fact that he is probably the most accurate shot maker in the game.

OLYMPIC HOCKEY PICTURES.

The new edition of the Hockey Year Book, which is now on sale at all newstands, is going big, and orders have been received from such far off places as California for the handbook of Canada's great winter game. Boston, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and St Paul enthusiasts are also evincing an interest in the handsomely illustrated publication. The Olympic competition no doubt is largely responsible for the deluge of orders from across the line, as the Americans generaly are beginning to awaken to the fact that there are games probably more worth while than base ball. In adition to the 200 group pictures which appear in this edition will be found photographs of the Canadian and the American Olympic teams.

BYE FOR PETES IN NEXT ROUND

Blue Shirts May Possibly Be Sent Direct Into the O. H. A. Finals.

The Petes will get a bye in the next round of the O.H.A. race and may possibly be sent directly into the finals without playing another round although that point has not been definitely settled. The blue shirts are the only intermediate team to complete their fourth round, hence the bye. The teams that will be left in the running after to-night will likely be New Hamburg, Guelph, Niagara Falls, the Collingwood Rosedale winners and Peterboro. New Hamburg and Guelph wiill clash and Niagara Falls will tie into the Collingwood-Rosedale winners. When that series is over there will be only three teams in the big competition including the Petes. The blue shirts will be idle for a week at least under this arrangement

ABOUT BILL GUTHRIE

BY BILLY EVANS

EVANS

Bill Guthrie was nothing if not original. During his stay of a couple of months he slipped the ball players a lot of new ones. The athletes are still talking about Guthrie.

One of the first things he did was put Manager Miller Huggins out of a game at Washington before he ever opened his mouth. Guthrie has chased Witt on the first play of the game. Huggins, coaching at third, rushed over to protest, but had a ticket to the showers before he ever reached his destination. Bill didn't wait for Huggins to express himself, but admits that the mite manager said a few uncomplimentary things to him after he had given him the gate.

Guthrie's ejection of Huggins before he even had a chance to speak his piece, recalled a similar incident in which Tim Hurst played the leading role. I was umpiring with Hurst at the time.

We were working a game in Chicago. Fielder Jones at that time was managing the White Sox. He had the very annoying habit of coming in from his position in center field on every close decision. In this particular game Hurst had just called a visiting player safe on a very close play at the plate. The moment oJnes saw Tim signal safe he started in to protest. At the same moment Hurst, from back of the plate raced out to meet him.

Jones perceived that Tim was riled. He reached second base about the time Tim arrived at the pitcher's box. Jones stopped in his direct course to the plate and detoured in the direction of shortstop where he held close conversation with George Davis, then playing that position for the Sox. Finishing, he started for his position in center field. In the interim Tim had stood in the middle of the diamond. The moment Jones started for his position Hurst shouted:

"You're going the wrong way, manager."

"What do you mean?" said Jones, a look of surprise playing over his face.

"The clubhouse for you," said Tim.

"How can you put me out of the game?" Why, I haven't said a word

Run in cut here

to you," was Jones' reply.

"It's not for what you said, but for what you are thinking about me," retorted Hurst. "On your way."

Jones went, but like Huggins, said a few things before departing. It is not necessary to add that Tim also said a few things that carried a tobasco flavor.

OBITUARY

BONEY ANGLESEY

Word has been received in the city to-day of the death of Boney Anglesey, in Detroit. He was well known in this city his father, Samuel Anglesey having run a bakery here for a number of years.

The funeral will take place in Peterboro. Funeral announcements later.

ROBERT BLACKWELL

The funeral of Robert Blackwell took place yesterday from his late residence Douro, to the Little Lake Cemetery. His first wife was Frances, daughter of the late Ivan O'Beirne a long resident of Peterborough.

The deceased lived for many years in the Northwest where he is survived by a daughter and son. The latter served through the war. He also leaves a son and daughter who lived with him.

DEPUTATION TO VISIT FERGUSON

Will Suggest Use of South Central School For Vocational Work.

A deputation representing the Board of Education and consisting of Messrs. J. M. Greene, Bruce Fowler, G. A. Gillespie and Mrs. W. R. Morris, left for Toronto this morning to interview Premier G. Howard Ferguson, Minister of Education in regard to a proposal to take over the South Central school for vocational training purposes. The cost is estimated at about fifty thousand dollars and the project would take the place of the proposed combination technical and high school.

BORN.

Society

Mr. Charles Coleman attended the Mendelssohn Choir Concert in Toronto last night.

Mr. J. E. Theobald, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Theobald, Albert street, is home for a few days from Port Arthur, and leaves on Sunday for Amherstburg, where he has been engaged as manager of the Denike Drug Company.

The Young Ladies of St. Peter's Parish were hostesses at a very pleasant "At Home," held at St. Alphonsus' Lyceum, last evening. There was a splendid crowd for dancing, in the assembly hall, which was prettily decorated for the occasion, and in the card rooms upstairs. Excellent music was provided by Follis' four-piece orchestra, and there was a programme of novelty dances, that included a serpentine and whistle number, a rose dance and a Leap Year dance. Prizes for cards were won by Mrs. J. Picard and Mr. J. P. Finn, the gentleman's prize a box of cigars, donated by Mr. James O'Brien. The committee of young ladies in charge was composed of the Misses Marion Hayes, Margaret O'Brien, Berenice Giroux and Mamie Archambault. Among the assistants were the Misses C. Fontaine, M. Grisdale, N. Shevlin, F. Hurley, M. Lonergan, E. McCabe, K. McDonald, K. Sharpe, F. Giroux and T. McNamara.

Hostesses at the recital on "Pauline Johnson," to be given in the studio at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday by Mrs. L. J. Pettit, assisted by Dr. S. . Graham, tenor, will be Mrs. W. D. Scott and Mrs. A. Stevenson.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church banquetted the choir and their friends in the Sunday School rooms of the church last evening. The gathering, which was a very pleasant and enjoyable event, was attended by about one hundred people. The president of the society, Mrs. C. H. Moore, was assisted by a group of energetic workers. Mrs. W. R. Cormack acted as convenor of the tables, and Mrs. D. Jordan had charge of the decorations, which were attractively carried out in pink, with quantities of pink carnations. A programme of community singing was directed by Mr. M. B. Chenhall.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Miss Daisy Adlam on Thursday, when a number of young friends gathered together in honor of her birthday. The evening was spent in games and music, and Miss Adlam received some very pretty gifts. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. O. Wilson and the Misses Ida Grant, Vivian Sullivan, Genevieve Driscoll, Alena and Carmelite Habbines, Mary and Lucy Cupoli, Nellie and Stella Brady, Dora Baker. The guests adjourned wishing Miss Adlam many happy returns of her birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bidgood, of Springville, wish to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Eva Coleman, to Arthur Elwood, only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Devell, of Fowler's Corners.

ATTACKED BANK MESSENGER ON A BUSY STREET

Armed Robbers Hold Up Manager of Imperial Bank--Get Away With $32,000 on Vancouver Street.

FIRED REVOLVERS

VANCOUVER, Feb. 23. — Canadian Press.)—Armed automobile robbers yesterday robbed J. Anderson, manager of the Fairview branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada and W. Bramwell, messenger for the bank of $32,000.

The robbery took place on Granville street in the heart of the retail district.

The money was being transported from the head office of the Bank to a branch, in a small automobile driven by Mr. Anderson. The bandits were in a larger automobile which had been following the bank car through the city streets and gradually edged up on it, forcing the smaller car toward the curb.

Another automobile was parked near the sidewalk and in order to avoid a collision the manager was forced to come to a stop. The moment this was done two masked men sprang from the larger car, one carrying a revolver and the other a sawed-off shot gun. They attacked both sides of the smaller car.

The $32,000 was in a small satchel. Under threat of death, Mr. Bramwell, who at first attempted to draw his revolver, was forced to hand the satchel over to the robbers. Then they disarmed the two bank employes and jumping to their own car fired thier guns in the air to intimidate the startled citizens who observed the robbery.

The numbes of the bandits' car was secured.

RENT CONTROL MAY CONTINUE

Measure Carried Through British House on Second Reading.

LONDON, Feb. 23. — (Canadian Press). — The House of Commons yesterday gave a second reading to the Rent Restrictions Bill, the object of which is to continue rent control until 1928, instead of 1925, the time set originally for the decontrol of rentals, and to provide for a period of modified control after that.

According to the new bill a tenant can be dispossessed only if the landlord wants the house for himself, and not to lease the premises to some other person.

The permissible increase of rents is reduced by the bill from 40 per cent. to 25 per cent.

J. P. Gardner, Labor member for North Hammersmith, the mover of the second reading of the Rent Restrictions Bill, declared that no Government could catch up on the housing shortage by 1925. The power of the owners of houses at present was really unlimited, he said. Evictions were proceeding all over the country and the position of the tenants was appalling.

The bill, Mr. Gardner explained, proposed that where a landlord required a house for his own occupation he must provide alternative accommodation for the tenant before the latter should give possession.

Jorn Wheatley, Minister of Health, announced that the Government approved the proposals in the bill but did not accept responsibility for it.

The second reading carried by a vote of 248 to 101.

ARTIC IS TO SAIL UNDER J. E. BERNIER

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Captain J. E. Bernier will go north in the spring in command of the Arctic explorers, according to information received here today.

Plans to send two ships were being considered by the Federal authorities, but it has been decided to send only the Arctic, the veteran ship of Canadian expeditions into northern waters.

Bachelors Prepared For Marriage State

A List of Don'ts for the Opening Class

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 23 —(British United Press).— "Take a second look at that girl before you marry her," advises Carroll M. Gibney, Educational director of Central Y.M.C.A. Brooklyn.

Gibney announcing a course to prepare bachelors for marriage, says don'ts—

Marry for sex attraction alone.

Fail to run your household on a budget system.

Expect your wife to conform to the 'single standard" of morality in your own in doubt.

Put off marriage until you are earning $4,000 a year.

Pay more than 30 per cent of your income for rent in New York or 20 per cent elsewhere.

The course will last six weeks and will give single men "a knowledge of the economic, physiological and psychological aspects of marriage as well as training in care and education of children."

HEARTS AFIRE STARTS TODAY

Intensely Interesting Story Opens in the Examiner Today--Read the First Chapter.

Prudence in the apple-orchard, feeding her chickens in the enchantment of an April morning and beneath a cloudless sky, dreamt of romance, young love and happiness.

Prudence was pretty. In the gingham gown that clung about her young lithe figure, she was as throbbingly alive and spring-like as the slender trees that swayed so gracefully about her, robed in their first gay green.

"If only something would just happen!" Over the hedge that enclosed the apple-orchard in a little green universe of its own, she could glimpse the winding ribbon of road that led to strange, exciting worlds outside her ken. "If only ——"

A scented breeze blew the dark curls about her face, and brought a lovelier rose-tinge to her rounded cheeks. It brought too, longing—vague and nd finable—sweet as the perfume of the spring, full of the restless urge of it, rising to the head just as the sap was rising in the trees, and filling one with wonderment and exultation.

Oh, it was good to be a live! And yet—and yet—all this riot of young beauty must mean somethin lead to something . . .

Father and mother were darlings, but they did not understand. Not even love could bridge the gulf that divided one generation from the next! They were "afraid" for Prudence. They"wanted the best" for the beloved child of that late marriage.

"Indeed, they'd like to wrap me up in cotton-wool!" Prudence confided half petulantly, half condonin ly to her friend Janet Mercer, who was twenty-eight, and sensible, and independent, and strong-minded.

* * *

Janet Mercer vaguely understood She was that rare creature, a woman who could see both sides unprejudiced, although she did believe that girls should have careers and freedom. She was plain and downright, and she called a spade a spade in a way that sometimes startled unsophisticated Prudence.

She was rather down on men, too, even though she had a sweetheart of her own. But then, Janet was a nurse, and nurses were notoriously disillusioned.

"You're born to be taken in, you little goosey!" she had rallied Prudence more than once, affectionately.

"I don't blame your father and mother for wrapping you up and handling you as carefully as I do my precious Tanagra statuette. You are an "objet d'art," and rough winds and clumsw fingers shouldn't touch you."

"Such nonsense, Janet! I want life, and fun, and——"

"A sweetheart?" suppleme ted Janet disconcert ngly. "Cheer up my child! Men—whole shoals—will tumble down like nine-pins at the very sight of you."

Prudence's pretty eyes had widened at this news.

"Oh, no. I'm not clever like you, Janet. I can't say witty things."

Janet had chuckled rather mirthlessly at that.

"My tongue's not a magnet, dearie, it's a razor! Men'ud like me better if I cut it out. It's listeners they want, and flattery, and a dash of honey, and a pretty face like yours. Why, child, don't you know that men—most men—just hate a clever woman? She's an anomaly of nature and a reflection on themselves. She shows 'em up too clearly for their peace of mind."

Soldiers on Hand to Prevent Any Disturbance—Howard Carter Was Not Present.

A PUBLIC VIEW.

LUXOR, Egypt, February 23 (Canadian Press). — After remaining closed for nine days, the tomb of Tutankhamen was forcibly opened yesterday by the Egyptian Government.

A guard of soldiers was drawn up, and many tourists were present.

It was known to everyone that Howard Carter, representing the Carnarvon expedition, would not surrender the keys to the locks which secured the doors of the tomb, and that the Government officials must therefore cut the locks to gain entrance.

Mr. Carter not having replied to the ultimatum of the Government within the 48 hours specified, inviting him to open the tomb and resume work under certain conditions, the Cabinet passed a decree cancelling the license originally granted to Lord Carnarvon and ordered the re-opening of the tomb immediately, as it was feared great damage might result through the ropes breaking and allowing the heavy granite lid, suspended over the sarcophagus, to fall, and perhaps irreparably damage the magnificent gold-covered coffin within.

M. Lacau, accompanied by M. Englebach, Inspector of Antiquities of Upper Egypt, the Governor of Kenah Province, the Mayor of Luxor, the Chief of Police of the district and native workmen with chisels, crow-bars and hack-saws, arrived at the tomb at 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The workmen sawed off the locks of the outer and inner doors, thus permitting entrance to the tomb.

The electric lights were turned on and a careful inspection showed that no damage had been done. After covering several of the objects to prevent dust settling, the top of the sarcophagus was covered with thin boards, supports were placed under the lid, and new locks were attached to the doors, which were again closed.

Tre party then went to the tomb of Seti II., which is being utilized as a laboratory and storehouse for the objects taken from the tomb. Here also the locks were removed and pieces of the shrine, which were more or less exposed to the weather, were wrapped in protective covers.

Neither Mr. Carter nor any member of his staff was present. It is understood that he has placed the matter in the hands of the courts to determine his rights, until which time nothing inside the tomb can be removed.

The tomb will be closed after the public view, which it is expected the Government will permit for the next ten days, when about 2,000 persons will be admitted. In the event of the failure of the Government to adjust its differences with Carter, it considers the Antiquities Department capable of completing the work.

Earthquake Wrecked Number of Buildings.

TARBES, France, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—An earthquake yesterday afternoon at 3.32 o'clock rocked buildings here and at Bagneres, Cauteres and other places. The walls of some buildings were cracked, while doors were thrown open and furniture was broken. The phenomena lasted ten seconds. The 'quake was particularly severe at Bagneres, where a number of buildings were badly shaken. Chimneys were thrown down and the populace, panic - stricken, fled from their homes. Nobody was injured, and the property damage was relatively slight.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL.

BROCKVILLE, Febraury 23.—The coroner's jury investigating the death near Winchester, as the result of a small landslide in a gravel pit, in which he was working of William McCraig, aged 21, a former ward of Fairknowe Orphans' Home, found that his deatr had been accidental, but that the law in connection with the protection of those employed in gravel pit had been complied with.

Couny Crown Attorney Harkness ordered the township of Winchester, which operates the pit, to close it immmediately.

KINGSTON BOY DESIRES OPEN INVESTIGATION

Florent Arnold is Saying Nothing in the Meantime--A Waiting Policy

SEEKS RETRACTION

(By James A. Cowan, Special to The Examiner, Copyright.)

NEW YORK, February 23.—An open investigation of his case is what Florent Arnold, the 17-year-old cadet who took French leave of the Royal Military College, Kingston, and made his way on foot to New York is asking.

Meanwhile he is saying nothing and sawing wood. He had his story to tell, but he is determined that that story will not be told till what he considers the proper time.

Yesterday he wired Toronto asking that Major-General Sir A. C. MacDonell retract the charges made against him, and in that connection he has a further statement to make.

"In order to make perfectly clear my reasons for having asked that General Macdonell, the commandant of the College retract his statements," he says "I wish to make known the fact that my primary purpose in so doing was not to discredit anything that the General may have said. Any decision of that sort I shall leave for the investigating authorities to reach after I have stated my case.

"My personal belief however, is that General Macdonell has taken a very unwise course without having fully verified his information. In requesting the retraction of his statements I was affording the College an opportunity of averting unnecessary publicity for which I myself had no desire, and affording an opportunity also of keeping the question of further settlement entirely a private matter.

"In view of the fact that these charges have been openly made against me, I feel that all further developments of the case should receive publicity equal to that given the matter to date. Had General Macdonell seen fit to comply with my request, the case in so far as the public is concerned would now be ended, and further investigation would have been in camera.

"I understand that there is still a possibility of the investigation being held in private, but as in that event the public impression of the whole case would hinge almost entirely upon those particular aspects which have already been widely published. I feel that this condition would result in an injustice both to myself and to the College, and consequently I must ask that all future investigation be not of a secret nature.

"As matters stand at present, I believe that the wisest course to be followed, for the best interests of the College and myself, is to continue to refrain from any detailed discussion from my point of view of the charges against me as presented to the public. These, I am confident, can be satisfactorily explained at the proper time."

As far as is known, there has not been any communication from the authorities at Kingston to Arnold. It is understood that had not the matter of an official investigation come to a head with such rapidity, he would have been en route to his home in Regina by this time. But now he has decided in favour of the watchful, waiting policy.

WAR VETERANS' CASES HEARD BEFORE BOARD.

One Man Suffers From Defective Sight Due to Shell Concussion.

MONTREAL, Feb. 23.— (Canadian Press.)— Sitting here for the first time this year, the Federal Appeal Board convened yesterday to hear the cases of veterans of the Great War from Montreal and district who are appealing against decisions of the Board of Pensions Commissioners and the Department of Soldiers Civil Re-establishment. Decisions on the hearings will be given out later.

The outstanding case was that of Zechariah Hall, 50, whose eyes were so weak that he had to be led around by an attendant. He claims that his defective sight is due to shell concussions. The Pension Commissioners held that the condition of his eyes was due to congenital causes and not related to war experiences.

A similar case was that of J. B. McRae who is suffering from almost total blindness in the left eye. This too, he ascribes to shell shock. The Pensions Board ruled in his case similarly to that of Hall. In both cases the Federal Appeal Board reviewed all the evidence and heard any further testimony that was provided.

HOME BREW IS GREAT MENACE

Says Report of General Victor Williams — The Bootlegger Druggist.

TORONTO, Feb. 22.— (Canadian Press).—In the annual report of the Provincial Police General Victor William, chief commissioner, states that there is still a large illicit trade in liquor carried on in the Province. The sources of supply he says are administered "in a very highly organized and systemized manner by men who finance the undertaking and have developed such a smooth working system through their agents that they themselves are practically immune, in fact, often unknown." Among the sources are the Quebec border, the Manitoba boundary and the brewries and distilleries ostensibly for export. But a much greater menace he says is the home made liquor handled by bootleggers and put in fraudulently labelled bottles. A newer and serious offender of recent months is the bootlegger druggist. Stone beer has been sold in some hotels but there has been nothing like open selling and there has been no let up on the part of officers in the enforcement of the O. T. A.

The commissioner speaks of the recurrence of the epidemic of crimes of violence and says it will have to be met by an increase of vigilance aided by more modern equipment. The crime wave he sayys is a refelx of that prevalent in United States and the result of a certain revolver using, motor made type of criminal realizing the ease with which an organized band of armed desperadoes can terrorize the unarmed and unorganized public. He states that the police should have the right to stop and examine all traffic radiating from the scene of a serious crime and because of the frequency with which wires are cut says that radio is the only means of fast communication left.. General Williams says that if the provisions of the Criminal Code were as drastically enforced as they should be that it would be practically impossible for any one without a permit to be in possession of a revolver. He advocates that the with a revoler be made more severe and in all cases be a jail offence and that robbers caught with revolvers be given an additional sentence for having them.

The commissioner also finds there is a need for greater supervision to check speeding and reckless driving on highways... He declares himself in favor of a policy of having only persons who pass an examination permitted to drive and believes that seven days is too short a sentence for a person drunk in charge of a car.

He reports that $114,040 was collected for fines under the O. T. A. of which $69,995 was from Toronto. Seizures totalled 2416 bottles of liquor; 1500 gallons of liquor and 75 cases of liquor; 36 bottle and 110 cases of beer. During the year there were 20 murders; 22 suicides; 28 auto fatalities and 77 drownings in province.

SHAH OF PERSIA IS HEADED FOR A DROP

TEHERAN, Feb. 2.— (British United Press).—The American news paper reports of the extravagant career of the plump and youthful Shah of Persia in the European Capital are being reprinted here in a vigorous campaign against the Monarchy and in favor of a republic.

The advocates of a Persian Republic members of the independent democratic party have a majority in parliament.

A DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH IN ONTARIO GOVT.

Premier Ferguson Announces New Department at Yesterday's Session of the Ontario House.

A QUIET DAY.

TORONTO, February 23. — Legislation was introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Premier Ferguson creating a Department of Health.

The Premier said it would not mean an additional Cabinet Minister. The Department of Labour will come under the Minister of Health just as the Department of Education now comes under the Premier's Department.

The Premier in reply to a question by the Hon. W. E. Raney, asking if it was the policy of the Government to consult the members of ridings regardless of party in the making of Civil Service appointments in such ridings did not satisfy Mr. Raney.

The Premier said that in such appointments the Minister of the Departments were consulted and added that the question was improper.

The Speaker ruled that the Premier was right, and that questions concerning policy could not be asked.

Mr. Raney was also informed that the government was considering the bringing down of legislation for the protection of the public against the sale of fraudulent stocks. The Provincial Treasurer in reply to a question said the government had only floated one loan. It last October for $40,000. The amount per hundred realized was 95.8; the rate of interest 5 per cent. and the interest cost of each 5.30.

A motion by Dr. D. Jamieson (South Grey) asking for a return showing the number of motor vehicles since the government started buying them and other information about them passed the House. Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Public Works in the late government, said he hoped full information would be brought down as there had been a lot of talk in the last election about the abuse of motor cars used by cabinet ministers and officials. He hoped the information would be to date.

The Premier said the government had had a survey made of the use of motors with the result that there would be a saving of about $50,000 a year on the maintenance of 50 cars.

Resolutions passed the House providing for the guaranteeing of debentures for the towns of Haileybury, Cochrane and Kapuskasing. These towns are being helped in this way because of fires and epidemics of sickness.

F. C. McBrien (Southwest Toronto) got second reading for a bill which would wipe out entirely the bill enabling municipalities to have a vote whether single tax should be adopted to the extent of 10 per cent. each year. Mr. McBrien gave Toronto as an example where a petition had been signed sufficiently to have a vote with the result that not even 30 per cent. of the petitioners voted for the by-law. The bill was referred to municiapl committee where there will be opposition.

Jas. McCausland (Southwest Toronto) objected to the remarks of Judge Denton in the trial of several troopers charged with beating a comrade when he said: "How would you liked to get lashes." Mr. Raney said the judge had quite a proper right to use the words. Premier Ferguson said the government could not dictate to law officials.

Another bill introduced transfers the dental and medical inspection of Public and Separate school children from the department of education to the new department of health.

COAL DELIVERIES ON INCREASE IN FRANCE

PARIS, February 22 (British United Press). — While the Allied experts are deliberating plans which may possibly result in the French evacuation of the Ruhr the coal deliveries from the occupied areas are increasing.

From the beginning of the present year until 10th February France received 1,985,912 tons of fuel, divisible between France, Belgium, and Italy.

VERDICT OF THE JURY ACQUITS JOHN SCHELL OF SLAYING MAC NEAL

Wrong Flag Flies Over Court House Justice Declares

In opening the last sitting of the Spring Assizes yesterday morning, Mr. Justice Mowat called the attention of Sheriff F. J. A. Hall to the fact that not only has the tattered and torn flag flying over the County Court house outlived its beauty and usefulness, but it is of the wrong design.

The Union Jack and not the red ensign should be flown over the Court House, he said.

A spectator in the court-room during the progress of the Assizes noticed that a second red ensign forms a canopy over the Judge's dais, and that this flag, to add insult to injury, is upside down.

Congratulations Were General As the Old Man Stepped From the Dock a Free Citizen — Jury Out Nearly Two Hours.

CREDIT TO COUNSEL.

"Not guilty" was the verdict of the jury in the case of the King versus John Schell, charging wilful murder of George Washington MacNeal, delivered yesterday evening after two hours' deliberation.

Following the splendid address by the defending counsel, C. G. Frost of Lindsay, the verdict was not unexpected, and several persons in the body of the court clapped their hands. When Schell stepped from the dock, a free man, he was met with congratulations from his lawyers, and for twenty minutes was the centre of scores who crowded around to clasp his hand, pat his back, and show similar signs of their pleasure in his release. Smiling, as he had during most of the trial, a whimsical smile, the old man, seventy-one years of age, seemed overwhelmed by the expressions of friendliness, and with his son, George, was glad to busy himself in gathering together his rifle, cartridge belt and other personal property that had been entered as evidence in the trial against him.

Interviewed by the Examiner in his hotel when he had enjoyed his first meal outside the jail in three months and was sitting with his son, he said "there didn't seem to be anyone in the room who wasn't pleased to see me acquitted."

He went to Lindsay last night and expected to reach Fenelon Falls today, where George Schell left a horse that will take them home.

Congratulations were general during the moments succeeding the close of what was in many respects the most remarkable trial in the history of the court. The Crown Prosecutor, A. B. Cunningham, K. C., of Kingston was quickly by Schell's side, while Magistrate O. A. Langley complimented Mr. Frost on the way in which he had conducted his defense. Mr. Frost, in his turn, shook hands with the jurymen who had brought in the verdict of acquittal, and the foreman of the jury passed some of the credit to Dr. Phyllis Young, whose evidence, he said, had helped considerably towards arriving at a decision.

Mr. Justice Mowat, in declaring the verdict, said: "You have heard the verdict in your favor; you may go as a free man. It was probably a narrow escape, and your counsel put up a splendid defence. You owe him a lot."

The Defence Theory

The theory advanced by C. G. Frost in his address regarding the death of George MacNeal was accidental death while intoxicated.

MacNeal, he said, might have looked for a drink in the morning after being awakened by John Schell. He may have found the bottle in Schell's bunk, may have drunk the contents and thrown the bottle outdoors. Then, going to the west wall he longed for the rifle, pulled it muzzle first from the rifle hooks, the trigger or the hammer caught on one of the racks or on a nail and the piece was discharged. MacNeal fell against the peg in the wall, breaking it, and crashed to the floor

REV. H. SPENCE DROPPED DEAD THIS MORNING

Seized Suddenly in the Market Hall and Was Dead Before Dr. Young Arrived—Was a Retired Minister,

HEART FAILURE

Peterborough weekly market was this morning the scene of a tragedy when Rev. Hamilton Spence, of 39 Crescent Street, fell on the floor and expired after a few minutes.

Death is believed to have been caused by heart failure.

Rev. Mr. Spence had been a regular visitor at the market, and was known to a great many people who witnessed the melancholy event.

He was standing near one of the tables in the north part of the Market Hall, when he suddenly fell.

Assistance was quickly rendered, Constable Leonard Matthews bringing water with which he bathed the victim's head and lips, but after a few minutes death occurred.

Dr. T. W. H. Young was called and an examination showed that Mr. Spence was already dead.

The deceased lived with his sister, who kept house for him. He retired from the active pastorate of the Methodist Church in Newcastle about three years ago, after which he lived for a time in Norwood.

In May last year he came to reside in Peterborough, and applied to have his name inserted in the voters' list for the June Provincial election.

Mr. Spence was born in South Dummer, and was well known throughout the Peterborough District. He retired from the active ministry because of ill-health, but was not known to be affected by heart trouble.

The coroner, Dr. Greer, was notified by Dr. Young, and the body taken to Comstock's undertaking establishment.

DOCKERS STRIKE STILL LINGERING.

Settlement Terms Must Be Referred to the Strikers.

LONDON, Feb. 23.— The confidence felt yesterday of an early settlement of the dock strike changed to renewed apprehension to-day when it was learned that the decision whether to accept the terms which the employers offered had to be referred to the strikers themselves.

The delegate conference sat nearly eight hours to-day without arriving at an agreement and then decided to adjourn until Monday in order to consult the men. It is hoped the delegates will be able to return from their respective ports on Monday with mandates for acceptance, but this is by no means certain as the big meetings held in some ports to-day showed a determination to exact immediately payment of the full two shillings advance. In view of this there seems to be no hope of resumption of port work before Tuesday and perhaps not then unless moderate counsels prevail.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. United Press. — The stock market showed a strong undertone during the first hour of the brief session to-day with specialties strong. After 11 a.m. the movement developed into activity and strength in the rails and steel issues in the lead. In view of a curtailed attendance, owing to the fact that many traders tok a three days' holiday, the advance was regarded as preliminry to an extension of the bullish sentiment next week. Shorts were getting uncomfortable particularly in view of the strong Republican line up in tax matters. Steel was the strong feautre, selling at 104 3-4 up 1 from the close. Trade reports are excellent. Sloss, Sheffield, sold at 62 7-8 up nearly $5 a share from the recent low. Dividend action is expected in the very near future.

Shorts in the oil group were covering as the market closed. Brooklyn Manhattan shares, which have been sluggish of late came to the fore with the preferred selling up to 55 up 4 points from the recent low. Constructive news is looked for in these shares netx month.

Southern Railway was the active and strong feature of the final minutes and sold up 49 5-8, a new high, and 1 1-8 above Thursday's last sale. The volume in the stock was big and buying was coming from every section of the country. Chesapeake and Ohio sold off rather sharply to 59 1-2 off 7-8, and there was no apparent reason for this reaction in view of the strength in other rails.

Wall Street liked the strengthening of the Republican ranks in the tax fight at Washington and the market at the opening reflected its sentiment with active stocks higher. Steel opened a 104 1-2 up 3-4. The oil shares were strong with Standard oil of California selling at 63 7-8 up 5-8.

INSANE MAN SHOT POLICE SERGEANT

Assailant Took to Bush at Silver Mountain and is Being Pursued.

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press.) — Word received yesterday afternoon at Provincial police headquarters told of the shooting of Sergt. F. B. Creasy by an insane man, Peter Tomac, near Port Arthur. Sergt. Creasy was endeavoring to arrest Tomac when he was shot.

His wound is in his chest and is serious. Tomac took to the bush near Silver Mountain, and a detachment of police is scouring the country for him.

FROZE TO DEATH WHEN FIRE DIED

Presumed 70 Year Old Man Went to Sleep and Allowed the Fire to Go Out.

THAMESVILLE, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press). — The first death in this district as a result of the recent extreme weather occurred near here last night, when Matthew Kaufman, a farmer, of Cawden Township, succumbed to exposure after both his hands and feet had been frozen in his fireless home early this afternoon. Kaufman was over 70 years of age and lived alone. It is presumed that the man had gone to sleep and the fire in the stove had gone out, with the result that he was frozen. That the stove had been out for some time before Kaufman was found was evidenced by the fact that various articles in the house were completely frozen.

Nova Scotia House Got Away Yesterday.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The reply to the speech from the Throne was adopted in the Nova Scotia Legislature yesterday afternoon, following the defeat of an amendment calling upon the Government to resign office in the light of their failure to bring about a permanent settlement of the labor difficulties in Cape Breton. The House divided, twenty to ten upon both amendment and motion.

Preceding the vote, Dr. H. A. Leblanc, of Richmond, criticized the Government for holding that the position of the British Empire Steel Corporation doing business under the Nova Scotia's Companies Act was inviolate. He contended that the Government, led by Hon. E. H. Armstrong, was responsible for more confiscatory legislation than any other administration perhaps in the Dominion of Canada, and cited the laws confiscating the water power and mineral deposits in the Province in support of his statement.

Would Assimilate Foreign Settlers.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Feb. 23. — (Canadian Press.)—The gradual assimilation of foreign settlers instead of allowing them to settle in colonies, was favored in a resolution adopted at the Provincial convention of the Great War Veterans' Association here yesterday.

The retirement of the Pension Commissioners was called for in another resolution adopted.

Alex. Walker, of Calgary, was elected president.

RECEIVER OF WRECKS.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.— (Canadian Press.)— Captain W. W. Fancy, of Port Medway, N. S., has been appointed receiver of wrecks for the district comprising all the coast line of the coutny of Queen's, N.S. He succeeds C. A. Bowlby in the position.

PARTIAL PLANS FOR THE FLIGHT

Coastguard Cutters Will Assist in Flight Around the Earth.

SEATTLE, Wn., Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Partial plans of the United States Coast Guard to assist four planes of the United States Army in a flight around the earth, on which they are to leave this city April 1, were announced here by Captain F. G. Dodge, Division Commander of the Guard, with headquarters here. Two Coast Guard cutters are to help with the flight along the western Aleutian Islands and across to Japan, particularly in maintaining communication.

The last two stops that the planes are expected to make in the Aleutians are Atka Island, and Attu Island Neither of these is accessible to any telegraph or cable or wireless station. Leaving Attu Island the planes must make a jump to the Kuril Islands which form the northern tip of the Empire of Japan.

NERVOUS INDIGESTION

Some of Its Causes and How Relief May be Obtained.

Many people suffer from nervous indigestion. The commonest causes are worry, over-work, lack of exercise, or a general run down condition of the system. It is a disease of the nerves rather than of the digestive organs, and is corrected by giving needed nourishment to the nervous system and building up the blood.

The treatment consists largely in rest, recreation and the use of a true tonic such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In addition, the patient should follow a careful diet, and avoid coffee and stimulants, these being unsuitable for nervous people. As one's nerves rely for nourishment upon the blood, the latter must be built up and made rich and pure, which is just what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do. If there is loss of weight and pallor, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially helpful. Mrs. Adolphus Villeneuve, R.R. No. 2, Apple Hill, tells as follows how she obtained relief:—"I was so bad with nervous indigestion that I could not digest anything I took, and as a consequence was a great sufferer. I doctored for four months, but seemed to be getting worse instead of better. I lost strength to such an extent that I could hardly go about. Then my mother came to see me, and urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I followed her advice and got a supply at once. After taking a few boxes I felt my strength returning, and I continued their use, until at the end of a few months I could eat anything I desired and regained my old time health and strength, and was in every way a well woman. I am so thankful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me that I always advise their use when any of my friends are run down or ailing."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOAN TO HUNGARY IS PLEASED AT PROSPECT.

New Reconstruction Loan Will Help the Country.

BUDAPEST, February 23 (Canadian Press).—Count Stefan Bethlen, Prime Minister of Hungary, yesterday expressed high satisfaction over the decisions of the Reparations Commission in connection with the reconstruction loan to Hungary, as announced in Paris on Thursday night.

"I am glad to say that reconstruction in Hungary may be said to have begun," declared Count Bethlen, who added: "I do hope that Mr. Harding will soon arrive in Budapest."

Boards of Trade Want Discussion.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 23. — A meeting here of representatives of Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster Boards of Trade, and the Boards of municipalities comprising the Greater Vancouver area, passed a resolution favoring a conference of boards of trade throughout Canada holding a discussion on the country's economic situation "in view of the great and apparent necessity for reduced taxation."

Company Has Claims For Loss of Vessels.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23. — (Canadian Press).—The claims of several subsidiary companies of the British Empire Steel Corporation against Germany for loss of vessels during the war are being heard by Hon. William Fugsley, Commissioner, investigating illegal warfare claims.

French Paper Francs Are Still Acceptable.

PARIS, February 23 (Canadian Press). — French paper francs, regardless of their present depreciated value, have been held by the Court of Appeals to be legal tender for the payment of domestic contracts calling for gold.

The decision reverses one by the Civil Tribunal, which held that a landlord's contract called for payment of rent in gold or silver.

The Court of Appeals referred to the war-time law absolving the Bank of France from redeeming bank notes in gold, and ruled that citizens likewise had a right to pay their

TRADE REPORT FOR THE WEEK

Wholesale Trade Generally Steady — Retailers Picking Up.

WINNIPEG, February 23 (Canadian Press). — The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Limited, states:

Halifax — Wholesale trade reported steady. Retail business satisfactory, with some improvement over February of last year.

Montreal — Wholesale groceries somewhat quiet, but about normal. Wholesale hardware business satisfactory in shelf goods and builders' supplies. Wholesale boots and shoes fair with improvement, while in the drygoods lines the demand is fair and some improvement. Collection of groceries accounts a little better. Collection in hardware lines remain about the same. Retail trade generally is normal.

Toronto — Wholesale and retail trade somewhat dull, but future business is considered fairly promising. Demand for drygoods is not brisk, but reasonably good. Industry as a whole is regarded as healthy. Collections show a slight improvement over last week.

Winnipeg — Retailers generally confining purchases to current requirements. Orders small but fairly numerous Retail trade is only fair. Collections unchanged.

Regina — Reports indicate a slight improvements over previous week in wholesale trale Retail business was not very satisfactory. A slight improvement in collections.

Calgary — Trade in wholesale and retail lines is on the upward trend. Collections show improvement in current accounts, although old debts are still being liquidated slowly. The general atmosphere is one of confidence.

Vancouver — All lines of trade reported satisfactory. Improvement over last week especially in hardware lines. Retail business is improving and collections remain fairly good.

LOST FISHERMEN RESCUED AT SEA

Men Put Out to Sea in Fifty-Foot Motor Boat.

LUNENBURG, N.S., Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press)—The Lunenburg fishing schooner Hazel Myra, Captain Paul Myra, came into port yesterday with Richard F. Welsh and Daniel Shea, missing Newport, R.I., fishermen, safe on board. The two men had been missing since last Friday when they put out to sea in a 50 foot motor boat. Fears for their safety increased as the wind grew into a howling gale and swept along the coast at the rate of 65 miles an hour.

The Hazel Myra picked up the motor boat on Monday morning thirty two miles southeast of Rick Island The men were in a semi-conscious condition and were suffering from cold, exposure and hunger. They had had nothing to eat since Friday morning. They were taken aboard the schooner when it was first feared the rescue had come too late, but under care they arrived and when schooner made port this morning they had completely recovered.

LABOR CONVENTIONS BEFORE THE CABINET

Child Labor and Female Employment Before the Italian Cabinet.

ROME, Feb. 23. — (Canadian Press).—The cabinet to-day approved several Labor conventions, dealing principally with child labor and female employment. It also ratified several large appropriations for public works. These involved 500,000,000 lire for the constructions of roads in Calabria and 50,000,000 lire for improvements in the harbor of Venice. As 400,000,000 lire recently was voted for railroad work, it is expected that work for vast numbers of unemployed would be provided in this dull season, mostly farm labor and other seasonal trades.

NEWS OF WESTWOOD AND THE DISTRICT

WESTWOOD, Feb. 23.—A number of the friends and neighbors of Mrs. Veronica Fox gathered at her home last Friday evening and presented her with a beautiful chair. A very pleasant evening was spent, and on Monday several of the neighbors assisted in moving her to a new home in Norwood.

A shower of very many useful and costly gifts were given to Mr. and Mrs. James Weir of Westwood. A very pleasant evening was spent playing games and singing old songs.

Messrs. Sargent and Sons have sold their store building and are conducting a sale of their stock.

Mrs. G. A. L. Humphries has returned home after visiting friends in Toronto.

The ball which was to have been held on Friday evening has been postponed on account of the weather.

The skating rink has been well attended by the young people of the surrounding district.

On Saturday afternoon a hockey team from St. Helena will clash with the locals on the Westwood rink.

Mr. R. Dixon has sold his house in the village to Mrs. R. Thompson.

Mr. George Renwick is at Keene cutting ice for the Keene Creamery.

Mr. Wm. Thompson has been busy getting up a petition, to present to the County Council, asking them to have the Cardwell hill cut down.

A WARNING TO PARENTS.

The remarks made by the Coroner at Cornwall presiding over an inquest into the death of two children, aged two and four years, who lost their lives in a fire which destroyed their parents' home last week should contain a warning for Peterborough people who may be guilty of similar lack of thought.

Parents, the Coroner pointed out, are too careless in leaving their small children at home alone and in going out on business or pleasure, and such practices should be condemned.

Some effort should, in his opinion, be made to stop this tendency.

The jury brought in a verdict of death from suffocation, and severely condemned the habit of leaving children alone in their homes.

This is not going far enough.

Parents whose carelessness bring about the death of their children should surely be considered guilty of criminal negligence.

However, the Cornwall case should act as a warning.

Instances are not unknown in Peterborough of youngsters being left for hours by their parents, even in some cases it is reported being locked in their homes so that if a fire broke out the little ones would have small chance to escape, and would-be rescuers would find it almost impossible to get in.

There cannot be too strong condemnation for fathers and mothers who put their own pleasure above the safety of their children, and it is to be hoped that the story of the Cornwall tragedy will do away with the chances of a similar disaster here.

WHAT IS REALLY NEEDED.

The usual battle of figures is going on in the Legislature as rival speakers juggle statistics and perform striking feats of bookkeeping in an effort to prove how businesslike and economical their own particular party happens to be and how extravagant the administration carried on by the other fellow.

The man on the street is bewildered by the charges and counter-charges as the financial critics make the statistics lie down and play dead, jump through their fingers and perform other startling feats that well-trained figures can do at the command of the master mind.

Hon. Mr. Price shows a deficit of $15,000,000, for which he holds the Drury administration responsible.

Hon. Manning Doherty in turn retorts that the deficit is merely a bookkeeping one, and that Mr. Price's main object was to discredit the previous Government rather than to give an accurate survey of the financial condition of the Government.

Liberal speakers will criticize both the present Government and its predecessor, and the statistical controversy will be kept up for weeks without the average voter being any more accurately apprized of the real facts than he was before the Budget debate began.

All of which throws a strong light upon the necessity of a standard method of bookkeeping for Provincial use, and the presentation each year of a budget founded on a simple, clearly-defined basis that will enable the people to know just how their money has been expended.

There is so much variation in the present methods that it is no wonder the electors of the Province have difficulty in extracting the grain of truth from the chaff of the Budget speeches.

In the name of common sense, let us have a Budget that gets somewhere and tells something.

THE FIRE CHIEF'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

In the recommendations that accompany his annual report, Fire Chief Gimblett repeats his suggestions of last year that a bungalow fire hall be established in the south ward, and that a triple combination pumper be added to the equipment of the department.

Chief Gimblett has shown himself to be economical in his administration of his department, and the fact that after another year's study of the conditions, he has considered it necessary to again recommend a second fire hall and a triple pumper should cause his report to be seriously considered.

He is convinced that the efficacy of the brigade will be very greatly increased by the carrying out of these recommendations, and that the protection accorded the citizens against fires will be very materially increased.

There is a very strong case on behalf of the south ward fire station inasmuch as there were well over 400 fire alarms last year, and more than half of them came from that section of the city.

A detachment of the department situated there would afford greater protection to the manufacturing establishmens, as well as to the residences of that district, as it would ensure a quicker response, and at the same time the remainder of the city would also be better protected inasmuch as the whole fire fighting machinery would not necessarily be called out to the south ward as is frequently the case under present conditions.

The pumper recommended by the Chief has been used to advantage in a number of Ontario cities, and other departments are adding this piece of apparatus to their equipment, realizing that it is very powerful fire fighting instrument that adds greatly to the effectiveness of the department.

The Council may decide that the demand for economy precludes the possibility of carrying out Chief Gimblett's suggestion this year, but that does not alter the fact that the man entrusted with the protection of Peterborough against fire after mature consideration and a year's survey of the conditions considers it his duty to bring these matters to the attention of the City Council.

WHAT TUT DID NOT HAVE.

When King Tut's eyes, now mummified and black, last peered from his small boyish skull, he was ruler of the greatest civilization then on earth—excepting, possibly, China or India. Millions bowed to him, worshipped him as sacred.

If he could have opened his eyes the other day, he'd have beheld his once proud country impoverished, his mighty civilization buried in the dust, almost forgotten—and, around him, men of a strange white race, sweating, sleeves rolled up, calmly puffing cigarettes as they unpacked him under the glare of electric lamps.

It makes us wonder whether our own civilization will be gone and forgotten 3300 years from now, with Chinese scientists digging into our ruins and trying to "place" us in history.

All things come from the dust and to the dust return.

* * * *

The finding of King Tut in the Cave of a Thousand Wonders has added to our meagre knowledge of ancient Egyptian life.

In cold weather, Tut's only means of heating was a charcoal fire with poisonous fumes.

He had wash bowls with pails instead of a porcelain bathtub with running water.

No movies for Tut, no radio, little to read for diversion, no prompt news of far-off places.

On trips up the Nile, the fastest speed he could get was in a clumsy boat manned by rowing slaves.

On the desert, he had to ride a camel or travel in a roofed couch carried on the shoulders of slaves.

To go upstairs, he had to walk.

He'd probably have given half his kingdom for a flivver, a motorboat, a radio and an elevator.

* * * *

He lived in an age of disease and died young.

Ice was unknown.

Swift runners brought him humming-bird tongues and other delicacies.

But you go him one better when you phone the corner grocery to send you canned foods or fresh fruits and vegetables that come by express from hundreds or thousands of miles away.

We are all kings, viewed from ancient standards, in the matter of comforts and luxuries.

Some one has figured out that it would require 38 slaves such as King Tut had, for each of us, to do the work performed by machinery, the modern ruler.

IMMIGRATION.

Those of us who realize that immigration is the great need of tax-ridden, railway-burdened and sparsely populated Canada will never get very far in our effort to spur the various Dominion Governments into vigorous and well-organized campaigns for settlers unless we consider with open minds the attitude of those who think such effort unneeded and untimely.

President Moore of the Labor Congress appears to be of this opinion; and he gave some of his reasons for this attitude at the People's Forum last night. His argument in a word, is that "it is more logical, just and proper to keep our own people in Canada than to secure immigrants from Europe."

With this theory, surely no one has any quarrel. One Canadian kept at home is worth an indefinite number of strangers brought from alien surroundings and different political conditions to learn how to live in Canada. Even one alien—better still, one British subject from the Mother Country—who has spent a few years in Canada and has had that much "schooling" in fitting himself to our conditions of life, is far better than the same man just landed in Halifax or Quebec.

We should do everything we possible can to keep our own. If Mr. Moore knows of anything effective which the Governments are not doing, and which they might do, he has only to outline it, and he will get our heartiest support in pressing it on the Ministers. We are with him, heart and soul, on that point. The unceasing hemorrhage of "the exodus" is precisely one of the most serious—if not the most serious—reasons why an aggressive, intelligent and selective immigration policy has become for Canada a matter of life or death.

By all means, let us staunch the suicidal flow if we can.

* * * *

Mr. Moore seems to think that there are a lot of "out-of-works" in the cities who were drawn there some years ago by high wages and the "bright lights" who would gladly return to the land if they had the chance.

If this be true, the Government should immediately co-operate with Mr. Moore and his organization to seek out these families and rovide the most favorable terms on which they could at once take up farms and extend our area of cultivation. The money that it costs to bring an immigrant into Canada could be far better spent in re-settling a Canada-broke farmer on the soil.

But the men on the immigration job disagree with Mr. Moore. They think that there "is no such animal"—in any quantity—as a city man who can now go back and make a successful farmer. The chances are that he was not a very successful farmer when he left the job he knew, for the risks, confinement and loss of independence involved in taking a city wage. It is usually the men who either failed at or disliked farming who came to the city. If out of work just now, they might imagine they would prefer anything to starvation on a city street; but the chances against the sticking to the farm and making a success at it are surely appalling. Mr. Moore must be as fair in considering the other side of the question as in considering his own.

Nor will any dribble back from the cities solve our population problem. Our population must grow by the million if we are to carry our debt, make railways pay, balance our budgets and turn this nation back from the slippery path down to bankruptcy. We want more—far more—than mere shifting our people from one address to another. We want new people. —Montreal Star.

CHINESE RESTAURANT KEEPER FOUND DEAD

HULL, Que., Feb. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Charlie Joe, 34, a Chinese restaurant keeper, was found dead in his bed here last night with a bullet wound in his neck and the blankets pulled over his face. He had been dead for 24 hours. An automatic revolver, with one discharged shell in the chamber, was found in the bed. Charlie Joe, according to his assistants, had sold his business last month for fourteen hundred dollars, retaining part interest, and living in the restaurant's basement. He had intended returning to China soon. The police are investigating the case.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—Shipments to the Union Stock Yards this week were curtailed to some extent by the storm and the total cattle receipts for the four days were only 3016. It was quite in order under the circumstances that an advance in prices ensued and the belief that next weeks shipments will be light also encouraged some purchases. The extreme rise was limited to 50 cents a cwt. which occurred in the handy useful butchers. In other classes the advance ran to about 25 cents a cwt. The main improvement in the market, however, was the ease with which offerings were disposed of by comparison with the previous two or three weeks.

The exporters could have used more than they obtained, although they were confronted with a temporary embargo on stores and the strike of the English dock workers. With both these disposed of they are prepared to buy liberally next week. For export steers this week the price has been probably 25c a cwt. higher but length of time in the stable and finish are also matters to be considered. The top of $8.50 a cwt. was paid only for four loads, well finished and weighing around 14,000 lbs each. Other good loads sold at $8, and the addition of 20 cents a cwt. to the sellers. A few choice heifers were bought for overseas up to $8 a cwt. No stores were taken, but for cows the price was geneally $5 to $5.50, and for heavy bulls, $4 to $5.

For domestic butchering the demand was good and the average advance in all classes was easily 25 cents a cwt. For medium weight steers and heifers, 1100 to 1200 lbs., prices ruled from $7.25 to $7.75 a cwt. Good handy weight cattle made $5.75 and good mediums, $6 to $6.25. For light useful killers, $5.25 to $5.50 was paid, and common butchers with a show of fat, bought $4.75 to $5 a cwt. Butchers' cows did not show quite as much stength, and good cows sold at $4.50, and medium cows $3.75 a cwt. Cows just out of the canner and cutter class were $3 to $3.25 a cwt. Only a few rough stockers weer dealt in this week at $4.50 a cwt. The demand for springer cows was good at firm prices. The storm this week had badly tied up the country roads and next week's deliveries will certainly be heavy. There were no left overs this week and prices on Monday will doubtless be equal to those of this week end.

Calves firmed up again this week and choice ones sold at 13 cents with an odd one up to 14 cents. Good medium calves advanced from 10 to 11 cents, and common calves were better and up to 8 cents a pound.

Choice light lambs are having a good market and the first run of western lambs around 80 lbs each sold at 16 cents for the ewes. Domestic lambs of good quality and under 100 lbs. each, have made 15 cents for the ewes and wethers and $1-50 a cwt. less for the bucks. Sheep have been steady all week, with handy weights at 8 cents. Heavy sheep sell from 4 1-2 to 5 cts

Light runs of hogs have brought the price up 75 cents a cwt. above last week's low of $7 a cwt. f.o.b. Sales were made on Thusday at $7.75 a cwt., but it was hard to get the packers to admit that this was the case.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—An increase of 105 per cent. in the immigration to Canada is reported during the ten months ending January, 1924, as compared to the corresponding ten months ending January, 1923.

During the past ten months 129,022 immigrants of all nationalities have entered Canada. In the same period in 1922-23 only 82,849 persons entered the country as immigrants. Of the immigrants coming to this country during the past ten months, 85,171 were British, 18,129 were Americans and 45,722 were from other countries.

FLOUR COSTS MONEY ON MANITOBA BORDER

SAULT STE. MARIE, Feb. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Flour costs $30 to $50 a bag in Ontario's newest district, said Ernest Paice, warden of the Game and Fisheries Department, who has just returned from Patricia, where he took the law of Ontario for the first time to half-breed traders, fur companies and trappers. He was stationed at Island Lake, just inside the Manitoba boundary, where he collected royalties and license fees from trappers and traders on fur being taken out of Patricia into Manitoba.

For three months he lived in the wilds.

A Severe Attack Of Heart Trouble Wa Relieved By MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills

Mr. S. E. Barnes, Athens, Ont., writes:—"Four years ago I had a very severe attack of heart trouble. I consulted my doctor; he treated me for some time, but I only seemed to be getting worse. I finally went to our druggist and purchased three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and derived immediate relief from their use, and I can truthfully say they are a wonderful medicine. I always keep a box on hand, and if I feel out of sorts I take a few pills and feel all right again."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FRED HUESS WAS HANGED FOR KILLING HOLENBACK

REGINA, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Fred Huess was hanged here at 6.30 this morning for the murder of Gib. Holenback at Dollard, Sask., on June 23rd last.

The killing of Holenbacsk occurred about midnight at the close of a sports day at Dollard. Holenback was alone in his poolroom at the time and was about to get his money and go upstairs to his family when Leonard Staven, with whom Huess lived on a farm, first walked into the room and engaged Holenback in a conversation. Huess rushed in with his rifle and commanded both of them to hold up their hands. Staven obeyed but Holenback grappled with Huess. In the melee Holenbeck was shot through the heart and fell to the floor.

CHIEF EFFECT STOCK MARKET

Improvement in British Gilt-Edged Bonds Following Strike.

LONDON, Feb. 23. — (Canadian Press).—The chief effect on the stock market of the strike of the dockers this week has been to cause an improvement in British gilt-edged and other stock of like reputation. This obviously is due to fears of prolonged industrial disturbances which tend to drive capital into the safest channels securable, so perhaps it is not a feature upon which there is much ground for congratulation. Nevertheless the tone this week in the markets generally has been far from rocky, for all along there was an undercurrent of feeling that the dockers' strike would not be of long duration.

MERCHANT MARINE OF STATES MADE GAINS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23. — The privately owned fleet of the American Merchant Marine made a net gain of 13 ships, exclusive of tankers, aggregating 83,178 gross tons during 1923. It was shown in figures made public here by Shipping Board. The report covered only vessels of 1000 tons or more.

The increase brought the total number of vessels under private operation to 766, displacing 3,020,651 gross tons. Of the total tonnage under the American flag, 2385 vessels of 11,368,113 tons, including tankers, but exclusively of ships operated on the great lakes, the report showed the government owned 1288 of which 68.4 per cent. were idle on January 1st. Private operators owned 1097 of which 15.5 per cent. were unemployed.

ARE OPPOSING CHURCH UNION

Fight Opened Yesterday in Saskatchewan.

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Opponents of church union yesterday opened their offensive against the movement in Saskatchewan when their represetnatives appeared before the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature to lay thir case before that body while it has under consideration the Union Bill.

Those opposing union told the committee they challenged the right of Dr. Gandier to sign as petitioner, that the bill asked something contrary to the law of the land and against church law and that the issue would be fought through the courts to the Privy Council.

Not only would the consummation of organic union as the United Church of Canada fail to solve the present church problems, but it would precipitate a religious strife hitherto unknown in Canada.

Rev. W. F. McConnell, Toronto, sprung a mild sensation when he passionately claimed the non-unionists were in the majority in Canada, that another vote was denied to the opposing Presbyterians and that dissenting ministers were debarred from churches and thus prevented from airing their views on the issue. He challenged the authority for the staement by Dr. Murdock McKinnon, pastor of Knox church, Regina, that 95 per cent. of the adherents of the negotiating churches in Saskatchewan favored union and denied the right of any generation to alienate church property handed down in trust from one generation to another.

IRISH REPRESENTATIVE MAY GO TO WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Reports that the Irish Free State had asked permission to send a representative to Washington were said here today to have favorably impressed the Coolidge administration, providing the action of the Irish Government received the approval of the British Government.

The attitude of the Coolidge administration is said to be precisely the same as its view on the proposal that Canada send her own Minister.

When the proposal that Canada appoint her own Minister to handle the purely Canadian questions at Washington was first seriously advanced, administration officials expressed the view that this was purely a family affair to be settled between Ottawa and London. Ultimately, it is believed, that Canada will have a representative here, and that the Irish Free State and other self-governing British Dominions will be similarly represented.

ITALY ASSEMBLY HAS 179 SEATS.

The Figures in the Next Chamber Will Contain a Few Extremists.

ROME, Feb. 23.—(British United Press).—The attention of the whole country is at present focussed on the opposition tickets for the conquest of the 179 seats in the Assembly which the Italian electoral law reserves for the minority.

Judging by the advance information imparted by the Parliamentary experts, the figures in the next chamber will contain a few Extremists, probably only three or four Republicans. The Populists will constitute the strongest constitctional group in opposition. At present the Government is endeavoring to allot the largest majority of the minority seats to other constitutional groups, whose candidates are running on independent tickets. Probably a number of those who side with the Government ticket will be ceded election in several districts.

Naturally much depends on the attitude of the Fascist pools. While Premier Mussolini and other leaders favor the greatest freedom for the fote, it is probable that Fascist leaders in the small agricultural towns will run the elections in their own way.

According to present forecasts, the combined social parties will probably return to the chamber only 30 Deputies out of the 156 elected in 1919 and the 134 elected in 1921.

A more complete forecast is possible some time in the next four days, within which period all tickets must be presented.

DIFFERENT FORCES AT WAR IN INDIA.

Fourteen Were Killed and Thirty-Four Wounded Recently.

DELHI, India, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Fourteen Akalis, or Siks Fanatics, were killed and thirty-four wounded in a collision recently in the Siks State of Nabsa, between a force of Akalis and a party of Nabsa troops under British administration, according to advices just received.

According to reports enforced abdication of Masaraja of Nabsa State has been used for several months as a pretext for agitation. Former Masaraja refused to dissociate himself from the Punjab Shrines Committee and Akalis Dal, both anti-British organizations, both of which were declared illegal. The present trouble arose when five hundred armed Akalis, screened by six thousand other Akalis, raided Jaito in Nabas against the Administrator's orders.

The raiders were met by the Administrators with a force of Nabsa troops. Akalis opened fire, wounding villagers, and then the Administrator ordered his troops to fire six rounds, to which the raiders replied and then attacked the Nabsa forces. The attack was checked by dismounted cavalrymen, and subsequently the Akalis retired, leaving their killed and wounded and hundreds of prisoners.

A QUEBEC WOMAN IN MURDER TRIAL.

Shooting of Albert Turcotte Aired in Court Yesterday.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Mrs. Emeline Robillard of St. Sixte, Quebec, was yesterday committed to stand her trial at the March term of Hull Court of King's Bench, for the murder of Albert Turcotte, at her home on the night of February 9, by shooting him with a Snider rifle, when he was allegedly attempting to effect a forced entrance to the house.

Mrs. Robillard will have to remain in jail until bail is granted, application for which will be made on Monday in Montreal, before a judge of the Superior Court.

There were a number of witnesses examined at the preliminary trial, the testimony of most of them going to show that Mrs. Emiline Robillard had fired the fatal shot, through fear of Turcotte, when he was attempting to force his way into her home, and refused to desist, despite her threats to shoot.

Turcotte's reputation suffered by the testimony of Mrs. Jeremie Robillard, mother-in-law of the accused, to whose home Turcotte staggered after he had been shot, and who said that the deceased was a never do well, who seldom worked and the accused had gone in constant fear of him through his unwelcome attentions.

Mayor Narcisse Boivin, of Ste. Sixte testified that he had examined the door of the Robillard home after the inquest had been held and it showed signs of an attempt having been made to force it as the screws were loose in the receptacle for the latch. He expressed the opinion that a man of the stature of Turcotte could have forced the door by the application of his feet or knees with undue pressure.

Dr. Wilfred Derome, Quebec Provincial Criminal Analyst expressed the opinion that from the position of the bullet hole in the door and the wound in Turcottes body, he was satisfied that the deceased must have been standing upon the verendah of the Robillard home when he was shot. The shot had been fired at close range, and had been from a heavy calibre gun, the bullet having penetrated the body of the victim of the shooting with much force.

URGE CO-OPERATION WITH THE GERMANS

Winston Churchill Says Mutual Safety Depends Upon It.

LONDON, Feb. 22. — (Canadian Press)—Cooperaton of Great Britain France and Germany was urged lost night by Winston Spencer Churchill, speaking as chairman at a dinner given in honor of the United States Ambassador, Frank B. Kellogg and Mrs. Kellogg, by the English-speaking Union. Upon such cooperation, he declared depends their mutual safety and greater prosperity and the lasting peace of the world..

Mr. Churchill's speech, in which he chaffed James Henry Thomas, Labour Secretary for Colonies, who sat on the other side of Mr. Kellogg, was not made up of Anglo-American platitudes, as is sometimes the case. He frankly informed Ambassador that the men, women and children of Great Britain did not get down on their knees every morning and thank God for the terms of settlement of Great Britain's debt to the United States.

When he touched on such topics as the Washington Arms Conference and the Irish settlement, as a means of bringing about untarnished friendship across the Atlantic, he did it in an original way.. He intimated he had found, from his experiences as First Lord of the Admiralty, that when nations compete in arms, one building bigger guns, the next retaliating with heavier armament, to stop the bigger guns built mutual suspicion and rivalry were inevitable.

Grand Jury Presentment

In thanking your Lordship for the very clear and concise information you conveyed to us with reference to our duties and acknowledging with thanks the assistance given us by the learned crown attorney, we, the Grand Jury of the County of Peterborough, for the current period, beg to report we visited and inspected the following public institutions:

The court house, county gaol, St. Joseph's Hospital, House of Providence, Nicholl's Hospital, Nicholl's Memorial Hospital, Protestant Home, St. Vincents Orphanage and the Children's Shelter.

We are pleased to state that, in our opinion, these institutions are satisfactorily equipped, intelligently and capably managed and reflect credit on those responsible for their proper maintenance.

Owing to the very bad condition of the roads on account of snow, we regret being unable to visit and inspect the County house of refuge near Lakefield.

We beg to recommend proper alterations in the way of decorating and painting and a hardwood floor be made in Supreme Court Judge's anteschambers. The petit jury room should be painted and decorated. A communicating door should be made between the two rooms occupied by the police magistrate and pigeon holes placed in the vault. The solicitors' room should be redecorated and news locks with keys placed in the lockers.

ENTENCED TO HONEYMOON THIS COUNTRY

What Happened to a Plasterer Who Slipped Across the Line Some Months Ago.

RED TAPE UNWOUND.

PHILADELPHIA, February 23 (Special to The Examiner).—Cupid and an attorney yesterday untangled th snarl of immigration law red tape that had snarled Louis Molder and had threatened to carry him away from his wife, home, and relatives back to military service in Roumania untangled the snarl and made of the aforesaid red tape a lover's knot.

Molder now knows a great deal more about the immigration laws than he did on 12th anuary, 1922, when, as a Roumanian emigrant to Canada, he boarded a train at Montreal and rode blithely past immigration officers into Buffalo.

At that time he did not know his entry into the United States was unlawful. He wanted a job as a plasterer, could not find it in Canada, and merely went where he could find it.

A little more than a year ago he got that job, and living at 715 South Alden street, settled down to buy his home and to pay the expenses of his mother and two brothers to this country. Last Christmas he married Miss Sarah Zussman, born in this city, and he thought that his troubles were over.

They had scarcely started.

Some time before he had applied for naturalization papers. The agents learned of the method of his entry into this country.

"How come!" they marvelled.

Forthwith began voluminous correspondence between Montreal and Philadelphia, Buffalo and Philadelphia, Washington and Philadelphia, Gloucester City and Philadelphia. From archives, bureaus and offices issued yards of red tape.

A week ago Molden was summoned to Gloucester City and informed that although there seemed no precedent for his case there was nothing the United States could do but deport him to Rumania.

Molden had twelve reasons for not wanting to go back to Rumania. His home was one, his job another. He liked the United States—that was one more. His mother and two brothers were three more. If he returned to Rumania he would be drafted into the army for three years—reason No. 7. And his wife was the other five.

Paul M. Winthrob, Molden's counsel, returned from Washington yesday, having asked the Secretary of Labor for help. There it was agreed that Molden will be permitted to leave the country voluntarily. He and his wife depart in a few days for Canada. And next July, carefully circumspectly, and with all legal difficulties surmounted, they will return.

"I have been threatened with deportation and sentenced to a honeymoon," said Molden last night.

Now you can make your Rubbers and Overshoes LIKE NEW

It is the mud, slush and wet snow that wear the shine off your rubbers—they look a dingy grey color—and then sooner or later, they crack. With NU-RUBBER you can replace the protecting shine. Nu-Rubber is easy to apply. Just use the sponge and go all over the rubber with the polish. It dries quickly and your rubbers are like new. Any good dealer can supply you.

"OVERSHOE DRESSING" makes the cloth uppers of overshoes just like new—the original natural finish replaces the worn greyish appearance.

"Health Is After All Your Biggest Asset"

EXCESSIVE mental strain—worries and anxieties consequent on the ups and downs of business—

The difficulties in estimating what the future holds in store—

These are some of the causes which have hastened the end for many prominent men during recent years:

Employer and employee alike have been subjected to greater strain of brain and nerves than ever before.

Too often the value of guarding the health has been overlooked and the results are a warning to the survivors to remember that health after all is our biggest asset.

It is comparatively easy to restore the exhausted nerves by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food provided treatment is begun in reasonable time.

When digestion breaks down—when you cannot rest or sleep—when you find yourself nervous and irritable you may be sure it is time to ease up and begin the use of this restorative treatment.

The brain and nerve cells are not getting proper nutrition. Nor will they so long as too much nervous energy is wasted in worry and anxiety and too little left to control the organs of digestion.

There is no magical way in which the depleted nerve cells can be restored.

They must be patiently nourished back to health and strength.

This restorative process is best brought about by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This has been proven in so many thousands of cases that evidence is to be found in almost every community. Ask your friends and be master of your health by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been increased to 60c. the box now contains 60 pills instead of 50 as formerly.

Likewise Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are 35c. for 35 pills, instead of 25c. for 25 pills.

BRITISH EMPIRE STEEL CORPORATION STATEMENT

Company Had a Good Year—The Labor Unrest.

MONTREAL, Feb 23.—(Canadian Press).—In his report to shareholders accompanying the annual financial statement of the British Empire Steel Corporation, given out here to-day, President R. M. Wolvin, stated that "the results of the operations of the constituent companies were more satisfactory in every way then they were in the previous year. The output of coal was increased to 57,325 tons. This increase was general and was not confined to any particular operation. A considerable part was due to greater activity in the iron and steel trade."

Making reference to industrial unrest in Nova Scotia Mr. Wolvin says "the necessity for readjustment of wages due to the change in conditions of industry has caused a larger amount of unrest than usual amongst wage earners everywhere and your companies have had their full share of difficulty in connection with the problems which have arisen from this cause. During the past year two serious disturbances occurred which were the cause of much loss to both the companies and thtir employees. Your directors are hopeful that better conditions have now been established and that hereafter more sympathetic relations will exist between the management and the working forces."

THE COACH'S JOB

Something of the taskmaster, the general and the diplomat, and a lot of the doctor must be hidden away in the man who would be the coach of a successful football or track team.

Emergencies of all kinds are his daily routine. A thorough knowledge of first aid is as essential as a knowledge of the game played by his men.

Bumps, bruises, strained ligaments and muscles are every day happenings, but the coach never becomes contemptuous of them. He knows that if neglected, they may result in anything.

Trainers everywhere keep Absorbine Jr. in their lockers. They use it not only for sprains, cuts and bruises, but for the skin and blood protection of its disinfecting properties. In one convenient container it combines the functions of a number of preparations.

It is the first of all the First Aid requisites in use in all of the leading athletic clubs.

And there are just as many everyday uses for Absorbine Jr. in the homes of Canada as there are in the training camps. Always keep it in the home where you can "jump to it" in case of emergency. $1.25 at your druggist.

OFFICIALS APPROVE OF WHOLE VIADUCT SCHEME

TORONTO, February 23 (Canadian Press) — Reports on the alternative scheme put forward last year by the railway companies for the solution of Toronto's water front problem made by the engineers of the City and Harbour Commission, were presented those bodies yesterday.

The decisions reached are practically identical, as the officials say they are convinced the whole viaduct scheme is the best in every way, and they recommend that the substitute scheme of the railways be rejected.

The railways proposed building a bridge at the principal intersections in the central portion of the downtown sections where tracks intervene.

He Suffered For Three Years

Then Mr. John Jensen Used Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Saskatchewan farmer suffered from backache and stiffness in the joints and was restored to good health by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Eddyside, Sask., Feb. 22.—(Special).—"For about three years I have suffered from backache and stiffness in my joints. I did not sleep well and had very little appettie in the mornings. I took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and have found that they did me a lot of good."

This statement is made by Mr. J. Jensen, well known in this place.

Mr. Jensen's troubles were caused by the kidneys. That's why he got such prompt relief from Dodd"s Kidney Pills, for they act only on the kidneys.

When the kidneys are not right, they fail to do their full work of straining all the impurities, all the seeds of disease, and of the blood. There can be no pure blood if the kidneys are wrong. There can be no good health unless the blood is pure.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the sovereign remedy for sick kidneys.

NAME SOUTH CENTRAL FOR TECHNICAL WORK

Proposal of Board of Education Deputation is Well Received by Minister -- To Inspect Building.

The deputation representing the Board of Education which visited Hon. G. Howard Ferguson yesterday in his role of Minister of Education was well received with its proposal to take over South Central School for vocational training purposes. The Minister of Education and the director of technical training who also heard the deputation, were sympathetic toward the proposition and promised to have the building inspected in order to judge of the merits of the proposal.

South Central School was vacated when the accommodation became inadequate, and Prince of Wales' School was built to accommodate the public school pupils who had been attending South Central. The building is in a good state of repair, except the heating and ventilating arrangements, which are out of date.

The deputation consisted of J. M. Greene, chairman of the Board of Education; E. Bruce Fowler and Mrs. W. R. Morris of the Board of Education, and G. A. Gillespie of the Advisory Vocational Committee.

Kiwanis Club Held At Home

Last evening, the entertainment committee of the Kiwanis Club were at home at an evening of cards and dancing in the big upper class-room of the Peterboro Business College, when members and those who assisted in the recent Kiwanis Revue, to the number of about a hundred, spent a very jolly evening. The big room was lavishly decorated with gay bunting and hung with dozens of overhead pennants. Carl McCarthy, at the piano, provided good music for dancing. A number of the guests played cards at side tables, the prizes going to Mrs. C. S. Cummer and Mr. J. Chadwick. A feature of the evening was a real old-fashioned square dance, with Alex. Dick "calling off." Mr. Dick also led the singing of the favorite "Alouette" chorus, and Mr. M. B. Chenhall, at the piano, supplied accompaniment for other efforts in the community singing line. A reception committee of ladies was composed of the wives of the president, the vice-president and the past president: Mrs. J. Marshall, Mrs. C. Cook and Mrs. J. A. McKone.

Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Chenhall, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wearing, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. R. Mackey, Mr. and Mrs. H. SNOW BLOCKADE HAS TAUGHT ONE LESSON

Railroads in this district have succeeded in digging themselves out of the snow drifts that held up traffic during the past week, and all trains are running on schedule time. The old C. N. R. road from Millbrook is having attention from the snow plow to-day, and all other sections are reported fairly clear of snow.

Farmers on the local market this morning declared they had never travelled worse roads, and from indications around the stove in the market hall it seems probable that a goodly-sized petition will be presented to the County Council in June, asking the abolishment of snake and rail fences. The opinion was unanimously expressed that the roads are clear only where wire fences border them, and that the rail fences hold the snow and pile it up —one man said ten feet.

QUEEN'S DROP A GAME HERE

Local Basketball Team Had No Difficulty in Winning.

The tri-colour of Queen's dipped in defeat last evening when, in a basketball game of the O.A.B.A. series, played on the local floor, the Universitys' seconds went down for a 34 to 17 count at the hands of the Peterborough intermediates.

Queens' had their score doubled on them, but they went down fighting every inch of the way and this game is another example of a game with play about equal, when one team finally breaks out in front to pile up a lead. At one time in the second period the score stood, Petes 16, Queen's 15, and right then the tri-colour was going great guns and was putting a real scare into the blue and white supporters. But the Petes' defence tightened and their forwards broke loose and ran in 18 points.

Queen's have a nifty team, and on their own floor will certainly be a hard nut to crack, and the Petes did well to put forth supreme efforts to pile up a lead to carry to the Limestone city. They have a smooth-working combination and when not checked closely worked right in under the basket to pile up a score. Ada and Neugill were their marksmen and they both have an accurate shot.

The Petes' play worked smoothly except for rare intervals when the visitors' combination flashed back and forth. "Spot" Stuart, Rus. Pogue and Charlie Elliott did most of the scoring for the locals, but the whole team combined nicely. The locals used strong defensive tactics which upset many of the Queen's plays.

First Period.

The University boys started right from the shrill of the whistle and had the first shots at the basket. The locals took a hand in the play, but Neugill scored the first point of the game on a foul shot. But the Petes were not to be denied and Rus. Pogue rang in the first basket from well out. Ada put Queen's in front when he scored immediately on a smooth combination play. The Petes then went on a rampage and rang in 14 points in a row. A two minutes rest was given and this seemed to refresh the college boys, for they came back to add six points to their score and hold the locals scoreless. The period ended, Queen's 9, Peterborough 16.

Second Period.

The tri-colour continued to predominate the play and they ran in six points and had the local fans gaspingly staring at a 16 to 15 score. But the Petes' stock went up when Elliot scored two nice baskets and began to press the visitors back on the deefnsive. "Hip" Hardill rang in the most sensational shot of the evening on a long throw from past centre. The game tightened, with close checking and a number of fouls were called on both teams, but the free shots mostly went hunting. Elliott scored for the Petes and then Pogue, Stuart and Elliott came back with one apiece. Queen's got a point on a foul by Neugill. More fouls followed but the free shots did not alter the score until De Graw made one point. Graham added one for Queen's on a foul.

The game opened out for the remainder of the game and flashed from basket to basket.

BOXING MOGULS AFTER PROMOTER

Charges Against Tex Rickard Will Be Heard on Tuesday.

NEW YORK, February 23 (Canadian Press). — Charges that Tex Rickard has acted in collusion during the seat sale of the Dempsey-Firpo fight will be considered next Tuesday by the State Athletic Commission, Chairman George E. Brower said yesterday.

Attaches of the Commission are gathering data concerning the case to be presented to the Commission next week.

Chairman Brower was not prepared to forecast the Commission's action, because he was not familiar with the facts, but he said that if next week's meeting brought out the substantiation of the charges made by Tom O'Rourke, offenders will be punished and possible criminal action taken.

Rickard yesterday reiterated a general denial of all O'Rourke's charges, and said he was preparing a further statement to be presented before the Commission next week.

Asked whether Rickard would be called before the Commission on Tuesday, Chairman Brower said he did not think so, as a detailed report of the disposition of all tickets for the Dempsey-Firpo fight had season has been mailed out to the been made by Rickard to the Commission.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made the revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion; if you are likewise fond of the table, and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward ave., Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) one dollar. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat steadily and easily. Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless, but really beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully, and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

YOUNGER PETES FULL OF FIGHT

Go to Whitby on Monday With Their Four-Goal Lead As Before and Bring Home the Bacon.

The Young Petes will evade Whitby on Monday to clash with the Bowmanville team. The game played on Wednesday last in which Bowmanville won by the score of 5-1, was thrown out on account of the crowd breaking up the game. The Petes will have their four goal lead, as before, to take with them and on the larger ice surface in Whitby, with police protection the Petes are confident of bringing home the bacon. Referee Jacobi of Toronto will handle the bell and if he is the same as when he refereed other Peterboro games he will get everything.

Had it not been for the Peterboro management writing a request to the O.H.A. to have another game to decide the winner the Bowmanville team would have most likely been thrown out. The Petes were figuring on the game being played in Port Hope and were preparing to run a special, carrying a bunch of fighters, but Whitby is too far to run a special and this is all off.

The winner of this group will play the winner between Kingston and Belleville on Wednesday and Friday of next week. If Bowmanville by chance happens to win the round which is not likey they will will not be allowed to play their home games in Bowmanville. These would have to be played in Oshawa or Whitby. While if the Petes win they will be seen in action against the winners of the Belleville Kingston play-off on the Brock street rink, most likely on Wednesday.

JOHNSON-SMITH BOUT IS NAMED BIG BURLESQUE

Smith Went Down for Nine Without Being Hard Hit and Johnson Ogled the Crowd--Booing Was General.

"COLOSSAL FAKE"

MONTREAL, Feb. 23.— (Canadian Press.)—Jack Johnson, former world's champion, was given the judges' decision over Homer Smith of Kalamazoo, Mich., here last night.

Commenting on the Johnson-Smith bout, the Gazette says:

"A 'colossal burlesque' was almost the general expression of opinion of five thousand people, as they wended their way out of St. Dennis Theatre at the conclusion of the Johnson-Homer Smith bout.

"While Smith, who took the count of nine on several occasions without apparently being hard hit, was figuring the best way out of the bout, Johnson was devoting his greatest efforts to smiling at the crowd, while he was wrestling his opponent about the ring and hugging him in clinches.

"A booing demonstration broke forth after the third round, and from then until the finish the theatre was in an uproar, the crowd calling "fake," "throw them out of the ring," and bawling at the commission representative to hold their money or make them box. When the men returned to their corners at the conclusion of each scheduled three minutes the crowd hissed and booed in a manner that has been only equalled on one occasion in the past twelve years in Montreal."

"Kid" Dube, of Quebec City, 137 pounds, was awarded the decision over Wally Hopgood, Toronto, 134 1-2 pounds, in a six round bout.

KING EDWARD SHOWER WAS WELL ATTENDED

A cup and saucer shower for the King Edward Home and School Association yesterday proved a very well-attended event. It was held at the home of the president, Mrs. J. J. Pollock, Perry street, from three to six o'clock, and a large number of cups and saucers were presented by the ladies in attendance. The social committee in charge of arrangements was composed of Mesdames F. White (convenor), McLeod, Outram and Reynolds. A sale of home-made candy was in charge of Mesdames Price and Allen. During the afternoon, enjoyable instrumental selections were given by Mrs. Cowan and Miss May Pollock.

STOP IT!

Why Cough Your Head Off

Make Your Own Cough Mixture for the Whole Family and Save Money. It's Easy.

When you can make in your own home a wonderful cough mixture far ahead of any you can buy ready made, why not do it?

This home made mixture will stop the most stubborn cough and is fine for chest colds and acute catarrh. Children love it.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make half a pint—that's all there is to it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

Any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

R. BAMFORTH'S LECTURE WAS VERY INTERESTING

At Mark street Methodist church last evening, there was a good attendance for the lecture given by the Rev. R. Bamforth, B.A., on "Four Months in a Western Mining Town.' Mr. J. E. Adams acted as chairman.

Rev. Mr. Bamforth's lecture was an interesting recital of his experiences during four months spent in the capacity of preacher in a western mining town while still a student at college. The lecture was full of humour, with the serious and tragical side also of life in a rough mining town brought out in a splendid manner. The speaker related in characteristic fashion his observance of the seamy and funny aspects of life, as gleaned from his experience in the small Western States town of Biwabic.

VERDICT OF THE JURY

with the rifle across his arm.

The only mistake Schell made was in going out of the bush and telling a wrong story. He and his doctor testified that a sudden noise would give him a headache. Is it any wonder that the piercing shriek of MacNeal sent him flying from the camp beside himself?

His condition was aggravated by his subsequently being lost. He knew nothing but to tell the one big thing—that Roy MacNeal's father was dead in the camp.

Quoting from a speech by Lord Cowper, the defence counsel told the jury: "The wisdom and goodness of our law appears in nothing more remarkably than in the perspicuity, certainty and clearness of the evidence it requires to fix a crime upon any man, whereby his life, his liberty, or his property can be concerned; herein we glory and pride ourselves, and are justly the envy of all our neighbor nations. Our law, in such cases, requires evidence so clear and convincing, that every bystander, the instant he hears it, must be fully satisfied of the truth and certainty of it. It admits of no surmises, innuendoes ,forced consequences, or harsh constructions, nor anything else to be offered as evidence, but what is real and substantial, according to the rules of natural justice and equity."

In concluding an address of great merit, lucidity and oratorical skill, the accused's counsel told a story representing Christ declaring He trusted the men on earth and left the carrying on of His work to them.

"Gentlemen of the jury, there stands John Schell, a man of 71 years of age, charged at the bar of justice with the crime of murder of his companion. You have heard all the evidence we have to present in his behalf. He trusts you."

The Crown Prosecutor

A. B. Cunningham, K.C., Crown prosecutor, opened his address with a compliment to the council for the defence. "You must have admired the zeal with which he has presented his defence," he said. "There is one criticism of the defence. I would like to make. In my opinion I think we have had altogether too much expert testimony. I think some of the theories advanced by the defence are so far fetched that the defence counsel has found it necessary to bolster them up by calling experts or so-called experts or alleged experts to found theories that should have been left to the jury."

The crown prosecutor challenged the evidence of the rifle expert and of the expert surveyor in some particulars, asking the jury to make practical tests with the trigger pull of the rifle and the range of vision through the bullet hole in the wall of the shack.

He also asked the jury to take the section of tree containing the bullet hole remove the nails and test whether at a distance of 65 feet the hole could be seen.

"For what occurred after 5 o'clock on the Saturday we have only Schell's evidence. He is the only man alive on earth who knows what happened in that shack.

If you believe what he said in the witness box, then it is your duty to bring in an acquittal."

The crown prosecutor cast doubt upon whether Schell could have become lost in the woods where he had lived 55 years.

He concluded his address at 3:25.

Summing Up

"This is an important case and requires your best consideration," Mr. Justice Mowat said in summing up.

"This case has been presented to you in an admirable manner by the Crown prosecutor who represents the law and government of the Province. It seems to me the Crown prosecutor has taken a proper view of his duties and has not taken a partizan attitude. He has made fair statements to you and has not pressed his case unduly.

"The crown prosecutor has made his case, but he has tempered it with fairness. The crown does not seek vengeance.

"The counsel for the defence has shown that he is a capable counsel. He is there to defend his man and is entitled to bring the smallest shred of evidence before you in hope that it might turn your mind in favor of his client. The defence has been most assiduous in getting anything that might help in any way and he has done it so well that I think we can prophesy that he will take his place among the leaders.

"A clever and ingenious defence must not cloud our decision, however.

"Here we have two men in a lonely shack. If one of them was shot to death by another person, that person was guilty of a revolting crime. It is for you to find whether the accused is that person.

"The alternative is that the deceased did not come to his death at the hands of another.

"It is because this was only known to two persons, one of them dead, that the crown was driven to import circumstantial evidence.

"I fancy you will find that most men who have studied the question believe that circumstantial evidence is at times as useful as direct evidence.

"A man may be deceived as to what he sees or touches and may be wrong. Were it not for the circumstances surrounding a case many an offender would get off free. There are any number of cases where guilt has been brought home to a man by circumstances, especially where there seems to be a desire for evasion.

"If you believe the evidence of the accused under oath, he is just as worthy of credence as any other man.

"If the deceased jumped up and down and repeated these words, 'I've got you now,' does that indicate that the deceased, who had drunk as much as MacNeal evidently had in his life time was rendered irresponsible by the two drinks he had? Or was that statement made by the accused to show MacNeal was not himself?

"Then there is the piercing shriek, which is called the death shriek. According to the evidence that is scarcely believable because the shock from the wound is a diminution of vitality. A man who is in that extreme state before death would not have vitality to utter a shriek. He says he did.

"Somebody shot George MacNeal and there was a duty raised to tell others. He says he got lost and that is the reason he took seven or eight hours to get to Lambert's. That time has to be accounted for.

"If this was simply the act of the deceased there was nothing in that to raise a guilty conscience in Schell.

"In each place he visited he told a lie. He says nothing of the shooting, but declares MacNeal died of cramp. That cannot be passed over without consideration.

The shooting is really only discovered when Roy gets George to go for the body. Then really they thought it was a rupture and not until the coroner examined the body was it found that the wound was caused by a bullet.

Praises Police Force

"My opinion of the police constables is that they were speaking honestly.

"This new force, if it is all composed of men like these who testified before you, gives great promise of being a credit to the province.

"They say Schell was eager to talk. He gave several contradictory statements.

"The theory is that the deceased man reached over the top bunk and seized the rifle, dragging it from its rack, drew back the hammer, that must have come down from an elevation of about five feet to a level of his hip bone which would be about three feet down. Then there is the absence of evidence that the trigger was pulled. It is a theory. If it was a suicide, then he might have pulled the trigger himself. That, too, is a theory.

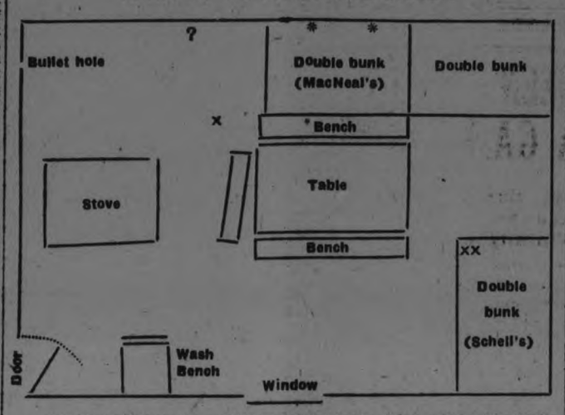
"The theory of suicide is difficult to believe. To shoot into the abdomen, not knowing what would happen, is the action of a maniac.

"There are a lot of puzzling things about this case.

"It is difficult to account for the bullet passing through the man with a slight upward tendency to rise sufficiently to pass through a hole five feet high in the wall in a space of eight feet. It must have been describing a regular curve."

The case was delivered to the jury at 4:15.

PLAN OF THE HUNTING SHACK



The X indicates the position of the blood stains where MacNeal's body was found. The police theory was that the shot was fired from XX striking MacNeal when he was standing on the bench leaning over his bunk. The rifle racks from which the defence claimed MacNeal dragged the rifle when it exploded are marked * *. MacNeal, according to the defence, was standing at ?.

Advises People to Relieve Constipation Without Drugs—Suffered Ten Years, Well in Three Weeks By Internal Bathing.

Did you ever hear of a person being permanently relieved of chronic constipation with drugs? They help temporarily, but larger doses are necessary from time to time. Nature's own remedy, just pure sterilized water, administered with the J. B. L. Cascade, is the only scientific and permanent treatment. Don't force Nature with drugs. Bathe internally.

Mrs. A. McLeod, Middleboro', B.C., writes: "For ten years I suffered from constipation, and for the last year I became a wreck. I had awful pains in my back, severe headaches, indigestion and swollen limbs. I tried all kinds of medicine, and many doctors without permanent relief. It was an act of Providence that I saw the J. B.L. Cascade advertised. The first time I used it I felt relieved, and in three weeks I was completely cured. My habits are now quite regular, and am in better health than I have been for years. I am very thankful to be doing my own work again."

The J.B.L. Cascade is the perfected invention of Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York for Internal Bathing. It is now being shown and explained at Warne Drug Company.

PARLIAMENT ASKED TO SHORTEN DEBATE

Open Letter From Confederation of French Production.

PARIS, Feb. 23. — (Canadian Press).—Parliament has been asked to cut short the debate on Premier Poincare's taxation plans, and to take an early vote on the Premier's programme. The request is contained in an open letter sent by the General Confederation of French production, representing scores of industries and federations of business men. It was addressed to all the senators and members of the Chamber of Deputies.

The letter says the fall in the value of the franc has revealed the peril of continuing with an unbalanced budget, and that as faulty and incomplete as the proposed measures of the Premier are, the chief need is immediate action. Parliament is reminded in the letter that business must bear the burden and that therefore it ought to be listened to.

SOUTH AFRICA BUYS RAILS FROM GERMANY.

Lowest English Tender Could Not Compete.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Feb. 23.—(Canadain Press Cable via Reuters.)—In the Union house of assembly yesterday, Hon. John W. Jagger, minister of railways gave details of orders for rails placed with German, French and Belgian firms to the extent of £147,325. The lowest English tender was £191,520. The minister added that he had just received a cable communicating other English tenders which were the lowest received. This in the minister's opinion showed the effect of competition.

FATHER DEMANDS AN ENQUIRY NOW

R. M. C. Commandant Recommends An Investigation Under Oath.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 23.—Major General Sir A. C. MacDonell, commandant of the Royal Military College, announced yesterday that he had received a letter from Major F. G. Arnold, D.S.O., of Regina, demanding an investigation of the treatment which his son, F. L. M. Arnold, who left the college without leave February 5th, received while a cadet. General MacDonell has forwarded the letter to the Department of Militia and Defence with the request that an investigation be held and that it be conducted under oath. The General is especially anxious, if an investigation be held, that a special effort be made to secure the attendance of ex-Cadet Arnold, who is said to be in New York City.

Arnold deserted after a beating with a swagger stick by one of the senior men as the result of a sentenced imposed on him for an alleged mis-statement of fact. Being struck twelve times on a sensitive portion of ones' anatomy with a cane wielded by an able-bodied soldier may not be regared as serious by onlookers, but it was probably a painful and undignified position for the young cadet to be placed in.

To-day it is stated that a council may be selected and commissioned to take the evidence of all and sundry, and young Arnold may appear or he may not. In any event Cadet Arnold's relatives here have expressed the intention of having legal counsel in the case should Arnold come back for examination. The fear is expressed that with the domination of officials, those who might oppose them or put obstacles in their way might not fare well.

Lad Will Be Protected.

Sir A. C. MacDonell, the commandant, states that Arnold will be given every protection a nd privilege. The General states that he took more than an ordinary interest in the boy on account of being a personal friend of his father, Major Arnold, and this is borne out by Major Aronld's refusal to believe, until evidence shall prove otherwise, that General MacDonell would allow or condone anything that would reflect upon the honor or dignity of the Royal Military College.

It is stated that the matter of Arnold's disappearance and the sentences imposed by the presiding officer at the trial would be brought before the Minister of Militia, as the incident is without precedent in the military annals of not only the College, but of all Canadian military institutions.

Had Splendid Standing.

Major-General MacDonell states that he would not have sent out search parties after Arnold had it not been that he was interested in the boy.

Young Arnold had a splendid standing in the class. He entered the Royal Military Colleeg in September last, and had just turned 17. His report for the end of the year shows percentages from 67 to 95. Out of a class of 67 he stood second in one, seventh in another, ninth in a third and fourteenth in the fourth. The remarks put on reports sent forward to his parents show that the commandant regarded him "highly. The reports stated: "Excellent. Very good report. Hard worker and a trier. Should make a success. Is a good sportsman. Graded 'B2' in riding drill and musketry; 'C in physical training. Regarded a sharp and cheerful by his company commander.'

Money With Grandmother.

With this record for four months, during which time he was ill in the hospital for three weeks with appendicitis, and for a month with a sore knee, Cadet Frank Arnold was looked upon as a bright light.

Commandant MacDonell stated that he was under the impression that young Arnold had plenty of money when he left, but inquiry shows that the $140 sent to him was still at his grandmother's in this city, where it remained after he went away.

There is some criticism over the promise of the college authorities to give a sworn trial. It has been intimated that Col. Anderson, one of the college staff, would probably be president of the military council called to make investigation. This in practical terms, "is the staff of the military college appointed to investigate itself."

EXPERTS STILL BUSY WITH GERMAN SCHEME.

Will Discuss Railway Problems at To-Day's Session.

PARIS, Feb. 23. — Canadian Press —Reginald McKenna's committee of experts to-day definitely finished its task of estimating amount of German capital that has been placed abroad, and then adjourned until March 3rd when it will begin to formulate its ideas for attracting this capital back to Germany. This delay is necessary as the committee must await the completion of the conclusions of the Dawes' committee in order to thoroughly coordinate the joint full report.

The latter committee devoted yesterday to the hearing of the railway experts reports on Germa.. Railway systems and to-day will discuss these with the railroad specialties.

The two sub-committees on the proposed German gold bank and on the German budget have presented their preliminary conclusions, and their ideas will be considered at a full meeting next week.

NEW HAMBURG 3, LONDON 2.

LONDON, Ont, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—New Hamburg won the first game of the senior Northern Hockey League series played at the New Arena last night, defeating the London A.A.A. sextette by a score of 3 to 2. VARSITY JUNIORS WERE ELIMINATED

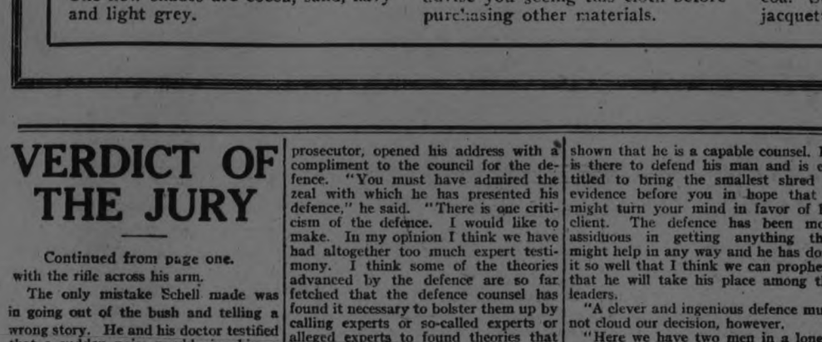
OWEN SOUND, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Owen Sound Greys eliminated University of Toronto thirds from O.H.A. Junior race here last night, defeating the visitors 5 to 0 and winning the round 12 to 3. Students were always trying, and they had a greater share of the play here than in the game at Toronto.

FALLS DEFEATED MILTON

NIAGARA, Feb. 23.)(Canadian Press).—As expected. Niagara Falls intermediates had an easy time eliminating Milton in the O.H.A. second round game here last night, defeating the visitors 6-2, making the score on the round 9-2. The game was a one-sided affair, the home team gaining possession of the rubber almost at will.



What "Semi-trimmed" means to you

THINK of it! At last the troublesome part of paper-hanging has been eliminated—a job of papering can now be done in quicker time, with less disorder, and at considerably less cost than ever before.

Semi-trimming is the achievement of a century in wall-paper manufacture. In course of printing, the selvage is cut for you. It does not need to be removed by scissors or knife and straight-edge. You simply give the ends of the roll a rap on table or floor and the selvage falls off. Think what it means to you to save the time of trimming and to save the litter of sticky selvages. What is more, you are assured of perfect results. Being cut at the correct place, Staunton Semi-Trimmed Wallpaper is easily matched, and looks like one piece on the wall. There is no spoilage through incorrect trimming, either.

All who hang wallpaper will find it to their advantage to use Staunton Semi-Trimmed Wallpaper. It saves Time—Labor—Money.

Ask your dealer to show you the patterns.

INVENTED BY A CANADIAN

The Staunton factory has been making wallpaper since 1856—a long time for a Canadian manufacturing concern to have existed.

The semi-trimming process—invented by a Canadian—was developed and perfected by Stauntons Limited, who hold exclusive rights for manufacturing semi-trimmed wallpaper.

The 1923-4 Staunton line surpasses everything previously manufactured in the decorative capabilities of the goods and in the beauty of its range.

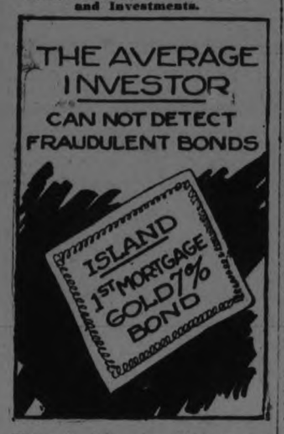
MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

THE AVERAGE INVESTOR CAN NOT DETECT FRAUDULENT BONDS



There is just one thing to remember when it comes to purchasing securities from strangers. Don't!

Securities should always be purchased from a reliable broker, bond house, or bank, and not from the first individual or concern which happens to offer them, no matter how good the security may appear to be. Many times the average investor who buys from strangers gets a bond which looks all right to him but is really valueless.

For instance, the bonds of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company of Iowa are on the old property which lost all value in the reorganization of the company some years ago. The average investor has no method of knowing that from the certificate, and he would have to resort to a keen memory if he depended upon himself alone in purchasing those bonds.

ALL SAINTS HELD A TEA AND SMALL SALE

The Womens' Guild of All Saints' Church were hostesses Thursday afternoon and evening at a tea and sale of home-made cooking and candy, held in the Rectory on Charlotte street, with a very good attendance during the afternoon and evening. The guests wee received by the president of the Guild, Mrs. P. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Jos. Crowe, assisted by Mrs. E. Cooney. The dining room was in charge of Mrs. Robt. Cottrell. Mrs. A. A. ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A RIDDLE WITH A POINT

And though your head's so very small.

"Nancy," said the Riddle Lady next day, "will you please read this riddle for me? I have such a bad cold, I'm afraid that nobody can hear me. I don't believe there are any very hard words, or rather I mean I believe there aren't any. Here!"

Nancy took the paper and got on a platform and read the riddle to all the Riddle Land people and Mother Goose people. She had guessed it before she was half through reading, but she couldn't stop in the middle and tell the answer. That wouldn't have been fair. This was it:

"You hold the cloaks of queens and kings,
And fasten shut all sorts of things,
From baby's bib and pinafore,
To cook's old dress that Rover tore.

"You hold together Bobby's cuff,
The button's off—he's very rough!
You mark the place in Mary's hem
To let it down—she's grown again.

"You hold the stin into place
While Mother drapes a piece of lace,
Or if she wears a posy gay,
She slips you in to make it stay.

"You hold up many a curtain frill,
To keep it off the window sill,
When Ellen dusts and cleans and sweeps,
And shoes the dirt all out in heaps.

"You hold the calendar on the wall,
That tells the months and dates 'n' all,
Or keep the arm on Peggy Jane—
Her glue all melted in the rain!

"But when you're in your cushion bed,
All covered up except your head,
It must be stacks and stacks of fun
To tell the others all you've done!

"And though your head's so very small,
I do not think you dull at all!
I think you're sharp and very bright,
And work and work with all your might."

"I know what it is!" shouted the little Wheelbarrow-Boy, who had gone to London to get himself a wife. "It's a pin."

"How do you know?" asked Nick.

"Because," said the little Wheelbarrow-Boy. "It says, 'Needles and pins, needles and pins, when a man marries his trouble begins!' And who should know better than I? The minute I put Betsy-Anne Sprigg into my wheelbarrow to take her home to keep house for me, my troubles began, for the wheelbarrow was an old one of Daddy's and fell to pieces the minute I put her in it. Of course, we were only playing, but I decided then and there never to really get married."

"My! My!" laughed the Riddle Lady. "What a long speech! But you guessed the right answer. It is a pin! And the prize is a nice new little red wheelbarrow. But it isn't big enough to haul around even a pretend wife, I'm afraid."

"Oh, thank you!" said the little Wheelbarrow-Boy. "I can haul sand in it, anyhow, which is much better."

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Feb. 22.—The funeral took place here this afternoon of Mrs. A. W. Pringle, widow of the late A. W. Pringle who for some years conducted a jewelry store in Port Hope, and who passed away twenty years ago. Mrs. Pringle, before her marriage, was Miss Anesbury. She passed away in New York, where she was spending the winter, her death being due to pneumonia. For several years Mrs. Pringle has resided in Cobourg. She is survived by a son, Mr. Ernest Pringle, manager of a brauch of the Royal Bank in Saskatchewan, and by a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Black of New York City.

Ministerial Association

The Central Ontario Northumberland and Durham Ministerial Association met at the Baptist parsonage on Monday afternoon where they were most hospitably entertained by Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Norton. Rev. W. A. Bremner, President, presided over the sessions, there being a large attendance of ministers and their wives. The guest of honor was Rev. A. L. McCrimmon, M.A., LL.D., ex-Chancellor of McMaster University, who gave an able address, and took as his theme, "The Social Constitution of Man," basing his fine exposition on man's social salvation.

Enjoyable Song Recital

Two pupils of Miss Ina Allen, Peterborough, Mrs. Irene Kennedy, Cobourg, and Miss Geraldine Weatherhead, Peterborough, assisted by Miss Mary Hall, celloist, Cobourg, gave a most enjoyable song recital in St. Peter's Parish Hall on Tuesday evening. It was expected that Miss Shearer, Peterborough, would assist in this musicale, but on account of illness she was unable to, and her place was admirably taken by Miss Weatherhead, who sang several groups of songs that were much enjoyed as did also Mrs. Kennedy. Miss Mary Hall played cello selections. Miss Dorothy Wormington was the efficient accompanist of the evening.

Real Estate Transfers

The property formerly known as the Helm property, but more recently owned by Mr. Paul Kester, who with his mother came north from Virginia to make their home and situated upon the Provincial Highway between Port Hope and Cobourg, has been sold by Mr. Kester to Mr. Gordon P. Ogilvie of Edinborough, Scotland, who is expected to take up residence there shortly. Mr. Kester will return to Virginia but intends to spend the summer season in this district.

The Big Trucks Busy

Up to this week the big trucks that are used for transportation purposes between Toronto and the Lakeshore towns, were busy as usual. At the week-end two of these came down from Toronto and proceeded east as for a Cobourg.

More Real Estate Sold

W. E. McLain has sold a property in Fraserville to Wm. Cruickshanks. Thomas C. Staples has purchased a lot at Baltimore from Thomas Hardcastle and will erect a residence upon it in the spring, it is stated.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

CHURCH UNION A PROVED SUCCESS

To the Editor:

Sir,—"Where are these Union Churches?" asks Rev. Dr. Ephriam Scott in a letter in which he casts serious reflections upon statements made by the Moderator of his own Church. I have not taken any part in the Church Union controversy, but I have had some experience in the practical application of the ideal of union in Canada, on the basis of the United Church of Canada. It has been my privilege for the past five years to minister to the United Church of Rosedale, which is the largest congregation of which there are over three thousand of various kinds all over Canada. In this locality there is room and need for one strong church, but not for more. In 1913, the Inter-Church Committee on Church extension approved of a site and sanctioned the establishment of the Northern Congregational Church in that district. The Presbyterian and Methodist churches agreed not to establish a cause there, in view of approaching Union.

At first the church carried on as a Congregational Church with a measure of success, but it became apparent that it could not adequately meet the situation nor make a sufficiently wide appeal on any denominational line. On my return from overseas I was called to this congregation on the distinct representation to me that the church wished to take advantage of the agreement entered into for the establishment of union charges, pending the consummation of the "United Church of Canada." The church was then organized on the basis of union in all particulars of doctrine and government, with the following result:

In the four succeeding years, the congregation increased by 150%, the Sunday School by 100% and the finances doubled. The church built a manse at a cost of $20,000. On the whole church property, which cost $126,000, there remains a debt of only $33,600. The church undertook the support of its own missionary in West Africa, and in addition supports Home Missions in Western Canada through the Mission Boards of the Congregat'onal, Methodist and Presbyterian churches, besides giving aid to philanthropic causes. The Church parlors and gymnasium are the community centre for the social and religious life of the district.

A recent analysis of the congregation denominationally shows the following facts and figures: The Session—Congregational 5, Methodist 4, Presbyterian 3; Committee of Stewards—Baptist 2, Congregational 2, Methodist 5, Presbyterian 5; The Official Board—Anglican 2, Baptist 2, Congregational 7, Methodist 13, Presbyterian 14; Membership—Presbyterian 206, Methodist 155, Congregational 120, Anglican 40, Baptist 8; a total of 519

Now what bearing has this experience on the arguments and theories of opponents of union? I am not speaking from mere theory but from fifteen years' experience in the Presbyterian Church in Canada from Sydney to Vancouver, and five years in a Union Church My conclusions are as follows:

1 Union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches is not only practical, but an unqualified temporal and spiritual success where it is fairly tried

2 It is a success not merely in small communities on the prairie where economic reasons offer the alternative of union or nothing But it is a success here in Rosedale, Toronto, a community that could afford to spend money in building rival churches if they were so disposed

3 The union church yas attracted to its membership and active service men and women who were out of touch with all churches, in some cases largely because of unseemly rivalry and divisions

4 Methodists and Presbyterians get along eminently well together and Congregationalists with both We have never had a single jar or denominational difference in the session of the church

5 The office of elder is continued in the United Church, according to the basis Two additional elders were ordained in our church recently, one a lawyer of repute and Christian character, who failed to find either "coercion" or "tyranny" in the Enabling Act

6 The United Church has a creed, and a good one, which all accept without mental reservations or equivocation of any kind

Dr Scott accuses the Moderator of repeating "the time-worn fiction that 2,000 congregations have already gone into union on the faith that the churches were pledged to union" The only answer to such an aspersions upon the veracity of Dr Gandier is a citation of actual facts There is in the Home Mission office an official list of 2,245 pastoral charges where some form of union is already in effect In order of Synods these are as follows: Maritime Provinces, 30; Montreal and Ottawa, 29; Toronto and Kingston, 170; Hamilton and London, 1; Manitoba, 148; Saskatchewan, 431; Alberta, 297; British Columbia, 139; total, 1,245 These chartges include over 3,000 congregations These unions have all been entered upon with a view to the eventual consummation of the United Church of Canada, and the Presbyterians in these union charges acted upon the pledged word of their parent church

I recall as a boy in Scotland the union controversy there The same arguments advanced against union then, and thoroughly discredited by time and experience, are advanced now in Canada The United Church of Canada will arrive The storms of opposition will only serve to test its equipment and Divine intention and hasten it on its great enterprise of a United Church in a United Canada

RONALD MACLEOD

Toronto, Feb 19, 1924

Editor Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Will you please accord me a space in your columns to suggest a matter which, I feel, should be viewed by our citizens as one of considerable importance. I refer to the appearance in the Conservatory Hall on Thursday evening next of our own Symphony Orchestra, its first bow to the public under this title. Last year the orchestra of Trinity Sunday School journeyed to Toronto and represented most worthily our city at the Musical Festival Contest, and with Miss Masson and Miss Logan, placed Peterborough on the musical map. It was thought after this occasion that the Trinity orchestra might be the nucleous of a permanent body which would be undenominational and in all respects a Peterborough institution.

With this end in view the organization was effected and a quite considerable progress has been made. To set up such an organization funds were required, certain instruments had to be provided, an appeal was sent out to the extent of some 900 letters asking for a support which seemed not unreasonable, having regard to the strictly community service of the enterprise. The response to this effort was disappointingly small, although not a few did their part most graciously. The whole structure has been raised with every regard for economy. We are fortunate in having Mr. Gliddon as our director. He has been most enthusiastic and he has given his time, talent and even his premises to further the work, believing, as we all do, that an efficient permanent orchestra is a distinct asset to any town or city. In this respect Peterborough has been woefully behind the times for many years. While we have some excellent musical organizations doing praiseworthy work, we are a country village as compared with many towns of a junior variety.

The opportunity presents itself in the coming concert to give this one enterprise a real hearty and healthy start. The admission is placed at one dollar, and while the hall should be taxed to capacity, there should be hundreds of tickets purchased for the good of the cause. The executive have proceeded with all caution, and consistent with the means at their disposal, and it is confidently hoped that the possibility of this organization again representing Peterborough at the Festival in Toronto this spring will not go into the discard for want of a support, of which it is deserving, apart from the distinct advertisement it will be to the city.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

Yours truly,

JOHN CRANE,

President Peterborough Symphony Orchestra.

THEY TELL THEIR NEIGHBORS

Women Tell Each Other How They Were Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Woodbridge, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles. I would have headaches, backaches, pains between my shoulders and under my shoulder-blades and dragging down feelings on each side. I was sometimes unable to do my work and felt very badly. My mother-in-law told me about the Vegetable Compound and I got some right away. It has done me more good than any other medicine I ever took and I recommend it to my neighbors. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you think it will help some poor sufferer."—Mrs. Edgar Simmons, R. R. 2, Woodbridge, Ont.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.c

POLICE CIRCLES SEE FRAMING OF BUTLER IN RADIO PARTY RAID

Believe Trick Was Perpetrated by Underworld and Politicians Combined.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb 23 — Facts brought out here regarding the raid early Sunday morning on a radio party in a private home gave rise to the opinion in police circles that a deliberate attempt had been made to "frame" General Butler

Holders of that theory had it that the raid was made on a group of respectable persons amusing themselves innocently so that public opinion would be turned against the general

"It looks like an effort calculated to make the public believe the Director of Public Safety is going wild and invading homes without justification," said one high official, who asked that his name be withheld "They know he's perfectly honest and that he can't be touched So it appears they want him to 'kill' himself with the public"

Neighbors Praise Family

That view was strengthened by the results of the investigation made in the neighborhood of the home of Mr and Mrs Frank Myers, on Twenty-third street near Venango, the house in question Neighbors on all sides told the police that the Myers family was highly respected and that it never had caused any trouble

Cattle Importation Will Not Be Granted.

LONDON, Feb. 23. — In response to telegraphic enquiry from Chester as to whether the statement was correct that the ministry of agriculture had sanctioned the importation of 5000 Canadian three year old heifers for re-stocking purposes in Cheshire where the foot and mouth disease had caused great havoc, the secretary to the ministry writes: "No special importation is sanctioned and only slaughter animals and stores as defined in the act of 1922 can be imported from Canada."

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION

Nothing is more common in childhood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution or more likely to pave the way to dangerous disease. Fully nine-tenths of all the minor ills of childhood have their root in indigestion. There is no medicine for little ones to equal Baby's Own Tablets in relieving this trouble. They have proved of benefit in thousands of homes. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Lunette, Immaculate Conception, writes: "My baby was a great sufferer from indigestion, but the Tablets soon set her right, and now I would not be without them." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Hog Grading Shows a Steady Increase.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.— (Canadian Press.)— A review of hog grading presented by A. A. McMillan shows a steady increase of selects in all the provinces. In 1923 the percentage of selects was 14.76 per cent. Statistics show that 59.13 per cent. of all hogs marketed are thick smooths. This grade is now much improved by the infusion of the blood of the bacon herds and to-day the bulk of these hogs have more quality and greater length although falling short of the standards set for the select bacon grades.

THE MOUNT ROBSON ROUTE ACROSS CANADA

The delights of a trip across Canaad never fade in memory, the interest never wanes, and the ecstasy of one day's travel through the Canadian Rockies is an experience of a lifetime. The route of "The Continental Limited" which runs daily between Montreal and Vancouver with direct connections from Toronto, traverses the beautiful lake country of Northern Ontario. From Winnipeg to Saskatoon and Edmonton it passes through some of the most fertile lands of the great prairie provinces. A night's run from Edmonton and you are in Jasper National Park and the Glorious Canadian Rockies, embracing some of the finest mountain scenery in the world—then on to the Pacific Coast through an ever-changing panorama of magnificent and stupendous scenery. The Canadian National line through the mountains skirts Canada's highest peaks at the easiest gradient and lowest altitude of any transcontinental route, the highest point reached in crossing the "Great Divide" being 3,712 feet. You will consult your own interests if you will make your next trip west by the new way, "The National Way"—you have the choice of various routes. You have the option of making the journey in a splendid tourist car at minimum cost, or, if taste dictates the more luxurious Standard Sleeping Cars or Compartment - Library - Obervation Cars are at your disposal.

The equipment on the "Continental Limited" is all-steel and modern in every particular.

ROLAND DENNE HEADS LIBERAL CONSERVATIVES IS UNANIMOUS CHOICE

Elected for a Third Term Last Night--V. J. McElderry, First Vice President, J. F. Strickland Secretary -- Addresses Optimistic for Victory in Next Federal Elections.

HON. LYONS PRESENT

Snow-blocked country roads did not make for a large attendance at the annual meeting of the Liberal Conservative Association of West Peterborough in Victoria Hall last night, and fifty per cent. of the company were ladies. Mrs. Howard Fallis president of the Women's Conservative organization was also prevented from attending by impassable highways; she lives in North Monaghan.

Expectation of an early Federal election and extreme optimism in such event of a similar Conservative sweep to that which happened in the Province last June were expressly the several speakers; and President Roland Denne thought it high time that Conservative men and women in this riding rose in their elective might and put "one over G. N. Gordon," the sitting Liberal member for West Peterboro in the Dominion House. Stressing trade depression— particularly in the woollen industry —in Canada to-day, which he attributed to lack of adequate protection, Mr. Denne emphasized that Mr. Gordon had voted for the Dominion Government's tariff policy, a measure responsible for present conditions.

Officers Elected

President—Roland Denne.
First Vice-President—V. J. McElderry.
Second Vice-President—J. H. Spence.
Third Vice-President—Joseph Bell
Secretary—J. F. Strickland.
Treasurer—George Boucher.
Assistant Secretary—Ernest Reid.

Mr. Denne had requested that his name be left out of nomination, he having served as President two years, but J. H. Burnham, Ex-M.P. landed him as a commendably active executive, possessing great organizing power, and he was again the meeting's unanimous choice for head of their organization.

The local member W. H. Bradburn was present and the distinguished visitors of the evening were Hon. James S. Lyons, Minister of Lands and Forests in the Legislature; Major Belford, M.P.P. of East Northumberland, and Col. D. Johnston, M.P.P. of East Peterborough.

And while awaiting the arrival of the minister and his party Mr. Burnham held the meeting's interest in a scathing arraignment of the late U.F.O. administration, which had left office with a deficit of $15,000 in last year's current account.

Mr. Burnham, after remarking that considering that many of those living out of town had telephoned that they were blocked by the snow the attendance was excellent. He then proceeded to show how easy it is for a politician to make a fatal mistake and instanced the case of Mr. Manning Doherty, the only man who had pluck enough to take the leadership of the U.F.O. remnant. Mr. Doherty repudiates in a fiery speech the claim of the Ferguson government that the U.F.O. had left a fifteen million dollar deficit for the year 1922-23 alone and came back with the change that Ferguson had spent a large amount of money.

"Do you know?" asked a Ferguson supporter that this government has had to pay the seven million dollar interest on Hydro bonds which Drury failed to pay?"

"No," said Mr. Doherty.

"Well! They had," said Mr. Ferguson. This made a difference of fourteen millions of dollars in Mr. Doherty's estimate and counter charge which of course totally wrecked his speech and established the fact of the deficit. (Laughter.)

Serious Times

Major Belford referred to the serious times through which the country is passing and spoke for exploitation of our natural resources. Legislation to foster such exploitation he believed would be one objective of the Ferguson Government whom he felt confident were making honest efforts at administrating affairs to the betterment of the Province. "During the last our years," he said, "the U.F.O. had upset the apple cart in every direction and their stupendous failings are coming to light bit by bit." Touching on Drury's huge deficit, he declared that Premier Ferguson and his Colleagues are determined to make expenses balance with revenues and if practicable restore an era of Provincial prosperity as quickly as possible.

Talking of Ontario's natural resources, Major Belford pointed out that there are mines in our own north country—marble and mineral —and he looked for Legislature's encouragement of their development.

Quite a Misfit

Devating a few minutes to criticism of Mackenzie King's government, the speaker denounced it as "a misfit which is not going to remain on the administrative scene much longer." Mr. King, he asrted, must go to the wall at no distant date. They have never been able to take up a definite line of policy, he declared, and consequently manufacturers are afraid to manufacture, merchants are afraid to buy, and farmers are between the devil and the dep sea. Deploring the lack of effort at Ottawa to encourage and foster industry and trade generally, he was of the opinion that Premier King was by nature never intended to be anything bigger than a school teacher.

There's a Difference

Infering that this community is proud of Mr. Gordon as a progressive citizen, the major warned his audience that Mr. Gordon as a private individual is one thing, and Mr. G. N. Gordon, the politician altogether another proposition; for he classes himself a supporter of a Dominion government utterly unfit to rule, and he has his own weak points too. "We are going to have a Federal Election soon," he addtd, "see to it that the country gets back to a Conservative administration. Get your organizations so perfected that when that election bell rings you'll be ready for winning the race. In this connection ht advised of a coming central district Conservative Convention to be held in Peterborough which may eclipse all similar conventions in the Province.

O.T.A. Question

As to this vexed question, Major Belford said the Ferguson administration is going to do exactly what its candidates prmistd in the late elecion campaign—"leave it to the people, who will themselves have an opportunity of declaring for or against the measure."

Lauds Local Members.

Hon. James S. Lyons in his opening remarks, lauded the members for East and West Peterboro as capable representatives on the Government benches. Col. Johnston and W. H. Bradburn, would, he expected, endeavor to get for their ridings a share of the expenditures of his department, and, personally, he would be as generous as practicable.

Making no attempt at defining the policy of the Government, the Minister confined himself to an exhaustive and concise review of the abundant natural resources of Northern Ontario awaiting adequate exploitation; and these resources would, he believed, be aggressively developed by the Ferguson administration. He gave figures, revealing vast outputs and quantities still attainable of silver, gold, platinum, nickel and low-grade iron ore; and he expected the present Provincial administration to especially encourage the development of the latter material. For, he queried, is it possible for Ontario to import coal and raw material from the United States, shop back finished products to that country and other countries to which the U. S. exports the same products, and successfully compete with American prices.

A Great Heritage.

Outlining at length Northern Ontario's vast heritage in forests of valuable pulpwood and hardwood, including birch superior to any in North America, he advanced that the Government should place an embargo on the exportation of hardwood logs. In this regard, he declared, a bill of his providing for such an embargo will be submitted to the Legislature at an early date.

Speaking warmly for the conservation and protection of timber, Mr. Lyons detailed the Government's plan for employing 13 airplanes, to be established in different sections in Northern Ontario. These planes will daily patrol the whole forest area, on the look out for fires, which by their aid can be readily extinguished. This system will also reduce the land force at considerable saving of present expenditure for fire protection. They will also cruise for forest resources.

Reduce Taxation.

At this juncture the speaker elicited pronounced approval from his audience with the assurance that the Ferguson administration is determined to add no new taxation this year and to reduce taxes as quickly as feasible. "Taxation to-day," he said, "is the people's greatest burden, as we have reached the point where, with expenditures by municipalities, the late provincial government, and the present Dominion administration, the public are confronted with a tax of practically $100 per head annually on every man, woman and child.

More Protection.

In conclusion Mr. Lyons declared that what Canada needs is a policy of greater protection; to revert to the days of Sir John A. Macdonald, and build up on the tariff foundation he laid in protection of Canadian industrial and agricultural interests. A high tariff wall has made the U.S., one of the greatest nations in the world, and Canada must follow suit to enjoy similar prosperity, he declared.

Not Figureheads.

W. H. Bradburn, the local member, extolled the Ferguson Administration as one of the best governments that ever sat in Toronto. Its members are not figureheads, he said, but workers—every one—who were found at their post till ten, eleven, twelve o'clock, at night, and even until one and two in the morning at times.

Referring to certain requests he had made of Mr. Lyons's department Mr. Bradburn explained that one idea of his was that settlers on poor agricultural land in the northern part of this riding, might be bonused to locate in more productive districts, and let the country abandoned grow up to timber. Such a policy should be beneficial to all concerned, and considerable road expenditure would be eliminated.

The O.T.A. question, he asserted, rests with the people, "The act will not be tampered with until the electorate have voted on it, and rendered their own decision. That was our policy at the elections, and that is the policy on which we stand foursquare."

Resolutions of confidence in Premier Ferguson and Hon. Arthur Meighen, ad their policies, were adopted unanimously.

TRINITY CHOIR HELD A VALENTINE MASQUERADE

Thursday evening in the basement of Trinity Church the choir and their friends held their Valentine masquerade social, at which about 80 were present.

The fancy costumes, many of them original creations, showed great skill and artistic taste of the wearers to whom time and expense must have been secondary considerations in the making of them.

In awarding the prizes for the best costume the judges, Mrs. R. J. Kidd, Mrs. T. Cruikshank and Mrs. Dr. Cragg experienced some difficulty in coming to a decision with respect to the ladies' costumes, so many of them being adjudged worthy of the prize, it was finally left for the company to decide by a standing vote as 10 ladies, one by one passed in review before them, the decision being in favor of Mrs. E. V. Warne, who was awarded the prize for her costume, representing a Honolulu belle.

The prize for the best costume for the men was awarded to Mr. J. Kennett, representing a Spanish cavalier.

Other costumes worn represented "The Stars and Stripes," a Hawaiian belle, Night, bespangled with stars, the Allies, a Turkish lady of rank, the Sheik, a Cracker, Indian princess, and many others.

The comics of the party were seen as Jackie Coogan, the Clowns, Mr. and Mrs. 'Down at Heels,' a mother and her two angelic boys, all of whom were the centre of much merirment.

Games, which occupied the greater part of the evening, were much enjoyed by one and all, after which dainty refreshments were served.

A very hearty vote of thanks was tendered the ladies who acted as judges and to the ladies who had charge of the refreshments.

A very pleasant and enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

HEARTS AFIRE

"Well, I'm not clever. And, anyhow, I don't ever have the chance to meet a man," Prudence had sighed.

Janet had stared at the younger girl for a moment, and then had said, with a flash of intuition:

"It isn't just your good looks, it's the sheer femininity of you that would always charm—the "something" that one can't define. If a woman's got it, she's got everything, and even her beauty isn't necessary to her. If she hasn't got it, then she's just a looker-on at the great game of ——"

"Life?" suggested Prudence, interest aroused.

"Love, my child. And love is life," said the usually prosaic Janet, with an odd little tremor at her usually firm lips.

"Her affair with Will Ogilvie is going badly," thought sympathetic Prudence, longing to say the right thing, but with innate delicacy afraid to intrude on the other's secret.

* * *

Today, as she fed her fluffy chickens, the girl's thoughts were roaming far afield. In the sweet April sunlight the countryside lay very still and silent, save for the occasional crowing of a rooster, or the song of mating birds.

Then, down the winding ribbon of road that led into the little green world, there came the clopetty-clop of horse's hoofs. Nearer and nearer, Metal ringing on the road.

Prudence wheeled around, her young face bright with interest. Nearer and nearer . . . . here now . . . . over the hedge she could see his silhouette. . . . .

The rider was young and fair and slender—she noticed that at once. Didn't the sun, streaming on his hatless head, turn that polished hair of his to molten gold until he looked like . . . . "like a Norse king or a sun-god!" thought romantic Prudence, and, in an access of shyness, turned her back upon the road.

With a great clatter he wheeled up his horse.

"Say, there! Hi! Can you direct me to Winston Towers?" The voice was young, musical, and rather arrogant. "I've lost my way in these infernal lanes and by-paths. It's a regular Chinese puzzle, hereabouts."

With pretty face as pink as drifted blossom, Prudence started over toward the hedge.

In Monday's instalment the Stranger is agreeably surprised.

CANADIANS WITH "CAT AND CANARY"

Percy Moore and Miss Clara Verdera, Both Canadians.

Percy Moore, who plays the character of the lawyer, Crosby, in "The Cat and the Canary," is a native of Montreal and a graduate of McGill University where he acquired the degree of M. D. After graduation he played the organ in a Montreal church for a couple of years, but, desirous of winning glory at the footlights' glare, he forsook the solemnity of the organ loft and joined a stock company. Since that time he has been in the support of many prominent stars and when the Kilbourn Gordon corporation produced the now famous mystery play, "The Cat and the Canary," he became the general stage director for the firm. In this capacity he staged the four productions given of the play in this country and went to England where he staged the London performance of the piece. During his student days at McGill he was the business manager of the McGill Glee Club and, as that official, will be remembered by many who were interested in the concerts of the club here and in other places. Mr. Moore also directed the Canadian tour of Dan Godfrey and his band.

Another Canadian player in the company and who, like Mr. Moore, was one of the original cast of the Cat and the Canary, is Miss Clare Verdera. This young lady was born in England, but when she was a very young child her father bought a cattle ranch in western Canada, on which our actress was raised. When the war broke out, her father, a colonel in the reserves, was called to the colors and served in France until the close of the fighting. Miss Verdera, a girl of rare beauty, war offered the role of the fortune teller in "Chu, Chin, Chow," and later played the leading role for a time. She has superb soprano voice and some day will be heard in grand opera.

Sunday Golfers Will Be Subject to a Fine.

FRANKFORT, Ky., February 23 (Canadian Press). — Playing golf in Kentucky on Sunday will be punishable by a fine of $25.00 to 100.00, and a jail sentence of ten to thirty days, under penalties provided in a Bill introduced in the Upper House of the General Assembly by State Senator J. B. Clark of Martin County.

Persons wagering on the outcome of a golf game any day in the week would be liable to the same penalties, under the Bill.

TRADES COUNCIL HAD SOCIAL HOUR

Delegates Referred to the Attitude of Premier Ferguson.

The regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held in the Labor Hall, George Street, Thursday evening, with a large attendance of delegates.

Credentials were received from a number of new delegates. A letter was received from the Canadian Label Committee asking the council to request the members of all affiliated unions to purchase only union label goods wherever possible, and thus patronize the products of their own organizations.

One of the delegates directed the council's attention to the attitude of Premier Ferguson in refusing to recognize the next largest party (the U. F. O. group) in the legislature as the government opposition; at the same time the U. F. O. leader is to receive the salary of the leader of the opposition, whilst the Liberal leader will get the empty honor. The delegate went on to say that the premier, by taking the autocratic stand, was merely defeating his own ends, and that he (the delegate) was fairly safe in saying that the U. F. O. or progressive party, whichever they decided to call themselves, would be very largely augmented after their next appeal to the people.

After the business of the evening was concluded a social hour was spent, when light refreshments were dispensed, and this being the first of its kind that the council has held, it was voted by everybody a great success, so much so that it was decided to repeat the experiment at the next regular meeting, which will be held on Wednesday, March 5.

Constant Headaches And Dizziness.

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time, and in nine cases out of ten the persistent headaches are due to some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels.

Undoubtedly the cause must be removed before permanent relief may be had.

Burdock Blood Bitters removes the cause of the headaches, as it acts on every organ of the body and strengthens, purifies and regulates the whole system.

Mrs. Peter Curran, 27 Morrison St., Sydney, N.S., writes:—"I have been troubled for the last five years with constant headaches and dizziness. After trying several remedies, which I found to be of no avail, Burdock Blood Bitters was recommended to me.

B.B.B. did me a world of good, and I cannot praise this remedy enough."

THE BOWMANVILLE FIGHT NO PICNIC

Wonder Some of the Players Were Not Seriously Hurt — Started By a Roughneck.

So many fans have asked for a detailed story of the fight at Bowmanville during the Peterboro-Bowmanville Junior O.H.A. game on Wednesday night last, that the following eyewitness story by one who was there might be of interest. The fracas opened in the second period when one of the fans rushed across the ice and grabbing Referee Cummings declared that the penalty he handed out to Hooper for bodying H. McDougal into the boards was unnecessary and that he was not giving the Bowmanville boys a square deal. When he was ordered off the rink by the manager of the Bowmanville team and on his way another spectator, a kid about seventeen who had got up enough nerve when he had the whole crowd behind him leaped at the referee and grabbed him by the neck. He was also pulled off by the manager of the Bowmanville team and rushed off the ice. The Bowmanville manager then called on the crowd to give the boys a chance to play the game and not loose it by forfeit the crowd then left the ice.

The teams battled on for several minutes, until Lebarr in the Peterboro nets was chased for taking a slash at Cameron with his stick. Cameron who was behind the Peterboro nets after the puck slashed Lebarr several times over the hands and wrists when he was on his knees blocking the corner of the net. When the referee ruled him off, he hesitated a moment to explain to the referee what happened, but didn't have time as the crowd were out after him for taking after Cameron who cut his tracks to the other end of the rink. The crowd followed Lebarr to the penalty box and were itching to get at him. After the ice was cleared the Bowmanville fan took another trip out to the referee and threatened him but a policeman brought him off before he caused any trouble. The rest of the period was finished but the Petes were expecting someone to jump on them every time they came near scoring or checking anyone.

The third period is the one in which the main bout took place, six minutes before the third period was over. Thornton followed in a shot but failed to score. The goalie after clearing the shot slipped and fell on the ice hurting his hand. He declared himself after the game that Thornton never touched him but at the time of the accident the same roughneck leading the rest of his riotous follower swarmed on the ice.

A spectator leaped from the boards and grabbed the referee by the neck. Frenchy Holland who was close by pulled the man off the referee and held him, making no attempt to hit him. Both he and the referee were then piled onto. Harry Dugan who attempted to keep the husky lumberman from the referee was picked up by the neck and carried across the ice. L. Lebarr seeing the way Dugan was treated piled onto the fan but he was soon overpowered by about a dozen wild men who downed him to the ice and punched, kicked and walked all over him. L. Lebarr Sr., Jack Lebarr, Harold Frost who is an old Peterboro boy who played with the Peterboro juniors several years ago and who is now living in Bowmanville with the rest of the Peterboro representatives rushed into the fray to try and make peace but they fared the worst. L. Lebarr Sr., rushed for the fan who had Dugan and between he and Dugan they downed him and were sitting on him to try and keep him quiet when another fellow sneaked up behind Lebarr and smashed him a swift one in the forehead, lifting him into the air a couple of feet to land on the ice on his back. Frost and several other members of the Peterboro gang made for the mob who had Lebarr Jr. on the ice and by throwing and knocking them off they succeeded in raising Lou to his feet once more but badly battered up about the stomach where he had been kicked and walked on. By the efforts of some of the Peterboro boys Lebarr was held back as he was wild to get at the crowd who had him down. J. Lebarr who in an effort to get his father battered every man who got in his way. He was walking over the heads of the crowd and poking every one who made a dive at him.

Referee Cummings was amongst the enraged crowd during the battle and when it was all over he was found and carried off the ice unconscious. Louie Lebarr the local net guardian was also helped off the ice when Manager Jackson and Lou Lebarr ordered their team of the ice. After a few minutes the boys were all rounded up and taken to the dressing room where two different doctors examined Lebarr and found him not seriously hurt but just out of wind and strained about the waist where he was trampled on. In the report in the Toronto papers it stated that the game was called after the fight, but this was an error for Referee Cummings was unconscious for ¾ of an hour after the fight and could not call it. It also stated in some of the Toronto papers that the fight was caused by some out-of-town rowdies, pertaining to a couple of fans from Port Hope. This is ridiculous for anybody with eyesight could see that the Bowmanville fan was the cause of it all when he went onto the ice and grappled and threatened the referee.

It was reported that two official O.H.A. referees were present at the rink and that the Bowmanville team asked the Petes to go ahead and play the game with these two referees but they refused to do so. This is all bunk as the game couldn't be started without Referee Cummings giving his orders and he was unconscious.

Took Leaf From The Soccer Book

The Toronto Star says: "The O.H.A. Sub-Committee took a leaf out of the English soccer book of regulations when they closed Bowmanville Rink to O. H. A. hockey for this season, because the Bowmanville club did not protect Referee Bill Cummings from assault by rowdy spectators during the Peterborough-Bowmanville junior game Wednesday. The Bowmanville excuse that out-of-town ruffians injured Cummings did not absolve the club. It is about time that hockey clubs woke up to the fact that the O.H.A. holds them entirely responsible for the conduct of spectators who attend matches. The Peterborough-Bowmanville game is to be replayed at Whitby Monday night, and if Bowmanville wins they will have to play all their 'home' games abroad."

HULL'S HUSTLERS WIPE OUT WARSAW

Hitherto Invincible Team Beaten 5 to 2 By Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23.—Hull's Hustlers achieved the apparently impossible last night when they defeated the Warsaw team by 5 to 2 in a fast and clean game on Lakefield ice. Warsaw had been carrying all before them and were considered invincible until they measured up against the hustling hustlers who poker holes in the impregnable defence and bored through the armour plated goal of the visiting team. It was a glorious victory for the home team and delighted the large crowd of local fans who turned out to crowd the rink side. Warsaw brought a good party of rooters to swell the onlookers.

Walter Jackson of Peterboro gave general satisfaction as referee, not hesitating to send several players to the box in every frame. He kept the game clean.

First Period.

Northey was the first to score, followed by Wannamaker with a second for the home team, and R. Darling netted one for the visitors. There were three penalties, two going to Lakefield and one to Wasaw. They were dawn by Northey, P. Hill and R. Darling.

Second Period.

"Squib' Webster rattled one in for Lakefield and S. Hill repeated with H. Darling sandwiching one in between for Warsaw.

Thee penalties were drawn, two of them this time to Warsaw while Lakefield took the third. They were handed to Bowen and H. Darling and P. Hill.

Third Period.

Sherman Hill was the hero of the third peiod, scoring the only goal and bringing Lakefields score to 5 against the opponents 2.

Penalties showed an increase as the play quickened in the trojan struggle that marked the last period, and five were handed out, three to Lakefield and two to Warsaw. The unfortunates were Northey, Sherman Hill (2), H. Darling and Morgan.

The lineups were:

Warsaw—Goal, Wasson; right defence, H. Darling; left defence, Morgan; centre, R. Darling; right wing, Bell; left wing, J. H. Darling; subs, Bowen and Payne.

Hustlers—Goal, Graham; right defence, Northey; left defence, Hull; centre, Percy Hill; right wing, Sherman Hill; left wing, W. Webster; subs, F. Wannamaker and Sherin.

LADIES' GAME POSTPONED.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23.—The game between Campbellford and Lakefield ladies here planned for last night was postponed when the visiting team was unable to get through.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

WRESTLING MATCH UNFORTUNATE END

Bill Leon, Giant Greek From Boston, Fell From Ring and Injured His Shoulder.

TORONTO, Feb 22 —What promised to be one of best wrestling cards in Toronto in years came to an unfortunate ending at the Labor Temple last night when Bill Leon, the giant Greek from Boston, rolled out of ring and after falling three feet injured his shoulder

The match was awarded to George Walker, the Canadian champion The men had wrestled nearly half an hour when the accident occurred Leon, who weighed 220 pounds, had 30 pounds on Walker

In the first bout Walter Smith, the St Louis middleweight, forced Russell McQuarry, of Barrie, to surrender two falls The other was a fifteen-minute match between August Jokenen, Finn, the heavyweight and Joe Novak, Minneapolis, middleweight Novak stood Finn off for 12 minutes and then fell into a half Nelson and body hold and looked to be down The Finn thought so too, but he let go before the fall was signalled and Novak got behind him and hung on until expiry of the time Novak has challenged Finn to a mixed match

SELECTION HARRIS WAS SURPRISE FOR THE WASHINGTON BALL FANS

Failure of Roger Peckinpaugh to Land Manager Job Puzzles Washington Fans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—After months of waiting Clarke Griffith has announced the Washington manager for the coming season. Stanley Harris, brilliant second baseman, gets the job.

The selection of Harris as the next leader of the Nationals occasioned among the fans as much surprise as did the appointment of Bush last spring.

In naming Harris Griffith is again courting danger. Harris is a great ball player, but his ability as a leader is questioned.

Harris, even though he is a star second sacker, ranking next to the great Eddie Collins, is not popular with the local fans.

Harris has been unfortunate in that he has played his poorest ball at home. When he made an error it invariably turned into a run. No player on the Washington club was criticized more than Harris last season.

Unless Harris makes good from the jump he is in for a strenuous season. Incidentally the burden of managing the club may seriously affect his playing.

Why has Griffith failed to give Roger Peckinpaugh, brainy infielder, a chance to prove his managerial worth?

Washington fans have been puzzled over that question ever since Outfielder Zeb Milan was made manager of the 1922 aggregation.

When Peckinpaugh was secured from New York, it was understood that Griffith regarded him as managerial timber. When Manager George McBride was forced to retire from the game Peckinpaugh was the unanimous selection of the sport writers as his successor.

President Griffith crossed them up by appointing Clyde Milan who

The selection of Milan over Peckinpaugh was a big disappointment to the crack shortstop. It showed in his play that season, Peckinpaugh having one of the poorest years of his career.

It so happened that Owen Bush and Peckinpaugh are great friends. When Griffith again surprised fandom by selecting Bush, Peckinpaugh was pleased. He reported in great shape, played his head off and was perhaps the most valuable shortstop in the American League last year.

Fandom is wondering if the selection of the youthful Harris over Peckinpaugh will be as disappointing to him as was the naming of Milan.

LAKEFIELD CLUB HOLDS BONSPIEL

J. C. Strickland's Rink Won the FitzGerald Trophy This Year.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23. — The FitzGerald trophy for the local competition in the curling club was won by J. C. Strickland's rink this year, namely, Frank Pearson, S. J. Charlton, E. A. Tanner, and J. C. Strickland, skip.

KITCHENER 6; NIAGARA 0.

KITCHENER, February 23. Canadian Press. — When Kitchener Juniors invade Humberstone on Tuesday night in the fourth round of the O.H.A. series they will carry a safe lead by reason of their 6-0 win here last night over the Niagara Peninsula team. The win was a clean cut and decisive one. The Kitchener players showed more polish than their opponents, and had they not been a little under par on their team play might have run up a larger score.

KINGSTON CAME FROM BEHIND.

KINGSTON, February 23. Canadian Press. — Starting their game four goals down on the round, Circle Six, Kingston, tied Belleville on the round in the O.H.A. Junior Series, and winning last night's game 5-1.

The match was fast and exciting, with a good crowd attending. Lloyd for Belleville, and Kirby and Patterson for the locals were stars, with Wardaugh of Belleville and Lawless of Kingston, also doing good work.

Harry Greb Gets a Decision Last Night.

OAKLAND, Cal., February 23 (Canadian Press). — Harry Greb, middleweight champion, won a decision in a four-round boxing match here yesterday from Jack Reeves, of San Francisco. They fought at catchweights, Greb weighing 164 pounds and Reeves 165 pounds.

The fight was one-sided, the champion being credited with having the better of every round.

Greb at no time brought into play his hardest blows.

BOWMANVILLE TO PLAY AT WHITBY

Game With Peterborough Will Be Played Over Again.

TORONTO, Feb 22 (Canadian Press) —Sub-committee of Ontario hockey association, at meeting held here last night, decided that University of Toronto, having finished its schedule in second place under sub-committees interpretation of arrangement mutually agreed upon, qualifies to meet Hamilton Tigers in play off for the championship of senior group No 1 on Tuesday and Friday of next week First game takes place in Hamilton

Peterboro-Bowmanville junior game played in Bowmanville on Wednesday, February 20, and which was called with six minutes to play owing to the referee being assaulted by spectators, who crowded on the ice, was ordered replayed at Whitby on Monday, February 25th In view of refusal of Bowmanville police to give the referee protection and clear the ice so that the game could proceed, no further O G A games will be permitted in Bowmanville rink this season

SCHEDULED BOUTS OFF.

NEW YORK, February 23 (Canadian Press). — Madison Square Garden, prevented from staging a scheduled boxing show next Monday night because of the suspension imposed by the State Athletic Commission as a result of the recent Marks-Villa flyweight title fiasco, will resume fistic activity with two 12-round feature matches next Thursday night.

HOW MAN O'WAR COLT GOT ITS FREAK NAME

By HISSELF.

Race horses often get their names in a most peculiar manner.

For instance, there is By Hisself, a two-year-old by Man o' War, who makes his racing debut this spring.

How did the colt get such a name as By Hisself? Here is the story.

Two colored swipes at a New Orleans track were arguing the relative merits of the horses going to the post that day. One of the swipes was very positive in his opinions. The other taking exception to his turf knowledge, said:

"If you know all about horses, tell me the name of the greatest horse in the world."

"That's easy," replied the positive one, "Man o' War, of course."

"Well, you guessed that one right, now tell me who Man o' War is by?" The positive one was puzzled, then a smile played over his face as he answered.

"Well, I tell you, any time I see that horse go he was all by hisself."

The story gave the owner of Man o' War a big laugh and one of the first colts by Man o' War was named By Hisself.

"BIG BROTHER"

WITH TOM MOORE
RAYMOND HATTON
EDITH ROBERTS

A Thrilling Story of the Gangs and Gunmen of New York!

"Promise me you'll bring him up decent—and not to live this rotten life", were the dying gangster's last words—and the Boss of the Underworld started out to keep his promise to a pal; to be a Big Brother to this homeless kid. A Great Big Thrilling Story Wonderfully Told!

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

A CAPABLE CAST IN TOM MOORE'S "BIG BROTHER"

Tom Moore Raymond Hatton and Edith Roberts are Featured

The Allan Dwan Paramount production of "Big Brother," a Rex Beach novel, which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next to remain for three days, is supplemented by a cast of worthiness and repute.

Heading the list of popular players, who bring the famous story to the silver sheet, is Tom Moore in the role of Jimmy Donovan, the leader of the Car Barn gang on New York's lower East side. It is doubtful if Moore ever had a more appropriate role. Edith Roberts, whose recent return to the studios after an illness finds her in greater popularity than ever, plays the feminine lead. Then there is Raymond Hatton, also featured in the role of a dope fiend; Mickey Bennett, the talented seven-year-old player, Charles Henderson, Joe King Paul Panzer, Neill Kelley, William Black, Milton Herman, Florence Ashbrook and Yvonne Hughes play in support.

"Big Brother" is a penetrating story of the lower East side, realistically and adroitly done. In Jimmy Donovan the author, Rex Beach has painted a character humane and lovable. The story concerns the resolutions of the gang leader to correct his ways after his lieutenant had been killed by the bullet from the gun of a leader of a rival gang. In dying the lieutenant had asked his chief to take care of his little brother and to bring him up 'different.'

The elements working against the gang leader, the depth and sincerity of his live for Kitty, the angel of the district, the machinations of Cokey Joe, the dope fiend, and the final triumph of Jimmy Donovan provide sympathetic and convincing entertainment and true testimony of the genius of Mr. Dwan and Mr. Beach

AT THE ROYAL

The programme now playing which has been attracting such large audiences, closes to-night with the usual two performances at 7 p.m. and 9. William Duncan, in "The Steel Trail" is full of the thrills one expects to find in one of his productions, while the Zane Grey story, "Heritage of the Desert," is a perfect example of its kind. Both vaudeville offerings are better than most acts seen in quite a time.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

George Du Maurier, who wrote "Trilby," was himself an artist and an inhabitant of the Quartier Latin, in Paris?

He drew his own illustrations for the novel?

Richard Walton Tully, who produced "Trilby" for the screen, followed those illustrations closely in costuming his cast?

The novel was an instant success, its vogue amounting to a sensation?

The greatest contemporary stars sought to appear in its dramatization, and Virginia Harned created the role of Trilby on the stage with Wilton Lackaye as the first Svengali?

In making the immortal novel into a screen production of opulent beauty, Richard Walton Tully employed a notable all-star cast, including Andree Lafayette, Creighton Hale, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Philo McCullough, Wilfred Lucas, Francis McDonald, Maurice Cannon, Max Constant and others?

And that "Trilby" is a first National attraction now being presented at the Royal Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday?

D. W. GRIFFITHS LISTS 'FURY' AMONG SCREEN'S GREATEST

Comes to the Royal next Thursday

Pronounced by D. W. Griffith to be one of the greatest pictures ever produced and a documnt from life, Richard Barthelmess' new starring production, "Fury," in which Dorothy Gish plays opposite him, is a classic of the sea. Unlike the way most pictures of the sea are made, Mr. Barthelmess and his supporting company lived for three weeks on an old schooner minus all comforts and conveniences, undergoing the same experiences as fall to the men who still sail the seven seas in wind jammers.

"In spite of the hardships it was the most fascinating journey I have ever taken," Mr. Barthelmess says: "The mathematics of navigation became clear to me. I learned to read the compass and to steer by it. The stories some of the old salts would tell of their experiences were romance carried to the Nth degree."

VAUDEVILLE FOR MONDAY AT ROYAL.

Four vaudeville acts have been contracted for next week by the Royal management. The two for the first half include Moore and Shy, a laughing act that has played the best houses in the larger cities, and Irving and Ellwood, a refined harmony singing duo that will more than satisfy Royal patrons. The novelties for the last half of the week will be announced later.

AT THE REGENT

"THE WHIP" SCORES HEAVILY AT THE REGENT.

Big Photo-Play of Heart Interest, With Many Thrills, Seen By Big Audiences.

For powerful, gripping and intensely interesting scenes no photoplay ever shown in the Regent Theatre eclipses "The Whip" which opens a 3 days' engagement at the Regent Monday.

The story is a combination of love and romance of the race track, and shows some startling original scenes that make the audience sit almost breathless for minutes at a time.

There are thrills galore and tense situations throughout the two hours it takes to unfold the spirited story, which is a monument to the photographers' art and the director who conceived the situations and effects.

There are several climaxes, each one more exciting than the other, but the real startling effect is produced when the Saratoga express running at a high rate of speed crashes into a box car cut from a train by the adventurer, splintering it to kindling and throwing engine and cars over the embankmen a twisted mass.

Wonderful Race.

"The Whip," a race horse, is the centre of the plot, of course. It is scheduled for the famous Saratoga handicap. Enemies of the owner and a bookmaker attempt the destruction of the thoroughbred, but in spite of all their attempts, every one of which is frustrated, the Whip with the owner's daughter on its back, runs under the wire a winner, and the villains receive their deserts.

Not the least exciting incident is a race between an automobile and a train, in which the train forges ahead for a short time, only to be headed and beaten by the big racer. Those who are fond of horses and dogs should see this picture.

Entrancing Story.

To Maurice Tourneur, the famous master of photo-play art, belongs the credit of staging this stupendous production, and into this effort he has put action, love story, effects and everything interesting to an amusement seeker. The selection of the scenes must have taken a considerable length of time, and the making of the picture months of patient effort.

The outdoor as well as the interior photography is most artistic and realistic, not a detail of any kind is lacking. To show the wizard of this director, there is a scene in the salon of an ocean liner. As the passengers dance the floor gently rises and falls in perfect rhythm with the roll of the waves.

A Great Scene.

Thousands of spectators attending the races have been brought into the action of the play by the camera man, and the handsome gowns and smart costumes of the men add greatly to the effect.

AT THE GRAND

"SO THIS IS LONDON."

Geo. M. Cohan's famous comedy, "So This Is London," designed to create a better understanding between the people of England and the United States, and at the same time to provide a most enjoyable entertainment, is paying a visit to the Grand, and last evening delighted an audience not nearly as large as the merit of the production warranted. "So This Is London" may not succeed in doing a great deal along the first line mentioned, but as a laugh-producer few comedies that the Grand has housed in years have been so efficient. There are no dull moments, in fact there is a laugh with almost every sentence, and the old Cohan maxim of "sending them away with a laugh" is faithfully carried out.

The comedy pictures an American family, the head of which cannot see nothing good in English people or English customs or anything that is English, paying a business visit to London. On the way Vuer, the son of the American, falls in love with an English girl, whose family are as much prejudiced against the United States as are the American representatives against England. Here are the ingredients for much clever comedy, and the result is a laughing success that ends as might be expected with the union of the lovers and the mutual discovery on the part of the two families that the other fellow's country has much to commend it.

From a Canadian viewpoint it may be that the picture of the English family is overdone, and that the American family on the other hand is shown to much better advantage on the whole, although the weaknesses of both are set forth. However, "So This Is London" has been played in England for many months and has been heartily enjoyed by English play-goers, so there is no reason for Canadians to feel in the least disgruntled.

One could wish, however, that the basic idea of this play had occurred to that brilliant young Englishman now living in New York, P. G. Wodehouse, who is more capable of representing England to the Americans and the United States to the English than any writer who comes to mind. Good as is the present vehicle, Wodehouse could have used the idea and made a sensational success out of it.

A splendid cast gives a sparkling presentation of the comedy. Ralph Locke, who is seen as Col. Hiram Draper, the irrepressible American, carries off a large share of the honors. He makes the most out of a part full of possibilities. Reginald Carrington plays Sir Percy Beauchamp in a Lawrence D'Orsay fashion that adds much to the merriment of the evening. Allen H. Moore is convincing as the young American, and Blossom O'Bryan is excellent as the girl of his choice. A particularly successful interpretation is that of Marjorie Dalton as Lady Duckworth, while Eugenie Du Bois scores as Mrs. Draper, and Barbara Allen does excellent work as Lady Beauchamp. Donald Hall's rendition of the part of Alfred Honeycutt is effective, and the other parts are in good hands.

"So This Is London" is one of the best and most amusing productions of the season, and should attract a capacity audience when it is repeated at the Grand to-night.

"THE CAT AND THE CANARY"

For those who love stories dealing in mystery and romance the attraction coming to the Grand Wednesday, February 23 is one of the most satisfying of all plays of this kind, "The Cat and the Canary." The play is well known here. Its success throughout the country has now become theatrical history. It is one of the styles of plays that the public likes and likes very much. "The Cat and the Canary" is filled with thrills, romance and laughter, the elements that usually make a success of any story or play. For those who have not seen it, it may be said that the story deals with the events that follow the reading of a strange will made by an eccentric old man, who died twenty years before the opening of the play. This misanthopic old person detested all of his relatives and his hatred lasted after his death, for he demanded that two of them who should then be alive gather together in the house where he died at midnight on the twentieth anniversay of his death to hear his will read. There are six of these surviving relatives and they obey the call, each hoping to be a substantial beneficiary of the deceased millionaire. Five of them are doomed to disappointment, for the estate goes to a young girl, a struggling artist. Shortly after the reading of the will the startling episodes of the night commence. The wall opens and swallows up one of the characters, a murder is committed, an escaped maniac with homicidal tendencies prowls about, a claw-like hand reaches out of the air and snatches a valuable necklace from the neck of the sleeping girl. These and other strange incidents afford all the thrills necessary to satisying the most enthusiastic hunter after the weird. There is also a very delightful little romance in the play, in which a young boy, of a very bashful nature, falls in love with the heroine and after a very stormy time manages to win her. Fun there is, too, in abundance. The unwarranted scares of the character—and of the audience itself—brings roars of laughter frequently during the performance. The company that gave such an excellent performance of the play during its long New York run is practically intact and will be seen in it here. Among the players are Sylvia Field, Virginia Howell, Clara Verdera, Florence Huntington, Percy Moore, Carl Eckstrom, Walter Regan, Edmund Elton, Ryder Keene and Franklyn Fox.

Curling News

Four postponed games were played last night at the curling rink, with George Morrow and R. G. Sturgeon playing the closest game of the night. R. G. Sturgeon won by one shot, after Morrow had missed the ring in his last shot by inches. Mr. Morrow turned in a good game, and he piloted his team well, but all of Sturgeon's men turned in a good game.

G. B. Boucher and E. L. Payne also played a close game, the former winning by three shots.

Alex. Kay made the high score of the night, and won from his opponent W. G. Menzie, by the score of 16 to 4.

J. W. McDermid also won from T. O. Donaldson's quartette by the score of 12 shots to 7.

Some men would convict God if they could. At Knox to-morrow morning Mr. Mackinnon will deal with this question as presented in Scripture.

In the evening the Rev. Dr. MacMillan, the musician of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, will have charge of the service.

No one should miss hearing Dr. MacMillan.

FIREMAN'S BALL WAS AN ENJOYABLE EVENT

The second annual "At Home" of the Peterborough Fire Fighters, held last evening in the G.W.V.A. Hall, was a very successful and enjoyable event, with an attendance of 234 pople, an increase over last year's number.

The hall was brightly decorated with bunting and flags. Excellent music for dancing was provided by Follis' Four-piece Orchestra, and a programme of popular and old-time numbers was included in the dancing schedule.

Several tables of cards were played upstairs, and a radio outfit supplied by Vernon Fisk, also added to the enjoyment of the evening.

A committee of members, in charge of arrangements was composed of Messrs. R. Carr, R. Rollo, V. Wilson, B. Mason, E. Marchand, and F. Degan, assisted by various members of the staff.

Catering for dainty refreshments was done by Messrs T. H. Hooper & Sons.

During the evening Mayor J. J. Turner and Aldermen Stocker, Jones and Morrison attended, the two latter remaining to take part in the dancing.

The thanks of the Fire Fighters is extended to Peterborough manufacturers who helped to make the occasion a success, among them the establishments of the Quaker Oats Company, the C.G.E. Company, the De Laval Company, the Bonner-Warth and the Auburn Mills.

GREAT WAR VETERANS HAD SOCIAL EVENING

The orchestra and members of the G.W.V.A. held a social evening in their hall Thursday evening, when a hundred and fifty of the members and their friends were present. The vice-president, Comrade Winterbottom, occupied the chair, and a select programme of music was given by Comrades Staricker, Jaap, Cooper, Keller, Hurlle and Miss Tucker. At the conclusion of the programme, refreshments were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary, and the balance of the evening was spent in old-time dancing, terminating at midnight.

During the evening, an address was given by the president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. R. J. Devey, recommending the necessity of co-operation between the G.W.V.A. and the Ladies' Auxiliary, and a brief address was also given by Comrade Winterbottom. Comrade W. G. Nicholls directed the activities of the entertainment committee.

The committee in charge expressed their gratitude to Messrs. Lewis, Nicholls and Jordan, who supplied excellent music for the occasion, also the officers and the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

It was decided to continue these social evenings for the balance of the season. The next one will be held on March 20th, when a cordial invitation was extended to everyone present last evening to again attend.

ST. GEORGE'S WOMEN'S GUILD ELECT OFFICERS.

The Women's Guild of St. George's Anglican Church held their annual meeting Thursday evening, Mrs. W. R. Courage presiding. There was a large attendance. Reports of the year's work were given and discussed, and it was decided to hold a birthday party on Shrove Tuesday, and to hold meetings every fortnight at homes of the members.

Elections for the year resulted as follows: Honorary President, Mrs. W. R. Courage; President, Mrs. J. Brownlee; Vice-President, Mrs. A. Cuffe; Secretary, Mrs. E. Brown; Treasurer, Mrs. H. Rew; Visiting Committee in City, Mesdames W. Rew and Robinson; in Monaghan, Messrs. Monks and James.

Miss Ruby Sharp, 478 Sherbrooke street, is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. M. Wright, who was called to the city to attend the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Jean Bell, returned home to-day.

OBITUARY

JOHN BURNS.

John R. Burns died this morning at 3.30 from heart trouble. Mr. Burns has been in ill-health for about two months, and was in his 75th year.

He has lived in Peterborough the greater part of his life, and for the past twenty-five years has been employed with the William Hamilton Company.

He was a member of the Separate School Board for several years and was also a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his aged mother, Mrs. Mary Burns, who resides at 331 McDonnel Street, three daughters, Mrs. W. Whaley, Mrs. G. Dundas, and Agnes, all of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. D. Dunnivan of this city and Julien and Kathleen at home.

The funeral will take place on Monday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Peter's Cathedral, with interment taking place at St. Peter's Cemetery.

A MOTHER SUICIDED.

LONDON, February 23. — Canadian Press. — A woman about 35 years of age, threw a girl of five and a baby boy from the top of the 280 feet Bell tower of Westminster Cathedral and then plunged to the pavement herself, falling near the dead bodies of her children.

The identity of the woman has not been established.

RUGBY GAMES TO-DAY.

LONDON, Feb. 23. Canadian Press —England defeated France by 19 to 7 and Scotland won from Ireland by 13 to 8 in international Rugby games played to-day. The England-France match was played at Twickenham and the Scotland-Ireland match at Edinburgh.

Recommends Vicks For Pleurisy

Quebec Mother Thankful She Can Now Get Vicks In Canada.

Mrs. J. A. Leblond of 114 Rue Galt, Sherbrooke, Quebec, writes: "Vicks VapoRub is not a new remedy for us, because we have used it in our family for four or five years. We got it from the United States. This shows you how much we think of it. We are glad to get it here now for there is nothing better for pleurisy, chest colds, etc.

Here is the last word in treating cold troubles—rub Vicks well in over throat and chest, get into bed and have the coverings loose about the neck. All night long you breathe in the healing vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Turpentine, etc. The application also acts like a heating liniment or plaster. Usually colds go in one night and croup is commonly relieved in 15 minutes.

Vicks comes as a salve—the external direct treatment for all cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and inhaled as a vapor.

Vicks is the ideal treatment for children' cold troubles; it avoids so much internal dosing.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is now in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

LOTS CAT MEAT ON THE MARKET

Calves' Head With Eyes Thrown in For Good Measure—A Grim Visitor.

The Grim Visitor who reached out a shadowy hand and took to his Father's home a patron of the farmers' market this morning, left little trace of his swift coming.

Half an hour later, the buying and selling of food and the clatter of voices progressed with just as much vigour as on an ordinary day. While the dead man was being carried down the stairs, men and women were haggling over the price of fowl.

Offerings were scarce in the basket section this morning.

"Who would want to come in over those roads if they didn't have to?" asked a woman who had driven in eight miles, and came "because the hens were killed," and she thought she had better bring them in.

A few samples of fowl decorated the tables, at prices of 28 and 25 cents a pound.

Downstairs, a gentleman vendor exhibited a frigid bird that wanted a price of 30 cents a pound from a prospective purchaser.

The men on the open section keep their prices up when it comes to competition with the ladies upstairs.

Butter and eggs were fairly plentiful, both at half a dollar for a pound and dozen, with butter in some instances getting 48 cents a pound.

Cream was 30 cents a pint.

In the open market, there was a forlorn space where the fish man usually disposes of his finny wares.

Many of the farm horses stood tethered to their carts, in contrast to the regular practise of removing them from the shafts during the session of the market. Buying was listless.

Frozen carcasses this morning included portions of veal, selling for 15 and 18 cents a pound. Beef was 10 and 12 cents, pork 14 and 16 cents.

A novelty in the way of meat delicatessen centre contained many stray tit-bits. A subject under discussion by two Celesttials, involving much swift sing-song, was the relative merits for a tasty meal of a veal liver of maroon shade that could be had for 40 cents and the cheaper liver of a pig that had the heart and lights accommodatingly thrown in for two bits.

Companioning these delicacies was a calf's head skinned, the ears shorn away, the eyes thrown in for good measure. This was 15 cents. The owner declared that calves' brains are prized by some epicureans, and that another toothsome morsel in demand by one lady is the rolls of fat that lie adjacent to the stomach of a fat porker.

A pig's head, complete with ears and snout, was 40 cents.

Bunches of celery could be had for a dime. A solitary load of hay was $15.00 and there was less wood than usual on sale. A good big load of hardwood went for $15.00. Mixed loads ranged in price from $9.00 to $12.00.

The auctioneer had a good-looking roan colt for sale, and a white-splashed black yearling, for which he strove to get $45.00.

ANOTHER PEACE CONTEST

ROME, Feb. 23. — (Canadian Press).—Tomasso Tittoni, President of the Senate, yesterday announced the details of the peace prize contest of $3,900 offered by Edward A. Filene, of Boston, which is to be competed for by Italians. Among those serving on the committee with Signor Tittoni are Professor Luigi Luzzatti, former Premier, and Signor Salandra, who also has been Italy's Prime Minister. The contest will close June 30. The first prize will be 100,000 lire, the second 30,000, and the third 20,000. There also will be twenty awards of 2,000 lire and others for smaller amounts.

WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION HAD A GOOD MEETING

Last evening, Mrs. C. Perry, president of the Peterboro Liberal Women's Association, threw open her handsome home on Brock street for a very successful meeting of the organiation attended by about thirty of the members. The evening took the form of an informal discussion of plans for the work of the club. Arrangements were made for holding monthly meetings, at which special speakers will be present. An interesting programme of future events was also sketched. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P. Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, and Mr. J. J. Duffus were present. After the business meeting, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. An interesting musical programme was rendered, with vocal solos by Mrs. F. Flagler, Mrs. R. Bugg, Miss Minnie Allen and Miss R. Hardwick. The entire meeting was characterized by a deep enthupsiasm among the members which promises well for the future activities of the association.

BIRTH.

THORNDYKE. — On 23rd February, 1924, to Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Thorndyke, 597 Bethune Street—a daughter (Shirley Jean).

"AN HOUR WITH SIR J.M. BARRIE"

"An Hour with Sir J. M. Barrie" was enjoyed with the speaker, Rev. Dr. Alex. McMillan of Toronto, at a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club in the Public Library hall, yesterday afternoon, when a goodly number of ladies listened to the soft pleasantness of the revenend gentleman's Scotch accent, as he spoke, with a slow, clear enunciation, of Barrie and his life and works. An evident deep appreciation and love for J. M. Barrie and his work was manifested in the address, which brought out in droll fashion, the whimsical, delicate humour of the author and set a picture of him before the audience.

Saying that Barrie has drawn his own portrait for his readers in various books, the speaker referred to the "Auld Licht Manse", "Auld Licht Idylls," "A Window in Thrums," "The Little Minister," "Sentimental Tommy," "Tommy and Grizel," and "Margaret Ogilvie," as presenting the likeness of the author in their storied pages. From "Margaret Ogilvie", to finish his lecture, he read, in admirable style the chapter dealing with "R.L.S." that wonderful tribute to the work of Robert Louis Stevenson. Several references were mad, also of the famous Rectorial address given at the University of St. Andrew's, when Barrie said: "Mighty are the universities of Scotland and they will prevail, but even in your highest exaltation never forget that there are not four, but five universities. The greatest of these is the poor, proud home you came out of."

"A Window in Thrums," the book which took London by storm, was a delineatin, said the speaker, of the life of the little village of Kerrymuir in Forfarshire, where Barrie was born, and where the hand-loom wevers toiled for that which would provide them with a place in the cemetery when they died. The word "Thrums" for the village was from the well-known expression of the weavers; "threads and thrums."

The school life of the author was noted, from the time when he attended the 'hankie' school, so called because it was an aristocratic establishment that demanded of its scholars the possession of a pocket handkerchief, to his university days in Edinburgh, secured through hard privation on the part of his mother. "An Edinburgh Eleven," by Barrie immortalizes the memory of many of his professors at the college, and humorous reminiscences of those times, with which the speaker was very familiar, having attended the same university at about the same time with Barrie, then all unknown and unfamiliar to his fellow scholars, were much enjoyed by his audience. "The young, pale... dark student," shrinking in fear from his first entrance to the halls of learning, was not prominent on the athletic field, and although the speaker thought that he must often have rubbed shoulders with future famous Scotsman during their joint school days, he never remembered meeting him.

From the university Barrie went to London, to engage in free lance journalism. Sketches of "auld licht" folk from his pen attracted the attention of Robrtson Nicholl editor of The British Weekly, and his encouragement led to the writing and publication of "A Window in Thrums," whence sprang the commencement of youth's fame.

The reverend gentleman alluded to that strang, double personalty of Barrie, on the one hand the shrewd, cold thinker, on the other the Puck-like, imaginative spirit which originated "Peter Pan" and all the whimsical fancies of Peter and Wendy. Outstanding characteristics in his life and work were his intense and abiding love for his mother references to whom make so much of the attraction of his Scottish work, then his whimsical fancy and imagination his reverence, his purity of thought, which make Barre's works "like the hill breezes and the water from the fountain," and finally his abounding and delicate humour.

A hearty vot, of thanks to the speaker was moved at the conclusion of his address, by Miss Amy Halliday and seconded by Mrs. R. R. Hall. The President, Miss A. Lancaster, occupied the chair.

Y'S MASQUERADE PARTY WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

The Ladies' Class of the Young Women's Christian Association held a masquerade and Valentine party Thursday evening, attended by about 60 of the class members and friends. Many original and pretty costumes were worn, the prize going to Miss May Needham of Millbrook, as "Willie," Mrs. M. Comstock, as "Willie's Mother," Miss Mary Elliott as "Willie's Father," Mrs. L. J. LeClair, as "Sassy Sue," Mrs. J. A. McKone, as a Turkish lady, Mrs. H. Beal, as "Honolulu," Mrs. R. Grant, as a Harem lady, Miss J. McRae, as "Sis Hopkins," and Mrs. G. Coutts, as "Spinning Top."

The evening opened with a Grand March, followed by contests and games, matching hearts for partners, and an alphabet game, which provoked much laughter, as the different sides competed. Tea cups were read and fortunes told by Miss M. Foote in Gypsy costume. A flash-light picture was taken of the group around the hall fireplace, and refreshments were served in the green room. The prizes for the best costumes were balloons, candy sticks, balls and whistles, for which the winners had to make a speech, sing or do a stunt.

Accompanists for the evening were a clever trio: Miss Margaret Widdess at the piano; Stewart Widdess, playing the piano, and Wilson Dunlop, with the traps.

CROWN PROSECUTOR IS PLEASED WITH POLICE

Seen before his departure to his home in Kingston, A. B. Cunningham, K.C., Crown prosecutor in the case of John Schell, charged with the murder of George Washington MacNeal, remarked on the efficiency of the Provincial police in this district.

"There's one thing about the Provincial officers in this district," he said, "they know how to go into the witness-box and give direct, clear evidence."

SURPRISE PARTY GIVEN TO PROSPECTIVE BRIDE

A very enjoyable surprise shower was given at the home of Miss Mary Carey, Prince street, last night in honor of Eva Bidgood, whose marriage takes place on Monday.

The bride to be was the recipient of many beautiful gifts from the staff of Barries Limited and her girl friends.

A very pleasant evening was spent in a musical programme and dancing.

PARLIAMENT TO OPEN THURSDAY HEAVY SESSION

Cabinet Busy For Weeks On Estimates and General Business—Government Has Technical Minority of Four and Conservatives Are Preparing to Give Battle.

AGENDA IS BULKY.

OTTAWA, Feb. 25. — (Canadian Press). — Decks are being cleared for the opening of Parliament by the Governor-General on Thursday next. For weeks past, the Cabinet has been meeting almost every day on the revision of estimates and the consideration of sessional business generally. The next few days will be devoted to the speech from the Throne, in which His Excellency will outline the Government's legislative programme for the session.

Redistribution which was before a special committee last session but failed to pass, will again be submitted to Parliament. The bill to provide for branch line construction on the Canadian National is to be re-introduced; and here there seems likelihood of a sharp clash with the Senate. Last year, the Senate threw out the Government Branch Line Bill on the ground that it embodied a three-year constructional program.

Opponents of the measure took the view that the work should proceed by way of annual estimates instead of a three-year program. This year's bill, it has been intimated, however, will again embody the three year principle. Its fate in the Upper House will be followed with unusual interest.

Items on Agenda.

Other features of the Government's program (some of these, however, are based merely on conjecture) are likely to be:

Superannuation scheme for the Civil Service with possible limitation of the powers of the Civil Service Commission.

Elimination from the Immigration Act and Criminal Code of the more drastic provisions regarding sedition.

Changes in the administration of the Sales Tax.

Amendment of the Bank Act respecting inspection.

Amendment of the Act passed last session in regard to freight rates on the Great Lakes.

Amendment to the Dominion Elections Act.

Home Bank Failure.

Apart from the program of the Government, private members will have a host of tonics for discussion in the House, either by way of academic resolutions or legislative proposals. The failure of the Home Bank is expected to be before the House in the early days of the session. There will be discussions on the St. Lawrence waterway project, proportional representation, race track betting, coal supply and rural credits—and these are but subjects of which notice has already been given by way of formal notice of motion. Others will come later.

Political Aspect.

But interest in the session will lie largely in its effect on the political situation. The Government meets Parliament this year in a technical minority of four. Two of its most experienced Parliamentarians, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, and Sir Lomer Gouin, former Minister of Justice, are unlikely to take any active part. As a consequence of the position, the Government will necessarily be dependent on a certain measure of Progressive support. What, it is asked, will be the effect on the Government's fiscal policy? There has been rumor of tariff reductions, particularly in regard to agricultural implements and fertilizers. In any event, the next Budget will have particular interest.

Again, there has been recurring talk that the coming session will be the last of the present Government. Conservatives apparently are preparing for battle from the outset.

The usually prosaic debate on the address may not be without its spectacular incidents.

The debate on the address will be opened by F. L. Kelly, Liberal member for North Cape Breton and Victoria. A. E. Lapierre, Liberal member for Nipissing, will second the address. The House will adjourn until Monday afternoon next immediately after the formal opening ceremonies on Thursday. The routine business of Parliament therefore does not begin until March 3.

Woodstock Orders Billboards Moved

WOODSTOCK, February 25 (Canadian Press).—Orders have been issued to the local theatre proprietors and to others to the effect that in future bill boards will be barred from the city streets.

In the past, bill boards have been placed at the more prominent street corners, and during the recent stormy weather they have been the cause of minor mishaps.

The police have, therefore, been given instructions by the Board of Works to take action against any persons who violate this rule, on the ground that these bill boards constitute a public nuisance.

GOUIN AGAINST POWER EXPORT

Sale to the United States Would Not Be Largely Profitable and Would Foster Competition in Border States.

MONTREAL, Feb. 25—"I am opposed to the idea of exporting power from Canada to the United States under present conditions," was the declaration of Sir Lomer Gouin, former Canadian Minister of Justice and actively associated with a number of financial and industrial concerns in this Province, on the eve of his departure for Panama.

Sir Lomer pointed out that the marked growth of industries in Eastern Canada and particularly in the Province of Quebec in the past twenty years had been largely a result of the availability of relatively cheap hydro-electric power. To tie up for a long term of years Canadian power in competitive foreign industries, he thought, would be incurring too serious a possibility of halting Canadian industrial growth which at its recent rate of progress would soon overtake all power developed and much of the potential supply.

The export of power from Canadian sources to industrial districts in the Northeastern section of the United States would, in his opinion be placing at the disposal of United States industrialists a Canadian raw material from the sale of which the profit to Canada would not be large, but which would be used as an element for cheap production to bring Canadian industries into still further disadvantage in competition with those across the border.

BLOOD SHED IN INDIAN TROUBLE

Religious Outbreak in Punjab Inflamed By the Sikhs Who Were Turned Away From Vancouver.

LONDON, Feb. 25. — (Canadian Press).—The Akali outbreak in Punjab is the outcome of an agitation which at first was religious in its aims, but later assumed a political aspect and was reinforced by the return from Vancouver, B.C., of ex-service Sikhs who were refused permission to land there. The movement up to the present has been of a passive resistance character, and the question now asked in London is whether the invasion of Nabha which ended in bloodshed Saturday, means that its leaders are resolved on a policy of actual violence which might set fire to the explosive elements that the Akalis have assembled in Punjab.

The reason why the little state of Nabha has been selected by the Akalis for their latest demonstration is not merely because it contains the Sikh shrine of Jaito but because the Akalis have actively identified themselves with the cause of the Maharajah of Nabha, whom the Indian Government forced to abdicate last year on account of his feud with the neighboring state of Patiala.

CANADA FORBIDS CATTLE IMPORTS FROM NEIGHBOR

Embargo Declared Along Border Near Pacific Coast Following Report of Foot-and-Mouth in California —Indefinite Period.

STRAW ALSO BARRED.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 25—(Canadian Press)— A cattle embargo, which prohibits the importation into Canada of practically all live stock, as well as hay, straw and fodder from the States of California, Oregon and Nevada, was imposed by the Dominion Department of Agriculture Saturday night.

Having received confirmation from Washington of a report that foot and mouth disease had broken out in Alameda County, California, the Federal authorities decided to forbid the importation of cattle, sheep, swine, goats, dogs and poultry, as well as their flesh, hides, horns, hoofs, or any other parts, or of hay, straw, fodder or manure from these three States. The order applies to Oreogn and Nevada because they border on California. It remains in force until assurance is received from the United States Government that the foot and mouth disease is wiped out.

Curiously the embargo chiefly affects industries other than cattle breeders. Canada imports very little stock from these three States, except an occasional pure-bred animal for breeding. But the embargo against straw will prevent its use as packing material by shippers of commodities such as canned and bottled goods, which have a steady market in Canada. The Department of Agriculture last night said that the embargo would be applied against straw packing. This order does not apply to shipments of cured meats, lard or tallow.

Six herds, involving 663 cattle and 200 hogs, are infected, for the most part, in Alameda County.

OSHAWA HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Motor Town Team Challenge Petes for Brown Cup and Expect to Win

Although the Petes have a bye this week and have to wait for the result of the Guelph-New Hamburg and Niagara Falls-Collingwood series to see who their next opponents will be, probably in the O.H.A. finals, the fans will have an opportunity of seeing them in action.

The Oshawa Club has challenged for the Brown Challenge Cup, put up for competition by Mr. Andrew Brown of Peterborough and won by the Petes last year. The game will be played at Brock street rink on Wednesday and in accordance with the terms of Mr. Brown's gift, the proceeds after expenses are paid, will be turned over to the Rotary Club to assist the work on behalf of crippled children.

Wednesday's game will, therefore, serve a three-fold purpose as it will keep the Petes in shape for their O. H.A. test, provide the fans with a rattling good game of hockey and assist a most worthy movement.

Oshawa will be stronger than in the O.H.A. series, as Micky Murray will play goal for them, and with the permission of the Petes, they will use Carter, the crack Port Hope defence man, hailed as one of the best hockey players in the east. This combination will keep the Petes busy holding on to the trophy they won last year.

THE WEATHER.

On Sunday morning the thermometer was down to 13 degrees below zero, but the day was bright and clear, with the temperature rising to 23 degrees. This (Monday) morning at daybreak it was down to 12 below, with a heavy hoar frost, indicative of a change, probably to milder. From all accounts, while we have abundance of snow in this section we have escaped lightly compared with sections west, north and east.—W. P.

LUDENDORFF TRIAL NOT BEING STOPPED

BERLIN, February 25 (Special Cable to The Examiner). — Despite the thousands of appeals which have reached him from all parts of Germany, General Von Hindenburg stated to-day that he would make no effort to intervene and prevent the trial of General Ludendorff.

"It was said," said Von Hindenburg, "to see a true war comrade confronted by such a situation; but every loyal German must rely upon the trial being conducted in a spirit of fairness."

General Erich Ludendorff and Adolph Hitler were arrested in Munich by Dictator Von Kahr early in November, after the attempted Monarchist rising of which they were the instigators, had been subdued in less than 24 hours by the Berlin troops.

Make Liquor Deals in Police Station

WINDSOR, Ont., February 24 (Canadian Press).—"Mossy" Winters, an inspector for the Children's Aid Society, made a report to the police on Saturday that the washroom at the new police building is being utilised as a meeting place by individuals who are interested in liquor transactions.

Winters says he overheard one man giving his order for a case of beer to be sent to his home, while another paid a bootlegger for a "consignment" he had received.

Winters says the men had disappeared when he reached the room where the were conversing.

Chief Thompson has ordered the matter investigated.

DERAILED FREIGHT KILLED THREE MEN

All Were Harvesters and Old Country Men Shovelling Snow in Mimico Yard.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Three men, one a member of a band of stranded British harvesters and others, also old country men, were crushed to death instantly on Saturday afternoon in the Canadian National Railway yards at Mimico. The triple fatality was the outcome of a shunted freight car slipping off the icy rails and pinning the men who were engaged in shovelling snow against a standing freight car on another track. The victims, who had been employed there only three days, were all Great War Veterans, having served with Imperial regiments. They were: George Platt, married, aged 29 years, of Manchester, England, arrived in Canada last November. He had been rooming with his wife and three children on Strathcona avenue. Fred Ward, married aged 25 years, of Dromfield, Derbyshire, England, British harvester. He had been rooming on Church street, widow in England, arrived in Canada last August. Sidney J. Harper, single, aged about 45 years, of Buckinghamshire, England, arrived i Canada four weeks ago, mother and sister living in England.

Two other men, Ernest Reid, in charge of a car being loaded with snow for removal from yards and a brakeman narrowly escaped the fate of the other three. They saw the freight car leave the tracks in time to jump between two of the standing freight cars.

ALEX AUSTIN HURT WHEN HORSE BOLTS

Injuries to Chest and Back May Be Serious For 80 Year Old Man.

Alexander Austin, Barnardo avenue, was injured this morning when he was thrown from a cutter on George street, and it is feared in view of his being nearly 80 years of age, the accident may have serious results.

Mr. Austin was driving a five-yearold colt, which after throwing the driver to the roadway and scattering three bags of coal in its wake, bolted south on George street, west on Hunter, south on Aylmer and east on Simcoe, where it was caught by Constable Graham Bromley.

In the meantime Dr. T. W. H. Young was called to the scene of the accident, but the injured man refused his services. Mr. Austin was resting in Howland's butcher shop, and was taken by the police to Dr. H. M. Yelland. He was hurt about the chest, back and face.

MRS. W. R. MORRIS GIVES HER VERSION OF TORONTO TRIP

Says Use of South Central School for Vocational Training Would Be a Poor Makeshift--The Toronto Interview With Departmental Officials.

"It has been an unwritten law of the Board of Education, that information concerning business still in Committee stage, and unfinished, should not be given to the press," said Mrs. W. R. Morris, in an interview to-day.

"I was therefore surprised to find that both Friday's and Saturday's Examiner carried references to the proposal to use the South Central School as a Vocational School. As this matter is so far merely a suggestion that is being examined, and since the subject has been opened to the public, it is quite in order that I, as chairman of the Vocational Committee, should give an outline of the facts.

"The deputation that interviewed the Minister of Education was authorized by the Advisory Vocational Committee to inquire whether the Department of Education would permit vocational training to be established in this building, and if so, what grants would be available. Following a short talk with the Minister, the deputation met Dr. Merchant, Superintendent of Education, who, with Mr. F. P. Gavin, Director of Technical Education, has charge of these matters.

The statement in Saturday's Examiner that the Director of Technical Education was sympathetic to the proposition is incorrect, as he simply received the plans, stated he would examine them, and the school, in the near future, and report his findings.

"The Minister was cordial and sympathetic towards vocational training, but of course leaves details to his Department heads.

"The Superintendent of Education, Dr. Merchant, is always cordial and strictly fair. He was sympathetic towards our economic limitations, but not enthusiastic for the proposition outlined to him. His opinion was frankly and plainly expressed, and he called attention to several phases of the problem, all of which will be reported at the proper place and time.

"The statement in Friday's Examiner that 'the project (to use the South Central School as a Vocational School) would take the place of the proposed Combination Technical and High School,' shows complete ignorance of the facts. This South Central project gives the Collegiate nothing. The Collegiate will still lack Manual Training Department, Domestic Science Department, Gymnasium and Class Rooms for County pupils and future growth of attendance, all of which the Combination school plan provides.

"The South Central Vocational School would have the commercial classes, as at present, and shops for industrial work for boys; nothing is provided for girls' vocational training, no gymnasium and no class rooms for future growth of attendance. All these features are provided in the Combination school plan, as well as shops and laboratories. Therefore, the statement that a proposition which adds nothing to the Collegiate, gives no vocational training for girls, no gymnasium for either boys or girls, and makes no provision for future increased attendance, will take the place of a proposition which meets every requirement for Technical Collegiate Education for years to come is certainly not correct.

SEVEN DEAD ALREADY FROM SMALLPOX WITH 30 CASES AT WINDSOR

Doctors Erred in Diagnosis of First Case Which They Failed to Recognize--Five Persons Die In Two Days — Vaccination May Be Made Compulsory.

SITUATION GRAVE.

WINDSOR, February 25 (Canadian Press). — The smallpox situation in Windsor and vicinity has become so serious that Dr. Fred Adams, medical health officer, announced yesterday that the Board of Health offices will be kept open both afternoon and evening as well as Sundays, so that those desiring vaccination may be given prompt attention.

There are now more than 30 cases of the disease in Windsor and adjacent municipalities, some of which are regarded as critical.

Dr. Adams does not hesitate to say that unless prompt measures are taken to check the progress of the disease an epidemic may develop.

At Amherstburg eleven cases are said to exist, and several in Detroit, all of which, it is believed, are traceable to Windsor.

The fact that the death of Gordon Deneau at his home on Moy Avenue two weeks ago was not generally known until Friday last.

Dr. Adams says that several physicians who saw Deneau during his illness failed to diagnose the true cause of the unusual symptoms accompanying its development.

Seven deaths have already occurred in Windsor and adjacent municipalities from the disease, five within the past 48 hours.

An official of the Provincial Board of Health was expected to arrive from Toronto last night to deal with the situation.

In several of the fatalities the patients have died in from 12 to 18 hours after being stricken.

No compulsory vaccination order has yet been issued, but one is expected within 48 hours.

All the churches in Amherstburg were ordered closed.

Schools also will be closed until vaccinations have been completed.

The Detroit Board of Health telegraphed the Surgeon-General of the United States at Washington asking that a quarantine be declared against Windsor because of the smallpox situation.

Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Provincial Minister of Health, stated last night that the Department had taken immediate hold of the Windsor situation, and would take drastic steps, if necessary, to hold the smallpox menace in check.

Hon. Dr. Godfrey stated that it was a "hemorrhagic outbreak," and that it had assumed a very malignant form.

Dr. McCullough, Provincial Health Officer, stated this morning that the Department was doing everything within its power to assist the city of Windsor in fighting the serious outbreak of smallpox in that city. Two doctors have gone up from the Department and large quantities of vaccine have been sent.

"We have advised general vaccination," said Dr. McCullough. "I understand that the municipality of Windsor has ordered such vaccination."

He added that the municipality, and not the Department, had power to make vaccination compulsory. Windsor officials were fully alive to the situation he stated. Latest reports to the Department were that there had already been seven deaths in Windsor from the disease and that 30 others were seriously ill. The type of smallpox in Windsor is much more virulent than others which have broken out in various parts of the province at different times during the past few years.

Beer Procession Ran Into Ambush

SARNIA, Ont., February 25 (Canadian Press). — Taking advantage of the ice-bridge which stretches from Fort Lambton to the American side, seven motor loads of Canadian beer were safely transported across, and were started toward Detroit when, near Algonac, the drivers were held up and the entire shipment of 250 cases seized and the drivers, all Detroit men, arrested.

POLICE ESTIMATES TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE COUNCIL ON TUESDAY

Mayor J. J. Turner Moves for a Reduction of Two Men -- Commissioners Had a Meeting

POLICE IN "RAGS"

Mayor J. J. Turner, in spite of his belief expressed definitely a week ago that the city's police force at its present strength is essential, said at Saturday's meeting of the Police Commission, he was compelled by the feeling of the City Council and among citizens to suggest that two men be dropped in order to keep the appropriation for the police department down to $25,000.

He paid a tribute to the efficiency and reliability of the force, but said public opinion was insistent for economy and curtailing of expenditures.

He challenged the item of $1,200 set down for clothing and asked that a detailed statement be supplied, while Magistrate O. A. Langley remarked that less than $100 does not seem exhorbitant to clothe a man for a year. "It costs me more than that," he said.

The Mayor's suggestion that the appropriation be cut to $25,000 was opposed by the other Commissioners, who remarked that they should not pre-suppose a pruning but should name what they considered necessary.

In discussing the estimates, Mayor J. J. Turner remarked that the City Council had set aside $25,000 last year and would probably name the same figure this year. In an endeavor to keep within that figure he suggested that the force be reduced by two men. To this end he would have to move an amendment to the resolution passed last week, declaring 14 men and the Chief essential. This was, he said, sinking his personal opinion that the city needed the present force in order to meet the views of the City Council. Reducing the clothing appropriation by half, car maintenance and the Chief's convention expenses would keep the estimates down to the $25,000 figure.

Magistrate Langley said it seemed to him that the decision of the court in Newhall versus Peterboro indicated the City Council has the power to set aside a certain figure for the police department. "It seems to me that it is necessary for us to set down what we consider necessary, and then if they say $20,000 or $25,000, we must abide by it.

"I would suggest that we pass the estimates at the figure that we as reasonable men consider essential and leave it to the City Council to pare them down if they think it advisable.

If they cut out clothing it indicates they do not wish the city police force to be uniformed. Once they say to face we must do it, but we have no right to suppose they will pare our estimates.

The decision throws the responsibility on the city council. We should use our own good judgment as to what is required."

Mayor Turner suggested that the clerical work of the police department might be done in the central office of the city clerk.

Magistrate Langley: "I can see where some thing might be saved in that way but it would thrust more work on this office."

Chief Newhall said the men are walking around in rags, under their overcoats. The $1,200 set down for clothing includes two suits and an overcoat for each man. He had gone to the bottom of the question thoroughly.

Mayor Turner: "Is the car more important than men?"

"The car takes the place of five or six men."

"Then if the council decides to cut the appropriation you would rather do without a man than the car?"

"I don't know that I can do with out either."

"You might use the motor cycle for the night patrol."

"Many nights in summer when it is wet you couldn't go around on the motor cycle for this skidding, ou would have some broken bonts."

"We have to take care of the $4,000 from last year. I am going to suggest that the Aldermen take care

WASHINGTON FELT EARTHQUAKE SHOCK

WASHINGTON, February 25 (Canadian Press). — An earthquake shock of moderate intensit, lasting from 1.04 a.m. to 1.25 a.m., was registered during Saturday night on the Georgetown University seismograph.

The location was estimated by Father Tondorff to be 2,100 miles distant from Washington.

CITY COUNCIL PLANS ANNUAL PRUNING BEE

Only the Skeletons of Some Estimates May Emerge From Under the Sharpened Hooks Tomorrow Night -- Many Demands Must Be Considered.

USE DISCRETION

The pruning hooks of the City Fathers are ground and honed to a sharp edge for the trimming tomorrow night of appropriations that show signs of sprouting into too great bushiness under the ministering hands of honest-minded councillors, who believe their suggestions necessary to the well-being of the community and of faddists who want the city to support this, that and the other project of doubtful importance or usefulness.

A rough glance at the municipal requirements for the year indicates that the tax rate threatens to exceed last year's, unless there is real retrenchment in all departments, and when the City Council gets down to business in Committee of the Whole to-morrow night in budget making, Mayor Turner and his merry men will find ample opportunity for implementing their pre-election promises of economy with efficiency.

There is danger in applying the knife to requested grants that the personal opinion of individual councillors may be allowed to dictate the policy. One man may consider the Children's Aid the most important organization in the city, while another leans toward the Well Babies' Clinic or the Exhibition, while a fourth, whose hobby or business is poultry raising, may believe the Poultry Show overshadows all other activities. With the almost universal demand, that is sweeping the country with constantly increasing power, calling for economy in all administrations, it will be the duty of the City Council of Peterboro to determine what the reasonable body of taxpayers want, and to put that into effect.

Economy, another word for which is good husbandry, does not necessarily mean cheeseparing. For this year at any rate the man who has sensed the spirit of public opinion will decide that frills have no place in civic administration.

Constructive economy will not permit the bridges in the city to fall under a loaded truck for want of repair, but will not saddle the taxpayers with the expenses of a project that looks only to the beautification of an isolated spot.

Economy with efficiency will not allow the walls of the city building to fall, but on the other hand it will not spend money in a project that will be useless when Peterboro erects its new city buildings, as it must do in a few years to retain its dignity among the cities of the province.

Plain economy will not justify the endangering of the lives of citizens from any cause in favor of frills and fluffs. Embellishments and anything that savors of faddism should give way to the plain everyday needs of the community.

The citizens of Peterboro expect the City Fathers to do their duty tomorrow night, but they also expect that the municipal pruning hook will be used with discretion.

A new comparison gage is equipped with a dial on which variations from standard measurements are shown in thousandths of an inch.

APSLEY WOODSMAN HAD A CLOSE CALL

Roland Tucker Nearly Lost His Eyesight and Stanley Windsor Was Hurt.

APSLEY, Feb. 25.—Roland Tucker narrowly escaped losing his eyesight last week while skidding logs in the woods, being struck on the head and face by a "sailer". It was feared at first that the sight of one eye was totally destroyed, but this danger now seems averted.

Today Stanley Windsor also escaped injury from a falling limb which struck him on the head leaving a nasty scalp wound which wile not incapacitating him, is painful enough.

A good two hours programme of movies and music was given in the Parish room on Tuesday night, Mrs. C. Smith and Miss M. Spence playing violin duets with Mr. Spence accompanying on the piano. Mrs. C. Smith also sang "Her Bright Smile Haunts Me Still." Mr. Spence announced that owing to repeated requests he will re-commence the practices of the Choral Society on Monday evenings, beginning next week.

A silhouette party was held in the Parish room on Valentine's Day, when the programme of dances was thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd present. All fancy costumes were in black which made a striking contrast against the brightly decorated room. Among the more noticeable ones were Mrs. J. Downing, Misses M. Hales, C. and P. Spence, fancy Valentines; M. Windsor, Queen of Hearts; M. Spence, Early Victorian; Herb Lean, cowboy; C. Smith, clown; P. Willis, Professor; W. Collins, Friar; T. Lean, Dutchman; R. Brown, J. Coones, fancy.

NEWS FROM WARSAW AND THE DISTRICT.

WARSAW, Feb. 25.—Miss Helen Bowen has put in her three months as a probationer in Belleville Hospital and has been accepted as a nurse-in-training.

The Warsaw hockey team has aroused much interest. The players have no home ice to play on but they are consistent winners. Some of the young men are doing their quota of farm work every day. The same men are in the team every time.

Miss Alice Payne, at present employed in a Rochester office, has passed a series of pyschological tests of musical capacities. The last two tests of one hour each, were very hard, on Time and Consonance. She has qualified and is registered as a student in Eastman's School of Music, University of Rochester. The teachers are all European.

Mrs. Richard Thompson is at Fenella with her sister, Mrs. Luther Payne, who is seriously ill.

The "Busy Bees" mission band will meet in the Methodist Basement Saturday afternoon, under the leadership of Mrs. James Greystock.

The Women's Institute held a very successful open meeting on Thursday evening. Rev. F. G. Weir was chairman. Following is the program: Opening, all sang "Institute Ode"; chairman's address; all sang "Blest be the Tie that Binds" (which is much used in the Institute); Recitation, "Passers-by," Miss Helen Floyd; address, Rev. F. G. Weir (Mr. Weir was asked to speak on "The Responsibility upon Women to Vote"); community singing, "Oh, Canada," also "Long, Long Trail"; recitation, Miss Cressa Crowe, "When Dad has the Rheumatiz"; address, Dr. Munro, in which he strongly advised people to stick to the land, the hard times are not yet fully come to urban centres, but they surely will; Lullaby song, Mrs. Geo. Taylor; community singing, "Tipperary"; solo, Miss Ferena Cooper; (Rev. Mr. Atkinson had to be elsewhere, or he would have given an address); solo, Mrs. Foster; community singing, "Swanee River"; solo, Henry Batten; a meeting of the North Dummer Minstrel and Debating club, comprising Messrs. Garfield Crowe, Mark Thurston, Hilliard Jory, Ralph Hamilton, Gordon Hamblin and Henry Batten.

Light refreshments were served. At the next meeting to be held in the Institute rooms, March 13th, Rev. Mr. Atkinson will address those present on "The Advantages of Travel." All are cordially invited.

On Thursday evening the young people at Cotessloe held a valentine social. Valentine decorations, hearts for supper partners, contests etc. They spent a very pleasant evening. On March 17th the Woman's Missionary Society of Cotessloe purpose holding a pie-social.

New Supplies Purchased For the Department — Accounts Paid.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 25.—Hydro-Electric Commission of Havelock met in Council Chamber on Thursday evening with the following commissioners present: W. A. McMaster, and Reeve Curtis. Chairman Wm. Rose was unavoidably absent.

Minutes of previous meeting read and approved as read.

Communications

Employer's pay-roll to Workmen's Compensation Board; Hydro Electric Power Commission's advice concerning basis of contract for build of line to Robert McMillan's residence; balance of Toronto Hydro-Electric bill against F. G. Jackson, amounting to $2.81, requesting a collection; rate for electric furnaces used for the heating of houses and commission's ruling re rate adjustment, were read and Secretary instructed to file the same.

Communication from Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, advising the purchase of a pair of rubber blankets , a volt meter and a Lincoln demand ammeter set for the joint use of Havelock and Norwood commissions was acted on by the Havelock commission favoring the purchase of two rubber blankets at $15.70 each and a volt meter at $75.00. Secretary was instructed to write Norwood commission, asking them to concur in this purchase.

POLICE ESTIMATES

of that out of some other fund and not out of this appropriation. Then there is this account of Mr. Hall's."

Judge Huycke: "For patrolling would a cheaper car serve the purpose?"

Chief Newhall: "Yes, but it is just on these patrols that you run into the need for the speedster. There is crazy talk around the city that we shouldn't protect the banks so much. Since the banks have been insured against theft they don't care whether they are robbed or not. As soon as you enter a bank with a revolver up go their hands. But we have to look out for the lives of citizens who might be shot in a hold-up. The men who guard the banks in the morning are doing other patrol work at the same time. One man put in six weeks of his own time in guarding the banks last year during the hours they were transferring money."

The commissioners agreed with Chief Newhall that it is in the interests of citizens at large that the banks should have extra attention during the hour in the morning at which money is being transferred.

Regarding the shortage of men, Chief Newhall said on Wednesday and Thursday, while High Court was sitting, he had to make 11 policemen do the work of 23, a number being required in the court-room and other calls being considered.

"If the Aldermen would come around and see for themselves and take an interest in the police force," he said, "they would see for themselves what we are up against."

Mayor Turner—"If what they tell me is correct, when you were asked to come in to a meeting here you refused."

"That's not right. They wanted me here to enter an argument about Mr. Wearing. I happened to hear some of their remarks that night and wouldn't come in. I wouldn't be drawn into any argument. When you have been standing listening to uncalled for remarks and lies you wouldn't talk straight to anyone."

Mayor Turner—"Suppose I arrange a half-hour conference on Tuesday, will you come in and tell the Aldermen about your needs?"

"Last time I was insulted by one of your Aldermen, who said I should pay a proportion of the taxes, and remarked on my living outside the city limits."

Judge Huycke remarked that out of the conflict between the City Council and the police department has arisen demoralization in the force.

Fears Men Will Leave.

Chief Newhall—"There are several men looking for other jobs now, and we are afraid that in the spring we will not have more than four of the old men left. Toronto, Hamilton and Stratford and Chief Thompson would take our young men any time. I can't think what the Council have in them."

Judge Huycke—"If the Mayor will go with you on Tuesday to have a talk with the Council I think it would be a splendid idea."

Mayor Turner asked Chief Newhall to attend a committee of the whole meeting on Tuesday.

Chief Newhall said that he would rather have the councillors call in three at a time, when he would take them over the affairs of the force thoroughly.

Mayor Turner objected that this would take too long.

Mayor had no Seconder.

Judge Huycke and Magistrate Langley agreed that the Police Commission should recommend what it considers necessary, and leave the cutting, if any is meditated, to the City Council. "To say what police force is necessary to protect the lives and property of the people of Peterboro is our jurisdiction."

Chief Newhall declared 15 spring suits are now needed. The English suits were cheaper but he said he could not get them again after the criticism offered last time. "Suppose we say $1000 for clothing, and then run over that?"

Mayor Turner declared if $25,000 or $27,000 is passed we are not going over that. "Would I have any seconder if I moved that the estimates for 1924 be $25,000?"

Judge Huyck: "I don't think we can conscientiously do that. It is our duty to point out what we consider necessary."

Magistrate Langley moved the adoption of estimates totalling $29,148, including $1800, being the cost of a new automobile, less the allowance for the old car.

If a new car is not bought the estimate for the upkeep of car, motor cycle and bicycles will be increased by $500.

The motion was seconded by Judge Huycke, and passed, with Mayor Turner voting contrary.

Chief Newhall will examine the men's clothing to see whether the suggested appropriation of $1200 can be cut down.

Investigation Account.

R. R. Hall, K.C., presented his account for $550, being his charge for conducting the police case in last February's investigation.

Another Tag Day.

Mrs. J. J. Lynch asked permission to hold a tag day on March 17th for St. Vincents' Orphanage, which was granted.

THE LIFE WITHIN

True religion is a life-force which when strong enough will burst through the old dead husk and live its own life and expand to its full capacity and beauty as designed by the Great Designer, it will be a life different altogether from the mere dead formalist, for religion to him will not be performances but a life to be lived, he will not be content to appear righteous he will be righteous as the Father intended he should be when he hid in him the form and design of his own special work of life.

One great example did not try to conform to the dead unjust hypocritical religion of His days for in Him was life, the true life, which he intended from the very first to live and to glorify and make known to men what God really was and He could say truly—he that hath seen me hath seen the Father.

Faith In Operation

Faith is not dead belief, but inspiring confidence. And when we have thus once in truth believed with the heart, then begins, on the side of man also, the history of the salvation of the Christian soul. Belief becomes self-surrender; self-surrender becomes self-conquest, self-conquest rises into mystical incorporation with Christ in unity of love and life, and this passive union soon passes into an active force, the life in Christ, the life not in the flesh but in the spirit.

Bowling Club Held Euchre Party—Social Events.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb, 25.—The members of the Lawn Tennis and Bowling Club held a successful euchre party in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, at which over 200 invited guests were present. The pleasant social function was managed by Mrs. A. J. Meyers, and the treasury of the club was enriched to the amount of $50.

Handsome prizes were presented by Dr. H. B. Longmore, A. L. Reindeau, Mrs. Fred Wilsher, and Mrs. T. S. Tait. In the competition Mrs. George O'Sullivan and Earl Greig were tied for the prize for lone hands and they cut the cards to decide, Mrs. O'Sullivan proving the winner.

Dr. O. C. Watson and C. S. Gillespie were tied for the prize for games and Mr. Gillespie won when the cards were cut to break the tie.

Mrs. S. Wallace won the prize for lone hands held by a lady, and the consolation prize went to Mrs. S. Shea.

The club of which A. J. Meyers is president, is looking forward to a successful season.

Game Postponed.

The hockey game between the girls team of Campbellford and Lakefield, announced to be played in the latter place last night, was postponed owing to the absence of Manager Davidson from town.

C. H. Davidson and Roy Bell went to Belleville to attend the annual gathering and banquet of the Chevrolet car salesmen.

Buried at Belleville.

Ex-Reeve Anderson was in Belleville yesterday attending the funeral of Harry C. Males, a cousin of Mrs. Anderson, who died recently in Halifax, N. S., where he held the position of assistant manager of the branch of the Bank of Commerce in that city. The deceased was a native of Belleville. He was 34 years old and unmarried. For a number of years he was located in New York, and was afterwards sent to the West Indies to establish branches there. A year ago he was sent to Halifax, and an order had been issued transferring him to the head bank in Toronto, when his death intervened. He had been ill only a few days with pneumonia.

A remarkable instance of friendship came to light in connection with the death of Mr. Males. Mrs. Acres, an elderly lady, in whose house he occupied apartments during his seven or eight years' residence in New York, when she heard of his death went all the way to Halifax and followed the remains to Belleville, in spite of the hardships of travel due to the storm. Two young bankers, now in Montreal, who roomed with the deceased in New York, also attended the funeral. The bank inspector of Halifax was also among the mourners, and the casket was heaped with wreaths by sorrowing friends, who held the late Mr. Males in the highest esteem.

Besides Mrs. Anderson the deceased is survived by a number of relatives including F. J. Males, an uncle in Toronto. Mr. Males accompanied Mr. Anderson on the return trip to Campbellford and will spend a few days here.

Afternoon Tea.

Mrs. Earl Greig entertained about 15 lady friends at the afternoon tea yesterday. A contest was held during the afternoon, the winner being Mrs. (Dr.) O. C. Watson. Mrs. Greig will give another tea Monday afternoon.

Picture For Militia Department.

A. H. McKeel has had F. C. Bonnycastle make an enlarged photo of the soldiers' memorial, one of the finest monuments of its class, that was unveiled at Trent Bridge last summer. This picture has been handsomely framed in oak and Mr. McKeel intends to present it to the Militia Department. He wrote recently to Hon. George G. Graham asking him to set a date for the presentation. He received a reply yesterday, complimenting Mr. McKeel and the people of the district on what had been accomplished and expressing appreciation of the offer. He added that in a day or two he would be in a position to make a definite appointment.

At the Regent.

"The Merry-Go-Round" is certainly one of the most elaborate pictures ever seen here and it is drawing large houses at the Regent. The advance notices which it received were in no particular exaggerated. The spectacle of the defeated Austrian army in full retreat, thousands of men on foot and on horseback, with shells exploding on all sides of them, probably surpassed anything ever shown on the screen before a Campbellford audience. The picture will be shown again to-night and there will be a matinee at 2 o'clock.

Cooking Sale.

The home cooking sale and afternoon tea held in the Methodist church Sunday school room was a fair success in spite of the cold weather. The tea room was decorated with yellow and white streamers on the large table and, those assisting in the tea room were: Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Fry, Mrs. Chappell, Mrs. Palisier, Mrs. W. Abernethy, Mrs. F. Phillips, Mrs. S. Johnston, Mrs. J. Hay, Mrs. F. J. Smith, Mrs. C. Davidson, Mrs. Stillman and Mrs. Turner.

The donations to the home cooking were numerous and those in charge were: Mrs. Beavis, Mrs. Small, Mrs. A. Bonney, Mrs. Bateson, Mrs. Bibby, Mrs. E. Bonney and Mrs. Sherwin. The tea and sale were under the auspices of the auspices of the Ladies' Aid.

A Chimney Fire.

The fire alarm rang in ward three on Friday afternoon. The chimney and pipes at the home of the Misses Bedford, Queen street, were on fire. The firemen responded in a short time. Some damage was done with the water, but the fire was soon put out.

Miss Shannon was in Toronto last week.

Mrs. Wm. Jordan went to Wilton on Saturday to see her sister, Mrs. Jennie Birdsall of Chicago, who came to Wilton to visit her brother, Mr. Harvey Mills. Miss Maggie Jordan, who teaches near Myrtle, came home on Friday and accompanied her mother to Wilton.

Mrs. I. T. Frederick is spending the week in Toronto visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Frederick and other friends.

Mrs. Peer of Norwood, is spending a couple of weeks with her friend, Mrs. Wm. Keir, George street.

At the Regent.

The following is this week's programme at this popular house of entertainment:

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, D. W. Griffiths' production, "The Lone Flower."

Friday and Saturday, "The Midnight Alarm."

The theatre has been leased for Thursday evening for a dance by the 'Twelve O'Clock Club.'

HELD MEETING CAMPBELLFORD

Dominion Alliance Will Not Attempt to Stave Off Referendum.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25.—The temperance people of Ontario as represented by the Dominion Alliance will not attempt to stave off a referendum on the Ontario Temperance Act. This point was made clear by J. M. Connor of Toronto, who addressed a mass meeting in the Regent Theatre, Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Alliance and who said that the organization which he represents will welcome another chance to secure a fresh verdict of the people of Ontario on the temperance question. They accept the challenge that has been forced upon the Legislature by the liquor men and propose to carry on a campaign more vigorous than anyet launched to educate the people on the advantages of prohibition. Beginning in Ontario first they propose after making this province safe for prohibition, to carry the fight into the Federal field and to persevere until the sale, manufacture, export or import of liquor, as a beverage, has been secured. This announcement was heartily applauded by the large audience who listened to the address the majority of whom appeared to be in sympathy with the temperance cause.

The final goal of the Dominion Alliance Mr. Connor said, was world wide prohibition and to attain this end funds are required. After the referendum in 1921 when the question of importation of liquor into the province was passed upon by the people, the Alliance was faced with a deficit of $50,000 which has since been reduced to $28,000. Cards were passed among the audience and generous contributors to aid in carrying on the fight were received.

W. J. Armstrong.

Mayor Meyers, who had been announced to act as chairman, was presented from attending by a severe cold and the duties of presiding officer were discharged by W. J. Armstrong, who said that he was always glad to be identified with any movement in the interests of temperance. After the lecture by Mr. Connor, Mr. Armstrong approved of the position taken by the speaker. The people, he said, should welcome the opportunity to vote again on the Ontario Temperance Act, considering the length of time it has been in operation and should do something to show their appreciation for this chance. He is certain that the Act will be upheld by a majority larger than that ever yet given in Ontario for prohibition.

On the platform were Rev. H. S. Bennett, Rev. Wesley Elliott and Rev. C. F. McIntosh. Ruthven McDonald, the well known vocalist from Toroito, rendered two solos, F. Wigglesworth playing the accompaniments on the piano.

Mr. Conner's Address.

Mr. Connor made it plain at the outset that he was not there to attack any political party, his only opponent being the liquor traffic. His address was a clear and concise history of the temperance movement, not only in Ontario, but in other parts of the Dominion and in the Old World. When the Sons of Temperance were organized in 1848 there was more drinking in Canada and more bar-rooms than there were twenty years earlier. In 1875, through the efforts of David Spence, the Dominion Alliance was formed to bring pressure to bear on the government to do something in the interests of temperance. Through the efforts of the Alliance the number of bar-rooms in Ontario in 1911 had been reduced from 6,185 to 1,671.

Every important step taken in the temperance movement was referred to by the speaker, including the five times that the question was submitted to the people, a majority being given in each case. The country had had a trail of total prohibition when during the war the Federal Government, by order-in-council, prohibited the sale, manufacture, import or export of liquor and the experiment which came to an end with the close of the year 1917, had been entirely satisfatcory.

In the days of local option new schools were built in the municipalities that banned the liquor traffic, but no such progress was made in the communities that remained wet.

Birth of the O. T. A.

When the war broke out 770,000 of the people of Ontario signed a petition asking for a prohibitory law, and the Ontario Temperance Act was framed and given effect. Some of the benefits claimed for the operation of the Act by the speaker was a general advancement in education, fewer convictions for drunkenness in the police courts, and a marked improvement in the health of the people, the death-rate being lower both as regards infants and adults.

In 1919 the Ontario Temperance Act had been upheld by a majority of 425,000, the fourth plebiscite taken on the temperance question in Ontario. The last referendum, in 1921, had shown a majority of 165,000 against the importation of liquor into the Province.

The speaker also spoke of the work done by the Alliance among the public school pupils and the normal schools of the Province. In the latter institution the teachers-in-training are now instructed in the matter of imparting scientific knowledge of the evils of intemperance to the rising generation. The people must be educated. The temperance law must be enforced by the proper officials, and it must receive the loyal support of the people. Organization of the temperance workers is necessary to accomplish these ends. No matter what Government is in power, the law must be observed.

Amendments to the Act.

Since the Ontario Temperance Act came into effect the Alliance has secured eight amendments to it, these including restriction upon the number of liquor prescriptions that can be issued by a physician. Another amendment that is necessary is the prohibition of native wine with an alcoholic strength of 27 per cent. In order to reduce the consumption of liquor it is necessary to make it harder to obtain.

Accept the Challenge.

"Some people are demanding another referendum," said the speaker. "The temperance workers are not opposed to taking the sentiments of the public again. They accept the challengt that has been forced upon the Legislature by the liquor party. We are going to fight as we never fought before and roll up the biggest majority that has ever been recorded for temperance in Ontario. Our goal is first provincial, then national and international prohibition."

Government Control.

Mr. Connor said that the opponents of prohibition had changed their tactics and now spoke of Government control, such as they have in Quebec. He claimed that in the latter province the death-rate was higher, the educational advantages less and that there were fewer public libraries than in Ontario. In conclusion he dealt at considerable length with the temperance situation in Europe.

Mr. Connor and Mr. McDonald held a temperance rally in Warkworth last night.

In the Churches.

J. T. Winchester of Toronto, who is working under the auspices of the Dominion Alliance, delivered temperances addresses in the Presbyterian churches at Burnbrae and Rylstone during the day. Last night he spoke in the Baptist church here and claimed that the Ontario Temperance Act is working successfully. He depreciated the attempt to have another referendum on this question as now proposed, seeing that prohibition in Ontario has been endorsed by the people five times with a large majority on each occasion. Mr. Winchester's hearers, who had heard Mr. Connor in the Regent Theatre in the afternoon, remarked on the lack of accord on this point between the two speakers.

There was no attempt made by either speaker to stick a feather in any government bonnet for official action in forcing the temperance question to an issue again.

WHOS WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page—A pretty country girl is the apple-orchard lost in romantic fancies, when

A Stranger—rides by, inquiring the way to Winston Towers. He is handsome and Prudence's susceptible heart is set palpitating.

Janet Mercer—Prudence's 28-year-old, clever friend has wanred the girl she is far too "soft."

CHAPTER II.

A Charming Flirtation

"It's the third turning along this road," Prudence answered the stranger shyly. "Then keep straight on till you come to the lodge gates."

"Thanks most awfully." The imperious note had vanished at sight of the girl's young beauty, yet the eyes still held their arrogance despite the amused interest they contained. Then, his teeth a strong flash of white, he added, gaily:

"Quite a rustic picture, isn't it? Phoebe in the apple-orchard with her chickens!"

The girl blushed deeper, half in shyness, half resentment.

"He takes me for a dairymaid," thought she. (Oh, for Janet Mercer's adroit power of handling situations, conversations, men!)

"Come, don't be timid. Anyone as pretty as you must have a tongue in her head. Is your name Phoebe?" And the arrogant blue eyes danced with quizzical amusement.

"No—it's Prudence." (This foolish feeling!)

"Prudence?" The young man flung back his head and laughed delightedly. "Gee! That's a good one!" Then, as his horse curvetted nervously in the roadway: "Whoa there, old lady! Calm yourself! This way! Nearer the hedge!"

Animal and rider moved closer to the apple orchard and the pretty, flushed young girl. "Tell me, Miss Prudence, do you always live up to your name?"

* * *

Prudence made a mighty effort after nonchalance and ease. To answer the stranger in the same light, bantering spirit would show him that he had made an error, and she wasn't quite as tongue-tied fool he thought she was.

"I have no opportunity to be anything but Prudence," she replied demurely.

Was that a challenge? He eyed the faded gingham gown and shabby shoes. Why, she might be quite a beauty, if she only had a decent frock! Even haughty Virginia Dale up at the Towers was no better-featured.

It would be a darn good joke to dress this rustic maiden up and parade her to the other as a rival!

But aloud he merely said, with a Gay Lothario air:

"I should think that opportunity lurked for you at every corner."

Prudence smiled enchantingly.

"There aren't really many corners, hereabouts. It's all quite open!"

"And above-board, eh?" He flung her an odd look. Was she deeper than she seemed? One never knew.

Then, seeing her stiffen, he added hastily:

"You fit into the picture here all right, but you'd certainly be a riot in the city. Say, why don't you cut and run?"

She lifted puzzled brows.

"Run where?"

"To places where you'd be better appreciated. Think of all the pretty country lasses who have married millionaires!"

Prudence laughed softly, musically. To the jaded listener, the sound of it was as a freshet of delight.

"I'm no gold-digger. The turnips and potatoes keep me far too busy."

He grinned: "Oh, please be more poetic. Eve and the apple . . ."

"Quite happy in an Adamless Eden!" she flung back at him, with mischief in her bright dark eyes.

The man on the other side of the hedge was agreeably surprised to find this seemingly demure young maiden capable of repartee. By jove! he believed he'd stay a little longer in the country, darned monotonous though it had hitherto proved to be.

He could creep away from Virginia Dale whenever she grew tiresome and exacting, and find solace in flirtation with this pretty Prudence in the apple-orchard.

Young girls usually bored him to extinction. They were either hopelessly insipid, or—as often in his "set"—impertinently "knowing." He had no time for either class.

But pretty Prudence, though "beneath" him, promised a certain piquancy combined with lack of knowledge of the world which really was refreshing in these days. Gad! even her name was a sort of challenge! Prudence indeed! Hadn't he flung it to the winds these many years?

"Tell me, little lady, have you got a sweetheart?" His voice held all the beguiling sweetness of the courting male. (Just as well to know how the land lay in this quarter . . . not, of course, that he couldn't easily cut out all the local Reubens, if he tried!)

Prudence dangled her sun-bonnet by its long strings. Oh, for finesse to dangle this amazingly attractive man in like manner, with the skill and nimbleness of wit of—say—the beautiful Virginia Dale up at the Towers, who always had a string of swains about her.

That was the one sure way to hold a suitor, wasn't it? Brains, and clever repartee, and subtlety, and lots of self-assurance. How lamentably she—Prudence—lacked these admirable assets!

But hard facts faced her. She was inexperienced. There were no lovers in the offing. Why prevaricate?

"No. There's no one. I—I'm kept pretty busy. Lots to do about the farm." She drooped her head.

So—as he'd thought—she was a dairymaid. Considerably above her job, too. Jove! it was a waste!

"And to me you seemed like Marie Antoinette or one of her court beauties, playing at her farming!" he flung back gallantly, leaning a little closer, and flashing those gay blue eyes so full of deviltry upon her. Then, with beguiling charm in every cadence of his voice:

"And I—I haven't got a sweetheart, either. Couldn't you take pity on my loneliness?"

She raised her head, her sweet mouth set as though every feminine instinct warned her she must fight against the enclouding fascination of this strange young man.

"People like you are never lonely," she said, half below her breath.

He was still looking directly at her, but the gay devilry in his eyes had vanished, and his smile was wistful.

"That's all you know, you little sleeping princess of the apple-orchard," he said gently. "As a matter of fact, I'm the most infernally lonely fellow in the world. Crowds don't make company, you know. And—and one gets awfully disappointed—"

"How?"

"Oh, just in everything. The general rottenness of life."

Silence in the green world all about them. Sunlight, filtering the through the trees to lay great golden patches on the grass. A hush that seemed—to Prudence's mind—as though the world, the enchanted world of lovers and young life and spring and beauty, were tensed and waiting for this handsome youth's next utterance, and its import . . .

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing it

When you wash children's hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else to pieces.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

Ruggles Truck Co. Need $170,000 to Keep Going.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 25.—At a special meeting of shareholders of Ruggles Truck Company, held here Saturday afternoon at which 60 or 70 were present, it was decided to attempt to raise sufficient funds by a special appeal to those holding stock to purchase the assets now held by the liquidator, and carry on. It was estimated that $170,000 would be necessary. Those present agreed to subscribe and it is expected that there will be enough others willing to raise the sum needed.

WHERE THE BEST TEA GROWS

The tea plant flourishes best on the well drained side of a mountain in a country where there is plenty of moisture and a warm sun. Certain parts of Ceylon, India and Java are ideal for the growing of delicious tea, hence from these countries come the finest varieties. "SALADA" is a blend of the choicest qualities grown in these, the three most famous tea-growing countries in the world.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1924.

IT CAN BE DONE.

It can be done.

Toronto announces the lowest tax rate in five years, and furthermore, the expenditure despite a big increase in the estimates for education shows the first definite halt in a decade, according to the City Treasurer.

The cost of education has increased by $187,881 for this year, while the cost of general city administration has been decreased by $151,600.

As the increase in expenditures last year over the preceeding year was over a million dollars, the budget for this year is rather remarkable, especially in view of the big increase as a result of additional educational requirements.

The Toronto figures show that when a Council makes up its mind to cut down expenditures it can succeed if it will keep that purpose always in mind.

It requires firmness, for there are always demands for civic money to be spent even in years when economy is on every tongue.

THE REVOLVER AGAIN.

General Victor Williams, head of the Ontario Provincial Police, calls attention in his annual report to a subject the Examiner has discussed on a number of occasions in these columns, namely, the trouble that is being caused by the general use by crooks of revolvers.

General Williams points out that the revolver combined with the motor car has created new conditions that are most difficult for the police to deal with, and he stresses the necessity of enforcing the statutes in regard to the carrying of concealed weapons as likely to have a very beneficial result upon the situation.

The leader of the Provincial Police mentions the difficulty of keeping revolvers out of the hands of criminals by means of law, but leaves the subject at that.

The Examiner would have liked to have seen him go further and recommend for consideration the abolition of the manufacture of revolvers, except for military and police purposes, and the providing of heavier penalties for those found with such firearms in their possession.

Half measures are of little use in dealing with a situation that admittedly is growing steadily worse, as police authorities everywhere are ready to admit.

PARKING REGULATIONS.

Before the motor traffic assumes its full proportions in the spring, both the Police Commission and the City Council would be doing a useful public service if the whole question of parking areas and regulations were to be taken under advisement.

The yearly increase in the number of motor cars makes it necessary that more attention be given to this matter than was required in the days when cars were more or less of a novelty.

Areas where parking is prohibited should be marked for the benefit of motorists and some provision should be made for parking on side streets where the minimum interruption of traffic or of business can be assured.

The business section is often congested with cars to such an extent that business is interfered with, while the danger of accidents is materially increased.

Such conditions cannot be allowed to continue, but they are inevitable unless the whole situation is considered and some arrangement made by which the congestion on the principal business streets can be relieved.

In some cities it has been found advisable to allow the centre of quiet streets to be used as a parking area.

It is possible that something of that kind would be possible in Peterborough.

At least the attempt should be made to relieve the present conditions which with the expected increase in the number of cars, are likely to grow worse if not corrected.

THE ONTARIO REFERENDUM.

Opposition to the submission of a referendum on the Ontario Temperance Act to the people of Ontario, provided the questions therein are fairly stated and an opportunity is given for an accurate estimate of public opinion on this question, seems to be illogical.

If the Ontario Temperance Act has been of benefit to this Province, its friends surely have confidence enough in the judgment of the people to have them pronounce on its merits after the measure has been given a reasonable trial.

The voters of Ontario put the Act on the statute books, and if the majority of them want to abolish it now and try some other method of dealing with the liquor problem, it is getting far away from the spirit of democracy to say that they should not have a chance to express their views by the same means by which the Ontario Temperance Act became operative—that is, by the ballot.

It is for the people of this Province to say what system of handling this social problem they prefer.

Care should be taken to see that the coming referendum is so arranged as to cover the question thoroughly and leave no doubt as to what is being voted on, and afterwards as to the result of the vote.

There should be no trick ballot, no confusion of issues, nothing to bewilder the voters as he sometimes has been bewildered in the past.

Let the referendum be a fair one with no possible room for misunderstanding, and there is no logical ground for opposing a vote being taken.

It will clear the air by either confirming for a long time to come the present liquor policy of the Province or by showing a desire on the part of the majority for a system of Government control.

AND ALL AT SPACE RATES.

This business of charging and defending the members of the Civil Service is becoming quite one of the chief pastimes of the Ottawa writers and newspapers, says the London Advertiser.

Not many blocks back one member of the staff of the Ottawa Journal turned the guns on the Civil Service. He had the field pieces loaded with everything from rock salt to pieces of iron. He pulled the fuse and there was a real bang. The civil servants were badly scarred. They did not expect such treatment in the house of a friend.

Now another Ottawa writer, this time Genevieve Lipsett-Skinner, who in some manner managed to find a seat in the press gallery, has started out on a rampage, singling the women of the Civil Service out for attack. She writes in the Vancouver Sun as the "special representative" of that paper. In the story she tells the people of the Pacific Coast that the girls in the Government offices wear fur coats and smart hats and drop into the Chateau for tea after hours.

Now the Ottawa Journal is pursuing Genevieve Lipsett-Skinner all around the Parliament Buildings. She gets the first editorial, and what the Journal says about sweet Genevieve could not possibly be put to music.

It's a merry newspaper war all right, with all the correspondents collecting space rates for despatches from the front.

A MONTREAL OPINION.

Mr. Doherty, leader of the Farmer Party in the Ontario Legislature, has worked himself into a white heat because Premier Ferguson refuses to recognize that party as the official Opposition, although it numbers one or two more members of the Aseembly than the Liberal Party, which is formally designated "His Majesty's Opposition." How Mr. Doherty expects to arouse any keen interest in this matter is difficult to discern. Most people will conclude that his solicitude is more about the salary attaching to the leadership of the Opposition than to the name, and it will be recalled that, although outnumbering the Conservatives in the House of Commons, Mr. Crerar when leader of the Progressives declined to have that party regarded as the official Opposition. Mr. Doherty's indignation is, of course, merely stage thunder when it is not the wail of a politician bereft of a substantial stipend, as, for instance, when he declared, "it is unjust abuse of power in this way repeated that has caused serious disturbances in this and other countries," or when he made this pathetic appeal to the Government: "We fought in June. We were licked. We took the count, and now I say to you, are you going to be a party to kick us out of the ring."

Mr. Doherty will need a better grievance than loss of the salary paid the leader of the Opposition before he can stir up indignation in the Province. He will require to show that the action of Premier Ferguson deprives the Farmer members of voice and vote, rendering them mute, inglorious spectators in the Legislature, and this he cannot do. The Progressives in the House of Commons did not suffer extinction because Mr. Crerar declined to make his party the official Opposition, but continued to participate actively in the proceedings of Parliament and to exercise a very real influence in shaping legislation. The representative system of today does not lend itself to despotic dominance on the part of the majority; nor render a minority inarticulate. Universal suffrage and a free press are fatal to autocracy, and before many weeks Mr. Doherty and his supporters in the Ontario Legislature will discover that they have been able to exercise all the rights and privileges of representatives, even though their leader was dispossessed of an emolument.

It has been aptly said that the Opposition exercise a wholesome influence upon Parliamentary debate and upon the conduct of business, for they are the constitutional critics of all public affairs, and whatever course the Government may pursue, they naturally endeavor to find some ground for attack. It is the function of an Opposition to state the case against an administration; to say everything which can plausibly be said against every measure, act or word of every member of the Ministry; in short, to constitute a standing censorship of the Government, subjecting all its acts and measures to a close and jealous scrutiny. There is an old maxim, honored too much in the observance, that the "duty of an Opposition is very simple: it is to oppose everything and propose nothing," and in the same spirit Sir Robert Peel used to say when sitting in Opposition that he declined to prescribe until he was called in. It cannot, however, be that Governments are invariably wrong, and we incline to believe that Oppositions sometimes fall into discredit by condemning well conceived measures for no better reason than that they emanate from the other side. Mr. Doherty, as leader of an Opposition party without the emolument of that office, will still be able to watch with keen eye the conduct of the Government, to see if anything be wrong, or blamable, or liable to criticism therein; and we feel sure Premier Ferguson, with a view to the furtherance of the business of the Legislature, will communicate freely with the heads of both oppositions. Nor need Mr. Doherty fail to catch the eye of Mr. Speaker when he desires to participate in debate. In fine, he will enjoy and can exercise all the rights of a party leader—without the stipend—and when he pretends otherwise he fulminates merely stage thunder.—Montreal Gazette.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It cannot be claimed at least that education in Kingston is dull, judging by the stories from Queen's University and R. M. C.

If as often happens the heaviest snow of the winter comes in March this year, the probabilities are that Peterborough will go decidedly wet later on in the spring.

The Ontario Government claims it will save $50,000 a year by doing away with unnecessary motor cars in the public service. That's good business—if the elimination is made permanent.

What Ontario really needs more than a new Department of Health is an expert who will see to it that the financial condition of the Province is speedily made healthy.

Stratford's Local Council of Women has expressed disapproval of beauty contests. Without photographs of the members it is impossible to say whether or not there was anything personal in this action.

The woodwork in the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa is warping. What will happen to it after the session opens?

The Dominion Parliament meets this week, and from present indications an interesting, not to say lively, session is promised. The developments will be watched with interest throughout the Dominion.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—Trade in cash grain and oats continued dull on Saturday. The tone of the flour market was steady. A fair trade was passing in millfeed and business in rolled oats was firm. The market for eggs was fairly active. Total receipts from May 1st to date have been 542,923 cases as against 522,534 in the same period of the previous year. There is a fair demand for potatoes. Prices are ruling fairly steady in the butter market. Total receipts from May 1 to date have been 153,034 pacakges less than in the corresponding period of the previous year. The cheese market remains very quiet. Total receipts from May 1 to date have been 135,271 boxes larger than in the same period of 1922-23.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Helped upward by higher quotations at Liverpool, the wheat market here ascended to-day to the topmost prices of the week, and met with less selling pressure than has been usual on advances of late. There was a firm close at 3-8c. to 5-8c. net gain, with May $1.11 to $1.11 1-8, and July $1.11 3-8. Corn finished unchanged to 3-8c. higher, oats unchanged to 1-4c. up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

In connection with the price advance in Europe traders were showed interest regarding surmises that the work of the Dawes commissions might permit Germany to become a larger purchaser of bread grain on this side of the Atlantic. Possibilities that domestic winter wheat has met with damage throughout important areas were also given attention, complaints from districts east of the Mississippi being rather numerous. Furthermore, bulls continued to dwell on prospects that the import duty on wheat would be raised, that the 1924 crop would be materially smaller than was the case last year, and that the coming official estimate of reserve of wheat on farms would be small. There were predictions, too, that the United States visible supply total Monday would show a moderate decrease.

ROADSIDE TRAGEDY TOLD TO THE JURY

How Intoxicated Man Met His Death Near Cobourg.

COBOURG, Feb. 23. (Special. — At the inquest ordered by the Crown Attorney to inquire into the circumsances of the death of Roderick McKenzie, whose lifeless body was found on Thursday, Jan. 24, lying face downward in the snow, he being last seen in Baltimore on the Monday previous, returned a verdict as follows:

"That the late Roderick McKenzie was last seen alive in the village of Baltimore at about 4 p.m., on Monday, Jan. 21st, when he left with a team of horses and bob-sleighs with a wood rack. At that time he was intoxicated. The body, team and sleighs were discovered on Thursday, 24th of about 9 a.m., on an untravelled side line south east of Baltimore, about thirty rods from Mr. George Van Loven's barns. The sleigh was upset and the body of the late Roderick McKenzie was found face down in the snow, and through his condition he was unable to extricate himself. His death evidently was caused by a combination of his intoxicated condition and exposure."

Dr. George H. Ferris was present as Coroner. Lieut.-Colonel J. W. O'Dell, Public School Inspector, for Inspectorate No. 2, was foreman of the jury. Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., examined the witnesses, of whom there was quite a large number. The jury returned their finding after about 30 minutes deliberation The circumstances, because of its unusualness, as the team of horses were found standing almost up to their necks in the snow beside the dead man, has occasioned considerable comment in the district. Also considerable more evidence had come out since the funeral of the deceased, when his body was deposited in the mortuary chapel at the Union Cemetery here. However all this failed to throw much additional light on the sad occurrence.

Mrs. McKenzie, who is held in esteem in the district, and who resided then at Centreton, was at Mr. Varley Sowden's over Sunday, with her husband, and they were in the village of Baltimore on Monday. Later she left with a cutter and horse for her home some miles distant, and he left the village with his team, presumably for the camp in the woods.

Mrs. McKenzie said her husband had been in the habit of getting cider at George Stevenson's, near Baltimore, and it was brought out in evidence that he went there that day. It was alleged that he was more intoxicated after being at Stevenson's.

Provincial Constable said he went to Stevenson's on Feb. 13. He found a jar of "moonshine," and a considerable quantity of cider. Only Mr. Stevenson was there at the time.

George Stevenson said that McKenzie came to his place on the 21st, but alleged his condition was no worse when he left. The "moonshine" was not there at the time. He did not know where it came from. It had been brought in. He and McKenzie were not so very friendly, and he did not know why he came. He had sold sweet cider but he had never sold hard cider. He said that his place was not a nuisance to the neighbors, nor was his house known to be a drinking place.

Mr. Varley Sowden, deceased's employer, gave evidence; also Mr. Geo. VanLuven, near whose place the remains of deceased were found. Mr. F. J. McArthur, Cobourg, the undertaker, was called, and several residents of Baltimore.

TONGUE COATED BAD TASTE IN MOUTH EYES TINGED WITH YELLOW

Liver Trouble the Cause

Mrs. A. C. Brown, Oromocto, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with my liver for a few years back and was so bad I did not feel able to do my work.

I had severe pains in my stomach so bad I could hardly stand them at times; coated tongue; bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning, and had a yellow and sallow complexion.

I had read a great deal about Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and decided I would try a vial, and after taking two or three I found I was greatly improved, and can truthfully say that I felt more like living and can now do my own work without any trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DIED BEFORE THE SALE.

LINDSAY, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Three weeks ago John Cameron, a well-known farmer of Mariposa Township advertised an auction sale of his farm stock and implements to take place February 23. Instead of the auction sale the funeral of Mr. Cameron took place on Saturday, he having died suddenly, following an illness of a few days.

Why Ford Predominates

VALUE

From 1904 until 1923 the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, manufactured 450,000 Ford cars and trucks of which 91% are still in use. More convincing proof of their inbuilt worth could hardly be given.

Selected materials, simple design, and accurate workmanship are factors in this long life. They explain the high utility and operating economy of the Ford when new. And they also give it the ruggedness to withstand the wear and tear of daily driving year after year.

This long life means slow depreciation, sustained value, satisfactory performance from your Ford while you continue to drive it, and a measurable resale value when you wish to dispose of it.

It means that the Ford gives you unusual value per dollar invested, not only this year but for a long term of years to follow—means that when you select the Ford you obtain approved security for the dollars you invest.

Miss Allen's Tested Recipes

No. 98

Gluten Bread

(Many people find it difficult to find a good gluten bread. This recipe is both satisfactory and easy to make)

2 cupfuls scalded milk
2 cupfuls boiling water
2 teaspoonfuls salt
1 egg
2 tablespoonfuls Crisco
¼ cupful warm water
½ yeast cake
3 cupfuls gluten flour
(Use ½ yeast cake if mixed at night)

Mix Crisco, boiling water, milk and salt. When luke warm, add yeast cake dissolved in warm water, egg well beaten, and gluten flour. Let rise, when light and spongy beat well, add gluten flour to make stiff dough and knead well. Rise, shape in loaves, place in Criscoed bread pans, rise, and bake one hour in moderately hot oven. Makes three small loaves.

FIRE TRAPPED CHILDREN DIE

Father Left Oil on Stove—Two Girls Burned to Death and House Totally Destroyed—Grandmother Injured.

BLENHEIM, Feb. 25.—Blanche aged 12, and Louise, aged 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Burke, were burned to death about 9.30 o'clock Sunday morning when the family residence about a mile from this town, was destroyed by fire.

Burke had placed some oil on the stove in a tin preparatory to using it on a pump. He went out to do some chores and while he was gone the oil overflowed ont the stove and soon the place was on fire. Mrs. Burke and three other children escaped. Mrs. William Mitchell, grand mother of the children, who lives about a mile away, rushed to the scene, and in attempting to rescue those within, was badly burned. Burk, was also burned in rescue attempts, but not seriously.

Dr. Hanks, the coroner after visiting the scene, decided that an inquest was unnecesary.

The house being only a temporary structure of one story was an easy pray for the flames which with its entire contents are a complete loss. The remains of the two victims have been removed to the residence of Solomon Burk, father of Merton Burk from which place the funeral will be held at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon. An inquest has been deemed unnecesary.

HOUSEWIVES' COLUMN

Let me quote a few words from the little red book of instructions to Dominion Store managers. Right here on page 46 it says:

"The Dominion Stores policy is a full weight one, 16 ozs. to the pound, no more, no less. See that your scales are correct, verify them often and remember that if you give less than 16 ozs. to the pound you are cheating the customer. Violation of our accurate 16 ozs. to the pound regulation means immediate discharge."

It seems to me that's plain enough for anybody. Not that the 300 Dominion Stores managers need such instructions, for they are a very carefully picked group of men, but it's a satisfaction to know you are buying your groceries at a store where strict control insures that you get full weight always.

Nor is full weight the only advantage that centralized Dominion Store control brings to the housewife. High quality and low prices result from centralized Dominion buying in great quantities, at low prices that are immediately passed on to the Dominion customer.

That's why steady buying at the red front Dominion Store means sure steady savings for you. There isn't an article on our shelves that doesn't show the cut cost due to Dominion methods.

FOUR BURNED IN TENEMENT BLAZE OIL LAMP UPSET

Three - Family Dwelling Near Pittsburgh Destroyed — Victims Were Cut Off By Flames — Other Occupants Jumped From Windows.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., February 25 (Canadian Press). — Four men were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a three-family dwelling-house at Etna, near here, early yesterday.

Two other men escaped by jumping from a second-storey window.

An overturned oil lamp was believed to have started the fire.

All the bodies were recovered from the ruins, but only one had been identified last night, that of Andrew Dabic.

Three of the victims were sleeping in an upstairs room, when the fourth was believed by fire officals to have upset an oil lamp on the first floor, and to have been overcome.

Their escape was cut off when the fire spread to the stairs, two other occupants of the second floor jumped from the window, escaping unhurt.

Other families in the house escaped without difficulty.

DOCKERS VOTED TO END STRIKE

Attitude of London Men Uncertain But Employees at Other Ports Decided For Acceptance of Settlement Terms.

LONDON, Feb. 25. — There seemed every prospect last night that the strike of the dock workers would be settled to-day, and that work in the ports will be resumed on Tuesday. Mass meetings of dockers were held on Sunday at all the ports in the British Isles to discuss the terms of settlement accepted by their delegates in conference with the employers.

At Liverpool, Glasgow, Bristol, Hull and some of the smaller ports, the dockers all voted strongly in favor of acceptance of the terms. A meeting of 3,000 dockers also voted for acceptance, but the attitude of all the London men is less certain.

The Blue Union men held meetings at which it was resolved to continue the strike for half a crown a day advance in wages. It is said however that the action of the Blue Union will not prevent a general settlement of the trouble should the men in the remaining ports come into line.

The terms for the proposed settlement are considered very favorable to the men. With an additional shilling a day to be granted them next June, they will be earning twelve shillings daily, and there will be no reduction in this sum, even should the cost of living drop. Moreover the agreement is not limited in duration but it may be terminated by either side on giving one's month's notice.

A committee will be appointed, with an independent chairman to be nominated by the Minister of Labor, to develop and extend the plans of registration and decasualisation which were recommended by Lord Shaw's committee of inquiry in 1920, but which was never put into effect.

A WOMAN DROWNS HERSELF IN CISTERN

QUEBEC, Feb. 25.— (Canadian Press.)—A seventeen year old boy, named Corneloup, walked into the police station Saturday with tears in his eyes and a letter in his hands. The letter spoke for itself. It was from his mother, Mrs. Claudias Corneloup, 45. The free translation may be given as follows:

"I am going away. Don't look for me but go back to your grandmother in France. Pray for me. Take the money out of the bank and go back home."

A search of the boy's home resulted in the finding of the woman's body in a cistern in the garret. There was only 24 inches of water in the tank and the tank itself was only 24 inches long, so the woman sat down sideways and lowered her head under the water. Her two year old girl was asleep when the tragic discovery was made.

CHICAGO DOUBLE MURDER MYSTERY

CHICAGO, February 25 (Canadian Press). — A double murder mystery, involving the theories of bootlegging, revenge or domestic trouble, centres the activity of detectives seeking clues to the slayers of John Duffy, found in a roadside snowdrift at Argo, Ills., and a woman, partly identified as Mrs. Duffy, found in an excellent furnished apartment Duffy shared with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Horton.

The woman's body, with a bullet hole through her head, was discovered when the police, after an all-day vigil in front of the Horton home, forced the door.

She was lying on a davenport, and may have been shot while sleeping, the detectives say.

Remnants of food on a table, cigarette ends and whisky bottles indicated that several persons had been in the apartment recently before the shooting, the officers believe.

Union Jack Presented to College at St. Cyr.

VERSAILLES, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press, via Reuter's). — The Union Jack which the British Army is giving to the French Military College of St. Cyr was handed over Saturday by Lieutenant Salisbury Jones, of the Coldstream Guards, who was formerly a cadet at the college. Lieut. Jones was accompanied by the British Military Attache at Paris and a detachment of British officers.

General Debeney, chief the French General Staff, presided at the ceremony, and General Boissoudy, inspector-general of military colleges, was also present. Cadets of the college marched past the Union Jack, which was then taken to the museum of the college, where General Debeney delivered an address.

SOMEWHERE IN FLORIDA.

To be somewhere in Florida, where the sun is always shining, where the golden oranges hang in clusters on the trees, the palms stir gently to the warm breezes, and "where the sweet magnolia blooms," is the thought in the minds of hundreds of Canadians every winter.

When Canadians at home are skating and skiing, those in the south will be surf-bathing, sun-bathing on the warm sands, deep sea fishing, golfing, etc.

When making arrangements for the trip south, consult any agent of the Canadian National Railways for particulars of the service. Winter tourist fares are now in effect, valid to return up to June 15th, and good for stop over at all important points.

BRAVE MOTHER RISKS LIFE FOR YOUNGSTERS

OTTAWA, February 25 (Canadian Press). — By throwing her six small children out of their burning home into a snowdrift, Mrs. W. J. Mullen on Saturday night succeeded in saving their lives, although clad only in their night clothes.

They suffered considerably from exposure before being dug out of the drift.

When discovered, the fire was almost through the nursery floor, and the mother, without any outside assistance, threw the children out into the snow one by one.

After all the children had been saved, and being able to drag herself only out on to the verandah, Mrs. Mullen fainted.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Wide-Awake Group Held a Good Meeting — Personal Mention.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 25.—The mid-week meeting of the "Wide Awakes" group of Canadian Girls-in-Training was held at the home of the leader, with the President, Marorie Sayles, in the chair. Following the business period, during which the suggestion of joining with the Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers for a basket social was favorably discussed, a literary programme was carried out successfully. At the previous meeting a study of the life of Louisa M. Alcott was taken up, and this week the characters in "Little Women," Meg, Beth, Amy and Jo, were impersonated by four of the girls, who will continue the subject as "Good Wives" at the next literary evening.

On Monday, February 25, Miss E. Richardson will give a talk on some musical subject to the members of the group, this forming the programme for that evening.

The Cattle Trade.

Stock breeders in this vicinity, of whom there are several, will be interested in the recent bulletin issued by the Federal Department of Agriculture stating that financially prospects in the cattle trade are likely to be improved as a result of the definite effort being made to establish a lucrative market in Great Britain. In the latter country, as an outcome of the ravages of the foot and mouth disease, dairy herds have been seriously depleted, and there is a scarcity of milk and milk products which threaten a famine unless immediate steps are taken to relieve the situation.

If the bars are let down to Canadian exporters and for this an agitation is in process in Great Britain, as well as here, at least 5,000 head of dairy cattle could be shipped almost immediately, according to the announcement of the Deputy-Minister of Agriculture, and about 50,000 within a year.

Meeting Postponed.

The A.Y.P.A. of St. Thomas Church were obliged to postpone their regular meeting from Thursday of this week until February 28, on account of the unfavorable roads and stormy weather. A Shakespearian subject is to be taken up.

In the district debate series the local organization won from All Saints', Peterborough, by default, the latter association failing to reach an agreement with the young people here on the wording of the subject to be debated upon. Representatives from the A.Y.P.A. of St. George's Church, Peterborough, and St. Thomas Church, Millbrook, are due to debate in about three weeks' time, the subject to be announced in the immediate future. The finals, which will decide the winners of the silver cup donated by a prominent member of the Dominion A. Y. P. A. Council, are about six weeks distant.

Personals.

Miss M. B. Turner attended a meeting in Peterborough on Friday evening when further arrangements were completed regarding dates and subjects in connection with the series of debates carried on by the Anglican Young Peoples' Associations of the district during the fall and winter months.

F. N. Alcorn has returned home after undergoing an operation for throat trouble at the Western Hospital, Toronto.

Miss M. Allen of Peterborough held an organization meeting for the community musical festival, which she proposes to hold some time in April, in the basement of the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening. Owing to the stormy weather and bad roads the attendance was small. Rehearsals will be held each Wednesday at 8 p.m., and all interested in music are asked to attend.

Mrs. J. P. Esterbrook of Toronto, President of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, will pay her first official visit to Golden Sheaf Lodge, No. 176, on Tuesday, February 26. Roads and weather being favorable, it is expected that there will be a large attendance, with probably a number of visitors from other lodges in the district.

GERMANY PLANNED DESTROY INDUSTRY

Document Public by French in Reply to German Sympathizers.

PARIS, February 23 (British United Press). — The French Foreign Office has issued a document said to have been prepared at German general headquarters in 1916 which demonstrates that German industrial leaders organised the systematic destruction of northern France for the purpose of killing post-war trade competition.

The document is issued while interest is centred on reparations, and a growing group in France favours a more lenient policy toward Germany.

It is a direct reply to General Ludendorff's assertion that war destruction was limited to military necessities.

It was drawn up by the Committee of Industry of Lille, which was composed of technical experts of every branch of industry, and shows how Germany would benefit by the destruction of factories.

The committee recommended that the annexation of the Lorrain coal and iron district and also the organisation of an autonomus state, under Germany in Northern France.

Mothers Should Not NEGLECT BRONCHITIS In the Babies

Mrs. E. Langdon, Kingston, Ont., writes:—"My baby had bronchitis when he was two weeks old, he recovered from the attack but took it again, several months later, and on account of the severity I was almost panic-stricken to know what to do for him. My mother advised me to try Dr. Woods' Norway Pine Syrup, as she had used it for several years with splendid results.

I got a bottle, and after I had used it I could see a decided improvement in him; after several bottle he was completely relieved.

My boy is now two years old, and he has never had an attack of bronchitis since.

As a mother, raising a family, I am very grateful to know that I have found a real remedy for bad cold, and bronchitis, as it lifts care and anxiety from an anxious mother's shoulders."

The toast list was as follows: The King, by Harold Freeman; County Lodge, proposed by H. Freeman, responded to by E. F. Reid; District Lodge, proposed by Neil Porter, responded by F. Brown; Sister Lodges, proposed by J. Brown, responded by Geo. Land and J. Spence; Eastern Star Lodge, by E. F. Reid, responded by Miss R. Sexsmith, Mrs. E. Staples and Mrs. A. Huffman.

The birthday cake was cut by W. M. Sister Sexsmith, during which Miss Marguerite Rome played a piano solo. The singing of the songs were led by Mr. Neil Porter and Mr. Percy Luther, all joining in heartily, especially in "For They are Jolly Good Fellows." A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the officers and members of Eastern Star, L. O. B. A. No. 525, by E. F. Reid, and J. Spence, after which a game of carpet ball was played between the visitors and Eastern Star, the score being 7–6 in favor of the visitors. Music was provided by Miss Marguerite Rome and Master Roy Rome and Mr. Neil Porter. The hostesses were Mrs. Geo. Sexsmith, Miss Mina Andrus, Miss Edith Brown, Miss Bertha Wylder, Miss Winifred Andrus, Mrs. Vina Bertrand and Miss Stella Doig.

AT LAKEFIELD AND DISTRICT

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23.—"Bring your dolls and all your toys," was the invitation by Laura Leonard and Lillian Sutton to about twenty of their little friends for Monday evening at the home of the former, and promptly at the hour appointed the little girls arrived looking very attractive with their curled and plaited hair tied with modish bows of bright ribbon. When all had assembled they were divided into various groups, dogs, cats, pigs, ducks, etc., and told off to hunt peanuts concealed in various parts of the reception rooms. True to the traditions attached to their name, the "pig group" won the prizes which were daintily-trimmed all-day suckers. After this strenuous game they settled down for a concert at which each one had a part to play, some sang duets, others played duets, some sang, some danced, while others spoke pieces, and two little maids gave an unrehearsed one-act comedy which nearly brought down the house. The girls voted as to who was the best dressed girl at the party and the prize went to Dora McMillan, with Beatrice Gilman winning second place. Bertha Connell won the prize for the most popular performance on the programme with Minnie Charlton taking second place. The time passed all too quickly with games and contests among which was an exciting peanut race which was won by Bertha Connell after running off a tie with Wilhelmine Twist.

Refreshments were served after which favors were presented of one of the jolliest parties held in Lakefield.

The girls joined in a circle and sang, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," and afterwards, "Auld Lang Syne," giving three hearty cheers and a tiger for their hostesses. The darky page and "Aunt Jemima," who had been so assiduous in their attendance on the girls, showed them out at an early hour and a very happy evening became a pleasant memory to all who were present. Grandma Burgess was an efficient chaperone and saw that the girls all behaved well.

Among those present were: Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Stephenson, Mrs. S. J. Charlton, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Erskine and Grandma Burgess, Beatrice Gillman, Victoria Spence, Margarita Osborne, Wilhelmine Twist, Mabel Sherin, Ida Sherin, Maude Sutton, Eugenia Northey, Annie Tanner, Minnie Charlton, Annie Wagar, Mary Charlton, Bertha Connell, Leah Moore, Clarice Smith, Dora McMillan, Gertrude Gibson, Ethel Crawford, Grace Stuart and Blanche Graham.

The X-Ray Class

A very enjoyable dramatic entertainment was given in the basement of the Methodist Church on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the X-Ray Class of the Methodist Sunday School, of which Mrs. D. H. McMillan is the teacher. The play, which was a pure comedy, was put on by an amateur dramatic club of Warsaw, and made a decided hit in the village. Notwithstanding several counter attractions there was a large crowd and the proceeds amounted to $44.15.

Hendren's orchestra furnished music between the acts and Mrs. S. W. Sutton contributed a solo which was very much appreciated. The comedy sketch was entitled "Aaron Slick of Pumpkin Creek," a sketch of "Oklahomy."

The cast was as follows: Aaron Slick, Rufus Payne; Rosie Berry, Mrs. Rufus Payne; Sis Riggs, Miss Alberta Darling; Uncle Phil Merridew, Harold Darling; Clarence Green, Elmer Coopers; The Girl in Red, Miss Daphne Payne.

All the performers took their parts well and received hearty applause, indeed so well did all acquit themselves that individual mention should include the entire caste. Miss Elsie Cooper played the accompaniment of the songs which interluded the play and Mr. Bruce Dawson was director and stage manager.

After the performance refreshments were served to the performers by the girls of the X-Ray Class and a social hour was spent.

Social Events

Mrs. H. R. Wagar entertained a number of ladies at bridge on Thursday afternoon. A delightful afternoon was spent. Mrs. G. G. Connell was the winner of the prize.

Harding Stuart was the host of an enjoyable stag party on Wednesday evening, the occasion being his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stabler entertained the Rink Rats' Hockey Team, and a few of their friends to an oyster supper on Thursday evening. The boys had a delightful time.

Miss Helen Watson entertained a number of friends on Thursday evening last in honor of her birthday. Being St. Valentine's Day the decorations and games partook of the season of heart.

Wednesday was Leap Year night at the rink, and in spite of the storm, there was a splendid crowd. The boys had the pleasure (?) of sitting on the benches waiting for the damsels fair to ask them to skate. The girls did their duty nobly, though, according to some reports, which may have been colored by prejudice, the younger the girls the more assiduous were their attentions. Probably Leap Year night may be repeated before the season ends.

Miss Loretta Gibson visited friends in Campbellford this week.

John Sanderson was in Peterboro' on Tuesday.

R. C. Chittick was in Peterboro' on Wednesday.

NEWS TRENT RIVER AND THE DISTRICT.

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 25.—Miss Lyla Ruttan returned to Toronto last week, having spent the past week at the parental home.

Mr. Sam Doupe is making a good recovery and is able to sit up for a short time. His many friends hope to see him around again in the near future.

The ice harvesters are back to work again, having been delayed for a couple of days on account of the storms.

TO EXTEND MARTIAL LAW

MAYENCE, Feb. 23.—(British United Press).—The Inter Allied Commission here has decided to extend martial law in the Piermasens district scene of recent bloody rioting between German Separatists and citizens loyal to the Reich until the end of February.

The extent of the zone affected by military law will not be extended, however, General Decoutte said.

Give the children WRIGLEY'S after every meal

A prominent physician says:

"It is surprising how free from decay the teeth can be kept by using gum after each meal."

You know how hard it is to get the children to clean their teeth. By giving them WRIGLEY'S you not only reward them for cleaning their teeth, but the reward is actually the means of performing this important service!

WRIGLEY'S aids digestion too, and acts as an antiseptic wash for the mouth and throat. Several flavors—all of WRIGLEY quality.

NEWS NORWOOD AND DISTRICT

Death of Well - Known Resident of the Village.

NORWOOD, Feb. 25.— Death claimed one of Norwood's most prominent young women in the person of Agness Gooley at the age of nineteen years three months after a lingering illness following on operation for appendicitis last July.

She was highly respected by all who knew her and has resided in Norwood five years and will be sadly missed.

She leaves besides her sorrowing parents five brothers and three sisters namely Eddie, Joseph, William, at home, and Daniel and Leo Peterboro, Mrs. Patrick Hobbins of Peterboro and Irene and Matilda at home.

The funeral took place Friday to St. Paul's church where solemn high mass was sung by Rev. J. J. McCarthy and interment took place in Norwood cemetery. The pallbearers were the deceased's five brothers and brother-in-law.

Extension Lecture

A very interesting and instructive address was given in High School on Friday evening by Prof. Keyes of Toronto. The subject was "The Modern Novel."

Norwood Isolated

During last week Norwood was almost isolated on account of severe storm. The noon train on Wednesday was four hours late. The stage to Hastings was unable to get through and the rural mail carriers had a respite from their labors as it was utterly impossible to get over their routes. However on Friday a gang of men was put to work on the Hastings road and on Saturday everything was in working order again.

Births

On Monday, Feb. 18th to Mr. and Mrs. George Betten, a daughter.

On Saturday, February, 23rd to Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers, a daughter.

The congregational social which was to have been held on Wednesday evening last, by the Presbyterians of Norwood had to be postponed on account of the very severe storm. However, it is hoped that they will be able to hold it in the near future.

In the list of donations to the public Library, published last week, Mr. E. C. Squires name was omitted. Mr. Squire donated a chair.

Who want whiter, safer, cleaner teeth

This free test

This is a test which millions now have made. You see the results in whiter teeth in every circle now.

We urge you to make it. Every person in your home needs this new way of teeth cleaning.

It combats film

The great object is to fight film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. Under old methods, much of that film remains. It clings and stays. It becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. The result is teeth ever clouded and unclean.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Most of you know that these film-caused troubles are not escaped by old ways of teeth brushing.

Now dental science, after long research, offers ways to fight that film. One disintegrates the film. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities have approved these methods, after many careful tests. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Leading dentists the world over began to advocate its use. As a result, careful people of some 50 nations are using Pepsodent today.

You'll see at once

You will see the new effects at once. Pepsodent does more than fight film. It increases the alkalinity of the saliva, increases the starch digestant. So Nature's tooth-protecting factors are given multiplied effect. The whole result is a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will be amazed and delighted. Cut out coupon now.

New York Stock Exchange —and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25. — (United Press).—The initial trading in the stock market was in fair volume with stocks generally displaying a firm tone. Steel stocks were up fractionally, United States Steel opening at 104 3-4, up ¼, while Bethlehem, at 56 3-8, was up ½. Some selling appeared after the trading had got under way, resulting in Southern Railway selling down a point from its opening of 49 5-8, while Pan-American was off 3.4 from the opening, 48¼. Some profit-taking, coupled with short selling by floor traders, brought about a sizeable recession in the first hour. Leading stocks re-acted from a half to nearly two points from the previous closing. By the start of the second hour, however, prices showed some improvement as trading had lessened materially. Extreme re-actions occurred in Baldwin and Can., the former getting down to 2¼ to 120 3-4, and the latter 1¼ to 112 3-4. The Pan-Americans soon lost their early improvement, the "B" losing 1½ and the "A" 1¾, to 45 1-8 and 46 7-8 respectively.

Numerous observers saw developments outside the market which they believe later will prove helpful influences on the constructive side when technical conditions warrant a resumption of the forward movement.

Included in these was the expectation that the findings of the Experts' Committee on Germany's ability to pay reparations would meet with France's approval.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

"BERNARD SHAW AND PROHIBITION"

Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—I wonder if you have seen an interview with Bernard Shaw published in "Strength" on Prohibition? I am sure your readers would be interested in a brief synopsis of what the great British dramatist, critic and satirist, and the most brilliant writer of the present time, says on the subject.

The interviewer was Carl Easton Williams, and here it is in brief:

"First, we asked Mr. Shaw about Prohibition, "with reference to the matter of personal liberty which constitutes the chief argument of the anti-Prohibitionists, and which is based on the theory that when a man drinks it is the business of no one but himself."

"This is a complete mistake," said Mr. Shaw. "When a man abstains it is nobody's business but his own, because nobody is a penny the worse but when he drinks he becomes a dangerous nuisance, which at once makes his drinking everybody's business."

"Is Prohibition unwise because impossible or difficult to enforce?" "It is not unwise at all," replied Mr. Shaw. "Quite the contrary. It is the toleration of drink that is unwise."

Frequently one meets people who declare that while they are opposed to drink they personally think Prohibition is a mistaken means to achieve the desired end, saying that the situation is now worse than ever, including a spirit of lawlessness. So we asked Mr. Shaw:

"Does Prohibition so conflict with human nature as to lead to other evils worse than those which it aims to remedy?"

"No; it leads directly and obviously to dozens of public benefits, including the self-destruction of the fools who redouble their drinks to show that they will not be coerced by any Government; in short intemperate Anarchists."

"Can we achieve or approach the ideal of a temperate nation through education, or by changing public sentiment, or the fostering—by whatsoever means—of the ideal of a clear head and self-control?"

"The existing national ideal is that of a sober nation not a drunken one,' replied Mr. Shaw. "It is not the conscience that opposes Prohibition, but the habit of drinking, which nobody is stupid enough idealize."

"Henry Ford says that "booze" is the most important problem in the United States just now."

"He is right," returned Mr. Shaw.

"Will England ultimately adopt Prohibition?"

"Yes."

"Europe?"

"Yes."

And now, a few words as to some of the considerations which prompted our questions, our interview with Mr. Shaw being as brief as it was vigorous.

So far as the supposed uselessness of Prohibition is concerned, the outstanding fact is that the world at large is gradually acquiring a better sense of values in this matter. Prohibition itself being the crystallized expression of a nation-wide ideal an ideal which, according to Mr. Shaw's prophecy, will eventually embrace the world—or, at any rate, the civilized world. Gradually also the working out of this ideal will bring about better Prohibition enforcement just as it has already brought about Prohibition legislation.

Many people drink because they think it is smart. It is not smart. It is only cheap. People drink because they think that it will enable them to have a good time. As soon as they realize that they can have a much better time with a clear head and the sensibilities and faculties unimpaired, they will no longer be willing to look for vulgar pleasures at the sacrifice of the sense of the fullness of life.

One popular interpretation of the urge to drink is based upon the supposed need for relaxation of the higher brain centres. Curiously, the men who all their lives have most severely over-worked those higher brain centres, such as Thomas Edison and Mr. Shaw himself, have never found the need for alcoholic help in securing such relaxation. On the other hand, the village loafer apparently feels the need of this relaxation of the higher faculties far more than our best philosphers. This relaxation theory is a very poor apology for drink, for the reason that the first faculties which are relaxed—or paralysed—are those having to do with judgment and the moral senses.

Some of those who now drink all the more since Prohibition flatter themselves that they are being very "devilish", and since they are outwitting the law they fancy that drinking is now in the nature of a sport-in proposition. Yet, if feels that he must remember that the bank burglar probably regards himself as the greatest sportsman in the world.

There is now growing in the world on the other hand, a healthy sentiment on the subject of good sportsmanship—real sportsmanship. The spread of interest in athletics has had much to do with it. People who drink know that alcohol 'loosens up' the tongue and the social impulses generally by obliterating habitual restrains. If one wishes to do something that he knows that he should not do, he knows that by drinking he will shortly reach a condition of "relaxation", of his normal inhibitions such that he will be able to do it. Clearly, that is not a sporting thing to do. And just make it clear to any young man that a certain act is not "the sporting thing to do," and he won't want to do it. Likewise a young man will ask a young woman to drink because he knows that in her case also it will relax her normal and decent inhibitions. The real aim of many wild drinking parties is to accomplish just this form of relaxation. Manifestly, trying to persuade any person, whether man or woman, to indulge in alcohol, knowing that the other will then be ready to do things that he or she normally would no do and should not do, is certainly not an act of good sportsmanship.

In short, the man who drinks is not only, as Mr. Shaw says, a dangerous nuisance but he is a bad sport. And that is the reason for Prohibition.

Thanking your for the courtesy,

Yours very truly,

ROBT. POGUE.

Dear Sir: Will you kindly allow me space in your paper to ask the Board of Works how often the snow ploughs should be over the routes in stormy weather?

The man that takes Rubidge street north of Brock street, wandered along about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and about the same time this morning, and only once each day. I say "wanders" advisedly for the path is like a crooked rail fence, and is full of snowdrifts from St. Andrew's church north on Rubidge street. This is not the first failure in performance of duty on his part. The people do not like paying taxes for work not performed.

SNOW PLOUGH OFF MILLBROOK TRACK

Peterboro Man Received a Cut on the Head

LINDSAY, February 25. — On Saturday evening an accident occurred on what is known as "the back line"—that branch of the C.N.R. from Omemee via Bethany to Millbrook.

A plough and two engines had been sent out from Lindsay to open up the line, and when near Bethany a derailment occurred, the plough leaving the track.

Four track men were in the plough at the time, and they received a shaking up.

Mr. R. Chambers, of Peterborough, track foreman, sustained a cut in the head.

The auxiliary from Lindsay was despatched to the scene, and the plough lifted back.

In the meantime the two engines proceeded over the line, opening it up to Millbrook.

The regular service on this branch was resumed this morning.

On Friday night the snow blockade was lifted on the Coboconk line, the villages of Kirkfield, Victoria Road, and Coboconk had been isolated from the outside world since last Tuesday, while the passenger train which left Coboconk that morning was stalled in the snow until Friday.

The train from Midland to Blackwater was also held up in a drift near Woodville. A snow plough was sent out on Friday but a broken rail caused a derailment.

Passengers for Cannington were taken to their homes over drifted roads by a liveryman.

Those for other points were given accommodation in a hotel at Woodville. Amng the latter was Mr. B. Stacey of Peterborough.

SALAD RECIPE REQUIRES UPSET GROCERY SLEIGH

An Irish stew or a Canadian salad, according to one's nationality, resulted from an upset at George and Charlotte streets this forenoon, when T. Kinnear and Company's sleigh slewed in the rut formed by the street car tracks.

Groceries of all descriptions, with mustard apparently the principal ingredient, formed themselves into a hodge-podge on the roadway. No one was injured.

Mexicans working in a lead mine in Chihuahua have found a new use for cigarets. The mine consists of a series of caves along the sides and bottoms of which lead and silver ore in paying quantities is found. The miners have noticed that smoke from their cigarets is sucked through cracks in the rock at certain points. By drilling in the wake of the smoke they break through into another cave.

TO INVESTIGATE HOME BANK WRECK

Commission Will Take Charge of the Government Enquiry.

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.— (Canadian Press.)—Government has decided to appoint a commission to investigate Home Bank and examine others following questions: Whether in 1915, 1916 and 1918 representations were made to Department of Finance respecting conditions of bank, whether state of affairs was revealed as would have justified an investigation, what action was then taken, what effect would an audit have had upon condition of bank and on condition of depositors, what was financial condition of Home bank in those years and what steps, if any, could have been taken to save the situation.

Order in council, under which the commission is ordered, sets forth as Cabinet has received petition on behalf of certain members of executive committee of depositors in Home Bank praying that Governor-in-Council submit to Parliament an Act for full indemiity of Home Bank depositors.

Petition sets forth that in the years 1915, 1916 and 1918 representations were made to Department of Finance respecting condition of the bank and revealing a state of affairs that would have justified an investigation by the Department of Finance under powers conferred on Minister of Finance under Section 56-A of Bank Act, which provides that Ministers may direct and require an auditor to examine.

BAND CONCERT

The sixth of this season's Sunday evening series of concerts was given last night to a capacity audience in the Grand Opera House by the Band of the Peterborough Rangers, conducted by Lieut. W. H. Peryer. The programme was well chosen, including a pretty French overture, "Mirella," and the grand old nautical selection, "A Life on the Ocean Wave," (Binding), the latter furnishing opportunities for band soloists unequalled by any other naval piece. Band Sergeant Patterson, (euphonium) in "The Anchor's Weighed;" Bandsman Benson, (piccolo), "Bo'sun's Hornpipe;" Bandsman Dwyer (clarinette), "The Token;" Mr. H. Gilbert (trombone) "Death of Nelson;" Bandsman Minnicola (cornet) "Home Sweet Home," all acquitted themselves finely, the latter bandsman also in "Roses in Picardy," responding with "A Perfect Day."

Mr. Ernest H. Lewis was heard to advantage in two vocal numbers, "Friend o' Mine," and "Just a-Wearyin'." A welcome newcomer on this season's band programmes was Miss Isabella Black, who received a well merited ovation for "The Heavenly Song," and "The Same Old Dear Old Place," the latter number delightfully sung, and accompanied, being partly repeated in response to persistent applause.

Mr. R. J. Devey accompanied the vocalists on the piano with his usual skill.

The important fact should not be lost sight of that this city possesses in the band of the Peterborough Rangers a tremendous asset. It is highly creditable to give six concerts in the winter season, and to have the sixth so largely attended by (in the main) an appreciative audience which plainly shows that the organization should receive the wholehearted support of our citizens.

FIRST DIPLOMATIC DELEGATION FROM EGYPT TO UNITED STATES

The first diplomatic delegation accredited to the United States reached America recently and proceeded to Washington to present credentials from the Khedive to President Coolidge. The greater independence won by Egypt, following the world war, which gave the Khedive control over his foreign relations, resulted in the exchange of delegations with all of the Oriental countries and many of the larger European and western countries. The picture shows, sitting, left to right: Hassanein Bey, first secretary; Mr. Pasha and Khalia Effendi, third secretary, and, standing, O. WIT AND HUMOUR IN LITERATURE

(By F. M. DELA FOSSE)

"I think it was Leigh Hunt who once wrote an article for an English magazine entitled "Is there a sense of Humour in the Almighty?" If memory serves one aright it was an argument to combat the idea, prevalent throughout the world ever since the workings of an over-ruling Providence dawned on the minds of men, that God is a God of sternness and severity and that therefore levity in any form must be entirely foreign to His nature. This point may be left to religious controversialists to ponder over and debate. Most of us are quite contented in the belief that the Being who created the sunshine created also the faculty for enjoying it and that this holds good in an intellectual as well as a physical sense.

There are as many varieties of opinion in regard to humour as there are varieties of humour itself. Some people, for instance, revel in the works of Stephen Leacock and look upon him as the very prince of humorists. There are others again, like the late Robertson Nicoll, who regard him as a bore and sometimes a not very polite bore. On one occasion he referred to him as "a dreffful smart man" and on another, when discussing his 'My discovery of England" frankly stated that his humor had passed him by. He could see little in the book that was funny and a good deal that was in bad taste. He summed up by stating that there has been probably no author who could laugh at his own jokes with such unfeigned enjoyment as Stephen Leacock. This was in reference to his lectures. We have most of Leacock's books in Library and any one can come and judge for himself in what category he should be placed in the ranks of the humorists.

In a search for something amusing to read everyone has to consult his own inclinations. Many can find the keenest enjoyment in reading epitaphs on country tombstones and inscriptions on church tablets. They all belong to literature even if they are engraved on marble or brass. And there is really much to strike one as laughable in some of the memorials that one encounters. Who could do anything else but smile if his eyes lit upon the pithy inscription "Gone Home" and discovered that the sculptor had made the unfortunate mistake of carving a hand with the index finger pointing downwards instead of upwards? There are countless examples of epitaphs in England which read funnily enough to us, and which were probably inscribed at a period when men took death less seriously than they do now and were much more occupied in railing at religion than in praising it.

If the question was to be asked, "Where is the best humour of the day to be found?" it is safe to say that there would not be very many to reply, "in the pages of our professed humorists." Some of us would cite for instance the pages of Jacobs or of Jerome or of Storer Clouston in England and the works of Irvin Cobb, Harry Leon Wilson or John Kendrick Bangs in America. Others again, would cite the anecdotal line, which certainly comes nearer to providing a thoroughly hearty laugh than any sustained efforts of authors at being funny. The annals of English law courts, generally regarded as dry-as-dust, contain absolute gems of wit and humour. Who could wish for anything better than this? Counsel, in a celebrated case in England, had impugned the veracity of a witness who replied with some heat. "I wish you to know sir, that I was wedded to truth in my infancy"—"my dear Sir," broke in Justice Maule from the bench, "I am not so much interested in ascertaining how long you have been wedded to the truth as to when you became a widower."

Taste in humor varies with the years. Those of us who could laugh in our young days at the absurdities of Artemus Ward, or Bill Nye or Mark Twain would likely find it hard to conjure up a smile if we read their efforts now and even the epigrammatic and sound philosophic utterance of that quaint speller Josh Billings would have no charm for us.

We thought them wonderful in their day, but, casting a retrospective glance over the literary field from the coign of vantage that the years have accorded to us, who is there amongst us who can say that he considers the humorists of the present epoch to be the equals of the humorists of the past?

Wit was wit in the old days but, with comparatively few exceptions, it seems now to have degenerated into a low-comedian type of humour in which smartness and vulgarity are the chief ingredients. It may be that one has not moved sufficiently with the times to appreciate what is now in vogue but he would be a bold man who would attempt to assert the superiority of any of the writers who have been mentioned over Sydney Smith, Charles Lamb and others of the coterie of bright spirits who lived in their era.

Amongst our humorous writers there is no one to take the place of Dickens or of Thackeray or even, to come to a lower level, of Lever, of Lover, of Cockton or of Marryat. It is only by pure chance that one can come upon a passably humorous book by a present-day author. It is a pity that this should be so when society is undergoing its periodical disintegration and when anything humorous as well as elevating in literature would be a welcome help towards the clarifying of the social atmosphere. But in place of satirists we have satyrs who are doing their best to make the air one breathes murkier still.

Thackeray could think so well of the humorists of the 18th century as to lecture about them. That book of lectures is in the Library but nobody reads it. It is a most interesting and instructive volume and tells us of Swift and Congreve, Addison and Steele, Prior, Gay and Pope and many others.

Anyone who takes the trouble to read it cannot fail to be interested in the writings of those great men. There will be found in their works as many varieties of humor as one can digest, in the sardonic wit of Swift, the gaiety of Prior, of Gay, of Smollett and of Congreve and the courtly and refined humour of Steele and of Addison.

There is one chapter in that book which proclaims the true mission of humour in this world. It is entitled "Charity and Humour." If one can read it and not feel more charitably inclined towards his fellow-man after having done so, neither the fulminations of our modern Solomon Eagles nor the cry of the widowed and the fatherless will have any effect on his stony heart. He is fossilized beyond hope of redemption.

PARK STREET BAPTIST MINISTER WILL RESIGN

At a special meeting of the congregation, held after the morning service yesterday at Park Street Baptist Church, a letter of resignation of his pastorate was read by Rev. W. E. Morrow.

Rev. Mr. Morrow who will resign his present duties at the end of March, has had three successive calls from the Baptist charge at Fonthill, two of which he refused, deciding finally to accept the last call.

His resignation will be regretted by his congregation here.

During his ministry at Park Street Church for the past four years, he has proved himself a capable and earnest preacher, and was very popular with every element in the congregation, being a particular favourite among the younger members whose activities he entered into with whole-souled geniality.

To Editor Examiner

Sir, the other day i inquire if i would become enfranchise the answer is that i would have to Dispose of my Property, first, before i can be enfranchise, who would Buy without a Dee.

before i enquire about the enfranchisement, i did not think that i would have no trouble of geeting my share of the Band capital in the hands of Department of indian Affairs, Ottawa, and to get a deed for my Property, which i think i have a right to have, after me working so hard all my life, and now i have to get rid of it the Best way i can and take the road. those that will read this letter may say this cannot be so.

i have a letter here that i was going to publish, but i will let it go till the next time.

it says that a treaty indian that did not own no land or buildings can become enfranchise inside of six or eight weeks, but if he owns land or Buildings, it would Require four years, before he could become enfranchise, that is providing the Agent can give a favourable report as to his ability to support himself.

i think the indian Act its wrong about those two indians, the Act, should be Reverse, the indian that has no property should wait the four years, and the other indian that has property, as you already see and know that he is capable to take care what he owns.

i am one of the minor not old enough to vote, but old enough to know the Different Bweteen right and wrong

TO THE EDITOR:

Dear Sir,—Is it worthy of serious consideration? The U. S. duty on our Canadian wheat is 30c. per bus. and President Coolidge thinks that scarcely enough.

However, the quality of Canadian wheat is so much superior to that produced south of the boundary that U. S. consumers who can afford it have imported for home consumption 20,000,000 bush. this season, paying us market price, plus 30c. U. S. duty.

Ten thousand U. S. farmers have written the Canadian Government during the last three months enquiring for wheat land, as the expense here is less to produce, the yield considerably greater per acre and the profit very much more.

These same buyers will satisfy their taste for the best in the World, even though the duty were doubled. Now is the idea of a 30c. Canadian export duty to the U. S. worthy of serious consideration.

It would bring in $6,000,000.00 per annum, and when the U. S. home consumption reached 100,000,000 bush. it will bring in $30,000,000.00, earmarked and expended to improve railway transportation in the West.

It would further demonstrate to ambitious farmers of U. S. that Canadian wheat was worth 60c. more than the U. S. product, and cost less to produce, so in the next three months the Canadian government would probably get a 100,000 enquiries from U. S. farmers for wheat land.

The February number of the New York Bankers Review advised the U. S. Government to urge U. S. farmers to reduce their production of wheat, and encourage growing other crops, because Canada can produce so much better quality — greater quantity per acre of wheat at considerably less cost.

If Pres. Coolidge thought 60c. too much, he could reduce his share by 25c.

If this worked well, would not the same application help with many of our natural resources, such as our timber wealth, our fisheries wealth, etc., by a Canadian export duty on the raw material, gradually graded down as it is converted into more nearly finished products, receipts to be earmarked for reforestry, fish reproduction, etc., making our natural resources everlasting. This would provide for countries who delight in applying tariffs against Canada, but are determined to have our choicest products, at any price, paying a considerable share of our taxes. Would not this method of taxation work well, or at least be seriously considered.

Pulpwood at $10.00 per cord is less than a quarter of a cent per lb. the first process grinds it into sheep skins at 2 to 3c. lb. still raw material not useful until further finished, say into newsprint at 7c. lb. and commercial stationery at 20c. lb., and so on up to 50c. for the better quality. Just fancy exporting a ¼ of a cents' worth to be converted in U. S. to an average of say 15c. per lb., that whole difference being expended in labor, machinery and profit.

Would not this be approaching a really scientific tariff?

Yours truly,
W. O. SEALEY,
61 Hunter St., W.

Kent Farmers Object to Ferguson Method.

CHATHAM, Ont., February 25. — Sam. N. Montgomery of Dover, was re-elected president of the Kent United Farmers' Political Association at the association's annual meeting on Saturday, in which the present government was criticized for what the meeting termed its 'steam-roller' methods to bar the U.F.O. party as the official opposition group.

Resolutions of confidence in Hon. Manning Doherty and Robert Forke, Provincial and Federal Progressive leaders, were also passed.

There was some discussion on a move to change the name of the United Farmers' organization, but action on this was postponed.

Sarnia Hardware Co. Suffer $30,000 Fire.

SARNIA, Ont., Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press). — A fire in the Sarnia Hardware Company premises on Front Street yesterday morning did damage to the store and stock to the extent of $30,000. The fire was stopped by the efficient work of the Sarnia fire department, when the blaze had assumed proportions which threatened the central portion of Sarnia's business district. The families of Michael Harris and James Mercurio, living above in apartments, did not know of the fire until the arrival of the firemen, and their property was damaged but little, and that by smoke.

TORONTO MAN DIES WHEN LEAVING CAR

TORONTO, Feb. 25. — As his passenger was leaving his car on North Broadview avenue last night, T. C. Scott, aged 49, and owner of the Viaduct garage, on the Danforth Road, collapsed suddenly, and died before aid could be summoned.

Mr. Scott, who runs the livery service in connection with his garage, had been called out by his fare, and left his garage in good health.

Heart failure, it is thought, was the direct cause of his death.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Earton

THE BEANSTALK LAND

"I've got a letter for you," said Silver Wings.

One day the Fairy Queen sent Silver Wings, her messenger, to the meadow where Nancy and Nick, the Twins, were playing.

"Hello!" called Silver Wings, settling on a large purple thistle and looking exactly like a beautiful butterfly.

"Hello!" shouted the Twins. "Who are you and where are you?"

"I'm me and I'm here!" called Silver Wings, shaking with laughter until the little purple thistle blossom bobbed up and down like a bird-cage on a spring.

That attracted their attention and the Twins flew over and knelt down on the grasss beside the thistle blossom, the better to talk to the little fairy.

"I've got a letter for you," said Silver Wings in a tiny voice. "It's from the Fairy Queen and I think you will like it. Twinkle-Pen, her secretary, told Nimble Toes, and Nimble Toes told me what was in it. But it is a surprise so I won't tell you until you read all about it. There!"

Nancy took the tiny piece of paper the fairy handed her and began to read out loud. She had no trouble whatever, my no! For the writing was magic writing and anybody can read that, no matter how little it is, or how long the words.

It went:

"Dear Twins: The other night I was outside the nursery window when your mother was reading a story to you. It was called 'Jack and the Beanstalk,' the story was, and you both liked it so well, I heard you say that you wished you could go to Beanstalk Land.

"Now, if you really meant it, I am going to see that you get there. Look under the big stone by the chestnut-tree and you will find the famous magic green shoes that can take you any place you wish to go in Fairyland.

"Silver Wings has a magic bean, that came out of the same pod that Jack's did. Plant it any place at all. And instantly another magic beanstalk will grow to the sky.

"Jack's giant is not there, as you know. His sad fate taught all the other giants up there a lesson, so they all turned into jolly giants. And the giant children do the funniest things! I'm sure you will like the place.

"Lovingly,
"The Fairy Queen."

"Hurrah!" shouted both of the Twins. "Beanstalk Land! We're going to Beanstalk Land!"

"Here's the bean," said Silver Wing, "and over yonder are your magic shoes. I must be going. Hope you have a nice time! Goodby!"

And away she flew.

NEURASTHENIA

Neurasthenia denotes a condition of pathologic fatigue of the entire nervous system. It is sort of nervous exhaustion or undue sensitiveness which by continuation may result in complete nervous prostration. The onset of this trouble usually occurs between 20 and 50.

In younger persons this condition produces such conditions as oversensitiveness, chorea (St. Vitus' dance) especially in young girls, insomnia and night terrors.

In such attacks, where heredity is partially to blame, the real beginning of mental disease and melancholia is noted.

It is also true where these conditions affect the children that the parents often lack mental control and are subject to frequent attacks of irritability and anger.

The advanced neurasthenic type may be traced to many casual conditions. Injuries are a frequent menace The nervous condition is almost irrepressible in many of those who have gone through some harrowing wreck or accident. Severe mental and physical work, worry, lack of proper rest, improper diet, thoughts about one's self regarding lack of success, defeat of ambition or long continued sexual disorders are other causes. Acute infectious diseases play havoc with the mind of many persons and cause a lowered nutrition in all bodily functions.

If you have any of these symptoms have a complete health examination at once. Staying at home for a day or two is of no remedial value. Treatment of the severe nervous types of neurasthenia requires time and great care. Those cases which show weakness and a lack of capacity for centering the mind on details must have rest and careful diet under a skilled physician's orders.

The conditions which have impaired the bodily processes have been undermining the powers of digestion, circulation and proper secretion, as well as motion and sensation.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

A safety deposit box insures order and accessibility for your important papers and is a good investment.

Documents kept in a safety deposit box are protected from loss by misplacement. Sometimes papers kept at home or in a desk are put in a remote place for safety but when the moment for their use arrives, they are not to be found. They may be quite safe, but the worry and fret of hunting them is a real annoyance.

Papers kept in a safety box are touched by no one except at such times as are necessary; they do not become confused with other less important papers, nor do they become mussy and soiled, as they would in a less protected place.

Wills should also be kept in the box with other papers. The bank controlling the safety deposit box will see to it that no one opens the box except by personal or court order. A will thus kept is absolutely safe from casual inspection.

Cash or papers that can be readily converted into cash are not protected by burglar insurance and there is no way to insure their safekeeping except by some such method as a safety deposit box. In it they are practically safe from both theft and fire.

TORONTO, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Arnold Anderson, aged 23 years, said to be a former pupil of the Barrie Collegiate Institute, has been sentenced to death by the electric chair for a murder at St. Louis, and friends in Toronto, Barrie and St. Louis are interesting themselves in an effort to have the sentence commuted.

Arnold Anderson is described as the son of Albin Anderson, a tailor. The elder Anderson presented testimony during the trial which, seemingly, aided in the conviction of his son.

U. S. Government Claim For Damages Dismissed.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb 25. — The government's $3,000,000 suit against Stone and Webster involving a claim for damages for alleged war time waste in building Camp Travis at San Antonio, was dismissed by Federal Judge West. Dismissal was on the grounds that the government's allegations of gross negligence and waste were to general in character and did not name any specific case.

District Attorney John Hartman gave notice of appeal.

LAKEFIELD A.Y.P.A. PRODUCED NEWS

"Press Night" Proved An Interesting Feature--Copy Prepared For All Departments But Not Published

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 25. — Tuesday night was Press night at the A.Y.P.A. and the members devoted the evening to the making of a modern newspaper. Topics had been previously assigned and good results were achieved. The front page, with its world news and headlines was prepared by E. J. Robertshaw and was a creditable production. The editorial page was the work of Rev. Walter Cox, who combines with his practical knowledge of newspaper work a great enthusiasm for the A.Y.P.A. The association and its meaning was the subject of his article and with the expression of its high ideals and solemn responsibilities, one could see past the mere social side, which is only one side of the four square platform and see a vision of what the A.Y.P.A. has meant and will mean to the church.

Worship, Work, Fellowship and Edification are the planks of the A.Y.P.A. pltaform. Too many acknowledge only one—the third, principally because that receives most publicity but the others are even more imporant.

T. A. Simpson contributed a treatise on Socialism based on its inception and development.

A. V. Summers' contribution was the commercial advertising, which was both original and clever.

Market notes were provided by Miss Ida Webster and C. C. Stenner, both showing a comprehensive knowledge of the situation, both at home and abroad.

Miss Sylvia D. Holmes sent her contribution which was a very pretty little story.

Miss Smith provided the humorous page ,with a variety of jokes, conundrums and tongue twisters.

Mrs. Waldon's 'Nosy Notes From Nowhere' gave the social and personal side of the newspaper and were much appreciated. Miss Turner's Young's Point correspondence was extremely good. Owing to the heavy storms no correspondence came in from other outside points. The sporting page was exceptionally good and combined two of the most popular of united sports, hockey notes by Percy Stenner and curling news, by Robert Summers. The former described vividly a game played between St. John's Eatmore boys and the Tigers, resulting in a victory for the former. So popular was the game that even the commodious rink was packed and many were refused admission. The latter was a clever and decidedly original description of a game between the rinks, the Doughnuts and the Nutcrackers and giving a sketch of each man's play. As the author said in closing, it was a very exciting game with a very peculiar ending.

There was so much interest shown in the newspaper that it is expected that something of the same sort will be brought in later in the season.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Name Omitted.

The name of Miss Ferena Cooper, who took the part of Gladys May Merriden in the comedy, "Aaron Slick of Pumpkin Creek" on Tuesday evening, was inadvertently omitted.

BULGARIAN REVOLT IS REPORTED TO SALONICA

ATHENS, Feb. 25 (United Press). —The Greek General Staff at Salonika has received reports of a serious Communist revolt in Bulgaria, designed to overthrow King Boris and establish a republic.

The revolt was said to have started in the northern districts of Bulgaria.

Many supporters of the present Government are reported to have been arrested and shot by the revolutionists. The Government is reported to have sent troops to the north to put down the revolt.

A despatch from London says the Bulgarian Legation issued a statement to-day to the effect that reports of a revolution emanating from Athens probably were untrue.

TWENTY FASCISTI GO TO AVENGE SHOOTING

PARIS, Feb. 25.—(United Press). —Twenty Italian Fascisti, picked fighters, are on their way here from Rome to avenge the shooting of a Fascist leader, Bonservizi, by French Communists, according to reports current in the Italian colony.

The leader of the punitive expedition is Tmerigo Domini, who has already distinguished himself here in battles with Paris Communists.

The French police are preparing to turn back the band.

Canadian Skater Wins International Speed Championship

TITLE WRESTED FROM UNITED STATES STARS BY GORMAN OF ST. JOHN

Adds Lake Placid Crown to the U. S. National Honors Which He Earned at Saranac Lake a Week Ago--Gave Plucky Exhibition in Distance Event.

SCORED 100 POINTS.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Feb. 24.—Canada forged to the front yesterday in the two final events of the international amateur speed skating championships and to-night Charles Gorman of St. John, N.B., winner of both, stands elevated to the rank of champion, the first Canadian to attain the honor in ten years. But to reach it he was forced to put up one of the pluckiest exhibitions of winter sportsmanship witnessed here in years.

Fatigued by the strain he had undergone to win the 440 yard race, Gorman entered the final event of the meet, the three mile grind, at a decided disadvantage. Yard by yard he gained, and finally led the field, but as he flashed down the ice for the final stretch, he was obviously weakening. As he lurched against the tape at the finish, and broke it, the champion fell exhausted into the arms of the judges.

As champion of the amateur speed skaters, Gorman displaces Charles Jewtraw, of Lake Placid, who took no part in the amateur championships this year.

Won Dash Easily

Gorman's specialty, the 440 yard race, he won easily from Harry Kasky, of Chicago, who came in second, and Francis Allen, also of Chicago, third, although his time, 38 seconds flat was somewhat of a disappointment, in the light of the shattered world's record which resulted from the time of 36 3-5 seconds which he made in winning the same event during the national championships held at Saranac Lake last week.

In the three mile race Joe Moore of New York came in second, and Richard Donovan, of Saranac Lake, third, with Gorman winning the event in eight minutes 46 3-5 seconds The three mile lap prizes were won in a close contest by Robert Reed of Chicago and Albert Neal of Montreal, although the race was fairly slow.

Gorman's Performance

The 100 points gathered by Gorman which made him champion of the meet, resulted from the showing which he made in the six events constituting the program. Other point winners for the week's program were Francis Allen, of Chicago, 70; Harry Kasky, of Chicago, 60; Richard Donovan Saranac Lake 50; Paul Forsman, New York 20; Bobby Hearn, New York 10, and Eddie Gloster, Toronto.

None of the skaters has yet obtained enough points to entitle him to the Maxwell Cup, which is to be awarded to the man first reaching a total of 300 points. In the four year which it has been up, Joe Moore stands nearest with 280 points Jewtraw, second with 270 and Charles Gorman third, with 220.

Moore's poor showing was a distinct surprise to persons who attended the meet here this week, but he has explained that he was not in condition, having recently recovered from an illness.

Gorman was also attended by bad luck during the first two days of the meet here, after he had come from Saranac Lake where he won the national amateur championships.

Hampered by Bad Breaks

During the running of the 220 yard race Tuesday he was pocketed and thus prevented from scoring, while on Thursday, during his participation in half mile event, he finished first, but was disqualified for fouling as he spurted at the finish. He won the one mile, however, and took third place in the three quarter mile. During the running of the 440 yesterday, Kasky, although he came in second was disqualified for fouling Moore, who with McWhirter had fallen.

IRELAND LOST TO SCOTLAND

Scotsmen Were Strong Defensively and Their Attacks Were Pushed Through to Scores in International Rugby Match.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Feb. 24.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—An attendance of twenty thousand persons in glorious weather saw Scotland defeat Ireland by 13 to 8 in the International Rugby Football match here Saturday afternoon.

The Irish forwards were early prominent in a headlong rush to the Scottish half, but Scotland retaliated and scored after seven minutes, Waddell going over from Aitkins' pass and Drysdale converting. Ireland then again took up the attack, forcing Drysdale to touch down from along kick. Both sides kept the game open and play went quickly from one twenty-five yard to the other. Scotland had a narrow escape when Stephenson stumbled with the ball just short of the line.

A great rush by the Scottish forwards ended in Bertram scoring a try which Drysdale converted. Ireland now made strenuous efforts to reduce the lead by a fierce forward dash and overcame the Scottish defence. Stephenson secured the ball and scored a try under the goal posts which he subsequently converted. Returning to the attack, Hall for Ireland attempted to drop a goal which rebounded from the upright.

The score at half time was—Scotland 10, Ireland 5.

At the resumption of play Scotland took up the attack, but the Irish replied with a great forward dash, G. Stephenson receiving from H. Stephenson and scoring a try which he failed to convert. Play became tremendously keen after the Scottish defence had been subjected to a severe hammering and Crichton for Ireland missed a free kick. Dikes, Scottish substitute player, dribbled to the Irish line where he was pulled up, but from the ensuing scramble, Waddell scored a try which was not converted.

Toward the end of the game the pace slowed up and the play was confined to mid-field. Miller, Scottish substitute player, and Smith, staged two dangerous Scottish bursts, but in great finishes, Scotland just failed to increase the score, leaving the final result—Scotland 13, Ireland 8.

BABE DYE BROUGHT VICTORY TO IRISH

Epic Battle Ended With St. Pats Victorious Over Hamilton, 2 to 1.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Two timely tallies driven past Goaler Forbes by Babe Dye here on Saturday night broke the spell held by Hamilton over St. Patricks of late and the locals battled through to a 2 to 1 victory. St. Patricks had to win to stay in the running. They did and to tell the story of how they did it is to describe sixty minutes of hockey that kept every fan in tense excitement which reached its climax only when the gong finally rang out its passage of victory and defeat.

Canadiens obliged by losing in Ottawa and as a result of the two games, St. Patricks are now tied with Montreal and have an excellent chance to figure in the play off with Ottawa. The teams felt each other out for a few minutes to open the first period. Hamilton sending its attack through the locals left wing weakened by the absence of Adams and the locals feeding Dye.

Toronto gave Dye every opportunity to drill the rubber at Forbes and the fans were given their first taste of Bengal blood when the right winger sent the green into a one goal lead. But it was short lived, only six minutes in fact, then 'Red' Green evened the count.

The rivals settled away to break the tie again and for the remainder of the first period and well on into the second the swift attacks sent excitement into the heights. It was the careful play-planning of noble and the attack of Dye that accounted for the third and deciding goal with 9 minutes to play in the second session.

HAWAIIAN MERMAID'S RECORD

HONOLULU, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Mariechen Wehselau, youthful Hawaiian swimming star, set a new record for the women's free style 220 yard swim in a twenty yard tank here Saturday, covering the distance in two minutes, 4 2-5 seconds. The mark was made in a handicap race which Helen Moses won.

BROKE MOTOR RECORDS.

BEVERLEY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 24.—Harlan Fengler, the youthful speed pilot from Kansas City, won the 250 mile national automobile race here to-day in 2 hours, 9 minutes and 14 3-5 seconds, driving at an average speed of 116 miles an hour, and smashing all records for the distance.

SENATORS WIN FROM MONTREAL

Ottawa's Counter in the Second Period Was Only Goal of Exciting Game That Kept Big Crowd On Its Feet.

OTTAWA, February 24. — Ottawa Senators nosed out the Montreal Canadiens in a thrilling National Hockey League game here last night by a score of one goal to nothing. It was one of the most bitterly fought and wildly exciting games played here this season, with the result in doubt until the gong signalled the termination of playing time.

Ottawa showed all the tricks in their locker to take down the victory while the Canadiens fighting desperately to hold their slim advantage over Toronto St. Pat's in the race for second position, never let up from the opening whistle till the closing ball. Another capacity house saw the two teams battle it out, and for the greater part of the time the majority of the spectators were on their feet.

Playing was lightning fast for the first two periods but slowed down a little towards the close of the last session when Ottawas' perfectly played defence system held the raging Canucks outside the danger zone.

The game was scrappy throughout but the excellent work of Mike Rodden as referee kept the affair from getting out of hand.

To Harry Broadbent again goes the honor of downing the Canadiens in Ottawa. The second last time they played here it was Broadbent's wicked drive from corner that broke a one-all tie and gave the Senators a victory in the closing seconds. Last night the solitary counter of the game came from his stick after 16 1-2 minutes had elapsed of the second period.

There was a face off just outside the red line at the Canadien end and from the draw Nighbor snapped the disc out to Broadbent, Punch whipped it hard and true. The puck struck Vezina's left pad near the eop and glanced into the net, to the amazement of the goaler and the majority of the audience. True, Zezina was asleep on the play and the goal might be termed lucky, but it was cleverly driven by the Ottawa right-winger.

FEATURES OF CUP TIE GAMES

Record Crowd Saw Burnley's Defeat of Huddersfield — Weather Good and Aggregate Attendance Passed 300,000.

LONDON, Feb. 25.— (Canadian Press Cable.)— The third round of the Association Football Cup Ties on Saturday provided comparatively few surprises. Playing conditions were generally good and crowds aggregating considerably over 300,000 were attracted with gate receipts of £20,343.

Manchester City were much too good for Brighton and Hove as the score of five to one indicates, although they were only one goal up at the interval. Manchester had the famous veteran individual Meredith at outside right and he scored one of their goals. Brighton netted within three minutes of the start of the game but the goal was ruled offside. Each team converted penalty kicks.

Swindon deserved their 2 to 1 victory over Crystal Palace, although there was little to choose between the two teams up to the interval when the scores were even. In the second half, however, Swindon played with more dash and did pretty well as they liked. The veteran Fleming led the Swindon forwards and scored a splendid goal which won the game. Palace opened the scoring.

Burnley's Record Crowd.

A crowd of fifty thousand, constituting a ground record saw Burnley score a somewhat lucky victory by the only goal of the match against Huddersfield. This was scored in the firfist half. The exchanges were most exciting and both goals narrowly escaped during the second half.

Cardiff's three to none victory over Bristol City was not reflected at half time when they had only scored one goal through Gill. Play was very fast, Cardiff having the better of the exchanges in the second half.

Wolverhampton had much the better of the early play against West Bromwich Albian which ended in a one-all draw. The Wolves' forwards were remarkably clever and Fazackerly scored a brilliant goal. The Albions temporarily lost the services of Gregory owing to an injury. Wilson equalized for West Bromwich with a magnificent shot and then Albion were awarded a penalty but the shot was saved.

Villans Earned Victory.

Aston Villa deserved their 3 to 0 win aaginst Leeds United, because they were the more polished side, but the Leeds forwards were fast and thrustful.

Southampton were somewhat lucky in holding Liverpool to a scoreless draw. The latter's strong half-backs dominated the game but the front line could not break down the saints' defence.

The matches in the league were overshadowed and the results were of minor importance in determining the positions of the leading clubs which were not materially altered. Hains of Portsomuth scored three of his team's four goals against Norwich City who were unable to replay.

DEAN SIGNS CONTRACT.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 25.—(Canadian Pres).—Wayland Dean, pitcher obtained at the end of last season by the New York Giants from the Louisville Club of the American Association, announced Sunday night that he had come to satisfactory terms with the New York management and had mailed his signed contract to New York. Dean left Sunday for Sarasota, Fla., to join the Giants training camp.

McGILL 5—QUEEN'S 3.

MONTREAL, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press). — McGill University hockey squad won their last scheduled intercoleigiate match of the present season when they defeated Queen's University of Kingston 5 to 3 at the Mount Royal Arena, Saturday evening, the win did nothing for the local institution other than to assure them of third place in the finals standing.

SPEAKER'S BATTING EYES BEST

Judgment at Plate Uncanny, Says Shocker.

BY BILLY EVANS.

Who has the most critical pair of batting eyes in the American League?

Last summer at different times I put that question to a score of the leading pitchers of the American League.

The consensus of the pitchers were that Tris Speaker, Ty Cobb, Harry Heilmann, Eddie Collins, Babe Ruth and Johnny Tobin were six superbatters who were extremely critical when it came to looking over the offerings of the pitchers.

I know of no pitcher in the American League who works with greater care on his battera than Urban Shocker of the Browns. Shocker is a pitcher who performs without a bit of wasted effort. There is no wasted effort, for it is only in the pinch that he puts everything on the ball.

Shocker's observations as to my query were decidedly interesting. His viewpoint in every case was based on sound logic and offered a convincing proof, for the success that usually attends his efforts on the rubber stamp him as a smart pitcher.

Pitch to Weakness.

"I have found that every good batter has certain troublesome features," said Shocker. "I try to stay away from them. Likewise, a majority of the good hitters have a certain ball that is less in favor with them than others. For instance, I know of one really great batter who simply hates a fast ball, inside, letter high. His peculiar stance at the plate makes such a delivery hard for him to hit. He stands flat-footed, with his feet rather wide apart, and hugs the plate. It's hard for him to shift. I make it a point to dwell on a batter's weakness if he has one.

"Speaker is a troublesome batter for me," continued Shocker. "I always feel better when he is out of the way. In my opinion there is a certain style ball that I don't think Speaker likes. Don't misunderstand me, I wouldn't call it a weakness, yet Speaker I think prefers other styles of delivery better. Working along that theory I have had fair success against Speaker, yet I can recall two occasions last year when he broke up a ball game by murdering balls pitched at what I regard as his weak spot.

"Speaker looks them over with a keen eye. It is foolish to hope that he will go after a badly pitched ball. He makes you pitch, and in a pinch can take a pitch that is only a few inches shy of the plate without being the least interested. He can hit to all fields and has the knack of shifting his position after the ball is on the way.

Ruth Harder to Fool.

"Eddie Collins has a wonderful eye. Collins goes after no bad balls and is always trying to get the pitcher in the hole. He dotes on picking on the cripples. If Collins has the edge it is foolish for a pitcher to slip him anything soft.

"Ruth is getting harder to fool all the time. Two years ago he was a sucker for bad balls in his eagerness to swing. Last year he waited the pitcher out and picked the ball he wanted to hit. And boys, if he picked it right, how he hit it! My success varies against Ruth, but I like nothing better than to match wits and ability with the big fellow.

"Heilmann has the habit of crossing you up. That is what makes him a great batter. He may look foolish on a curve. Yet if you happen to come back with another in the same place he hits it a mile.

"I work on the theory that every player in the opposing lineup is a good hitter, including the pitcher, and find it a safety-first system that gets good results."

Eton College Rifles Outscore U. S. School.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press)—The gallery rifle team representing Eton College, England, defeated St. John's School Manlius, in their annual rifle match fired Saturday, the scores standing Eton 1,217, Manlius, 1,119, out of a possible score of 1600 for each team. British targets were used.

The match is an annual affair between the two schools, each team firing under identical conditions on its own range and the scores being cabled. The Royal Miltiary College of Canada recently defeated the Manlius team.

Amateurs of Capital Suspended For Jaunt.

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Eight Ottawa amateur hockey players have been indefinitely suspended, it was announced here Sunday. The players in question went touring, playing in Quebec on Thursday evening, where they played under the name of St. Patrick's and were beaten 9 to 2. Three city league teams affected as follows:

Gunners—McMorrow and Wagner.
Shamrocks — McCoy, McCann, Munro and Touhey.
Canadiens—Larose and Lafleur.

It is stated that the players were warned before they went that suspension would follow if they took part in this game. The fact that McMorrow was already under suspension on another infringement, has made the case against them stronger.

Tilden's Tennis Play Beaten By Spaniard.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press).—William Tilden's tennis wizardy was not good enough to cope with Spain's best here yesterday and the American champion was defeated by Manuel Alonso, of Spain, in a brilliant five-set match in the final round of the Buffalo Tennis and Squash Club's midwinter invitation indoor tennis tournament, 6-4, 1-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4. Tilden was inclined to favor his ankle, strained Saturday in the semi-final round of the doubles, but Alonso gave a remarkable exhibition of tennis and was at his best at the critical stages of the match when the American tried everything to turn the tide.

TWO CLERGYMEN ON CUP WINNING LAKEFIELD RINK

Rev. P. L. Jull Skipped Winners of Casement Cup—Rev. Father Garvey, Formerly of Peterboro, Played Fist Stone.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 25.—Rev. P. L. Jull skipped his rink into possession of the Casement Cup on Saturday, defeating D. H. Charlton by 13-8. Up to the eighth end Charlton had the advantage and was showing a small margin on the board. From that stage Rev. Mr. Jull pulled up and went ahead splendidly assisted by his rink mates, especially his vice-skip, J. M. Simpson.

The rinks were as follows:

Rev. Fr. Garvely	W. H. Casement
Martin Coughlin	J. Hill
J. M. Simpson	E. A. Tanner
Rev. P. L. Jull	D. H. Charlton
Skip 13	Skip 8

In the semi-finals Charlton defeated Dench, by 9-7 and Rev. Mr. Hull eliminated the Galvin rink by 8-4.

Fast Hundred Yards Indoors at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Louis Clarke, Hopkins' star sprinter, set what is thought to be a new world's record for the 100 yard dash when he covered the century open last night in the annual Hopkins-Fifth Regiment games in 9 4-5 seconds. Clarke's feat came in the semi-finals of the event.

Running from scratch, the local flier was off to a fine start, gathering speed with every stride and halfway down the alley he passed the last of the handicap men. He drew away from the field faster than he came up to it and at the finish had 10 yards to spare. Clarke won the final heat in 10 seconds flat.

Officials announce all racing dates for 1924 have been fixed. The races however, will not be fixed until later.

GIANTS' GROUNDS BUILT IN A DAY

McGraw's Squad Start Training Under Florida Sun For Another Pennant Fight.

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 25.—The Giant Pullman champions arrived here under a summer sun that would make California claim that Doheny was tampering with the weatherman.

Hughey Jennings and Cozey Dolan met the covered wagon at the station and took a quick sinister look at the young immigrants. All they saw were reporters, photographers and porters. There was only one ball player on the train and he was chained to a crate of clamshells in the baggage car.

Jennings gave the boys an afternoon off, but there was plenty of activity. The man who couldn't find something to do in the sunshine couldn't find wood in a lumber camp. There is plenty of fishing in the gulf, plenty of swimming down the beach and all kinds of motor trips.

The ball park has been officially endorsed by Dolan. Cozey has played the infield on everything from cinders to ice cakes. He says the Sarasota park is the finest he ever crashed.

The turf is a mixture of loam, sand and gravel .It is very springy and guarantees to take twenty years off an old-timers' arches. The park was actually constructed in a day by fifteen hundred workmen.

There are no fat men in camp. Even Jack Bentley is thirty pounds lighter to-day than when he reported last spring in San Antonio. Jack says he took off the extra weight sparring with his income tax papers.

Hughey Jennings is stepping around with lacerated gums. Everybody knows that Hughey's favorite dish is grass. He saw a stranger pulling up some nice looking weeds and chewing it. So Hughey snapped up a mouthful, took one bite and then rushed for the hospital.

The tropical dessert was the famous Florida razor grass and the stranger was one of Ringling's sword swallowers. Cozey Dolan will take charge of Saturday's practise, as Hughey has hamburger lips.

Ottawa Ski-Runner Won Canadian Championship

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.— Running a magnificent race and competing with the best ski-runners on the continent, Edmund Condon, of the Otta-Ski Club, won the Dominion of Canada ski-running championship at Fairy Lake Saturday afternoon. He negotiated the difficult twelve-mile course in 1 hour, 24 minutes and 56 2-5 seconds, just 6 2-5 seconds less than Rolph Monson, of Brattleboro, S.C., the former champion. The finish was the closest ever recorded in Canadian ski-running annals. Merritt C. Putman, Toronto Ski Club, took third place in 1:25:29 54-5.

Condon drew number seven position and Monson eighteen. The skiers started at one minute intervals. Condon passed the six men in front broke trail all the way and won the championship with a burst of speed in the last hundred yards.

WHAT'S THE VAUDEVILLE AT THE ROYAL TO-NIGHT

Most movie fans already know that Trilby is the feature attraction at the Royal to-night. The added vaudeville consiste of harmony singing, Irving and Ellwood, and Moore and Shy a comedy novelty, two new acts are being advertised for Thursday with the Barthelemess and Gish feature "Fury".

MANY STARS WITH BARTHELMESS IN "FURY"

"Fury," Richard Barthelmess' new production, has brought about the screen reunion of the star and Dorothy Gish, who fell in love with the part of the leading lady, which was written in the hope that she could be induced to play it'

Mr. Barthelmess is supported by a notable cast, including the star of the legitimate stage, Tryone Power; Barry Macollum, who was brought from England to play the half-witted lad in "John Ferguson"; Harry Blakemore, who will be remembered as having played the negro porter for three seasons in "The Travelling Salesman" and considered to be one of the topnotch comedians of the speaking stage.

"Fury" is a story of the sea in which for a time brute strength triumphs. To get the proper atmosphere, a four-masted schooner was especially chartered and was at sea for three weeks. The company roughed it in true sailor fashion, sleeping in the fo'castle and in hammocks. The result is a picture which has earned the praise of D. W. Griffith as one of the greatest pictures ever produced and a document of life. "Fury," a First National attraction, will be seen at the Royal Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

What's the Vaudeville at the Royal Today?

'Trilby," the Immortal Romance That Thrilled the Hearts of Millions, Fashioned into Entrancing Reality by a Notable Cast of Stars, at Royal Tonight.

In order to impress upon the theatre going public the merit of the screen production of "Trilby" the following newspaper criticism is clipped from the New York Journal:

It is not often that a widely heralded screen production so thoroughly lives up to its advance notices as "Trilby," the Richard Walton Tully production of George Du Maurier's immortal romance.

We do not hesitate to add our voice to those which have remarked: It is Du Maurier's novel come to life.

Andree Lafayette, in the title role, is a delight. A girl of a type unusual to the American theatregoer, she adds to the charm of a vivid personality a peruliar talent, and was equally as satisfactory as the hoydenish girl of the studios in the opening sequences and the woman fighting her handicaps in the later ones.

Arthur Edmund Carewe scores heavily as Svengali, his characterization of the difficult role revealing an intelligent conception of Du Maurier's villain, both in make-up and in interpretation.

The artist pals, Taffy, The Laird and Little Billee, played by Philo McCullogh, Wilfred Lucas and Creighton Hale, respectively are portrayed with consummate skill by these sterling artists; and others which impressed by their sincerity were the Gecko of Francis McDonald and the Zouzou of the French artist, Maurice Cannon. To the credit of Mr. Tully, who, we are told, selected the notable cast, be it said that it is well balanced, and as such gave a very smooth performance, and a word of commendation is due others in less prominent roles.

"Trilby" was directed by James Young and is a First National attraction."

"Trilby" is now playing at the Royal Theatre the first half of this week.

AT THE GRAND

"THE CAT AND THE CANARY"

"The Cat and the Canary," the most exciting of all the thrillers of the present day, will be the attraction at the Grand, Wednesday, February 27th.6 This play is the most notable and undoubtedly the best of all the dramas dealing with mysterious events. Its success throughout the country is not difficult to understand. There is a certain kind of pleasure in witnessing performance that causes the chill to perambulate up and down one's vertebrae and the hair to stand upright "like quills upon the fretful porcupine." And this sort of pleasure "The Cat and the Canary" can furnish in plentiful measure. The curtain is not long raised when the creepy feeling takes possession of one. A voodoo woman from the West Indies, with a voice of sepulchral depth begins to predict diabolic doings. And they come right along, one after the other, without waiting for instructions. And it's all on account of the funny will that a misanthropic old codger made just prior to his death twenty years before the opening of the play. He hated his relatives and to make things unfomfortable for them insists that they shall come to the ghostly old mansion in which he died and hear his will read, at midnight on the twentieth anniversary of his demise. Six persons, all of his hated kinsmen who survive, come to this place, hoping that he has left them a goodly share of his fortune. In this, five of them are doomed to disappointment, for he leaves it all to one young girl. At the start this young person does not find the possession of the wealth as rosy a state as she had previously imagined. Not very long after the reading of the will the hair-raising occurrences of the night begin. And it all happens in the short space of two hours, between 11.30 and 1.30 midnight, the walls yawn and a man is swallowed up by them, a homicidal lunatic is reported to be in the house and there is a man hunt for him, a claw-like hand reaches out of the air and snatches a valuable necklace from the neck of a sleeping girl. These are some of the episodes of the play and there are more of them. There is a lot of fun in it, also, and the audience has many a hearty laugh at the scares of the characters.

There is an excellent company in the performance and the cast comprises most of the players seen in it during its long New York run.

AT THE CAPITOL

NO GREASE PAINT USED IN PICTURE "BIG BROTHER"

For the Stuff Isn't Used as a Rule by New York Bandit Gangs

Cosmetic dealers, who supply the greast paint for motion picture actors, would find business exceedingly dull if they had to depend on pictures such as Paramount's "Big Brother" for the replenishment of their coffers. Here is a production in which only one member of the entire cast uses make-up in exteriors and two members in interior scenes.

Allan Dwan, directing the filming of the story, which is from the novel by Rex Beach and which opens at the Capitol Theatre today, is the author of the idea, and it has proven an exceptional one. Most of the characters in the play are gangsters of New York's lower East side. In fact nearly all of the action takes place in that vicinity. So, in Mr. Dwan's opinion the exact characterizations could not be procured with the aid of make-up. Hence Tom Moore and others have no more cosmetics on their face before the camera than they would have on Broadway.

Raymond Hatton, who plays the part of a dope fiend, is the only member of the cast to wear make-up throughout, which of course, is necessary to get the correct characterization. Edith Roberts, playing the feminine lead, wears make-up only in the interior scenes.

AT THE REGENT

"THE WHIP" MAKES EXCITING PICTURE

Drury Lane Melodrama Better in Movies Than on the Stage—Racing Story Contains Plenty of Action and Many Thrills.

There is a certain type of spectacular melodrama, once very popular, that has passed, probably forever, from the legitimate stage to the screen, because it can be done so much better in the movies. "The Whip," the picture attraction that opens at the Regent today, demonstrates once again that such is the fact. "The Whip" will doubtless pass into theatrical history as the last of the old-fashioned melodramas to score a hit on this continent. It will be remembered that the play, originally one of the famous Cecil Raleigh and Hamilton productions at Drury Lane, London, was brought to New York about five years ago, where it enjoyed a vogue that surprised everyone, running for an entire season. We saw it in Toronto at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, but it really did not stir much enthusiasm here. People found the sensational scenes too mechanical, so that the train wreck and the horse race did not produce a thrill. Now the story has been utilized for a silent drama, where it can be presented in a highly realistic manner, with train wrecks and race that look like the real thing. The movies make the incidents of "The Whip" seem actually to happen.

In making over the Drury Lane drama for the pictures, the location of the story has been transferred from England to the United States. This is the only important change, except, of course, that the plot is greatly elaborated in the newer version. There are the necessary minor alterations, as when the scene in Madame Tussaud's takes place in the Eden Musee. The Whip is a race horse owned by an American judge. It has been trained without the public knowing that it is a speedy animal, and the owner hopes to spring a surprise with it. A degenerate baron and an adventuress come to the judge's home, and hope by means of an intrigue to secure for the former the hand of Diana, the judge's daughter. They attempt to dispose of Diana's fiance, a young artist, and also later on to destroy the Whip's chances of winning the race. There are several big episodes in the picture, all of which are splendid bits of photography. The first shows a runaway automobile, in which the artist is nearly killed. There are some very fine scenes of a fox hunt, but the climax of the picture is a train wreck. The baron has contrived to leave the horse car containing the Whip on the track between stations. The artist in a fast automobile races the express train and succeeds in getting the horse out just before the express collides with the car. There is plenty of punch to these episodes, the climax being well worked up. The horse racing at Saratago and the Whip's victory brings an exciting and spectacular film to a close. Few better melodramas than "The Whip" have been shown here on the screen, and it is acted by a competent cast. The incidental music is supplied by an orchestra directed by Mr. Jules Brazil, who uses an appropriate arrangement of popular airs to accompany the story.

This excellent picture will be shown at the Regent.

Official Programme

Selections of a high-order and popular artists at Symphony Orchestra Concert, Next Thursday

The following carefully selected programme assures a real treat to those who attend the Symphony Orchestra Concert in Conservatory Hall, on Thursday, Feb. 28th. As a representative city musical organization the orchestra certainly deserves encouraging in a real community way.

1. Tannhauser—Fest March ..... Wagner
   SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
2. Reading ..... Selected
   MRS HAZEL DAVIDSON McCLELLAND
3. (a) "Romance" ..... Sibelius
   (b) "By the Fountain" ..... Davidoff
   MR. LEO. SMITH
4. "Eili, Eili"—Traditional Yiddish Melody, Arr. by Kurt-Schindler
   MRS. DOROTHY ALLAN PARK

This incantation, which is known and sung by millions of Jews in Russia, Poland and New York's East Side, shows strong influences of synagogal melody. The opening and closing Bible quotations are sung in Hebrew, the despairing outcry, "Eili, Eili, lama sabachthani" were the last words uttered by Christ before his death. From the various musical notations of this song, the one by Shalitt, arr. by Schindler, seems best to preserve the free and rhapsodic style and the pathos, which works up to the inspired proclamation of faith at the end.

5. Overture—"Rosamunde" ..... Schubert
   SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
6. Reading ..... "Friday Afternoon at a Primary School"
   MRS HAZEL DAVIDSON McCLELLAND
7. Bassoon Solo—"Lucy Long" ..... Godfrey
   MR. FRANK HULLY
8. (a) "In a Monastery Garden" ..... Ketelbey
   (b) Intermezzo—"Rusticana" ..... Mascagni
   SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
9. (a) "Spanish Serenade" ..... Poppers
   (b) "The Fanaid Grove"—Irish Folk Song .....
   (c) Mazurka ..... Poppers
   MR. LEO. SMITH
10. "Angels Guard Thee"—(Berceuse from Jocelyn), by Godard (By Request), 'Cello Obligato by Mr. Leo. Smith
    MRS. DOROTHY ALLAN PARK
11. Selection from "Rob Roy" ..... De Koven
    SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

OTIS SKINNER SEEN IN BRAND NEW COMEDY

Otis Skinner comes to the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, the week commencing March 3rd in "Sancho Panza," a merry, spectacular comedy written by Melchoir Lengyel, the well-known Hungarian playwright. Mr. Lengyel based his play on certain episodes in Cervantes' "Don Quixote," which relate the adventures of the Don's peasant squire, Sancho Panza, when he is suddenly transferred to the throne of Barataria, dressed in splendor, and surrounded by a court, brilliant, sophisticated and—treacherous. Sancho insists on sharing his glory with Dapple, his little gray donkey, upsets court etiquette, foils conspirators and in the end administers justice to the long-suffering people of Barataria.

As a background for Mr. Skinner's magnificent characterization of the humorous, picturesque Sancho, Russell Janney, the producer, has made an elaborate presentation of the golden age of Spain, rich in color and movement. There are dances arranged by Bert French of the "Music Box Revue"; special music by Hugo Felix, composer of "Madame Sherry," and "Pom Pom" and "Marjolaine"; costumes and scenery by James Reynolds, designer for Ziegfeld's "Follies", and the staging was directed by Richard Boleslawsky of the Moscow Art Theatre.

In support of Mr. Skinner is an exceptional cast, including Russ Whytal, Frederick Tiden, Marguerite Forrest, Robert Rosaire, Stewart Baird, Herbert Delmore, Charles Halton, Harry Lewellyn, H. H. McCollum, Rubi Trelease, Robert Robson, Anthony Andre, Richard Cramer, William H. White, Olga Treskoff, Meyer Berenson, Helen Grenelle and Royal Cutter. In addition to the principal players, there is a large ensemble of singers, dancers and supernumeraries. Thus "Sancho Panza" combines all those elements which make an eventful evening at the theatre, with Mr. Skinner at his best in a rich comedy role. As for "Dapple," the donkey—

Billy Evans Says

Much ado is being made of the fact that at 40 Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, is still fighting and doing a good job of it. Jack's favorite pastime at present is brushing aside youthful fighters who insist all they need is a chance at Mickey Walker to gain the title. The fact that Britton is 40 is stressed. The record books state that Jack will be 40 in October. Intimate friends of Jack say that he is closer to 43 than the fair and 40 mark.

Is there any good reason why a fighter who has taken proper care of himself should not be able to hold his own in the fistic game at 40?

Failure of a majority of fighters to take the proper care of themselves at all times is the reason for Britton standing out as such an unusual figure. Fame and hero worship are the besetting sins of most ringmen. Winning fame often overnight causes many of them to change their entire mode of living. They throw aside the care and caution that made it possible for them to attain their great physical power and the prestige that invariably goes with it.

Bob Fitzsimmons and Johnny Dundee are to be classed with Britton. Fitz won the heavyweight title from Corbett when he was around the 35 mark, while Dundee copped the feather title at 30.

The career of Johnny Dundee as a ringster is a most remarkable one, a great lesson to every youngster ambitious to win fistic honors. Dundee began fighting in 1910. After a dozen years of battling, meeting fighters in all classes, usually giving away from five to 15 pounds, Dundee at the age of 30 won the featherweight title. He became a champion at an age when a majority of fighters have retired from the ring or are in the "has-been" class.

Dundee's career is a great tribute to clean living. A believer in the theory that there is no better conditioner than real competition, he has made it a point to keep busy. Fighting is a serious business with Dundee. Always in shape to fight he never passed up a worthwhile opportunity.

DELORME TRIAL STARTED TODAY

Jury Selected and Addressed by the Crown Prosecutor.

MONREAL, Feb. 25—(Canadian Press)—A motion by Gustave Monette, counsel for the Curator of the Delorme estate that the sanity of Rev. Abbe Delorme be enquired into, was rejected by Mr. Justice Martineau, when made at the opening of the trial of the priest this morning, in the Court of King's Bench for the alleged murder of his half brother, Raoul, in January, 1922. The Judge said the Lieut. Governor of the Province had the right to order any man committed to an asylum after a crime had been committed, to stand his trial if he became sane again. This had been done in the Delorme case. Most of to-day was taken up with the selection of a jury.

A new turn to the evidence for the crown was foreshadowed in the address to the jury by R. L. Calder K.C. Crown Prosecutor. He said when describing the crime and how the body had been found at Snowden (stahlr (IgGi.so tt u ethat man Junction, in the outskirts of Montreal, that a woman living on the road to that place had seen a man drivin a Franklin car, similar to that owned by the priest at two in morning. Mr. Calder said this witness held she could identify the Abbe as the driver of car. Mr. Calder said also that a man would give evidence along the same lines.

Mr. Calder said that shots heard at Cote St. Michael in another direction from where the body was found, were fired by the accused to give a false clue. Mr. Calder claimed the murder took place in the Delorme home and that the accused took the body out before 11 in the evening. Mr. Calder said the accused first intended to leave it in a place of bad repute, tht Glen, but was seen there.

Mr. Calder advanced as motives for crime, Raoul's insurance policy, the deficit in finances of the estate administered by Delorme and the fact the priest was his brother's heir.

EMPLOYMENT SITUATION

The report from the Employment Bureau shows a slight increase in placements over last week. This week there were 38 new applicants and the same number of placements. On Saturday they had 121 applicants on their list that had not been placed, while around the first of September they had 146 unplaced applicants. This shows a slight increase in the past three weeks. On account of there being a lot of snow shovelling during the past week a great many of the men have found small jobs. A few have been shipped to the farms and a few have been placed at small wood cutting jobs, around the city and district. The employment situation in the city is felt to be a little better than at this time last year, while things are about the same here as in other cities.

A STRANGE SIGHT.

As an Examiner reporter was walking on George Street to-day looking for news, as reporters undoubtedly do, he saw a jostling crowd. It was several blocks away, but the inquiring reporter was determined to get there before the big story got away, so he called a taxi, as reporters do when they have to go several blocks, and instructed the driver not to heed speed laws laid down by the new Highways Traffic Act or any other Act.

On his way he dug his notebook and pencil from his pockets and got ready to make the voluminous notes that all reporters undoubtedly make.

Arriving in the midst of the crowd that had by this time swelled to proportions indicating either a holdup or a fatal accident, the reporter leaped to the sidewalk and breathlessly asked "what happened?"—as undoubtedly all reporters do.

In the absorbing interest of the moment no one had time to answer, but noticing the direction of the people's gaze, the reporter looked upward.

There was a man slow ...ing from a roof.

OBITUARY

MOIRA THARSILLA HERLIHEY.

The death occurred on Tuesday, February 19th, of Moira Tharsilla Herlihey, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Herlihey, of Downeyville. Interment in St. Luke's cemetery, Downeyville.

MARY LEONA McGINTY.

A sad occurrence yesterday was the death of Mary Leona McGinty, who passed away at the Isolation Hospital at eight o'clock last evening, after a short illness. The deceased, who was in her 23rd year, resided at 373 Bethune street. Besides her sorrowing parents, she is survived by two brothers: James V. and Cyril, both of this city. The young lady was a member of the office staff of the De Laval Company, where her services were highly prized on account of her efficiency and pleasant demeanor. She was also a popular member of the executive of the Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Peter's Cathedral.

The funeral, which was private, took place this afternoon at half-past three o'clock to St. Peter's cemetery.

BONIFACE ANGELLESEY.

The funeral of the late Boniface Angellesey, whose death took place in Detroit Friday morning, was held this morning at nine o'clock from the residence of Mr. Lewis LeBarr, William Street, to the Church of the Sacred Heart, where the funeral Mass was said by Rev. J. J. O'Brien, thence to St. Peter's Cemetery, where Rev. P. Butler officiated.

The pall-bearers were his two brothers, Thomas and James, of Detroit, Patrick Angellesey, Joseph Dineen, James Dineen, and Samuel Houlihan.

The late Mr. Angellesey was a former resident of Peterboro, and was well-known and highly respected by a large number of friends, who were shocked to learn of his death.

MRS. JAMES WOOD.

The death occurred at five o'clock last evening of an old and much respected resident, in the person of Mary Gibson Edwards, widow of the late James Wood of Ottawa, who predeceased her twenty-five years ago.

The final moment came unexpectedly, although Mrs. Wood had been ill for the past two months.

The deceased was a daughter of the late James Edwards of Peterborough, and was born in the house in North Monaghan Township where she died, and where she had lived for the past quarter of a century with her sister, Miss Ella Edwards.

She was a woman of unassuming kindly, Christian character, a general favourite among a large circle of friends, and an earnest worker in the societies of her church, the Murray Street Baptist. Charitable work of all sorts claimed a great deal of her time and attention.

A sone of the moving spirits in the endeavours of the local branch of the Dr. Grenfell Medical Misston, she did much, year after year, in alleviating the sufferings of the fisherfolk on the barren coasts of Labrador and Newfoundland. She was also a member of the Board of Management of the local Young Women's Christian Association, and president for many years of the Peterborough Branch of the Canadia Red Cross Society. She will be remembered by manx for the quiet character of her mild, generous life and the broadness of her charity to those in need.

One son survives, Gerald Allan Wood, of Peterborough, and two brothers, Jas. Edwards of Lindsay and Donald C. Edwards of Toronto. A son, Russell Wood, died five years ago, another son dying in infancy.

The funeral, which will be private, will take place to-morrow (Tuesday) afternoon, at half-past two, o'clock, from her late residence on Monaghan Road to the Little Lake Cemetery, Rev C. W. Rose officiating.

FUNERAL TUESDAY.

The funeral of Rev. Hamilton Spence, whose death occurred on Saturday will take place on Tuesday. There will be a brief service at his late home, 39 Crescent Street, at 10 a.m., conducted by the pastor of St. James' Church, Rev. J. D. Richardson. At 10.30 a public service will be conducted in St. James' Church by the president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, Rev. A. R. Whattam of Colborne, followed by a service at the grave in charge of the chairman of Peterborough district, Rev. S. P. Tucker of Millbrook.

GOVERNMENT DIGS UP NEW SCANDAL

Prosecutions May Follow on a Wholesale Scale

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press.) — The Evening Telegram says in its news columns to-day:

Defalcations that may aggregate $100,000 are expected to be revealed by officials of the Ontario government as a result of inquiries now in progress into spending and collecting departments, attributed to following the loose administration of the Drury government. Some of the irregularities already have been already brought to light, and others are soon to be made public.

It was intimated this morning that in certain instances prosecutions may follow on an almost wholesale scale, as the result of the audit.

KILLED IN PISTOL BATTLE.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 25. — (Canadian Press).—Miko Marino, 35, and Rafila Trauso, 26, alleged black-mailers, were shot and killed in a pistol battle with Mrs. Nettie Annelli, 21, last night.

According to Mrs. Annelli, three men came to her home on Thursday night and demanded more from her father, that her husband leave town and that two roomers leave her home.

Last night she saw the three men loitering near her home, so she barricaded the doors and armed herself with three revolvers, and engaged the men in a battle, with the result stated.

TAKES NEW POSITION.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Superintendent of Insurance V. Evan Gray is understood to be resigning his position with the Ontario Government to become permanent chairman and counsel of the Casualty Underwriters' Association and the Canadian Automobile Underwriters' Association. His resignation is said to be now in the hands of Attorney-General Nickle and is to take effect on April 1.

FARMER LODGE QUIT.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Louis Firpo last night knocked out Farmer Lodge in the fifth round of what was to have been a fifteen-round bout. The knockout blow was a terrific right to the body, preceded by a left to the jaw. Lodge had to be carried to his corner.

The bout was marked by frequent clinches on the part of Lodge. It is estimated that 35,000 saw the bout. There was a burst of frantic cheering over the victory of Firpo, who is the boxing idol of Argentine.

STILL AFTER TOMACK.

PORT ARTHUR, February 25 (Canadian Press). — The hunt for Peter Tomack, the escaped assailant of Sergeant Creasy, of the Provincial Police, was resumed in Silver Mountain vicinity this morning.

The police squad is being augmented by further arrivals from the Dryden Division.

Tomack, who is a trapper, appears to have got away in the woods, and may be able to give the police quite a chase.

The man hunt is remote and communication is difficult.

A PRIVATE ENQUIRY.

KINGSTON, Feb. 25. — "When Major Arnold and his son arrive in the city there will be an investigation into the affair," said Major General A. C. Macdonnell to-day in discussing the latest feature of the case of ex-Cadet Arnold, who left Royal Military College three weeks ago.

"Major Arnold is coming to the city, and I take it that the boy will come too," said the General. The investigation will be private.

IN MEMORIAM.

HARPER. — In loving memory of our little daughter, Cora Louise Harper, who died on 25th February, 1921.
We who loved you sadly miss you
As it dawns another year.
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are always near.
When the shades of night are falling,
And we are still alone,
There often comes the longing—
If only Cora could come home!

CRUSTACEA AND MANY MORE BUGS WATER SUPPLY

Rotarian Ross L. Dobbin Describes Some of the Plant and Animal Organisms That Are to Be Found in Water.

NOMI ATE DIRECTORS

A most interesting address on the subject of "Water," was given at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club, at the Empress to-day, by Rotarian Ross L. Dobbin, who brought along with him test tubes of water containing some of the plant and animal life, about which he spoke, and which were examined by the Rotarians under the microscope.

Two new Rotarians, Walter Blackwell and James Juby were announced by President McElderry, and given a hearty welcome.

The nominations of directors for the year took place at to-day's luncheon. Five are to be elected from the following nominees: Reid Wrenn, Jack Primeau, Dr. A. W. McPherson, H. R. H. Kenner, Leon Frazer, Fred Hungerford, W. J. Thompson, Ross Dobbin, Dr. A. McNair, James Hamilton, J. W. McDermid.

The election will take place on March 17th.

In beginning his paper Rotarian Dobbin pointed out that water was second only in importance to air as one of the three fundamental elements of human life. It comprised three-fourths of the total weight of the human body, and every adult required three pints each day to maintain the necessary proportion. It was universally present in all the tissues and glands of the body, in the blood, and in the secretions, where it is necessary in order to give the fluidity needed in the performance of these functions, for it was by the blood and secretions were introduced into the body and old ingredients discharged.

The speaker then passed on to emphasize the necessity of water for cooking purposes, being pure and wholesome and to discuss some of the impurities and organisms that are encountered.

After showing that the belief that water when derived from rain, snow dew or fog, before reaching the earth, is always clean and pure, was not a substantial one, Rotarian Dobbin dealt with the two main sources of water supply, explaining the difference between ground water —that is water making its way into the ground by vertical displacement —and surface water, the latter more generally used for large supplies of water, and usually more polluted than the surface water.

The theory that running water purified itself, Rotarian Dobbin said was but partially true, and the chief improvement was caused by dilution from ground water.

Dealing with the plant life in natural water, the speaker pointed out that there were two great classes of free floating types, the algae, and fungi, the latter being represented by water mould and bacteria.

Most bacteria were harmless, and beneficial, assisting in the decomposition of organic matter, but there were some species that were very harmful, causing intestinal diseases.

Rotarian Dobbin discussed the animal life found in water, such as fresh water sponges, crustacea and protozoa. The crustacea were described as the most interesting, with the most prevalent type the cyclops, specimens of which were to be seen in the water in the test tubes supplied by the speaker for demonstration purposes.

The next meeting of the club will be ladies' night, and will be held on Tuesday evening of next week at the Peterboro Club. Rotarian Fred Hungerford is in charge of the arrangements.

NICKLE INTENDS TO DISCOURAGE PRISON LASHING

Offenders Not Reformed By Official Vengeance, Says Attorney-General--Physical Torture Makes Prisoners More Unsocial When Returned to Society.

BILLS ADVANCED.

TORONTO, Feb. 26.—Several government bills including those establishing a bounty for iron ore, wiping out discrimination in the mining tax and giving the alumni federation of the University of Toronto the right to nominate eight members to the Board of Governors to the University were yesterday given second reading in the Legislature without opposition.

F. C. McBriens bill increasing the householders exemption in municipal income tax was given second reading and sent to the municipal committee. Premier Ferguson gave a short review of the accomplishments of the conference Saturday between Quebec cabinet, Ministers and the Ontario cabinet.

Concerning the case in which several troopers were on trial before Judge Denton of Toronto for assaulting their comrade Trooper Bowen, Hon. W.F. Nickle took opportunity to state that as long as he was Attorney General he would discourage the promiscuous use of the lash.

Col. John Currie (Southeast Toronto) moved the adournment of the House to discuss police court trial of the soldiers who were charged with assaulting Trooper Bowen. He contended that there was no right of a civil court trial after the court martial until proper steps had been taken. He thought the men should be dismissed as there was a clash of courts of equal jurisdiction tht military court having an official standing.

Nickle's Policy

Attorney General Nickle could not agree that a civil court had no right of trial of these men. He referred also to the matter of lashes and made a declaration of policy on this matter.

"So long as I am Attorney General I shall endeavor to discourage the promiscuous use of the lash in relation to a convicted criminal," said Mr. Nickle. "In my mind, it is archaic, it smacks of the middle ages, and is not beneficial. If the object of punishment is to remove those from society who are found to be unsocial to give them an opportunity for reformation and to punish them by segregation then society, it seems to me ,has gone as far as it should when it puts a man in prison; and when you endeavor to impose upon a man physical torture merely for the purpose of creating pain punishment, it seems to me, is not based upon the philosophical principles I have outlined, but instead of being reformative becomes an act of vengeance and the individual when he returns to society, as in the large majority of cases he ultimately will, is more unsocial than when originally deprived of his liberty."

Cut Income Tax

F. C. McBrien moving the second reading of his bill to raise the municipal income tax exemption form $2000 to $2500 for the householder and from $1000 to $1250 for others and increasing exemption for each child from $200 to $300 said he was not trying to exempt the wealthy but he was trying to arrange a more equitable taxation.

Hon. Manning Doherty said that by increasing the exemption on moderate salaries he might be placing a greater burden on the low salaried or paid man because the loss in revenue would be made up on ordinary property taxation. Premier Ferguson said the bill if passed might deprive small municipalities of a considerable revenue as in small towns and villages there were few people getting over $2500 salary. It might be confined to larger places he said. However, he favored the exemption being increased on children The bill went to the municipal committee.

Iron Ore Bounty

Hon. Chas. McCrea in moving second reading for the iron ore bounty bill said there was no pig iron in Canada produced from our own ore. It was all brought from

Church Forbids Women's Knickers

ST. BONIFACE, Man., Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Knickerbockers for winter sports were forbidden to the women and girls of the St. Boniface archdiocese in a sermon delivered Sunday by His Grace, Archbishop Beliveau from the pulpit of St. Boniface Cathedral.

The Archbishop characterized the wearing of knickerbockers as "dangerous and immodest."

A warning in the matter of knickerbockers was issued during the carnival at the St. Boniface rink last season. The warning now becomes a prohibition which must be obeyed by the feminine portion of the diocese under penalty of church discipline.

BAPTISTE BABY TO NEW ORDER

Irene Hedley Dedicated to the Communist Movement in England

SHEFFIELD, Eng., Feb. 26. — (United Press.)—A month old baby, born to Communist parents, was baptised here by Geo. Fletcher, local party leader, with communist rites on Monday.

Taking the infant in his arms to a raised platform where steel workers gathered about, could see the ceremony, Fletcher said:

It is customary to make the sign of the cross when baptising babies. Perhaps this is significant of what workers' children bear.

"I name this child Irene Hedley. I hope she will show love and affection in return for parental care. I also hope she will be a credit to the revolutionary movement to which I now dedicate her."

And he kissed the baby, handing it over to its parents.

ONTARIO FARMERS AFTER HIRED MEN

Wages Run as High as $600 a Year and Found

TORONTO, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Ontario farmers whose labour is supplied through Government Employment Service, are commencing to place their requirements before the Bureau, and at present time for experienced farm labor is greater than the supply.

Yesterday officials of the Bureau stated they had jobs for fifty experienced farm laborers, at wages ranging from $35 a month up to as high as $600 per annum. Jobs are to be filled during the month of March, and not later than April.

It was stated there was no requests for inexperienced labor, although some farmers were willing to employ semi-experienced men on yearly contract. .. ..

YOUTHFUL ROMANCE ENDS IN GIRL'S TRAGIC DEATH

DETROIT, Feb. 26.— (Canadian Press)—A girl and boy romance ended in tragedy early yesterday, when 15 year old Gladys Moore, told by her sweetheart, Phillip Grove, 17, that he no longer loved her, swallowed poison and died in an automobile in front of her home on Burlington avenue. The youngsters had been keeping company for about two months.

COMPETITION OF CANADIAN FLOUR HITS AMERICA

Can Be Laid Down in New York Despite High Tariff At Cheaper Price Than Product of United States Mills--Capturing Foreign Markets.

DUTY $1.53 A BARREL.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. — Flour milling interests argued before the tariff commission on Monday for the maintenance of the present tariff relationship between wheat, flour and wheat products. They weer however unable to produce production costs of wheat feeds desired by the commission and adjournment was taken until to-day when the commission expected to conclude the hearings on the costs of wheat, flour and feed production in connection with the application of a tariff increase on wheat requested by the Wheat Council of the United States.

The millers testified that Canadian millers were able to put down a barrel of flour in New York, after paying a duty of $1.53, for seven cents less than it costs United States millers to place flour on the New York market.

They pointed out that if the wheat duty were increased 50 per cent., and a corresponding increase were not placed on flour, the Canadian millers would be able to undersell United States millers in the New York market to the extent of 77 cents a barrel.

Crowd out U. S. Flour.

Canadian flour was selling in London a week ago for the equivalent of $5.50 per barrel, one miller testified, stating that an equal grade of flour could not be produced in Minneapolis for that amount. The Canadian millers, it was stated, have crowded the United States flour off the British and Continental markets, and were making inroads in the United States export flour trade in the West Indies through their ability to sell at lower prices, and with the aid of preferential tariffs granted by the British colonies. Only the United States trade and such markets as they could develop in South and Central America, together with the Orient, were left to the United States millers.

Fred J. Lingham, of Lockport, N. Y., Bernard J. Rothwell, of Boston, and John Crosby of Minneapolis, testified on behalf of the milling interests and were questioned by members of the commission on various technical matters.

Asked as to the methods of distributing the costs of milling and marketing to flour and to milled feeds, the millers explained that being commonly sold at less than the cost of the wheat and on a basis of supply and demand, the entire cost of milling and also loss incident to selling feeds below cost of wheat should be assessed against the flour.

Duty on Feeds.

In order to arrive at a basis on which it could be determined whether the present 15 per cent ,ad valorem duty on bran and other feeds should be changed to correspond with the proposed wheat duty, the Commission requested the millers to prepare statistics on the cost of producing milled feeds.

In its own investigation the Commission found the total cost of wheat, miling, marketing and administrative expense in the production of wheat feeds to be $1.11 per one hundred pounds in the United States and 95 cents in Canada.

HOMICIDAL MANIAC WANTED FOR MURDER

Woman Found Dead With Knife Sticking in Her Breast.

BERLIN, Feb. 26. — (United Press).—A homicidal maniac described as resembling a gorilla was hunted by the Berlin police today. Rewards are being offered for his capture. The populace is alarmed.

Frau Else Hoffmann was found last night in a dwelling in the north end of the city, a knife sticking in her breast and her throat bound with wire. In an adjoining room lay her mother, Frau Emma Trautmann, who had been choked to death by gorilla-like hands. The clothing had been stripped from the daughter. An identical murder was perpetrated a fortnight ago.

MACDONALD IS FAGING A NEW CRISIS TODAY

Labor Government May Be Defeatcd Before the House Adjourns Tonight on Dole Question

RELIEF FOR POPLAR

(By Lloyd Allen, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, February 26. — Premier Ramsay MacDonald to-day faced the gravest Parliamentary crisis of his administration.

The House of Commons, before adjournment to-night, may witness the defeat of the Labour Government on an issue which normally would cause resignation.

The House will debate the Poplar finances, a subject upon which both Liberals and Conservatives are moving resolutions of virtual censure of Minister of Health Wheatley.

Wheatley, a pronounced "Red," assumed responsibility for the over-expenditure of the councillors of Poplar for poor relief.

The Cabinet put its "O.K." upon Wheatley's action.

Over-expenditure for poor doles is a subject upon which the Conservatives feel particularly strongly.

But the Liberals also wish to get the credit for any successful parliamentary assault upon MacDonald.

Labour may profit by tactical mnoeuvres which will exhaust the antagonism of the two Opposition parties one against the other.

The Liberals are not particularly anxious to overthrow the Cabinet on this question, and may accept MacDonald's promise to reorganise the poor law system.

The Conservatives, however, are determined to press their own amendment to a vote which normally would cause the Government's resignation, in the event of defeat.

TRY CONSTABLE FOR ROBBERIES

One of Moose Jaw's Seven Police Committed For Trial on Charge of Stealing Women's Clothing From Stores.

MOOSE JAW, Sask., February 26.—Owen Walters, one of the seven Moose Jaw policemen charged with carrying out a series of robberies from stores in the city, was committed for trial when he appeared in the police court here on Monday. There are three charges of theft against Walters and 19 against the other six accused, who will be arraigned later.

The first charge against Walters was that on or about Feb. 16th he received and had in possession articles of women's clothing, knowing them to have been stolen. He elected trial by a higher court, and will be held without bail. The privilege was given, however, by the court that he could make application for bail to higher judiciary.

The articles produced in court consisted of one complete suit of clothes, one club bag, a lady's handbag, and a large number of different articles of women's clothing.

A number of articles said by witnesses to be exclusive lines stocked by the Robinson, McBean departmental store, were identified by the employees.

No Petition For Clemency to Cox

OTTAWA, February 26 (Canadian Press). — Federal intervention to grant clemency to James Cox, a farmer from the Goderich, Ontario, district, recently sentenced to two months' imprisonment is unlikely.

It is stated in the Justice Department that no petition has been received for a reconsideration of the verdict which imposed a punishment on Cox for his alleged mistreatment of a boy named Bulpitt, who hanged himself while in Cox's employ last December.

The boy was brought to Canada under the auspices of a British charitable organisation which superintends the settlemen which superintends the settlement of British boys on Canadian farms.

There has been considerable talk of Federal intervention on Cox's behalf, but the customary petition has not been received here, and the usual machinery for the granting of clemency has not been set in motion.

Alberta's Stand On Church Union

EDMONTON, February 26 (Canadian Press). — The Alberta Government will not take any sides in the Church Union question now about to come before the Legislature, declared Premier Greenfield here yesterday.

"There are only two points on which the Legislature will have any right to act in regard to this Church Union situation," said the Premier, "as it seems to me after a careful perusal of the Bill.

"The first is as to whether or not the regular rules or methods of the Churches have been observed in the preliminary procedure leading up to the present stage, and the second is whether or not the rights of the minority have been protected as far as they can be protected by law." ....

PREMIER PLIED WITH QUESTIONS

MacDonald Pleads With Members For Consideration of Government's Short Experience in Office.

LONDON, Feb. 26. — Canadian Press.)—There is no diminution in the multitudinous question daily fired at the Ministers in the House of Commons, many of them on matters which ordinarily would be taken for granted. There was an instance of this Monday when Mr. Lloyd George heckled Premier MacDonald on Arthur Henderson's advocacy of a revision of the Versailles Treaty, an adovcacy which has been a commonplace of almost every Laborite and Liberal speech of the last year.

The Ministers generally are obliged courteously to carry these peristent questionings with promises of an inquiry. Questions yesterday weer addressed to Mr. MacDonald in his capacity as Foreign Minister regarding the activities of the Ambasadors' Conference in Paris, and the Jubaland affair with Italy forcing the Premier to plead to the House to remember that the Government had been less than a month in office and not to press their questions too hard because "it really did embarrass the Government to be called upon to take answers without time to give the questions proper consideration." He added that the Government was studying all these questions with a view to framing a policy.

SMALLPOX CLAIMS ONE MORE VICTIM

Minister of Health Declares Windsor Outbreak is of Most Virulent Type Known.

TORONTO, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press)—Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Provincial Minister of Health, last night confirmed a report from Windsor that the type of smallpox which is threatening the border cities is the most virulent known to medical science.

"It is what is known as bloody smallpox," he said, "and is by far the most serious form of the disease." Asked as to what measures his Department proposed to deal with the situation, Dr. Godfrey stated that twenty-six doctors were now engaged in vaccinating the residents of the district, and that, he believed, a thorough-going campaign in this respect would stop the spread of the epidemic.

"The whole trouble is that the people won't be vaccinated," he said. "If they were vaccinated there would not be any smallpax." The Minister stated that the Government had no intention of quarantining the area affected. If the United States authorities wished to enforce a quarantine at the border, Ontario would have nothing to say, as such a step was quite legal.

Another Death.

A despatch from Windsor says: Another name was added yesterday to the smallpox death-list, when Miss Merilda Meloche, 28 years old, Langlois Avenue, succumbed to the disease. The fatality brings the total deaths from the malady up to eight. New cases are being reported to the health officials every few hours.

It is estimated that approximately 5,000 persons have submitted to vaccination here since Saturday.

Dr. McCullough, Chief Medical Officer for Ontario, said this morning, that he had heard nothing new from Windsor regarding smallpox epidemic. He added that no news was good news in such cases. Deputation of Health Officers from Border Cities are to see Dr. McCullough to-day to discuss methods of fighting the disease. The doctors on the deputation report little opposition to vaccination stating that the difficuly was to cope with the rush.

WEEK IN JAIL FOR TROOPERS ASSAULT CASE

Find Stanley Barracks Crew Not Justified in Such Treatment to Comrade.

JUDGE'S REMARKS

TORONTO, February 26 (Canadian Press). — One week in custody in the County Jail, after which sentence will be suspended, was the penalty handed out this morning by Judge Denton to seven troopers of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, found guilty of assault on their comrade, William Bowen, on 4th February.

The Judge said that he did not consider the punishment meted out by the military authorities as sufficient.

"It seems to me that this affair presents features of extreme cruelty," he said. "You committed an act which, for British soldiers, was very un-British. No amount of provocation can possibly justify such treatment. In order to save the seven men from possible loss of their war medals and decorations, the Judge purposely avoided giving them imprisonment, and resorted to the expedient of keeping them in custody for a week.

Judge Denton said the trial had served a useful two-fold purpose—had brought to light the facts of a discreditable affair and impressed on the soldiers that they are amenable to civil law.

Farmers' Wife Was At Market Sunday Instead Saturday

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press).—On Sunday morning a woman driving a country rig appeared on the local market with a load of butter and eggs. After waiting some time, she inquired if something had happened to the town, and where the purchasers were. She was much astonished to learn that it was Sunday, and that the market had finished 24 hours ago. The woman had driven in something over 15 miles under the impression that it was Saturday.

REPRESENTATIVE MEN IN CITY ACTIVITIES HONOR G. N. GORDON

Guest of Honour

G. N. GORDON, K.C., M.P.
Who was Honoured by a Representative body of Citizens last evening.

Federal Member Was Guest of Honor at Dinner Last Night--Appreciation of His Past Services Assured and Confidence in His Future Representation Voiced

FELLOWSHIP EVENT

G. N. Gordon, K.C., as represenative of West Peterborough in the Federal Parliament, and Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, was the guest of honor at a good fellowship dinner last night.

He leaves to-day to enter on his duties in Ottawa incident to the opening of the House, and was last night fortified by a whole hearted expression of confidence from the city council and business men of the city on the eve of perhaps the most momentous session in the history of the dominion government, facing demands in one breath for retrenchment and expansion.

The non-partizan attitude of the member for West Peterborough was reflected in the greeting tendered him by Liberals and Conservatives alike on his rising to respond to the felicitations showered upon him.

Mayor J. J. Turner presided at the dinner, which was under the joint auspices of the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, in the Empress Hotel. "Mr. Gordon has come up from the ranks," he said. "He has always shown himself interested in everything pertaining to the welfare of the city."

The gathering was an intent one. Its pose was one of keen attention the inspiring addresses of the other speakers of the evening. Ryerson Ritchie, R. B. Rogers, Joseph Wearing and Mayor Turner.

Occasionally a particularly facile phrase, such as when Mr. Gordon spoke of confidence in the future as a basis for present effort, started a gust of applause that indicated how great reliance was placed in the speaker's judgment and foresight.

Appreciated for Himself.

Mayor J. J. Turner expressed himself happy to have the honor of introducing one who is so universally known and held in so high esteem as G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons. "Mr. Gordon has come up from the ranks," he said. "We have pleasant recollections of Mr. Gordon as Alderman in the city. He had the technical knowledge of how to get around a question under debate. Later he served on the Board of Education, and as City Solicitor, and from there graduated to his position as Federal member for the West Riding of Peterboro.

Mr. Gordon has always shown himself interested in everything pertaining to the welfare of the city. He is keenly interested in all branches of sport and in the charitable institutions and work in the city.

It is a privilege to have him as a guest, and those representative men who have gathered to show their whole hearted appreciation of Mr. Gordon for himself.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P.

"Twenty years ago I came to Peterboro as a poor boy, and now I am a poor man," jocularly remarked Mr. Gordon by way of introduction. Mr. Gordon pointed out

HALF MILLION HEALTH FUND

Quebec Measure Provides For the Expenditure of $100,000 a Year For Five Years in Fight on Tuberculosis.

QUEBEC, Feb. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Whether or not it may be possible for the Province to benefit from the offer from Lord Atholstan to provide half a million dollars towards stamping out tuberculosis is not a reason for holding up Government eigislation looking towards the suppression of the plague, was the intimation which Premier Taschereau made in the Legislative Assembly Monday, when Hon. Mr. David's measure providing for the expenditure of $100,000 a year for five years was being put through on third reading on the resolutions.

Following interrogation by Mr. Sauve, the Premier said that Lord Atholstan's letter had been laid before the Cabinet and he added: "I do not see, however, that this should have anything to do with the passage of the projected legislation of the Provincial Secretary."

SOVIET DELEGATION IS NEARING OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Feb. 26. —(Canadian Press.)—Only official information in the hands of the Federal government regarding the Soviet delegation to Canada was received some days ago by the Department of Trade and Commerce, when Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London notified that department that the Soviet delegation was booked to sail on the Montclare The Department has received no information since then and it is assumed that the delegation will arrive very soon. It is stated here that there are four in the official party and that they are here to endeavor to establish credits and to secure farm implements and railroad construction supplies. The party has been in London, where conferences were held on matters pertaining to British-Russian trade.

HALF MILLION DOLLAR BLAZE IN QUEBEC CITY

QUEBEC, Feb. 26. — (Canadian Press.)—Damage estimated at $500,000 was caused by a fire which broke out in the Union Bank building this morning in the heart of the business section of the city. The firemen succeeded in preventing the blaze from spreading.

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of economy extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

MRS. PERCIVAL FOSTER VISITS LOCAL BRANCH

Field Secretary of Y. W. C. A. Spent the Weke End in Peterboro--Gave Several Addresses.

Mrs. Percival Foster, field secretary of the Y.W.C.A. Dominion Council, visited Peterboro on Saturday and Sunday, in connection with Y.W.C.A. work. Mrs. Foster, who has just completed a tour of the Maritime Provinces, and will visit every association in Canada, was accompanied on the eastern portion of her trip by Miss Greta Finley, president of the Montreal Association.

The Dominion Council links up all the associations in Canada and is their official link through the World's Committees with Y.W.C.A. work throughout the world.

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Foster addressed the members of the Peterboro Board of Directors and Committee members, stressing the importance of the Canadian Biennial Convention, to be held at Preston Springs, Ontario, from May 17th to 22nd. She said: "As our Lord used to call His disciples apart from the busy throng to think and to pray so the Young Women's Christian Association believes that a quiet place for the best convention is best, where they can live together, learn to know each other, and as a corporate body seek the will of our Lord for the task He has given them to do."

This year, also, for the first time in history, the Y.W.C.A. World Convention is to be held on this continent, at Washington, D.C., from May 9th to 14th with representatives from each of the thirty-four nations in which the 'Y' has been established This will enable a number of world delegates to be present and speak at the Canadian Convention. Miss Charlotte Niven, general secretary of the World's Association, Miss Clara Reed, first vice president of the American Board and chairman of the student department, Miss Ruth Larnard, World's Y.W.C.A. migration secretary, and the Hon. Mrs. Waldergrave, president of the World's committee, all will have a prominent part on the programme of the Dominion convention. Miss Marion Ferguson, former acting general secretary of Canada, and who returns to her work in India shortly, and also Miss Olive Mackay, of China, will speak.

Mrs. Foster impressed upon the members of the Peterboro board, the importance of every association being well represented at such a conference, one of the aims of which is to bring about greater co-operation in this work and also give a new vision of the world-wide scope to be attained

The speaker then went on to refer to the growth and importance of the work in Canada, stressing the Association ideals of bringing girls into fellowship with Christ. The importance of the Boarding Home was emphasized. These are not mere residences, but real, worth-while homes. They must shield, protect and guide the girls entrusted to their care. The gymnasium and recreation programme provides a means of healthful amusement, teaching the girls to play the game and to have Christian standards in hours of pleasure too. They must develop clean bodies and clean minds and be helped on to happiness in every way.

Peterboro was congratulated on having such a fine building and equipment, and on the splendid success and co-operation manifested in the Association work.

Mrs. Foster spoke graphically of the work in St. John, where opportunities are many, and also referred to Quebec. The speaker has spent many months in these cities, when loaned to them by the Dominion Council.

The girls of the Association took advantage of Saturday evening to drop in and meet Mrs. Foster in an informal way, and a happy time was spent around the fire, talking about girls and Y.W.C.A. activities here and elsewhere. Mrs. Foster also spoke to a large group of girls and young men at the Sunday evening Sing Song, taking as her subject "Service." On Sunday evening, the sad news of the death of Mrs. James Wood was received, and the girls paid a tribute to her memory by singing some of her favorite hymns.

Mrs. Foster's visit to Peterboro has been enjoyed by the Board and Committee members, the girls and staff, and the inspiration, encouragement and incentive to good work which she gave will be long remembered by every section of the local Y.W.C.A.

REVOLVER FELL WOUNDING GIRL

Mera Hogg, 15, of Minden Township, Reported Accidentally Shot On Sunday—Not Seriously Injured.

LINDSAY, February 26. — An accidenal shooting took place on Sunday afternoon in Minden township, Haliburton County, when Mera Hogg, the fifteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hogg, was shot in the right breast by a .32 revolver, the bullet lodging there. The accident occured at the home of Mr. James Dennison' where she was spending the day.

The exact circumstances are unknown but it apears that thep revolver fell from the shelf on which it had been placed, and, striking the sideboard, discharged.

The bullet has not as yet been extracted, but the wounded girl is doing nicely, and no serious results are anticipated.

EASTERN WORK PLANNED BY C.P.R.

New Steel Bridges on the Havelock Division to Carry Heavier Engines Included in Programme

MONTREAL, Feb. 26.— Following the recent announcement of the programme to be undertaken on points west of Fort William, the Canadian Pacific Rialway made a statement here last night relative to the work planned for the lines east of Fort William during the current season. This includes completion of the main line ballast between Montreal and Toronto, and between Montreal and Ottawa.

There will be 44 miles of rock ballast added between Toronto and Fort William and the laying of 159 miles of new 100 pound rails between the two latter points. Station work will include a new station and divisional headquarters at Schreiber, Ont., and grain handling facilities at the company's elevators at Port McNicoll, Ont.

Passing tracks, business tracks and yard extensions will be built at Chesterfield, Tay, Lake Shore Junction, Point au Baril, Cache Bay, White River and Heron Bay in Ontario. To handle heavier engines, a number of steel bridges will be replaced on the Havelock sub-division.

NELSON AVOIDS LEGAL ACTION BY RESIGNING PERCY COUNCIL SEAT

Was Advised That Rural School Trusteeship Did Not Vitiate His Position As Deputy-Reeve—Will Be a Candidate For the Position at Special Election.

MEETING ON MONDAY.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

WARKWORTH, Feb. 26.—Deputy-Reeev W. H. Nelson, of Percy township, has forestalled the legal action taken to unseat him, by resigning his position. His resignation is now in the hands of Township Clerk Ewing and will be dealt with at the regular meeting of the Percy Council next Monday, when arrangements will be made for the holding of a nomination and an election to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Nelson will be a candidate to succeed himself and his opponent will be John Allan, who was nominated for the office last February, but who failed to qualify in time, Mr. Nelson getting the position by acclamation.

Mr. Allan sought to disqualify Mr. Nelson on the ground that as he was a trustee in the school section in which he resides he could not legally sit as a member of the Council. D. J. Lynch of Campbellford, was retained by Mr. Allan as relator and Mr. Nelson secured a written opinion from G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., of Peterborough, who quoted the statute and expressed a doubt as to whether Mr. Nelson could be unseated, the Act referring only to school board members in villages, towns and cities.

Mr. Nelson, however, prefers an election to a law suit, hence his resignation. He says he has no fear as to the result, but expects to be returned by a large majority.

Both Mr. Allan and Mr. Nelson have their supporters, and opinions in the township is divided, friends of the ex-Deputy Reeve questioning the wisdom of putting the township to the expense of an election on a technicality. The coming contest is certain to be one of the hottest ever held in the township.

Resigns as Trustee.

Mr. Nelson has also tendered his resignation as a member of the school board in his section and this has been accepted by his colleagues. The way has accordingly been made clear for him to run again for the council. A few hours after he sent his resignation to Clerk Ewing, giving up the deputy-reeveship, he was served with the paper in the suit started to unseat him. He was in Peterborough last night in consultation with Mr. Gordon, his attorney.

Ex-Deputy Reeve Nelson has always taken an active part in the proceedings of the Counties Council at Cooburg. At the January session he was elected secretary of three of the most important committees, County Property, Roads and Bridges, and Schools.

REEVE DAVIDSON SUFFERS INJURY

Three Ribs Broken By Heavy Jolt Against Seat of Coach Entering Belleville — Deputation to Temperance Meeting.

Campbellford Feb. 26.— Mr. and Mrs. George Oliver went to Toronto to yesterday afternoon as delegates from the local lodge of Royal Templars, Campbellford's pioneer temperance organization to attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Grand Council which opened a 9 a.m. Tuesday and which will continue until midnight Wednesday. A public meeting at which Mayor Hiltz of Toronto will act as chairman, will be held to-night when temperance adresses will be delivered by leading speakers, men and women. There will also be a choice program of vocal and instrumental music.

Injured in Collision

Reeve Davidson and Roy Bell, who went to Belleville last week to attend a banquet of auto salesmen, are nursing injuries received when the train in which they were riding bumped into a coal train that was stalled in a snowdrift just outside of the city. Mr. Davidson who was standing up at the time putting on his scarf was thrown across the seats and had three ribs broken. Mr. Bell escaped with a pair of bruised shins. Other passengers were badly shaken up and the front of the engine was damaged. Mr. Davidson was able to leave Monday for Lakefield with his team of girl hockeyists for the game last night.

Mr. Davidson Appointed

Reeve C. H. Davidson has been appointed issuer of auto licenses for this district and the 1924 markers are now ready. There is no increase in the prices this year. C. W. Smith held this position last year but Reeve Davidson had the office in 921 and 1922 under the Drury administration.

Delegates To Toronto

Mayor Meyers and Reeve C. H. Davidson leave for Toronto Wednesday morning to attend the annual session of the Good Roads Association of Ontario. They will be accompanied by Roy Bell who goes on private business. The mayor and reeve are with Warden Fowlds, Reeve Hartt of Murray and Reeve Elliott of Bowmanville, members of a delegation who while in Toronto will call on Minister of Highways Henry with a view to securing a grant for the Campbellford bridge.

Northumberland and Durham Counties are especially interested in one question to come before the Good Roads Association that of having the total cost of the construction and maintenance of provincial highways borne by the province. The Council of the United Counties are unanimous in this change in the regulations, a resolution to that effect having been introduced by Warden Fowlds while he was a private member.

Annual School Concert

The pupils of the Separate Schools in town and district will give their annual concert in the Regent theatre on the evening of St. Patrick's Day. A fine programme, literary and musical will be presentsd. This entertainment has always been regarded as one of the best given in Campbellford.

PURCHASE HYDROPLANES FOR FOREST PROTECTION

TORONTO, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press).—It was announced last night that with a view to giving greater protection to Ontario's vast forest areas, thirteen hydroplanes of Class A, H S 2-L type, have been purchased by the Province, and will be put into service on May 1 next. It is hoped thus to renew the confidence of those investing large sums of money in the organization and operation of the pulp and paper industries and sawmills. When the present plans are completed and the air force organized for operation, Ontario probably will have the largest commercial aircraft system in the world.

Of a sum of $1,100,000 spent during the year 1923 to fight fires in the Province, a large percentage was paid in wages, and with the exception of $86,000 spent for aircraft patrol work, the remainder was expended in the upkeep of an organized land patrol.

Welland Jury Enters True Bill of Murder.

WELLAND, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press).—A true bill was returned by the Grand Jury against William Albert Camfield, accused of the murder of Albert J. Morningstar, at the Spring Assizes last night. Justice Smith presided. Great interest is manifested in the case on account of the standing of the victim, the atrociousness of the crime, and the fact that deceased's brother, Jesse Morningstar, is a former Warden of the county and one of the best known lumber men in the Province, and also the fact that accused attempted to escape from custody last week with the shadow of the gallows overhanging him. Camfield is alleged to have struck down Morningstar with a shovel on Christmas morning, and then set fire to the house, the charred remains of the victim being found after the embers had cooled off.

MODERN bridges are built to stand the mighty strain of traffic. Here is upholstered furniture that is built to stand the heavy wear and tear of the modern home. Yet, in spite of its rigid interior construction, Snyder's "Sani-bilt" Living-Room Furniture is COMFORTABLE. It is built with this idea always in mind. "It must give rest and relaxation. It must be soft, springy and very comfortable." And it is!

The Splendid Frame

Upholstered furniture cannot be comfortable if the frame is weak or flimsy. That is why we make our "Sani-bilt" frames of best Canadian hardwood, put together in the strongest manner known. "Sani-bilt" Upholstered Furniture is, therefore, comfortable when new and comfortable after many years' use.

Construction, indeed, is a most important matter where upholstered furniture is concerned. You cannot be too careful how you buy. The finest-looking, un-named chesterfield may be put together, inside, like a packing case and filled with the cheapest fillings. The guarantee tag attached to every piece and the trade mark, which you will find under the cushion, protect you when buying Snyder's "Sani-bilt". They are your insurance.

"Sani-bilt" Construction is Guaranteed

The interior construction of Snyder's "Sani-bilt" Furniture is of such excellence that we guarantee it unreservedly. We, also, guarantee that all the materials — covers, cottons, fillings, springs, burlap, webbing—are new, clean, fresh and sanitary. To further add to the constructional excellence, we equip all "Sani-bilt" Furniture with Marshall Sanitary Spring Cushions.

Widest Range of Prices

This strongly-built, mothproof Living-Room Furniture is sold in the leading furniture stores throughout Canada. The prices range in very wide variety, so that every purse can be accommodated. Look for the "Sani-bilt" guarantee tag attached to every piece and the "Sani-bilt" trade mark under every cushion.

SNYDER'S LIMITED

A JACKSON PARK POOL.

The suggestion has been made by a well-known local citizen, and to The Examiner at least appears a good one, that at a very small expense the pretty little stream that twists and turns through Jackson Park could be made to afford safe and delightful bathing accommodation for children and their mothers.

A small concrete dam could be built at a trifling cost, thus ensuring a swimming pool deep enough for youngsters to learn the useful art of taking care of themselves in the water, and yet shallow enough to be perfectly safe.

At present the water is not sufficiently deep for swimming, and the accommodation that would be provided for the suggested improvement would be a boon to hundreds of mothers.

It is felt that some of the local clubs interested in work on behalf of children might co-operate in this matter, provided the necessary consent were secured for the financial obligation involved would not be heavy.

At one time there was such a pool at Jackson Park, and many a citizen to-day owes his knowledge of swimming to the experience he gained in that little "old swimming hole."

Its revival now would be of very material benefit to many families who frequent the Park during the hot weather and incidentally would be of much assistance in connection with the Health Association's summer camp at the Park.

THE TAX RATE.

From the manner in which the estimates are developing there is little reason to hope for a decreased tax rate this year unless the city fathers handle the pruning knife with vigour and play no favourites.

It is evident that hacking off a little here or there will not produce the desired results, and that the scaling down will have to be general and applied wherever a cut is possible if there is to be a tax reduction.

The people want a reduction, judging by the conversation everywhere where citizens gather, and if they are sincere enough in their protestations of economy, they will not wince if a pet project of their own happens to come into contact with the municipal pruning knife.

After all, there is but one effective way of reducing taxation, and that is to stop spending money.

It may mean doing without some things that are almost necessaries, just as an individual citizen has to do without many things in a time of financial stress, but it is effective.

And it is the one policy that is effective.

Each committee can help by eliminating from its estimates everything that is not absolutely essential, and each committee chairman can help by applying to the requirements of his own committee the close scrutiny that he is prepared to apply to the appropriations of every other committee.

It will take some back bone to reduce the tax rate, but it can be done—and the majority of citizens want it done if they are sincere in the things they are saying.

THE PACE THAT KILLS.

People who sign for the excitement of a great city may find after reading the statistics regarding the number of violent deaths in New York last year that after all there is much to be said for life in more sedate communities. z

The figures are worthy of consideration.

There were no fewer than 5,206 violent deaths in the American metropolis during the twelve months of last year.

Two hundred and forty children between the ages of five and ten years were run down and killed by motor cars, and altogether the automobile caused 1,234 deaths during the year.

Three hundred and three people were murdered during the same period.

Train accidents accounted for the snuffing out of 71 lives, while 15 law-breakers were shot and killed by policemen.

The total of suicides was impressive.

Eight hundred and seventy-nine people ended their own existence, 334 of them by turning on the gas, while 126 more drowned themselves, and 123 jumped from high buildings.

From these statistics it is evident that big city excitement and pleasure carry with them a penalty.

The pace that kills is a reality in the life of a great city, and the man in the small town while he misses some of the liveliness and the feverish activity of the metropolis, misses also many of the perils of the latter, and not only has a chance to live better, but also has a better chance to live.

ALBERTA COAL.

Citizens of Peterborough will be asked through the local Chamber of Commerce to sign a petition calling upon the Dominion Government to appoint a commission of competent men, independent of railway companies or railway organizations to report upon the possibilities of fuelling Ontario with Alberta coal.

The movement was started by the London Advertiser and The Examiner commends the plan to the citizens of this city hoping that the petition will be generously signed.

As to the good qualities of Alberta coal and its suitability to meet the requirements of this province there is not the slightest doubt.

The questionnaire sent by The Examiner to each person in Peterborough who secured a supply of Alberta coal last autumn has produced nothing but favourable and in most cases enthusiastic replies.

Some people declare it to be the best coal they have ever used.

"Wouldn't use any other coal if I could get Alberta," one man writes, and several people state that the Western product is superior to anthracite.

The supply in Alberta is practically unlimited, and the chief obstacle between Ontario and independency so far as her fuel supply is concerned, is the cost of transportation.

That difficulty, many people believe, can be overcome, and they are not satisfied that the problem has been tackled with sufficient vigour or perseverance.

The commission asked for in the petition would be expected to make an exhaustive inquiry, and at any event good results could be hoped for.

It should be sufficiently signed to show the Dominion Government that the people of Ontario are in earnest about this matter.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

The Building Trades Council has requested the city's support of its petition to the Dominion and Provincial Governments for some scheme of unemployment insurance, says the Hamilton Spectator. Alderman Lawrence, in speaking in favor of the proposal, emphasized the benefits which would accrue to the taxpayers from such a plan. It would mean that the special expenditure to which municipalities are obligated at times of industrial depression like the present would be rendered unnecessary; for the workless man or woman would automatically be provided for out of the fund to be created through the joint contributions of the individuals involved and the Governments. Indirectly, of course, taxpayers would be called upon to bear a considerable part of the burden. Whether it would be more advantageous to them to adopt the scheme or not depends upon the details of the arrangements to be made. In any case, however, it is not so much a question of finance as a principle. Which of the two systems is to be preferred—the present, with its periodical embarrassment, more or less temporary, or the suggested scheme of insurance, with its defects as well as its merits?

There is no disputing the fact that the arguments advanced by the Building Trades Council are deserving of sympathetic consideration. The worker's chief asset—and most often his sole asset—is his capacity and opportunity to work. If, through conditions beyond his control, he is deprived of that opportunity, the community must admit its obligation to assist him. No one will affirm that the present system is adequate in this respect, and the problem is for statesmanship to solve. Unemployment insurance is one which commends itself to reason and to justice. Admittedly, there are difficulties to be overcome, but there is the experience of places where it has been tried to guide and to warn. It would not be impossible to construct a workable scheme of insurance, with a premier at the head of affairs who is an expert in such matters, whereby the terror of unemployment, sometimes worse than the terror of death itself, could be removed from Canadian industry.

PATRONAGE.

What we do not seem to realize is that in no other country which enjoys free government does such a vast patronage rest in the hands of Ministers. If the Administration at Washington had such powers as belong to the Canadian Government it would appoint all members of the Senate, all State Governors and all Federal and State Judges. In the United States that would look like despotism rather than "government by the people," and it may be worth while to consider if the system which the fathers established in Canada does not repose a dangerous power in the hands of men in office. There are furthermore the huge staffs of the National Railways which are direct employes of the Government and represent a great extension of federal patronage. When all is said a small portion of the patronage which Governments in Canada exercise is under Civil Service regulations and probably the facts suggest that independent control should be extended rather than diminished.

The chief evils, however, are in the cost of the service and in the multiplicity of officials. The Civil Service of Canada is actually a political creation. It has developed without much direction or system. There are duplication and over-lapping which involve heavy cost to the taxpayers. When the effort was made to establish a National Institute for Scientific Research at Ottawa it was found that the work which would fall naturally to such an institute was divided among many departments and that each department was determined to hold what it had secured in the haphazard development of a chaotic system with little regard for efficiency in service or cost to the country.

The truth is that the whole administrative system at Ottawa needs overhauling and rebuilding. There are too many branches which duplicate other branches. There is a deplorable want of unity in plan and purpose. On the other hand, there are departments which are under-manned, and there are underpaid officials who serve the country with singular zeal and efficiency. The general scale of salaries is not excessive, but a great deal of money is wasted through multiplicity of officials and duplication of services. The lists of employes were swollen during the war and no one has had the will or the courage to retrench and reform. It is manifest, too, that there will be no decisive action by the Government save under the stern pressure of public opinion and the vigorous and determined criticism of those in Parliament who may resolve that waste and extravagance shall not continue.

Debt must not increase and taxation must be reduced. We should get rid of the notion that the only object of Government is to have a budget surplus. It is always possible to have a surplus if the taxes are made high enough and the tax-paying capacity of the people is not exhausted. But in time excessive taxation depletes the resources which provide revenue and the country drifts towards disaster. The thing which causes distress is that the Government apparently cannot act of its own motion. It has to be driven by press and people, and even when it moves there is no certainty that it will reach any definite destination. We seem to have reached a time and a condition in Canada when essential reforms are achieved only through the active compulsion of public opinion. No group in Parliament seems to have the power to advance towards any definite goal or the vision to see what is necessary to give new hope and confidence to the country. —Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Belleville will send out couriers on horseback to invite prominent personages to attend the United Empire Loyalists' celebration in that city in June, thus tending to strengthen the impression that Belleville is a one horse town.

The Dominion Government has been asked to deport all I.W.W. organizers. There should be no need of making such a request.

WORKING WOMEN, WEAK, RUN DOWN SOON RESTORED

Home Treatment to Create Red Blood, Body Tissue and Vital Nerve Force Costs But Little.

Countless thousands of women must work day after day in stores, offices, manufacturing establishments or in their own homes who are really unfit for their tasks. With bodies and nerves overstrained, they get through each day by will power alone. At night, worn and exhausted, life holds little of pleasure for such women.

They should not be content to drag on, making their sacrifice of health, beauty and happiness. They should, instead, undertake at once the upbuilding of their bodies, the creation of red blood and flesh tissue that fills out hollow cheeks and wasted forms; that restores nerve resistance and brings back the bloom of health, strength and vitality.

When weighed down by worry and weakness, such women should begin at once a simple, inexpensive home treatment of Wincarnis, the restorative. They can obtain a generous size bottle of Wincarnis from any leading druggist. Wincarnis is the ideal body and strength builder and is absolutely harmless. More than ten thousand physicians have recommended it.

The Wincarnis treatment costs only ten cents a day. In twelve days see the improvement Wincarnis brings.

"What's the toughest part about being a father, you ask? Nobody but a dumb human would think of that question. Getting the little brats to eat with a fork, of course."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—For good quality fat steers the price held at $8 a cwt., with a variation a little above and below according to the average of the loads. Frank Hunnisett paid $7.65 a cwt. for 10 steers, a little below 1,200 lbs. each, and Shields & Co., were bid $7.25 a cwt. for some less weighty. Choice butcher steers were a little higher than last week. For good quality handyweights $6.50 to $6.75 was the ruling price. Some half fat butchers which should have been fed for six weeks, sold at 5½c a lb.

The cow buyers reported prices about unchanged. Medium butchers cows were $3.85 to $4 a cwt.; common cows, $3, and good cows, $4.50 to $4.75 a cwt.

Any choice cows were taken at 5¼ to 5½c a lb. Shields & Co. sold 3 choice heavy butchers at $8 a cwt. one bunch at $7.40, and two loads of medium to good butchers at $6.25 and $6.40 a cwt. The exporters were only able to get a little over 100 head this morning. The top they paid for steers was $8.25 a cwt. Some heifers were bought at $6.75 and $7.25 and cows, $5 to $5.25 a cwt.

Choice calves were 13c and better, and good mediums 11c.

Lambs were also firm, and a few choice ones made at high as 16c a lb. for the ewes. Weighty lambs were taken at 14½c.

Hogs were not regarded as holding last week's advance too good. Some sales were made this morning at $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b., but buyers were expecting to get a limited number at $7.50, which was the packers' bid. For today's loading the bid is reduced to $7.25 a cwt.

Laxatives do not overcome constipation

More Important is Internal Cleanliness

LAXATIVES and cathartics provide temporary relief only, at the expense of permanent injury. In time, says an eminent physician, an almost incalculable amount of harm is done by the use of pills, salts, mineral waters, castor oil and the like.

Some laxatives, according to an intestinal specialist, contain poisons which affect the stomach and intestines, resulting in grave disorders. Certain laxatives are a direct cause of piles.

Physicians Advise Lubrication for Internal Cleanliness

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

"Keep Clean Inside" say Physicians

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

HEART WAS SO BAD HAD TO SIT UP IN B D

Mrs. O. E. Fitzgerald, 106 Ross St., St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"In the Fall of 1921, I was taken ill with my heart, but I did not pay much attention to it. I kept on with my household duties, but seemed to become worse and worse, and finally had to call in a doctor. He said I was all run down and was a nervous wreck. I had a severe pain in my chest which would move over to my heart and it became so bad I had such a smothering feeling I would have to sit up in bed till it passed away.

I tried several remedies, but with no good results. Finally, I was induced to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took 7 boxes, and I am now as well as I was 30 years ago, and I am now 65 years old."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DAUGHERTY HAD SINCLAIR STOCK TELLS SENATOR

Attorney-General Willing to Submit Facts In Any Investigation — Never Misused Official Information in Market Deals —Sold Entire Holdings.

VISITS COOLIDGE.

WASHINGTON, February 26. — Attorney General Daugherty yesterday publicly acknowledged that he had dealt in Sinclair Oil stock before and since he entered the Cabinet; declared that he had never misused official information in these transactions, and renewed his willingness to submit all the facts in any investigation the Senate might order.

In an open letter to Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio, Mr. Daugherty said he bought some Sinclair stock before he became Attorney-General and finally suffered a loss of $28 a share. Six months after Teapot Dome was leased to the Sinclair interests, he sold part of his stock in an effort to recoup his losses. Later he bough back the same amount at a slightly lower price, and finally sold last fall his entire Sinclair holdings.

Replies to Charges.

The letter also answered charges of failure to prosecute former Secretary Fall, Edward L. Doheny, Harry F. Sinclair and Charles R. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Union. Mr. Daugherty pointed out that at his suggestion action against Fall, Doheny and Sinclair was left to special government counsel while proceedings against Mr. Forbes had been initiated some time ago before a Grand jury at Chicago.

The Attorney General added that he had never given any opinion oral or written, regarding the legality of the oil leasing policy, and had no knowledge of the negotiations until they were concluded. He urged that the Senate inquiry into the department be conducted without delay, but that he be given an opportunity to summon witnesses of his own for questioning by his own consel.

CIVIL SERVANTS MEET CABINET

Deputation Asked For the Continuation of Cost of Living Bonus — Regard Their Positions Permanent.

OTTAWA, Feb. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Wages and conditions of employment in the Canadian Civil Service were discussed Monday by a delegation representing the Civil Servants' Association and five members of the Cabinet. The Cabinet heard the representations of the Civil Servants and reserved comment.

Continuation of the "cost of living bonus" which has been paid to the Civil Servants for several years was asked, until the question of salary revision has been thoroughly canvassed. The delegation expressed its views on the superannuation question which is to be covered by legislation this session. Simplification of the re-classification by the margins of similar classes was discussed. A joint council was asked to decide on salary revision.

Feels Better Than For Years

Mrs. James Sisson gets remarkable relief from chronic stomach disorders and nervousness when Dreco's corrective properties get to work on her system.

"For the past two or three years," says Mrs. James Sisson, of Ida, Ont., "I have suffered from stomach trouble and a generally run down condition of my system. My food fermented and formed a gas on my stomach, which caused me untold misery. I suffered badly from lack of proper nourishment as a result. My nerves were in such a condition that the least noise would startle me and at nights I would toss around for hours after going to bed and would get up in the mornings all tired out and without any energy to do my work.

"During this time I tried about everything in the way of medicine, but could not seem to get any permanent relief. Finally, I tried Dreco and three bottles of this splendid remedy have done me more good than all the others put together.

"I never have any trouble with my stomach now. My nerves are steady as a clock and I sleep soundly at nights. That tired, worn out feeling has disappeared and my whole system is in a much better and stronger condition than it has been for many years. Dreco is a splendid medicine and I am not only too delighted to say a good word for it."

Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs. It is made solely from herbs, roots, bark and leaves and is pleasant to take and prompt and safe in action.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store.

It is also sold as follows:
Lakefield—E.H. Northey.
Campbellford—J. E. Birks.
And by a good druggist everywhere.

Kingston Won Game From Belleville 6-1.

PORT HOPE, February 26 (Canadian Press).—In a semi-final Junior O.H.A. game played here last night Kingston Circle Six defeated Belleville 8 to 1.

The game was a hard, close-checking one, but was handled perfectly by Beattie Ramsay.

Kingston led at the end of the first period 1 to 0, and at the end of the second period 4 to 1.

Kirby, the Kingston centre player, was the outstanding star of the game. Lawless also played a great game.

Kingston outclassed Belleville from gong to gong, and were easily the better team, as the score indicates.

Jas Sutherland introduced Beattie Ramsay as one of Canada's members of the Olympic hockey team. He received a great ovation from the crowd.

FARMERS' SHOVELS CLEARED RAILWAY

Volunteers in Bethany District Rendered Stout Assistance to C. N. R. Crews.

LINDSAY, February 26. — An army of volunteers—farmers residing in the vicinity of Bethany and Franklin—is deserving of a great deal of praise for the assistance given the C. N. R. in opening up the back line from Omemee to Millbrook. Franklin had been cut off from the outsire world from Tuesday until Friday. The school was closed, because the roads were impassable, and the village grocer ran out of bread, etc. In order to avert a famine, goods had to be hauled over the roads from Fleetwood.

On Friday an attempt was made to clear the railway line with a snow plough and one engine, but it made little impression on the snow which was five or six feet deep in the cut south of Franklin.

The villagers and the farmers came with their shovels, and the engine and plough were backed into Millbrook.

Saturday afternoon another attempt was made to penetrate the cut from the north, but a ten foot drift was encounered at Kerr's cut. The plough jumped the track and turned over on its side near the fence.

The twenty-five volunteer shovellers went ahead and dug out the engine and plough, and also cleared the track. The auxiliary lifted the plough to the track about 11 o'clock on Saturday night.

NEW WITNESS IN DELORME TRIAL WILL BE CALLED

Professes to Have Seen Accused Driving Car on Morning of Crime—Jury Empanelled in Twenty Minutes — Trial Begins With Dispatch.

HEAR TWO WITNESSES

MONTREAL, Feb. 26.—Dismissal of the sanity trial plea; the swearing in of the jury in less than twenty minutes, almost record time for a murder tral; an account of the Crown's version of the case by Crown Prosecutor Calder, and the hearing of two witnesses, were the salient features of the trial of Rev. Adelard Delorme, charged with the murder of his half brother in January 1922, which re-opened for the second time before the Court of King's Bench here yesterday, Mr. Justice Martineau presiding.

The accused appeared to be calm and cool. He listened carefully to the evidince, sitting well back in a chair provided for him in the dock. He looks very much the same as at the first time last summer, save that he is perhaps a little thinner and a little darker under the eyes.

E. A. B. Ladoceur, clerk of the court reading the indictment said "Adelard Delorme you stand indicted by the Grand Jury to wit that on Jan. 6-7, 1922, you committed the offence of murder upon Raoul Delorme. What do you say to the accusation?"

"Not guilty," replied Delorme in a loud, clear voice.

The twelve jurymen are all French Canadians. They are: Raoul Tribault, George Larose, Joseph Ovide Caron, Edward Grandbois, Felix Chartier, L. Dufresne, Louis Lamoureau, Edmond Longpre, Eugene Bastien, Jean Parent, Elphege Deragon and Dosithee Le Cavalier.

New Evidence.

R. L. Calder, K.C., outlined the case for the crown, foreshadowing a new turn to the evidence for the prosecution. He announced that a witness would be called who had been standing near the Cote des Neiges cemetery and who had been seen a man driving a car, similar in make to that of the Rev. Adelard Delorme at two o'clock on the morning of the crime. Mr. Calder said the witness held that he could identify the accused as the man who drove the car. The Crown Prosecutor added: "The Crown suggests that the account took the body from the house about seven o'clock. From there he went to deposit the body in a place of ill-fame—a place where many crimes had been committed—The Glen. Intercepted there for a moment, he went on to the road. A little later, he came back, but was seen again. He knew he was was seen and he feared he was identified. So he goes off to Cote St. Michael, there he fires the shots to create a false clue and then back to the house, shook up the furnace, went out again, drove to Snowden and dropped the body there.

Suggested Motives.

As motives for the crime, Mr. Calder pointed to the deficit which appeared to have arisen in the administration of Raoul's estate; the provision in Raoul's will more favorable to Adelard than to the rest of the family, and the amount to be realized from Raoul's nearly contracted insurance policy.

The first witness called was Willy Marien, expert accountant who was commissioned by the Attorney General of the Province to examine the accused accounts. He stated that the value of the Delorme estate at the time of Raoul's death was $250,000 of which Raoul's part was $73,079 while Adelard's part was $15,661. At the time of his death the witness said that Raoul had surplus of over $9,000 but the accused had a deficit of over $12,000. In January, 1922, the accused said the witness, owed something over $9,000 to Raoul. He attributed the accused's deficit to "excessive expenses for automobiles" which, he said, "were not at all n harmony with the revenues of the accused.

Adrien Belanger, notary public, the second witness said that Abbe Delorme had telephoned him before the arrest of the accused, demanding to know who was the executor of Raoul's will. The witness was not clear as to dates and details.

BANK'S FAILURE WILL BE PROBED BY COMMISSION

Condition of Home Bank's Finances in 1915, 1916 and 1918 Will Be Investigated--Personnel of Commission Not Announced.

PUBLIC INQUIRY.

OTTAWA, Feb. 26. — The personnel of the commission which will investigate the recent failure of the Home Bank of Canada, had not been decided last night. By an order in council issued on Monday, the government rules that under the Public Inquiries Act a probe will be conducted into the status of the Home Bank in the years 1915, 1916 and 1918, when the then Minister of Finance is said to have failed to recognize representations made to him by responsible citizens concerning the financial standing of the bank.

Representations have been made by a committee of depositors in the Home Bank that if the Government of the day had availed itself of its right to search into the assets and conduct of the Home Bank in 1915, 1916 or 1918, continued operation as a chartered bank would probably have been forbidden.

The shareholders contend that suspension of the bank at that time would have resulted in a winding up with very little loss to the depositors. But permitted to operate until August, 1923, the Home Bank piled up responsibilities to its depositors which it could not face on its suspension at that date, the shareholders' petition says. On the assumption that the Government of the day refrained from questioning the solvency of the Home Bank, because such interference might have undermined public confidence during war time, the shareholders claim that the country as a whole should bear the loss rather than the depositors of the Home Bank.

Vicks Relieves His Catarrh

"The Best Remedy Yet," Says New Brunswick Sufferer.

Melt a little Vicks VapoRub in a spoon. Inhale the vapors. Then insert some in nostrils, snuffing it well back. You will be delighted to see how it clears the head.

Catarrh sufferers seem to think they have to endure it forever because they live in a "catarrh climate." The disease is hard to get rid of, but Vicks brings welcome relief and in many cases persistent use has wrought permanent benefit.

Vicks is a quick-acting treatment for all cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and at the same time inhaled as a vapor.

Mr. John T. Payne, of South Tilley, New Brunswick, says: "I have used Vicks VapoRub for catarrh of head and throat and found it the best remedy yet. When rubbed well into the forehead and chest and snuffed up the nostrils it relieves the congestion and makes breathing full and free."

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly. Add Dr Norvall outside Canada, and Ontario imported 61,000,000 tons. The object of the bill was to creat, production in in Ontario of the raw material. Ontario had a tremendous tonnage of low grade iron ore. The bill followed the recommendations of a commission appointed by the late government investigating the iron industry. It was proposed to pay a bounty of one cent per unit on raw iron ore, the province paying one-half cent and the federal government one-half cent. If iron ore ran 60 per cent the bounty would mean 60 cents a ton. Canada he said would be in a bad state if the United States, to conserve its supply, placed an embargo on iron. He said that if this encouragement were given there were people prepared to spend millions in development.

Would Act Alone

Malcolm Lang Lib Cochrane) yas in favor of the bill but said that if the Federal government decided not to do its share that Ontario should no stop but should right ahead with a bounty. The Premier said this bill was part of the policy of the government to encourage to the utmost the development of natural resources for the creation of new wealth and for the building of new industries. "If we can get a great iron industry it will do away with that great barren stretch separating the west from Ontario" said the Premier "It will unite Canada."

Change Road Commission

Premier Ferguson in the absence through illness of Hon. Geo. Henry Minister of Public Works and Highways, introduced a bill to create a commission of the House to advise the Minister of Highways on roads Another clause prevents any member of a municipal council from being a member of a Suburban Road Commission.

Newspaper Leak

Hon. Manning Doherty asked the Government about a newspaper article claiming that an audit had revealed defalcation in government departments. The Premier said that unfortunately there had been defalcations and that several of the defendants had disappeared. Hon. W. E. Raney contended that the House should get the information before the press. The Premier said that there had been a leak which had em embarrassed the government on at least one occasion. However, he thought the main facts of the newspaper story were well known, as the treasurer had mentioned these facts in his budget speech.

CAUSES RIOT AMONG VIENNA MUSICIANS

Bottles Fly When Old-Schooler Breaks Violin Over Jazz Leader's Head

VIENNA, Feb. 26.—(By Wireless).—A battle occurred in a leading restaurant in Vienna between old Vienna music and American jazz, resulting in some broken bones, many broken bottles and the loss of their jobs by all concerned.

In this restaurant, of the pleaseeverybody type, an old-time Vienna trio, consisting of a violin, guitar and a harmonica and an American jazz band were employed, Strauss waltzes and Austrian folk-songs alternating with strident syncopation.

The jealousy between the two orchestras reached a crisis during the jazz band's rendition of "Yes, We Have No Bananas," when the violinist of the old-school orchestra broke his instrument over the head of his rival, with guttural German imprecations about "stopping that infernal noise." The guests fled under the resultant fire of bottles and instruments.

Lost Foot "Over There," Out For College Nine.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 26.—Loss of a foot "up Soissons way" while serving with the Twenty-sixth Regiment, First Division, has not deterred Stanley McBride from playing baseball. McBride is on the University of Michigan baseball squad, and according to Coach Ray Fisher ,it will require a high-class two-fisted two-footed player to beat him out of a regular job behind the bat.

McBride was one of the first Americans "over there." He was with Company C, of the Twenty-sixth, under Major Theodore Roosevelt.

When Coach Fisher sounded his first call for batterymen a fortnight ago, McBride reported. For two days none of the other athletes knew that the young man who showed so much baseball brilliancy was a disabled war veteran. It became known only when the squad went to the showers in a group one day, and McBride hopped under the needle spray on one foot.

THEY CLAIM RECORD FOR GRANDPARENTS

Have Six Grandmothers and Three Grandfathers Living.

DANBURY, N. H., Feb. 26. — Stanley and Athea Ford of Danbury, aged respectively four and 'most three, claim to have more grandparents than any other children in New England and want to know if there are any children anywhere who can beat their record of six living grandmothers and three living grandfathers.

The explanation of the proud preeminence of Stanley and Althea in the matter of direct living ancestors is that most of the grandparents are "greats." All but one of them live in Danbury.

The children's mother is dead and they and their father live with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ford, their father's parents.

That's one set of grandparents.

With them lives also Great-grandmother Mary Rand, Grandmother Ford's mother, eighty-two years old, and still spry. That makes four generations under one roof.

Grandpa Ford's mother, Great-grandmother Ford, lives in Franklin, N. H. She is seventy years old.

Then, also in Danbury, there are Grandma Litchfield, a very young grandmother at forty-two, and Grandpa Litchfield, forty-five. They are the parents of the children's mother. And there are Grandma Litchfield's parents, Great-grandma Allen, sixty-four, and Great-grandpa Allen, seventy; and there is Grandpa Litchfield's mother, Great-grandma Litchfield, young looking at seventy.

Stanley and Althea are the only great-grandchildren of all those grand and great-grandmothers and fathers. Can you imagine what their Christmases and birthdays are like?

MADE AN INSPECTION CAMPBELLFORD PLANT

Several Recommendations Included in Report of R. W. Scott--Change Transmission Line Condition.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 26. —A. L. Mudge electrical engineer of Toronto has completed an inspection of the municipal lighting and power plant, having been invited here for the purpose by the Water and Light Commission.

His report of conditions was considered at a special meeting of the Commission, but definite action was deferred until a future session, when Mr. Mudge's written statement will be taken up.

Some time ago Engineer Robert W. Scott submitted a report to the Commission suggesting improvements to the service, the recommendation that was most favoured being the building of a transmission line on the east side, in addition to the one now on the west side, of the river.

It is understood that on all important points Mr. Mudge agrees with the recommendation of the local engineer.

Mr Scott's report was as follows:

Gentlemen:—

I brought the matter up previously regarding the advisability of changing our present operating transmission line condition. I will give a general idea of our present operating condition and then give you the three alternatives of improving this condition.

Our transmission poles from the Power House No. 12 to No. 11 are carrying, besides our own No. 000 copper wire (3 wires), three circuits (9 cables) of No. 0000 Aluminum cable for the Hydro Electric Power Com. This is, in itself, a constant menace to our own town service not only on account of wind storms and sleet storms, but under ordinary conditions.

Our transmission line from Power House No. 12 comes down East side of the Trent River for about 400 yards, then crosses over to the west side down Queen St., George and Grand Road to near the corner of Bridge St., consisting of three No. 000 copper wire. From this point near Bridge St. the line is made up of No. 000 Aluminum cable continuing to a point at the 6th Concession, where it crosses the road to the Paper Mill. During the last few years our town load has grown considerably, so that in times of peak load our voltage drop is so high that we are not able to give good service, especially in regard to the most distant customers. Furthermore, our line loss which is proportional to the square of the load, is rapidly increasing.

The following figures will serve to show our present position: (I may say in regard to inductive reactance I am assuming an average distance apart of 36 inches).

We have for No. 000 Copper Wire (B. & S. Gauge): Resistance, per mile, 0.3193, 1 wire; Inductive Reactance, per mile, 0.6576, 1 wire; Impedence, per mile, 0.7310, 1 wire; Resistance, per mile, 0.554, 3 wires, 3 phase; Inductive Reactance, per mile, 1.138, 3 wires, 3 phase; Impedance, per mile, 1.262, 3 wires, 3 phase; Impedance for three miles, 3.786, 3 wires, 3 phase; Voltage drop for 180 Amp. load, 3.786 by 180—680 volts, 3 wires, 3 phase; Voltage regulation, 680-4330, 15.6%; Line Loss (180)2 by 3.786—123 K.W.

Our maximum lighting voltage at the plant is 125 volts, so that at peak conditions our lighting voltage down town is 125 by 84.4-100 equals 105.5 volts. When large motors are started up in any section we have a further momentary drop, fluctuations and poor service conditions for lighting or for motive load. Furthermore our line loss shows up in a more unfavorable light for this increases as the square of the line current.

In order to change this condition, which certainly should be done before another winter, we have three alternatives:

(1) Build a new line with say No. 000 copper wire from Power House down east side of river, down Front St. to corner of Bridge and Front streets.

(2) Step up voltage at Power House to 7200 volts delta connection with the ultimate object in view of using Star connection with 12000 volts; and having a sub-station to step down to the present distribution voltage.

(3) Have a voltage regulator. I may say that I am much opposed to this last alternative for the reason that it will merely serve as a makeshift. It will not make any improvement on line loss, which is rapidly becoming higher. I am not therefore entering into this in detail. I may mention, however, the first cost would be much less than (1) or (2).

Estimate for Proposition (1)

Building line from Power House on east side of river to corner of Bridge and Front streets, No. 000 copper wire.

General Specifications

Holes—To be dug or blasted not less than 5 feet in the ground.

Poles—Good sturdy cedar poles, straight and sound throughout—not less than 35 feet long and 7 inch tops. Provision being made for a possible second circuit.

Cross Arms—4 pin cross arms as used on present line and same dimensions. To be doubled every 4th pole and at every bend of the line.

Braces—Two cross arm braces for each pole, 24-inch long and galvanized.

Ground Wire—No. 6 B. & S. bare copper wire strung on top of poles. Mounting-steel pin bolted to top of pole. Wire to be grounded every 4th pole.

Primaries—3 No. 000 copper wire strung on 4 pin cross arms, two on one side and one on the outside cross arm pin.

Spacing—On clear stretches, poles to be placed every 130 feet. With bends, etc. average spacing will be approximately 115 feet.

Distance—Approximately 13,200 feet to corner of Bridge and Front St.

Number of poles required—13,200-115—115 approx.

No. 000 wire required—13,200 ft. by 3 by 0.508—20,100 lbs.

No. 6 wire required—11,000 ft. by 0.0794—873 lbs.

Total amount of copper wire required, therefore, will be approximately 21,000 lbs.

Cost of Line

Average proportionate cost of each pole complete, may be detailed as follows:

4 insulators	$ 1.00
Cross arms with pins	2.50
Braces, bolts, lag screws, etc.	2.00
Pole, peeled, trimmed and framed	7.00
Average cost of digging and blasting each hole and raising pole	8.00
Proportion chargeable to each pole for guying	3.00
Total average cost each pole	$23.50
Cost of poles complete (115 by $23.50)	$2,700.00
Cost of copper (21,000 by 20c)	4,200.00
Labor for transporting, stringing and pulling up wire	500.00
	$7,400.00
Add 10% to above to cover unforseen expenses	740.00
Total estimate for proposition No. (1)	$8,140.00

Estimate for Proposition (2)

Stepping up voltage and having an outdoor sub-station. This matter was discussed last year and the writer made out general specifications and asked for bids on the equipment. I have detailed specifications which may be referred to at any time but for our present purpose the general requirement will be outlined and the approximate cost arrived at.

3—One phase, 60 cycle 500 KVA, outdoor type, oil insulated, self-cooled transfomers, high tension voltage, 6600 volts; low tension voltage, 2300 volts. with 2200 volt traps.
3—200 Amp. 11,000 volt, outdoor type, choke coils.
3—200 Amp. 11,000 volt, outdoor type, disconnecting switches.
1—3 phase 6600 volt, G.E. oxide film arrester (outdoor type).
3—500 Amp. 6600 volt outdoor type disconnecting switches.

The auxiliary equipment to be mounted on a 1½ inch pipe superstructure built over the transformers and supported from the concrete foundation built for the transformers. All the necessary wiring and accessories for this structure also to be furnished and installed by contractor A general diagrammatic plan is attached herewith. The detailed plan of this installation to be submitted for the approval of the Water and Light Commission or its representative.

From the bids which came in for above equipment we are enabled to ....obtain an approximate basis of cost—though I may say the writer has been advised by two of the manufacturers that their tenders have since been revised and prices increased.

Approximate cost of Proposition No. (2):
Equipment as specified	$ 9,000.00
Cost of site, foundation, installing new insulators back to Power House, rearranging poles near substation and other incidental expenses	2,000.00
Total cost estimated	$11,000.00

We can proceed to analyze the advantages of the alternatives proposition Nos. (1) and (2). I may say, here, it will be necessary in either case to increase in the near future the transformer capacity at the Power House.

(1) Pole line on east side of river to Bridge St. Estimated cost—Approximately $8,140.00, using No. 000 wire.

(a) Halve the voltage drop and so improve voltage regulation.

(b) Halve the line loss.

(c) Improves the flexibility of transmission line. If one line (either east or west side) goes down the remaining line can supply the town, or should the transformers at the Power House go down, the town could be partially supplied at generator voltage (2500 volts).

(d) Increases the flexibility of the distributing system.

(e) Small depreciation on material used for new line.

(f) Simplicity. No back feeders required after line comes into town.

(g) Maintaining privileges of using east side of river.

(h) Can increase carrying capacity by stringing in new set of wire on same poles when increased load demands.

(2) Outdoor Transformer Station downtown, 7200 volts. Estimated cost—Approximately $11,000.00.

Advantages

(a) Line voltage drop—1-1.73 present drop.

(b) Line loss one third.

N.B.—Transmission voltage may be increased to 12,000 volts by placing transformers on Star connection and further reducing the voltage and line losses.

Disadvantages

(c) Non-flexibility of transmission line operation and danger of breakdown between No. 12 and No. 11 and no other trunk line to supply the town.

(d) Flexibility of operation of distribution system not improved.

(e) Large depreciation on transmers and auxiliary equipment.

(f) System more complicated; e.g., arresters, back feeders, etc.

(h) Can increase load capacity by installing additional step down transformers.

The above summarizes the pros and cons of the two systems. Should the Board consider this matter should be submitted to other engineers, I shall be very glad to go into it with them. However, from my own observations, with the present low price of copper, and the general advantage of Proposition No. (1) over Proposition No. (2) I can only advise you to adopt the former.

Respectfully submitted,
R. W. SCOTT.

BRITISH GLOVE INDUSTRY HIT

Canadian Market Mentioned in the House of Commons as Possible Stimulant — French Gloves Cheaper.

LONDON, February 26 (Canadian Press Cable). — In the House of Commons yesterday a member asked the President of the Board of Trade whether his attention had been called to the present depressed condition of the fabric glove industry in Leicester, Derby, and Leamington, and whether he was aware that the Canadian market has offered a consistent outlet for these goods for many years, and that because of the depreciated condition of the franc and the consequent higher competitive power of the French manufacturers, French gloves were being offered to Canada below the cost of production in Britain.

The member wanted to know what steps the minister proposed to take to safeguard the welfare of a large number of workers engaged in this important industry.

A. V. Alexander, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, replied that he had received a letter stating that Canadian buyers had declined to place orders here because of the lower prices at which French gloves were being offered, but he had no further information.

REPARATION EXPERTS TRYING TO GET BALANCE

Tobacco, Liquor and Matches Revenue May be Used to Pay Allies.

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(United Press). —The Dawe's Commission of Experts continued to study the problem of balancing Germany's 1925-26 budget.

The report of a subcommittee, including the possibility of an appropriation for reparations out of the budget figures for those years, was considered.

The experts favored setting aside the revenues from certain Government monopolies, such as tobacco, liquor and matches, entirely for reparations.

Sir Arthur Salter, economic expert of the League of Nations, who was to be heard on the situation in Austria, will be heard Thursday instead.

J. H. MERCER IS DEAD

CALGARY, Feb. 26.—J. H. Mercer, City Treasurer died here connected with business concerns in yesterday. He was for nearly 20 years connected with busines concerns in Eastern Canada.

Silver Lake Woman Died at Bobcaygeon.

LINDSAY, Feb. 26. — The funeral took place at Bobcaygeon on Saturday of Mrs. Henry Coulter, formerly of Silver Lake, Galway township, who passed away on Thursday, Feb. 21, at the age of 92 years. The deceased and her husband kept a hotel at Silver Lake for many years in the days of the lumbering activity in those regions, the hostelry being widely known as well as largely patronized by the traveling public.

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Coulter took up residence in Bobcaygeon.

Used by Tetrazzini, used by Melba in their many Canadian tours, and personally purchased by them for use in their own homes.

TETRAZZINI, writing from Rome, Italy, announcing the safe arrival of the Heintzman & Co. Grand Piano, specially built to her order, said:

"I am in love with its beautiful tone and singing quality ..... It is the delight of all my friends who have seen it."

MELBA, who personally selected her Grand when in Canada, had it shipped to her home in Australia for her individual use.

The tonal beauty of the Heintzman Co. Concert Grand is now perfectly reproduced in the smaller pianos of the firm for the home.

Conference Quickly Ended Strike of Dockers — Absence of Disorders Was Feature of Demonstration.

LONDON, Feb. 26. — The dock strike, lasting ten days was settled quickly Monday when the delegates met in conference. Acceptance of the terms was almost unanimous, only two minor ports having objected.

A feature of the strike, which involved many thousands of men, was complete absence of disorders, although the strike extended over all parts of the Kingdom and dockers generally are regarded as a somewhat unruly class of workers.

The Government is expected to announce immediately the chairman of the commision to inquire into decasualization, and as the employers have agreed to the principl, of maintenance for the men who are idle during part of the week owing to the peculiar exigencies of dock labor it may be supposed that some remedy for this grievance will be speedily found.

Man Will Lie at Foot Of His 3 Wives' Graves.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 26.—Conrad Paulaus, seventy-six years old, thrice a widower, who died last night in Steelton, is to be buried at the foot of the graves of his three wives in the Prospect Hill Cemetery, it became known today. He made the arrangement several months ago.

Paulus, who was a German, planned all the details for his own funeral. He selected his coffin, arranged for the funeral services to be held at the undertaking chapel and named the minister who should officiate.

SEVERAL NEW BARNS FOR CAVAN TOWNSHIP

Will Replace Those Removed By Fire and Tempest.

CAVAN, Feb. 26.—Mr. R. F Wood, Hope, has purchased a barn from F. M. Staples. He is having it taken down and drawn to his farm in Hope, where a barn was burned recently. This farm is tenanted by Mr. W. Gray. Mr. Jas. Bullock is superintending the taking down of the barn and will erect it on the Gray farm. Mr. Wood has purchased another barn which will be taken there also. Out of the two a large barn will be built.

This will be the third barn which Mr. Bullock has built this winter. The building of all three have been made necessary by fires.

Mr. Bullock built one for Mr. Wm. G. Clarke, South Monaghan, another for Mr. J. Armstrong, Cavan, and now is busy preparing to build one for Mr. Wood.

Pitch Holes Bad.

These recent storms which so thoroughly blocked the roads at least filled the numerous pitchholes in the gravel road from Cavan to Millbrook. These holes easily numbered two dozen and often three and four were very close together. The holes were very deep and were hard on both cutter and harness. The Cavan council is said to pay a man to keep the road open and the holes filled. It would be gratifying to the public if it were better looked after. In a short time, when the sun shines brightly these pitch holes will appear again, as traffic increases and we hope they may receive more attention.

The mail carriers were again unable to make their regular trips.

The storm of last week has filled the roads up more than they have been filled for several weeks.

Royal Roman Patients Recover From Illness.

ROME, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press).—The health of King Victor Emmanuel, who has been ill with influenza, was greatly improved yesterday. His temperature has been restored to normal.

Crown Prince Humbert, also an influenza victim, was able to leave his bed to-day and is expected shortly to resume his usual activities.

FOR THE COUGH THAT STICKS

Common Cough Syrups Won't Help—You've Got To Make Your Own.

CHEAP AND BEST

For any kind of a cough, but especially for the stubborn one that persists and keeps you awake nights this home made cough mixture will quickly loosen the phelgm, allay the inflammation and stop the cough.

You can make it yourself at home in two minutes by following these instructions:

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

It's a mighty fine remedy for chest colds and acute nasal catarrh, and remember that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

Mother of Selfridge, London Merchant, Dead

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Lois Selfridge, mother of Harry Gordon Selfridge, proprietor of London's department store, died this morning at the home of her son here.

Mrs. Selfridge, who was 90 years old, went to the United States in November for a visit. She was taken ill last month in Washington, and Mr. Selfridge left hurriedly for America to be with her. She recovered sufficiently to be able to be able to sail with Mr. Selfridge on the Berengia from New York, arriving at Southampton Saturday, but grew worse after reaching the Selfridge home here where the end came this morning.

YOUR HEALTH

DR. CLIFFORD ROBINSON

FRACTURES AFTER FORTY

Men who have been active in their college days and continue their interest in games and sports well along through middle age, must be careful of their strenuous life after the bones have set more firmly. While there are always exceptions to the rule, and while in spirit at least a man may be "as old as he feels," his physical activities must be governed by the strength of his bones to withstand sudden starts and stops.

The inevitable jars and jolts that come his way will surely get him sooner or later if he persists in this practice at the expense of his bones.

The muscles of an active man, who has engaged daily since his youth in well regulated exercise and kept his health by right living, are practically as strong in middle age as in earlier life. But, although the muscles keep up their strength, the bones do not. They become brittle.

Fractures after forty are more difficult to heal quickly and properly. They slow you up to the extent that you may be unable again to engage in your favorite sport with enthusiasm.

This brittleness of the bones may be properly spoken of in connection with other activities besides sports. Men who do heavy work or engage in activities that require extensive use of the legs must always be careful to realize that sudden bracing or strains and particularly sudden shock from jumps, even if only a short distance, are severe on the legs and are apt to result in a serious fracture.

The value of a man, in any real physical sense, depends on his leg power. It is foolish and dangerous to try "speeding up" beyond the normal power of your age resistance just because you don't want the youngsters to show you up.

Italian Ambassador Has Reached Moscow.

MOSCOW, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press)—Count Gaetano Manzoni, the new Italian Ambassador to Russia, yesterday presented his credentials to Soviet President Kalinin, following the recognition of Russia by Italy. Similarly Robert M. Hodgson, the British Charge D'Affaires, handed over his credentials to Foreign Minister Tchitcherin Monday.

MRS. LINDQUIST TELLS WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one thought I could ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to suffer. I had to go to bed at times to be perfectly quiet as I could not even stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor was frank enough to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to see in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun its use and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."—Mrs. MAY LINDQUIST, 2814 Independence Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

NEWS OF BETHANY AND THE DISTRICT.

Severe Storm Put Crimp in Activities.

BETHANY, Feb. 26.—The severe storm which swept over this section of the country last week was the worst that can be remembered. The Canadian National line being completely blocked and no mail received or forwarded since last Tuesday. Some mail was received by Canadian Pacific on Saturday evening being forwarded from Lindsay. The Canadian National endeavored to clear their line on Friday afternoon but their plow got struck in the heavy drift at Franklin which necessitated hiring men to dig the plow and engine out. This was eventually done around midnight then they gave up until Saturday morning and then tried to come in from Omemee and proceeded to within a few miles from Franklin when, they struck a side drift and overturned their plow. We would have been completely isolated only for the prompt action of the Canadian Pacific in getting their plows moving and keeping their line open.

Many social events of last week had to be cancelled or postponed until later dates on account of the storm.

A large number of the villagers are laid up with La Grippe or tonsilitis which seems to be prevalent around the community.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moncrief on the 11th line of Cavan and left a baby girl on Saturday.

A quiet wedding took place at Lindsay on Wednesday, February 20th when Lila Vance, daughter of Mrs. John Vance and Mr. John Carr, both of Manvers, were united in marriage, the Rev. Marsh officiating. The happy couple were compelled to remain in Lindsay the following day on account of the railways being blocked when they proceeded to Midland and other points of interest. The young couple on returning will make their home on the old Ward farm, situated on the 8th Line of Manvers. Mr. Carr purchased this farm some time ago.

A very quiet wedding took place at the St. Paul's rectory, Thursday evening, February 21st when Ada Saunders, daughter of Mrs. Alfred Saunders and Charles Davis, both of Bethany were united in marriage, the Rev. Fierheller officiating. The happy couple will make their home on the farm which Mr. Davis purchased same time ago.

Mrs. P. C. Brown who has been undergoing treatment for an injured knee in Nichols Hospital, Peterboro for the last week returned home on Saturday.

Miss Laura Morton was a visitor in Peterboro on Saturday.

Mr. Fred Fallis spent a few days last week with friends and relatives in Toronto.

Mr. Reg. Palmer who is undergoing treatment in Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, is spending a few days at his home here.

Mr. Roy Fern was a visitor in Toronto last week.

Miss Mildred Sisson of Peterboro spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sisson.

ROMANCE IS DEAD, SAYS FLOWER GIRL.

Lovers No Longer Purchase Posies For Sweethearts, Says Cockney Vendor.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Love and sentiment are dying a rapid death midst the hurly-burly of life.

"Nelly of Piccadilly" makes this observation.

For thirty years "Nelly of Piccadilly" has sold flowers to the whole world. She is known from Alaska to the Fiji Islands and anyone who has ever visited London has probably chatted for a minute or two with this ruddy-cheeked "flower girl," who sits beneath Cupid's statue in Piccadilly Circus, in sun and storm, and sell flowers to the passersby.

Piccadilly Circus is regarded by many as the centre of the world, and there in the middle of the circus sits Nelly vending her wares to Indians from the Far East, to hustling Americans, to tanned South Africans, to wooden-clogged Dutch fishermen who have wandered up from Billingsgate and to be-spatted French dandies. Nelly observes the world as it whirls by and sighs—for she is convinced that the good old days are gone forever.

"The modern lovers aren't like the old ones," Nelly declared, in her peculiar nasal Cockney twang. 'They aren't so sentimental nowadays.

"Years ago every lover bought a posy for his love and never thought of going to her without a gift of flowers. But now they never think of buying them—they take their sweethearts a box of chocolates instead.

"I'm afraid the old trade of flower-selling is dying out. People are in too much of a hurry these days to stop in the old Circus and buy roses or violets, or whatever we have for sale. All that people think about in these days is how to catch their omnibus and dodge the traffic.

"You can say what you like—the good old days of the horse bus and the horse cab were the best. They were the best for flower-sellers, at any rate. People had time then to think of flowers—and buy them, too."

Nelly resumed her work of binding up bunches of French violets.

"Laavly vi'lets, laavly vi'lets! Nas fresh rasses, nas fresh rasses! Laavly vi'lets!" called Nelly's shrill voice, as she gave up philosophizing and went back to work.

Are You Fat? Just Try This

Thousands of overfat people have become slim by following the advice of doctors who recommend Marmola Prescription Tablets, those harmless little fat reducers that simplify the dose of the famous Marmola Prescription. If too fat don't wait—go now to your druggist and for one dollar, which is the price the world over, procure a box of these tablets. If preferable you can secure them direct by sending price to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. They reduce steadily and easily without tiresome exercise or starvation diet, and leave no unpleasant effect.

The news that China wants the Davis Cup may mean among other things that the native crop of chop say bowls is exhausted.

"BEER CELLAR" NIGHT RECALLED BY TRIALS

General Ludendorff and His Followers Appear in the Dock Today--Fifty Witnesses.

MUNICH, Feb. 26. — (United Press).—In the gloomy chambers of the old war academy, all entrances to which were protected by barbed wire and armed soldiery, General Ludendorff, his stepson, Lieut. Pernet, Adolf Hitler and seven former army officers and doctors were tried to-day for treason.

His head held proudly erect, a military and commanding figure, despite his inconspicuous civilian clothes, Ludendorff stalked at the head of the little procession of prisoners as they were marched into the dock.

Hitler, a notorious monarchist agitator, brought up the rear, lugging a huge portfolio of defence documents under one arm. Both Ludendorff and Hitler were warmly greeted when they entered the trial chamber as sixty newspapermen and fifty witnesses were the only ones besides judges and guards admitted. Of the prisoners, only Lieut. Robert Wagner was in uniform.

Ludendorff's bearing was proud and sneering, as though he ignored the somewhat ignominious position with which he was confronted. The crime with which the prisoners was charged was of plotting against the State, in that they led the ludicrous "beer cellar putsch" that failed so completely November 8th, 1923.

The trial opened at 8.30 a.m. The complete list of prisoners included: General Lodendorff, Adolf Hitler, Lieut. Peret, Ernst Poehner, Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Dr. Friedrich Weber, Captain Ernst Roehm, Lieut. Wilhelm Burekcner, Lieut. Robert Wagner and Col. Hermann Kriebel.

Chief Judge Ladgericht presided.

The streets around the War Academy were barred to civilians, and the assembly of more than two persons in the neighborhood was forbidden. Before the trial opened, a final search of the Academy was made, and extra precautions against fire and surprise were taken.

Although it was understood that the defence of the accused was to have involved throwing most of the blame for the putsch upon General Von Hahr and General Lossow, the plans were charged by the defence counsel at the last minute.

Von Hahr, dictator of Bavaria, and Lossow, head of the army, resigned last week. The defence will insist they be co-operated in the putsch plan.

The defendants planed to claim they were not guilty of treason since they did not aim to separate Bavaria from the Reich, but to establish a new form of government a monarchy. The trial began as the judges had filed solemnly into the chamber. The list of the accused was called and all answered "Here" in loud voices. Ernst Poesner, who had been ill, arffimed that he was well enough to plead.

District Attorney Stengal read the indictment, which was a lengthy recital of events on that fateful "beer cellar" night.

The married life of the two was ideal, and their home was one of the finest in the Erie Peninsula. A measure of luxury was apparent in their mode of life. A square piano was one of their possessions, also a seven piece silver tea-set, the gift to the bride of the Mohawk chief, Chief Johnson acquired many honours. He was a fluent and eloquent speaker, one of the first men in Canada to set himself against the liquor traffic amongst the Indians. He received medals of distinction from the Prince of Wales, acted as escort to the Duke of Connaught on the latter's visit to Canada, and was the recipient on one occasion of messages of congratulations from the Iron Duke, Bismarck of Germany.

The training of Pauline Johnson in such a home combined the best of English and Indian principles, and culture, and etiquette. Her mother always emphasized the fact that the children were of the Indian race, and she, herself, was, of course, considered an Indian by her marriage. To this early training the poet doubtless owed the unique quality of her character.

With this introduction, Mrs. Pettit passed to a consideration of some of the poetic gems of the famous writer, quoting from some of her works, among them one of the best bits of nature study, "In the Shadows," the Indian ballad, "As Redmen Die," the Pilot of the Plains," the picturesque paddle song, "The Song my Paddle Sings,' the story of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in "The Prairie Greyhound," and the dainty "Little Lady Icicle."

From an old Indian chieftain Pauline Johnson lured much of the old-time tales, told in Chinook and broken English, which she has immortalized in "Legends of Vancouver."Possibly, as Mrs. Pettit remarked, such tales as these will never be duplicated as the power of seeing the viewpoints of the two opposite races and the culture to express them, may never again be met with.

The poetess, who has been eulogized by Sir Gilbert Parker, and Bernard MacAvoy, the latter saying that "The keynote of her whole disposition was a generous charity," died in her favorite city of Vancouver, and her ashes lie in Stanley Park, Siwash Rock, on the outskirts of the place she loved so well.

HOCKEY.

An exciting hockey game was played last night between the Cooney Cartage and T. Kinnear's, in which the Cooney Cartage won by the score of 5 to 2.

After the game the two teams were served a supper at the Class Cafe.

The Petes may go directly into the finals, as they have already completed four rounds, while Niagara Falls and Collingwood are just finishing their third.

If that be the case they would not be called upon to play an O.H.A. game until a week from Friday, whereas if they are drawn for a semi-final game they would likely go into action next Monday.

WOMEN'S ART ASSOCIATION

In the studio at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday afternoon, the Women's Art Asociation held one of their popular musical and literary recitals. Mrs. L. J. Pettitt gave in her usual capable and brilliant fashion an extremely interesting address on "Pauline Johnson." Dr. S. J. Graham, tenor, delighted his audience with several beautifully sung selections, among them two of the charming Indian Love Lyrics of Amy Woodford-Finden, "Less than the Dust," and the Kashmiri song. Mrs. W. Harold Young played the singer's accompaniments. At the conclusion of the recital, tea was served from a table prettily garnished with daffodils. Mrs. Arthur Stevenson and Mrs. W. D. Scott were hostesses for the occasion, assisted by Mrs. Ray Scott, Mrs. L. McLaren, Miss Flora Edwards and Miss Margaret Neill.

Mrs. Pettit, whose talk on Pauline Johnson, was delivered in polished, well-worded style, divided the subject into two sections. A setting for an appreciative glimpse of the poetry of the talented Indian writer was afforded by a brief review of the love story of her parents, a young English girl and a Mohawk chief.

At the age of 12 years, Emily Howell, of English birth, came from Ohio with her sister, Mrs. Evans, a missionary of the Anglican church to the Mohawk reservation near Brantford. Here she grew up in the same mission house with George Johnson, who assisted the missionaries and acted as interpreter for the Government. At the age of 24 he became chief of the Mohawk Indians, and had also with industry unusual among the Indians, become possessor of a two-hundred acre estate. When Emily was 19, they were married, after much opposition from the parents of both. Chief Johnson was described as being a refined and handsome man, a dark, young representative of the Mohawk race, intelligent and of splendid character.

OMEMEE'S U.F.O. CLUB MEETING

Addressed By J. J. Thurston, M.P., of Fenelon — Echo Choir at Methodist Church Service Provided Musical Novelty.

OMEMEE, Feb. 25.—The farmers of the Omemee Farmers' Club held a meeting last week. Owing to severe weather and bad roads those from a distance were unable to attend, nevertheless a good turnout of those nearby listened to a very fine address delivered by Mr. J. J. Thurston, M.P., of Fenelon.

Mr. William Burgess, president, opened the meeting. He called upon Rev. E. W. Rowland to direct the audience in community singing. Several numbers were lustily rendered.

Then followed Mr. Thurston's address which was immensely enjoyed by all.

Miss Genevieve Sandy gave a much appreciated solo, "Where the Lazy Mississippi Flows."

The Misses Eva and Lillian Race rendered a piano duet and encore, which was followed by a reading, "How Ruby Played," by Rev. E. W. Rowland.

After a few words from Mr. F. G. Sandy, the ladies served refreshments and a very enjoyable social hour was spent. The hearty rendition of the National Anthem dismissed the gathering.

Debate Church Union

On Tuesday evening next, March 4th,, a debate will be held in the club rooms. The subject of "Church Union" will be discussed by four young men, namely, Harry Jackson, Vernon Lang, Gordon Bradley and Irvine Connell.

Echo Choir Novelty

A large congregation attended the song service in the Methodist church on Sunday evening. The echo choir which was something of a novelty to many in attendance, occupied the chairs in the gallery at the back of the auditorium and to say the least, excelled themselves by their various numbers.

Among the old familiar hymns used were, "Marching to Zion," "Pull for the Shore," "Come to the Saviour," "Where He Cometh," and several others, all of which were heartily rendered by old and young.

Mr. T. J. Parsons, a former choir leader, who now considers himself a back number rendered in his clear baritone voice, "I love to tell the Story," much to the pleasure of all, and Mr. Fred Lowe, a member of the regular choir, sang "Tell Me the Old, Old Story," the choir joining in the chorus of each. Both selections were well received and worthy of the many compliments being handed to the soloists.

Old Citizen Heard From

The many friends of Mr. W. W. Jardine, a former resident of Omemee, and principal of the High School, who have lost trace of his whereabouts will be pleased to know he is residing at Sioux Lookout. Since leaving here, Mr. Jardine suffered a stroke, thus causing him to retire from school life. His son, Mr. Will Jardine, has gone into the fishing industry and his father and sister, Miss Flo, reside with him.

Minister as Referee

Rev. E. W. Rowland was the capable referee at the hockey match on Saturday afternoon between the junior boys known as the "Beavers" and a group of girls called the "Bluebirds." The result was 4-4.

Owing to weather conditions, the mocassin dance, which was to have been on Tuesday evening last, was posponed until this Tuesday.

Born—To Dr. A. R. and Mrs. Younie, of St. Catharines, late of Omemee, on Friday, February 15th, a son.

The A.Y.P.A. of Christ Church, Omemee, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thorne of Reaboro, on Friday evening. The party journeyed by sleigh and a merry time was enjoyed by all.

GOOD WORK DONE BY THE I. O. D. E.

Peter Robinson Chapter Donations for the Year Amount to $403.00.

The annual report of the Secertary of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., Mrs. L. McLaren, showed the following donations made during the past year: To the Peterboro Health Association (proceeds from Motor Show,) $173.50; for Child Welfare Work, $50; to the Salvation Army, $50; to the Japanese Relief Fund, $25; to the Y.W.C.A., $10; to the Navy League, $25; to the Well Babies' Clinic, $50; to the War Memorial, $19.50; total $403.

Activities of the Chapter, as reported at the recent annual meeting, included the looking after a sick baby, by the Child Welfare Committee, under the Misses Helen Howson and Ethel Nicol, assistance at the Motor Show, co-operation with the other local Chapters of the I.O.D.E., in raising the sum of $70 for the I.O.D.E. War Memorial Fund, by holding a large tea, a tea dance in March, a calendar bridge and a dance during Christmas week, together with ushering at the Grand Opera House. The ushering proved the chief source of income during the year and the Chapter extended its thanks to the efficient convenor, Mrs. F. C. Webber, and her committee, in this connection.

The members held a snowshoe party in the winter season, and their anual picnic in June last.

During the year changes in membership were noted, among them the loss by removal from the city of the first Vice-Regent, Miss Helen Stapleton, the secretary; Mrs. J. A. MacNab, and the treasurer, Miss Genevieve McCarthy.

The statement of receipts and disbursements shows a balance in the bank on the 15th of January, of this year, of $650.42, an increase over last year's balance at the same time of $351.71. Victory bonds, totalling $500 also are held by the Chapter, making their available funds at the beginning of the year total $1150.42.

The total receipts during the year amounted to $1018.59, made up as follows: From ushering $287; fees, $27; tips, 17.47; interest on Victory Bond, $41.25; interest on bank balance, $7.06; J. C. Turnbull Company, re models, $35; bridge parties, $53.75, tea dance, $40; sundry dances and motor show, $489.65; tea, $19.50.

QUILT WITH 650 NAMES NETTED $210 FOR CHURCH

Ladies' Aid of Apsley Methodist Church Realized Large Sum From Their Work — Oysters Arrive From Peterboro in Time For Supper.

ISOLATED BY SNOW.

APSLEY, Feb. 25.—The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church brought to a most successful conclusion on Saturday evening with an oyster supper, the work that has been engaging their attention for some time past, namely, the making of an autograph quilt. Due to the heavy roads there was some difficulty in getting the oysters from Peterborough, and it was past ten o'clock before the supper which was held at the Union Hotel, was over, and the company adjourned to the Parish room for the concert and disposal of the quilt. Owing to the lateness of the hour the programme was curtailed, only a few numbers being given as follows: Violin duet, Mrs. C. Smith and Miss Marjorie Spence; Recitation, "The Tailor's Courtship," Miss Ella Northey; song, Miss M. Spence; vocal duet, Helen Lean and Vernal Earnshaw; violin solo, John Coones. The quilt, which was made up of forty two blocks in the pattern of daisies, had no less than six hundred and fifty names embroidered upon it. Mr. R. H. Knox proceeded to auction it off by progressive bids starting at twenty-five cents and each bidder paying in his bid, mostly five cent advances, until it was finally knocked down to Archie Wilson for eighteen dollars and ten cents, amid much excitement. Two cakes made by Mrs. White and Mrs. Coones were drawn for and fetched a substantial sum. R. H. Knox and Mrs. W. Lean being the lucky winners. The actual sum realized on the names on the quilt was $157.28, the total proceeds raised amounting to the handsome sum of $210. Needless to say the ladies are thoroughly gratified at the successful result of their venture. Rev. E. McTavish was the most consistent bidder on the quilt and deserved to own it, but dropped out in favor of Archie Wilson.

Stage Snowed In

Wednesday's storm, the snowfall amounting to ten inches on the level, resulted in blocking the roads completely, and as a consequence the stage which left here on Wednesday morning did not get to Lakefield until Friday. However, the return trip was made in one day, reaching Apsley at eight o'clock on Saturday. Most of the roads in the vicinity have been snow plowed, except the road from Apsley to Chandos Post Office. By a strange oversight the road to the school has not been plowed and the teacher and scholars have an arduous journey, the school being over a mile from the village.

MARMORA NEWS

MARMORA, Feb. 26.—Miss Elsie Williams, who is attending Peterboro Normal School, spent the week-end at home.

Professor Irwin, who lectured Friday evening in the hall, returned to Toronto on Saturday.

Rev. Father Hanley, of Tweed, who such a short time ago resided in Marmora, returned home on Friday from Kingston, where he had successfully undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. J. P. Morrin, who has been visiting her sister, Miss Anne Rayburn in Tweed, returned Saturday afternoon.

Miss Margaret Clare, who spent several days in Tweed with relatives arrived home on Saturday.

Mrs. M. Louri, with her five children, returned from Havelock on Saturday where she had spent part of the week.

On Friday night Professor Irwin of Toronto, gave a lecture in the town hall, on "Egypt." The lecture was most interesting to all who attended.

The announcement of the prize winners in the essay on one of the recent lectures was made. Miss Jean Thomson's essay took first place and Miss Florence Clare came second.

Miss Violet Deacon and Miss Mary Auger returned last week from Toronto, where they have been working for some time in the wholesale millineries.

FEDERAL GAS TAX?

Auto club officials are preparing to voice opposition against numerous proposals in the States for the passage of a federal gasoline tax. Thirty-six states already have such a tax of from one to three cents on every gallon bought.

There are enough crises on hand to worry us to death if we hadn't lost interest in them.—Tacoma Ledger.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Earton

UP THE BEANSTOCK

Nick looked at the magic bean that Silver Wing had given him. It certainly didn't look magic. It looked like the dried beans that your mother buys at the grocery store for baking, or that little boys shoot through bean-shooters.

Where was the fairy that they had been talking to on the purple thistle, only a minute before?

But there was the bean! There was no getting away from that. And, of course, they didn't want to get away from it, for hadn't Silver Wing said that it was the mate to Jack's bean, and that it would grow into a beanstalk just as his had if they would plant it.

"Come and get the magic shoes!" shouted Nick all at once. "The fairy said for us to look for the magic green shoes before we tried to climb the magic beanstalk. We'd better put them on at once, Nancy, so we will be ready when it begins to grow."

Away they scampered to the big stone under the chestnut-tree, and there just as Silver Wing had said, stood the four little green scalloped shoes.

As soon as the shoes were on, Nick knelt down and made a little hole in the ground with a stick. Then he dropped the bean in and covered it up.

But scarcely had he gotten to his feet when the bean began to grow and an enormous green vine with a very thick stem shot up past them like a sky-rocket, straight for the sky.

"Come on, Nancy!" yelled Nick. "All aboard for Beanstock Land, where the jolly giants live. I'll go first so that if there are any bad places I can tell you."

They passed the tree tops and the clouds and it didn't seem to be more than two minutes and a half until they came to the place where the beanstalk spread out like a ceiling over their heads.

But there was an opening and they clambered through.

And lo and behold, there they were in Beanstalk Land!

It looked like any other country to the Twins' curious eyes—until they saw a figure coming down the road toward them—a person of such a size as never, never had it been their fortune to see. It was as though the church on the corner, steeple and all, had suddenly decided to take a stroll.

"Look!" exclaimed Nick, pointing. "It's one of the giants!"

The giant wore wooden shoes and they went clap, clap, clap when he set his feet down.

Down on earth it must have sounded like thunder.

"Oh, my! I hope he won't step on us," said Nancy, and she pulled Nick down behind a log.

BRITISH ANXIOUS OVER LABOR INDIAN POLICY

Government Is Expected to Adhere to Constitution of 1919 Providing For Ten-Year Trial of Reforms Then Adopted — Recent Events Fix Attention on Indian Affairs.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Much of the anxiety and uncertainty that exists throughout the British Empire regarding the British position and its intentions in India was expected to be relieved to-day when Sir Sydney Olivier, head of the Indian Office, was to make a statement in the House of Lords outlining the attitude of the Labor Government toward the Indian agitators who are urging that Indian Governmental reforms be brought about much more quickly than is provided for by the constitution adopted in 1918.

Replying to persistent questions, the Premier stated that a day would be set aside for an Indian debate any time the House might desire. This, however, officials believe will not be needed in view of Sir Sydney Olivier's forthcoming statement in which he is expected to proclaim the strict adherence of the present government to the Indian reforms adopted in 1919 which provide for a royal commission in 1929 to investigate their success.

REPRESENTATIVE

how individuals in all walks of life could be of assistance to any member of Parliament by their advice and suggestions relating to any peculiar problem in which they might be interested, and with which the member was unacquainted. Turning to Canada's resources, Mr. Gordon said Canada has no alien problem like the United States. People here have greater individual rights than any other country in the world.

In order to meet our debts of honor, said Mr. Gordon, all available means of taxation would have to be utilized. Canada possesses one-seventh of the land of the world and can easily take care of a population of one hundred million men, women and children. The whisper of death campaign has been dissipated by a wave of well-founded optimism and the pall-bearers who have been riding in the front row of some of the calamity newspapers of this country have been relegated to the past.

One thing to be thankful for was the improved condition of the Canadian National Railway under the able administration of Sir Henry Thornton. Last year the operating revenue of the road was raised to nineteen million dollars, and in a short period of time the burden on the taxpayers of this country, so far as the Canadian National is concerned, will be a thing of the past.

Deflated currencies and the lower standard of living in most of the European countries has made the export market a difficult proposition, but in spite of this Canada ranks fourth as an exporting nation, and in volume of exports per capita the Dominion ranks second. In the first year or two of the present administration the national debt increased by eighty-five million dollars the first year and sixty million dollars the second year. Last year the increase did not exceed four million dollars.

Figures Show.

Some of the statistics quoted by Mr. Gordon to show the stability of Canada were as follows:

In 1914 the per capita taxation in Canada was $21.21; in 1922 it had increased to $42.63, in even figures, just 100 per cent. The national debt per head was $443.67 in 1914, and in 1922 it was $270.12, increased 516 per cent.

The heaviest buyer of Canadian wheat flour is the United Kingdom, which during the past fiscal year imported 4,723,527 barrels, valued at $27,174,526, as compared with 4,737,-020 barrels, valued at $33,943,408 in 1922, and 2,746,780 barrels, valued at $28,896,091, in 1921. There has been a marked revival in flour exports to European countries during the past two or three years, shipments to Denmark, Finland and Germany increasing in a remarkable manner. In 1921 these three countries imported 1,784, 3,117 and 93,650 barrels of Canadian wheat flour respectively. Figures for the fiscal year 1923 show Germany as the second largest consumer of Canadian wheat flour, her imports amounting to 675,599 barrels, while Finland took 251,740 barrels and Denmark 276,641 barrels. Over fifty countries are buying flour direct from Canada.

In a ten-year period Canada's total trade has increased over one hundred per cent., $820,000,000 for the fiscal year 1912-13, as compared with $1,910,006,601 for the 1922-23 period. In the same interval this country's export trade has increased over three-fold, the figures being $307,-000,000 for the first period and $1,-001,727,269 for the latter. Before the war Canada ranked eighth in the volume of exports; she now ranks fourth among the countries of the world, and per capita she ranks second.

Confidence in Future.

We can have a confidence and a healthy confidence in the future. There has not been one single country in the world that has shown her ability to come back as has Canada. The United States, as the great creditor nation of the world, is handicapped by having three-quarters of the world's gold in her treasury. The recovery of this country depends upon the business and working men of the Dominion, the men who daily go to the office and factory and bench and are doing an earnest day's toil for the good of the country.

It is to your interest that you should give your ability and advice to the men whom you have chosen to represent you in the government of the country.

Referring to the criticisms levelled at the Civil Service, Mr. Gordon said: "The trade of the country has expanded and increased so much that you would naturally expect an increase in the Civil Service. Instead of this there has been a decrease of $3,000,000 in the salaries in two years."

He remarked that there are men in the Civil Service who are working early and late looking after the records and clerical work of the Government. They are giving honest toil. "I wish to say on behalf of the Civil Service that they are loyal and faithful, and are giving honest service with, in many cases, poor returns."

There are many men who have been in the Civil Service since returning from overseas. Other things being equal the returned man gets the preference. That is something the people of the country should be proud of.

The talk that business is not stable in this country is not borne out by the facts. There is not much unemployment in this city. Things are not nearly as bad here as they might be. We have a magnificent set of factories in Peterborough. It has been my pride to take men like Sir Henry Thornton around our factories and hear them say that conditions in the factories are ideal and the homes in the city are exceptional and that this is one of the most outstanding cities in the country.

It is the duty of you men to give us the benefit of your advice and help and experience. Men in different lines of business can give the benefit of their experience, which is of value to us. The men who have been selected by them are entitled to their help.

Mr. Gordon expressed appreciation of the help that he has received from men who have been ready to stand behind him in pushing the affairs of the city.

He asked the help of all interested in pushing the interests of Peterborough at Ottawa. He assured his audience that on any matter looking towards the good of the city being brought to his attention, he will take it up and give it the very best service he is capable of giving.

Friendly Gathering.

Ryerson Ritchie remarked on the precedent set in the gathering by Liberals and Conservatives joining fraternally in the function.

He outlined ways in which the country might be bettered commercially and financially, drawing illustrations from United States where he had travelled widely.

Joseph Wearing, city solicitor, speaking to "The Province of Ontario" in the place of W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., who was unable to be present, said he was glad of the opportunity to tell Mr. Bradburn of his willingness to get behind the present Provincial member. The only time, Mr. Wearing said, he will not be behind Mr. Bradburn is election time.

Remarking that people do not realize the importance of the age in which they live, or the wide flung influence it may have on the history of their country, Mr. Wearing said: "We should realize that we have our task, and that it is up to us to make Ontario what we want it to be." He said the Mayor and members of the City Council sought election only because they are animated with a desire to be of service to the community and make Peterboro a better city.

R. B. Rogers, introduced by the chairman as the engineer in charge of the construction of the Hydraulic Lift Lock, said there is no question in the country more important than transportation, and advocated the immediate completion of the Trent Canal. On grain, coal and rough freight, he said, this district would save $1,000,000 a year in freight charges through use of the Trent Waterway.

A Presentation.

At the conclusion of the programme Mr. Gordon was presented with a splendid panoramic view of Peterboro at the hands of Alderman Joseph Crowe. He undertook to hang this in his chambers in Parliament Buildings.

Musical selections were rendered by George Chandler.

SOVIET PARTY ELUDED PRESS

Trade Delegation Directed By C.P.R. Officials Who Misled Newspaper Men All Along the Route.

MONTREAL, Feb. 26—(Canadian Press).—The progress of the Soviet trade delegation to Canada from the time they left the steamer Montclare at St. John, until their arrival at Ottawa last evening, was like that of the mythical Russian army which marched through Great Britain en route to the western front during the war. Nobody saw them first-hand, but everybody knew about them. Nobody, that is, except Canadian Pacific Railway officials, who courteously directed inquiring newspaper men at St. John in an endless circle until the delegation train was on its way to Montreal. Montreal newspaper men were similarly guided until it became known that the Soviet train did not come to the city at all, but stopped around noon at Sortin Yards, some miles outside the city, and proceeded, ostensibly, for Ottawa.

So far as Canada east of Ottawa is concerned, the existence of the trade delegation is a matter for fundamentalist "faith."

Is in Perfect Health Again

So Says Madam Blanchette of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Quebec lady suffered from bad kidneys for three years and was restored to good health by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. Raphael, Que. Feb. 25. (Special)—From all parts of Canada come the same glad tidings, telling the same glad story of sufferers that suffer no longer, of the weak being made strong and healthy, and of the good work that is being done by Dodd's Kidney Pills. People are now learning the importance of keeping the kidneys in shape of watching for the least symptom of Kidney Trouble, and they turn at once to Dodd's Kidney Pills, because they know they have a remedy that they can rely on, a remedy that never fails. Right here in St. Raphael, Madame A. Blanchette, a much respected resident, comes forward with a statement that adds to the long list of grateful letters. She says: "For three years I suffered with bad kidneys and no other remedy did me any good. After taking six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I am in perfect health again."

ANOTHER TERRIFIC WOLF STORY BREAKS

Big Dan Had Time to Take Off His Snowshoes When Big Wolf Made Dash For Him.

NORTH BAY, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press).—"Big Dan" O'Leary, robust six-footer, arrived in the Bay over the week-end with a wolf story that outrivals anything penned by the service.

"Big Dan" who is employed as a foreman for the Senator Gordon Lumber Company, started out on Thursday on a log stamping mission from Dan Sullivan's camp, located at Tominka, 28 miles from North Bay.

"Dan" was accompanied by six other stalwarts of the northern woods.

O'Leary was leading the van, and just as the loggers' clearing was reached a pack of seven gaunt, half-famished timber wolves emerged from the bush and took up fan-like formation in the clearing. The leader, a big grey animal, bared his fangs and made a dash for "Big Dan." Dan took off one of his snowshoes and dealt the wolf leader a mighty blow on the head. The leader was stunned and lay on his back in the deep snow. In the meantime the rest of the pack had closed in on the other lumberjacks, but were finally beaten off after a terrific battle. Suddenly the wolf general recovered his senses and made another onslaught on the husky foreman. The brute jumped for his throat, but the rest of the crew hastened to O'Leary's assistance, and with a few mighty blows the big grey wolf was dispatched.

YOUNG PETES TROUNCE BOWMANVILLE PLAYERS

Win By Score of 2-0 in Game at Whitby and Pile Up Lead on Round to Six Goals.

TO MEET KINGSTON.

Peterboro Juniors not only won last night's game by the score of 2 goals to nil, but they clinched second round after several tough battles by the score of 10 goals to 4.

The Petes showed great style and form last night, and they well deserved to win, as they were no doubt the better team of the two. They outskated and outplayed their opponents in the greater part of the game and deserved more goals than they were credited with when the game ended.

It was a battle royal from start to finish with both teams showing all kinds of speed and shooting ability, while the Petes showed more [illegible] than the losers.

[illegible] in the first [illegible] of play, while the [illegible] were also a [illegible] stages of the game.

The Thornton and Holland defence [illegible] great help to Lebarr in [illegible] picked off shots from all angles like veteran goal keepers and saved Lebarr a much busier time than he had.

Bowmanville worked hard all during the game but Lebarr in the nets was unbeatable, and he has never turned in a better game.

With a large number of the fans yelling for Peterboro the Petes were right at home, and with a glaring sheet of ice which is about the size of the Toronto Arena, the Petes had their first out of town chance to show the fans some real combination. They lined up two and three abreast and swept down the ice in great style. Their back-checking was a feature, while Harold McDougal, the little centre man, was the one that caught the crowd's eye the most.

Bowmanville showed signs of combination and their back checking was good.

They used their old tactics of racing down the ice and then passing to Chartrand, who would let go his long shot at Lebarr. Chartrand scored in the three games, counting the one played in Bowmanville, 8 out of 9 goals, seven of these being on long shots from outside the defence, but Lebarr in goal last night was dead on and Chartrand's bullet-like shots had no more effect on him than any of the rest. Chartrand did a great deal of Bowmanville's gunning last night, but Gilfillan at centre also tore a good many hot ones at the Peterborough goalie. Thornton, the new man to the Peterborough defence, who has taken Mulholland's place, who is sick and unable to play, teamed up well beside Holland and the both turned into a first-class game, both offensively and defensively. Thornton made rush after rush and when it came to stopping rushes, he and French were always there.

With the spectators all fenced in behind chicken wire they had little chance of getting at the players. Both teams turned into a good, clean game, with very little rough stuff. Referee Jacobi, who handled the bell, had a great deal to do with keeping the game clean, as he warned the boys before the game started and he also sent them to the penalty box for any trip that looked fishy.

Lebarr Penalized.

In the first period Lebarr, the local goal minder, was penalized when he made a slash at the puck behind the net and hit Chartrand's stick. Williams took his place in the nets and he made a couple of nice saves, one especially on a close-in shot of Chartrand's. The Bowmanville boys forced the play while Lebarr was off, but they were watched too closely to get a chance to score.

Cheu scored on a close-in shot, two minutes after the go-in of the first period and when the period ended they still had the game, while Bowmanville were still without any.

Goal Not Counted.

Early in the second period Harry Cheu, after making a nice rush down the boards, went rather far into the corner, his shot landing in the net and rebounding out again, only to have H. McDougal rush in and poke it past the goalie, who was dumfounded. The goal umpire signalled it in, but Referee Jacobi said that it must have gone through the end of the net as it was impossible to get it in the mouth of the net from where Cheu shot and the goal was not counted.

In last night's battle there wasn't much to pick from the Petes' team, outside of Lebarr in the nets, who turned in a wonderful game, for which he deserves credit. Holland and Thornton both turned in a good game, while Thornton [illegible] best game of the season. Cheu at left [illegible] back-checking and [illegible] were features of the game.

N. Collins, on the other wing played his position well and passed nicely, while H. McDougal at [illegible], was all over the ice at once and seemed to pop up in the way of the Bowmanville puck carried every time. The subs were equally as well as the rest and their back-checking was good.

For Bowmanville the outstanding player was Martin in goal. He played a whirlwind of a game in which he stopped shot after shot that looked like hobe runs. Hooper on defence was very good and his rushes were always dangerous. Condon, who teamed up beside him, also turned in a first class game. Gilfillan at centre was very good, but he is not in it with "Schrimp" McDougal.

Chartrand on left wing, was the big gun for the Bowmanville team, while Tuxton also packs a wicked shot and he is a good back-checker. Cameron and Cowle, the two subs, were very good, and their rushes were always dangerous.

Referee Jacobi of Toronto, handled the bell satisfactorily, and anything he missed wasn't worth getting.

The teams lined up as follows:

Peterborough—Goal, Lebarr; defence, Holland and Thornton; centre, H. McDougal; right wing, N. Collins; left wing, H. Cheu. Subs, M. McDougal and Williams.

Bowmanville— Goal, Martin; defence, Hooper and Condon; centre, Gilfillan; right wing, Tuxton; left wing, Chatrand. Subs, Cameron and Cowle.

First Period.

From the face-off till the gong sounded there was no let-up. The pace set by the Petes' forwards was very fast and the Bowmanville boys found it hard to keep up, but by subbing quite frequently they stayed with the Petes and several times threatened the local goal.

Tuxton broke away and took a long shot that his against Lebarr's pads. Petes' forwards combined in a combiantion rush, Cheu taking the shot that was dead on, but no results. Holland carried the puck the length of the ice on a lone rush, was forced into the corner before he got his shot. After two minutes of fast playing Cheu scored on a close-in shot, giving the goalie little chance to save. The Petes still forced the play, but could not push the puck past Martin from any angle of the ice box. For three minutes steady the Petes [illegible] Martin in the Bowman[illegible], but he was too good or too lucky for them. Bowmanville defence broke away for several jaunts down the ice, but their long shots were handled nicely by Lebarr.

Chartrand took a point blank shot but Lebarr stood in the way. H. McDougall circled through the entire team, but shot wild when close in on the nets. Cameron drew the first penalty of the game for holding H. McDougal and a few minutes later Lebarr was chased from his citadel when he made a swat at the puck and hit Chartrand's stick. Williams took his place in the goal and made a good job of it. Gilfillan bored a hot one at Williams who saved like an old veteran of the nets.

Chartrand was hurt when he collided with the boards. Lebarr returned in time to make a beautiful save on Hooper's close-in shot. The Petes peppered Martin with shots for the rest of the period, but when the gong sounded the score stood—Peterborough 1, Bowmanville 0.

Second Period.

The second period opened up every bit as fast as the first, with the Petes still having a little the better of the play. Cheu bounced a hot one off the goalie's chest. Hooper came back and drilled a wicked ont at Lebarr, that just missed his head.

Cheu took a corner shot after a nice rush, the puck going through the corner of the net and bounding out again for H. McDougal to bat it in. This goal was not counted.

Gilfillan took a trip to the penalty box for tripping. Hooper was warned for riding. H. McDougal, N. Collins, and Cheu combined in a nice rush, the latter taking a pass but missing the net by a hairs-breadth.

Cordan was chased for tripping H. McDougal when he was right on top of the goalie.

Thornton took a wicked shot at Martin, who leaped in the way of it ,not knowing whether it would go through him or not. Collins drew a penalty for riding Chartrand. Lebarr cleared nicely on Chartrand's shot. Cordon drew his second penalty for tripping.

For the next few minutes Bowmanville forced the play, but could not score. Cheu was chased for riding Cameron. M. McDougal went through for a nice dash, but the goalminder was once more in the road.

Peterborough 1, Bowmanville 0.

Third Period.

The third period opened with Cheu being benched for tripping Cordon, Lebarr saved nicely on Luxton's close-in shot. For the next few minutes the tide changed with Bowmanville forcing the play. They swarmed around the Peterborough net like a bunch of bees, but Lebarr was unbeatable. H. McDougal was benched for interfering with Gilfillan. Hooper followed him for tripping Holland.

For the last eight minutes the Petes had the best of the play, while Lebarr in the nets was tested with a good many hot shots. Chartrand, whom the Petes were watching very closely, got away once more and raced in on Lebart, who cleared nicely. Cordon and Chartrand combined in a beautiful piece of work, but Thornton stopped them handily.

Cordon was benched for upsetting Williams into the boards.

The neatest goal of the evening came one minute and thirty seconds before the finish. Cheu carried the puck down centre ice, and when he came to the defence he slipped it nicely to H. McDougal, who carried in for the Petes' second counter.

When the game ended the score stood—

Peterborough 2, Bowmanville 0

WILL BLUEGE K. O. KID JINX?

BLUEGE

Will third base continue to be a weak spot in the lineup of the Washington Nationals? This position has been a jinx to every Washington manager, since Eddie Foster departed. A dozen players have been tried out since but none have made the grade.

Last spring it was hoped that Bill Conroy, who had played such good ball for Minneapolis in the American Association would come through. Illness o affected the play of Conroy that he was eliminated before the middle of the season.

The one hope of Nationals for third base is Osee Bluege. This youngster has the ability. Last season injuries forced him out of the lineup three or four times, just when he seemed to have established himself.

Clarke Griffith is banking on Bluege and feels that he is due to come through this year.

A ONE GOAL LEAD

NIAGARA FALS, Feb. 26—(Canadian Press)—Local hockey team secured one goal lead on Collingwood here last night, defeating shipbuilding town 4 to 3 in first game of O.H.A. intermediate third round playoff. Return game will be played at Collingwood Thursday night. Record crowd witnessed battle. About 1,000 of those present were from Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Buffala. St. Catharines and the entire peninsula was well represented.

Game was one of the fastest witnesed here this season, both teams set terrific pace, and kept it up until dying stages of final period when fast travelling told on them, and play slackened some.

Score is fair indicaion of play.

LOST SIX-ROUND GO.

BUFFALO, February 26 (Canadian Press). — Young Stribling, of Macon, Ga., contender for Mike McTigue's light heavyweight crown, lost a six-round decision to Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, here last night.

Stribling's chances of victory slipped from his grasp when Slattery tore into him at the opening of the last round, traded punches into the centre of the ring, and forced him to cover.

The bout was nearly an even break at the end of the fifth.

After the first minute of the sixth, when Stribling took two hard jabs to the jaw without return, the Georgia youth's aggressiveness melted rapidly.

Before the end of the round he was forced to hang on to escape the Buffalo boy's ripping in-fighting.

CAMPBELLFORD GIRLS WIN LAKEFIELD SERIES

Were Defeated in Cement Town Last Night By 6-4, But Carried Off the Round By 13-10 — Capacity Crowd Saw Interesting Match.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 26.—Although they were defeated here last night by the score of 6 goal to 4 by the local girls' team, Charlie Davidson's girls of Campbellford won the round by 13 goals to 10, and will move up to the next stage of the L.O.H.A. elimination series. The rink was packed with the biggest crowd in its history attracted by the double bill with Campbellford, the senior men's team of the Trent town meeting Lakefield's O.H.A. intermediate, and taking home the short end of the 6-1 score in a fast and exciting exhibition game.

The girls lined up as follows:

Campbellford—Goal, Harriet Potts defence, Eleanor Ferris and K. Dolman; centre, Grace Blue; right wing, H. Wood; left wing, E. Irwin; subs, I. Davidson and H. Lebrush.

Lakefield—Goal, W. Batten; defence, Mary Mackenzie and S. Lennox; centre, E. Northey; right wing, J. Ridpath; left wing, F. Mackenzie; subs, H. Burgess and B. Mackenzie.

Referee—Reg. Murdoff.

Mary Mackenzie started Lakefield in the scoring a few minutes after the face off, and Jean Ridpath shot home on another from Mary Mackenzie who made it three on a lone effort. Stella Lennox banged one in from a scrummage and Grace Blue dropped in a long high one from near centre.

In the second period Grace Blue improved Campbellford's position to 4-2, and Miss Dolman sandwiched a distance shot against the twine between two counters by Evelyn Northey. The second period ended 6-3, for Lakefield.

Grace Blue scored the last goal of the game in the final period from outside the defence. The girls played good hockey. Campbellford missed Verna Shore, their captain, but the team was steady and had a comfortable lead to defend without much worry.

Lakefield deserved their victory and only the capable Harriet Potts kept the score safe for Campbellford. All the Lakefield girls played well, the usual stars scintillating again.

Golf Banned in Camp of Tygers

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 25.—Golf has been banned on the Detroit American League Baseball Club, reports from the Tiger training camp at Augusta, say. Manager Cobb confiscated several sets of mashies, midirons, drivers and spoons to-day from the baggage of the players and issued an edict against the Scotch pastime.

Twenty players have reported out of the 38 ordered to camp.

Billy Evans Says

The fight game is a severe one, physically. However, failure to be properly conditioned often is the reason for a fighter taking much punishment that could otherwise be avoided. Baseball takes a lot out of the athlete, but many of the star players have done their best work between 30 and 40. Take the cases of Johnson, Cobb, Speaker, Collins and many others. True, Jack Britton is to be much commended for being able to step along with the best boys of his weight at the age of 40, his status is somethong of a knock to a majority of the fighters who usually pass out before they have reached the 30 mark.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Says Glass of Salts Helps to Overcome Rheumatism Acid

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kinds.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

"PRICE OF YOUTH"

PARIS.—The "price of youth" is soaring. Chimpanzees, from which glands are removed for human transformation, are selling for around $400 apiece. A few months ago, one could be bought for approximately $250. And the demand for them has become so great that the governor of French West Africa has prohibited their shooting or capture without special permission.

RICKARD OFFERS BOUT TO CHILEAN

Dempsey's Manager Has No Definite Agreement With Firpo But Talk of Opposition May Help.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.. — Jack Dempsey may be called on to defend his heavyweight championship against a new South American menace next fall, if present plans of Tex Rickard materialize.

The promoter announced to-day that he had guaranteed Quintin Romero-Rojas, Chilean heavyweight, a purse of $100,000 for a title fight with Jack Dempsey, possibly in September, if he succeeds in disposing of three preliminary opponents. Rickard has come to a definite agreement with the Chilean and cabled the boxer to-day to fix the earliest possible date on which he can reach this country.

Romero-Rojas has been offered the same opportunity to gain ring fame and financial reward that fell to Luis Angel Firpo last year, Rickard said, adding that reports reaching him justified the prediction that the Chilean night prove an even greater sensation than the Argentine, who gained a match with Dempsey after cutting a wide swath through heavyweight ranks.

At the same time, Rickard revealed that he has no definite agreement with Firpo for a return match with Dempsey and that he may abandon plans for each contest if Romero-Rojas demonstrates that he is a fit challenger for the champion. The promoter made it plain that he is dissatisfied with Firpo's failure to respond to recent overtures for matches here this year and was ready to cancel the Argentine's proposed part in his heavyweight programme unless the "Wild Bull" assumes a different attitude.

MARMORA TEAM LOST IN TWEED

Students Defeated By 4-3 But Series Not Yet Concluded For Trent High School Title.

MARMORA, Feb. 26—In spite of the recent storm, Marmora High School Hockey boys went to Tweed Friday night and in a clash with Tweed youngsters went down to defeat after a hard fought game, taking the small end of the 4-3 score.

In the first period both teams scored one, the second, Marmora scored another while Tweed kept the single score, and in the third the Marmora boys took a temporary vacation and scored only one and let the Tweed puck chasers pop in three.

Tweed carried off first prize in regard to penalties also, as they journeyed to the fence four times to Marmora's once. Neal, Brady and Auger did Marmora's scoring and Tweed got their bag of four from the guns of Blakely, Faucett and Geraldi.

Referee Tom Beatty handled the game in a very efficient manner.

The teams were:

Marmora—Goal, C. Neal; defence, Murphy, Hughes; centre, M. Auger; wings, Brady, R. Neal; subs, Sweet and Wells.

Tweed—Goal, G. Quinn; defence, Blakely, Elliott; centre, Faucett; wings, M. Geraldi, Bushotte; subs., M. Quinn.

Still Have Chance.

Friday night's game would have given Marmora the Trent Valley High School League honors if they had won but although they lost the game they still have a chance to get the cup. Madoc has given Marmora a protested game, and this evens the matter again. It is announced that the dispute will be settled by home and home games, goals to count.

A large number of rooters accompanied the team to Tweed including Mr. Frank Lynch, Mr. Allen McGarvey; Mr. Jack Brady, Mr. A. T .Neal, Mr. Shannon, Mr. A. T. Neal, Mr. J. P. Marvin, Mr. P. J. Flynn, Mr. Crawford and Mr. Maloney.

After the game the girls of Tweed High School entertained the two hockey teams at the High School.

MOORE SOLD TO WHITE SOX.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 25.—Roy Moore, a left handed pitcher, has been sold by the Detroit Tigers to the Chicago White Sox at the waiver price, it was learned to-day.

Moore was obtained fom Philadelphia Americans in 1922 at the waiver price. Last year he pitched for Birmingham in the Southern Association, but was recalled this year.

AN AWFUL ATTACK OF PIMPLES ALL OVER HIS FACE

Pimples breaking out on the face and other parts of the body is a sure sign that the blood is not in proper shape.

While the skin is the object of the attack the real seat of the disease is in the blood on account of the entire circulation being poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually banishes pimples and all other skin diseases as it goes right to the root of the trouble by cleansing and enriching the blood.

Mr. Conad Anderson, Kelfield, Sask., writes:—"A year ago I had an awful attack of pimples. They broke out all over my face and I could not get rid of them in any way. One day a friend told me about your Burdock Blood Bitters and let me have a bottle he had to spare. After using it I noticed a change, so I bought three more bottles, and now I don't know there is such a thing as pimples."

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page—A pretty country girl, dreaming in her father's apple-orchard is hailed by

A Stranger—on horseback, extremely handsome and not averse to a flirtation when he sees the girl's beauty, although he takes her for a dairymaid.

Janet Mercer—Prudence's 28-year-old, clever friend has warned the girl that she is too "soft" but Prudence forgets the warning in listening to the handsome stranger.

CHAPTER III.

An Unpleasant Bit of News

"Yes. Tell me more," Prudence breathed, gazing up at him. "

"Women are so—so disillusioning. They take one's dreams, and break them, and one wakes up more sceptical than ever." (Had he forgotten that his hearer was nothing but a little country dairymaid?)

Prudence moved nearer the green hedge—and him. The appeal in his voice, his eyes, had hypnotized her, so that she scarcely knew the hot defence that tumbled forth.

"You're wrong, quite wrong. I know you are. There are heaps of wonderful girls in the world . . . sincere girls who mean every single word they say . . . who wouldn't stoop to deceive a man, but be loyal and true, and . . . and everything . . ."

Her voice caught on an odd little tremor, and there was a glisten in her pretty eyes betokening tears. It hurt, actually hurt, to think that a man so amazingly attractive, so—so lovable—could have been ill-treated by some hateful creature unworthy of the name of woman!

If only she—Prudence could make it up to him! If only she were rich and gay and clever—

"Jove! The little soul is capable of real emotion!" thought the man, an unaccustomed thrill faintly stirring his jaded pulses.

It would be a new sensation to play on these emotions, to call forth charming melodies from an instrument at once so highly-strung and so responsive.

Before the mirror in her long, low-ceiled sleeping-chamber stood Miss Prudence Page, twisting and turning impatiently to get an adequate glimpse of her own charming self in the foot-square bit of glass that was set upon the dressing-table.

Prudence was going to a garden-party at the Towers. Her frock was apple-green, and her hat large and drooping, with a spray of blossoms round it. Her face was an enchanting picture in that frame, but the girl was filled with nervous apprehension, and a fear that she was badly dressed.

"Do I look awful, Janet?" she asked of her staunch friend, who was also bidden to the feast.

"Awful? You look adorable, you silly child!" responded Janet brusquely and honestly. "You ought to be labelled 'The Promise of Spring' in that frock. You're right in fashion, too, for I hear that green is all the rage."

"Almond green, not apple green," corrected Prudence. Then she added, with a sigh:

"The women up at the Towers will wear such lovely gowns, I'm terrified to go among them."

"Nonsense, girl. You'll look—"

"Oh, I know what you're going to say. 'Like a cottage daisy or a cabbage-rose among the orchids,' Prudence laughed mirthlessly. "But that doesn't give me confidence. I can't think why Mrs. Vansittart asks me."

"Then I can," responded Janet tartly. "It's because you're young and fresh and pretty, and a treat to look at, among those painted hags. They're a silly, empty-headed crowd, though I'll say Mrs. Vansittart is better than her friends, easily imposed upon and selfish as she is."

The two girls set off for their destination. It was a daily walk for Janet. One of Mrs. Vansittart's little girls was delicate, and needed treatment every afternoon. Janet was a clever masseuse, and well-paid.

"The goings-on of that crowd make me tired," continued the latter, as they walked along. "And the queer part is that, in spite of all the noise and racket, they don't really seem to have a good time, after all. Yesterday I had a square look at that Virginia Dale girl, and—believe me—her eyes were old as Egypt!"

"But she's quite a beauty," breathed Prudence in awed fashion. "I've often thought she was the loveliest thing I've efver seen."

"Then you haven't seen much," retorted Janet grimly. "Most of her complexion's on the dressing-table, not to speak of a few odd curls and other 'aids.' She's simply terrified of getting fat, too. Had the impudence to call me into her room the other day when I was passing, and ask me to give her half an hour's massage, and what would my fee for a course be?

"'Are you ill?' I said, very downright. At that, she gave me a high-and-mighty look down that saucy nose of hers, as though I were one of the maids who'd forgotten her place, and drawled: 'My good woman, don't you know that massage is used for keeping the figure slim?' 'I work under doctor's orders only,' I flung back at her. 'I'm a medical nurse and not a beauty specialist. If you want to keep your figure, eat and drink less, and knock off the wines.'

"She went straight to Mrs. Vansittart and complained that I'd been insolent to her, but Mrs. Vansittart only laughed, and said she shouldn't turn up her nose at good advice!"

"Oh, Janet, how could you?" Prudence 's eyes were wide.

"Poof! I'm not afraid of any woman. And I've no respect for the idle rich. They're not real ladies and gentlemen, for they take more out of the world than they put into it. There's only one man I've ever met at Winston Towers who could come up to Bernard Shaw's definition, and that's Peter Armstrong, the inventor."

"Definition of what?" asked Prudence, puzzled.

"Of a gentleman, my dear. Peter Armstrong puts more into life than he takes from it, if you get my meaning. He's a fiend for work. He's rented that tumble-down little place not far from where you live—called Pear-tree Cottage—and he's built a small laboratory where he can conduct his experiments.

"Though his hands are often stained with chemicals and his nails haven't the blinding polish so much in vogue at Winston Towers, believe me, he's a real gentleman in the best sense of the word.

"Little Lucia, my patient, who's got a weak back and suffers a good deal, was crying yesterday in the nursery, before I came—she thought I wasn't going to show up, and was disappointed for the massage relieves her—and Peter Armstrong, who'd been asked to lunch, happened to hear her, and went in and told her fairy-stories for an hour.

"Any man who's kind to children has a lot of good in him, and Lucia fairly worships him."

A glad thought darted through the other's mind. The good-looking stranger on horseback? Could it be the same?

"Is Mr. Armstrong rather slim, and fair, and very handsome?" she timidly inquired. It must be . . . Even little Lucia had felt his fascination . . .

Janet's lip curled.

"Not he! I detest handsome men. They're conceited apes, the most of them. Armstrong's a big, broad-shouldered fellow, dark and sunburnt. Fine teeth and eyes, and lots of strength. A real man's man, and no 'lounge-lizard,' no beauty-box, except in so far as handsome is as handsome does!"

Prudence's face had fallen, momentarily. Then she said as though to herself:

"I wonder who the other could have been?"

Janet soon was listening to the story of the passing horseman. At its conclusion she pursed her lips and looked rather queer.

"That was the Traymore fellow I imagine. He's a hanger-on of Miss Virginia Dale's."

In Tomorrow's Instalment Prudence is Rescued at the Eleventh Hour.

THE VICE SKIPS BONSPIEL AWAY

Got Thinned Down as Far as the Third Round Last Night--Finish Up Tonight.

Last evening the Vice-Skips' Bonspiel got away to a good start. The games were played up into the third round, and the finals will likely be run off to-night. Some very good games were played, while several skips lost their chances by default. Those left in the third round are King, Wiley, Potvin and Chenhall. These men are all high pressure curlers, and the finish promises to be a close one. Thirty-eight rinks started but there is only four that have got into the third round. There are still four more rinks to go into this round. Thirty-eight rinks started but there are only eight that have a chance. When the fourth round is reached there will only be four rinks to fight it out.

Results of last night's games:

G. Benor defaulted to Chris. Graham.

G. Greene 8, J. Marshal 10.

M. J. Duffus 13, Geo. Cairns 10.

J. Howden 12, J. Brightman 3.

C. R. Larmer 14, N. Routley 5.

W. Thompson defaulted to McLean.

PLAY KINGSTON FRIDAY NIGHT

Return Junior Game Will Take Place Here on Monday.

The Peterborough Juniors will meet the Circle Six team of Kingston in the third round of the O.H.A. series, the first game in Kingston on Friday night and the return here on Monday night.

The winner of this series will clean up the Eastern Ontario District and go into the Junior semi-finals.

The Kingston outfit beat Belleville 8 to 1 last night in a play-off game at Port Hope, and the first arrangements called for the Petes to play in Kingston to-morrow night. The Harty Arena was not available, however, and finally Friday night was selected for the opening game.

The Intermediates have received no orders as to their next series. They are practising faithfully, however, and will be in good shape when called upon. Meanwhile they are trying to guess the name of their next opponents.

The Niagara Falls outfit were selected as most likely to qualify, but the stand made by Collingwood in the Falls last night, when they were only beaten by one goal, makes the shipbuilders look, like real contenders.

The other teams still in the running are Guelph and New Hamburg, who clash on Wednesday and Friday nights, which means that by the end of the week the big race will be down to three teams, Peterborough representing the East and the survivors of the two clashes this week.

OSHAWA ARE STRONGER THAN IN O.H.A. RACE

Expect to Beat Petes and Lift Brown Cup To-morrow Night.

The addition of Micky Murray and Carter the star Port Hope defence man to Oshawa lineup for to-morrow night's Brown Challenge Cup at Brock street rink gives the motor town aggregation a good chance to lift the trophy which was won last year by the Petes and which in accordance with the conditions attached to the gift of the cup they are now called upon to defend. The fact that the blue shirts were idle in the O.H.A. campaign this week gave Oshawa a chance to challenge and Ed. Donald's green and white sweatered lads who gave the home talent such a hard battle in the O.H.A. race figure they can carry off the trophy. With Murray in goal Williams the heady ex-Bowmanville player teaming up with the speedy Carter on the defence and a forward line composed of Rowden Houck and Lowe and a couple of the junior stars for subs, Oshawa figures they are twenty-five per cent. stronger than in the O.H.A. campaign. If there calculations are correct the Petes are in for one busy night. The proceeds will be turned over to the Rotary Club for the Crippled Children's Work.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

Another good picture lines up with recent super-excellent Capitol films in "Big Brother," with Tom Moore in the title role. Told in a manner that brings out to the utmost the heart interest of the tale, it pictures in vivid fashion the life of the East Side dwellers of New York City, and has for a hero one of its most noted gangsters. The Boss of the Underworld, tough, hardened, reckless, inherits from a dying pal the care of the little Midge Murray, who yearns to be a great big, blustering ruffian like his daddy and all the rest of the gang. And To mMoore, as his "big brother," starts in to keep the kid straight and eventually goes straight himself. The reformation of the gangster, head of a desperate, roistering group of criminals, is told in the pathos and humour of an enchanting story.

Tom Moore has a splendid role as Jimmy Donovan, the boss of the gang, and has a strong supporting cast. Edith Roberts is Kitty Costello, the angel of the district, and Raymond Hatton plays the part of Cokey Joe, the dope fiend who tries to instill in the seven-yearold Midge a fondness for the white 'snow.' The Carbarn gang rules the precinct, and Donovan is overlord until Midge claims his attention. Involved in his efforts to go straight and bring the child up in a proper way are many pitfalls. The probation officers take Midge from him and place the boy in an orphanage. Then Kitty is menaced by the gangsters when they attempt to rob her of the payroll of the company in whose office she is employed, and Jimmy is compelled to turn against his own men to protect her. The blame for the robbery is placed on his shoulders and when he recovers the money he is shot by Cokey Joe. In the hospital, the gangster and his little charge are re-united and everything ends splendidly.

"Big Brother" is one of those pictrues that has to be seen to be appreciated. The art of the producer, Allan Dwan, adds so many of the pathetic and humorous little touches that go to make up one of those attractive and appealing heart interest pictures that usually illustrate a splendid moral without sermonizing or tiresome preaching.

The popular Bobby Vernon has the stellar role in a scream of a comedy, "A Perfect 36."

AT THE REGENT

MASTERLY DIRECTION OF MAURICE TOURNEUR MAKES "THE WHIP" A TRULY WONDERFUL PICTURE.

Maurice Tourneur, the famous director, is responsible for the intensity and thrilling action of "The Whip." Mr. Tourneur directed this tremendous production for Paragon Films Inc., and into this picture he has put everything that appeals to everyone who sees motion pictures.

Mr. Tourneur is a master of his craft. He knows how to get the push, the thrills, and the throbs into a picture in the most striking and effective manner. In several instances in "The Whip" he has directed scenes that will stand for ever as among the most memorable the screen has ever seen.

Among these scenes may be enumerated the thrilling train wreck staged at an actual expense of $25,000 just for this picture alone; the automobile wreck, absolutely the most sensational ever seen in the movies; the wonderful racing track scenes taken at the famous Saratoga race track, and the remarkable scenes of a fashionable fox hunt.

While the many big scenes definitely set "The Whip" apart from all other film productions as the world's biggest motion picture, the best part of the picture is the fact that the success of the film does not depend upon the big scenes alone. The story itself is immensely entertaining, is of tsaieudn vNI thmn taining, is of sustained interest, has a big punch, is consistently told, and is thoroughly pleasing. With all these things "The Whip" is easily the world's biggest motion picture.

At the Regent Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday.

AT THE ROYAL

TULLY'S PRODUCTION OF "TRILBY" A MASTERPIECE

The significance of Du Maurier's "Trilby" as one of the greatest romances of all time prompted keen anticipation on the part of this reviewer, when it was made known that Richard Walton Tully, himself perhaps the foremost of our contemporary playwright-producers, had dedicated himself to the task of immortalizing it on the screen as a First National attractidn. Thus it was that visitors to the Royal last evening were prepared to witness a masterly production.

And they were not disappointed. Almost at the outset we realized that "Trilby" had been brought to life, its fascinating characters made real. A Trilby adorable in form and feature, adorable in the odd contradictions of her nature, stood before us. A Svengali who coincided with our mental image, that sinister vagabond musician-mesmerist, long since deftly planted in memory by Du Maurier's word paintings, wove his spells—not only on the heroine, we opine, but on spectators as well. Here is finished artistry. A "Little Billee" whose sensitiveness vibrated from the screen; a bluff Taffy, a lovable Laird—and so it goes through the gamut of characters—realism! "Trilby" is a romantic story which has charmed readers for a decade. It was, in the early nineties, not one of the "six best sellers," but the one best—it was a furore, a sensation. While the younger generation may be less familiar with it, one wonders if they will not, for that reason, be more firmly gripped by its suspense, its change of moods, its altogether unsuspected ending. Refraining from a sketch of the plot for that reason, the piece is commended equally to those who have read the novel and those who have not. "Trilby is indeed worthwhile.

CLEAN, CLEVER VAUDEVILLE

Two vaudeville novelties now at the Royal are both worthy of special mention. Moore and Shy, in a study in contrast. One of the members of this team weighs four hundred pounds while the other is a midget. Their clever talk is written around their physical appearance and supplies plenty of laughs. This act is a distinct novelty. Irving and Ellwood offer some high-class harmony singing that was enthusiastically encored last night. Both acts are clean and refined and should more than please Royal patrons.

DOROTHY GISH PLAYS LEAD TO BARTHELMESS

Richard Barthelmess seems to have a penchant that calls for a new leading lady in each succeeding picture that he makes. At least, during the past year this has been the case, but even so, none can deny that Barthelmess has mighty good taste in choosing feminine support. His latest selection is the sprightly and charming Dorothy Gish, who will be seen with him in his new First National starring vehicle, "Fury," at the Royal Theatre Thursday.

Miss Gish has the role of a little boarding house slavey in Limehouse, London, with whom Barthelmess, as the bashful second mate of a four-masted schooner, falls in love. She is said to give one of her most appealing delineations.

The elopement plans of "Boy" Leyton and Minnie are spoiled, however, by the death of the lad's father, the captain. Before dying Captain Leyton gets his son to promise vengeance against the man who had wronged his mother before he weds Minnie. The bashfulness of "Boy" completely disappears and he becomes the central figure of a great romance and tragedy of the sea.

AT THE GRAND

"PADDY, THE NEXT BEST THING."

Th clever acting of Mae Marsh, one of the most convincing and engaging of film stars, a double love story that is full of romance and charm, an exciting rescue of the heroine mired in quick sand and lost in a fog, and some really beautiful pictures of Irish scenery, are the principal factors that make "Paddy-The-Next-Best-Thing," the feature picture at the Grand the first two days of this week, a source of rich enjoyment.

The role of Paddy, the girl who should have been a boy, tries to take the place of one, and finds out in the end that she is only a woman after all, might have been made for Mae Marsh, whose whimsical charm, makes the place stand out as one of the best screen characterizations that has been seen here. The story is logical and well developed, there are comedy elements that liven the action, and altogether "Paddy-The-Next-Best-Thing," is much more enjoyable and wholesome than a lot of so-called bigger pictures, heralded with blare of trumpets and eventually proving to be very ordinary, to say the least. The cast supporting Miss Marsh has been well selected, and there are no weaknesses anywhere, while the photography is unusually good, some glimpses of Irish scenery being given that will linger in the memory of those who see this most entertaining picture. Such releases as "Paddy-The-Next-Best Thing," are refreshing in their wholesome atmosphere and genuine realism compared with the Jazz, lounge, lizard productions that some of the promoters seem to think the public is craving for.

A lively comedy and a novel scenic film succeed the feautre picture, while the Grand's eight-piece orchestra renders a very enjoyable musical programme that provides a very effective accompaniment to the pictures.

The attractive bill will be repeated at the Grand to-night while tomorrow night the mystery stage play, "The Cat and the Canary, will be the attraction, followed for the balance of the week by another de luxe picture programme.

"THE CAT AND THE CANARY"

"The Cat and the Canary," without doubt the spookiest and most exciting play of its kind, will be the attraction at the Grand tomorrow night.

The story of John Willard's play has a young girl for a central figure. Left a large fortune by an eccentric relative, she is subjected to mental and physical tortures by unseen beings with the intention of driving her insane or killing her in order that the fortune may go to another heir. Mr. Willard has placed his story in a weird setting. The legator has decreed that his surviving relatives should assemble in the room where he died, twenty years after his death. The latter took place at the midnight hour and at that uncanny time the will is to be read to them. Six of the relatives with the lawyer who drew up the will come to this lonely mansion on the banks of the Hudson. They learn that the property is to go to the girl, Annabelle West. Then the weird, hair-raising episodes begin to occur. Men disappear through apparently solid walls a murder is committed, dangerous lunatics with claw-like hands prowl around and a necklace is mysteriously snatched from the neck of a sleeping girl. All of these occurrences are logically brought about and furnish no end of thrills to an audience. But, it is not all chills and thrills. There are as many laughs and good hearty ones, too, in the play. Much of the comedy is furnished by the audience itself. Screams and yells are emitted by the spectators, particularly the feminine portion of the audience, at the sudden opening of a door or some similar occurrence which proves to be perfectly harmless and commonplace, making the shout of terror ridiculous.

The company that will present "The Cat and the Canary" is practically the same as that seen in the play during its long run at the National Theatre, New York City. In the cast are Sylvia Field, Virginia Howell, Clara Verdera, Florence Huntington, Percy Moore, Edmund Elton, Carl Eckstrom, Ryder Keane, Walter Regan and Franklyn Fox.

AMERICAN PLAY WRITER DIES FROM HARD WORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press).—George Randolph Chester, author and playwright, died here suddenly early to-day at the age of 55 years.

Mr. Chester and his wife worked late last night on a new story, and before retiring he complained of pains in his chest. At five o'clock this morning he awakened his wife and said to her: "You know dear, I love you." He dropped back on his pillow dead from heart failure.

Mr. Chester left his Ohio home at an early age and engaged in various occupations. Beginning in newspaper work as a reporter on the Detroit News, he rose to become one of the nation's most popular writers of fiction, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" and "Blackie Daw" were two of his most famous fictional characters.

Financial News and Views

Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — New York Stock Exchange and Curb Pri...

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(Special.)—Some concern was aroused in the financial community by the success of the Democrats and Republican insurgents inserting an amendment to the tax bill increasing the rate of inheritances. But this was slightly offset by the number of brilliant corporation reports which appeared over night.

American Locomotives extraordinary showing of $12.25 a share in 1923, against $4.40 on the preferred for 1922 was easily the best.

Tobacco products was unchanged at 62 3-4, making no response to the sale to banking interests of Montgomery Ward shares it acquired in the dissolution of United Retail Stores.

Industrials displayed a better tone through the first hour under the leadership of Studebaker, which rallied nearly two points to 101 1-2 on the report that the proposed capital readjustment was a step toward the increase in the annual dividend.

Steel Common came back more than a point from Monday's low and other industrial leaders recovered proportionately. American Locomotives response to the 1923 report was disappointing.

DOHERTY HAD FIGURES REVERSED SAID NICKLE DEFICIT WAS $15,000,000

The Attorney - General in Budget Debate Pointed Out Effects of the Drury Government's Under-Estimation of Revenue and of Taking Thirteen Months For Their Fiscal Year — Left Legacy of Payments For Ferguson

NEW BOOK-KEEPING.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Supporting the declaration by the Provincial Treasurer that in 1923 Ontario had a deficit of $15,000,000, Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General, yesterday made his contribution to the budget debate in the Legislature. He went into figures deeply to show where the deficit existed and repeated charges of bungled finance by the preceding Government.

Mr. Nickle said that the Government in presenting the budget was following closely the policy announced by the party when in opposition. He replied to the criticism by Harold Fisher (Lib., West Ottawa) that the Legislature would vote on all expenditures by stating that Mr. Fisher overlooked the fact that the Legislature only met once a year and that between times accounts were bound to come up needing expenditure.

The Government had the right to supplement moneys voted and to raise money by special warrant for unforeseen accounts. The House was presented with full information in the Auditor General's report and the Legislature was amply protected.

He defended the establishment of a secretaryship for Northern Ontario on the ground that it would facilitate communication between the outlying frontiers of the Province and the seat of government.

Some Economics.

He said that the Government had cut out the $100,000 grant to the Compensation Board and would make it pay its own way, although the cost of paying the commissioners would still fall on the Government. He also defended the Premier taking the Department of Education on the ground of economy. He declared that the Liberals could not criticize the new system of bookkeeping beause they had advocated the change at the last session. He could excuse Mr. Fisher for his errors because he was a new member, "but I cannot excuse the leader of the U.F.O. (Mr. Sinclair) for his ignorance after he has come into this debate radiant with apparent wisdom." He wondered why Mr. Doherty had left the open spaces of the country and the lowing kine and the broad acres of his fathers to venture into Toronto.

The Provincial Treasurer, he said, had fulfilled his promise for the establishment of sound finance in the affairs of the Province. He had promised to make the public accounts so simple that he who ran might read and he had done so. "The main point to consider is, have we a deficit of $15,000,000? I say we have. We have, first because we have had inadequate revenue, and second because we have a new system of bookkeeping which we should have had a quarter of a century ago.

Year of 13 Months.

"We had $39,000,000 estimated for revenue and we only got $34,000,000. For the fiscal year of 1922 the Government of the day ran a month over and took 13 months into their fiscal year for revenue purposes. Therefore, as we closed our books sharp on the end of the fiscal year 1923, or Oct. 31, we had only eleven months' revenue, as the previous November had gone into 1922."

He contended that of ordinary revenue the U.F.O. Government had taken $700,0000 out of 1923 and put in their 1922 budget. Then came the succession duty of $1,600,000 from the John Eaton estate. This rightly belonged to 1923, but the U.F.O. Government took it for 1924 and paid a premium of $44,000 for doing so.

Other items which had been placed in the 1922 budget, which propertly belonged to 1923, were $280,000 from public institutions, $104,000 from motor licenses, $146,000 from amusement tax, $1,140,000 from succession tax.

In 1923 there was a shortage of $250,000 under the O.T.A., because the dispensary profits dwindled. There was $453,000 less interest from the Hydro because it did not use the amount of money it was expected it would use.

Department Increases.

Mr. Nickle said that in the year 1923 fifteen departments had spent less than was estimated and nine spent more than was estimated. In education $1,440,000 more was spent in 1923 than in 1922; in lands and forests, $464,000 more than in 1922; statutory expenditure, $5,525,000 more than in 1922; in highway maintenance, $1,900,000 more was spent in 1923 than in 1922.

He said, defending the bringing of many so-called extraordinary accounts into the ordinary, that they not productive accounts, and if kept being added to capital would some day eat the province up.

Mr. Nickle said that Mr. Doherty, in speaking of statutory expenditures of the two parties while in power had made a relative error of $24,000,000. In matters of ordinary expenditure Mr. Nickle admitted the figures given by Mr. Doherty that the Conservatives spent more in three and a half months than the Farmers did in eight a half.

"But Mr. Doherty did not tell the House that in education alone the U.F.O. Government left this Government a legacy of $4,250,000 to pay. Nor did he tell the House that they left us to pay $7,000,000 to the Hydro which might have been paid by them. Nor did he tell us that we had to pay the $2,125,000 to the T. and N. O. Railway, while they did not pay a cent to it. To be frank, without these payments which are obligatory, we spent the same proportion as the U.F.O. did."

Mr. Doherty: You don't suggest these payments were due while we were in power?

Mr Nickle: Yes I do. You spent it. We paid it.

Figures Reversed.

On the statutory expenditures of last year Mr. Doherty had contended that the Drury Government paid $16,000 000, while the Conservatives spent $28,000,000. Mr. Nickle said that Mr. Doherty had the figures reversed, and that he should have charged $28,000,000 to the U.F.O. and $16,000,000 to the new Government.

Mr. Nickle twitted Mr. Doherty with not knowing anything about the $400,000 paid to the Indians nor not having heard of it.

"I personally did not hear of it," said Mr Doherty.

Mr. Nickle: Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise. We had to pay that account because of an Order-in-Council passed by the late Government entering on agreement with the Federal Government to pay $400,000 to the Indians.

Mr. Doherty said that his figures would still stand, and brought the quotation from Mr. Nickle: "There are none so blind as those who will not see."

Can Recuperate.

Mr. Nickle said the net debt of unproductive or non-interest bearing expenditures was $109,000,000, upon which the interest charges were $5,500,000. He would not say that Ontario could not recuperate itself. With a people like Ontario had with the indomitable spirit of the British people anything could be done, and he was sure that the next few years would show a much stronger financial position than to-day He said that the previous Government had put such moneys as those paid to mothers' allowances in capital, yet they were not productive of interest. He agreed with the Provincial Treasurer that Ontario had lost $200,000 on loans made in New York by the late Government, but did not know whether because of "cupidity or stupidity."

In conclusion, he said a new high standard of public finance had been set by the new Government.

Liberals Neutral.

A Belanger said the Liberals were in the happy position of not having to play politics on the Budget. They could give it calm survey and tell the people the truth. He asked the Government to slow up on unappropriated expenditures. He declared that without delay the Government should appoint a commission to report on bookkeeping methods and finance. Legislation should follow the report so that Ontario for all time would have a proper basis for its Budget addresses.

"That legislation would settle for once and for all these wrangles about juggling of financial accounts," he said. A Budget speech, he said, should be the laying down of a policy for the future to give the people an idea of Government proposals. In this the Provincial Treasurer had dismally failed. There was not a word about the future. It spoke of a deficit, but did not say how the deficit was to be met and overcome. There would be additional expenditures for bounty on iron ore and the referendum. How were they to be met?

Mr. Belanger adjourned the debate at 6 o'clock, when the House adjourned.

MORTGAGE SAFE ON CREAMERIES

Private Capital Would Welcome Chance to Take Over Saskatchewan Co-operative Concerns.

REGINA, Feb. 27.-- (Canadian Press)—Money advanced to the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries is fully protected and more than covered by first mortages on the various plants, and the Government could take the concern over on the basis of the mortage by foreclosure if necessary and make a profit under good management according to Premier Dunning.

But the Government does not intend to go into the creamery business. That point was positively stated by Mr. Dunning at Tuesday's session of the enquiry into the affairs of the cooperative creameries not being conducted by the committee on agriculture.

The Premier stated he had not the slightest hesitation in saying he could personally organize a company that would be glad to take it over on the basis of the mortage. Tentative proposals from private capital had been made with that in view.

Witnesses were unanimous in declaring the $729,000 advanced to the company was safe and adequately protected. The estimate of the value of the buildings concerned is $1,400,000. That is the security without mentioning the uncalled upon stock to the face value of $500,000.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday morning we had it 7 below zero; this morning it was 2 below, making five days in succession of below zero, and 13 days for February. In January we had but 9 days. The lowest in January was 28 below; in February, 13 below.—W. P.

PEERS RETAIN SURNAMES.

LONDON, Feb. 26.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—All three of the new labor peers, Sir Sydney Olivier, secretary of state for India; Brig.-Gen. Christopher Thomson, Secretary of State for Air and Sydney Arnold, colonial under-secretary, retain their surnames in their titles. They thus follow the practice which seems to be popular among the peers crasted in recent years.

CHAIRMAN OF SCHOOL BOARD GIVES VERSION INTERVIEW

Mr. J. M. Greene Says He Does Not Believe in Hiding the Light Under a Bushel--The Electors Should Hear All Sides of the Issue.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

The letter of Mrs. W. R. Morris in your issue of Monday re the South Central School for Vocational training and the interview with the Educational Department by the local delegation last Friday in Toronto, interests me considerably, as being Chairman of the Board of Education here, and as I am responsible, perhaps, for the article headed, "Name South Central for Technical Work," in your issue of last Saturday.

I appreciate the fact, that I was not a regularly appointed delegate for the above duty, other than being Chairman of the Board, it was my right and privilege to accompany the said delegation in the interests of the ratepayers. This has not been questioned, but I merely mention it.

I do not see any occasion for Mrs. Morris to have made some of the caustic remarks she has, as the only item in question which might be taken exception to, in my interview with the Examiner, was, "The Minister of Education and Director of Technical training, who also heard the deputation were sympathetic toward the proposition, and promised to have the building inspected in order to judge of the merits of the proposal." And this is absolutely correct, as the other members of the deputation know. Furthermore, the Department is not anxious to influence the raising by the ratepayers of $400,000 or $500,000 for a combination or new school, if reasonable provision can be made in and on the South Central premises, which is now owned by the ratepayers.

The other matter in my Examiner interview was simply written up by the reporter, and I regret he omitted the name of Mr. E. F. Reid as being a member of the delegation in Toronto. The names of those comprising the delegation were not even mentioned by me to him.

Mrs. Morris says, "The statement in Friday's Examiner that (the project to use the South Central School as a Vocational School) would take the place of the proposed combination Technical and High School, shows complete ignorance of the facts. I want to say, that such a statement was not made, and she is taking a very uncertain stand and attitude in conveying to the public such a false impression. Let me say further, that the resolution for a deputation to visit the Department, as to the advisability of starting Vocational training in the South Central, was voted almost unanimously, at the meeting of the Advisory Vocational Committee. Why? Because all members were in favor of instituting Vocational training and NEARLY every member was anxious to keep down to the minimum in expense, and not further burden the municipality with a huge financial undertaking. Further, if such arrangement could be made, the South Central could be ready for Vocational Classes by September next, otherwise, if a Combination or a separate Technical is built, it would not be ready for occupancy until, at least September, 1925.

As far as withholding any information or data is concerned, it is not our duty nor the proper attitude as a public body responsible to the ratepayers in both making provisions for education and the spending of their money. Ideas can best be developed by conversing, and in such a public proposition as this, I do not believe in hiding the light under a bushel. There should be nothing to withhold from those who elect us to such responsible positions.

Allow me to say, that in my opinion, there was no occasion or reason why Mrs. Morris should take up this question as she has and as I was responsible for the correct information given, I consider it my duty to protect my position and statements, as all I am anxious for, is that the citizens will not find themselves in the position of straining at the gnat and swallowing a $400,000 camel.

I thank you Mr. Editor, and hope you will give the letter the same prominence in position and type as you gave to the article in question.

J. M. GREENE.
Chairman Peterborough Board of Education.

BEAVERBROOK REVIEWS POLITICAL PROSPECTS OF LABOUR GOVERNMENT

The Affair at Popular is One of Many That Might Confront the Present Government--MacDonald May Give in to Diehards.

RESULT UNCERTAIN

The British Labour Government is being attacked because of the attitude of the Health Minister Wheatley, a left wing Labourite, toward over-expenditure of funds by Radical officials of the London Borough of Poplar.

The affair is the first of an almost inevitable series of difficulties that must confront the moderate Labour Government in dealing with left wing members of their Party.

This problem, which has arisen this week in a critical manner, is discussed in the following article by Lord Beaverbrook, publisher of The London Daily Express, and one of the most astute political prophets in England.

Introduced Bill For Church Union

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press).—The Church Union Bill was introduced in the Legislature Tuesday afternoon. The motion for introduction was proposed by C. R. McKeown (Dufferin) and seconded by A. M. Rankin (Frontenac). Mr. McKeown is a Methodist and Mr. Rankin a Presbyterian. The bill as introduced simply embodies the clauses contained in the basis of union, providing for the uniting of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Churches into the United Church of Canada.

The general property is invested in the new United Church and the liabilities of the several churches assumed colleges of the various churches are also taken over by the United Church, according to the terms of the bill. Another clause states that any church not concurring may within six months after the coming into effect of the union take a vote on the matter.

If a majority prefer to stay out all the property of the said church, real and personal, stays with that church.

GIVE POLICE DEPARTMENT $25,000 AND REDUCE JUDGE'S SALARY WHEN ESTIMATES PASSED IN COMMITTEE

Unable to Strike a Budget as Low as Last Year the Council Will Ask the Board of Education to Attempt Reduction of $10,000--Alderman Demands Re-organization Police Department.

POISON PEN ARTIST BUSY

The wee small hours of this morning found the members of the City Council in committee of the whole still battling with the fragments of a $25,000 increase in estimates over last year which had only been cut $9,000 at midnight. Fighting every inch of the way and chopping a little here and a little there, with occasionally a really healthy slice as in the police estimates, the aldermen were at least compelled to pin their hopes for a tax equally low with last year's on the ability of the Board of Education to reduce its estimates by $10,000. Even this concession will fall a few hundreds of dollars short of the required decrease.

This amount of $25,000 by which the draft estimates of the various committees exceeded last year's appropriations represented a mill and a half on the dollar, which would have brought the tax rate for 1924 to 35 1-2 mills. This announcement at the opening of the proceedings shocked the aldermen into a realization of the problem they faced, and they bent right heartily to its solution, with the result that anything that could by any means be put in the unnecessary category was eliminated and many items on which the council had counted as certainties were sorrowfully abandoned "for this year."

Among the more notable reductions were the trimming of the police department estimates from $29,148 to $25,000 the decrease in the honorarium to His Honor Judge Huycke as chairman of the police commission from $300 to $100; and the cutting of the estimates of the property committee by $1,300, necesitating the abandonment of the proposed rest room for women.

Incident to the discussion of the police department estimates was an expression of lack of confidence in Chief of Police S. Newhall by Alderman J. Crowe and a demand for reorganization of the force voiced by Alderman M. J. Maher. The latter denounced the work of an unknown poison pen artist who, he said, wrote him insulting letters after each time he discussed the police question. He challenged this 'scurrilous writer" to disclose himself.

Dig one Hole to Fill Another

The first department to be considered was that under the heading "assessment and taxes," and here the committee dug one hole to fill another by chopping $100 from part time assistant's salary to be applied as an increase to the yearly salary of the assistant assessor. Alderman Morrison remarked that the lowest paid man on the police force receives $1,300 and clothing, and he felt that the assistant assessor was worth at least as much. His proposal for the $100 increase was seconded by Alderman McIntyre. The total in this department was decreased by $124 when the allowance for printing was reduced to the same amount spent last year.

The Fire Department estimate was trimmed by $70, emerging with a total of $37,000, this being $1257. less than last year's expenditure.

Heating, which last year cost $2,038.98 will this year only take $500 from the treasury, thanks to the supply of coal brought to the city by Miss Sophie Kohen and purchased at a low rate when seized by the sheriff to satisfy a judgment.

Market estimates were cut by $432 when it was decided in the interests of a low tax rate to abandon the plans formulated for paving the market square this year. Alderman Stocker's suggestion that cinders would form a good substitute was frowned upon.

A miscellaneous division, providing for deputations and extras, was reduced from $3,000 to $2,000.

Nine hundred dollars was the amount considered unnecessary in the estimates of the parks committee. Of this, $400 was for pruning and planting trees, an item covered by the Board of Works, and $500 was for the erection of monuments to the memory of the late Charlotte Nicholls. Alderman Maher suggested leaving the monuments for some future council to erect. "I am not personally opposed to these park memorials," he said, "but this is a most in opportune time." An item of $1000 in the parks committee estimates for improvements to Riverside Park met strong objections but was finally passed. Alderman Fife remarked that the unsightly corner at Burnham street should claim first place in the expenditure of this amount, and was assured that only a small part of it will be spent inside the fence. Some dwellings owned by the city on the property require repairing, and the sum is designed to cover that in addition to actual work on the park.

The property committee estimates were drawn up to include the making over of the south west corner of the city building as a rest room for women at a cost of $1,500, but this project became lost in the shuffle on motion of Aldermen Maher and Jones. Alderman Jones remarked that the city has done without this rest room for some time and can do with out it this year.

Alderman Fife: "It's a necessity and it is time we were doing it regardless of the tax rate.

Alderman Maher: "Couldn't a rest room be arranged on the second floor of some building in the business district, in a room that we could rent for a small sum?"

Alderman Fife: "You'll economize until you demoralize the working of the city and bring stagnation."

An item of $2000 for fuel for the Queen Mary Hospital caught the eye of Alderman Turner, who thought it too high.

Alderman Crowe remarked that the Fire Hall is heated for only $600 a year.

Alderman Turner: "I am informed on good authority that this isolation hospital can be run much more economically than it is now. There is no occasion for a heating bill of two thousand dollars."

Mr. Adams: "You have to pay the bills. You will have to take the matter up with the Board of Health."

Alderman Turner: "I think that we should prove that fuel bill."

Alderman Maher: "On looking at the other items for the hospital I think that by reducing the total es-

HASTY REFORMS DISASTROUS TO INDIAN PEOPLE

Lord Oliver, Secretary For India, Appeals For Patience With Present Scheme of Transition And Says Indians Can't Leap At Once Into Saddle of Self-Government.

HOLD GRIEVANCE.

LONDON, February 27 (Canadian Press). — Lord Oliver, Secretary for India, made his eagerly awaited speech on the Indian situation in the House of Lords yesterday, declaring that affairs in India caused the Government great anxiety.

Numerous reasons had been given him by Indian reformers, he said, for their avowed distrust in the British Government, where they allege there was anti-Indian favouritism in the public services, and a failure in financial reform. Moreover, there were certain rankling grievances like the Amritsar affair and the position of the emigrated Indians in the Kenya Colony, and other matters which arose under the previous Government.

He appealed to the Indians to have patience and said the Labour Government of Great Britain sympathised with the Home Rule Party's aims in India, but it was impossible for the Indian people to leap at once into the saddle of Government.

Distrust Unwarranted.

The Government was impressed by two things, he continued—firstly, the mistaken distrust and uncompromising intransigience of the Swaraj manifesto of last fall, and secondly, the idea held by many persons of influential position that a conference might provide a way out of the present difficulties. But the Government was not yet satisfied that a round-table conference as proposed by the Legislative Council would be the best means to attain that end. Meanwhile he appealed to the reformists not to obstruct the Indian Council, which had been appointed with a view to efficient administration, and not to use it as a field for political sabotage.

Curzon's Fears.

Lord Curzon replied urging the Government never to abrogate its claim to a voice in the solution of Indian affairs. He feared that Ghandi's release would lead to a recrudescence of agitations, and asserted that after recovery the Indian leader should be sent back to complete his sentence.

Lord Curzon scored the Indian Legislative Assembly for asking for a round-table conference, which he thought a disastrous method to cultivate conciliation. Only by slow stages, he concluded, could the ultimate goal of responsibie self-government be reached.

Lord Oliver said the Government was not prepared to accept on the recommendations of a round-table conference a new scheme for establishing full responsible government in India only three years after the institution of a scheme of reform which "was adopted because we were convinced that the establishment of full responsible Government would be worse than perilous and would be big with disaster to the people of India, and when the purposes which that transitional scheme was designed to give had not been availed of."

Period of Transition.

Lord Oliver added that the Government, having the same ultimate aim for India as the Swarajists (the Home Rulers), namely the substitution of responsible Dominion Government for the present admittedly transitional political constitution, earnestly desired to avail themselves of the disposition recently shown by the Swarajists towards effectual consultation The Government was oper. to consider any practical proposals but were not yet satisfied in regard to what might be the best means of establishing that closer contact and better understanding that so manifestly was desirable, but he hoped that after consulting with the Government of India to be able with the least delay to decide on the means. Meantime, His Majesty's Government, which was unequivocally friendly towards the India constitutional reform party appealed to that party for patience and circumspection and co-operation in using the councils of India for efficient administration.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Earton

IN BEANSTOCK KAND

Nancy and Nick were hiding behind a big log in Beanstalk Land, for they had seen a giant coming clap, clap, clatter in big wooden shoes.

They were afraid of being stepped upon, so they hid.

But what did the giant do but sit right down on the log when he reached it.

He was a Dutch Giant and he wore, not only great wooden shoes, but loose, baggy trousers with great patches and a funny short coat. And his pockets were big enough to hold a windmill.

"Oh, where can my leedle dog have gone?" he panted. ' I haf hunted and hunted and cannot find him. His ears were so cute and short and his tail was so cute and long, once. Oh, my poor leedle dog! He must be lost!"

Suddenly the Twins heard a noise like the stamping of a hundred cows, and out from some huge bushes rushed a creature that looked as though one of the Rocky Mountains had grown a crop of hair and decided to take a journey. And it was making a noise which, much louder than the wooden shoes had done.

"Oh, there you are!" cried the Dutch Giant happily. "Where have you been, you leedle rascal? Come here, Snap." And he cracked his fingers like thunder. The Twins saw the dog coming right at them. They weren't a bit frightened for Silver Wing had told them that Beanstalk Land was a perfectly safe place, and only jolly giants lived there. But she hadn't said a word about the jolly giants' dogs, and it might be possible that Snap would mistake them for wood mice or something that Dutch dogs were specially fond of.

"Quick!" whispered Nick. "Jump into the giant's pocket."

So holding tight to the cloth of his funny short coat, the Twins scrambled into one of his big square pockets.

But troubles were not over. Snap was hungry and started to smell around his master's clothes for a piece of weener or bologna.

And the first thing Nancy and Nick knew, a great wet nose began to sniffle and sniffle all over them and blow its hot breath down like a porpoise into the giant's pocket.

"Oh, goodness!" gasped Nancy.

"Jimmy!" gasped Nick.

"Ah, ha! You got fooled that time!" roared the funny giant. "The other is the one! That was the empty pocket! See, I know you, Mister Curiosity!"

And the giant put his hand into his pocket where the Twins were—and found—what do you think! Nancy and Nick, of course! And he pulled them out and set them on his knee.

"Fee, fi, fum, fo,

"Who are you, I'd like to know," he cried, his eyes as round as dollars. "Get away, Snap."

"We're Nancy and Nick, the Twins," shouted Nick as loudly as he could.

"You don't say!" declared the giant. "Well, well, well! You shall home with me go. I'd like first rate to have two twins for pets. Come, Snap!"

And off they started.

ALD. CROWE SAYS THE LOCAL FORCE IS NOT OVERWORKED

Submits Statistics to Show the Comparative Number of Men Employed In Other Cities.

The following statistics were taken from the 47th annual report of Criminal Statistics, issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics for the year 1922. Commenting on these figures Ald. J. Crowe points out that the number of men employed on the Peterboro police force compares favorably with other cities of a similar size. The number of convictions in North Bay, Woodstock and many towns of a much smaller size than Peterboro are larger than the Peterboro total but Ald. Crowe contends this is not due to any lack of men or efficiency in other cities were the crime record is larger and the police force is smaller but is attributed to the fact that many of the cities reported in the list possess a foreign element that helps to swell the total. Ald. Crowe says Peterboro is situated so far from the main lines of travel that criminals are not attracted to Peterboro because of the difficulties of making a quick getaway. The figures that Ald. Crowe submits, follow:

MITCHELL SORRY TO LOSE MR. GORDON

The New Pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Peterboro, a Good Speaker.

The Mitchell, Ontario, Advocate has the following to say of Rev. J.W. Gordon's removal to St. Andrew's church, Peterboro:

"Rev. J. W. Gordon, for the past four years pastor of Knox church, Mitchell, has received a call to become pastor of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough. Mr. Gordon came to Mitchell from Brantford four years ago. He is an able speaker, a student of exceptional ability and a powerful preacher. He is not only populatr with his own church people, but holds a warm place in the hearts of citizens in general. Should he accept the call his leaving town will be much regretted, but his friends will rejoice to know that the move is a distinct acknowledgement of his worth and is a decided advancement. Mr. Gordon is a good worker in church matters and every branch was flourished during his stay here. He also has taken an active interest in amateur sport and is always ready to lend a helping hand in any worthy cause for the betterment of mankind. Mrs. Gordon will also be greatly missed from the several church organizations in which she takes a leading part. St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, is very complete and splendidly furnished, a new Sunday school hall having just been completed at a cost of $42,000. The call to Mr. Gordon was unanimous and the salary fixed at $2,500 and free manse. The matter will probably have to pass through various church courts during the next few weeks and until that time it will not be definitely known what Mr. Gordon's decision will be. Should his answer be in the affirmative, the good wishes of the entire community will follow Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and their three bright children to their new home at Peterborough.

SANDY MATCHETT HAS AN ACCREDITED HERD OF HOLSTEIN CATTLE

Came From Behind in 1922 to Overcome Obstacles—Now Only Man Supplying Fully Accredited Milk to the City.

SOME PRIZE WINNERS

A man who had after thirty-three years' work built up a herd of pure-bred Holstein cattle only to have twenty-three head destroyed on being found tuberculous on the Government test, might be excused for "throwing up the sponge" and sitting back contented with any old thing, but not Alexander Matchett of Otonabee Township, five miles from Peterborough. Mr. Matchett staged a comback and has now, he claims, the honor of having the only fully accredited herd of dairy cattle supplying the city with milk.

In the spring of 1922 Mr. Matchett thought to crown his work of building up his pure-bred herd by having the animals accredited tuberculosis-free, and entered his application to the Government. On March 25 the representative of the Department of Agriculture, Dr. Frank Wood, made the first test and condemned 23 head, a hard blow to the painstaking farmer.

A few days ago when a representative of the Examiner visited Mr. Matchett's farm he found a new herd of splendidly conditioned Holsteins and examined the certificate which the owner proudly displayed, proclaiming the herd had passed the necessary tests and is accredited tuberculosis-free. In the spacious barns of this progressive farmer were 22 head of milch cows, with their heads thrust through iron stanchions apparently unmindful or unaware of the honor that is theirs in supplying the only accredited milk that enters the city of Peterborough. In another section were twenty-seven head of young stock and steers, all accredited.

Mr. Matchett was born and brought up on the farm where he now lives, which was held before him by his father and his grandfather. The latter was the first man to settle in Peterborough district and the city was first named "Scott's Corners" in his honor. Alexander Matchett, therefore, represents the success attained by building on a foundation of two generations of sturdy pioneers and taking advantage of the facilities of modern development.

Some Prize Cattle.

Included in the line in Mr. Matchett's barns is the splendidly formed cow that won the silver cup at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition last year as the best dairy cow on the grounds.

Another prize winner is May Echo Princess, with the record for all Canada in her class as a four-year-old. Her record of performance for [illegible] showed 18,351 pounds of milk, yielding 793.75 pounds of butter. The next highest in Canada had only 731.125 pounds of butter from 15,309 pounds of milk.

In noting Mr. Matchett's persistency in returning to build up a new herd on the ruins of his hopes in 1922, out of which has arisen his position as being the only dairyman supplying milk from an accredited herd to this city, it is interesting to remember that about the same time there were several other farmers and dairymen whose cattle were condemned. Mr. Matchett's is the only herd successfully to pass the complete tests and become fully accredited. Others became discouraged by their failures and dropped out of the race for better cattle or have not yet been able to completely succeed in the revival of a pure-bred herd.

The desire in this district for the best in dairy cattle is growing among farmers, dairymen and the consuming public alike, and the indications are that great progress will be made this year toward establishing a number of accredited herds. Through education and Government propaganda, and through a realization of the seriousness of tainted milk from tubercular cattle, the public is demanding the best procurable source. Farmers who formerly declared they could tell a tuberculous cow "a mile away" are realizing that an animal may be affected for months or years without showing any signs of the disease. Cattle being so susceptible to the tubercular infection and being so valuable, it behooves the owner of pure-bred stock to protect his herd by culling the tainted members.

Realizing that growing public opinion had sealed the doom of the scrub or grade herd, Mr. Matchett has battled against discouraging features that might have daunted the gamest of fighters, and has now the satisfaction that comes from a success obtained against odds. He told the Examiner he is satisfied that he has the best he can get in the way of dairy cattle, and his thirty-five years work he considers well spent. The satisfaction of knowing he is giving the best possible milk has been a big factor in his aims. Holsteins being essentially milk cattle, financial returns must be looked for from that source, and Mr. Matchett thinks there is a great deal of personal gratification and moral profit in knowing he has a tuberculosis-free and superior product to offer.

It is interesting to note that there are only 218 accredited Holstein herds in all of Canada, and that Ontario has 141 of these.

The Tubercular Taint.

During the last decade it has been shown that tuberculosis is a widespread disease affecting animals and men, and while human beings and cattle are its chief victims, there is no kind of animal living that will not take the terrible disease. Hogs and chickens are quite often affected. Horses, sheep, goats and dogs are not quite so bad. Cattle are the most susceptible of all animals, and to them the Government has turned special attention, endeavouring to foster such accredited tuberculosis-free herds as Mr. Matchett's.

Tuberculosis is very contagious, spreading from cow to cow in a herd until most of them are stricken. This may not attract much notice from the owner, as the disease is slow to develop and a cow may be affected with it for months before any signs of ill-health are manifested. This slow development is the chief reason for the great loss it causes to the farmer or stockman. He does not suspect its presence in his herd until perhaps a large number of the animals have contracted the disease. If tuberculosis developed rapidly the owner would quickly take steps to check its progress and protect the rest of his herd.

An illustration of the hidden nature of the disease was brought out in Peterborough Police Court a few weeks ago when a man testified to milking a cow for months without noticing she was tubercular.

History of the earliest times records the presence of tuberculosis, and over a century ago its contagious nature was suspected. Finally in 1822 Doctor Robert Koch segregated the germ, and it is now universally admitted that the disease is very contagious and may be transmitted from animal to man. In Canada the disease was introduced with early importations of cattle and has remained a burden on the dairyman and stock-raiser.

The importance of the disease is considered by the Government from two points of view—the loss it entails upon the cattle-owner and the danger of contagion to human beings.

The aggregate of the losses among cattle is enormous, amounting to millions of dollars every year, besides materially decreasing the food supply of the country.

Milk is the staple food of infants and young children, and is usually taken in the raw state. If this milk is from tubercular cows it may contain millions of living tubercular germs.

Meat is not so likely to convey the infection, since it does not so frequently contain the germs. Cooking destroys a great many of those that may be present, and meat is not consumed very much by very young children.

These losses and dangers are what the Government, through its testing and preventative work, is endeavouring to stamp out. When test shows an animal to be infected it must be destroyed under Government supervision, as were Mr. Matchett's cattle a few years ago.

As a reason for the test, it is declared by authorities on the subset that there is no symptom that can be relied on with certainty. Many of the symptoms relied on by the human physician in making a diagnosis are not available to the cattle physician. The thickness of the skin and chest wall, for instance, makes it quite difficult to detect a diseased condition of the animal's lungs by listening to the sounds made in breathing, whereas this is comparatively easy in human beings.

As is the case with some human beings, animals may be fat and apparently in good condition, the picture of health, while their lungs and other organs are full of tubercles. Such cases can only be detected by the tuberculin test, which does no harm to the healthy animal and yet detects the diseased one without fail.

The effect of tuberculin on diseased cattle is a feverish attack which comes on about eight to twelve hours after administration and subsides after a few hours. This temporary fever is called the reaction, and animals which show it are called reactors.

The milk from Mr. Matchett's herd is brought to the city by Brown.

Japan's Queen of Beauty in Canada

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Acclaimed in Japan as the most beautiful of Japaneses women and known to famous portrait painters as one of the most beautiful women in the world, Miku Terac passed through Victoria yesterday on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia, en-route to Los Angeles with her husband, Professor Conroy, late of the staff college of the Imperial Japanese Navy at Tokio.

Professor Conroy intimated that his wife would seek a career in the movies.

For two years a controversy ranged in Japan as to which of two famed beauties of the land of cherry blossoms, Miku Terac or the Baroness Kujo of the Imperial Court at Tokio should be awarded the palm of feminine pulchritude. In the end Miku won. She was crowned regning beauty of Japan.

HOUSEWIVES' COLUMN

Your Dominion Store manager pays just as much attention to economy as the housewife does in her household affairs. He is trained to. His little red book of instructions tell him just why economy is important, and how to make savings.

Here's one thing it says:

"The aim of our business of selling at the lowest possible price consistent with quality and small profit, makes it imperative that in the management of our stores, in fact throughout our whole organization, every economy possible be effected."

Then this book goes on to tell howto save money on store supplies, lights, care of equipment—and even such little things as postage.

Every woman knows how the little expenses mount up until you feel like saying "Where on earth can the money have gone?" The Dominion Stores watch over little costs as well as big—and the Dominion customer gets the benefit in lower prices.

This is one reason why buying at one of the 800 red front Dominion Stores means steady savings. You don't have to pay for wasteful methods when you buy where every detail of the grocery business has been studied by experts and made into an exact science of selling goods for less.

After all, if we didn't pay attention to good old-fashioned economy we couldn't pass on to you all of the savings we make by buying Dominion Store foods in big quantities.

KEENE SHORT COURSE CAME TO CLOSE WITH BANQUET LAST NIGHT

Dr. G. C. Creelman Was the Speaker of the Evening—Staff Entertained—Synopsis of the Work.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

KEENE, Feb. 27. — The pupils who availed themselves of the three months' course in agriculture and the members of the teaching staff, were entertained last night in the village hall to a banquet that was tendered them by the W.M.S. of the Methodist church. Addresses were delivered by Dr. G. C. Creelman, former president of the Agricultural College at Guelph, Miss Ethel Chapman, assistant superintendent of Women's Institutes for Ontario, other agricultural experts and several of the pupils who took the course. The host of the evening left nothing undone for the entertainment of their guests ad were tendered a hearty vote of thanks for their hospitality. Covers were laid for 70 and the rooms in which the festivities were held were tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers.

Classes Well Patronized.

Keene is the centre of what is admittedly one of the finest agricultural districts in the province. The advantages are sufficient inducement to hold the young men and women on the land so that there the problem of rural depopulation is not a menace. The young people were not slow to avail themselves of the opportunity to add to their education a practical working knowledge of their chosen calling and the short course here was well patronized. The average attendance at the session was about 60, over half of the pupils being ladies who were drilled in all of the branches a knowledge of which is necessary to develop a modern home maker. This course included instruction in house furnishing, laundrying, house administration and domestic science, millinery, dressmaking, and home nursing, each department being conducted by an expert. The course offered the young men was no less practical.

The Staff.

The course was conducted under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture for Ontario and was arranged by F. C. McRae, district representative for Peterborough county. F. J. Webster, assistant district representative, had active charge of the classes and gave instruction in animal husbandry, including the judging of all classes of farm animals, the care and management of the same. The members of the staff, with the departments taken by each, were as follows: W. G. Evans, B.S.A., botany, entomology and bacteriology; Dr. W. E. Baker, veterinary science; James Laughland, B.S.A., field husbandry; E. L. Snyder, B.S.A., poultry; W. F. Jones, B.S.A., farm dairying; James L. Neilson, B.S.A., horticulture; G. N. Runke, B.S.A., soil and fertilizer; A. B. Cockburn, B.S.A., farm mechanics; J. H. Shaw, B.S.A., farm tractors and gas engines; D. Hart ,B.S.A., farm management; W. R. Agar, agriculture; G. Stevenson, farm forestry and birds, Rev. Andrew McLaughlin, English and mathematics.

Mr. McLaughlin, who is the Methodist minister at this place, was especially engaged for his department and the officials in charge of the course speak highly of his efficiency as an instructor and of his expert knowledge of the subjects which he handled.

The lady instructors were as follows: Miss Margaret Brown, who remained for the entire course, household furnishings, laundrying, house administration and domestic science; Mrs. G. Hawkey, millinery; Mrs. W. Wollard, dressmaking, Mrs. M. Lowe, home nursing.

Nominal Fee Charged.

Each pupil was charged a fee of 50 cents a month for the course, the fund so created being used to pay incidental expenses. The municipality of Otonabee paid the cost of heating the hall where the classes were held. No lights were required as the sessions were held only in the daytime. These were the only expenses incurred, all the remainder of the most being borne by the department.

The course will conclude Friday night.

Examinations Held.

Each lecturer prepares a set of examination papers on the different subjects taught and upon these the pupils in the various classes are required to write, each receiving a certificate showing his or her standing. There have been no failures so far, but some of the pupils already examined have made 95 per cent. of the aggregate.

The Banquet.

District Representative McRae acted as toast master at the banquet, which was held in the town hall at 6:30, and the chief speaker was Dr. Creelman, who dealt with the two subjects with which he says he is most familiar: immigration and agriculture.

Canada, he says, needs more population, and the British Isles have desirable people to spare, people who are willing to come here to work with their hands and to go on the land when they are needed. Great Britain has room for a population of 35,000,000, and has nearly 45,000,000 to take care of. The result is that it is necessary to spend large sums of money every year to take care of the unemployed. These people should be brought to Canada at the rate of 5,000 or more a year. It is not aliens that are wanted but immigrants of our own race and language.

Young boys should be brought out from England, Scotland and Wales, and apprenticed to the farmers of Canada until they are 21 years of age. They should be paid a small wage, which they could save if they were furnished with clothing and educated. These boys should be given a chance to attend school courses like the one just held in Keene, then when they became of age they would have some money with which to start for themselves.

Dr. Creelman regrets the drifting of the Canadian people to the United States but lives in the hope that these wanderers will eventually find their way back, for this is as good a country as any under the sun. Her resources have not yet been developed. Mineral wealth has been found in some places and is likely to exist in many others.

What the Farmer Needs.

Speaking of the agricultural conditions in Canada, Dr. Creelman said that the farmers need cold storage and packing house facilities for the care of their produce. They must take better care of their orchards before they can hope to hold their own in the markets with the fruit-growers of British Columbia. Nearly one million dollars worth of fruit and vegetables were imported last year from the United States, and the Canadian farmer is entitled to some tariff restrictions to save him from this competition.

The Coming Legislation.

Dr. Creelman predicted that the end of the Short Course in Keene, would not mean separation. Some of the young men who had taken it would be members of the township and county councils in the future, and would not wait to be asked for grants for these Short Courses but would volunteer them. He advised them to hang together. Half a dozen people by doing so can get anything they want without the aid of councils or legislatures. The great fault of the farmers, he said, was that they would not hold together on any one thing long enough.

He complimented the ladies of the Methodist W.M.S., on the excellent banquet which they had provided, in which he said they had displayed taste that was a credit to the community.

The Toast List.

The complete toast list was as follows: "The Domestic Science Class," proposed by Mrs. Margaret Brown and responded to by Miss Leita Ward, "The Agriculture Class," proposed by F. J. Webster, and responded to by Peter Mather; "Our Guests," proposed by W. Fletcher, and responded to by Miss Ethel Chapman, Dr. Creelman, James Laughland and ex-Reeve Smithson; "The Ladies," proposed by G. N. Runke, and responded to by Mrs. Gladys Nelson.

The speeches were concluded about 11 p.m., when the tables were cleared away and the pupils and the friends held an ejoyable dance.

CANADIAN CUSTOMS OFFICE IN NEW YORK

Appointment Ordered By Cabinet and Civil Service Commission Will Nominate Choice For Position.

VANCOUVER, B.C. Feb. 27. — In a telegram received here Tuesday from Ottawa, by the Board of Trade, Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, confirms decision of the Federal Government to appoint a Canadian Customs Officer in New York. The message stated an Order-in-Council had been passed on Monday creating the appointment.

The creation of a customs officer in the United States seaport permits the shipment of Canadian merchandise through that port in bond to and from Canadain cities on the coast and the eastern provinces. Business men here are unanimous in the opinion thta it will mean a largely increased trade between British Columbia and the seat, particularly Ontario.

To Be Signed To-day.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press.)— The immediate appointment of a Canadian Customs Officer at New York has been ordered and it remains for the Civil Service Commission to nominate its choice for the position. This much was ascertained here last night when the Minister of Public Works, Hon. Dr. J. H. King, said that the Order-in-Council authorizing the appointment probably would be signed today, when the name of the appointee also is expected to be given out.

CANADA CARES FOR IMMIGRANT GIRLS.

Work of Ministry of Immigration at Ottawa Praised By British Representative.

LONDON, Feb. 26.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—"I cannot speak too hightly of the work of the ministry of immigration at Ottawa in connection with the reception of women immigrants," declared Miss Gladys Pott, of the overseas settlement committee, in addressing a meeting at the colonial institute here tonight.

Miss Pott stated that women officers make enquiries concerning the bona fides of any would-be employer of immigrant girls or young women and keep in touch with them. A large number of voluntary organizations co-operate with the Canadian government in receiving and welcoming immigrants and arranging for their future care. The Red Cross society especially is giving attention to the women and children who are fresh arrivals in the dominion, Miss Pott said.

AN IMPORTANT MEASURE.

It is not surprising to find that there was not a semblance of opposition offered to the bill introduced into the Legislature by Hon. Chas. McCrea to provide for a one-cent per unit bounty on iron ore.

The object of the legislation is, of course, to encourage the establishment in Ontario of an iron ore industry, and there is such an evident need in this country for the home production of pig iron that the Legislature is unanimous in endorsing a measure designed to make the establishment of a plant as a most likely event.

Canada has made vast studies in the development of her iron and steel industries, but despite that progress no pig iron is produced on this side of the line.

And the situation is made precarious by the fact that the United States sources of iron ore are becoming exhausted, leaving the possibility that the American Government may before long find it necessary to place an embargo.

If such an emergency developed the condition of Canada's steel and iron industry would be most serious, and it is desirable that as soon as possible this country should be independent of outside sources.

The establishment of a pig iron plant represents a very heavy investment, but the action of the Ontario Government in providing a bounty may supply the incentive that has hitherto been lacking.

The development of the iron ore industry would be a great thing for Northern Ontario, and for the whole Province.

ONLY ONE CODE.

The theory advanced in the Legislature by Col. J. A. Currie, M.P.P., in connection with the Stanley Barracks espisode in which a trooper was brutally lashed by a number of his comrades that the civic law should not interfere with barrack-room justice, except in murder cases, is not one that will find much support in this country.

The Attorney-General of the Province took the right course when he ordered a civil trial for the offenders.

It would be a very dangerous impression to be allowed to develop that soldiers were not amenable to civil law, and Mr. Nickles' action has served a very useful purpose in dissipating any idea along this line that may have existed.

There are military crimes that are not violations of the ordinary Criminal Code, and these can safely be left to the military authorities to be dealt with.

When a soldier, however, commits an offence that is contrary to the provisions of the Criminal Code he must be prepared to face the same trial that would be his were he a civilian.

There cannot be one law for the uniformed man and another for the citizen in mufti, and the spirit of this country is stronger against any attempt to set up two different codes.

When a number of men take the law into their own hands and cruelly lash another they must be prepared to face a civil trial whether they be soldiers or civilians.

THOSE WHO PAY.

The Brantford Expositor diagnoses the whole question of civic expenditure and taxation accurately when it says:

"After all, its with the Brantford taxpayers rather than the City Council to decide what rate of taxation we are to have in the future. They must ignore the scriptural invitation, 'Ask and ye shall receive." remembering that when they receive payments must come out of their own pockets in the shape of taxation."

That is so manifestly true that it would seem to need no emphasis, and yet the fact remains that it is difficult for a lot of people to get that angle on the taxation question.

"The city should do this," or "The city should pay for that," are expressions heard in Peterborough every day.

You would imagine that the "city" possessed some mysterious treasure trove from which the money to do this or pay for them is derived.

The cold hard fact, however, is that the "city" pays for nothing—it is you taxpayers who pay and you tenants whose taxes are wrapped up in your rent.

You pay your share of every civic enterprise that is undertaken, you contribute your little bit to every civic grant that is made, your pocket is touched every time the civic treasury is successfully raided.

There is no purse from which the spending bodies can secure the money they pay out save the purse of the citizens, and if that appreciation of the case could only be driven home to everybody the city fathers would have less trouble in keeping down the tax rate.

LOSING GOOD CITIZENS.

The British Empire has been losing a lot of good citizens, many of whom might have profitably been absorbed by Canada had our immigration machinery been working smoothly.

Figures just given out show that the United States during the past six months received a totol of 149,507 amigrants from England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales.

When the thousands who have left Canada to become residents of the Republic during the same period are added to this total the drain upon the Empire's citizenship assumes formidable proportions.

Canada should have been able to find places for most of those who have left the British Isles for the United States, but somehow our immigration efforts seem to lack conviction.

The Examiner has talked to immigrants of a splendid type en route to their new homes in the United States.

They seemed to have gathered the impression that there was nothing in Canada save for those who wished to engage in agriculture, and were surprised to hear of the extent of the industrial development in the Eastern Provinces of the Dominion.

They didn't want to farm, and so the United States had been selected in preference to Canada, although most of them regretted living under another flag than the Union Jack.

It is unfortunate that conditions are such that thousands of these fine fellows are being permanently lost to the Empire.

GOLF FOR THE MASSES.

The astonishing growth in popularity of the game of golf on this Continent was emphasized by Ralph Reville, editor of The Canadian Golfer, in an address before the London Kiwanis Club on Friday, says the London Free Press. Golf was only first established in Canada in the seventies in Montreal, and today there are 100,000 golfers in Canada, with 400 clubs and with plant and equipment valued at $7,500,000. The game was not introduced into the United States until 1886, when a few enthusiastic Scotchmen started playing the game at Yonkers, and were jeered at by the populace. Today there are, he estimated, two million golfers in the Republic, with clubhouses and plants worth the enormous sum of two billion dollars.

While there has been a great boom in all sports in recent years, yet no game has made such remarkable progress. The only objection to golf is its cost—it is on this Continent a game for the men of money or leisure. Mr. Reville made an appeal for municipal golf, pointing out that in Edmonton, where a civic course was first established, the city actually derives a revenue from golf, and the same is true of Winnipeg.

The London Public Utilities Commission is considering the establishment of a municipal course in London. The taxpayers would not favor a municipal course if it means any addition to the tax rate. There are too many necessities required in London today, but if it can be built and maintained on a paying basis, then it should be proceeded with. It would be a great boon to hundreds of men and women in London who would like to indulge in this fascinating game, but cannot afford the luxury of membership in either of the two private clubs.

GENERAL "JACK" STEWART.

Announcement from London that the British Labor Government will investigate a contract in West Africa to build Takoradi harbor on the Gold Coast, once more brings into the spotligh ta Canadian who was among the epic figures of the Great War. The story of the achievements of General "Jack" Stewart—the contractor who is building Takoradi harbor—the record of how he revolutionized war railway construction, of how he followed advancing armies with rails, thus making possible the supplying and feeding of great masses of marching men in a way never before accomplished in battle, is among the heritages of Canadian effort in France.

It was in 1916 that Sir Eric Geddes, then Director General of British Transport, "found" Stewart. Geddes realized that what he wanted in charge of railway building and transportation in France was not an orthodox engineer or an official used to "red tape," but a real railway builder whose genius would adapt itself to new and changing conditions and whose flexibility would devise new methods to overcome unlooked for obstacles. He was not mistaken in Stewart. On the contrary, the lanky, modest Canadian did so well as Deputy Director of Light Railways that Geddes made him Deputy Director General of Transportation, directly responsible for all railway construction within the zone of the British Armies in France. Stewart, in his new position, rose to new heights. During the German retreat on the Somme in 1917 he was able to push forward railways with a rapidity and an efficiency that not only amazed General Army Headquarters, but marked a veritable revolution in war transport. At the Battle of Arras, where the Canadians captured Vimy Ridge, his work was particularly brilliant. When the infantry advanced on that memorable Easter Monday, Stewart's men literally constructed new railway lines on the heels of the victorious troops. Supplies and ammunition were brought up with lightning rapidity, and the wounded were rushed back to the very doors of Field Ambulance Stations and Casualty Clearing Hospitals. It was the first time that such a thing had been performed in the war. Within a week of the Battle of Arras a train service ran with the efficiency of a clock to the brow of Vimy Ridge.

At Messines—the next big offensive—General Stewart performed near miracles. Shell fire was terrific—the ground was an impassable sea of mud—but no matter. "Jack" Stewart was equal to Germans and elements combined, and railways were pushed after the triumphant advance with a dazzling and magnificent efficiency.

In March 1918, when the German offensive began in the Somme sector, and the British Empire fought with its back to the wall, General Stewart's corps of railway workers—now grown into nearly 16,000 men—again covered themselves with glory. Seven battalions of the Canadian Railway Troops had to be withdrawn from railway work, and were employed for a time on the construction of a rear defence trench system. When the task was completed they built a defensive trench system on a front of 30 miles, and with a total trench mileage approximating 120 miles. It was one of the notable engineering feats of the war.

Later in 1918 General Stewart was appointed Director of Construction, his duties embracing all construction of a civil engineering character for the British Armies. This gave him the task of preparing for the Battle of Amiens—and his achievement in that great conflict stands as one of the most brilliant performances in the whole story of the engineering and transport of the war.

Summed up, the story of General "Jack" Stewart's war achievements is one for Canadian pride. It is not too much to say, indeed, that his genius and his capacity contributed as much as that of any single individual, with a few possible exceptions, to bring about the German collapse. And whatever eventuates from the inquiry into the Gold Coast contract, the Canadian people, and especially those who know him, will be slow to believe that "Jack" Stewart has been involved in any transaction that cannot bear the full light of day.—Ottawa Journal.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb 26.—Choice medium weight butchers sold this morning at 7¼ to 7½ cents a pound. A few baby beeves brought $7.60 a cwt. on the average. For a number of export steers $7.50 was paid, and an odd extra good short-keep was brought up to $7.35 a cwt. Butchers' cows were quite steady to firm, with one choice one selling at 5¾ cents a pound. Bulls of the best sold up to 5 cents and those taken for export averaged $4.40 a cwt. The springer trade is poor, owing to the difficulty of shipping to outside points. Full cattle receipts are expected to run over 2,000 today and a large proportion of these will be held over.

The average quality of calves was not as good today and the feeling was apparently easier. Light calves not finished, but breedy, sold at 11 cents. Choice ones are still in demand up to 13 cents.

With insufficient lambs to make a market there was no evidence of any change in prices. The heavier ewes and wethers are selling at 14 to 14½ cents. Handyweight sheep are 8 cents.

Prospects of a good supply of hogs confirmed the buyers in their lower bid of $7.25 a cwt. f.o.b. and sellers were inclined to accept the conditions. Up till noon the delivery of hogs was around 2,500 and there were a good many more to be unloaded.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Corn rose briskly to-day to above the highest price which July and September deliveries had previously touched this season. The upturn was largely based on reports that farmers were spreading an organized movement to hold corn back for a dollar a bushel. Corn closed firm, 1-8 and 1-4c. to 1-2c. net higher, May 81 1-8 to 81 1-4c. Wheat furnished 5-8c. to 7-8c. down, May $1.09 3-4 to $1.09 3-4 and 7-8, and July $1.09 7-8 to $1.10, with oats unchanged to 5-8c. up, and provisions varying from 5c. off to a gain of 2c.

OMEMEE FARMER HAD GOOD LOAD OF HOGS.

Produced Selects At Five Months and Five Days Old.

Mr. Roy Howden of Omemee brought in a load of six hogs this morning that were five months and five days old and graded selects. The six hogs weighed a total of 1210 pounds or about 202 pounds each. Select weight runs from 180 to 210 pounds. This refutes the contention of many farmers who say select hogs cannot be produced under seven months. The hogs were fed the usual rations of oats and buckwheat and tankage.

RADIO TUBE CONTROL CLAIMED BY DE FOREST

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Were it not for the invention by Lee De Forest of the three-electrode vacuum tube, there would be no broadcast radio reception today.

This is the conclusion made here from a statement by Charles Gilbert, Vice-President of the De Forest Radio Telegraph & Telephone Company, to clear up points in litigation between his company and the Radio Corporation of America.

According to Gilbert, the vacuum tubes sold today by the R. C. A. are licensed under De Forest patents, and the litigation concerns merely a phase of marketing the tubes.

The De Forest Company, he says, will continue to manufacture its own tubes.

FARMERS' DANCE AT CENTREVILLE

Young People's Association Conduct Pleasant Social Evening —

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 26. —The dance that was held on Friday evening by the U.F.Y.P.O. in their haul at Centreville, was a decided success, despite the rough weather that had prevailed for several days.

There were over fifty couples present, while Brown's orchestra of Peterboro, after driving over top of snow banks between Peterboro and Centreville, with the greatest of difficulties, arrived.. at the hall safely, and furnished good music for dancing.

The floor was in excellent condition and the young folks kept the ball a-rolling until 2.30 o'clock, when the members of the orchestra decided that it was time to start their cold trip back to the city.

A lunch was served at midnight and catered to by the members of the club.

In the Snow Belt

The terrific high winds, and heavy snow falls of last week left the roads in a hopeless condition.

In many years there has not been such an amount of snow in these parts. The roads have been made on the banks at the side of the highway, as well as in many places they have been made into the fields.

In the streets of this village there were places on the sidewalks that when the snow was shovelled off, all that could be seen from the street of a man walking along the sidewalks was his head. Mailmen were unable to travel their beats from Tuesday last until Monday of this week.

LIBERALS REINFORCE LABOR IN DEFEATING CONSERVATIVE ATTACK

Government Endorsed On Division By Vote of 295 to 228—Liberals Project Criticism of Health Minister Wheatley On Poplar Relief But Did Not Press It.

Inconclusive Debate.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Late Tuesday afternoon Frank Briant, Liberal member in the House of Commons for North Lambeth, introduced a motion condemning the action of Health Minister Wheatley in giving the guardians of Poplar a freer hand in making expenditures for relief of the unemployed.

Mr. Briant's motion condemned Mr. Wheatly's action as "calculated to encourage illegality and extravagance." The motion urges that "the real remedy for the difficulties in the necessitous areas will be found in a reform of the London Government and a reform of the Poor Law system."

Mr. Briant introduced his motion in the presence of a crowded house. Prime Minister MacDonald, several leading members of the Cabinet and former Premiers Asquith and Lloyd George were in attendance.

Mr. Briant demanded an assurance from the Premier that illegal expenditure would not be sanctioned and that the Poplar Guardians would be made responsible for breaches of the law. He urged that the Government deal with the existing anomalies in the poor law system in all the areas in England where relief was being extended.

Example for Others

T. Keens, Liberal, in seconding Mr. Briant's motion, pointed out that pressure had been used on other local poor relief bodies to follow Poplars suit in raising the various allowances.

Here a Laborite member interjected: "Better than a riot!"

Mr. Keens charged that the Minister of Health, John Wheatley, had been acting in a partisan spirit and introducing dangerous principles, thus weakening the moral authority of the Ministry.

Mr. Wheatley defended has action, declaring that he had done only what his predecessors had not the courage to do. The previous Government, he said knew that Poplar had been breaking the law to the extent of £2,000 weekly for eighteen months, pending the audit of accounts. He denied having encouraged extravangance. Poplar would be liable to a surcharge on any illegally paid monies. He was anxious to reform the poor law, the Labor party had been urging for four years.

Exceeded Wages

Sir William Joynson-Hicks next moved the Conservative amendment providing that "the amount of poor law relief be calculated on a lower scale than the earnings of the independent workmen who is maintaining himself by labor. He complained that, Poplar had laid itself out to give greater relief than the recipient would earn under trades union wages.

A long wrangle on Poplar finances ensued. George Lansbury, Labor, who is a prominent Poplar official, intervening, said that unemployment would never be solved until it cost the employers more to keep a man idle than to find work for him.

Unwarranted Scale

Mr. Asquith, the Liberal leader, said that Mr. Briant's motion was not intended to embarrass the Government, but to assert the vital principle of the poor law. He charged that Poplar had for years been giving relief on a scale wholly unwarranted by the law and blamed the Health Minister, Mr. Wheatley, for rescinding the previous Government's order regarding Poplar, without putting anything in its place.

Premier MacDonald called Mr. Asquith's attention to the fact that Mr. Wheatley had said nothing in defense of the Poplar administration neither would the Government defend it. No illegal expenditure had been or would be sanctioned. Mr. Wheatley had found an order which had caused great inconvenience and had never been put into operation; so he decided to annul it and throw Poplar back upon ordinary law, and Poplar would be told it must observe it.

Poor Law Inquiry

The Prime Minister could not deal with the London administration before dealing with the poor law of the whole country and therefore he favored instituting an inquiry into the working of the poor law.

After some further attacks from the Conservative side upon the legality of Minister Wheatley's action, and defense of it by the Government supporters, it became clear that there was a disposition among the Liberals not to press their motion.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, however, at 11 o'clock moved closure which the Speaker accepted. The House divided and closure was defeated, 295 to 228, amid loud minister (a) cheers and counter-cheers.

Thus the Poplar debate ended inconclusively, both Briant's motion and Joynson-Hicks' amendment being talked out. Ironical Opposition cheers greeted many of the Liberals when they returned from the division lobbies, where they had helped to frustrate an attack upon the Government's life.

HALF SISTER OF DELORME BROKE DOWN ON STAND

Led From Court In Tears During Cross-Examination In Montreal Murder Trial—Sister of Accused Refused to Look at the Detectives Whom She Was Asked to Identify.

Lunched Under Guard.

MONTREAL, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press).—The complete breakdown of Florence Delorme, half-sister of Rev. Adelard Delorme was the feature of the trial here Tuesday afternoon of Abbe Delorme on a charge of having murdered his half-brothr Raoul in January 1922. She was not subjected to further questioning. It was when Alban Germain K.C., counsel for the defence, had asked if she had understood his questions, and she had admitted that she had not, that she burst into tears and was led out of court.

Her sister Lily was examined at length by R. L. Calder K.C., Crown Prosecutor, who requested her to look at three detectives in connection with whom she stubbornly maintained that she had never made any declarations to them either on January 7th, 1923, the day of the murder was discovered, or on January 9th. Lily refused to look at the three men, lowering her head when they were brought into court. She either looked straight ahead past them or buried her face in the fur collar of her coat. They eventually filed out of court.

The Abbe's full sister Rosa who was examined during the morning session resumed her place in the witness box in the afternoon having, in spite of protests that she was taking medicine which was at her home, been given lunch under police guard. She furnished information in regard to the lay-out of the Delorme home, a model of which was in court.

When Last Seen Alive.

Florence Delorme told of the comings and goings in the Delorme home on Epiphany Day when Raoul was last seen alive. She rad seen the victim leave the house and he was, she said, wearing a brown suit and brown boots. She remembered that it was a very cold day and that Raoul was wearing black rubbers. Replying to Mr. Calder she affirmed that these were the same rubbers that were found in the house the next day after the murder.

She told of going to a picture show in the evening and when she returned at 11 o'clock on the night of the murder, she said she had seen nobody. Next morning she woke up at 8.30 but only heard at noon that Raoul had not slept at home the previous night.

"How do you explain that?" asked Mr. Calder.

There was no answer.

The witness went on to say that Raoul's bed had been slept in on the night of the murder, but under questioning by Mr. Calder, explained that she meant the previous morning. On the Saturday when the murder was discovered, she said that Raoul's bed sheets had been washed.

"Is it not true?" asked Mr. Germain, "that these sheets were washed because Raoul was to return to the university (Ottawa College) that day?"

"Yes" replied the witness.

"Do you understand my question?" asked Mr. Germain.

Florence Delorme blushed violently, tried to smile, and admitted that she had not understood the question. Then she burst into tears and was led out of court.

Hostile to Crown.

Lily Delorme was then called to the stand. One of the first questions by the Crown Prosecutor led to a long legal argument which ended when Mr. Justice Martineau ruled that she was a witness hostile to the Crown. "In a case like this," said His Lordship, "there is a choice between the scaffold and not telling the truth. This question was just as fully, if not more ably, discussed before Sir Francois Lemieux who gave judgment in favor of the Crown. I shall allow the question."

Mr. Calder then again put the question which was wether Lily had been interrogated by ex-Chief Lepage in his office on January 9 in the presence of Detectives Lajoie, Pigeon and Desgroseillers. She admitted the fact.

"Did you not on that occasion say that you had been out during the afternoon of January 7?"

"No," replied the witness.

"I ask you to consider your answer," continued Mr. Calder.

"Think again."

The witness repeated her denial.

Mr. Calder put the question in heveral ways to the witness and succeeded only in again eliciting complete and formal denials.

Detectives Called.

The Crown Prosecutor then called the three detectives into court and confronted the witness with them. He asked her if she could recognize them. She refused to look at them and after a while they filed out.

The attitude of the witness changed after this incident and she told freely of the Abbe's movements on the Friday afternoon just before the murder. He went out, she said, at 3.45, and came back soon after. At 4.20 he went out again for ten minutes and finally wet out at 5.50 to return at 6.10 o'clock when they had supper. She told of the accused going to the cellar to shake up the furnace. The furnace was red, she said, at one o'clock in the morning of Saturday. She had not been able to sleep, being worried about Raoul's absence.

In cross-examination by Mr. Germain the witness' answers were short and to some of his questions she gave no reply. They had to do with her movements on January 9th on which day she said there was some talk of the family going to Ste. Scholastique, but they changed their minds when Raoul announced his intentions of going to a local theatre.

At the morning session Dr. A. M. Renault of Bouchette, gave evidence as to Raoul's signature to his will at the Ottawa General Hospital in February, 1921. Evidence regarding the $25,000 insurance on Raoul's life, taken out shortly before the murder, was heard.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

HER CHILDREN HAD WHOOPING COUGH

This is one of the most dangerous diseases of children. It starts with fever and cough. The cough is at first short and sharp, but gradually increases in severity and occurs in sudden spasms, vomiting follows, and sometimes there is nose bleed; the child turns livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets, and suffocation seems emminent till relief is brought on by the "whoop."

Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phelgm and in this way ease the racking cough, and in a short time make is disappear.

Mrs. L. Ambrose, Sarnia, Ont., writes:—"My little ones were both sick with whooping cough. I read where Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was good, and I only used two bottles and they were better. I had chronic bronchitis for three years and tried everything until, finally, I got 'Dr Wood's'. I would not be without this remedy."

Price 35c. a bottle; large family size 60c.; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FRENCH EXCHANGE RE-OPENS.

PARIS, Feb. 26.— The Produce Exchange will re-open to-morrow when the markets will resume their normal course, except that for wheat, for which certain modifications and regulations are yet to be agreed upon. The decision to open the exchange was made during a meeting at the Ministry of Commerce, at which the sugar, oil and rubber chambers accepted modification in the regulations, including the exclusion of foreigners not domiciled in France.

Appeal For Hebrides Aid Only to London.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The denial of the Lord Mayor of London that he had made any appeal for Hebrides relief in the United States was backed up by a statement issued from the offices of the Sulgrave Institution here to-day. Chairman John A. Stewart of the Board of Governors said the only appeal he knew of was the Lord Mayor's appeal to the people of London, dated January 25, a statement regarding which was printed here.

ENQUIRE INTO SIKH TROUBLE

Swarajist Motion Carried In Legislative Assembly at Delhi—Fourteen Sikh Fanatics Were Killed.

DELHI, India, February 26. Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's. — In the Legislative Assembly here the Swarajist motion in favor of the appointment of a committee to enquire into the Sikh grievances was carried without a division, after a lengthy discussion in which Pundit Malaviya bitterly denounced the treatment of the Sikhs and "the killing of non-violent Akalis at Jaito."

Several members of the assembly declared that a disposition made by the Maharaja of Necha was a blow against the Sikh organization.

Sir Malcolm Hailey of the executive council of the governor general, on behalf of the government, opposed the establishing of such a committee to enquire into the Sikh grievances. He denied that the government of India had done anything to injure Sikh religious aspirations and denied women were maltreated or that machine guns were used at Jaito, where the firing by the government forces he said was af a minimum character.

Sir Malcolm eulogized the bravery and the devotion of the Sikhs and declared that the government's hand of friendship was still held out to them.

Fourteen Akalis or Sikh fanatics were killed and 34 wounded in the Sikh state of Nabha in a collision recently between a force of Akalis and a party of Nabha troops under the British administration, according to advices received at Delhi. The Akali outbreak was said to be political rather than religious. The reason why state of Nabha was selected by the Akalis for the demonstration was not merely because it contains the Sikh shrine of Jaito but because the Akalis had actively identified themselves with the cause of the Maharajah of Nabha, whom the Indian government forced to abdicate last year because of his feud with the neighboring state of Patials.

OBITUARY

MRS. ANNIE ALFORD.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 27. — Mrs. Anne Alford, aged 82 years, relict of the late Robert Alford died here yesterday at the home of her son, Robert Alford. Mrs. Peter Bullock, Jr., of Young's Point, is a daughter. The funeral will be held on Thursday at 2 p.m. to the Lakefield cemetery.

WILLIAM KANE.

The Orillia "News Letter" carries the following brief account of the life of William Kane, who was a former long resident of this city, and whose death occurred recently:

"The death of Mr. William Kane, President of Kane & Kane, last Wednesday evening, removes one of the few remaining business men who figured prominently in mercantile circles during the past three decades. Mr. Kane was born in Kingston seventy-nine years ago, but went with his parents to Peterborough, when but three years of age, and remained in that city until early manhood. He was married in 1878 to Miss Mary O'Brien of Peterborough, removing shortly afterwards to Mount Forest. It was shortly after Mrs. Kane's death, about three years after her marriage, that Mr. Kane came to Orillia. He was first employed with F. J. Gribbin, who occupied the store now in possession of the Northway-Grant Company, but shortly after joined the store staff of the late Thomas Mulcahy, and in this capacty he became widely known throughout the district.

It was in 1888 that Mr. Kane, in company with his brother, the late Charles Kane, founded the business known far and wide as Kane & Kane, Limited. and under his able management the Kane & Kane store became popular with shoppers from all over East Simcoe. Mr. Kane's outstanding characteristic was his unfailing courtery on all occasions. He was a man of strict integrity, and his judgment as to the wares handled by his firm was relied upon for years by hundreds of customers, whose confidence in him was retained up to the close of his business career.

He will be sincerely mourned by his business associates as a wise counsellor and a steadfast friend. His brother, Mr. Charles Kane, died in 1906, and about fifteen years ago Mr. Kane himself was overtaken by ill-health and forced to relinquish the active management of the business. Since that time Mr. Kane had lived retired. Some months ago his health began to fail and he gradually weakened until the end came.

"The funeral on Saturday morning took place to the Church of the Guardian Angels, where requiem high mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Father Carberry, interment being made in St. Michael's Cemetery. The pallbearers were four members of the store staff of Kane & Kane, Limited—J. J. Reardon, James Dunn, Joseph White and Wilfred Frye.

The late Mr Kane is survived by one son, Dr. J. A. Kane of Cobalt, who was present at the funeral, and three brothers—George of Orillia, John of Idaho and Thomas of Rochester.

OMITTED DIVIDEND.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Confronted with heavy bond interest of more than $9,000,000 ayear and the low price of copper metal which makes it virtually impossible to opertae at a satisfactory profit, directors of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company omitted to-day the quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share due at this time. This rate was resumed last April and was paid three months ago.

ESTABLISH CO. FOR DOMINION

Metropolitan Life Insurance Canadian Business On Independent Basis With Headquarters at Ottawa.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.— (Canadian Press.) —The Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company met Tuesday and approved plans providing for the establishment of the Canadian business of the company on in independent basis. Headquarters for Canada will be established in Ottawa, the changes becoming effective March 1. Canadian business of the company has been conducted through its New York headquarters.

The Canadian office after March 1 will issue policies, pay its own claims and generally manage the company's business in Canada east of the Rocky Mountains.

Archibald F. C. Fisk was appointed a Third Vice-president and will have charge of the Canadian business. Other appointments made include that of James B. Woodcock, formerly supervisor of Canadian territory, as Superintendent of Agencies west of Quebec. Dr. John N. Collige of New York, will head the Canadian medical staff.

In making the announcement of the change to-day officials of the company said it had proved necessary because of the volume of business in Canada. They gave the company's investments in Canada at the close of 1923 as amounting to $105,000,000. The company maintains branch offices in all the large cities of Canada and has over 1,000 Canadian employees. The Ottawa head office will employ a staff of 500 persons. The number of company policies held by Canadians at the end of 1923 was said to be 1,921,652.

KEEP MOTOR COOL.

When hot weather comes, remember this tip: apply a coat of aluminum paint to the under side of the top and a white reflecting paint to the upper side. Thus, says Dr. W. W. Coblentz of the U. S. Bureau of Standards, the hot sunlight would be reflected, instead of being absorbed and radiated down upon the passengers.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Citizens Stock Up With Cakes and Buns — Personal Mention.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 27.—The sale of home-made baking, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church, which was held on Saturday afternoon in the vacant store lately occupied by J. L. Byam, was most successful.

Mrs. A. J. Brown convener of the committee in charge of the sale, and the excellent manner in which the carefully thought out details always involved in such an undertaking were carried through, reflects great credit on the leader and her coworkers. The store, which has recently been thoroughly renovated, proved admirably adapted for an event of this kind, and the plan of making a general request for donations rather than a personal canvass, tried for the first time, apparently worked out quite satisfactorily.

The counters on both sides were laden with a tempting array of cakes, pies, bread, buns and tea biscuits, while roses of various hues, apples and lettuce added their quota to the appetizing appearance of the wares displayed. Everything sold readily, and the receipts were quite as large as had been looked for and will add considerably to the Aid funds.

Those assisting were: Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. Arthur Fallis, Mrs. W. Fred. Fallis, Mrs. Offa Williamson, Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mrs. B. Raper Mrs. Ross Edmunds, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, Mrs. C. Garside, Mrs. S. T. Tucker, Miss M. Duncan and Mrs. G. Locke, the latter making a capable cashier. The President, Miss M. Needham, gave such assistance as the duties of her office demanded.

Literary Society.

Form II. in the Continuation School was responsible for the programme at the open meeting of the literary society on Friday afternoon when a large number of guests were present in response to the fifty or more invitations sent out for the occasion. The Vice-President, Loretta Barnard, occupied the chair and the following programme was much enjoyed:

Opening chorus—"O Canada," by the school.

Flag drill—Twelve pupils from Form II.

Piano solo—Hazel Armstrong.

Dialogue—"All's Well That Ends Well," by Nelles Rowland, Vera Weeks, Margaret Lang and George Elson.

Chorus—Form II., original words sung to the tune of "Yes, We Have No Bananas Today."

Recitation—"Housecleaning Carol," by Elsie Spence.

Dialogue—"Samuel's Proposal," by Helen Larmer and Dickson Hutchison.

Recitation—"The Convict's Homecoming," by Marian Leal.

Duet—"Listen to the Mocking Bird," by Margaret Lang and Vera Weeks.

National Anthem.

The funds to purchase tennis equipment for the school this coming summer are steadily growing as a result of the open literary meetings each alternate Friday afternoon, and the latter will be continued until the required amount is on hand.

Personals.

Mrs. Bruce Dawson, who has been visiting at Warsaw, has returned home.

Mrs. S Storey of Toronto is the guest of her sister, Mrs. M. Sutton, Anne street.

The many friends of Mrs. W. A. Fallis will regret to learn that she is ill at the home of her son, Mr. Edgar Fallis weste of the villag Her daughters, Mrs. W. Leith and Mrs. J. McMillan of Port Hope are with their mother.

Fielding Absent When Parliament Convenes.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press).—For the first time in seven years the Parliament of Canada will open on Thursday next without the attendance of Right Hon. W. S. Fielding. During the twenty-two years of his membership in the House of Commons from 1896 to 1911 and from 1917 to 1924, the present minister of Finance has attended probably every opening ceremony. The veteran statesman has been ill for some time and the Department of Finance is being administered by Hon. J. A. Robb. Mr. Fielding said last night that while his illness would prevent him taking his place in the House this week he hoped to be able to resume his duties before the session is over.

PUBLIC OWNED RAILWAYS ARE OFTEN NEEDED

Sir Henry Thornton Shows How Breach of Three Cardinal Principles Leads to Taking Over of Transportation By the State.

A VITAL FACTOR

MONTREAL, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—In an address delivered here last night before the St. James' Literary Society, Sir Henry W. Thornton, President of the C.N.R. discussed the relationship between the State and the Railways.

In approaching his subject Sir Henry sketched the growth of transportation, first by water. Then by road, again by water and lastly railway. He pointed out that as transportation rose in importance to one of the most vital factors in the economic life of the nations, there increased a demand for a closer scrutiny and a more exacting regulation of the railways by the government, in some cases the demand being so strong that railways were state controlled from their inception. Any lapses of sufficient duration and sufficient importance are likely to provoke a discontent which finds expression in a demand for government ownership. The speaker then went on to deal with the arguments put forward by those who favor government ownership and those who favor government ownership, he stated, generally advance the following reasons:

First, that the railways play an important part in the life and welfare of the community and they cannot be safely intrusted to private ownership lest discrimination, injustice and various irregularities develop.

Second, that under State ownership, rate and fare can be fixed upon that scale which will best promote development and progress.

Third, that broadly speaking, a higher degree of justice will be accorded to communities and the public in general than under private ownership.

Those who favor private ownership and operation of railways generally contend:

First, that state owned and operated railways are inefficient, unprogressive and expensive, largely because of the impossibility of divorcing entirely the railway administration from the field of politics and the feeling that officers and employees working for the state have less reason for initiative and industry than those who are employed by private corporations.

Second, that state ownership is a form of fraternalism treading closely upon the heels of socialism.

"As a matter of fact," continued Sir Henry, "beyond the general and broad statement that transportation has such a vital effect upon the community that it should properly be in the hands of the state and the argument that the injection of politics in any railway system is bound to produce disaster, there is not much to be added either for or against Government ownership and the problem becomes entirely a matter of expediency in individual states. What may be necessary or desirable in one country may be quite the reverse in another, and some formula must be sought which will give expression to this principle."

Principles of Success.

Sir Henry then went on to define the three cardinal principles of the proper and successful operation of railways under private ownership and control. These principles he enumerated as the maintenance of its financial obligations: The furnishing of transportation at reasonable rates to the public and the payment of wages to its employees that will enable them to live in decency and comfort under sanitary conditions and to bring up their children as self-respecting members of society.

"A material departure from any of these principles by privately owned railways," stated Sir Henry, "will probably excite a demand for State ownership and a departure from all three will in time inevitably produce that result. For example in Canada a considerable proportion of our railway mileage was threatened with insolvency, and the Government of that day took over those properties in the interest of the Dominion. There has been some contention as to whether this course was wise or not. In my opinion, for what it is worth, I think it would have been difficult to have pursued any other plan. At any rate, it was insolvency which brought into existence the Canadian National Railway System and quite apart from the merits of the argument, I know of no practicable way to dispose of that system without great loss to the Dominion accompanied perhaps by a considerable and detrimental restriction in service so that it seems to me, instead of discussing in a somewhat acrimonious fashion what has already been done, we would be well advised to see, if by chance, with a little reasonable and co-operative work our National Railway system cannot ultimately be made both useful and profitable. Certainly there is no advantage in approaching the task fully convinced of its impossibility. No army fully assured of its defeat in advance, ever won a victory.

Sir Henry then went on to deal with the social aspect of the argument, and to deal with the gradual but persistent evolution of public thought in many nations towards the nationalization of public utilities. The railways being the greatest of these and the most intimately associated with the economic condition of the people was, the speaker pointed out, the one to be affected first.

In conclusion Sir Henry summed up the conclusions which had been reached in the presentation of his argument and these he set fourth as follows: 1—An adequate means of transportation at such rates and under such conditions which will promote industry and progress is essential to the well being of any nation. 2—There is an inherent conception that transportation is properly a function of the State, but where delegated to private enterprise the State is justified in maintaining such scrutiny and regulation as will prevent abuse. 3—Under existing circumstances, the advisability of State ownership of railways depends upon the conditions existing within the frontiers of each nation, but a departure from the three cardinal principles previously laid down will probably provoke government ownership. 4—The undercurrent of dissatisfaction which exists to a considerable degree among the masses of all nations furnishes an impetus to the theory of public ownership. 5—State ownership is only practicable in the event of the complete divorcement from influence other than those which have at heart the welfare of the community and in the presence of an enlightened and intelligent populatio. Therefore, continued effort in the direction of education is essential if this and every other great social movement is to be accomplished without disaster. 6—In view of the above, it was probable that in the course of time, railways and most other forms of industrial activity which intimately affect the community will fall under the administration of the State.

ELEMENTARY GRADED UNION HAD MEETING

Rev. M. C. MacKinnon Gave An Address to Sunday School Workers.

The elementary graded union held its monthly meeting in the Guild room of the Murray street church last evening, with a fair attendance of members.

Rev. M. C. MacKinnon gave a thought arresting address on "The Importance of the Work of Religious Education."

There are causes why the religious education movement is receiving a fresh impetus in our day.

First, from the study of decisions for Christ, it was found that eight out of ten decisions are made before the age of 20, and very few after the age of 40.

unless education takes hold of the norance of the Bible and religion revealed in the drafters of the army of the U. S. turned the attention of the church toward the child. The great army of rejected units were once young.

All these facts pointed to childhood—give us the young.

"What we see of the promised land we must see through the child."

Church school teachers are engaged in the most important work under heaven.

Leading educationists are saying that our public school teaching has failed because it lacks religion, and unles education takes hold of the soul the nation is doomed.

The outbreak of lawlessness in Christian countries is alarming. We of the church school are engaged in the only work that makes for the saving of the nation. This should brace us to carry on.

Miss Oldham sang a primary song, and the much loved little whisper song. After the business session the grade groups were formed and proceeded to discuss with their respective leaders, the work of their grade.

The next meeting wil be on the fourth Tuesday of March, which will be the 25th, and it is likely that the meeting will be held in St. Andrew's new building. The officers are:

Pres., Mrs. Carver.
1st Vice, Mrs. McKinnon.
2nd Vice, Mrs. Peters.
3rd Vice, Mrs. Mark.
4th Vice, Mrs. Stevens.
Sec.-Treas., Miss Stella Bennett.
Hon.-Pres., Mrs. E. Dewart Lewis.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page—a pretty country girl, dreaming in her father's orchard is hailed by

A Stranger—on horseback, extremely handsome and not averse to a flirtation with a beautiful "dairy-maid" as he sums her up.

Janet Mercer—Prudence's 28-year-old clever friend, a masseuese, is outspoken in her dislike of the people who visit at Winston Towers, a beautiful country home owned by

Mrs. Vansittart—a good-hearted woman-of-the-world. She invites Prudence and Janet to a garden-party. On the way there, Janet hears the story of the horseman who has won Prudence's susceptible heart. From the description, Janet recognizes him as

Bert Traymore—a fascinating philanderer, admirer of Virginia Dale—a blaise beauty with an eye to the main chance. Janet tells Prudence that Traymore is one of Virginia's swains.

CHAPTER IV.

Prince Charming to the Rescue

Prudence felt the warm blood rush to her cheeks, and her heart contracted painfully. The stranger had touched that sensitive heart in passing, so that she had been unable to get him out of her thoughts for a single moment since their romantic meeting.

And now . . . now when there was a chance that she should see him once again, to hear he was the lover of a being so far removed from her own small sphere of life, so infinitely superior to herself, so richly endowed with all the arts of beauty and of fascination . . . it was cruel!

Jane gave her an odd sidelong glance, opened her lips as though to speak, then closed them definitely.

But none the less did Prudence have the clear impression that her friend had she been so minded—could have told a thing or two about the "Traymore fellow" that would have proved hard hearing, and disturbing to her peace of mind.

She shook the feeling off. The sun was shining. She would meet him, trust him. Who knew what happiness the afternoon might bring?

The grounds of Winston Towers were very lovely. A whole raft of gardeners kept them so. For years the green lawns had been rolled and tended, till they had attained that velvet beauty which time alone can bring.

Beds of tulips—pink and red and yellow—made a fascinating splash of colour on the grass. Late daffodils were nodding golden heads. There were plots of pansies, golden-hearted, purple-fringed. And a whole sea of shy forget-me-nots that smiled, blue-eyed, upon the throng of visitors who moved hither on the lawns, the women gay in pretty colors, and the scene bright and animated.

"So sweet of you to come!" gushed the hostess, extending a fashionably limp hand in welcome, and taking quick survey of Prudence's frock. "My dear Miss Page, if there were more girls like you in the country, I wouldn't need to cram my house with girls from town!"

This was evidently intended as a compliment, and merited a "smart" reply. But Prudence was suddenly overcome with shyness, and that dreadful "bottled-up" sensation which made her feel immeasurable a country bumpkin, tongue-tied.

"I'm sure you're dying for a cup of tea," rattled on the hostess. "The Marquee's over by the laburnum trees. Teddie my child—" turning to a weedy, chinless youth who was hovering on the outskirts of a group of laughing girls—"Teddie, be a sweet lamb, and take Miss Page over to the marquee for a cup of tea, will you?"

The "sweet lamb" rather sulkily detached himself, and was presented to Miss Prudence. Janet had sped off toward the house, to minister to her little patient, so the two set off alone.

"How—how pretty it does look—the copper beeches and laburnums and those lilac trees in bloom!" stammered Prudence to her unwilling escort. "It reminds me of some place I've been before."

"Race-course?" suggested the 'sweet lamb,' showing a faint spark of interest. "Keen on racin', are you, eh?"

"Oh, no."

"Odd. Very odd." He twisted the moustache that was the size of a dwarfed tooth-brush. "You don't care for gees?"

Prudence thought of the old mare she sometimes rode, and blushed.

"I do ride just a little—"

The chinless youth went rambling on abstractedly:

"I'm a town man myself. The country's rather poisonous for a long spell, don't you think? I've been here a week, and already feel like one of those priceless mummies they hauled out of Tutankhamen's tomb, or whatever the fellow's called." Then, brightening: "If it weren't for Jinny, I'd give the green fields a miss, every time. But Jinny's a wonder. I'll tell the world she is!"

Could "Jinny" be a horse? thought Prudence. She was almost sure of it as the "sweet lamb" continued:

"Jinny's a high-stepper, if ever there was one. In great form today. You've seen her? Eh?"

"I really don't know very much about horses," began Prudence awkwardly, when Teddie burst into a great guffaw.

"Oh, Lord! How comical! I'm not speaking of the stables, but about a girl! Virginia Dale!" he gurgled. "This beats the band! She'll scream when she hears the howler you've made. Jinny has a real sense of humor. I'll say she has!"

Prudence had reddened to her very ears. They were in the marquee now, and Teddie was still chortling, so that people were turning round to look at him. And—heavens! —Virginia Dale herself, enchantingly pretty in a Fifth Avenue creation, orchid-tinted, wheeled around from a group of smart young men, and languidly inquired:

"And whence the merry Ha, ha! chuckle-headed Teddie?" What's the priceless joke?"

"He-he! You must forgive me, Miss Prudence, if I tell 'em?" Teddie wiped his eyes. "Jinny, this is Miss Prudence Page, and she—she took you for a horse! Ho! Ho!"

"Did she, indeed?" Virginia's smile was insolence personified. She favored Prudence with the look one might give a beetle or some crawling insect when one hesitates whether or not to stamp on it. "But I suppose Miss Page isn't accustomed to thoroughbreds—and hence the error. Was that it?"

Prudence wished that the ground might open to swallow her up. Her embarrassment was in no way lessened when one of the men was heard to titter, in a stage aside:

"Prudence has been imprudent, and had better turn a new Page!"

Hateful, hateful people. Why had she come to be made the butt of their buffoonery? Her cheeks burned with a bitter shame, and her tongue was quite incapable of either repartee or explanation.

"Tea, madam?" A waiter touched her elbow. "China or Ceylon?"

"Yes. Yes. Any kind." Grateful for the diversion, she turned her back on the grinning group, and moved over to the long table that ran down one side of the marque "Milk, please. No lemon. Thanks."

Her hands shook so that some of the liquid spilled into the saucer. A mist of anger and agonized embarrassment rose before her eyes, so that the whole scene became a blur. Oh! to get out of this hateful tent, to fly from these smart snobs with their edged tongues and jeering laughter, and seek peace and refuge in the apple-orchard. That quiet haven never failed her . . .

And then a man's voice, soothing as balm on wounds, sweet and beguiling as a melody once known and loved, quick with a pleased surprise, sounded beside her:

"If it isn't my little princess of the apple-orchard! Well, I'm lucky!" The cup was taken from her shaking fingers, and both hands were clasped in two strong ones. Yes, it was he, her hero . . . blond Prince Charming of the highways . . . come to rescue at the eleventh hour a damsel in distress!

Sisters on Filthy Farm Tell Investigators Story of Sordid Existence.

CHATHAM, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Kent County and Romney township authorities will co-operate in the clean up of the valuable 20 acre farm of the Radmore sisters, Luella and Mary, as a result of an investigation conducted by High Constable Peters and Captain Woodley of the Salvation Army which they declared disclosed fright ful conditions. Living with the sisters is their mother aged 82 who appears to be in excellent health, with the exception of deafness, despite the squalor and filth. Investigators state that the sisters have not been disrobed for fourteen years and have not been in bed since, Peters last visited farm seven years ago. The mother claims the locality in which the farm is located is the abode of evil spirits and the sisters give as their reason for not going to bed: "We sit up all night to be prepared for persons who seek to persecute us."

Many carcasses scattered about the barn and yard bear evidence of starvation according to Mr. Peters. Cap tain Woodly made a rough inventory and found 27 sheep alive and 15 dead, 6 live hogs and 5 dead ones, 5 chickens, 16 geese, 2 horses, and 14 dogs. The dogs appeared to be well fed no doubt from feasting on the many carcasses that littered the premises. Captain Woodley said that the only feed available about the place for live stock was a sack of oat meal and part of a bag of wheat. "Th sisters adopted a rationing system in feeding the cattle," said Mr. Woodley.

High Constable Peters said the women's attire was much the same as seven years ago when they were in county police court. Old sacks and other material hung on wires and fastened around the waists, serve as skirts and petticoats. Old sacking was wound about their ankles as leggings. Each of the sisters was wearing a pair of rubber boots. One had on a peculiar head dress. It was a woollen affair very similar to that worn by the soldiers in France and with a small opening for face.

Captain Woodley said the furniture in the house consisted of an old bed and some broken chairs, downstairs and a bed in attic. The sisters declared they had not climbed the rickety stairs to the attic for 15 years. Three loaves of bread were all the foodstuffs found in the house. Peters will bring the women into the city where they will face charges of cruelty to animals and will be examined as to their sanity.

is an impossible task, so many personal accidents and such a number of outside developments which no man can foresee, dog the footsteps and decide the future of parties. The nearest approach to prediction is an analysis of the existing situation and a description of the alternative ways in which it might develop.

Take the case of the future of the present Labour-Socialist Government. Liberal sentiment in the Commons is certainly strongly in favour of retaining it in power for a period long enough to give it a chance of showing forth its merits or its demerits. But again, chance might produce an issue on which the Liberals would be compelled to go into the Lobby against the Government.

Leaving the unforeseen aside, it is clear that the Parliamentary situation must develop in one of two points—the pressure from the left of Labour may become so intolerable to Mr. MacDonald, his fifty officeholders, and his Trade Union Moderates that they will split the Labour-Socialist movement and unite with the Radicals of Liberalism.

In the alternative, when the attack from the advanced wing becomes too strong, the Ministers will resign office rather than break up their Party.

Already the Reds of labour have shown that they intend to press the Ministers to the utmost. This movement will be intensified as time goes on. All kinds of accusations of personal motive and interest (for the language of Labour politicians differing among themselves is not distinguished by nice restraint) will be hurled at the officeholders by the Clyde representatives.

These will be told in the public speeches listened to by their own supporters in the constituencies—that they draw large salaries, enjoy agreeable positions of eminence, and are therefore not to be depended upon to put "in the interest of the people, as viewed by the Reds, first.

There is a kind of poetic injustice about such an accusation. It has been levelled by countless Labour orators—many of them now in office—for a generation against their Tory or Radical opponents. Now that the Ministers are in a position to realise its untruth or its limited truth, all their old perorations will rise up in judgment against them.

Faced by this attack from his own left, Mr. MacDonald could, of course, by raising a finger, obtain the permanent alliance of two-thirds of the present Liberal members to form a Labour-Liberal combination against the extreme Socialists and Tories alike.

It would merely be the reversal in order of nomenclature of the Liberal-Labour Coalition of 1910.

But will such a combination, breaking the Socialist-Labour Party, take place? I doubt it.

Would Favour Deal.

Liberal Whips, tired of men who want to vote Tory, and Labour Whips, exasperated by revolting Communists, would favour such a deal, if only as an effort of self-preservation for their Commons majority. But the Labour-Socialist Party however hard it is plied with Liberal compliments and suggestions it is unlikely in this last degree to smash its own unity chase out its Reds and withdraw the Moderates and Trade Unionists into a separate combination with the Radicals while the Whips take refuge in the Conservative camp.

Men who believe much either in splits or in factions do not understand what a strong rock the essence of party is—at least in times of peace. Rather than lose his Diehards of the left, Mr. MacDonald would give it to them as easily as Mr. Baldwin did to his Diehards of the right.

But such a decision would, of course, spell the end of the present Government. The Premier would be compelled to produce a programme to which Liberalism could not possibly consent. There would be a dissolution, and the electorate would be asked to give a mandate for the full-blooded Socialist policy.

Mr. MacDonald would ask for an independent Socialist majority—or at least one capable, with assistance of a small group of extreme Radicals, of forcing its will on Parliament.

If such a general election took place, what would be the upshot? Much, of course, would depend on the wise guidnace of the Conservative Party, which would be the strongest force in opposition to Mr. MacDonald's appeal for an independent Socialist majority.

If the Conservative Party freed itself from the control of the reactionaries of the right, who have guided it for the last six months, there is every reason to suppose it would score an unmixed triumph and be returned with an independent majority, comparable with that Mr. Bonar Law obtained in 1922.

timates by $1000 you are not doing the institution any injustice."

Tentatively, $1000 was taken from the Isolation hospital estimates, and a conference will be arranged with the authorities responsible for its administration.

Under the Board of Works jurisdiction, $200 was taken from the amount allocated to the trimming of trees; $500 from "horses and miscellaneous," and $1800 will be saved by allowing Smith street bridge to go unpaved for one more year.

Grants to Institutions.

The Children's Aid Society was granted $1000 against $600 last year; Peterboro Industrial Exhibition repeated with $2000; music drew $1000, despite objections by Alderman Crowe, who remarked that just as much music would be enjoyed on a payment of $500; the Teachers' Institute got $50; Peterboro Poultry Association asked for $300, a repetition of last year, and was granted $200; the Well Babies' Clinic was last year granted $700, asked this year for $1000, and was rescued from a low grant of $500 for this year's work only by the appeal of Alderman Fife on a tie vote "not to go back on the kiddies;" $700 was granted. The Peterboro Health Association, under the auspices of which the camp for children is operated in Jackson Park, was granted $1000, the same amount as last year. Four hundred dollars was granted the Trent Waterway Development Association for advertising purposes. Christmas treats for the Children's Aid and St. Vincent's Orphanage will be provided as usual, with a grant of $25 each. The Canadian Deep Waterway Development Association called for and was granted $100. A request from the Salvation Army for $500 towards its social work in the city was opposed by Alderman Maher, who admitted the organization did a good work but he did not think the citizens' money should be contributed to any religious organization. The grant passed.

Alderman McIntyre objected to a grant being made towards the Orange Lodge celebration here on July 12th, and a gathering of the Grand Lodge on March 18th. Sums of $400 and $100 respectively were asked for advertising, decorating and entertaining purposes, and $300 was granted.

Alderman Turner answered objections by saying that he believed the City Council would be just as willing to make a similar grant to the Knights of Columbus for a similar celebration.

Referendum Expected.

A discussion as to whether in view of the fact that there is no provincial election this year, the voters' list will cost so much to print, was settled by Alderman Maher when he suggested that the amount be left the same as last year "in hope that we have a referendum."

Armour Hill park, its present status and its ultimate disposal, were discussed at length in consideration of a request from the Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham, that they be relieved of the payment of taxes on what will ultimately become city property.

On motion of Alderman Crowe and McIntyre, a grant of $100 was made toward the payment of the taxes, it being impossible for the city to remit the taxes.

The Suburban Areas Commission demanded $8000, and an account from the Provincial Highways for $7781.84 was also passed.

Alderman Phelan remarked that Brantford received a bill for $200,000 for work done on the Provincial highways.

The appropriation asked for in connection with the Mothers' Allowance Act was $12,000, but this was cut $1,000.

Estimates that showed an increase over last year's expenditures were: Charity, increased $4,000; elections, increased $163 through the addition of new polling places and increases in remuneration of deputy returning officers; light, including street lighting, increased $200 to provide for the installation of new lights as required; municipal government, increased $200 through increases in salaries of the city office stenographers, and $100 increase in the salary of George Grange, janitor.

The total deductions achieved through the night's work was $14,897, against the $25,000 required. Mayor Turner and Alderman Turner proposed that the Board of Education be asked to reconsider the estimates for educational purposes and to endeavor to make the appropriation $10,000 less.

Alderman Crowe remarked that it was bad business last year for the Board of Education to boost the tax rate one mill to provide money not required at a time when the City Council was endeavoring to keep the rate down. "It was a direct loss to us of $350," he said.

Trim the Honorarium.

By the only unanimous vote of the evening, $25,000 was allowed the police department for the year.

Alderman Crowe was the first to speak to the question, and he said that after careful examination of the records of other cities of like size to Peterboro, he had only found one that made a grant to the chairman of the Police Commission. The exception is Brantford, where $200 is the amount of the honorarium. "Any one of the Commission can be put in as chairman," he continued, "but the reason the Judge is always put in the position is because it is a position of honor. I cannot see why we should pay $300 when no other city of our size pays anything. I would be liberal enough to give $100 and fill the position for what it is worth. When we are wealthy and able to pay our debts I would be more favorable to giving more money. This is not in any way to humiliate the Judge and is entirely without malice, but I think $100 a fair remuneration for the duties of the office."

Alderman Maher: "Without any feeling of enmity towards the Judge, I approve of the suggestion. I think the $200 is lost there, and think the increase is well placed in going to the janitor and the assistant city assessor."

Out Police Estimates.

Alderman Crowe was again first to speak to the chopping of the sum total of the police estimates. "I feel," he said, "that in Mayor Turner we have a faithful representative of the people on the Police Commission, and he has acted wisely in setting the amount of the estimates at $95,000, the same as last year. I want to recognize him as being the people's representative on the Commission, and the people want this thing reduced. I don't think we can afford any more after considering the differences between Peterboro and other places where the convictions are three times as many as we have here. They have no more police. Woodstock, with five policemen, have more convictions than Peterboro with 15. The western district is more likely to have trouble on account of having so many foreigners, and we are dealing generously here to give $25,000."

Mayor Turner said in fairness to the Chief he must point out that the Chief boasts of his preventative work. "He does not hale people into court on their first offence. Instead of bringing them into court and giving them a police record he warns them, and therefore he has not so many convictions."

Alderman Crowe declared that these other places to which he referred had more crimes known to the police and not prosecuted than Peterboro, and as examples he quoted Peterboro with 380, Brantford with 2,385, Kitchener 2,020, Sault Ste. Marie 1,404, and St. Catharines 2,660.

Mayor Turner, in answer to a question from Alderman McIntyre, said he thought the estimates of the police department might be reduced to $25,000 by four adjustments, namely, cutting the upkeep of the car by $425, reducing the allowance for the Chiefs' Convention to $50, reducing the allowance for clothing from $1,200 to $600, and by dispensing with two men whose salaries would amount to $2,800—a total of $3,975.

The Mayor described the system of patrol worked out by Chief Newhall and explained the good points in it. "The Chief says that for the proper patrolling of the city he has not too large a force, but whatever the aldermen say he will carry out if they take the responsibility. He cannot cover all the ground with fewer men than he has now."

No Confidence in Chief.

Alderman Crowe: "Do you for a minute think his men cover their beats of 55 miles of streets? I never see one. I've never, to my knowledge, met a man on Aylmer street in my life. I've very sorry to have to say I lack confidence in the Chief."

Alderman Fife: "I believe this should go to the people."

Alderman Phelan suggested that the Chief might be asked to explain to the committee the working of his department, but disapproval was expressed.

Alderman Maher: "This has been a football long enough, and it is time it was cleared up. The overhead in the Police Department is away too great. With regard to only having 11 men to do the work of 23, they are not required. If there were men serving at the Court House in the city's time it was unnecessary for them to be there. The Sheriff employs men as constables in the court, and he takes men who are off duty in order to have the dignity of uniformed men in the court He pays them.

"The people want the force reorganized, and they want it to begin right at the head of the force. We are over-organized in that department, and the time is ripe now for the City Council to pass a resolution to be forwarded to the commission with regard to what the City Council believes in regard to the force.

"There can be reorganization started by removing the chief and the Police Matron and three men without impairing the organization one bit."

Mayor Turner said the Police Matron should be retained at all costs.

Alderman Maher replied the work would be done by the women's organizations in the city.

Alderman Stocker said the Police Matron travels day and night and is indefatigable in the discharge of her duties.

Poison Pen Artist.

Alderman Maher: "I may be treading on delicate ground here, but I have made my remarks without disparagement of anyone and without acrimony. The statements I have made now may be the means of bringing me another communication from a poison pen artist. If there is that character under cover I would like him to come out from cover and meet me.

"I have had another poison letter lately and every time I have made such statements as I made tonight I have received a letter."

Alderman Phelan asked Mayor Turner whether policemen who attend baseball games should charge the association for their services, or if policemen were supposed to give protection without recompense.

The Mayor replied that probably the men who did the work were officers who were at the time on night duty and worked for the association in their own time. Probably the regular duty men could not be taken from their beats.

Alderman Maher remarked, in bringing the police issue to a close, that the Auburn Woollen Mills makes an overcoat frieze and a tunic cloth for the Toronto police force, and this should be good enough for the Peterborough force to purchase at home and have made up.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Feb. 27.—In 1819 Rev. Mr. McAuley, an Anglican clergyman, was appointed to the parish of Hamilton Township, now St. Peter's, Cobourg, of which Rev. Canon F. J. Sawyers is rector. Under the rectorship of Mr. McAuley the first church was built in Cobourg in 1820. Mr. McAuley then proceeded to interest himself in the educational needs of the community, where he had come to minister, and secured for his parish one of the old Parochial Grammar Schools, provided for by the legislation of the Government of Upper Canada in 1816. The school erected was a plain wooden building with no pretentions to architectural beauty. The first schoolmaster was an Irishman named Owens, who believed the most effective means of imparting education was with a birch rod. He was so severe in his methods that Mr. McAuley relegated this duty to himself, and it is said used the rod much more sparingly and moderately. Deducing from his historical research that this Parochial Grammar School was established about 1824. Mr. Hewson proceeded to show that it was succeeded by the old Cobourg Collegiate Institute erected upon the same ground, and that Cobourg had therefore had a chartered elementary school for a century.

Prominent Classical Masters.

Among the prominent masters who were upon the staff of Cobourg's old Grammar School were the late Stafford Lightburne and the late F. W. Barron, the latter a former headmaster at Upper Canada College, and father of Judge Barron of Stratford.

Upper Canada Academy.

In the year 1832 the Methodist Church in Canada laid the foundation of Upper Canada Academy, afterwards old Victoria University in Cobourg. This Academy was formally opened on the 18th of June, 1836. After a sermon in the Methodist Church by the Rev. Joseph Stinson, a procession consisting of the architect, building committee, ministers, spectators and others marched to the new building, which was formally opened. The architect delivered the keys to the chairman of the district, Rev. Anson Green. Rev. E. Evans offered prayer and the keys were handed to the first Principal of the Academy, Rev. Matthew Richey. Students, male and female, were admitted on June 27, when the term began. The charge for board was twenty-two pounds for the term and the charge for tuition depended upon the studies taken up.

Theological College Here.

About 1840 Rev. Mr. Bethune, Anglican clergyman, established a Theological College here, which flourished for a time. This school was afterwards absorbed by Trinity College, Toronto. Victoria College was some years later moved to Toronto and affliated with Toronto University, so that this town, which used to be known as a "University town," has now discarded the title.

Grammar School Absorbed.

About the year 1866 or 1867 the old Grammar School, after having carried on for over forty years, became absorbed by the school system of the town, and was succeeded by the old Collegiate Institute, which occupied the same site and was used until the present Collegiate Institute building was built.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Young People Entertained the Willing Workers — Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 27.—The members of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Church entertained the sister society of the Methodist Church and the Willing Workers of Christ Church in the School Room on Monday night, in one of those pleasant gatherings which shows the true community spirit that prevails among the younger element of the church workers in Campbellford. The affair was church union in its earlier stages, an entertainment in which harmony and the highest type of good fellowship prevailed. Miss Hazel Atkinson and Miss Mary Watson acted as a reception committee, and welcomed the visitors upon their arrival. President Rollo and Rev. C. F. McIntosh also bade the guests welcome to St. Andrews.

The School Room was filled to capacity, and both the Methodist and Christ Churches were well represented, the pastors of each being among the visitors. The chair was occupied by Alex. Rollo, president of St. Andrew's Society, and the following programme was provided by the members of the visiting societies.

Duet, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lawrie.
Solo, Rev. G. C. Clarke.
Solo, Mrs. E. Bates.
Dialogue, Miss Ruth Taylor, Miss Myrtle Forde, S. A. McGuire, and H. Boyd.
Solo, Mrs. C. W. Turner.
Addresses by Rev. Wesley Elliott and Rev. G. C. Clarke.
Quartette, Mrs. C. W. Turner, Miss Ruth Taylor, George Lucy and H. Boyd.
Instrumental solo, Arthur Colli son.
Trio, Mrs. C. W. Turner, Miss Ruth Taylor, and Fred Dorie.
Solo, James Benor.

Rev. G. C. Clarke received a warm welcome upon his first appearance in St. Andrew's Church, and his solo, for which Mrs. Clarke played the accompaniment, was heartily encored.

At the conclusion of the musical programme a contest was held, the test being ability to answer questions dealing with the geography and history of Canada, an interesting treat for young and old alike. The prize, a box of chocolates, was won by Miss Winnifred Phillips, a first year student in the High School, who returned the most correct answers. Miss Phillips belongs to the Methodist congregation.

Dainty refreshments were served in cafeteria style by the ladies of St. Andrew's, and a pleasant time was spent over the improvised lunch tables, the audience separating into groups Before the gathering broke up, Rev G. C. Clarke moved a vote of thanks to St Andrew's young people for their hospitality. This was seconded by Mrs. Turner, and unanimously carried by the visitors.

Mrs. Greig, of Arthur, Ontario, is visiting at the home of her son, Mr. E. H. Greig, Queen Street.

THE MORNING STAR MURDER TRIAL ON

William Camfield the Accused Says He Was Forced to Write Confession of His Guilt.

WELLAND, Feb. 27— (Canadian Press).—A declaration that his signed statement to Chief Jones of Crowland, confessing his guilt to the murder of Albert J. Morningstar was not true and the substitution of it with a startling story bordering on the increditable, and characterized by Crown counsel T. D. Cowper, K.C., as a "cock and bull story", featured the hearing here yesterday afternoon of the Morningstar murder trial, when William Albert Camfield, the accused was placed on the stand in his own defence.

He claimed that confession was drawn from him by Chief Jones, under certain inducements, on being that the Chief would secure legal counsel for him, and pay the shot.

This was emphatically denied by Crowlands Chief who stated that Camfield voluntarily confessed to striking Morningstar over the head with a shovel, dragging him into the house, ransacking it and then setting fire to it, early Christmas morning.

FARM SALE AT TWEED WAS WELL ATTENDED

Mr. J. H. Clare Will Reside in Belleville—Good Stock Sold.

TWEED, Feb. 27. — One of the best farm sales held in this district for some time was that of Mr. J. H. Clare yesterday, when farm stock and equipment to the value of $4,500 was disposed of. Over five hundred persons attended the sale. Mr. Clare was recently appointed to the position of sheriff for Hastings County and in future will reside in Belleville. Mr. Clare was considered one of the best farmers in the district. Yesterday, "Gypsy Maid" one of the best cows, sold for $170. Three three-year-olds sold for from $90 to $110 each and ten head of calves brought $70 each. Pure bred Oxford rams sold for $16 each and aged ewes brought $25 each. A team of heavy horses brought $130 each. Mr. Clare handled Durham stock.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

NEW YORK, February 27. — The police received word yesterday from the Newark, N.J., police, that Joseph Flemiug of this city had committed suicide because he had been hounded in connection with the recent sensational murder of Louisa Lawson, a student, in her fashionable apartment here.

The Hastings hockey team journeyed to Warkworth on Monday evening for a friendly game and were victorious by the score of 9 to 6.

TWO KILLED IN A TRAIN WRECK

A Passenger and Freight on the Canadian National Near Mallorytown Hit Head On.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—When the Canadian National eastbound passenger train number 20, and a freight train, number 490, met in a head-on collision at a point just east of Mallorytown station at 4 o'clock this morning, two employees of the railroad were killed and two others were seriously injured, one so gravely that his recovery is despaired of.

The dead are: Neil A. Woodcock, of Bellville, engineer of the freight train and James A. Ritchie, also of Belleville, the fireman on the passenger train. Those seriously injured and in the General Hospital are: Albert Boyes, of Belleville, engineer on number 20, and William C. Kerrigan, fireman on the freight train.

The accident occurred in a heavy fog. One of the cars on the freight train had suffered a broken truck earlier in the night when between Mallorytown and Lyn, an engine was detached to proceed to Brockville to replenish its supply of water and fuel. On its return it proceeded to Mallorytown and was pulling the rear end of the train towards that station, tender first, on the east-bound track, when the passenger train, travelling at a high rate of speed, struck it.

MARMORA NEWS

MARMORA, February 27. — Mr. Martin Murray and sons Gabriel and Kenneth went out West on Monday, where Mr. Murray intends to resume farming operations at Glen Avon, Saskatchewan.

The county road gang again ran the snow plough over the Deloro-Marmora road on Monday. The snow was so deep that three teams were required.

MAD GAMBLING BY AMERICANS

European Resorts See Startling Plunging and Some Heavy Winnings.

PARIS, Feb. 27.—The most furious gambling on record and the most startling fashion inaugurations ever seen continue the principal features of society life at St. Moritz, Cannes, Nice and Monte Carlo, with Americans demonstrating their superiority in all branches of fashionable existence.

At Cannes the Americans continue triumphant at baccarat, their luck dismaying the Greek gambling ring, which to date has lost more than $2,000,000.

Among the week's luckiest players have been Mrs. L. Converse, W. H. Pickford, whose wife is reported to be divorcing him in Paris; Donald R. Thompson, of Washington; Robert Appleton and Ormsby Mitchell, of New York.

The neighboring casino at Nice has Marcus Loew, theatrical man, who seems as lucky as Flo Ziegfeld, repeating the latter's 1922 performance by winning a million francs in one night.

Felix Weingartner, famous conductor, has suffered the cancellation of a concert at Nice, owing to the refusal of the French Musicians to play under him. They said Weingartner signed an anti-French manifesto at the beginning of the war.

Merriment was provided on the Riviera this week by an unidentified American, who ran up bills at the Casino at Cannes and disappeared after giving a check signed in synthetic ink, with the result that it was blank when it reached the bank.

FOR THE COUGH THAT STICKS

Common Cough Syrups Won't Help—You've Got To Make Your Own.

CHEAP AND BEST

For any kind of a cough, but especially for the stubborn one that persists and keeps you awake nights this home made cough mixture will quickly loosen the phelgm, allay the inflammation and stop the cough.

You can make it yourself at home in two minutes by following these instructions:

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

It's a mighty fine remedy for chest colds and acute nasal catarrh, and remember that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness. Get Parmint and get better.

STRATFORD INDIANS AHEAD BY ONE GOAL

Defeated Preston 1 to 0--Tally Would Have Been Different But for Goalie

STRATFORD, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Stratford Indians have but one goal advantage for their game in Preston on Thursday night. In a hard fought contest here last night in the first game in the play-off for Senior O.H.A. Group No. 2 honors, the homesters pulled out a 1 to 0 win, the lone goal coming in the third period. The game, which was witnessed by some 2,500 fans, including a good quota from Preston, was keenly contested throughout, though each team played a different brand of hockey. Stratford started on the offensive, and for a few minutes swept everything before them; but the coolness with which Farrell, the Preston goalie, turned the shots aside, impressed upon the Indians that they were up against a tough proposition. If Stratford goes down to defeat on the round, the lion's share of credit will be Farrell's. Never did he play better hockey.

Preston's play during the greater part of the play was of a defensive character, and their defence was particularly effective.

STRANGLER LEWIS WAS SAVED BY THE POLICE

CHICAGO, February 27. Canadian Press. — The police and firemen escorted Strangler Lewis, champion wrestler, in his dressing room last night, followed by an angry crowd, after referee Pat McGill had awarded Lewis the decision over Zybszko.

The crowd also drove McGill back into the ring when he tried to leave.

Each of the grapplers had won a fall and in the third struggle Lewis struck Zbyszko on the point of the chin with the back of his wrist, and knicking him unconscious.

Lewis fell on his opponent and the referee gave Lewis the fall.

Zbysko declared after the bout that Lewis had struck him on the point of the jaw with his clenched fist and knocked him out.

RADIO MAN SEES PEOPLE CONTROL FUTURE PROGRAM

We Can Hardly Appreciate Too Keenly This New Means of Communication.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 27.—The only way radio listeners can safely control the class of programs broadcast to them is through federal adoption of this form of entertainment.

Thus only, says Alex. Eisemann, radio manufacturer and former President of the National Radio Chamber of Commerce, will the public be able to express its preference for whatever it likes to hear by radio.

"In years to come," Eisemann predicts, "the campaign literature of candidates for office will contain among the pre-election promises assurances that the new man or woman, if elected, will supply better broadcasting than his or her predecessor."

But before this eventually, he says must come the federal adoption of radio broadcasting maintained by a special radio reception tax. This will become a necessity, he goes on, and only those broadcasters will survive who will be repaid financially for their services.

"Those stations which are making a charge for the use of their plants," says Eisemann, "are today furnishing the highest quality of entertainment. This is the only kind of broadcasting that will develop a real and lasting public interest in the art.

"It appears to be unsafe to hope for a continuation of good broadcasting unless the broadcasters are properly compensated. It is quite within the bounds of reason to suggest that a federal tax be placed on all receiving sets, based on the number of vacuum tubes. The tax need be nominal, but multiplied by millions of receiving sets, a substantial fund could be thus guaranteed for the maintenance of powerful federal stations operated strictly in accordance with the wishes of the people.

"We can hardly appreciate keenly," Eisemann concludes, "the marvellous romance of this new means of communication. Its power for good or evil is tremendous. A newspaper can readily be held responsible for anything that it publishes, but the words of broadcasters melt away and no record is made.

"It would appear, therefore, that the ultimate controlling agency in each station should be Governmental."

NATURE'S DANGER SIGNALS

Nervousness, melancholia, backache, headache and pain in the side, are all nature's danger signals which indicate some ailment peculiar to a woman. When such warning symptoms appear women may avoid much pain and suffering if they would rely upon Lydie E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as its tonic, and strengthening influence speedily removes the cause and restores the system to a healthy, normal condition.

HUMBERSTONE 1, KITCHENER 0

PORT COLBORNE, Feb. 27. — (Canadian Press). — Humberstone Juniors surprised Kitchener by defeating them 1 to 0 at Port Colborne arena last night. Humberstone had a slight edge on the play throughout the game, and Near scored the only goal on a beautiful rush and beat Klem on a wicked shot from the side. The game was clean, only three penalties being handed out, and it was by far the fastest junior game seen here this season.

EPWORTH LEAGUE HELD A MEETING

News of Hastings and the District--Personal Mention.

HASTINGS, Feb. 27.—The regular meeting of the Epworth League of the Hastings Methodist church was held in the school room on Monday evening. The meeting was in charge of the newly appointed fourth vice-president, Miss Joyce Richardson. The singing of a hymn and prayer by the pastor, Rev. M. L. Hinton, opened the meeting. The minutes of tht last meeting were read and adopted. The scripture lesson was read by Roland Jones. After the business was transacted the topic was taken by Mrs. E. Beavis. An instrumental was given by Miss Lillian Montgomery, followed by a reading by Mrs. B. F. Doxsee.

Miss Lillian Tate and Miss Winnie Eager played a piano duet, after which Mr. A. Knight gave a reading. Miss Reta Scriver played a piano solo and was followed by a reading by Miss Hazel Waye. The singing of a hymn and the Mizpah prayer closed the meeting.

Dancing Is Good Way to Develop Your Legs.

By GILDA GRAY.

Dancing is, in my opinion, the best way to develop one's legs.

There are many reasons for this, not the least of which is the spirit in which you lose yourself when under the influence of musical rhythm. You sway on and on and on in a delicious languor during which the leg muscles are brought into play almost without thought.

Dancing exercises all the leg muscles and in such a way that perfect co-ordination is obtained. This is due, perhaps, to the fact that music is stressed, has a definite beat, and all dance movements are necessarily graceful.

Then, too, there is the wish to be graceful and beautiful while dancing. This helps immeasurably.

This may seem foolish perhaps, to the one-two-three school of physical culturists. Dancing, they say, is play while, to be beautiful, one must devote time and earnest thought to the training process.

That makes my point exactly. No routine exercise can possibly be as strenuous as continued dancing. The difference lies, however, in the fact that dancing IS play—lovely, beautiful, graceful movements, in time to lovely, beautiful, graceful music.

There are some simple exercises, however, which are of great help. One, which has proven most valuable to me, is to stand still, heels together, then to rise slowly on the toes. Another is to squat, hands on hips, rosing slowly, repeating the movement again and again.

As far as that goes, practically all exercises are helpful. But dancing, to my mind, is the most valuable of all.

VEGETABLE SYRUP TAKES PLACE OF HARSH DRUGS AND MEDICINES

Used by Dr. Thacher For Gas on Sour Stomach, Constipation, Indigestion, Colds and Run-Down Condition.

We were asked the other day to explain why so many people got such quick relief through the use of the vegetable syrup prescribed by Dr. Thacher—why it so often gave relief after harsh drugs and medicines had failed.

Why You Feel Badly.

Dr. Thacher found that the majority who called on him with various ailments were suffering because one vital organ was out of order. This organ is the liver. It aids digestion, helps prevent constipation and purify your blood. But, when it becomes clogged and sluggish it cannot do these three things. Consequently you often wake up mornings feeling dull and tired and frequently suffer from one or more symptoms such as poor digestion, coated tongue, faulty movement of the bowels, colds and a general run-down, nervous and upset condition. And, medicines that fail to correct the cause of this condition fail to give you lasting relief.

Get Quick Relief!

Try this, yourself! Just, a few spoonsful of the vegetable syrup prescribed by Dr. Thacher. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel! This vegetable syrup (known as Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup) contains ingredients known to physicians for their corrective and health-building properties. Start taking it after the next meal to cleanse and tone your liver and build up your system. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise druggists are authorized to refund the entire cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold by J. P. Bond, McDermid & Jury and The Warne Drug Company, Ltd., in Peterborough; The Tanner Drug Company, Ltd., in Lakefield, and by leading druggists in every city and town.

To Have Good Health

the liver must be kept in good order. For biliousness, dizziness and all liver ailments.

THE QUALITY OF BULK TEA.

The quality of bulk tea is always unreliable for several reasons. In the first place, being unlabelled its origin is unknown and there is no one who has any particular responsibility for its goodness. In the second place it is exposed to the air, and therefore very quickly loses its flavor and freshness. Even if it were as good as "SALADA" in the first place it would rapidly deteriorate and in any case it would be impossible for any dealer to follow consistently the same quality throughout the year. "SALADA" always maintains an unvarying high standard, possible through skilful blending.

DO HEAVY MEALS BEGIN TO TELL?

Follow Your Meals With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They give Stomach the Alkaline Effect That Prevents Gassiness and Sour Risings.

Those old-time husky eaters often fall down on a glass of milk or a doughnut, the stomach is heavy, fills with gas, is sour and woefully dyspeptic. Truth is, it had just such attacks always, but they didn't last. Now the stomach needs help and the best thing you can do is to fortify your meals with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They give the stomach the alkaline effect, they help it to digest food, they give it materials to do this with, they absorb the gas, stop acidity, relieve pressure, and no matter whether it is pork and cabbage, pie and cheese, sausages and buckwheats or steak and onions, your stomach works without distress and you have none of those troubles due to indigestion or dyspepsia. Get a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet at any drug store. Then eat and be merry.

WARSAW HOCKEY TEAM DEFEATED BY SIMCOE

Visitors Appeared More Finished in Style and Were Faster, Winning By 3 - 1 at Lakefield in Exhibition Game—The Township Folks Were All There.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 27. — The Warsaw hockey team, pride of Dummer township, packed the local rink with their supporters last night for the exhibition game with the Simcoe team whose margin of two goals in the score of 3-1 just about represents the play and the respective merits of the contestants.

The visitors had a shade more speed and their system was more finished with a combination that worked well in spots.

Warsaw, however, were not disgraced. They battled away gamely, checked hard and had a big measure of the play. While Wasson their net guardian performed well, Crawford in Simcoe's goal kicked out shots that called for cool, clever blocking. The visitors arrived from Peterboro at 8.30 o'clock after a ten mile drive that chilled them to the marrow. They were not thawed out when the game started about 9.15, but they broke away with a burst of speed that soon warmed them up.

The teams were:

Warsaw—Goal, Wasson; defence, Morgan and H. Darling; centre, R. Darling; right wing, Bell; left wing, J. H. Darling; subs, Bowen and Payne.

Simcoe—Goal, J. Crawford; defence, C. Grant and E. Crawford; centre, C. Foyston; right wing, Adams; left wing, H. Foyston; sub. Priest.

Referee—Burgess, Peterboro.

Simcoe unloosed a strong attack with the drop of the puck and had a decided advantage in the first period when they got their three goals. E. Crawford scored in ten minutes and repeated in less than another ten and Adams banged in the third a few seconds before the bell rang. The second period was a blang. Simcoe had the edge on the play, but Wasson picked off the dangerous shots, batting some of the high ones out in baseball style.

Twelve minutes through the final session Bowen scored Warsaw's lone counter. Both teams showed the effect of the furious pace in the first period and the game ended without any further features. There were only three penalties, E. Crawford one and H. Carling two, for minor infractions.

The visitors found the crowd cordial. Their best work was cheered almost as warmly as Warsaw's. Most of the spectators were from the township, and Lakefield contributed a large number to the rinkfull.

SISLER'S CONDITION MUCH IMPROVED

WINTER IN CALIFORNIA WORKS WONDERS WITH STAR PLAYER

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif., Feb. 26.—George Sisler's apparent recovery from eye trouble, which kept him off the field last year, is the most portentous pre-season news in the baseball world.

It indicates that he will assume management of the St. Louis Browns at the opening of the training season, and with his energy and generalship make that team a contender to be reckoned with in the 1924 championship.

The announcement comes from Sisler himself, one of the great figures of the diamond, wintering in this nationally known retreat of artists and winter lair of ball players.

Rated in 1922 the foremost player in the American League, and first to have his name inscribed on the American League's monument to baseball in Washington, George Sisler didn't play a game during 1923 because of sinus trouble contracted from flu. For a time his friends feared he would be permanently disabled. His illness was regarded as the greatest baseball tragedy of the year. But the pillar of the Browns was not disheartened.

Hopes to Play Again

"I do not see double now," he explained with his fighting grin, "except when I get excited or turn too quickly. I've been getting better right along, and I am confident my eyes will be in good shape for the opening of the season.

"Only a man who has been in perfect condition all his life and then is kept from his work as I have been, will appreciate what I have been through.

"Last summer was the longest and most distressful period of my life.

"I am to manage the Browns this season, although I have not signed my contract yet. Phil DeC. Ball, president of the club, will be out shortly and I am to have a talk with him then.

"Austin, who managed the Browns last year, and Cravath have been wonderful to me." With these two, Jimmy Austin and "Gavvy" Cravath, former Salt Lake and Philadelphia National League manager, Sisler has been palling around at the beach resort, some 60 miles below Los Angeles.

"I am in perfect physical condition, and I believe the wonderful winter weather here has helped my eyes greatly," he added.

Browns Need Reserves.

"I intend to leave Laguna Beach the latter part of February for Mobil, where th eclub will do its spring training.

"Reserve strength," he injected thinking of his team, "is the crying need of the Browns."

Sisler Roughs It to Regai n Health

As a result of illness, Sisler's right eye would no focus. Standing at the plate this phenomenal batsman saw every ball hurled in double image. It not only confused him, but he risked his life every time he stepped to bat against speedy pitchers. Such was his condition when he had to quit, and when he arrived at the California beach.

But Sisler has extraordinary stamina. He is naturally buoyant. Circumstance, even of the gloomiest nature, doesn't daunt him. He set out with a determination that his eyes must come right again, and with professional guidance and his own splendid physique and rigorous routine he has apparently achieved his fondest hope.

Popular With Players.

The pleasant environment of Laguna Beach appealed to Sisler as it has to other ball players. Nothing very exciting here. Artists painting the brilliant colors and interesting contours of a secluded beach. Occasional intrusion of hardy bathers during the winter. The indolent life of sea-fowl and scuttling crabs. Fishing. A little huddle of quaint houses. The solemn beat of surf on jagged reefs. A place remote from bustle and sharp distractions.

Among major and minor leaguers who have wintered here in recent years are Sisler and Ken Williams of St. Louis; Bobby Jones, Detroit third sacker; "Gavvy" Cravath former home-run king of the big time, now a prosperous real estater of the vicinity; Jimmy Austin, who recently constructed a beautiful residence here; Del and Ivan Howard of the Oakland Pacific Coast League club; Bob and Irish Meusel, Pete Schneider and "Chicken" Hawkes.

BOWLING

BRINTON CARPET LEAGUE.

Last night in the Brinton Carpet League at Solomon's Alleys the Carltons took two out of three from the Ardebils.

Some of the most sensational scores of this league were turned in last night. In the first game the Carltons rolled 1051 and in the last game the Ardebils rolled 1031. Both of the other games for each team was productive of good scores.

There were six men well over the 500 mark. The best score of the evening was that of Thomas who rolled 672 for his three games. He also had the high single of 296.

Some other great scores were rolled and a glance at the scores below will show you that. The scores:

GLEN COLLETT IS TOO NICE TO HER OPPONENTS

Miss Collett Has All th e Shots Any Champion Needs But Lacks Stern, Militant Mood.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Glenna Collett

Glenna Collett does not fall many shades short of being the finest woman golfer ever developed in America, not excepting Alexa Stirling, three times winner of the national, or Edith Cummings, present titlist.

The Providence maiden has one weakness, an under-developed combativeness. She doesn't stick her jaw out and cry "let me at 'em," as does Miss Cummings, for example. Glenna is inclined, in her play, to be sociable rather than savage. This is probably why she is often beaten unexpectedly by inferior players.

Twice Glenna was beaten by Mrs. Caleb Fox, aged Philadelphia grandmother, in Florida tournaments. Mrs. Fox is a splendid golfer, but not Collett. Glenna lost not through inferior play so much as repressed aggression, if that phrase explains the mood.

This year, however, the Rhode Island girl seems to be in a more militant stride. She started the season by winning an important tournament in the south, defeating among others her persistent nemesis, Mrs. Fox, and clicking off two rounds in 75, brilliant golf for anybody.

Glenna is perhaps the most gifted brassie player among the women. She wields this club with extraordinary power and skill, employing a pronounced masculine technique.

She thinks the most remarkable shot she ever played was a brassie second to the home green at Brookline several years ago. This is a tough par four hole to an elevated green with a running track racing along in front of it.

"Mrs. Clarence Vanderbeck was leading the field in this tournament" relates Glenna.

"I was the only one with a chance even to tie her, and I had to get a birdie three to do it.

"I got a nice drive off the eighteenth tee. The green, rising high and ominously, was still 220 yards away. I hadn't been able to reach it with my second shot throughout the tournament. No other player had either. Indeed, no woman player in the history of Brookline had ever got home on this green in two.

"I realized I had little chance to tie Mrs. Vanderbeck, but I resolved to reach that green with my second. I used a brassie and swung with all my power. The golfing gods were with me. The ball sailed far and true, carried clear to the green and rolled on 12 feet beyond the cup. three and a tie but missed the putt. That brassie, though, was the longest second shot I ever made."

LAKEFIELD AND DISTRICT SPORT

Old Boys' Team From Toronto Played the Grove School—Hockey Week.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 27.—There was a right royal welcome accorded the Old Boy's team which came down from Toronto and played The Grove on Saturday. Not only the school themselves but scores of village friends were heartily glad to welcome back the old boys. Perhaps it is not unfair to others to say that the Gray brothers received the greatest ovation of all. They have been at The Grove for years and this is their first year at Upper Canada College. They have taken a prominent part in all school activity and were known and liked all over the village. It is a rarity for an ex-Grove boy not to find a welcome in Lakefield which speaks well for both the school and the boys themselves.

Smith, who played centre on the old boy's team, and Gray are both members of the U.C.C. first team and are players to be reckoned with. The Grove played a splendid game also with practically an all star team and the score 11-11 satisfied everyone and proved the metal of both teams.

Hockey Week.

This is hockey week again it seems as there is a regular programme of hockey planned.

There was a double header Monday and on Tuesday a U.F.O. League game and on Wednesday, in a Lakefield District hockey league game Trude's Tractors will meet Kennedy's Colts.

The popularity of hockey continues and during the next week there will be several interesting games.

Warsaw will play the Simcoe Co. champion team on Tuesday night which will mean a big game in the U.F.O. County League. Warsaw has trimmed all the teams in the Peterborough County League as well as playing strong in the Lakefield District League. During the past week Young's Point have been eliminated from the latter league after their defeat by the Tractors. The game between Kenendy's Colts and Trude's Tractors will decide the winner of Group 2 of the league.

The tie between the Rink Rats and the Grove in the Junior League has still to be played off for the Mackenzie Cup.

The Clerical rink is receiving congratulations on their victory in the bonspiel which won them the Casement Cup. As one prominent curler said, they could not go astray with a clergyman at each end and the local Minister of Education and the Warden of the County with them.

The vice skip's bonspiel for the Tanner cup will be pulled off during this week, thus completing the scheduled games and local bonspiel. Last year R. J. Jory won the Tanner trophy with G. G. Connel as runner up. This year Mr. Jory is not eligible as he is himself a skip. There is no decline in the interest shown in this popular sport.

DEMPSEY IN HOSPITAL.

NEW YORK, February 27 (Canadian Press). — Jack Dempsey will undergo a minor operation in the Polyclinic Hospital this morning.

The heavyweight champion was taken last night to the hospital.

DAVIS CUP CHALLENGES.

NEW YORK, February 26. — The official challenges of two Oriental nations, Japan and China, for the 1924 Davis Cup contest, were received to-day by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

This increases the total entry list to 13 in addition to which Canada already has indicated it will file a challenge.

Both of the latest challengers will compete in the American zone preliminary play, in which Australia was the only previous entry.

DANGLE PURSE BEFORE FIRPO

Last Bid By New York Syndicate For Heavyweight Battle With Harry Wills Made Public.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.— A final bid for a heavyweight battle on June 19 between Luis Firpo and Harry Wills was contained to-day in a statement issued by the New York syndicate which for several weeks has been dangling a half million dollar purse in an effort to attract the principals into the match.

Reiterating conditions imposed several days ago and subsequently rejected by Firpo, according to cable despatches, the syndicate's statement asserts these terms will not be modified and that unless the Argentine changes his attitude all negotiations will be cancelled.

Lew Raymond, who is associated with Simon Flaherty, of the Queensboro A.C. in the syndicate, admitted to-day that he entertained small hope that Firpo would accept his terms but declared that since he had received no direct word from the South American he desired to make his final position clear.

Terms set forth by the syndicate which resulted in an apparent breakup of negotiations included refusal to post a $50,000 forfeit in Buenos Aires, instead of New York, and a demand that the South American, upon his arrival here, forego all barnstorming and exhibitions, and put himself under the syndicate's control until the Wills fight.

"We continue to stand by our original offer," the statement said, "and will deposit the first installment of $50,000 of Firpo's $250,000 purse, as a guarantee, within twelve hours of his cabled acceptance of our terms. We will then stand ready to post an additional $100,000 to his credit with the same depository thirty days before the match and the remaining $100,000, forty-eight hours before he enters the ring."

Chelsea Soccer Club Cannot Spare Wilson.

LONDON, February 27 (Canadian Press Cable). — Announcement was made by the Chelsea Football Club yesterday that in view of their precarious position in the First League they will be unable to spare Andy Wilson in the International Association football game to be played at Glasgow next Saturday between Scotland and Ireland.

Wilson's place will be filled by Gallagher of Airdrieonians.

The Scottish eleven now accordingly consists of players selected from Scottish clubs only, a condition that has not been paralelled for many years.

St. Pats and Canadiens Start Play-Off To-Night

MONTREAL, February 27. — Another capacity crowd is predicted for the Mount Royal Arena this evening when Canadiens and Toronto St. Patricks play the first of their final home and home games in the N.H.L. race for play-off honors, the teams being scheduled to meet again at the week-end at Toronto. Both are at present tied for second place and on the outcome of the two games will largely depend the honors. A double win for either team would settle it, while a division of the games would leave the honors to the final scheduled fixtures when Canadiens meet Hamilton here and St. Pat's play Ottawa at Toronto.

Ruth Eliminated In Spring Golf Tourney.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 26. — Bab Ruth, who finished two points above the medal score in the qualifying round of the annual spring tournament at the Hot Springs Golf and Country Club here yesterday showed a reversal of form to-day and was eliminated in the first round of match play, 2 up, by S. Reifetz, of Chicago, who finished nine strokes behind Duth yesterday.

NEW YORK, February 26 — Joe Bush, the veteran pitcher, and Joe Dugan, the star third sacker, both of whom were said to have been holdouts, today signed 1924 contracts with the world champion New York Yankees.

Floating Specks Before The Eyes Means Liver Trouble

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything seems to turn black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you can rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and clear away the accumulated mass of waste and poisonous matter from the system.

Mr. Chas. Ayland, Frankville, Ont., writes:—"I used to be awfully bothered with floating specks before my eyes, headaches and sickness to my stomach. I took just half a vial of your Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and ever since I have felt as well as I ever did. Now I always keep them on hand."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LAKEFIELD NEEDS FIRE ALARM BELL

At Present the Bell on St. John's Church Is Used to Announce a Fire.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 27.—There is a great deal being said now of economy and municipalities and governments are urged to practice rigid economy. When one thinks of personal or collective economy we should think first of economy in luxuries. However far too often the craze for economy cuts of necessities and spends on the unnecessary. Lakefield has, with its many assets a few crying needs which are to be ranked as being necessary not only to the municipality but also to each individual ratepayer. One of these is a proper and adequate fire alarm. A fire is a catastrophe in any town or village and the call being an urgent one should be made as insistent as possible.

For many years past it has been customary to use the bell of St. John's Church as a fire alarm but this, while the chruch officials have always obligingly allowed the bell to be used, was not a village alarm and according to the report of the inspector of fire brigades, which was printed and circulated among the insurance agents of the village, it was neither suitable or adequate. The church is three blocks from the fire hall, the logical place for the alarm. The local brigade have long realized the need of a modern alarm and have been working with that end in view. It is up to each individual in the village to do their part to help them. The proceeds of the dance to be held on Friday night will go to the fund and it is hoped that a goodly number will attend and lend a hand toward helping the Fire Brigade to help the village. A suggestion has been made to some citizens, that a large card party, which would provide for devotees of bridge, five hundred and euchre, would be a worth while effort as many more people in the village play cards than dance. It is worthy of consideration at least.

The Fire Brigade in the three years of their existence have worked for most of their equipment and have striven manfully to perfect themselves in their branch of service and with such success that with one exception they have saved house or building which has taken fire during that time. Their record is a credit to themselves and to the village.

Lakefield has its fair share of remarkable happenings it seems and on Monday afternoon a good many citizens were surprised and very much amused to see two boys giving a calf a cutter ride. The favored animal stood in front of the cutter and placidly enjoyed the ride. There is no necessity for a branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in this section.

Mr. S. S. Spence is receiving condolences from his many friends in the village, owing to the sudden death of his brother, Rev. Hamilton Spence of Peterboro. The sympathy of the entire community is with Mr. Spence in his bereavement.

The Lord Bishop of Keewatin will be in the village on Tuesday and will address two meeting in St. John's Church, one at 3 p.m. under the auspices of the W.A. and one at 8 p.m. with illustrations of the "Great Northland" in which the Bishop labors in a diocese of enormous area with space population.

Personal Mention.

Miss Loretta Gibson returned on Monday from a visit to relations in Campbellford.

Miss Lella Burgess of Peterboro was a week-end visitor in the village.

Miss Shaughnessy of Peterboro, who has been in Young's Point for a few days, passed through the village on Saturday.

G. H. Spence was in Peterboro on Monday.

Miss Corkery spent the week-end in Peterboro with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Corkery, Gilmour street.

Harry Atwood of Toronto spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Marling.

Miss Tanner is visiting friends in Peterboro.

Fred Garvey of Toronto is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Garvey.

Miss Hunter, who spent the past six weeks in Rochester, N.Y., has returned to the village.

P. Spence was a visitor to Peterboro on Saturday.

Miss Irene Madill of Peterboro was in the village on Saturday.

V. G. Simpson has taken a position in Detroit, leaving the village last week.

HOW PRINTER MIXED WEDDING

A compositor in the Bangor (Pa.) News a day or two ago got a wedding story and an auction sale notice hopelessly mixed up, with the following result:

William Smith, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph, and Miss Lucy Anderson were disposed of at a public auction at my farm, one mile east, in the presence of about seventy guests, including two mules and twelve head of cattle.

Rev. Jackson tied the nuptial knot for the parties averaging 1,500 pounds on hoof. The home of the bride was decorated with one sulky rake, one feed grinder, two sets of harness, nearly new, and just before the ceremony was pronounced the Mendol and Sons wedding march was rendered by one milch cow, five years old. One jersey cow and one sheep, who, carrying a bunch of bride's roses in her hand, was very beautiful. She wore one light spring wagon, two crates of apples, three sacks of hay, one grindstone of mouseline de soi and trimmings with about one hundred bushels of spuds. The bridal couple left yesterday on an extended trip. Terms, spot cash. —The Index.

TIGERS MEET VARSITY WITH FOUR GOAL LEAD

HAMILTON, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press).—The Tigers will enter into the return game at Toronto on Friday night for the honors of Group No. 1 of the Senior O.H.A. with a four-goal lead to work on. Last night the Bengals stepped into the Varsity squad, checked them to a standstill, and walked off with a five to one victory, in as pretty a game as one would care to see. Aside from the first ten minutes of the opening period, the students were never in the picture. They tried hard to penetrate the Tiger defence, but found it an impossibility, and on end they showed signs of tiring, the result of the fast pace which the Bengals set and never stopped. The Tigers showed at their best before the largest crowd that has witnessed an amateur game here this year. It was only wonderful save on the part of Thompson that saved Varsity from a worse drubbing. The students could not penetrate the Tiger defence. Their combination play was broken up by the close checking of the forward line and their individual efforts to beat Day and Redding proved fruitless. The defensive work of the Hamilton team was a big factor.

TENNIS CLUB HOSTS AT BELMONT DANCE

The Peterboro Tennis Club were hosts at a very pleasant function last night when the members and their friends gathered for a card party and dance in the Belmont Club rooms.

The fore part of the evening took the form of a progressive euchre drive. The first prize for gentlemen was won by Mr. Leblanc, and the ladies' prize by Miss Kemp.

After supper the floor was cleared and, to music from Mr. Evans and his radio orchestra, the "Love-40" artists got in condition for the summer campaign by walking to music.

LADIES' CURLING.

In the second round of the mixed curling games for the Sturgeon Shield, held at the Charlotte Street Rink yesterday, the results were:

Miss M. Neill 9 vs. Mrs. B. Hardness 5.

Mrs. C. E. Jamieson 8 vs. Mrs. H. W. Cressman 7.

Mrs. R. M. Waddell 9 vs. Mrs. W. J. Oke 8.

Mrs. R. Grant 11 vs. Mrs. A. W. Turner 7.

The next round will be played tomorrow morning at 9.30, between the rinks skipped by Miss M. Neill vs. Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, and Mrs. R. M. Waddell vs. Mrs. R. Grant.

REACH SEMI FINALS VICE SKIPS' SPIEL

Some Very Close Games Were Played--Semi-Finals May Be Run Off To-night.

After an exhibition of some clever curling last night, the semi-finals of the Vice-Skpis' Bonspiel was reached.

There are but four rinks left in the running, and after to-night, if the semi-finals are played, there will only be two left to fight it out for the championship. In the third round Howden put up a good fight, but he was nosed out by Larmer by one shot. King was also left out when Wiley beat him by the score of 10 shots to 9. Potvin, after making a good showing on Monday night, fell down badly before Chenhall, and was trimmed to the tune of 12 to 4. Sedgwick also jumped to the semi-finals when he beat Seymour by 4 shots.

Third Round.

Howden 8, Larmer 9.
King 9, Wiley 10.
Potvin 4, Chenhall 12.

Semi-Finals.

Larmer vs. Wiley and Chenhall vs. Sedgwick.

OSHAWA HERE TO LIFT THE CUP

Green and White Crew Expect to Walk Off with the Silverware.

Everything is set for the Oshawa-Peterboro game to-night at Brock Street rink for the Andrew Brown Challeng Cup and the game promises to be one of the best of the season. Oshawa with Murray and Carter added to the defence will be stronger than on their last appearance here and are confident of lifting the trophy. The Petes on the other hand with a week's rest are "raving to go" and have no intention of letting the silver ware get away from them without a real battle. Carter the Port Hope defence man was considered the best player is the Oshawa-Port Hope group and work to-night will be watched with interest while the appearance of Micky Murray in the Oshawa nets will also interest the crowd. The game should put the final touches on the Petes training for the O.H.A. test next week.

The proceeds will be presented to the Rotary Club to assist in work on behalf if the city's crippled children.

MILITARY CONTROL IS BEFORE ENTENTE

First Direct Franco-British Negotiations on Controversial Topic Under MacDonald.

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(United Press).—The Ambassadors of France and Great Britain met to-day in the first direct Franco-British negotiations on a controversal question since the advent of Premier MacDonald's Labor Government. Officialdom watched the meeting with interest because it was on this same question—military control of Germany—that the Franco-British entente was nearly wrecked when the last discussion was attempted by the Baldwin Government.

It was learned that MacDonald's suggestions as to the necessity for stricter military control were favorably reported upon to the Ambassadors by an Inter-Allied Commission headed by Marshal Foch.

DAUGHERTY MAY RETIRE AT END INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press).—An offer by Attorney-General Daugherty to retire to private life when the Senate completes its investigation of his official accounts is believed in some administration circles to be imminent.

He announced after another conference to-day with President Coolidge that a statement would be made before night regarding his retention in the Cabinet.

Mr. Daugherty arrived at the President's offices immediately after breakfast to-day.

The conference lasted more than an hour.

HAD OPEN MEETING OF BABIES' CLINIC

Dr. J. A. Morgan Gave a Talk Accidents Among Children.

An open meeting of the Well Babies' Clinic was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms at the G.W.V.A. Hall. The honorary president, Mrs. James Kendry, occupied the chair. A talk on "Emergencies and Accidents Among Children" was given by Dr. J. A. Morgan, and the King's Daughters served tea.

The talk by Dr. Morgan was one of those practical and clear-cut expositions of some of the ordinary, everyday happenings in the life of the child with regard to sudden, unforeseen emergencies, that hold a great deal of value for their hearers, and are of great benefit to mothers of growing children. Speaking first of burns, the doctor recommended the use of wax or oil to seal the injury from the air. Flour should not be used, as it brought the skin with it when removed. Scalds also were sometimes the result of accidents, and oil was excellent for them also. If pus formed in a burn or scald, a doctor should be summoned at once.

For convulsions, which were often caused by stomach or intestinal disorders, or by diseased teeth, tonsils or adenoids, the treatment was to give a half-cupful of warm water with mustard in it. The child should also be immersed in a mustard bath and an enema administered.

In a case of choking, a doctor should be called immediately. Great care should be exercised in the type of toys given to children. Their habit of poking small objects into the mouth, nostrils and ears led to many complications, and toys with hooks in them were a source of danger. Peas, especially, when pushed into the nose or ears, were liable to expand. The most fatal thing for children to put into their mouths was Gillett's Lye.

For croup, which came on usually at night, an inhalation of steam and a soft cloth about the neck were excellent preventatives. Diphtheria bears a strong resemblance to croup and, for that reason, a physician should be called if the disease does not yield to simple measures. Croup was often caused by diseased tonsils and adenoids.

Care should be taken to see that the clothing was of a comfortable type, and that the material in it did not chafe the skin. If sores formed from such chafing, a solution of Lysol might be used as a wash, and the cause of the trouble removed at once also.

For broken bones, nothing should be done after calling the doctor except to hold the fracture steady until his arrival.

Shoes were often a prolific cause of discomfort in children. An uncomfortable shoe might cause a child to walk on the side of its foot and so make for weak ankles.

For toothache, an application of oil of cloves and the removal of the offending molar, by home dentistry, if loose, or professional, was recommended.

DEATH TOLL THREE IN RAILWAY WRECK

Third Victim Died a Few Hours After Entering Hospital.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 27. — Both of the engines were badly damaged, and it was necessary to chop out the sides of the cabs to remove the bodies of the enginemen.

A relief train carrying physicians and nurses was ordered from Brockville, and returned at 7 o'clock with two injured railwaymen.

The baggage car of the passenger train caught fire and all the second-class mails were burned. The locked mail bags were removed successfully.

Both tracks of the main line are blocked as a result of the wreck.

Coroner Dr. Fred Jackson will open an inquest at Mallorytown.

A later despatch says that William C. Kerrigan, fireman of the freight train, died after being admitted to the hospital.

"SCARAMOUCHE" IS COMING

Rex Ingram Photoplay Pictures Sabatini Novel of French Revolution

The latest Rex Ingram production for Metro, "Scaramouche," a picturization of Rafael Sabatini's novel of that name, will come to the Capital Theatre on Monday for a run of four days. The cast is headed by Alice Terry, Lewis Stone and Ramon Novarro.

"Scaramouche," according to advance reports from the larger cities, where it has been played as a two dollar attraction, is one of the greatest pictures in screen history.

The story is laid in the time of the French revolution and deals with the adventures of a young noble who takes the side of the people. Willis Goldbeck made the screen adaptation and the photography was by John F. Seitz.

FLAMING BARRIERS HAS GREAT FIRE SCENE

The George Melford Paramount production of "Flaming Barriers," featuring Jacqueline Logan, Antonio Moreno and Walter Hiers which opens at the Capital Theatre on Thursday, is one of the finest melodramatic comedies ever brought to the screen. It is a decided picture novelty, humanly appealing and a bear for thrills.

Miss Logan, a fighting daughter who isn't afraid to drive a flying machine over a burning forest or a fire truck through one, and who does both in this picture, amazed her admirers with her grit and daring. Mr. Moreno, as Sam Barton, wealth efficiency expert and golf enthusiast, has a virile role to portray. His fight with Joseph Pickens, the heavy in the picture, who has attacked Jerry, played by Miss Logan, roused the audience to a high pitch of excitement by its realism.

The story is one of a modern motor-driven fire-fighting truck, and invention of Patrick Malone, Jerry's father. His ambition is to get the truck before the notice of the visiting fire chiefs in convention in Bubridge. Jerry and Sam Barton see to this, though not before they manage to get old Malone arrested for parking near a fire hydrant, which is but one of the many amusing comedy reliefs in "Flaming Barriers," one of the most interesting and gripping screen productions seen here in many a day.

AT THE GRAND

"THE CAT AND THE CANARY"

The attraction at the Grand tonight will be that spookiest of melodramas, "The Cat and the Canary", and if one may judge by the way it has been received throughout the country, a week of large attendance may be safely prophesied. For all who love the mysterious and enjoy having cold chills traverse their spinal columns back and forth in rapid succession, this play will furnish all the sensations they desire. It is a melodrama interlarded with thrills and shivers. The story starts in a shivery manner. Before the curtains has been raised many minutes a weird West Indian negress begins to predict evil for those present. Friends of her in the shadowland whisper to her and warn her of coming ills. This person has a voice of sepulchral depth that gives her listeners the creeps. Her warnings are not without fulfillment, for shortly after that the queer doings of the night begin. And the whole mischief is caused by the provisions of the will made by an eccentric old codger who cordially hated all his relatives. Even in death he cannot refrain from making things uncomfortable for them. His will summons them to gather at midnight on the twentieth anniversary of his death in the house where he died to hear the document read. The six surviving relatives gather at midnight on the twentieth anniversary of his death in the house where he died to hear the document read. The six surviving kinsmen gather together on this occasion for this purpose. In the gloom of the library the executor reads the will, which leaves the vast estate to one young girl, a struggling artist. It is then the diabolical occurrences commence. The apparently solid walls of the library opens and engulfs the executor, a murder is committed, a homicidal maniac who has escaped from a nearby asylum is reported, to be in the house and a manhunt is organized for him. Then a necklace is mysteriously stolen from the neck of a sleeping girl, and many other startling episodes follow each other in rapid succession, keeping the audience on edge until the end of the performance. There is a lot of fun in the performance that lightens up the gloom. The unwarranted scares of the characters—and of the audience itself—for that matter, brings many a roar of laughter. The company presenting the play is an excellent one and comprises most of the players seen in the performance during the long New York run, among them being Sylvia Field, Virginia Howell, Clara Verdera, Percy Moore, Walter Regan and Carl Eckstrom.

AT THE REGENT

"THE WHIP."

Originally Produced in the Famous Drury Lane Theatre.

"The Whip," was originally produced in the famous Drury Lane Theatre in London, and it made the most sensational success recorded in the home of sensational successes. For over two years the throngs surged into the theatre day in and day out to see this wonderful production. Then "The Whip" was brought to this country by William A. Brady and produced in the Manhattan Opera House, and there it repeated its tremendous success. Later "The Whip" was presented in Australia, and ran for two years there and it was then translated into foreign languages and presented with equal success on the continent.

There are many reasons for this wonderful success of this play—reasons that make it ever more successful as a motion picture. For instance: It is modern, it is about people of to-day; it is mammoth scenes, the biggest ever seen in motion pictures: it is smart; its people are well dressed; it has a thrilling intense story; it is consistent; it has scores of "punches" and it tells a love story and a story of villainy that cannot fail to grip and hold the attention of every spectator.

It is a real treat that is in store for everyone who can see "The Whip." It will be a treat to see the tremendous scenic effects, the gorgeous gowns, the wonderful interior views and to see and enter into the enthralling and thrilling story around "The Whip," the famous racehorse, whose success in a great race means so much to so many people.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS' GREATEST PRODUCTION, 'FURY,' AT ROYAL THURSDAY

Dorothy Gish Plays Opposite Star.

Richard Barthelmess in 'Fury,' a rollicking, stirring drama of the deep sea from the facile pen of Edmund Goulding, will be the First National piece de resistance at the Royal Theatre, beginning tomorrow.

This production is heralded as an even more ambitious dramatic effort than any other of Barthelmess' highly popular screen successes, including either "Tol'able David" or "The Bond Boy," or any of his late releases.

A very large portion of the picture was taken at sea in a picturesque old four-masted sailing schooner, for Barthelmess plays the role of a cowed young second mate whose spirit is not thoroughly aroused until his father, the captain, throws discredit on the name of the girl the boy intended to marry.

Then, later, on learning from the lips of his dying father the name of the man who had wronged his mother, his whole nature changes and he swears vengeance. Which leads to gripping denouement and the culmination of a romance.

Dorothy Gish is Barthelmess' leading lady, portraying the role of Minnie, the little London boarding house slavey with whom the bashful young mate falls in love. Tyrone Power, famous on stage and screen, has the part of Captain Leyton. Others in important roles are Barry Macollum, Pat Hartigan and Jessie Arnold.

"Fury" was directed by Henry King, who also directed the preceding Barthelmess successes of the past year.

QUALITY VAUDEVILLE AT THE ROYAL.

It is seldom that better vaudeville novelties have been offered to Peterboro patrons than the "turns" seen at the Royal lately. Our idea of two good acts is Irving and Ellwood and Moore and Shy, now playing at that theatre. If you haven't seen them take our tip and do so tonight, which is their last local appearance. For the last half of the week, commencing to-morrow, Naio and Rizzo, two boys from sunny Italy, with piano, accordian and violin, are coming highly recommended, also Tom and Addie Leon, who have just completed the Loew circuit, in a comedy pantomime and juggling novelty.

WILLIAM DUNCAN, VETERAN OF SCREEN.

William Duncan, the star of "The Steel Trail," which is now showing at the Royal Theatre every Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was one of the first motion picture stars to appear in the continued drama. The serial kling produces his own production and, if experience counts for anything, the latest Universal chapter-play may be considered perfect screen entertainment.

LOCAL BASKETBALL TEAM WON A MATCH

Walked Away With the Big End of Two Scores.

The P.C.I. basketball teams played the teams of the Cobourg High School in the Lakeshore town on Saturday, and walked with more than a comfortable margin in both games.

The P.C.I., playing in the morning game, just doubled the score on Cobourg, winning by 32 to 16, while in the boys' game played in the afternoon, the garnet and grey quintette decorated the score board with a 65 to 24 count.

The week previous Cobourg had won here, and the scores were very even and it looked as though Peterborough would have a real battle on their hands when they invaded Cobourg. But the Central Park crews both seemed to take kindly to the smaller Cobourg court and played the homesters off their feet.

The invaders had a day "on," and everything they did seemed to gain them baskets. They shook their checks, flashed down the floor with good combination, and plugged in baskets with sickening regularity.

Bruce Copping was the Petes' high scorer with 13 baskets and a total of 26 points rewarding his efforts, while his partner, Howie Young, ran him close with 12 baskets and 24 points. "Spider" Martin, although playing defence, was not to be outshone, and he tossed in two of the feature baskets from well past the centre. The whole P.C.I. team combined nicely.

The following are the players who visited Cobourg:

Girls' Team.

Forwards, E. Killaly and J. MacDuffy.
Defence, D. Hobson and G. Dobbin.
Centre, I. Conolly.
Side centre, L. Wolstenholme.
Subs., T. Cooper and Amys.

Boys' Team.

Centre, H. Ebbs.
Forwards, H. Young and B. Copping.
Defence, O. Martin and K. Goheen.
Subs., W. Ecobichon and A. Neal.

The Lindsay Collegiate will most likely play here next Saturday.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

On Monday afternoon, 25th February, a large number of women from the various branches of the Woman's Auxiliary of the city, members of St. John's, All Saints', and St. Luke's, met in St John's Parish Hall to hear Miss Kathleen Kells speak.

Miss Kells is on furlough from Mackay's School, Le Pas, and gave a description of the everyday life of that Indian school. Miss Kells also told her audience that she had had the privilege of accompanying the late Archdeacon Mackay on his last 500-mile journey by canoe through his district.

In the absence of Dr. Blagrave, Rev. Maurice Kingsford took the chair and read the opening prayers.

A vote of thanks to Miss Kells was tendered and seconded by the members of St. Luke's. Mrs. J. Dickinson sang a solo and tea was served by members of St. John's, Miss M. English acting as convenor.

MISSING WITNESS ANSWERED CHARGE

Told Judge Huycke Today She Was Ill During Progress of the Trial of John Schell.

Mrs. Harry Hopkins appeared before His Honor Judge Huycke to-day to answer to a charge of disobeying a subpoena demanding her attendance as a Crown witness in the case against John Schell last week. Mrs. Harry Hopkins was formerly Lou Schell, and is a daughter of the accused man who was acquitted of a charge of murder. A bench warrant was issued by Mr. Justice Mowat, but owing to the inaccessibility of the roads last week was not served until to-day.

Mrs. Hopkins explained that she was ill, suffering from influenza, and was quite unable to attend the trial. She produced a certificate from Dr. Johnston, of Fenelon Falls, who was a witness in the case for the defence, certifying that she was recovering from an illness. He had not attended her during the illness.

Crown-Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., examined Mrs. Hopkins. He said that from his questioning and knowledge it appeared to him the witness might have been present. "There is nothing definite about the doctor's certificate. My own opinion is there was no effort made to get here."

Judge Huycke asked what efforts had been made to serve the bench warrant issued by Mr. Justice Mowat. Provincial Constable R. F. Davis said the roads were impassable and the policemen on duty at the Court-House were subpoenaed as witnesses and could not leave. They telephoned to the Chief of Police in Lindsay, who is a cousin of Mrs. Hopkins', and he informed them the roads could not be travelled.

Judge Huycke: "The bench warrant might as well never have been issued."

In allowing Mrs. Hopkins to go free, His Honor warned her that he was not satisfied in his own mind that she had made all possible effosts to attend the trial. "This is the King's subpoena directing you to attend here at a certain time to give evidence, and it is a serious matter to disregard it. I am not at all satisfied in my own mind that you should not go to jail now. Your doctor's certificate does not help you very much. He does not know you were actually sick. He probably speaks from what you told him. You have come here with your own story uncorroborated, but I will give you the benefit of the doubt. I want you to remember that the King's subpoena must be obeyed."

SELFISH POLICIES OF U. S. CONDEMNED

Ottawa Audience Told the Duty of Canada is to Educate Americans

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.— (Canadian Press.)— Col. Charles Graham, of London, told the Lions Club here last night that it was gratifying to know that the rank and file of American citizens were not in sympathy with the selfish policy of the United States Government during the last four years. Americans could not continue to sit tight and reap all benefits at the expense of Britain.

"For several years," he said "they have been suffering under the delusion that they are the world and that we are a few planets revolving around them. It is our duty to educate them. They are very worth while people and all that is needed is physic that will prove a counter irritant to the excessive ego from which tthey have suffered."

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA GET NEW INSTRUMENTS

The members of the Symphony Orchestra are somewhat elated today over the arrival from Paris of two new instruments which were made specially for them. They are a fine Oboe and case, and a Bass Clarinet and case, ordered about four months ago, to special specifications. The orchestra is sparing no expense in the effort to make of the Symphony Orchestra an organization by which the city will be proud to be represented. The new instruments will be used at the concert to-morrow night, and will afterwards be placed on public display in some prominent place where all can see them.

ST. JOHN'S CHOIR HELD A CONCERT

The Parish Hall Was Packed to Its Capacity —No Encores Allowed

The parish hall of St. John's church was filled last evening for the concert by the church choir. No encores being allowed, the programme, which was lengthy but varied and interesting, was run through in good time, and in a manner creditable to the director, Mr. Frederic G. Mann, and the members of the choir themselves, who appeared in chorus, solos, duets, trios and quartettes.

The choir numbers were sung in good style, with a smooth, even phrasing and a quality of brightness of tone that made the first number in chorus very pleasing, "Keep on Hopin'," A Hunting Song and a finale, "The Long Day Closes," were well-sung selections.

The programme opened with the singing of "O Canada" by the choir boys, who also gave in excellent voice, "I Hear You Go Singing," "King Laughter" by the choir boys, with solo by Master Scott Medd, was a short, pleasing rendition. The chorus of energetic young voices, joining in laughing chorus with the clear, light quality of the young soloist's well-sung verses, made a humorous, attractive number. The choir men appeared to good advantage in their chorus, "The Bugler."

A two-part ladies' chorus, "Glorious Land of Spring," was one of the initial offerings, in a pretty, light pastorale, and a ladies' three-part chorus was given in "The Belfry Tower." Mrs. G. Evans, Miss Price and Miss M. Evans were heard in a trio; "The Swallows" and a second tri-part number was given by the men, in "Jack and Jill," sung by Messrs. Roberts, Morphet and Coleman.

A quartette of excellent male voices gave the well-received "The Twins," in fine style. Messrs. Roberts, Morphet, Eldred and Flowers composed the quartette. Two young boys, L. Dyer and B. Coleman, were very good in a duet, "Song of Winter," and contributed their unchanged treble voices in pleasing fashion to a quartette arrangement, that elicited much applause, of the favorite "Love's Old Sweet Song," with Messrs. Grey and Coleman. A two part song, "Evening Pastorale," was well rendered by Mesdames G. Coleman and F. Roberts, and the Misses K. Edgar and M. Evans. A duet that was very pleasing was the Barcarolle from "The Tales of Hoffman," by Miss M. Evans and Mr. D. G. Melton.

Mr. Melton's fine quality of voice, a rotund, baritone, was heard to excellent advantage in "The Bandolere," Miss Ruby Quartermaines' warm, rich, attractive tones received much applause in her rendition of the charming "Bobolink," and one of Teresa del Reigo's lovely compositions, "Sink, Red Sun" was the contribution in high, strong voice of Mrs. A. L. Amys. Mrs. McKee Bingham's beautiful tones and pleasing delivery were accorded renewed applause for her double number, "Rain" and "Dawn."

Miss M. Turner, who, with Mr. Mann, acted as accompanist for the evening, gave a pretty pianoforte solo, in Schumann's "Novelletten No. 1, Op. 21."

At the conclusion of the programme a note of appreciation was voiced by Rev. Dr. Blagarve, and acknowledged by Mr. Mann.

The personnel of St. John's choir, of which Mr. Frederic G. Mann, A. Mus., is organist and choirmaster, is made up as follows:

Boys—Masters S. Medd, L. Dyer, L. Sorvie, B. Coleman, G. Frances, D. Blagrave, E Haley, K. Wightman, F. Ford, K. Hutchison, W. Coleman, G. Hutchison, B. McClelland, D. Hood and J. Comstock.

Sopranos—Mesdames A. L. Amys, G. Coleman, J. J. Howden and F. C. Roberts, and the Misses K. Edgar, M. Evans, A. Horn, R. Quartermaine, M. Watson and F. Dawson.

Altos — Mesdames W. McKee Bingham, D. Eldred, G. Evans and the Misses Hutchison, Flowers, Price and Evans.

Tenors—Messrs. W. W. Grey, H. Morphet, F. C. Roberts and C. Perry.

Bassos— Messrs. G. Coleman, D. Eldred, H. Flowers, P. F. Hall, Hayter and D. G. Melton.

BIRTH.

BOND. — At Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Tuesday, 26th February, 1924, the wife of J. Percy Bond—a son (Jim).

Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(United Press).—Prices in the Stock Market were steady in the early dealings in the face of further sensational developments in the oil hearing. The changes in the main body of stocks were confined to fractions, the principal interest converging on stocks affected by special developments. Sloss specified reached a new high on the movement at 65¼ in response to the restoration of dividend payments at the 86 rate. United States Cast Iron Pipe dropped to 65, off more than 3 points, reflecting the court ruling that the company could pay no dividends on the Common stock until the accumulation of the Preferred should have been liquidated.

Considerable irregularity characterized the price movements through the first hour. Heavy selling continued in Cast Iron Pipe Common in contrast with the strength in the Preferred, which moved up 2¼ to 88. Virginia Carolina issues sank to new low levels. No statement was forthcoming from officials or bankers in regard to the drastic decline suffered in the last few weeks.

FIND CAMFIELD GUILTY SLAYING MORNINGSTAR

WELLAND, Feb. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—After deliberating for one hour and thirty minutes the jury under Mr. Justice Smith, in the case of William Albert Camfield, charged with the murder of Albert Morningstar, returned a verdict of guilty against the prisoner at noon to-day. Morningstar was found burned to death in his shack on Christmas morning. Shortly afterwards Camfield was apprehended at Dunnville, where he represented himself as Morningstar and endeavored to cash a cheque in the bank.

GAVE AN ADDRESS TO MISS CARRIE STAPLEY

The appended address was read to Miss Carrie Stapley at the C.G.E. yesterday. A presentation, accompanied the address. Miss Stapley is to be married shortly. The address follows:

Peterborough, Feb. 25th, 1924.

Miss Carrie Stapley,—I am presenting this address to you on behalf of the foreman and all the employees of the punch press department who, in a body extend to you this their most hearty and sincere congratulations on your forthcoming marriage, and the wishes of all are that the united lives of yourself and your future husband will be one round of joy and happiness, and any troubles you may have will be little ones. As you were the senior employee among the girls of the department, you will be greatly missed for you were a most energetic worker, as a friend, to all with whom you associated faithful and true, and in sport, an example to many.

In conclusiuon I ask you on behalf of the foreman and employees to accept these suitable gifts, electric heater, toaster and iron, not for their value, but as a token of the deep esteem in which you are held by us all, and may you enjoy long life and prosperiy.

Signed—L. Mesley, A. Day, F. Millard.

SOCIAL EVENING SPENT BY FARM YOUNG PEOPLE

Last night, the regular meeting of the Peterboro U.F.Y.P.O. took the form of a social evening in their rooms on Simcoe street. Community singing, games and dancing occupied the attention of the members for an enjoyable evening. There was a good attendance.

On March 11th, the next meeting will be held, when the feature will be a debate between the local club and the Centreville Club.

The debate between these two clubs which took place some time ago, when Centreville was declared the winner of the district debating cup, was protested, and the two clubs will stage another debate to decide the winner.

Take a pencil and scratch pad and figure up your assets—both while living and after death. Are your assets like those in the illustration?

A man feels he has reason for satisfaction when he owns his own home, has a good job and has money in the bank. But what will happen to his financial situation when he dies?

His earning power stops and his life insurance is all that takes its place; $10,000 seems like a lot of money. The income on $10,000 is only $500 a year. His widow's income will be only about one-sixth the income she had before. To be sure, she will not have rent to pay but taxes and insurance and repairs cost money to say nothing of regular living expenses.

ENGINEERS MEET THURSDAY NIGHT

W. P. Dobson will Be the Special Speaker for the Occasion.

Mr. W. P. Dobson, director of Laboratories of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, is to give an address on the work of his department before the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, on Thursday, February 28th, at 8 o'clock p.m.

In this department are centralized the functions of testing, research, and of inspecting materials. The work carried out is of an extremely diversified character, the laboratories being classified as follows: high-tension and electrical testing, "approval," meter and standrads, photometric, engineering materials, and chemical.

All power companies have a private telephone system but it is found that power and telephone lines of communication have a common cause for failure during ice and wind storms. To overcome this the above department, with others, are gradually evolving a wired-wireless system to replace in times of emergency the ordinary telephone.

Along with the household appliances familiar to everyone there has been approvd devices ranging from breadwrapping and sealing machines to radio antennae devices and arrestors.

Efficiencies, life performances, of lamps, are studied with special reference to rates for lighting, the aim being to secure lamps that will give economical and reliable service.

From the time the concrete is poured in a generating station to the point that the station is a commercial unit, the laboratories department is continually on hand advising and suggesting. Concrete tests, including floor hardeners, transmission line materials, metallurgical studies, and so forth, are types of subjects dealt with Problems peculiar to the chemical laboratory are protective compounds and lubricating materials, paints, galvanizing and wood preservatives.

The department deals in an intimate mannner with the alpha and omega of all materials used in modern generation, transmission, and use of electrical energy.

The address should appeal to all classes of the public and the local branch of the Institute of Canada will be glad to see present in the Chamber of Commerce rooms all those desirous of hearing the address.

TIKHON IS DYING OF HEART DISEASE

MOSCOW, Feb. 27. — (United Press.)— Former Patriarch Tikhon is dying of heart disease, his physicians said to-day. The Churchman, former leader of the Russian Catholic church, has suffered severe attacks during the last 24 houres.

Tikhon drew world-wide attention a year ago, when he was arrested by the Russian government for opposing the confiscation of church property by the state, to aid the starving population.

IN MEMORIAM.

JAMES. — In ever-loving memory of our only child, Norma Marguerite Doris, who passed away February 27th, 1923.

A bud the Gardener gave us—
A pure and lovely child—
He gave it in our keeping,
To cherish undefiled;
But just as it was opening
To glory of the day,
Down came the Heavenly Gardener,
And took our flower away.
—Sadly missed by father and mother.

IN MEMORIAM.

JAMES.—In ever loving memory of our dear little granddaughter, Norma Marguerite Doris, who passed away February 27th, 1923:

But oh, how we miss her, words cannot tell,
That bright, happy little face we loved so well.
The sweetest memories are all that has gone home to rest.

IN MEMORIAM

AYOTTE — In loving memory of Mrs. John Ayotte, who died, Feb 27th 1922.

Two weary years have passed away
Since last I saw your face
Your vacant chair is vacant still
For none can take your place.
Your husband and your children three
Still mourn for you they love
But yet they cling to that one hope
To meet you in Heaven above
Your brother and your sisters dear
With God's will must be content
Until their angel calls them
To travel that road you went
What would I give to clasp your hand
Your loving face to see,
Your gentle ways, your low sei voice
That meant so much to me,
It was five o'clock on a winter's morn,
When our Father bid you come,
You smiled farewell to those on earth
And entered your heavenly home.
Inserted by a Friend.

Mr. Alex. Morris, of Detroit, formerly of Glasgow, Scotland, is renewing auld acquaintances in Peterboro, and is guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Irwin, Bolivar Street.

The Girls' and Boys' Clubs of The Examiner Publishing Company, were at home to members and friends last evening in Victoria Hall, when a jolly evening was spent in playing cards and dancing. About ninety people attended the affair, which was the first of its sort to be held under the auspices of the united clubs. Excellent music for dancing was provided by Carl McCarthy's three-piece orchestra. A feature of the entertainment was the sumptuous nature of the refreshments, which included a quantity of delicious home-made pies and cakes. Prizes for cards, a dainty china cream and sugar set, and a handsome pack of playing cards, were won by Mr. and Mrs. George J. Johnson Consolation awards went to Miss Berenice Spofford and Bobby Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Meldrum are visiting their daughter, Mrs. E. A. Greene, in Troy, Pennsylvania. Mr. Meldrum, who underwent a serious eye operation some time ago, is gradually improving in health.

Mr. W. A. Logan is in Toronto, to-day attending the Grand Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons. Messrs. Ross Dobbin and C. B. Adair are also attending the meeting.

Miss Frances Clancy left for Toronto yesterday to visit relatives.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the G. W. V.A., held a very successful card party in the G.W.V.A. hall last evening, attended by about 125 people. Prizes for euchre were won by Mrs. James, Mrs. F. Miller, Mr. W. J. Hancock and Mr. E. Styles, consolation awards going to Mrs. E. Houghton and Mr. J. Selkirk. In the five hundred games, prizes were won by Mrs. D. Jordan and Mrs. L. M. Brooks, Mrs. L. M. Brooks getting the consolation. Ladies in charge of the card tables were Mrs. R. J. Devey and Mrs. W. Hughes. Mesdames Clark and Austin looked after the arrangements for refreshmen

LIBERALS URGE GOVERNMENT TO BALANCE BUDGET

Premier Ferguson Announces Appeal to the Dominion Railway Commission For Special Rate On Alberta Coal Transportation to Ontario — Increase Qualifications For Candidates.

DEBATE PROGRESSES

TORONTO, Feb. 28. — The Liberals yesterday in the Legislature in the budget debate moved an amendment to the motion to go into supply. The amendment, moved by A. Belanger (Russell) states that the House express the view that the government should exercise such economy in its finances that the budget may be balanced yearly. Mr. Belanger, Mr. Beniah Bowman and Col. J. A. Currie (South East Toronto) continued the debate.

Premier Ferguon announced to the House that as the government had concluded that there was nothing further to be gained by negotiating with the railways for a special rate on Alberta coal to this province, that two counsel, George Kilmer, K.C., and Earl Lawson, had been instructed to take the matter before the Dominion Railway Commission to get an order for a rate whereby coal from the west could be carried to Ontario at a reasonable cost.

Property Qualifications.

The second reading was given a bill proposed by J. E. Jamieson (Con East Simcoe) to increase the qualifications of candidates for municipal councils. Under the terms of the bill the qualifications would be: Village, freehold $200, leasehold $400; township, freehold, $400, leasehold $600; in a city, freehold $1000, leasehold, $2000.

Premier Ferguson said that he had some sympathy with the bill; L.W. Oke (U.F.O., East Lambton) said municipal councillors should have some qualification and he would support the bill. D. J. Taylor (U.F.O., Northy Grey) said that qualification could not be judged by worldly goods.

Sent to Committee.

Other bills passed second reading, and sent to committee for their fates were to have runners on sleighs 4 feet apart; to permit first meetings of municipal councils to be held the first Monday in January; to permit cities to tax dogs; to permit the erection of war memorials on highways over 66 feet wide.

J. A. Currie in the budget debate, said that the government could not stop the orgy of expending all in one year as they had been committed to many expenditures by the old government.

He claimed the province had lost $25,000,000 in the Backus deal and proposed adding that amount to the deficit.

Revenue from Liquor.

He said that the work of the legislature should be to get rid of much of the legislation already on the statute books, as the people were being legislated to death. He thought the fifteen million deficit could be wiped out by having sane liquor laws which would attract the U. S. tourist traffic. Canada, he said, had not made as much progress since confederation as it had before.

Exceed Drury Expenses.

Mr. Belanger said that the differences on Tuesday between Hon. M. oherty and Hon. W. F. Nickle showed conclusively that the budget should have shown plainly how much had been spent by each government during the year, 1923. He had hoped also that the treasurer would have brought down the estimated revenue. Comparing figures and admitting that ten millions had been spent by the Ferguson government that should have been paid by the Drury government, Mr. Belanger said that he still found that the Ferguson government spent $1,200,000 more per month than the Drury government had.

Rural Education.

Mr. Belanger said that the present sytsem of education in rural districts educated children away from the farms. He would have different text books in rural schools than in the cities. Ontario, he said, could not afford to be too nigardly on expenditure on re-forestry and fire protection. In conclusion he appealed to the government and the legislature to lift itself above racial animosity, religious prejudices and political expediencies for the making of a great and united Canada. He then moved the amendment to the motion to go into supply.

Hon. Beniah Bowman said the previous government had collected in the fiscal year of 1922 no accounts that were not due, and that the province was no poorer for its actions. He said that Mr. Nickle had not made out a case although he had some success, even sailing against the wind."

The House adjourned at 6 o'clock.

Col. George A. Curry (South-East Toronto) will resume the debate on the Budget this afternoon in the legislature. He will be followed by Z. Mageau (Liberal, Sturgeon Falls). There will be many speakers in the debate, according to the Party whips.

Sought Divorce in Windsor Court

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The first application for a divorce in the history of the local court was made Wednesday by Mrs. Alexander Watson, of Ford, who told Magistrate Gundy she wanted to get rid of her husband.

"This is Windsor, not Detroit," said Mr. Gundy. "I am afraid I cannot do anything for you. What seems to be the matter?"

"My husband hasn't worked for a long time," Mrs. Watson replied. ."I'm not supposed to keep him. I keep 10 boarders. He just stays at the house and will not work. Surely the law doesn't say I have to support him."

"Neither does it say I can give you a divorce," said Mr. Gundy. "You will have to try some other way to get rid of him." .. . .

PREMIER WARNS HIS MINISTERS

MacDonald Admonishes Them to Speak With Reserve and Responsibility — Repudiates the Speech By Arthur Henderson.

LONDON, Feb. 28. — Premier MacDonald had a complet, and easy victory in the House of Commons last night on a Conservative manoeuvre to mak, trouble for the Government over the speech delivered last Saturday at Burnley by Arthur Henderson, Home Secretary. Mr. Henderson declared that the Treaty of Versailles must be revised in order to bring about an era of internationa, goodwill.

Former Premier Baldwin and Ronald McNeill, former Under Secretary of State, were among others of the Opposition who had addressed the Premier on the subject of Mr. Henderson's utterances. After the Premier had made his reply, Mr. Baldwin announced that he would not press the matter to a division. Mr. McNeill then made a motion for adjournment, but this was unanimously voted down.

Influence Burnley Vote

Mr. MacDonald, in replying to the criticisms of Mr. McNeill declared that the real object of the Conservative manoeuvre was an endeavour to influence the bye-election in Burnley to-day, where Mr. Henderson is seeking to win the seat and return to parliament. Conservative agents in Burnley, the Premier declared, had been parading the streets there carrying big placards inscribed: "Premier Repudiates Henderson." Mr. MacDonald admitted that Mr. Henderson should have been more guarded in expressing his opinions, and said that all his Cabinet Ministers must speak with reserve and responsibility.

"But," he added, "if the honorable gentlemen opposite me want their resignations they won't get them, as far as I am concerned."

Conservative Tangle

Declaring that his Government's foreign policy remained as he announced it in his speech at the opening of Parliament, and quoting passages from this speech, Mr. MacDonald severely reproved Mr. McNeill for trying to embarrass the Government in the settlement of the tangle of foreign relations which he said the Labor Government had inherited from its Conservative predecessor.

"If there is any party in the House at this moment, when there is a chance of settling problems which baffled our predecessors when they were in power, of disentangling the enravelments which they created, who ought to be generous to follies and mistakes honestly made, it is the Conservative members on the opposite side of the House," the Premier said.

WHISTLES AND BELLS!

OSHAWA, February 28. — The blare of whistles and the ringing of bells will mark Oshawa's step into cityhood at noon on Saturday, 8th March.

In the evening a public meeting will be held in the City Hall to celebrate the occasion.

The speeches of prominent citizens will be broadcasted by the Radio Club from its new station, 10 AW.

OTTAWA HOUSE OPENED TODAY WITH DISPLAY

Booming of Guns Announce the Opening of Canada's Fourteenth Parliament.

FIELDING ABSENT

OTTAWA, Feb. 28.— (Canadian Press.)— To the booming of guns and with all the ceremonial that runs away back to the early days of English history, His Excellency Governor General Baron Byng of Vimy, to-day formally opened the third session of Canada's fourteenth Parliament. It was a scene staged in brilliant and, for time of the year, an appropriate setting. Snow flurries lent their added touch of winter as His Excellency arrived accompanied by mounted escort from the Princess Louise Dragoons Guards, and within the Parliament Buildings themselves there were new touches of ceremonial and display.

The speakers both of the House and Senate wore knee breeches, silk stockings and buckled shoes in reminiscence of Westminster, although minus the wig.

On the Government side, there was missing the figure of Canada's veteran Minister of Finance. W. S. Fielding, too ill to attend. Also missing, was the face of Lomer Gouin, former Minister of Justice, away in the West Indies also seeking to recover lost strength. The effect of by-election changes in the recess is seen in that the row of Progresives has moved down the house a couple of seats to make room for two additions to the Conservative ranks.

Tariff reductions are reported in political circles to-day to be on the Government's programme for the session. Reductions in the customs tariff on agricultural implements are understood to be particularly in view.

Speech from throne congratulated members "upon many evidences of increased prosperity." State of General employment has been distinctly better, it said, and volume of business has steadily increased. Country has reason to feel gratified at expansion to notable degree of its public revenues and decline of its expenditures.

It suggested that reduction in taxation and in production and transportation costs, such as will encourage investment of capital, were all there were necessary to effect an economic development hitherto unparalleled Reduction in taxation was of first importance and efforts of administration should be further to combine strict economy in public services with rigorous retrenchment in public affairs.

Hope is expressed that in virtue of economies already affected government at close of present financial year will be able to announce that for first time since 1912-1913 National Budget has been balanced. Government further hoped that when budget for ensuing year is introduced it will be found that relation between public revenue and public expenditure is such as to justify some immediate reduction of taxation.

THE WEATHER.

Several people have mentioned to me snowdrifts of a great height which they had seen, one in the vicinity of Bobcaygeon being particularly remarked as a giant among the big ones. The following story comes from Mitchell, Ont.: "From many quarters come stories of snow drifts from 16 to 20 feet deep, and although there are plenty of these in this community, there is a drift on the farm of Peter Regan that covers his windmill, which is 40 feet high. In fact the snow is 5 feet higher than his windmill, and it is blocked so it will not pump water. In many orchards the snow is right up to the top of the trees.",Next, please.—W.P.

Dynasty Causes Split in Athens

ATHENS, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Stirring scenes were witnessed in Parliament Wednesday when the Republican deputies withdrew in a body in protest against the Government's refusal to pass the resolution abolishing the dynasty.

The Premier addressed the Chamber regretting the withdrawal of the deputies, which he hoped was only temporary and declared that the Government would carry on.

The action of the Republicans has caused considerable excitement. Fears are expressed it may be the signal of difficulties which will jeopardize internal peace.

POLICE PRESS TOMAC SEARCH

Believe He is in the Woods Around Silver Mountain —Armed With Rifle and Revolver.

PORT ARTHUR, February 28 (Canadian Press). — The police do not intend to abandon the hunt for Peter Tomac, who escaped into the woods after wounding Provincial Police Sergeant F. B. Creasy, last Friday afternoon at Silver Mountain when the latter went into his cabin to arrest him for threatening to shoot his brother-in-law the previous day.

Inspector Lougheed on his return to Port Arthur from Silver Moutain stated that the police would use every measure in the attempt to apprehend the outlaw, who is armed with a repeater rifle and probably a revolver and about forty to fifty rounds of ammunition.

Police officers and villagers do not now believe that Tomac crossed into the United States territory, but that he is within a radius of five miles of Silver Mountain waiting an opportunity to slip under cover of darkness for food and other things which he left behind when he left his cabin.

Inspector Lougheed is inclined to support the theory that Tomac is not far distant principally on account of the condition of the woods at this time of the year.

TAX REVISION BILL'S DANGER

Republicans Plan Defeat By Loading Measure With Objectionable Amendments — The Manoeuvre May Fail.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press). —Regular Republican leaders in the House yesterday were engineering a movement to get all regular Republicans to vote against the passage of the Tax Revision Bill. Having completely lost control of the bill the "Old Guard" leaders seek to defeat the measure or get it so loaded with objectionable amendments as to give President Coolidge excuse to veto it.

One feature put into the bill which has stirred the antagonism of the Conservative Republicans is the graduated inheritance tax rates modelled after British law. Indications are the bill will pass, despite regular Republican opposition, in about the form the Democrats and Progressives want it. President Coolidge will then be faced with the embarrassing proposition of either signing a bill which the Conservative Republicans oppose, or vetoing a bill which reduces taxes in the face of a Presidential election.

AMERICANS SEE TRADE BARRIER

Representatives in England Protest Against Proposed Increase in Atlantic Freight Rates.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—As a result of the number of protests it has received from United States' business men in England against the proposed 30 per cent. increase in eastward bound north Atlantic freight rates, the American Chamber of Commerce has sent a symposium of the opinions of its members to the North Atlantic Freight Rate Conference in New York.

The Chamber asked that the conference give its most serious consideration to the matter before taking a measure which it feels will materially injure Anglo-American trade.

NEW BAIT

EXPERTS NEAR CLOSE OF JOB

Reparations Committee Will Have Report Ready in Another Ten Days.

(By Webb Miller, United Press Staff Corespondent.)

PARIS, February 28th. — The report of the Dowes' Committee of Experts, will be drafted on Monday, and will be ready for submission to the Reparations Commission in another ten days, it was learned today.

The Reparations Commission will transmit the draft of the report, which will embody sugestions for payments by Germany to the allies and for stablishing Germany's currency and budget, to the various governments.

An international conference, participated in by the heads of the various governments is likely to follow.

As the experts neared the end of their efforts it became clear that the importance of their work is infinitely greater than was originally conceived, and that the results will have wide repression. Moreover, after five years of comparative isolation, the United States through two of its business men is again active in European affairs.

Charles G. Dawes and Owen D. Young, not officially connected with the United States government, and hitherto virtually unknown in Europe, through a combination of circumstances to-day wield power in the European tangle greater than that of any American since Woodrow Wilson.

Circumstances in France, Germany and England which have forced the two Americans into holding the balance of power are roughly as follows:

1—The failure of France's Ruhr venture to settle the reparations impasse;

2—Premier Poincaire's gradual loss of prestige;

3—The French finacial crisis;

4—The precarious political situation of the present French Government, with the elections only two months away.

5—The certainty of another financial crash in Germany unless some settlement is reached;

6—Advent of the MacDonald Labor Government in England;

7—Widespread feeling among the masses of Europe that there must now be a setilement of the reparations problem.

Beat Wife Every Sunday For Years

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press.)—After Magistrate Gundy had sent William Gale to County Jail at Sandwich for a week for beating his wife, Mona Gale, 418 Glengarry Avenue, Mrs. Gale appealed to the court to have William released.. However, the court order will stand and he will serve the sentence.

"He beats me every Sunday," Mrs. Gale told the court. "He has done this for the last five years except when he was at the war. Last Sunday because I wouldn't cook his dinner he treated me awfully."

Gale must remain in jail for a week then he is to be sentenced.

FUN FROM WORK IS LOWEST PAY

Minimum Wage Board Finds How Low a Wage Can Be and Still Be a Wage.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press).—How low can a wage be and still be a wage? That was the question brought up at last night's meeting of the Minimum Wage Board, and in reply Dr. MacMillan, chairman, cited what he considered the example, par excellence, of a modest wage.

During the recent survey of wages paid female workers in the amusement industry the Board received a wage sheet from one moving picture house owner. In it the employer gave the matter of fact information that ushers' wages could not be reckoned in dollars and cents, as the so'e remuneration which they received consisted in the fun they abstracted from the pictures.

MAN WANTED ON PIRACY CHARGE

Ray Cass Arrested in Boston For An Alleged Attack on British Rum Schooner — Nova Scotia Behind Case.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 28.— Ray Cass of Somerville, former boxing promoter, arrested Wednesday on a charge of piracy and attempted murder sworn out by the British Consul General here on behalf of the Nova Scotia authorities, was held in jail last night while a telegram was sent to the Attorney General of the Canadian Province asking whether he will agree to Cass' release on bail. At a hearing yesterday before the United States Commissioner, counsel for the Nova Scotia Government urged that the man be held without bail.

Cass was arrested for the Canadian authorities yesterday immediately after a federal court charge of piracy on the high seas had been dismissed. He had been at liberty on $5,000 bail. United States' District Attorney Robert O. Harris moved for the dropping of the charge in this jurisdiction on the ground that necessary witnesses, residents of Canada, had not been produced by the Nova Scotia law officers, although the United States' Government has offered to pay all expenses.

The charges against Cass both here and in Canada grew out of an attack last August on the British schooner I. Scott Hankenson, a rum runner, off Cape Ann. A band which boarded the vessel wounded the skipper and cook, but failed to find any considerable sum of money.

When Cass was arraigned on the new warrant his counsel asked that his bail of $5,000 be continued, or that an immediate hearing be held on the extradition issue. Attorneys appearing for the Canadian authorities objected to the early hearing on the ground that it would require at least a week to bring the necessary witnesses to Boston. The commissioner withheld decision until to-day and in the meantime the Attorney-General of Nova Scotia was asked for his views on the matter of bail.

CAMFIELD WAS FOUND GUILTY OF THE CRIME

Will Go to the Scaffold on May 8th Next--A Horrible Crime.

JUDGE'S REMARKS

WELLAND, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press).—William Albert Camfield was this morning sentenced by Justice Smith to be hanged Thursday, May 8th, for the murder of Albert Morningstar on Christmas Day, he having been convicted yesterday of beating the farmer insensible with a shovel, setting fire to the house and burning him to death.

Camfield's only sign of anxiety was the feverish licking of his lips after the passing of sentence. His face wore a semi grin as he was taken out of the dock.

"Your crime was a horrible one, and it is to be expected that your fate will be a warning to others similarly inclined," said the Judge in sentencing the prisoner.

HOW REPARATIONS APPLIED AUSTRIA

Same Scheme Might Be Adopted in Case of German.

GENEVA, February 28. United Press. — The possibility of participation by the League of Nations in Germany's reconstruction, as well as the settlement of reparations, was increased to-day when Sir Arthur Salter, former secretary of the Reparations Commission and now the League's international expert was summoned to Paris to explain to the Dawes' Commission the league's system of controlling Austrian and Hungarian reparations.

According to League officials Sir Arthur is to point out to the Dawes Committee the possibility of applying the league's Austro-Hungarian schemes to Germany.

While Austrian reconstruction did not involve the payment of reparations, the league's Hungarian plan included reparations, as it provided for a two and a half year moratorium, then gradually increased reparations payments, beginning with 5,000,000 gold crowns the first year, until the maximum of 14,000,000 is reached.

GAVE A LECTURE TO WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

Under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the church, Rev. James Cuthbertson, recently returned Anglican missionary from Japan, gave an interesting and instructive lantern lecture last evening in All Saints' Parish hall, which was filled with an appreciative audience. A vivid portrayal of the horrors of the earthquake and the devastation left in its wake, was produced by the many excellent slides shown. Several scenes of Japanese natural beauty of landscape and floriculture were given.

The majority of the slides dealt with the earthquake and its results. One picture showed a canal full of bodies of those who had suicided after discovering the dead bodies of relatives and friends; another showed a pile of ashes and bones remaining from the conflagration.

A vocal solo by Mr. George Chandler was much enjoyed. Mrs. E. Tucker, president of the Auxiliary, introduced the speaker of the evening.

HAD TO CUT THE LEGS FROM BODY

Engineer Met Horrible Death in Collison Yesterday.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Death roll in theh Mallorytown collision on Canadian National Railway, early yesterday morning, mounted to four last night when Albert Boyes, of Belleville, engineer of passenger train which crashed into freight train, died at the General Hospital of his injuries. From first it was realized that there was no hope of his recovery.

It developed at the inquest which opened at Mallorytown that to remove the body of Engineer Woodcook from cab of his locomotive it was necessary to sever the legs from the body. Heroic deeds were performed in removing bodies from debris and great credit is given to Egbert Mallory, of Mallorytown, for his valour in releasing Engineer Boyes from the cab of his engine. In spite of terrible burns, he received, Boyes never lost consciousness and directed Mallory in the work of resuce. So intense was heat that Mallory was obliged to discard articles of clothing until he was attired only in trousers. He saturated his clothing with water and wrapped it around Boyes keeping him from perishing in the flames. He sustained painful injuries.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES MEET IN KINGSTON

Miss K. C. Martin Advocated Removal of Artificial Barrier Between the Kindergarten and Primary.

KINGSTON, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Rev. Canon H. J. Cody, former Minister of Education for Ontario, was the chief speaker at a public meeting held last evening in the Kingston Memorial Hall in connection with the convention of the Urban School Trustees' Association. Other speakers were: J. G. Elliott, of Kingston, who introduced the president of the association, F. B. Edmunds, who presided; Prof. R. O. Small, director of vocational education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and ex-Mayor H. C. Nickle, of Kingston.

At the afternoon session of the convention Miss K. C. Martin of the Ryerson Public School, Toronto, discussed "Linking up the Kindergarten with Primary Work." She said that the artificial barrier between the primary and kindergarten should be done away with entirely as the work of the two classes was linked together very closely.

Prof. Small dealt with vocational education and advocated co-operative part time schools with all kinds of industrial plants, as was the case in the States of Massachusetts and Wisconsin.

G. Elmore Heaman, Ph.D., Toronto, had for his theme night schools, and pointed out how they educated foreigners in language and citizenship. He was opposed to free night schools. He would charge a nominal fee and said that people would pay for education if they got what they wanted.

Mrs. Morris Honored.

A very interesting feature of the proceedings was the presentation of a beautiful electric lamp to Mrs. W. R. Morris, delegate from Peterboro, for the attendance prize of the convention, the members of the association being agreed that to Mrs. Morris goes the honor of the best attendance at meetings of the association. Mrs. Morris was elected a member of the Nominating Committee.

THE MOUNT ROBSON ROUTE ACROSS CANADA.

The delights of a trip across Canada never fade in memory, the interest never wanes, and the ecstasy of one day's travel through the Canadian Rockies is an experience of a lifetime. The route of "The Continental Limited" which runs daily between Montreal and Vancouver with direct connections from Toronto, traverses the beautiful lake country of Northern Ontario. From Winnipeg to Saskatoon and Edmonton it passes through some of the most fertile lands of the great prairie provinces. A night's run from Edmonton and you are in Jasper National Park and the Glorious Canadian Rockies, embracing some of the finest mountain scenery in the world — then on to the Pacific Coast through an ever-changing panorama of magnificent and stupendous scenery. The Canadian National line through the mountains skirts Canada's highest peaks at the easiest gradient and lowest altitude of any transcontinental route, the highest point reached in crossing the "Great Divide" being 3,712 feet. You will consult your own interests if you will make your next trip west by the new way, "The National Way"—you have the choice of various routes. You have the option of making the journey in a splendid tourist car at minimum cost, or, if taste dictates the more luxurious Standard Sleeping Cars or Compartment-Library-Observation Cars are at your disposal.

The equipment on the "Continental Limited" is all-steel and modern in every particular.

AN INNOVATION ON THE CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS.

Lunch Counter Service Between Toronto and Winnipeg.

For the convenience of its patrons, the Canadian National Railways are now operating Colonist Cars equipped with lunch counters on "The National" between Toronto and Winnipeg, leaving Toronto 10.45 p.m. daily, arriving Winnipeg 4.10 p.m. the third day, and from Winnipeg to Toronto leaving Winnipeg 12.30 p.m. daily, arriving Toronto 7.20 a.m. the third day. Hot tea, coffee and bovril, sandwiches, pies, jam, milk, bread, butter, baked beans, etc., may be purchased at the lunch counter at any time during the day.

This service is of course in addition to the regular dining car service operated on the above-mentioned trains.

Left Thousand In His Will For Parrot's Care.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 28. — (Canadian Press). — One thousand dollars for the care of his beloved parrot was set aside in the will of the late Thomas B. Whitney, ex-hotel man of California and Oregon, who died February 19.

"Since his wife died he lavished all his attention on his parrot," said K. Kern, to whom the money for the care of the bird was left in Whitney's will.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

R. J. Cowan Returns Home After a Long Absence--Dick Cole is the Champion Curler.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 28. —R. J. Cowan, who has been a resident of the West for the past 23 years, arrived here yesterday and left in the afternoon to visit his old home in Codrington.

Mr. Cowan left this district on a harvesters' excursion in August, 1901, and liked the prairie country so well that he decided to locate there. He now lives at Rosetown, Sask., where he has a farm of 1,120 acres. Last fell he threshed 25,000 bushels of grain, mostly wheat, and considerable of this has been marketed. He got $1.03 and $1.04 for No. 1 on the Winnipeg market less the cost of transportation. This is his fourth visit to his former home since he first went West. He will spend two or three weeks here.

Mr. Cowan is a brother of James Cowan, proprietor of the Spellman Hotel, Hastings.

Mr. Lynch Was Solicitor.

The omission of a word in the report of the resignation of Deputy-Reeve Nelson of Percy made it appear that D. J. Lynch of Campbellford was the relator in the proceedings started to unseat Mr. Nelson. Mr. Lynch was the solicitor in the case, and the relator was John Allan who retained him.

Go To Toronto.

Mayor Meyers was unable to go with Reeve Davidson to Toronto as a member of the delegation that will attend the meeting of the Good Roads Association and will also see Minister of Highways Henry to ask for a grant for a new bridge at Campbellford. The Mayor's place on the delegation was taken by Councillor Kingston.

Fairs Association to Meet.

A special meeting of the Central Ontario Fairs Association will be held in the City Hall Belleville at 1 p.m. on Friday. This meeting, called for last week, was adjourned on account of the storm, as the delegates from a distance were unable to reach Belleville.

Important matters are to come before the association. The delegates from here ,besides Dr. G. A. Hay, who is secretary of the organisation, are President John Locke of the Campbellford Fair.

"Dick" Cole, Champion.

"Dick" Cole and the members of his rink are now the acknowledged season's champion curlers of the local club, their latest victory being the winning of the district medal, the trophy with a history. This medal was first offered for competition by the Campbellford club 30 years ago and was first won by Keene. It has passed from Keene to Campbellford a number of times, but came back to this town 14 years ago, and has reained here ever since.

The rinks skipped by "Dick" Cole and Sid J. Moore, the rinks that were chosen early in the season to represent Campbellford in the district cup competition, played for the medal, and Cole's men won by a score of 13 to 10.

The winners were entertained at an oyster supper by the losers.

Mr. Moore's men are: J. P. Archer, C. Weston, and R. Dunk, vice-skip, and the members of Dick Cole's rink are: Harry Seaborne, Marshall West and A. J. Meyers, vice-skip.

Besides this medal, the rink skipped by Dick Cole now holds the Campbellford Cup.

PRESENT PICTURES HASTINGS SCHOOLS

Interesting Event at Hastings Last Evening--Hastings News.

HASTINGS, February 28. — The Opera House was filled to capacity last evening, when the I.O.D.E.s held their concert and presentation.

The concert was under the auspices of the "Dorontal" Chapter.

Mr. Thos Chaplin was chairman, and gave the opening address of welcome. The first number on the programme was a piano solo, "Woodland Echoes," by Mr. W. E. Tate.

A chorus, "O Canada," was sung by the schools after which a tableaux was given by the pupils of the public school as follows, those taking part being dressed in costumes representing their different parts.

The dame who bought the pig, Dora Hubbs; the boy who was to a monkey turned, L. Brunnel; the dame who owned the goose, M.Chapper; Indian Boy, Cleveland Smith; Bluebird, Arthur Blackburn; the wee wee woman, Vivian Kerr; Jack the giant killer, Evereth Whitred; Old Mother Hubbard, Marie Scriver; Jack, who built the house, Gerhard Fralix.

Mr. Billie Bird contributed a guitar solo, followed by a recitation by Miss Emma Hubbs, entitled "If you want a kiss, why take it." Miss Jessie Wilcox sang a solo "The Little Red Scholo House.'

A tableau and drill was then given by the pupils of the Separate school and these were also dressed in costumes representing the different British possessions. A verse was repeated by each character and each carried a basket in which was placed products produced by the different countries, and were laid at Britannia's feet, this part being taken by Miss J. Crowley, Burnedette Jones, Ceylon; T. Sophia, India; Angela O'Shea, Hindu Lady; Patrick Howard, Kiltie, from Scotland; Hilda Jones, Irish Colleen, Gerhard Bailey, John Bull; Patricia Collins, Eskimo; also Richard Walsh, as from the Klondyke; Beverly Boyle, Chinaman; Margaret Walsh, The Lady of the Snows.

An instrumental duet, by Misses Lillian Tate and Gladys Stevenson. Mr. A. M. German officiated at the door.

The next on the programme was the presentation of the nine war memorial pictures which were donated by the National I.O.D.E. to the Hastings Chapter for the schools here in Hastings. The pictures were numbered and pupils from the two schools drew the numbers, they being the pictures to be placed in their schools.

Mrs. P. M. Howard, Regent of the Hastings Chapter, made the presentation to the chairmen of the School Board of each school, namely, Mr. C. R. Fowlds, public school, and Mr. J. F. McCarthy, separate school.

In the address Mrs. Howard explained that the pictures were presented by the National Chapter, for use in the schools of Canada, in co-operation with the Educational Department.

The following is a copy of the letter accompanying the said pictures:

"To the Pupils of the Ontario Schools Receiving War Memorial Pictures.

When you look upon these pictures you will remember the noble deeds of Canadians who served their King and Empire, in the Army, Navy or Air Force; or as chaplains, doctors, nurses, railwaymen or lumbermen, in the Great War, 1914-1918.

These pictures, copied from the originals in the National Gallery, Ottawa, have been framed by the Ontario Government, and are presented by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, in the desire to remind you of the heroic heritage of which you must prove worthy in times of peace as well as war.

(Signed)
W. Gordon,
National Educational Secretary.
Ethel Raymond,
Provincial Educational Secretary.

Mr. Fowlds and Mr. McCarthy thanked the Daughters of the Empire on behalf of their schools and School Boards for the appropriate gift given.

Mr. Billie Bird was again called upon for more guitar music, while the stage was being prepared for a playlet entitled, "Her Only Fault."

The cast of characters were:

Dr. Winslow Strand, Mr. Thomas Chaplin (a prominent M.O.).

Mrs. Strand, Miss M. Malloney (a careless and untidy wife).

Kitty the Maid, Miss M. Spiers.

Mr. Bliffer Bachelor, uncle to Dr. Strand, Mr. C. R. Fowlds.

Scene—A well-furnished apartment at Dr. Strand's. Dr. and Mrs. Strand, a newly married couple are expecting a visit from the doctor's uncle, Mr. Bliffer, who is from the country. On the arrival of the latter Dr. Strand receives a call from a patient, the case being urgent. In the meantime the doctor has been trying to make his guest feel at home, also telling him at the same time he hopes he will like his wife, whom he must not mind if at times she is a little off, as she only has one fault.

The uncle being a woman hater tries to induce the maid to explain matters more fully to him, she replying to leave her alone, calling him "a white-haired sinner." At this he decised to leave at once, and is in the act of putting on his hat and coat when Mrs. Strand appears for the first time. In his amazement at her appearance he accidentally upsets the ink bottle at the desk, and taking out his kerchief wipes the black fluid up, putting the hankerchief back in his pocket. After introducing herself to avoid further trouble, she calls for breakfast to be served, and after much persuasion Uncle Bliffer sits down to eat The bird cage is placed near the table, and Mrs. Strand, in an endeavour to be sociable, pets same and hums a few bars of music, then stating that birds are her one weakness. The uncle thinking this another of her off speeches, becomes alarmed and makes a dart for the door. There he collides with the doctor who is returning from his call. After stating what has happened, the doctor then explains to Uncle Bliffer that he has taken the wrong meaning out of his first speech when he meant to say his wife was a trifle careless in her habits. Now that matters were explained, Mrs. Strand as resolved that never again will they find her careless or faulty, stating "That order is heaven's first law."

ANNUAL WINTER SHOW PASSED TWELFTH YEAR WITH RECORD ENTRIES

Millbrook is Only Town in Ontario With This Regular Event--Horses Entered Were of Good Class.

THE PRIZEWINNERS

MILLBROOK, Feb. 2. — The twelth annual Winter Horse Show, under the auspices of the Millbrook Agricultural Society, was held here yesterday, about four hundred people being in attendance. Millbrook enjoys the distinction of being the only place in Ontario that has consecutively carried on a Winter Fair, and this year's event proved the most successful in the history of the Society. The number of entries in the various classes was unusually large, and the exhibitors, in many instances, came a considerable distance to enter their horses in the competition.

All horses were exhibited on King street and keen interest was taken as the different classes were called. Mr. P. Boag, of Queensville, made a capable judge no fault, apparently, being found with his decisions.

The fine weather added greatly in promoting the success of the occasion which had to be postponed from last week on accocunt of the severe storm and bad roads. The "Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge served hot lunches during the afternoon and a hot supper at the regular tea hour, the number who patronized the daintly-laid tables showing how much the privilege was appreciated.

The prize winners were as follows

Class 1: Carriage Horses: (a) Single horse in harness: 1. W. E. Lewis, Welcome; 2. R. McCamus, Ida; 3. S. S. Staples, Cavan. Prizes $5.00, $4.00, and $2.00 respectively. No entries in (b) pair horses in harness in Class 1.

Class 2: Roadster Horses: (a) Single horse in harness under 15.2: 1. G. E. Shea Janetville; 2. J. O. Ball Peterboro; 3. C. F. Beatty, Elizabethville. Prizes same as in Class 1.

(c) Pair horses in harness: 1 Beatty, 2 Shea. Prizes $7.00, $5.00 and $3.00.

Class 3: Gentlemen's turnout: 1 G. E. Shea, 2 W. E. Lewis, 3 D. A. Henry. Prizes $5.00, $4.00, and $2.50 goods by Fowler & Pendrie.

Class 4—High steppers' special—E. R. McCamus; 2, W. E. Lewis. Prizes $5.00, $4.00 and $2.00.

Class 5—Ladies' Turnout, horse and appointments to count 50 p.c., driving 50 p.c.—1 W. E. Lewis, 2 Mrs. J. E. Allen, 3 Mrs. D. A. Henry. Prizes same as in Class 4.

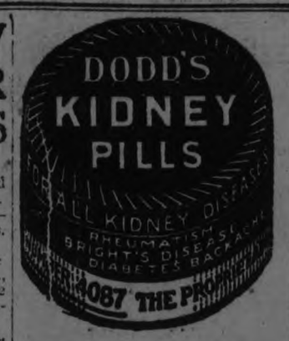
Class 12—Sweepstakes. Best heavy draught mare or gelding, any age—R. J. McKnight. Prize $5.00.

Died.— In Millbrook, on Tuesday, February 26th, 1924, Noble Stewart, in his 83rd year. The funeral, under the auspices of R. B. P. No. 945, and L. O. L. No. 79, will take place from his late residence, King street, on Thursday, February 28th, at 2.30 p.m. Interment in Gardiner's cemetery.

Died.—In Millbrook, on Tuesday, February 26th, 1924, Beatrice Louisa Welch, aged 41 years. The funeral will take place from the family residence on Thursday, February 28th, a private service being held at the house at 1.30 p.m. and a public service at St. Thomas church at 2 p.m. Interment in St. John's cemetery.



FRENCH FRANC SANK TO NEW RECORD LOW

English Press Suggests Speculative Raid--Paris Attributes Fall to Uncertainty in Belgium.

LONDON, Feb. 28. — (United Press.)—Both French and Belgian francs were weak on the London Exchange to-day. The Manchester Guardian suggests that Amsterdam is again the centre of "Another great speculative raid on the franc." The newspaper points out that international exchange operators are "probably engaged in another conspiracy to frighten small French holders, in which they could not succeed if Poincare and the rulers of France had not sown the seeds of panic."

Low in Paris.

A despatch from Paris says: Record lows were registered by the French Franc to-day.

Quotations outside the Bourse showed the franc at 106 to the pound sterling and 24.50 to the dollar.

The down fall of the Belgian cabinet, which resigned on Wednesday when the Chamber refused to support the government on the question of ratification of the Franco-Belgian economic convention, was believed responsible. Premier Poincare's hand has been considerably weakened by the overthrow of Premier Theunis of Belgium.

ROYAL FAMILY OF CHINA SELL GEMS

Family Debts Require Disposal of Treasures of the Ching Family

PEKING, Feb 28—(United Press) Treasures accumulated during thirteen generations by the Ching Family, the last ruling dynasty of the Chinese Empire are to be sold to meet the family debts.

The republican government agreed to give a large annual appropriation to the emperor when he abdicated the throne but no payments have been made in the last four years, and the former royal family is now living almost in poverty, although possessing priceless works of art.

Now the treasure vaults have been opened by Eunuchs of the retired court. Pictures, lacquered wares, carvings, precious stones, ceramics, and gold and silver utensils are being offered for sale. The first of the treasures to be placed on the market are worth about $5,000,000. The Ching family prefers that the bulk of the treasures be sold to some person or group of persons who will deposit the rare works of art in museum instead of reselling them as curios, to be scattered throughout the world.

California Fighting Disease Among Stock.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Feb. 28.—The campaign being waged by Federal, State, County and municipal authorities against the spread of the foot and mouth disease in the state proceeded with renewed vigor yesterday. Distribution of 16,000 animals, including 7,000 hogs and 6,200 cows on dairy ranches and farmers in Contracosts, Napa, Solano and Alameda counties, is to be one step in the campaign of eradication against the epidemic. The restriction measure already adopted, and destruction of infected live stock has cost live stock owners an estimated total of $200,000.

TO REPRESENT CANADA AT EMPIRE EXHIBITION

OTTAWA, Feb. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Mrs. C. H. Thorburn, of Ottawa, will likely represent Canada at the social functions associated with the British Empire Exhibition to be held at Wembley Park, London, this summer.

Mrs. Thorburn has been invited to accept the position but is not decided whether she will accept.

Mrs. Thorburn is vice-president of the National Council of Women, Executive of the Women's Liberal Association of Eastern Ontario, and a gifted speaker.

SHOT TO DEATH.

DETROIT, Feb. 28. — Thomas Strothers, bookmaker, formerly of London, Ontario, was shot to death by two gunmen while defending his gold watch heirloom.

DEEP SNOW RAISED RABBITS TO TREES

DUNDALK, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press). — So heavy has been the snowfall here that a Melancthon farmer declares rabbits are browsing on the tops of the trees and partridges are being slaughtered by the foxes.

If crows are harbingers of spring, though, it is not far distant, as a crow was here yesterday, and indications point to spring.

CONSENTED TO MUNICH REVOLT

Defendant Did Not Hide His Enmity to Government in Trial of Bavarian "Putsch" Leaders.

MUNICH, Bavaria, Feb. 28. — (Canadian Press). — Herr Poehner, former Chief of Police of Bavaria, one of the defendants in the November "putsch" trial, gave testimony yesterday, making no attempt to conceal his enmity to the Government and his share in the plot to overthrow it.

Herr Poehner, whose testimony occupied the greater part of the day's session, declared that Dr. Von Kahr, at one time Premier, Minister of Interior and Foreign Minister of Bavaria, and more recently acted as Bavarian Military Dictator, gave his unconditional consent to the revolt. According to the testimony, he offered Herr Poehner the post of civil governor of Saxony and Thuringia, but the offer was refused.

A request by Herr Poehner that Captain Ehrhardt, who commanded the insurrectionist forces in the November revolt, be subpoenaed, met with the reply from the public prosecutor: "I haven't his address."

The President of the court announced that Dr. von Kahr eventually will be heard as a witness.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Eats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odour, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% kerosene (coil oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Denies Church Union Aimed at Catholicism.

REGINA Feb. 28—A flat contradiction to the implication that the projected union of the Presbyterian Methodist and Congregaional churches was aimed at Roman Catholicism was filed before the Private Bill committee of the Saskatchewan Legislature here to-day in the form of a telegram from Rev. Alfred Gandier, Moderator of the Presbyterian Assembly signer of the petition for enabling legislation. At previous sessions it was hinted such was the case and that organic union would create strife unheard of under existing conditions.

The session was featured by the appearance of Mr. Justice Martin, former Premier of Saskatchewan, as a counter-petitioner. He confined his remarks to legal points, contending the bill if passed, would over ride the civil rights of a minority not protected under the provisions of the bill. The Unionists practically closed their case.

Blamed For Baldwin's Defeat, Hall Resigns.

LONDON, Feb. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Sir Reginald Hall, principal agent for the Conservative party, has resigned his office in the party. Sir Reginald Hall was severely criticized in connection with the calling of the general election last December, and he was blamed to a considerable extent for encouraging the late Premier, Stanley Baldwin, to hold the election at an allegedly inopportune time.

TOO ILL FOR COURT.

MONTREAL, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The case of Alphonse Contant, architect, who is charged with misappropriation of $33,000 belonging to the Sisters of the Precious Blood, Ottawa, was to have been heard in court here yesterday. The accused is, however, it was stated, too ill to attend the court, and the hearings were adjourned without a date being fixed.

Esthonian Schooner On Reef In Bahamas

TURK'S Island, Bahamas, Feb. 28.—The Esthonian schooner Jann Grant, bound from Monte Christi, Santo Domingo, for Drunstelle, reports that she is ashore on a reef near Blue hills, Caicos. The vessel, which is loaded with logwood, has eight feet of water in her hold. Her captain says her bottom apparently is not badly damaged and that the vessel con be saved with the assistance of a salvage steamer. A steamer from Jamaica has been requested. The schooner ran ashore last Monday.

AMBASSADORS DEMAND THAT GERMANY OBEY

WANT AD. UNTIED INCUBATOR KNOT

Advertising Columns Are Meeting Place For the Men Who Have and the Men Who Want.

An instance of the efficacy of Examiner service and the speedy satisfaction which follows on the heels of an insertion in Examiner classified advertising columns is afforded in the case of the man who had an incubator which was proving an incubus to him. Following the line of least resistance and of strict common sense, instead of mourning over the fact that he was saddled with something for which he had no use, he put a 'for sale' advertisement in The Examiner. The next morning, the incubator had departed to a new home, and the purchaser had bought also, for good measure, some surplus poultry. The small initial expense of the advertisement brought a hundred-fold reward of profit and satisfaction to two men whose need and the wherewithal to satisfy it might never have met but for the convenience of the advertising columns of The Examiner.

EDUCATIONAL EXPENDITURES.

The City Council, after hours of whittling at the estimates, is forced to fall back upon the Board of Education as the last ditch between the ratepayers and an increased tax rate.

The board is to be asked to reduce its estimates by $10,000.

The Examiner is not in the confidence of the Board of Education and is unable to say how such a request will be received.

Off-hand, however, the demand upon the board appears to be pre-supposing, that those responsible for the administration of educational affairs in this city have been so needlessly extravagant in their estimates that the slicing off of $10,000 from the appropriations would be a simple matter.

There is no sound reason for such a supposition.

In the absence of any evidence to the contrary it is to be assumed that the Board of Education is as anxious for economy as are the city fathers, and that its budget has been prepared with strict attention to the desire of the citizens for retrenchment.

If, however, the Board of Education can make, on the suggestion of the City Council, a reduction in their demands for the year, of the whole or a large part of the amount mentioned, without imairing the service now the amount mentioned, without impairing the service now taxpayers

SPECIAL GRANTS.

One of the features of civic financing that is a thorn in the side of economical Aldermen is the demands from various organizations for financial assistance.

This year's Council has felt it necessary to pass grants amounting to over $7,000 for such institutions.

The principal items in this list are as follows:

Children's Aid Society	$1,000.00
Industrial Exhibition	2,000.00
Band grant	1,000.00
Poultry Association	200.00
Well Babies' Clinic	700.00
Health Association	1,000.00
Teachers' Institute	50.00
Trent Waterway Development Association	400.00
Christmas treat for children	50.00
Canadian Deep Waterways Development Association	100.00
Salvation Army	500.00

These are all worthy organizations, most of them doing important work, and doing it well, and some of them are entitled by reason of the excellent community service rendered to even more assistance than granted.

Yet there has been and still is an insistent demand on the part of the people who have to pay the tax bills for a reduction of expenditures, and it is a nice subject for conjecture as to how many of these grants would be authorized were the question to be submitted to the taxpayers in the form of a bylaw.

SHOULD BE SIMPLIFIED.

The financial experts in the Legislature continue to play battledore and shuttlecock with the statistics involved in Hon. W. H. Price's budget statement, and as the figures fly back and forward the average citizen sighs for a straightforward, standardized budget that he could digest readily.

Mr. Belanger, Liberal member for Russell, touched upon this difficulty in his speech on Tuesday, suggesting that a committee of expert accountants or actuaries should be appointed to inspect the public bookkeeping of the Province and to prepare a report upon which a permanent system of public accounts could be established.

That is a constructive idea that will meet with favour outside of the House at least.

Businesslike, too, is the suggestion from the same member that the budget speech should cover three fiscal years, the one immediately past, the current and the ensuing year.

There should be a forecast as well as retrospect.

Certainly the system or the various systems that have been carried on by different Governments in Ontario need revision.

The people who pay should be able to see without trouble what use is being made of their money.

At present they are quite unable to do anything of the sort.

BONUSING INDUSTRIES.

The resolution condemning the bonusing of industries by municipalities, which is to be introduced before the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature, is likely to meet with popular approval, and had it been widened out to prohibit fixed assessments as well there would not have been much objection.

The difficulty, of course, in regard to fixed assessments is that unless their prohibition was to be adopted as a nation-wide enactment, Ontario would be placing itself under a handicap to forbid the granting of this privilege so long as Quebec, for example, permitted industries to be given fixed assessment.

New industries looking for a location would naturally gravitate to Quebec, already a very keen rival in the competition for new manufacturing concerns.

The abolishing of the bonus system would put all Ontario municipalities on the same footing in regard to holding out inducements to manufacturers.

Peterborough has never favoured bonusing industries, and there is a feeling that is growing stronger against the granting of fixed assessments at a low figure to manufacturing concerns.

A fixed assessment for ten years by which a company saved $5,000 each year in taxes would be equivalent to a bonus of $50,000, and the wisdom of such a policy is being questioned.

It is realized, of course, that manufacturing firms should receive some consideration in the fixing of assessment values.

A factory should be valued, for instance, at the cost of erection or at its actual business valuation.

The forced sale price would be a more equitable basis of valuation in view of the service rendered by an industry in the pay roll.

MacDONALD AND CAPITAL LEVY.

It has been necessary to point out in these columns how large, under the British constitution, are the powers of even a minority Ministry with a tenure so precarious in the Labor-Socialist Government of MacDonald, in spite of the fact that it does not command one-third of the votes in the House of Commons, says Barron's. But it may be reassuring to show also that a capital levy is, by Ramsay MacDonald's own statement in the House of Commons, no present or immediately prospective danger. His speech of February 14 was most inadequately reported in the newspapers here, but here is what he actually said:

"Capital levy is in exactly the same position as Protection. It cannot be enacted in this Parliament. . . . We shall not deal with capital levy. No change of that character can be made until a majority of the country is in favor of it. I have not the least doubt that Mr. Chamberlain will go on propagating his doctrine of Protection, but, until he or somebody else produces some scheme which will save this country from the exceedingly bad effects, as I think, of a too heavy national debt, increasing the cost of production, diminishing the purchasing value of money, oppressing the wage-earning classes in mass, as I think—until the national debt is diminished and paid by honest means—I regard two means as dishonest, one repudiation and the other inflation—until the national debt is paid off—'paid off' is too long—until the national debt is diminished, until its burden becomes of the nature that can be borne by the people, by the whole body of producers, functions of master and man and so on, I cannot be happy, because I do not believe the country is going to be free to compete in the markets of the world as soon as we enjoy normal conditions again."

That is an unqualified and specific pledge and the rest of the speech is no matter to panic about. MacDonald is clearly of the opinion that national debt repudiation, and inflation as an alternative, are both dishonest means of dealing with a situation which can be ameliorated only by hard and intelligent work for years to come.

WAR PICTURES IN SCHOOL.

Some of the women connected with farmer organizations in Ontario have been exercised about the danger of militarism in schools, and at a convention held not very long ago they passed a resolution protesting against the hanging of war pictures in public schools. To us this seems like going rather too far to attain the object desired. Since the year 1916 or 1917, it has been fairly well agreed that an aggressive, warlike spirit is not the best sentiment that can agitate a country, and in order to prevent such a spirit from being engendered in the young it is a worthy ambition. However, it seems rather absurd to ban from the schools all war pictures. It must be remembered that schools are still a part of our educational system and that it is proper to impart in those schools knowledge of general interest and ordinary importance. War has been one of the chief industries of man for century upon century. It has occupied the attention of countless thousands of people. It has resulted in changes in the political and economic conditions of nations to a degree hardly possible to estimate. It has filled the pages of history. It is reasonable that young people should be taught just what war is; how it is caused; how it is fought; what are its results. Pictures can be used to teach children all about war, and they should be taught. One of the troubles in the past and the feature of the business that probably moved the Ontario women to protest against the war picures, is that they have almost invariably depicted nothing but the glories of war. They have shown the troops on our side of the issue always victorious: they have thrilled the imagination of the young by depicting little bands of heroic men bravely facing terrible odds; they have shown the victor receiving the rewards of his prowess or his generalship; they have been particularly used to show how many medals it is possible to plaster on a single chest. Most of these pictures were created before the camera was invented, and are usually the ideas of artists whose only contact with war has been their reading of war correspondents' accounts in the newspapers. They have not been real pictures. They frequently depicted scenes which never existed in actual fact. they inferred glories which had their birthplace in the imagination of the artist. The camera has changed all that. There is nothing the matter with the modern war picture. It shows what actually took place during the war, for the camera does not lie except in the case of moving pictures. No possible harm can come to a child through the study of actual war scenes. If he has any brains at all he will sooner or later come to the conclusion that war must be a ridiculous sort of a business. If he has no brains, it does not make much difference to him, because i twould be impossible to keep brainless people from going to war if all the pictures of the world were concealed from them. The pictorial representation of the destruction and the waste of the late war is an unanswerable argument against war. A choice selection of war pictures, with more attention given to mud than to generals (for after all, there was more mud than generalship in the war) should not be excluded from any institution having education as one of its objects. —The Saskatoon Progressive.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Oshawa is all excited over being admitted into the city class. It is doubtful, however, whether any resident of Oshawa will be a whit happier as a result of the change.

A man who goes round talking to himself these days is not necessarily crazy. He may merely be trying to get the rule of Mah Jongg firmly fixed in his mind.

The City Council is in the midst of the annual game of trying to keep the tax rate down. The trouble is that if the city fathers lose out so do the ratepayers.

The cry for economy is not keeping Kitchener from having a "Great White Way." Twenty-five thousand dollars will be spent on new street lights this year.

Both in Peterborough and in Brantford the Court House officials have, in blissful ignorance, been flying the red ensign when they should have been flying the Union Jack. Mr. Justice Mowat has very kindly put them right on the matter. The extraordinary thing is that they should have been flying the old "red duster" of the British Mercantile Marine, a little piece of red cloth seen in every port in the world and on every British ship. Under its fiery shadow the decision of the various captains has been law absolute. There is no jury and no appeal, at least until the ship reaches port.—London Advertiser.

CAMPBELLFORD TOWN BRIDGE

Deputation to Toronto Received Assurance of Consideration.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—(Special to the Examiner).—When the advisory committee on highways to be appointed at the present session of the Ontario Legislature, is brought into being one of the first questions it will consider is the maintenance of the Campbellford town bridge.

Such was the assurance given by S. L. Squire deputy minister of highways for the province to a deputation from the Campbellford town and county council which waited on him yesterday afternoon, asking for a government grant. Legislation on the subject will be determined by the report of the advisory committee, the deputy minister stated.

NO MORE WEAK and DIZZY SPELLS Since She Used MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills

Miss Bertha Charrette, Regina, Sask., writes: "I have had a lot of trouble lately, with what I thought was heart trouble, and after my unusual exertion I always felt sick.

My doctor advised a complete rest and change, but this I was unable to take.

I became interested in Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so started taking them. I have now taken three boxes and am so much improved I can go about my daily work without feeling any after ill effects, and have not had any weak or dizzy spells for some time. Your medicine has done me more good than anything I have ever taken, and I will gladly recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills to any woman who is weak and run down."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 27. — Baby beef was in good supply, and the best ones were held with a top of about $8.50 a cwt.

Calves had an erratic market on Tuesday. Prices were down half a dollar a cwt. during the morning, but in the afternoon this was fully recovered, despite quite a heavy delivery and only about 170 were on sale this morning. The average good calf is 11½ to 12 cents and select one are 13 cents and occasionally up to 14 cents. Medium calves are 10 to 11 cents, and common calves are averaging 9 cents.

Fifteen cents a pound was bid on good lambs this morning, but the supply was none too heavy, and tops are held at 16 cents. Two hundred more Western lambs finished at Thornbury were in this morning and sold at 15½ cents a pound. One small package of light lambs brought 16 cents.

The very heavy run of hogs left the packers in control this morning, and they were trying out a bid of $7 a cwt. f.o.b. It is expected that the drop to $7.25 made on Tuesday will, however, about hold the market for the balance of the week.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, February 28 (Canadian Press). — Receipts in Ontario are reported to be increasing, and as a result prices are lower. Some Toronto and Montreal dealers are now offering extras 38, firsts 34, pullet extras 30 delivered. Yesterday prices in Chicago took a severe drop, and this affected the Canadian markets.

Toronto jobbing specials 45, extras 40, firsts 37, pullet extras 32.

Montreal fresh extras jobbing 45 to 47, firsts 41 to 43, storage extras 38 to 39.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan markets unchanged.

Chicago spot 25 1-2, futures; February 27 3-4, March 22 1-2, April 24 1-4, May 24 1-4, December 27 1-4.

New York extra firsts 33, firsts 32, hennery 40.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, February 28 (Canadian Press). — The domestic trade in cash grain in the local market yesterday was very slow. There was no improvement in the demand for flour. The market for millfeed is unchanged, but a stronger feeling developed in rolled oats, and prices were up 15 cents per bag. Trade in baled hay is without any new development. A fairly active business is passing in eggs. The tone of the potato market remains firm. Trade in butter is quiet, and in cheese exceedingly dull.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, February 28 (Canadian Press). — The sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follow:

Demand 4.4375
Cables 4.4413

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, February 28 (Canadian Press). — Arrivals, 746 cattle, 61 calves, 2,273 hogs, and 178 sheep and lambs.

On the cattle market bidding generally was steady over Tuesday's close on good butcher steers and females. One load of choice, heavy steers sold at $6.60, with best handyweight steers $5.00 to $6.00.

Prices for packers and feeders were fairly steady.

Hog market unsettled, lower, packers bidding $6.85 for thick smooths.

Lambs about steady, the best bringing around $11.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 28 (Canadian Press). — Corn advanced yesterday to new high price records for the season, although the previous top level was reached only 24 hours before. Persistent commission buying based to a great extent on the decreasing movement from rural holders appeared to be chiefly responsible.

Closing quotations were firm, 3-8c to 1-2c to 7-8c net higher, with May at 82c.

Wheat finished 3-8c to 5-8c up, May $1.10 1-4 to 33-8 to $1.10 3-8, and July $1.10 3-8 to $1.10 1-2, with oats showing 1-4c to 5-8c gain, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 2c.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, February 28 (Canadian Press). — Cattle, receipts 11,000; closing beef steers and fat stock generally strong to 15c higher; near prime weighty steers $12.00 to shippers; few lots big weight bullocks, $11.00 to $11.15; stockers and feeders sharing full advance; bulls about steady; bolognas, $4.75 to $5.00; veal calves closing 50c to $1.00 lower, bulk to packers, $10.50 to $11.75; shippers buying sparingly at $13.50 and above.

Hogs, receipts 38,000; uneven; mostly 15c to 20c lower; good and choice kind averaging more than 190 pounds, $7.00 to 7.10; top, $7.15; desirable 14 0to 190 pounds average $6.75 to $6.95; packing sows, $6.15 to $6.30; strong weight killing pigs, $6.00 to $6.40; estimated holdover, 15,000.

Sheep, receipts 13,000; best fat lambs steady; others closing 15c to 25c lower, sheep steady to strong; feeding lambs 25c to 40c higher; early, fat wooled lambs, $15.35 to $16.15; top, $16.25; choice clipped lambs, $13.35 to $13.50; best fat ewes $10.00; feeding lambs, $14.50 to $15.00; choice shearing lambs, $15.50.

IMMIGRANTS ARRIVE ARMED TO THE TEETH

CALGARY, February 27 (Canadian Press). — Canadian Customs officials were severely criticised by Magistrate Sanders in the Police Court here yesterday for allowing immigrants to enter Canada "armed to the teeth."

The point arose when Wilhelm Lain, Finlander, was charged with being in possession of a heavy calibre revolver and a dagger of which he was quite proud.

TUBERCULOSIS CLEAN-UP IS BONE OF CONTENTION

QUEBEC, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press). —If Lord Atholstan wishes to aid the government in stamping out tuberculosis to the extent of spending half a million dollars the time for giving such aid is now, declared Hon. Athanese David, in the Legislature yesterday in debating the Government's bill to spend a hundred thousand dollars a year for five years, which passed without division.

Premier Taschereau suggested that perhaps a better way to aid in the battle against tuberculosis would be for Lord Atholstan to clean up Montreal, and then let the government care for new cases.

"It is easy to forsee time when Montreal will be cleaned up?" demanded Mr. David.

NEW DISCOVERY EXPANDS FIELDS IN OIL SCANDAL

Intercession With Senator Walsh, Chief Prosecutor In Investigation, Suggested in Behalf of Edward B. McLean, Who Had Private Telegraph From Washington to Palm Beach.

SHEAF OF TELEGRAMS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.— Another "Pandora's Box" was opened yesterday in the oil scandal. As a result new fileds for exploration were discovered and the list of committee witnesss was appreciably augmented.

A chief development was the reading into the record of a sheaf of telegrams sent to Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, at Palm Beach, last December and January, by his agents and others in Washington. These disclosed that persistent efforts were made on behalf of McLean to keep him off the witness stand in the oil inquiry and that in this connection attempts were made to bring pressure on Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, Chief Prosecutor in the investigation.

There also was evidence that McLean was kept constantly advised as to developments in the inquiry and as to the movements and opinions respecting the investigation of Albert B. Fall to whom the publisher at one time said he had loaned $100,000.

Had Private Wire.

From the telegrams the committee learned also that E. W. Smithers, Chief Communications Officer at the White House, had been employed to man the Washington end of a private telegraph wire which was installed between this city and McLean's Palm Beach cottage.

One of the arguments advanced to the publisher in favor of the private wire was "easy and quick access" to the White House," and another was "the Congressional situation."

In this same message, sent by John Major ,one of McLean's secretaries under date of December 22, the publisher was advised that C. Bascom Semple, Secretary to President Coolidge, was leaving that night for Palm Beach.

Mr. Slemp has testified that he talked about the oil matter with McLean at Palm Beach and advised him to "get it all out" in his testimony before Senator Walsh at the Florida resort.

Additional telegrams to McLean were to be read into the record today. Senators said that one would would show that an agent reported to the publisher that A. Mitchell Palmer, Attorney-General in the Wilson Administration, and acting for McLean, would try to have "Underwood" use his influence with Senator Walsh in McLean's behalf.

Never Interceded.

Senator Walsh declared that Senator Underwood of Alabama, who is a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, never had interceded with him in McLean's behalf.

Another telegram sent to McLean will disclose, Senators said, that those reporting to the publisher had given up hope of keeping him off the witness stand, explaining that Senator Walsh was determined to call him.

A telegram to be read to-day and signed by the publisher, says, according to Committeemen, that Francis McAdoo, a New York lawyer, or his father, William G. McAdoo, another candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, had been his attorney for seven years.

BRITISH RECOGNITION OF MEXICO POSTPONED UNTIL DISORDERS END

Informed That Chaos Is Complete and Obregon Administration Cannot Be Regarded As De Facto Government—No More Disorderly Country in World, Says Lord Curzon.

Property Confiscated.

LONDON, February 28 (Canadian Press).— Addressing the House of Lords yesterday, Lord Askwith advocated the recognition of Mexico as a means of promoting trade, and suggested that the course of events during the past three years had greatly diminished the difficulties in that direction. He said that British recognition would greatly help in the development of Mexico, and he thought that the disturbances in that country had been largely exaggerated.

All the great Powers except Britain, he said, have recognised the Obregon Government, and as Mexico could not enter the League of Nations without British recognition, he thought it might be accorded even without a settlement of claims between the two countries.

Lord Parmoor, President of the Council, replying for the Government, agreed with much of Lord Askwith's speech, and said that as soon as the conditions considered necessary arose the Government would recognie Mexico.

He agreed regarding the desirability of encouraging trade, as Mexican produce would be of great value in Britain, but information possessed by the Government as to actual conditions in Mexico were rather different from the picture given by Lord Askwith.

Complete Chaos.

According to his information, Lord Parmoor continued, Mexico is in a state of complete chaos, and this instability made it impossible to regard the present administration as a de facto government, hence the view of the British Government was against recognition until more stable conditions prevailed.

The Government was awaiting a report from the British Charge d'Affaires in Mexico City. The Government's view was that once conditions in Mexico are more settled there would be no obstacle to de jure recognition subject to an arrangement of a basis for the settlement of claims outstanding between the two countries.

He also agreed to the desirability of Mexico entering the League of Nations.

Britishers Injured.

Lord Curzon, who followed Lord Parmoor, said he thought there was no more disorderly country in the world than Mexico, and the Mexican Government never had made any attempts to settle British claims. The wholesale seizures and confiscation of property belonging to British subjects and even cases of personal injury to British subjects have been entirely ignored. Everybody knew that recognition by the United States was for political reasons, and he invited Lord Parmoor to ask either the United States, Belgian or Spanish Governments whether in return for recognition they got any of the advantages they claimed for their subjects. He would find they got none.

OPEN ALL ELEVATORS.

FORT WILLIAM, Feb. 28.—Two of the oldest elevators at this port with a combined capacity of 2,500,000 bushels, and which have not been in use for more than a year will be put into commission immediately to relieve the congestion at the head of the lakes. It is expected that this new elevator space will materially aid the movement from the west.

FARMER'S APPEAL WAS DISMISSED

Claimed $1,800 For Board Out of Estate of $5,000 Saved By Farm Hand Who Worked For Him Half a Century.

OTTAWA, February 28 (Canadian Press). — The second Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario has upheld the decision of Judge Mulligan, who some time ago in the Surrogate Court dismissed the claim of Howard Barber for $1,800 for board and lodging which he brought against the estate of the late David Cuthbert, aged farm-hand, who on small wages managed to save $5,000.

At the time the claim was presented in the Surrogate Court, it was represented that Cuthbert had worked for nearly fifty years for Barber on the latter's farm at West Templeton.

On behalf of Barber, it was claimed that about 1915 Cuthbert had been unable to do much work around the farm, and that Barber told him that he must pay for his board and lodging if he desired to remain on the farm.

Cuthbert, it was stated, did not state whether or not he was agreeable to paying for his board and lodging.

An occasional dose of DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN Keeps young girls fit

False Modesty Wrecks Health

THE young lady just assuming the responsibilities of a woman is very apt to be self-conscious of her physical functions, and in consequence neglect them. There is no time, however, when it is more important for her to look after them. Chief among her troubles is constipation, and her suffering will be serious when she gets older if she does not regulate her bowels now. Mrs. J. Charbonneau, 3410 Adam, Montreal, recommends Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to all her friends, and Mrs. Henry Joyce, Croton, Ont. says it is the best remedy for constipation she ever used.

Safe for Young and Old

Let mothers with growing daughters interest themselves in this matter and see that their judgment is enforced. A rule followed by many is to take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin once a week until the bowels function daily, and at such other times as there is headache, biliousness, sores and fever blisters, lack of energy and appetite, sleeplessness, indigestion.

A dose can be given in these conditions to any member of the family however young or old as Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a simple compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasing aromatics, and perfectly safe.

Public Recognizes Merit

You will quickly see the difference between a mild laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin and castor oil, or rough cathartics and physics. Syrup Pepsin acts gently and does not gripe. Increased doses are not necessary. A bottle can be had at any drug store, and a spoonful costs less than a cent. It has been successfully used for thirty years and is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles having been sold in drug stores last year. Keep Laxative Syrup Pepsin in your medicine chest.

.....If You Want to Try It Free Before Buying.....

"Syrup Pepsin," 24 Caldwell Bldg., Toronto, Ont.

DELORME COURT DECORUM UPSET VISITING HOUSE

Terrier Chased Cat Between Judge's Legs, Overturning Garbage Can — Crowd Gathered About Lane Where An Open-Air Hearing Was Held.

EVIDENCE OF NOISES.

MONTREAL, Feb. 28.— Open air court was held Wednesday after noon with Mr. Justice Martineau, the jury, lawyers, court officials and Father Adelard Delorme travelling in taxi cabs to the little lone off Lebelle street in the rear of the former Delorme home at 190 St. Hubert street. A peremptory order from the court that only the above be allowed to leave the court room was issued by the judge, and the public at the second day's trial of Father Delorme was faced with the alternative of being locked for the time in the court room or of giving up their cards of admission. The majority preferred the former option. As an after thought, newspapermen were allowed to accompany the court.

The intention of the court was to procure physical evidence of the location at the back of Delorme dwelling and the order was to obviate the undue crowding that occurred when a similar visit was paid to the same spot last summer. Nevertheless when the string of taxi cabs arrivedl along Labelle street the end of the lane was packed with people From the windows where Father Delorme had lived and all along the tenements and dwellings nearby, curtains were drawn aside and the unusual spectacle enjoyed to the full.

Court in The Open

Percy H. Atkins, former neighbor and tenant of Father Delorme who lived at 192 St. Hubert street was examined and cross-examined in the lane while a court stenographer did his best to write and keep his fingers from becoming numbed with cold at the same time. Then the jury had seen and heard all there was to be seen and heard the court was formally adjourned, the court crier standing upon a snow bank to cry out the proper "Oyez, Oyez" and "God Save the King."

Father Delorme who was well protected from the cold by a heavy raccoon coat and a fur cap was most active, showing his legal advisers what such and such a door led to, and what this and that window opened on.

Press photographers were kept out but, not to be thwarted, one of them scaled a number of roofs and took some pictures. Another smuggled his camera through the police lines and hoisted his apparatus up to a colleague on a nearby roof.

Some curious incidents took place. At one time two cats hotly pursued by a fox terrier dashed between the judge's legs and upset a garbage can raising a disturbance out of keeping with the dignity of the court. A woman who was in a hurry to open her window, smashed a milk bottle on the sill and the fluid trickled down the wall. An old man got past the constables. He was the custodian of the key to Father Delorme's garage, and he offered to open the door for the jury's inspection. The snow, however, was over four feet deep and it was decided to have the whole lane cleaned up, so that by Saturday when it is again purposed to visit the scene, it will be easier to walk about. Finally the fox terrier came back from his cat hunt. The animal was excited by the crowd and set up a loud barking. After some trouble he was expelled by a well directed kick.

The afternoon session was wholly occupied with evidence as to noises heard in the cellar and lane behind the Delorme house on the night of January 6th 1922, when the murder was committed. Aikins told of having heard an automobile either coming into or leaving the lane about 11 o'clock that night and said he also heard noises as though someone were opening or shutting garage doors. He stated that his bedroom window was always open at night. It faced the lane and he could plainly hear any noises outside. He had not looked to see what was going on.

Marks of Fires

Examined by R. L. Calder K.C. Crown Prosecutor, Aikins said that the next morning he found fresh impressions of automobile tires showing that they had been bound by chains. There was a heavy sleet and the tracks were plainly visible.

Cross-examined by Alban Germain K.C., counsel for the defence, the witness said that if the automobile had struck the garage door with a bang he would have heard it. A juryman asked if the noise of automobile "making a bang" against the garage door would be the same as when the doors were opened or closed.

"No, the noises were different" answered the witness.

He went into lengthy explanations and it was at this point that Mr. Justice Martineau adjourned the court to visit the spot, saying he was not at all clear as to the situation

The Delorme house was pointed out in detail to the jurymen. "There is Rose Delorme's window" said the witness. After viewing the lane and the approaches to the garage, the out-of-doors court was adjourned.

Heard Motor Noise

Earlier in the afternoon Mrs. P. Lalime, who lived at 196 St. Hubert street, stated that she heard noises like someone shaking a furnace and also the noise of a motor on the night of the murder.

Omer De Bellefeuille, private detective, called by the Crown, testified, that, if Raoul Delorme had attended a local theatre on the afternoon of the day he disappeared, he did not come in through the main entrance of the theatre.

Monsignor Rheaume, Bishop of Haileybury, who gave evidence during the morning session testified as to the signing of Raoul's will.

COSTS GOING UP.

Cost of automobiles and trucks, and expenditures of their maintenance will amount to twelve billion dollars, statisticians estimate. This will be $2,000,000 000 more than the expenditure in 1923 and more than half the national debt of the United States.

BURNBRAE CHOIR HAD PRESENTATION

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Donald Were Honored on Their Departure.

BURNBRAE, Feb. 28.—The choir of St. Andrew's Church, Burnbrae met on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Milne, choir leader at Menie.

The members were out in full strength. The purpose of the gathering was to have a little farewell social for Mr. and Mrs. Alex Donald and son Miller, who have sold their farm and are leaving Burnbrae shortly to take up residence in the town of Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald have been interested in community welfare and were active workers in Burnbrae Church. Mr. Donald has given years of faithful service to the choir which were greatly appreciated.

The following address was read: "We, the members of St. Andrew's Church choir have gathered here tonight to express our deep regret that you are leaving our vhurch and community.

For a number of years past you have been faithful and valued helpers in the church especially in connection with the services of praise. Your removal from our midst will be a decided loss to our choir members. You have always been interested in this important branch of Christian service and have done your part faithfully to make it a success.

The service rendered by you in this department of our church's work has been highly appreciated by the leader, members of the choir and the whole congregation. On this the occasion of your leaving us we desire to express our appreciation in a more tangible way by asking you to accept this electric reading lamp for your new home as a slight token of our appreciation as a little reminder to you of the year's spent among us at Burnbrae. Wishing you every success for the future and abundant happiness in your new home in Campbellford.

Signed on behalf of the choir:

Mrs. Charles Milne, Mrs. John Rannie, Malcolm Totten, Murray Meeklejohn.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Charles Milne, choir leader, to which Mr. Donald very suitably replied. Several short addresses followed by Rev. J. J. Black and the following members of the choir: Malcolm Totten, Harvey Donald, Malcelm Totten, Murray Meeklejohn and Mrs. John Rannie, all expressing regret at the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Donald from Seymour East.

The remainder of the evening was spent in music and games, after which a delightful lunch was served.

Fund to Investigate Radio "Frying" Noise.

OTTAWA, Feb. 28. — (Canadian Press).—The Advisory Council for Scientific and Industrial Research of Canada will investigate "parasitic noises originating from electric power supply lines, leaky transformers, street car lines and other sources" which interfere with the reception of radio broadcast programmes. The investigation has been approved by the Cabinet on the recommendation of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who stated that Canadian radio broadcast listeners had this year paid to the Government approximately $30,000 in license fees. The sum of $3,000 has been set aside for the investigation.

What Does This Trade Mark Mean?

You will see this shield-shape trade mark in hardware stores everywhere. You won't see it on cheap, inferior goods. It goes only on household utensils of the highest quality, yet selling at moderate prices, because of the tremendous quantities sold each year.

Choose cooking and baking utensils that carry this trade mark. Choose SMP Enameled Ware, with its very hard, smooth surface. Heats faster, cleans easier, imparts no metallic flavor, causes no dangerous acid re-actions. Ask for

COALITION DEFEATED BELGIAN GOVERNMENT

Socialists and Flemish Catholics Voted Against Ratification of Economic Convention With France — Had Minority of 16 — May Require Elections.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 28.—Through a coalition of the Socialist and the Extreme Flemish Catholics, the Government of Premier Theunis met with defeat in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday on the question of ratification of the Franco-Belgian economic convention. The vote was 95 to 78 against ratification. This placed the Government, which had staked its tenure of office on the result, in the minority by 16 votes. Defeat of the Government had been forecast by political observers for several days past.

Shortly after the vote was taken Premier Theunis tendered his resignation and the resignations of his ministers. It is anticipated that King Albert will refuse to accept the resignations on the ground that the general policy of the Cabinet was not involved in the vote on the Franco-Belgian pact. M. Theunis, however, has said that he would be unwilling to resume power in any circumstances.

It is thought that dissolution of Parliament and new elections are likely to precede the formation of a new cabinet, especially if the Socialist-Flemish combination attempts to create one.

Expert Continue.

PARIS, Feb. 28.—The fall of the Belgian Cabinet is not expected to interrupt the work of the Reparation Experts, as it is pointed out that the two British members of the commission who were appointed by the late Baldwin Government, have continued to participate uninterruptedly in the discussions since the Laborite Government came into power.

The sub-committee on currency continued its sessions late last evening long after the news from Brussels was received and there was no suggestion from the Belgian members that they had to await instructions from a new government.

Illusory Figures.

The mass of figures and statistics through which the committee is now wading was illustrated by M. Franqui, one of the Belgian members, who asked this conundrum—"I have a ship that goes to sea. She has two masts, one short and the other long. How old is the catpain?"—Answer: 2,422 feet."

M. Franqui used to show how illusory are the figures with which the experts have to deal, largely on account of the constantly changing value of German money over the period covered by the investigation.

CHILDREN'S CONVULSIONS.

To the mother who is somewhat weak or nervous from constant family cares and worries, the added burden of a child who is on the verge of sickness or sudden convulsions is almost the last straw before her own breakdown or serious illness.

Under certain conditions of home life the mother may not be in contact with the child during the day, or at least a large part of it. She may come home at evening and find the child in the throes of a sudden convulsion, which had she been present might have been averted by close observation. Mothers must learn to keep close watch when any such symptoms begin to appear.

It often happens that a number of children's diseases are apt to begin with convulsions. You must understand that the convulsions of the child may be said to take the place of an initial or first chill which occurs in the adult. They really come on quite gradually, but on account of lack of observation and careful attention, in many instances, they appear to be of rather sudden occurrence.

Teething under bad bodily conditions is one cause of convulsions. Over-excitement, which seems frequently to affect the brain of smaller children, is another. Acute cases of children's indigestion will afford a basis for rather sudden convulsions. The disturbance, to a marked degree, of the nerve centres, by rickets or pin worms, will often bring on convulsions. They are not as a rule serious. Do not get excited, but keep your head and work fast.

As a first treatment, before the arrival of the physician, place the patient in a hot bath (temperature of 100 to 104 degrees) just as soon as possible, with the clothes on—if the attack is severe do not wait to undress. Be sure to keep the head raised and apply cold water or an icebag.

Do not keep the child in the hot bath for more than five minutes. When taken from the bath wrap in a warm blanket.

An enema should be given at once to obtain bowel movement. This treatment should insure a fair degree of comfort until the physician arrives.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Earton

MRS. GIANT'S SUNBONNET

"Well, well, well!" said the big jolly giant when Nancy and Nick fell out of his pocket. "Where do you s'pose those children have gone, Snap? But if you can't find 'em and I can't find them, just the same we had better not be late home to dinner. So come along, Snap; maybe we will have fried elephants for dinner, and if you are a good goggle you may have one.

Nancy and Nick kept very still! Nobody could see them away down in the deep wool on Snap's back. The giant dog never dreamed for a minute that the little boy and girl were using him for a street-car.

Once when Nancy took an extra tight hold of his wool so as to keep from falling, Snap sat down and started to scratch with his foot.

"Is it a flea you have, Snap?" asked the jolly giant. "Come on and let the poor little flea alone."

Snap stopped just in time, for his great foot had about knocked the last bit of breath out of both of the Twins.

"Oh, goodness!" gasped Nancy.

"Jimineezers!" exclaimed Nick. "That was a close shave!"

Everything went all right for a few minutes, and then suddenly Snap spied a rabbit. And before his master could say a word, away went the dog like a shot out of a gun.

Nancy and Nick held on as well as they could for a little while, but all at once Snap leaped a fence and that was the end of it!

Off went Nancy and off went Nick, rolling over and over and over like tenpins. They turned so many cartwheels that when finally they came to a stop, the whole world seemed to be spinning.

"Wh—where are we?" panted Nancy when she found her voice.

"I—in Beanstalk Land, of course," replied Nick, feeling himself all over for bruises.

"I know that," declared Nancy. "But where in Beanstalk land? Whatever this is we are on, it's blue with white checks on it. Do you suppose they have blue and white checked grass in Beanstalk Land!"

Suddenly Nick cried out, "Be careful, Nancy! Don't fall over the edge. We're up on something high. Hold tight!"

Both Twins peeped and what do you think they saw! A giant woman milking a giant cow! And they were on her blue and white checked sun bonnet! When Snap jumped over the fence, and they flew off his back, that is where they had landed.

"My!" cried Nancy. "It must be a mile to the ground, Nick. If we fell off, we'd be smashed as flat as butter." But just then Nancy's foot struck a piece of starch on Mrs. Giant's sunbonnet brim and she tripped. Away she went head over heels right down into the pail of milk. Nick tried to save her but down he went, too!

"Help! Help!" they screamed as loudly as they could. But Mrs. Giant never heard a thing. She would have gone on with her milking, only suddenly her sharp eyes spied something dark splashing around in the milk pail.

"There are two pesky flies!" she said. "I'll have to fish them out!" And she broke off a broad blade of grass and stuck it in.

Both Twins grabbed it and held on tight. Then Mrs. Giant threw the leaf away and went on with her milking.

(To Be Continued)

They were on her blue and white checked sunbonnet.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

ANNUAL REPORT FIRE DEPARTMENT

Submitted by Fire Chief George Gimblett.

Alarms, Fires and Losses

During the year 1923 the department responded to 427 alarms, as follows: Box 48, telephone 354, verbal 23, private 2, this being an increase of 174 alarms than 1922. Of the above number of calls for the department 53 fires of a more or less serious nature were responsible for a loss of $159,982.19.

The Salvation Army and J. C. Turnbull fires were responsible for $123,970.40, leaving $36,064.79 for the remaining 51 fires.

Tha attached tables will give the complete workings of the department for the year 1923.

During the year the department laid 21,200 ft. of 2½ inch hose, 2,000 ft. of chemical hose, 1470 ft. ladders, 1383 gals. of chemical and 5-quarts of pyrene were used.

There were six calls for the Pulmotor in addition to above number of alarms.

Apparatus

The apparatus of the department consists of the following: Chief's car, motor combination, motor hose wagon and ladder truck. The following is kept in reserve: 800 gal. Waterious steamer, 2 horse-drawn hose wagons, buggy, cutter, sleigh and bobs. There are two horses in the department.

Discipline

The conduct of the members of the department has been very good, with the following exceptions: Late 10, asleep on watch 2, neglect of duty 5, absent from alarm 9, insolence 3, insubordination 1, absent without leave 2, under the influence of liquor 2.

Recommendations

I would recommend that a bungalow fire station be built in the south end as a larger percentage of alarms come from that district than any other section.

I would recommend that a Triple-combination-Pumper be purchased as in the case of a large fire in the mercantile district or one of the large factories, a pumper can be hooked right on to a hydrant, whereas now I have to send back to the station for the steamer and valuable time is lost.

I recommended these for your consideration last year and I hope you see your way clear to take this matter up this year as the efficiency of the department will be greatly added to by the above additions.

I would recommend that 1000 ft. 2½-inch hose be purchased to keep the supply up to the standard and replace hose worn out.

There are 7150 feet of 2½ inch hose in the department, 1000 feet first class, 6150 feet second class, 550 ft. of 2½ inch hose has been discarded during the year as of no further use.

There should be a chassis purchased and placed under the ladder truck and the horses disposed of.

More fire alarm boxes should be added to the system.

I would recommend that the Council take up ways and means of providing a pension fund, similar to those in the larger cities, whereby the men and their families will be provided for in case of death or disability.

The inside of the station should be painted and the rest of the yard should be paved.

Improvements Added During the Year

Browder life net, Kraque wire cutters, brass sliding pole, hardwood floor in watch room, tarpaulins, remodeling Studebaker chassis into hose wagon.

In closing this my second annual report, I desire to tender my thanks to His Worship the Mayor, the City Council and the chairmen and members of the Fire Water and Light Committee, for kindness shown me in the discharge of my duties as Chief Officer of the Fire Department.

I also wish to tender my thanks to the city clerk and other officials, and the police department. I also wish to thank the members of the Fire Department for their very loyal support, and the members of the press for the fair and impartial manner in which they reported the workings of the department during the year 1923.

The total number of inspections for the year was 3322.

SOVIET PEEVED OVER OMISSION

Moscow Said to Be Disgruntled Because Not Invited to Participate in Washington Conference.

GENEVA, Feb. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Portugal and Roumania have petitioned the League of Nations for a seat on the Naval Committee, which is directed by the Council of the League, and with the help of the South American countries they are expected to continue the efforts begun in Rome to extend the principles of the Washington Treaty.

Russia's demand at the Rome conference for 400,000 tons of naval weight has not surprised League circles, which learn that Moscow is disgruntled over the fact that Russia was not invited to participate in the Washington Conference.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

The man who makes a large fortune is usually the man who produces, and he usually produces some great service to mankind.

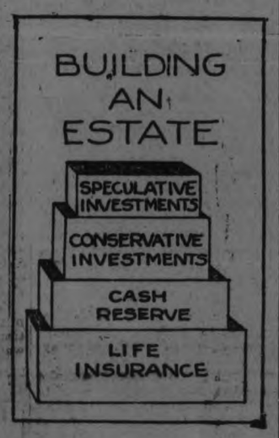
There are fortunes made by pure, unadulterated luck, but they are so few and far between that it is a waste of time for the average man to work, or long for them.

The business world will reward any man who can step out and produce Usually the man who makes a large fortune in the business world produces some unusual service.

For instance, Ford produced cheap transportation. Other men built railroads which made various parts of the country prosperous through the interchange of trade. Still others brought out ideas in merchandising which gave the people what they wanted at reduced cost.

All of these men made large fortunes, yet mankind made more than they did, because the service was more valuable to the world than any one fortune could be.

The logical way to "get rich quick" is to produce someting which will benefit the world so much that it will give you a fortune.



Build a well rounded estate using life insurance as a foundation.

It is a fortunate thing for everyone that life insurance has come to be so generally accepted. Through it comes a safety and protection not obtained in any other way. But it does not take the place of invested capital, nor is it intended to preclude all other forms of savings.

Life insurance as the only saving is a lopsided way to build up an estate Yet many successful business men feel well content with their financial situation when they pay their life insurance premium. Ostrich-like, they hide in the sand and refuse to think of the need for a reserve of invested capital.

Along with insurance a cash reserve should be built and held ready for possible emergencies or for investment. With these assured, a man may venture into speculative investment.

A man may have the assurance that he is financially independent when his invested securities equal the amount of his insurance and when the sum of his insurance and investments is large enough to bring a living income to his family.

PEEK-A-BOO WAIST BANNED BY BERLIN

BERLIN, Feb. 28. —Peek-a-boo waists have been banned by the Minister of Finance of Berlin district in the "interest orf economy." The decree which was the first of its kind here, caused a sensation among several thousand municipal workers. "Women when at work in Bureaus," says the decree, "must have the chest and lower part of the neck covered. Too much time has been lost, the Finance Minister contends, in consulting mirrors "to see if the thing is on straight."

Plain shirt waists will wear longer and "attract less attention among men."

Daugherty Expected to Resign After Enquiry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press). — Attorney-General Daugherty will remain for the present a member of President Coolidge's Cabinet, but he wil be expected to retire to private life as soon as the Senate has completed its inquiry into his administration of the Department of Justice.

His determniation not to resign without a hearing on the charges against him was re-affirmed yesterday in the face of growing pressure for his removal. He even refused to promise that he would vacate his post upon the termination of the Senate inquiry, but it was apparent in other quarters that any plan for his retention beyond that time had been abandoned.

Ottawa Issues New Regulations Covering Transportation From One Point to Another—Will Appoint Customs Officer In New York.

INSPECT TRANSFER.

OTTAWA, Feb. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Regulations governing the transportation of Canadian goods from one point in Canada to another via New York, have just been approved by the Government. The establishment of a Canadian Customs at New York was announced some time ago by the Prime Minister and an early announcement of the appointment of a Customs officer to take charge of the work here, is expected.

The regulations provide that the goods shall be transported in British registered vessels under Canadian Customs manifests. A Canadian Customs officer shall be stationed at the point of transfer in the United States, and the transfer of goods from car to vessel must be made in his presence and be certified by him.

A RIOT SQUAD CALLED TO QUELL DISTURBANCE

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.— (Canadian Press.)—Stormy shops, beating employers and employees initiated a strike of 4,000 members of the Ladies' Garment Workers yesterday. Police reserves were called, reinforced by riot squads. In the clashes around the manufacturing district on Market street twenty persons in the mobs suffered wounds which sent them to the hospital. A shop on Adams' street, was attacked by a score of strikers armed with knives and clubs. Two of the company officials were beaten, A dozen girls were driven out on the fire escape, where they were trapped and beaten. When the police reached the sceen, Morris Bloom, president of the firm, appeared with his clothes torn, and bleeding from cuts. He said he had been stabbed.

FOR 15 YEARS WAS TROUBLED WITH ECZEMA

There is no other remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters that can possibly give such relief to all sufferers from eczema, salt rheum and all other diseases of the blood for the reason that this old and well tried remedy goes right to the seat of the trouble and completely and permanently drives these diseases out of the system by cleansing the blood and making it pure and rich.

Mr. F. W. H. Schultz, Pembroke, Ont., writes: "Having been troubled with eczema for fifteen years, during which time I tried everything I could think of, including doctors, but without getting anything to do me much good I finally decided to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I was certainly surprised to find that two weeks after I had started to take it I was relieved of my trouble. That was nine months ago, and I have not had a sign of it since. I surely wish to thank you for this wonderful medicine and strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from the same trouble as I had."

INTERESTING BUDGET AROUND BRIDGENORTH

Ice Harvesters Are At Work--Very Little Traffic on the Roads—Birthday Celebration.

BRIDGENORTH, Feb. 26.—Rollie Windover, who drives the stage between Lakehurst and Peterboro on R. R. No. 1, is generally on time, but owing to the severe snow storm which has been raging this week has been running on a delayed schedule, he left Peterboro on Tuesday at noon and arrived back in the city on Friday evening at 6 o'clock. The postmaster at Bridgenorth has been into the city each day and brought his own mail out and also dropped a few along the way, but most of the mail boxes were covered with snow.

The Winter Car

There are a number of ways and means of travelling on the roads these days when motor cars are out of commission, but the sawed-off Ford seems to be the new one, two of which are owned and controlled in this village at present by two of our prominent business men in the person of Mr. James Beatty and Mr. Harry Jopling, who are the owners. The axles are sawed off and narrowed to the width of the sleigh track. These two have four wheels instead of runners in front which they claim is easier to navigate. Some have tops, others are just open with a windshield. They seem to travel along at a good speed but when they take the ditch it takes an army of men to put them on the road again. Jim says the only trouble he has is in meeting a load of hay, they want all the road.

Scholars Missing

The rural schools have been minus a few scholars this week and no doubt the attendance officer may want some of them to answer a few questions later on. Miss Helen Grieve, down at S. S. No. 3, taught 3 scholars on Wednesday and on Thursday 13. Billie Robinson took the 13 home at 4 o'clock on a load of empty milk cans on his way out.

Eye Was Injured

Mr. Ern Scott, who was playing hockey in Lakefield last week with a team against Warsaw, came nearly losing his right eye. He got a bad poke from a hockey stick and at present is nursing a black eye, but he got it accidently.

Had Thumb Broken

Mr. Buff McMannus, while working in the stable with a cow chain had the misfortune to have a bone broken in his thumb which has caused him considerable inconvenience and pain.

Ready for Homecoming

Mr. George M. Sage, who has been absent from the village during the past winter, has returned to his home here and has been busy shovelling snow and firing up in the house in order to have everything in shape for Mrs. Sage and family, who will join him in a few days.

Celebrated Birthday

Mrs. Wm. Udy invited a few of her relatives in on Saturday, it being the occasion of her 88th birthday. Mrs. Udy has not been just as well as her many friends would wish to see her during the past winter, but at present is somewhat improved and no doubt her friends all join in wishing Mrs. Udy long life and happiness.

Ready For Summer

Mr. Eli Burston has some 2000 blocks of ice packed away in his two ice houses, the ice is of good quality and is 18 inches thick. Mr. Burston intends supplying his customers in the park during the coming summer by strict attention to business he has a good trade amongst the cottagers and when Mr. Burston promises you a quart of cream or milk or a block of ice, you can depend on it being on time.

A Quilting Bee

An old-fashioned quilting bee was held last week at Mr. and Mrs. Eli Burston's. A number of the ladies were invited for the afternoon and two quilts were finished in time for supper, and might easily haqe been done in half the time if they hadn't talked so much. A number of the ladies' husbands dropped in for supper. Some 15 sat down. During the evening a musical programme was rendered including gramaphone selections and Mr. N. G. Bell sang a couple of songs, which brought a very pleasant afternoon and evening to a close.

The Shovel Crew

Every man you meet these days has a snow shovel on his shoulder. It is hardly safe to go into a neighbor's house to make a call for you may have to dig your way out. A number of hurried calls have come over the telephone from Peterboro. Summer residents of Chemong Park, who spend the summer in their cottages but neglect them during these long winter months and the snow accumulates to an enormous depth on some of the flat roofs, and men have to be dispatched on short notice after a blizzard which are a common occurrence these days.

From the C. G. E.

A jolly crowd from the C.G.E. took a sleigh ride on Friday night out to the Forester's hall where they spent a pleasant evening. They had a four-piece orchestra and a bunch of Tooke's song sheets when they got tired dancing they sang songs. There was coffee with cream and Paris lumps to sweeten it, sandwiches wrapped in tissue paper, Hooper's macaroons. These were just a few of the items on the menu. They had such a good time they have engaged the hall for another night next week.

James Taylor's Funeral

The funeral of James Taylor, who died at Indianapolis was held from the C.P.R. 11.52 train on Tuesday, to Little Lake cemetery. The C.O.F. of Court Bridgenorth, No. 315, had charge of the funeral of which Bro. Taylor was a charter member. The pallbearers were Eros. C. Telford, P. T. Udy, T. Black, T. N. D. Kelly, J. A. Jobe, C. Robinson, J. Beatty and W. Heard. Rev. W. S. Edgar, pastor of Gilmour Memorial church, had charge of the service. Mr. Taylor being a valued member of this church during his residence in Smith township.

Robert Cockburn of Ottawa, spent one day with the Beatty Bros., renewing old acquaintances. They were school chums in Pontypool some fifty years ago.

Mrs. Thomas Black has been spending this week with her daughter in Peterboro.

Mrs. J. A. Jobe went into Peterboro on Monday to consult an eye specialist.

Mrs. J. N. Telford has been visiting with her son, Mr. Ernest Telford, in Peterboro, for the past week.

Miss Minnie Nicholls left this week for Hamilton, Ont., where she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mann, who reside in that city.

Mr. G. D. Mann went in to Peterboro on Friday afternoon on the stage. He told some of his friends he was going to the chapter, but didn't say which it was, in the old or the new testament.

Mr. Thomas Black invited some of his gentlemen friends down to supper just to demonstrate his good cooking as he is keeping batch these days. However, his wife came home in the meantime so it was all off.

Mr. Albert White and Seymour Forsythe, who are the official ice-cutters this season, have up to the present cut some 7000 blocks and are just getting started the ice on Saturday was 22 inches thick east of the floating bridge where they are now cutting.

Mrs. G. J. Jopling, who had the misfortune to fall down stairs some time ago is improving. Dr. Morgan was in attendance.

COULD HARDLY DO ANY WORK

But Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound This Woman Feels So Well

Keeseville, N.Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. I was so much troubled with female weakness I could hardly do any work. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and read it to my husband. He said, 'You had better try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound', so I bought six bottles, and by taking it I am not troubled as I was. I am gaining strength and getting fleshy. My female troubles have vanished and I have never felt so well. The Liver Pills are the best I ever took. If you think my letter will encourage other sufferers you have my permission to use it as an advertisement."—Mrs. SARAH BLAISE, Box 177, Keeseville, N. Y.

Doing the housework for the average American family is some task, and many women lose their health in so doing. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is beter than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

HEBRIDEANS APPLY FOR SETTLEMENT IN CANADA

LONDON, February 27 (Canadian Press Cable) — Efforts of the Province of Ontario to secure farm workers from the Hebrides and Great Britain are proceeding with good results.

Four hundred Hebrideans have applied for special sailings which have been arranged for 26th April and 18th May, and about three hundred of them probably will be accepted.

Ontario has accepted as prospective settlers one thousand men, experienced farm workers, to sail in March and April, and fifteen hundred more applications are awaiting the consideration of the Ontario Government.

Epinard Scratched From Race at Lincoln.

LONDON, February 28 (Canadian Press Cable).— Epinard, owned by Pierre Weithelmer, last year's three-year-old champion of the French turf, has been scratched from the entry list for the Lincolnshire, the first of the big spring handicaps over the flat, feature race of the Lincoln meeting, which opens the flat racing season in England on Monday, 24th March.

Epinard's allotment of 140 pounds by the official handicapper, was the heaviest impost that had ever been given any entry for the Lincolnshire, exceeding by 1 pound the impost allotted to Polymelus, who did not run, in 1907.

Healthy Babyhood Happy Motherhood

THE mother of the breast-fed baby realizes to the full the joy of motherhood. For she knows that by maternal feeding she is ensuring healthy, happy development for her little one.

Maternal milk is germ-free and of correct composition. It ensures easy assimilation. The breast-fed baby is immune from the ailments which in many cases follow artificial feeding.

"Ovaltine" performs a notable service to motherhood. Taken regularly for two months preceding the birth and throughout the entire nursing period, this delicious beverage provides an abundant supply of rich milk, and makes breast-feeding possible. It also safeguards the health of the mother and restores her to normal strength.

"Ovaltine" is prepared from ripe barley malt, creamy milk and fresh eggs. These valuable food elements are blended by a unique process and issue in the form of delicious golden granules which embody all the nutritive value, all the health and strength-giving properties of the natural tonic foods.

There is more nourishment in one cup of "Ovaltine" than in twelve cups of beef extract, seven cups of cocoa or three eggs.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNGIL MEETING

No Appeals Against Tax For Water Main on Morrow Street—General Business.

The North Monaghan Council met at the Court House Peterboro on Monday as a special court of revision for the purpose of hearing appeals against the proposed frontage tax for a water main laid on Morrow Street as a local improvement, due notice to all interested parties having been served.

Mr. R. Gordon and Mr. J. Buckham were present and represented the owners. No appeals were entered.

Reeve Rye acted as chairman at the Court of Revision.

The special assessment poll for the Morrow street water main was accepted and confirmed as read, the rate of frontage tax on the said water main being 11.275 cents per foot frontage, for a period of 15 years, the ratepayers paying in addition thereto the cost of making connections by the Utilities Commission. The Court of revision then adjourned and the council proceeded with the regular business.

By-law 848 to borrow $2,161.71 upon debentures covering period of 15 years to pay for the cost of the above mentioned water main on Morrow street, between Lock and Sherbrooke streets, on plan No. 41 of the Township of North Monaghan as a local improvement was then introduced and regularly read and finally passed.

E. B. Fowler, township auditor, was present and read his report, having audited the books and accounts for the township for the year 1923 and the month of January 1924. The auditor also submitted a trial balance of all accounts up to the end of January. He referred in particular to the able manner in which W. H. Bradburn M.P.P. had carried out his work as township treasurer. The auditor's report was accepted and confirmed. The required number of copies were ordered to be published according to law.

A resolution was passed that E. B. Fowler be paid his salary as township auditor for the year 1923, $50.00 and for the month of January 1925 $5.00.

A letter was read from the Ontario Forestry of the Parliament Buildings Toronto, urging municipalities to take up the re-forestation scheme as outlined by the department.

The following bills were passed and ordered to be paid:

Municipal World, $1.70; Peter Hamilton Co., $11.52; timbers for culvert repairs, $5.79; Examiner Printing Co., $12.70; Municipal World, $11.43; G. Dunsford, House of Refuge, $4.00; Jordan Brothers $12.00; Clerk, births, death and marriages, $18.50; Canada Ingot Iron Co., $01.65; [illegible]

The following accounts for charity were then passed and ordered to be paid.

W. J. Fitzgerald, $5.00; J. A. Hold, $1.58; A. E. White, $3.70; J. E. Fitzgerald, $8.25; J. E. Fitzgerald, $7.00; W. J. Byers and Son, $18.95; W. J. Byers and Son, $16.44. Total $60.93.

By-law No. 849 was introduced, read and finally passed, providing for expenditure on Township Roads under the regulations of the Department of Public Highways of Ontario.

By-law No. 850 was also regularly read and passed, appointing H. B. Rye, Township Roads Superintendent at a salary of $100.00 a year.

The clerk was instructed to write to the Peterboro Radial Railway regarding the removal of the snow on their tracks in North Monaghan. The Council thought that the way the snow was brushed out to the side of the raiway tracks, with a slope toward the tracks there was danger to vehicle traffic of being hit by a street car.

The meeting was adjourned until Monday March 10th when a regular meeting will be held in the Court House.

KING'S WHARF

KING'S WHARF, Feb. 28.—Another terrific storm was here again last week and lasted for several days. For four days no one could get on the roads, and now in some places the snow is ten feet high, but the roads are passible and fairly good.

The school was closed for a few days last week on account of the storm, the teacher and pupils not being able to get there.

Personals.

Mr. Frank Hickey from East Emily called on friends here en route to Mr. Wm. Ashmore's sale last Thursday.

Miss Minnie Guiry of Lindsay is at present the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Guiry.

Mr. Thos. Morrissey is at present drawing baled hay to Peterborough where prices are better than in the local towns.

Miss Lavina O'Neill has returned home after visiting friends in Chicago, Ill., for the last three months and was accompanied home by her cousin, Mrs. C. A. Griffey, who intends spending a few months visiting friends here.

Mr. Peter Perdue was a business visitor to Omemee Friday.

Mr. Vincent O'Connell, the Township Assessor, is busy on his rounds, and as the roads are so bad he can only cover a few miles daily.

Mr. Jo. O'Neill spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O'Neill.

There is another case of scarlet fever here in Mr. Michael O'Neill's family. Dr. Earle from Omemee made a trip there last week and quarantined the family.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page—a pretty country girl has fallen in love with

Bert Traymore—a fascinating philanderer whom she meets by chance.

Janet Mercer—Prudence's 28-year-old, interesting friend, plain, but very genuine , is a trained nurse and masseuse to the delicate child of MRS. Vansittart—a good-hearted, woman-of-the-world, owner of beautiful Winston Towers, a charming country home. She invites Prudence to a garden-party at the Towers, where the girl meets

Virginia Dale—a blase beauty, with a keen eye to the main chance. Bert Traymore is one of her many swains. She is extremely rude to Prudence and the girl is humiliated and embarrassed, ready to flee the party, when she hears the voice of her Prince Charming, as she has named Traymore.

CHAPTER V.

A Stolen Kiss

"Nothing succeeds' like success," as the old adage has it. And when the fastidious Bertram Traymore "fussed" about the little country girl others of his sex came up to be presented, and to see just where the fascination lay.

Prudence had quite a phalanx of smart men about her. Several, indeed, deserted from Virginia's camp greatly to the latter's chagrin, and came over to the little nobody from nowhere.

Through a crack in the wall of coats she could see Miss Dale glance hastily in a little pocket-mirror—that sure ally!—flick a swan's-down powder-puff across her cheeks, and then dart an envenomed glance across the tent at the usurper.

Doubly, therefore, was she glad when Mr. Traymore said, with that cool ease of manner that was one of his especial attributes:

"Let's go out and get a breath of air, Miss Page. I want to show you the trout-pool before some other chap butts in and tries to steal away with you."

He elbowed a path for her out of the tent.

When they were beyond earshot of the others, he lowered his voice to a caressing note.

"You don't know what a thrill it gave me, when I saw you here at the Towers, of all places——"

Prudence raised her pretty eyes. A measure of self-confidence had returned to her.

"The dairymaid transplanted!" she said, laughing.

"My dear, do give me credit for knowing a gentlewoman when I see one. I knew you were of my world—spoke the same language, that's to say—the moment I clapped eyes upon you in the apple-orchard."

This was untrue. But its untruth escaped Miss Prudence. So did the arrogance of the little speech.

"You haven't ridden by since then," she said uncertainly. "Often I though that you would come——"

* * *

So she had missed him, had she? A flattering vision of little Sister Anne gazing along the dusty highways, all in vain, rose photographically before him. And flattery was something that he couldn't possibly resist.

"If I'd followed my own inclination I'd have camped right on your doorstep, even though Prudence—in two senses—warned me off!"

A thrill went through his listener, also a great wave of relief that fate had given them both this opportunity for explanation.

He went on:

"But a burnt child dreads the fire, and I was afraid of you—of you—Miss Prudence—"

"Afraid of me?" (How too ridiculous!) "What could you possibly be afraid of?" Her heart was hammering beneath the apple-green gown. She hung on his reply.

"If a man's been a wanderer all his life, yet longing for a hearthstone, and he sees a fire—a beautiful, glowing fire that could put new life into him—you couldn't blame him for wanting to sit down and linger in its warmth, could you? That's the way I felt about you, the day I met you."

"Did you, really?" The inane query was the only thing that sh could find to say.

Mr. Traymore went on, with a wistful air:

"But wanderers have no right to hearth-stones. And if they tarry there they may get burnt." (He was almost certain that he'd mixed his metaphors, but this simple-hearted child was certainly no critic!)

Prudence racked her brain to reassure him. She didn't want to seem too bold. If only she could delicately imply that he could warm himself for ever at her fire, and be a more than welcme guest!

And as for getting burnt . . . well . . . could life hold anything more wonderful than being allowed to heal his wounds, and comfort him?

* * *

They walked across the lawns, down past the conservatories and the Italian garden to a little stream that gurgled on the outskirts of the woods. It widened in a sort of mossy clearing, and its trill sank to silence in the trout-pool underneath a drooping willow-tree.

"Suppose we sit here for a bit, and get to know each other?" suggested Traymore, patting the moss beside the water's edge.

Prudence hesitated, then complied with the request. The man flung his slim length beside her, chin propped on one hand, and eyes—blue and at the moment oddly inscrutable—fixed on her charming, shy young face.

"This is my idea of a good time. Crowds don't make company. And really I was half afraid I shouldn't get you to myself at all." With his free right hand he touched a fold of her silken gown. "Jove! you don't know how wonderful you look?"

Prudence rallied her forces for an answer of some sort.

"I've always been told that looks don't matter. Brains and—and character—and that sort of thing—count most."

"Don't you believe it!" He laughed gently, mockingly. "Some jealous woman's been trying to get at you, that's all. It's a fine philosophy for the wall-flowers and very consoling for old maids and blue stockings, but a pretty girl like you ought to get down on her knees every night and thank heaven for the beauty she's been accorded—for it's her best weapon, every time."

He caught her hand in his, gave it a quick pressure, and went on:

"If I'd seen your friend Miss Mercer, for instance, feeding the chickens on that never-to-be-forgotten day when I came riding by, d'you think for a moment 'Id have fallen head over heels in love with her, stern follower of duty as no doubt she is?"

His eyes were half quizzical, but the "spark" was burning there, threatening every moment to burst into a conflagration.

Prudence forgot to rush to the defence of the absent Janet. That magic phrase and its insinuation—"fallen head over heels in love"—it drove all other feelings from her heart. Was it . . . could it be possible that she had made so deep an impression on this wonderful young man? Was her beauty such that it had drawn him like a magnet?

She turned to face him, her eyes sweet and dewy underneath the drooping hat.

"You think, then, that a person can . . . can be attracted . . . all in a moment . . . to another person . . . without even talking much?"

"I don't just think it, I know it," came the quick reply. Young Traymore sat up straight, and caught both her hands in his. "Didn't you guess that something happened to me the moment my eyes lighted on you in the apple-orchard? Prudence, don't be cruel. Don't you know just how I feel about you? No, don't move away."

He flung an arm about her slender waist and drew her closer, closer. "Little girl—my little princess—I'm just mad about you!" And his hot lips bent themselves on hers in a quick, stolen kiss.

SUCCESSFUL EVENT IN DOWNEYVILLE

U.F.O. Euchre and Dance Featured By Presentation.

DOWNEYVILLE, Feb. 28.—On Monday evening in the hall here a very successful social and dance was held under the auspices of the U. F. O. The hall was well filled and F. O. The hall was well filled and a large crowd from the surrounding districts was present. Progressive euchre was played at about thirty tables, the ladies price, a purse, being won by Mrs. Albert Carroll and the gentlemen's prize, also a purse, was won by Leslie Lucas.

A dainty lunch was served by the ladies and the remainder of the evening was enjoyed by both old and young in social amusement.

A pleasing part of the evening's performance was the presentation and address to Mr. Frank Crowley, the President of the U.F.O., who is going to Detroit to reside. Mr. Albert Clancy read the address and the U.F.O. presented Mr. Crowley with a club bag, and the people present gave him a purse of gold. Mr. Crowley was taken by surprise, and replied in a suitable manner and expressed regret in having to part from so many friends whom he had made, having always resided here, and hoped to make many trips back to his old home and to see his old friends.

The district regrets losing Mr. Crowley, both the U.F.O. whose President he was and the country at large. Regret is also felt in losing a number of the boys from this section who have decided to remain in Detroit and other American cities.

Infant Died.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Herlihey on the death of their infant daughter, who died on Wednesday. The little one had been ill about two weeks with pleurisy. The funeral was held on Thursday at 2.30 o'clock to St. Luke's Cemetery, Downeyville.

Auction Sale.

A number from here attended the auction sale at Mr. Wm. Ashmore's at Millersmith last Thursday and report a fairly large crowd present, although the roads were almost impassable. Prices were high for everything but machinery, Mr. J. Wilson of Port Hope being the auctioneer. Mr. Ashmore intends moving to town to reside.

TORTURING NEURALGIA

The Cry of Starved Nerves for Rich, Red Blood.

Most people associate neuralgia with a pain in the head or face, but neuralgia may affect any nerve in the body. Different names are given to it when it affects certain nerves. Thus neuralgia of the sciatic nerve is called sciatica, but the character of the disease and the nature of the pain are the same; the cause is the same and the remedy, to be effective, must be the same.

The pain of neuralgia is the cry of starved nerves for nourishment. Normally the blood feeds the nerves, but if it is thin and weak, it cannot do so. Hence neuralgia and other nerve disorders. Build up and enrich your thin blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and you are attacking neuralgia at its root. These pills supply to the blood just the elements that the nerves need, and they have been proved to be the best possible remedy for the treatmnt of neuralgia, sciatica, neuritis, and in fact, for all diseases that owe their origin to weak nerves.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

KEPT GETTING WORSE TILL DRECO CAME

Wonderful new herbal remedy puts Mrs. Smith on highroad to health after repeated failures of other medicines.

Although 64 years of age, Mrs. John Smith, 328 Charlotte street, Peterborough, Ont., is as happy and active as a woman many years her junior. Why? Because she has regulated and strengthened her entire digestive system by the timely use of Dreco, the famous tonic and health builder that acts on the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys and brings relief from suffering.

"For many a year," says Mrs. Smith, "I have suffered from stomach trouble, and last summer it became so acute that I thought I would have to be operated on. My food would sour and gas would form that felt like a hard lump and caused me terrible suffering. I would get severe spells of heartburn, too, my appetite was poor and I was nervous and restless at night. Constipation, which was my chief trouble, was a source of continual worry and I had to take a strong laxative every night.

"I tried about everything in the way of medicine, but none of them did me any good. Instead, I kept getting worse and worse. Dreco marked the turning point in my condition and I have known nothing but improvement from the very first dose.

"I have taken four bottles with most gratifying results. My stomach gives me very little trouble now and I no longer suffer from gas or those distressing spells of heartburn. My appetite is splendid and I sleep soundly at nights, besides which my bowels are regular every day."

Dreco is made from the pure extracts of herbs, roots, bark and leaves and contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold as follows:

Lakefield—E. H. Northey.

Campbellford—J. E. Birks.

And by a good druggist everywhere.

AUTOS GOING SOUTH.

South America, during 1923, got more than half a million automobiles from the United States, Canada, France, Germany, England, Italy and Belgium. Yet this country contributed nearly as much as all the others combined.

STARCHED CLOTHES.

All articles starched with boiled starch must be dried thoroughly, then made very damp and rolled tightly in a clean, dry cloth. They should stand a couple of hours before being ironed.

The Growth of a Bank

NINETY-ONE years in Canada covers a great deal of history in growth of population and development of business and industry.

There have been many changes in Canadian banks since The Bank of Nova Scotia first opened its doors for business in 1832. But during all that period, through good and bad times, the Bank has steadily forged ahead.

By decades, since 1832, this table indicates the steady and gradual growth of the Bank. At the end of the first year the capital of the Bank was £50,000, no reserve, and total resources £85,863.

Year	Capital	Reserve	Resources
1833	£ 50,000		£ 85,863
1843	£ 140,000	£ 2,568	£ 267,000
1853	£ 140,000	£ 5,335	£ 320,000
1863	$ 560,000	$ 80,000	$ 1,718,000
1873	$ 748,000	$ 80,000	$ 3,208,000
1883	$ 1,114,300	$ 470,000	$ 6,717,000
1893	$ 1,500,000	$ 1,200,000	$ 10,441,000
1903	$ 2,000,000	$ 3,100,000	$ 29,072,000
1913	$ 6,000,000	$11,000,000	$ 80,151,000
1923	$10,000,000	$19,500,000	$227,889,000

Growth of The Bank of Nova Scotia has been conservative and steady,—almost paralleling the growth of population. Always, the Bank has been ready to take its share in the work of development of commerce and industry, agricultural and manufacturing. The Bank's operations today are conducted according to the same principles as those by which the past growth of the Bank has been achieved.

PRESENTATION TO MISS C. STAPLEY

Girls' Soft Ball Team of C. G. E. Gave Her a Lamp.

A very pleasant evening was held at the home of Miss C. Stapley, Bolivar street, on Feb. 27, 1924, when the C. G. E. Ladies' Softball Club presented her with a beautiful lamp and congratulated her on her approaching marriage. The following address was read:

Peterborough, Ont., Feb. 27, /24.
Miss Carrie Stapley:

Dear Carrie.—It was feelings of great joy that we, the members and officers of the C.G.E. Ladies' Softball Club, heard that you were about to change your name and enter the married class. As a member of our softball team you were always a willing worker, and ever playing to win, but you will find the game of matrimony different, as it generally ends in a tie.

We are sure that your lovely disposition and winsome smile will show the way to your intended husband to higher ideals, and we would ask you to accept this lamp as a memento of happy days, and we hope your good man will exclaim after eating your first "cook book pie," Carrie, you are the light of my heart.

With heartiest congratulations and best wishes—

D. Hayes

ACTRESS POISONS HERSELF WITH SHOE POLISH

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Miss Vallie Belasco Martin, 26 years of age, an actress and short story writer, committed suicide by drinking shoe polish in a Riverside Drive apartment of her mother to-day, after having written a note in which she said her act was due to her inability to obtain a stage engagement or dispose of any of her stories.

Miss Martin, who came here from Seattle, Washington, in 1917, was said to have had a prominent part in a successful musical comedy several years ago, but was unable to obtain engagements since then.

The police said they had learned from clippings found in Miss Martin's room that she was a cousin of David Belasco, the veteran theatrical producer.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Campbellford, Feb. 27, 1924.

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your paper for a few remarks on the hockey game in Lakefield between the Lakefield girls and the Campbellford girls. May I ask if the Lakefield reporter should not have inquired a little more closely into the games before writing the reports. It would surely be possible to ascertain definitely, rather than to injure by prejudice. While Campbellford girls appreciate the courtesy of the Lakefield management and players very much, the write-up has caused hard feelings.

FAIR-PLAY.

The report in "The Examiner" of the concert given by St. John's choir was fairly full and for the most part did justice to those who took part. As one however, who heard the whole program the writer would like to have some more recognition of the solist work of Miss Quartermaine, Mrs. Amys, and Mrs. Bingham. Particularly were the terms used as to Mrs. Amys contribution in error as her part was not rendered in a "high" voice as the piece was set in a low key and so rendered it was very well received as were the contributions if the other soloists.

The last chorus put on by the whole choir showed excellent work manship and thoroughly training, and it would be different for any voluntary choir to excel its rendition.

One Who Was Present.

THE BLEACHED WHEAT IS A DAMAGED GRAIN

WINNIPEG, February 28. — A. W. Alcock, chemist of the Western Canada Flour Mills, appeared before the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission here yesterday, and declared that the statements published recently that bleached wheat is not a damaged grain ,were incorrect.

It is not a fact, he asserted, that the millers are buying bleached wheat cheap and milling it as they do standard grades and thus depriving the farmer of a fair share of the bleached wheat's value.

He was asked if a farmer would get more for his bleached wheat if it were taken out of grade three, as as present, and segrated. the witness replied it was a gamble.

ANTHONY PANTO WILL GET ELECTRIC CHAIR

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. Canadian Prss. — Anthony Panto, last of the four men to be convicted of the murder of the two bank mesengers in the Brooklyn elevated station last November, was in jail with the others to-day, awaiting the sentence to the electric chair which the law prescribes for those convicted of first degree murder.

Pantano was found guilty last night and was on trial for three days.

CHURCH SOCIETY WAS ENTERTAINED

Omemee Anglican Young People Entertained the League of Methodist Church.

OMEMEE, Feb. 28.—The A. Y. P. A. of Christ Church, Omemee, entertained the Young People's League of the Methodist Church and also the Guild of the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening in the Sunday School room of the church. The color scheme was carried out in blue and white, the A.Y.P.A. banner being placed where it reached the eye of all the guests Needless to say, a good representation from each society were present.

The Rev. A. T. Weir, rector of the Anglican Church, acted as chairman and the programme opened with a rousing hymn, "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus," followed by prayer. Words of welcome were extended by Mr. Weir, and also by the President of the A.Y.P.A., Mr. J. Bent, after which the appreciation of the sister societies was extended by Miss Parsons and Mr. H. Lamb.

Short speeches were then given by Rev. E. W. Rowland, Rev. J. Black and Mr. F. G. Sandy, interspersed by the hearty singing of "The Maple Leaf Forever" and "O Canada."

An autograph contest was then announced, and the rush for an exchange of signatures commenced, the prize winner being Mrs. M. Parsons, who secured sixty-three names inside of ten minutes. Many close contestants followed.

A second contest answered by the abbreviated form of the States of the Union followed. Miss Jessie Lamb and Mr. Brockley being the winners.

A magazine contest followed. Groups were formed by the months of the year, each person joining the group corresponding to the month in which he or she was born. Each group was given a different heading, such as editorial, household hints, want ads, etc., and a magazine worth printing was the result. This was afterward read by Mr. Horace Hill and much amusement was derived from the several contributions.

The members of the A.Y.P.A. then served refreshments to the guests, who were seated at small tables covered with white linen tea cloths embroidered with the shield and initials of the society, on which reposed a dainty pot of daffodils.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended the members of the A.Y.P.A. who had been untireless in their efforts to make the event a success by Rev. Mr. Rowland and received a warm second by the Rev. Mr. Black, followed by a loud clapping of hands and the singing of "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." In a few well-chosen words Rev. Mr. Weir replied on behalf of the President, after which the happy gathering broke up, in anticipation of another such meeting in the near future.

HANDKERCHIEF SHOWER FOR DAISY METCALFE

On Tuesday evening, Feb. 26th, the B.Y.P.U. of Gilmour Memorial Church had a very pleasant gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Young, of Smith Township. The occasion, which was in honor of Miss Daisy Metcalfe, included a handkerchief shower, and many beautiful samples of exquisite handwork were among the pretty gifts. The presentation was made in the form of a charade, each gift bearing the good wishes of its donor in fine poetic terms, which were showered in profusion upon the honored guest. Miss Metcalfe is entering Nicholls Hospital as a nurse-in-training. Games and music were enjoyed by all present, and refreshments closed a very happy affair.

PETERBORO MANAGER IN MILLIONAIRE CLASS.

To Peterboro and the Province of Ontario goes the honor of producing during the year 1923 one of America's most distinguished salesmen, so distinguished, in fact, that his achievement makes him one of only twenty-five members of a Million Dollar Club, so-called because to enter its charmed circle he had to produce at least that much for his principal.

E. T. Flood, manager of the Peterboro, Ontario, offices of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, is the new member of the Million Dollar Club, and he was duly decorated at the convention of Metropolitan managers recently held in New York.

During the year Mr. Flood procured group insurance policies for $8,047,000, and found time in addition to sell ordinary life insurance policies for an aggregate of $17,500, making his total business for the year of $8,058,500.

SOCIAL LEGISLATION ASKED BY DEPUTATION

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press.)—A deputation from the National Council of Women of Canada interviewed the Premier and his Cabinet this morning recommending considerable social legislation. Dr. Stowe Cullen, President of the Council, introduced the speakers. The deputation requested that the Ontario Government establish compulsory a short training course for immigrant girls. They want a minimum wage to apply to minors under 18 years of age as well as others. Another request is that legislation be enacted by which women shall sit on juries and that no men or women under 30 be allowed on juries. Women also want the Government to be guardians for feeble-minded and take feeble-minded and take power to segregate such people when advisable.

The Premier promised consideration to all proposals.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief for Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomachache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The troubles lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antiacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

A BETTER RATE WITHIN THE EMPIRE.

The Post Office Department is still receiving complaints from individuals, firms and organizations in Great Britain regarding the receipt of correspondence from Canada which does not bear enough postage, and on which, therefore, not only the amount of postage short, but double that amount, is collected from the addressee on delivery, in accordance with international postal law. Naturally, when this happens a few times to any firm or individual doing business with Canada or corresponding with personal friends here, it becomes rather irritating, and they wonder why Canadians do not know enough about their own postal rates to prepay their letters properly and not leave the addressees to pay a double charge on account of their carelessness.

The public are advised that the postal rate on letters within the British Empire is 4c for the first ounce and 3c for each additional ounce.

Letters addressed to Canada, United States or Mexico are 3c for the first ounce, and 2c for each additional ounce.

Letters for local delivery are 2c for the first ounce and 1c for each additional ounce, and letters addressed to patrons on the rural routes are 3c for the first ounce and 2c for each additional ounce.

Ten cents extra to the regular postage will cover the registration on any of the above mentioned letters.

Peterboro Retains Brown Cup After Fastest Hockey of Winter

Havelock Has Won The Trent Valley League Championship Without a Loss

TWO OVERTIME PERIODS FURNISHED THRILLS IN VICTORY OVER OSHAWA

Slim Crowd of Fans Saw One of the Snappiest Games of the Season — Petes Forced to the Limit By All-Star Aggregation From Lake Shore Group.

SCORE WAS 7-5.

Ed. Ronald and Joe Welsh, of Oshawa, dropped into Peterborough last night with a select team from the Lakeshore group, wearing the Oshawa green shirts, and although they didn't lift the Brown Challenge Cup from the Petes, they came so close to it that the four hundred fans on the side lines nearly died of heart failure. The home talent won 7 to 5, but it was not until twenty minutes of overtime had been played that they finally copped the decision and the game was by long odds the most exciting ice battle of the season.

The first two periods were ordinary aside from a sparkling exhibition of goalkeeping by Micky Murray for the visitors and Joe Dwyer. The Petes started the last session in front 2 to 1, not much of a lead, but looking safe enough until the Lakeshore inavders ran in two counters in quick succession and took the lead. Parker evened it up in jig time, but the Donald-Welsh collection came right back with another, and with the end of the game in sight that one goal lead looked as big as Hon. Mr. Nickle's picture of the U.F.O. deficit. With a couple of minutes to go, however, Rose tied the score and the game went into overtime.

Neither team scored in the first five minutes, each got one in the second, the third fifive minute period was scoreless, but in the fourth the Petes grabbed off the game by beating Murray twice in quick succession.

It was a great finish to a hard fought game.

Visitors Were Fast.

The Oshawa outfit included Micky Murray in the nets, the two best Port Hopers, Carter and Finnegan Hills, Sammy Lowe and Houck of the Oshawa team, and a couple of Bowmanville intermediates, and they looked much more dangerous than the Oshawa O.H.A. aggregation. Carter and Hills were a tower of strength. The former has a rare turn of speed and breaks fast, while the famous Finnegan, while perhaps not as fast afoot as he was a few years ago, has lost none of his trickiness in working in on the nets. Sammy Lowe played the best hockey he has ever shown against the Petes, his stick-handling at close quarters keeping him always in the limelight. The rest of the crew worked their heads off, while Murray bolstered the invaders by a fine exhibition of goalkeeping. He beat the Petes' attack time after time when a goal seemed certain, and although knocked out with a shot from Burgess early in the second period, came back with a lump under his eye and turned them off as coolly as ever.

Busiest Night So Far.

For the Petes Dwyer, Parker and Rose stood out. Dwyer hasn't had a busier night all winter and the visitors kept him on the hop all the way. He turned aside a flock of shots that were labelled goal, saving a dozen times when the puck carrier was inside the defence. Parker's rushing gave the visitors many anxious moments and he got two nice goals on sparkling plays. Up in front Rose was always dangerous, beating Murray twice with bullet-like drives and figuring in two other counters on neat passes.

It was a fine workout for the blue shirts for the big O.H.A. grind next week. The work of the goalers featured the first period and neither was beaten in spite of many dangerous attacks. The rival forward lines were not back-checking very persistently at this stage, with the result that there were plenty of pretty rushes, and only the cleverest kind of goalkeeping averted scores. Murray beat Parker three or four times after the Petes' defence man had stick-handled inside and up at the other end of the rink, Dwyer knocked out close range shots from Lowe and Hills in sensational style.

The Second Period.

The greater part of the second period was a repetition of the first. There were plenty of scoring opportunities, with honours even, but the attack could not fool the goalers. Early in the period Murray saved sensationally from Collins and Rose. Then Burgess broke through and his shot from close in struck Murray under the eye. It was a clean knockout and the game was held up for ten minutes while first aid was administered. Murray got a big hand when he came back, a lump as big as an egg under his optic. The injury did not seem to affect his work for he began where he left off, stopping a host of drives. Fifteen minutes of the second period had elapsed when the Petes finally scored. Halpin broke away down the boards with Rose trailing. As the defence was reached Halpin dropped the rubber for Rose and the latter drove a beauty into the top corner of the net.

The goal did not stop Oshawa even momentarily and three minutes later they sewed up the game when Houck grabbed a loose pass and scored a fast one past Dwyer.

That made it 1-1, but Parker put the Petes in front again a minute after in one of his characteristic rushes carrying the rubber through the defence and beating Murray at point blank range, leaving the homesters one to the good at the end of the period.

Fireworks at Finish.

The last session saw the real fireworks. It started off tamely enough, with the Petes sitting pretty. The visitors, however, were giving every ounce they had and before long the Peterboro lead had suddenly been transformed into a defeat, and the real battle began. Finlayson, Hills and Lowery pulled off the play that put the teams on an even footing, and it was the prettiest kind of hockey. Lowe pulled off one of his corkscrew rushes, gave Hills the pass to beat the defence, and Finnegan slipped the rubber back again, Dwyer having no earthly chance to save the counter.

It was even then, but right on top of that Hills slammed another past Dwyer from a face off and the Oshawa outfit were in front for the first time.

The lead lasted about as long as a gallon of ice cream at a Sunday school picnic, for Parker grabbed the rubber, sighted through the whole works and tipped one past Murray as Mickey rushed in to save.

Then they were all tied up with three goals each, but almost before the crowd got through cheering that one the visitors took the lead again. Carter rushed and shot, Dwyer making a good save. He collided with Halpin, however, as he went in to clear, and Lott batted the loose puck into the net for a soft goal.

There wasn't much time left, and the chances of the Brown Cup summering on the lake shore seemed to be rosy. However Ray Rose saved the day by going down alone and drilling a beautiful shot from outside the defence that Murray could not handle, and it was 4-4.

It remained that way when the final bell rang, and overtime was necessary.

After the usual rest, the teams went at it again as hard as ever and both Dwyer and Murray had to make sensational saves in the first five minutes, which terminated without a score.

Overtime Sessions.

Hardly had the teams changed goals, when the Petes scored what looked to be the winning goal. Rose broke away and when he reached the corner passed out to Ranger, who tiped the rubber past Murray, putting the homesters in the lead 5-4.

But it wasn't all over. Lowe broke through and missed the open net but right on top of the play Carter stickhandled in again a pretty rush and beat Dwyer with the tieing goal.

That made another ten minutes necessary. The first five failed to break the deadlock, but the Petes salted the game away in the next five minutes. A Rose to Collins play put the homesters in front, Rose making a nice rush and centreing perfectly to Collins who gave Murray no chance.

It was cinched thirty seconds after when Ranger dodged in alone, and scored the final counter, leaving the figures 7 to 5.

Mr. Andrew Brown, the donor of the handsome trophy, presented the cup to the Petes on the ice immediately after the game, Joe Dwyer receiving it on behalf of the Blue Shirts.

Juniors of Parry Sound Welcomed

PARRY SOUND, February 28 Canadian Press). — Nearly half the people of Parry Sound, accompanied by the Oddfellows' Band and High School pupils met the Canadian National train this afternoon to welcome the members of the Parry Sound Junior O.H.A. team returning from Beaverton where they were victorious over the Newmarket team in the play-off of the tie last night, which resulted in the score—Parry Sound 3 goals, Newmarket 2 goals.

A procession was formed which paraded the principal streets, accompanied with music and the cheers of crowds of enthusiastic fans, after which the boys were given a luncheon.

Hamilton and Parry Sound play here on Friday night.

EXAMINER LEAGUE.

Last night in the new Examiner League at Solomon's Alleys eight teams were in action.

Pearse's Proofers took three straight from Hayward's Comps; Holyman's Directors took three straight from Heron's Operators, the Operators losing by default; Herb Johnston's Casters took two out of three from Geo. Johnston's Inters; Taylor's Jobbers two out of three from Zeihr's Linos.

Some nice score were rolled, Geo. Cairn's being high man with a lovely score of 735, just beating Allan Whyte by 17 pins, Whyte rolling 718. Cairns had the high single of 286.

The Casters in their first game got a high four-man-team record when they rolled 856. Beat that one if you can.

ST. PATRICKS LOST.

MONTREAL, Feb. 28.— (Canadian Press.)—Canadiens overwhelmed tS. Patricks of Toronto here last night 6 to 1 and went into second place in the N.H.L. race. Brilliant play by the local forwards was too much for the visiting players, who were hopelessly outclassed. St. Pats' best stand was in second period. It was the Canadiens' fifth win in the last six games. Five thousand spectators made the rafters of the arena ring as they cheered the Canadiens in their procession through the Toronto team. The locals were at their best form, outskating and out-generalling the visitors practically throughout the game. The light, dashing forward line of Morenz, Billy Boucher and Joliat was too fast for the heavier St. Patricks front ranks and never let up in their efforts to break through and score.

OTTAWA SENATORS WON.

OTTAWA, Feb. 28.— (Canadian Press.)—Ottawa Senators registered a seven to four victory over Hamilton Tigers here last night in the last local game on the National Hockey League schedule. It was Ottawa all the way and they could have made more goals if they had needed them. Forbes was again the stumbling block between Ottawa players and the score that would have run into double figures.

The game was one of those that happen just once a year when all things that go to please hockey audience are served up. There was plenty of lightning fast hockey, play was close and hard all through, enough goals were scored to please those who like to see the red light flicker.

HAVELOCK END SEASON WITH PERFECT AVERAGE

The Trent Valley League Champions Won All Their Eight Games — Defeated Stirling Last Night By 12-2—Wind Up Great Series.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 28.—Havelock smothered Stirling last night by the score of 12-2 in their final Trent Valley league fixture. It was the eighth consecutive victory for the C.P.R. team who wound up their season without a loss. Last nigth's game looked better from the side than the score indicates. Havelock's combination was smooth and effective and the shots were right on the target. Glen Wright accounted for five of the total, Doug. Brennan 3, Pollock 2 and Charlie Brennan and D. Wright one goal each. There were no penalties and Lou Hagerman's decisions were generally satisfactory.

The teams were:

Havelock—Goal, Hooper; defence, D. Wright and D. Brennan; centre, F. Pollock; right wing, G. Wright; left wing, C. Brennan; subs. Burgess and Davidson.

Davidson went into the Havelock net in the first period when Hooper suffered a minor injury.

The league standing follows:

Teams	Won	Lost	To Play
Havelock	8	0	0
Tweed	6	2	0
Stirling	2	5	1
Marmora	1	7	0
Norwood	1	6	1

Dempsey Took Count On Operating Table.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. — Jack Dempsey, world's heavy - weight champion, who underwent to-day a minor operation at the Polyclinic Hospital, was reported to-night as resting easily. The operation was said to be entirely successful and the title-holder is expected to recover rapidly. He will remain at the hospital probably for a week.

"The champ, took it as gamely as he did that wallop of Firpo's that sent him out of the ring at the Polo Grounds last September," declared Jack Kearns, champion's manager. "He was under the influence of the ether for several hours—the longest count he's ever taken."

HOW I LOST THE $40,000,000 HEIRESS

(By One Punch O'Goofty)

"I says to her, says I, 'Say sweetie, how about it, how about it, huh?"

"And she comes back with, 'To whom are you speaking, sir, to whom?'

"Well, no string of jade is going to 'To whom' me and get away with it, so I gives her a swell rear view of my manly shoulders and flatwnees out into the cool evening breeze, leaving her cold and speechless.

"And any time you can leave 'em speechless you've done something noble, even if you didn't score."

Because she lost her lucky glove the champion woman golfer was beaten in a match on the coast. She just couldn't get her hand in, we suppose.

The new Kitty League hopes to be a big noise in the minors next summer. A regular cat's meow, as it were.

No matter what happens, the coming season will be reasonably easy to endure—Sir Thomas Lipton isn't going to build a Shamrock.

It is appropriately announced that a return fight between Gibbons and Dempsey has been clinched—That's all the boys did in their first fight.

Now that Carter and the Egyptians have worked King Tut up to the importance of a windup attraction, Tex Rickard may be persuaded to take it over on a percentage basis, including movie rights.

The situation may yet work itself around to a point where Pop Geers and Exterminator will fight it out for some sort of racing supremacy.

HAMBURGERS DEFEAT GUELPH.

GUELPH, Feb. 28.— (Canadian Press.)—Guelph Intermediates were forced to bow to New Hamburg in the first game of the play-off in the fourth round of the O. H. A. last night, going down to a 4 to 2 defeat at the hands of the visitors. The largest crowd of the season turned out to witness the struggle, which was played on sticky ice and on the evening's play the Hamburgers fully deserved the two goal majority.

HAVANA, Feb. 27.—"Battling" Siki, the Senegalese pugilist, to-day was taken to a hospital here suffering from bronchial pneumonia. Orders have been given by his physicians that the fighter must have absolute rest.

Quits Baseball For Course In Medicine.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 27.—Wayne Wright, St. Louis American League pitcher who won seven out of eleven games last year, to-day said that the statement he made recently to the effect that he was through with baseball and would devote his time to completing a medical course was final.

After winning six out of his first eight contests last season, Wright was sent in as a relief pitcher without much warming up and strained his back which put him out for most of the rest of the year.

BAKER AS MANAGER

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 27.—J. Frank Baker, a former home run king, will manage a baseball club being organized at Easton, Maryland, where about 100 fans met last night and decided unanimously that the town wanted baseball and that Baker should lead the team. Application will be made for membership in the Eastern Shore League.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms, or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

AT THE REGENT

EXCELLENT CROOK TALE VERY WELL HANDLED. "JUST OFF BROADWAY,"

Fox production starring John Gilbert. Written by Frederick and Fannie Hatton. Directed by Edmund Mortimer. Six reels.

This is a story of counterfeiters, suave crooks, and clever detectives, that carries you along scene after scene and holds the interest to the very end. It is a story of New York's underworld with a glimpse of Paris and London and one of the best roles given Mr. Gilbert in some time. As the wealthy young Stephen Moore, who is following his hobby of detective, Gilbert fits into the part nicely and plays with naturalness and intelligence. Marian Nixon, Fox's nineteen year old prize winning blonde, will captivate picture fans by her beauty and excellent work in "Just Off Broadway." Others of the small cast who render good support are Trilby Clark, as Nan, Pierre Gendom as Florelle, and Ben Hendricks, Jr., as Comfort. The actor who played Smooth Moran is not mentioned in the press sheet, but his worked in the few scenes allotted him, are worthy of special mention. Not an elaborate production, but one that will prove a good drawing card wherever first-rate crook stories are appreciated and thoroughly satisfying one.

Briefly the story concerns a band of counterfeiters in New York whose leader goes to Paris. In a raid Moran, the leader, escapes with Stephen Moore, an American but Moran dies in London. Moore using "Smooth Moran's latch-key admits himself to the latter's New York flat and gets acquainted with "Comfort," another crook, and Jean Lawrence, whom they have defriended. Jean falls in love with Stephen and it finally develops he is a detective assisting the government to run down the counterfeiters.

The cast: John Gilbert, Marian Nixon, Trilby Clark, Pierre Gendron Ben Hendricks, Jr.

AT THE GRAND

"The Cat and the Canary," passed into Grand Opera history last night to the accompaniment of a chorus of sympathetic shrieks from the feminine portion of the fair-sized audience that watched with tense excitement the unfolding of what proved to be one of the thrilliest of the mystery plays that are so popular just now. For genuine sustained interest and pleasantly exciting nervous tremors this play would be hard to beat.

The element of mystery steps in with the character that say the first words, the stealthily-moving, dark-skinned West Inidan servant, "Mammy" Pleasant, with her sepulchral voice and talk about evil spirits, is a real "voodoo" woman. On her, the audience casts an eye of dark suspicion from first to last, but she proves to be quite innocent of the many terrible things that happen at haunted Glencliff Manor, on the Hudson River, during the hours of night from eleven thirty t. one o'clock, when six prospective heirs of an eccentric old man gather to hear the reading of this will, twenty years after his death.

A strong resemblance to "The Bat" and an equally strong reminiscence of Griffith's big movie production; "One Exciting Night" are noticeable in "The Cat and the Canary." The canary is Annabelle West, the pretty, nervous young thing who inherits the fortune and the cat is the mysterious night prowler, believed to be an escaped maniac with homicidal tendencies, who rips his victims to pieces. The atmosphere of the old house, with its dim lighting and dark corners, its secret corridors and sliding panels, is calculated to enhance the fear which grows and progresses through three successive acts. As Roger Crosby, the old lawyer, tries to warn Annabelle of her peril, a ghastly hand projects from the dim cavern of what had been an innocent-looking bookcase, and he disappears until the moment when the wall in another room opens to pitch his dead body out at the feet of a hysterical group. This is the only murder in the play, but events move swiftly on to a dramatic and unlooked-for finale. Accustomed as most audiences are to this type of play, that usualy unmasks an entirely unsuspected criminal, the plot in "The Cat and the Canary" is handled so cleverly that the ending comes as a distinct surprise.

The cast is exceptionally good. The heroine's role, that of Annabelle West, is adequately portrayed by Sylvia Field, who has a jerky type of speech and gives a tense characterization to her part that fits in beautifully with the atmosphere of fear that reigns supreme. The hero of the piece turns out to be Paul Jones, played by Walter Regan. The somewhat round-shouldered, spectacled youth has an appealing, serious frankness of speech and a habit of considering everything at length. "On the other hand," is one of his favorite expressions, and his winding up to a proposal is ludicrous in the extreme. The spectacle of this ingenuous youth making love to Annabelle on the library sofa, in a house deserted for the moment by all its occupants, while behind them the shadowy panel moves slowly aside, caused a regular outburst of warning shrieks from the fearful watchers in the audience.

Percy Moore plays the part of Roger Crosby, the lawyer who falls a victim to the concealed murderer. Virginia Howell, who will be remembered by Peterboro audiences who saw her in "Chu Chin Chow," made an admirable and spooky servant, with spiritistic tendencies, and Ryder Keane was the villain, Charles Wilder blonde and handsome in everyday life.

Carl Eckstrom gave a splendid characterization of Harry Blythe, an ancient enemy of Wilder, Florence Huntington as Susan Sillsby, the intriguing society woman with designs on Annabelle's fortune, enacted her role finely, and her companion Cicely Young, was played adequately by Clara Verdera. One of the most brutal of the characters was Edmund Elton as Hendricks, the supposed asylum guard, taking the centre of the stage in the tense third act, and the role of Dr. Patterson, the physician whose creepy appearance and resemblance to the reputed maniac drives his patient into hysterics, was well played by Franklyn Fox.

A marvellous diamond necklace and its uncanny disappearanece in claw-like hands at the dead of night, adds to the element of interest and mystery. The atmosphere of fear and terror is lightened at opportune moments by the ridiculous and constant display of 'nerves' by several of the characters, and many good laughs alternate with the pleasant thrills of an outstanding mystery play.

The Grand Opera House orchestra played in excellent style last evening during intermissions.

AT THE ROYAL

BARTHELMESS GIVES SCREEN HIS GREATEST PHOTODRAMA

In "Fury," at the Royal To-night — Lillian Gish in Cast.

The fury of the raging sea.
The fury of the sailors in a fight to the death.
The fury of a woman wht sees her finery on another.
The fury of a girl whose wedding is postponed.
The fury of an old man who thinks his son a coward.
The fury of the "coward" when he learns of his mother's plight and seeks to avenge a wrong.

All of these enter into Richard Barthelmess' highly dramatic and romantic photodrama, which is fascinating theatregoers at the Royal Theatre this week. Certainly it would be hard to find a more appropriate title than "Fury" for this virile, human First National attraction. Love and jealousy and other passions enter in it of course but a growing fury is the dominant note.

The smashing climax comes at sea, when "Boy" Leyton, the once cringing second mate, grapples with and vanquishes the man brute who had wrecked his mother's life and brought on the death of his father.

NEW VAUDEVILLE TO-MORROW AT ROYAL

If recommendations mean anything the Royal is all set for a real vaudeville bill commencing to-night. Two boys from Sunny Italy with their piano, accordion and violin, have been making a name for themselves from coast to coast. The Royal management is fortunate in securing their services. The other act is fresh from a season on the Leow Circuit, Tom and Addie Leon in an original pantomine and juggling novelty. The Royal Management should be complimented on the quality of the acts they are bringing to Peterboro.

AT THE CAPITOL

INGRAM HAS ELECTRIC VOICE WHEN DIRECTING

Metro Chief Reached Around Corner by Means of Magnavox System

By means of an enormous megaphone it might have been possible for Director Rex Ingram to make his commands heard up and down the length of a straight street during the filming of Scaramouche," coming to the Capitol on Monday, but the French streets in the picture have many twists and turns. It would not be feasible for Mr. Ingram to stand by the camera at one end and attempt to make his voice heard two hundred yards away by giving orders to pedestrians, telling them when to come into a scene and what to do when they are once in.

For this reason magnavoxes were installed at intervals of 100 feet. The efficiency of this system was increased by connecting each magnavox to a portable switchboard which, placed at Mr. Ingram's elbow, enabled him to talk to each group individually without moving from his seat.

The same arrangement was made at the French village of Gavrillac which was constructed on a 60-acre plot in the San Fernando valley.

The cast of "Scaramouche" includes Alice Terry, Ramon Novarro, Lewis Stone, Edith Allen, Edward Connelly, Lionel Belmore, George Siegmann, Bowditch Turner, Julia Swayne Gordon and many others.

"Scaramouche", a Rex Ingram production for Metro, was adapted to the screen from Rafael Sabatini's famous novel by Willis Goldbeck by arrangement with Charles L. Wagner. John F. Seitz was the cameraman.

"FLAMING BARRIERS" SCENES FILMED ON HISTORIC LOCATION

Romantic Story Screened on Banks of Stanislaus River in California.

Filmed in Sonora, Cala., one of the oldest and most historic of the California gold towns, George Melford's Paramount production "Flaming Barriers", which comes to the Capital theatre today, Friday and Saturday, has for its background a country in which much of the western state's romantic story was developed.

When the Foreign Miners' Tax Law of 1850, which forced foreigners to pay thirty dollars a month for the right of mining in California, was passed, the principal opposition to it was manifested by Mexicans located in and around Sonora.

Several of the scenes for 'Flaming Barriers' were filmed on the banks of the Stanislaus river where, some seevnty year sago, one hundred miners banded together to protect the rights of several Chinamen who had been driven off their claim by three gaunt, long-haired men from Arkansas.

"Flaming Barriers" retains a strong flavor of the old days of the west, although it is a modern story with a gripipng, fast moving plot. The little town of Burbridge, where most of the action takes place, is a battle ground on which the things of yesterday and the things of today struggle for the mastery. The featured players who appear in this picture are Jacqueline Logan, Antonio Moreno and Walter Hiers.

Written for the screen by Byron Morgan, "Flaming Barriers" is packed with thrills. It is the story of an inventor, Patrick Malone, who mortages his factory to get money to carry on his experiments on a fast motor fire-truck which he is perfecting. He and his daughter, Jerry Malone, are the only ones in Burbridge who believe in the fire-truck, with one exception—Joseph Pickens, the richest and meanest man in the community. Pickens holds the notes which are due agaist the factory. By their aid he hopes to get possession of the factory, the fire truck and Jerry herself. Under the pretext of helping Malone he sends to the city for an efficiency expert to come down and superintend the factory. Sam Barton rich and idle is literally driven into the country by his father, who hopes that some work will make a man of him.

Pickens explains to Barton what is wanted, but unfortunately for the plan, Barton spoils everything by falling in love with Jerry and bends all his energies towards introducing the fire-truck to the state fire chiefs. Pickens fights him at every turn and the most thrilling commercial struggle ensues which has been seen in motion pictures for a long time. In the course of the action, the heroine flies across a burning forest in an aeroplane and drives the fire-truck through the forest with burning trees crashing behind her.

"Flaming Barriers" is said to be one of the strongest and most exciting pictures produced this season.

DEPENDS UPON TONIGHT'S GAME

Petes Will Either Play New Hamburg-Guelph Winners or Go Into the Finals.

The result of to-night's game between Niagara Falls and Collingwood in the latter town, means a great deal to the Petes.

If Collingwood wins the round, the Peterboro crew will meet the Guelph-New Hamburg winners in the semi-finals, the first game away from home on Monday, and the return here on Wednesday.

On the other hand if the Falls team are successful in holding their one goal lead to-night they will clash with the Guelph-New Hamburg winners, and the Petes will get a bye in the finals.

Only one goal down Collingwood are favored to win out on their own ice, but the Niagara Falls team are an experienced crew, and foreign ice has usually no terrors for them.

New Hamburg look the western winners by reason of their 4 to 2 win over Guelph last night.

LOCAL JUNIORS MEET KINGSTON

Younger Petes Have Been Practicing Faithfully and Are Ready to Walk Over Lime Stone Boys Friday Night.

To-morrow night the Young Petes will have to be on their best behavior when they tackle the Kingston team who are picked as one of the fastest teams in this section. Belleville had a very good team but they fell down badly before the tireless boys from the Lime City. The Petes have never played a game this season like the one they played in Whitby and if they put up the fight they did there they will, likely bring home the bacon. The Petes are now in the best of condition and are confident of doing away with Kingston and they prepare to meet Parry Sound. Thornton played the best game of his career on Monday night while Lebarr did likewise. With Lebarr playing a game like he did in Whitby the Petes can down any team or at least keep them from scoring. The Petes will leave to-morrow at noon and return on the eight o'clock train on Saturday morning. On Monday night the two teams will be seen battling it out on the Brock street Arena.

Pat Maloney Makes Fine Showing at Halifax

P. M. Maloney, better known in Peterborough as Pat Maloney of the Royal Navail Air Service, and at present stationed at Halifax, has been branching out in a new line of sport. At the annual race at the Red Cap Snowshoe Club of Halifax last Saturday, Pat won the 200 yards dash and was second in the 400 yards. He was also tied for first place in the points competition. He is a son of Eugene Maloney of Ennismore.

THE VICE-SKIPS REACHED FINALS

Larmer and Sedgwick to Play Off on Saturday Night for Championship.

A large crowd of spectators watched with interest two of the best games of the vice-skips' bonspiel yet played.

Both games were very close, and nobody could pick a winner until the last stone was thrown.

In the semi-finals Larmer won from Wiley by the close score of 9 to 8, after 16 ends of scientific curling. Sedgwick's quartette put up a great battle against Chenhall, and nosed him out by two shots, leaving Larmer and himself to battle it out for the honours.

The final game will be played on Saturday night at 7.30. Both teams have showed up well throughout the contest, and a close and exciting play-off is expected.

Semi-Finals.

Larmer defeated Wiley by the score of 9 shots to 8.

Sedgwick won from Chenhall by 10 shots to 8.

The Finals.

The finals will be played on Saturday night at 7.30—
Larmer vs. Sedgwick.

EMILY MAN MET WITH ACCIDENT

Threshing Machine Fell on Him and Broke His Back--No Hopes of Recovery.

OMEMEE, Feb. 28.—Mr. George Mills, an unmarried man who resides with his mother about three miles directly east of Omemee, met with a serious accident this morning while moving his threshing machine from Michael Perdue's farm. The machine upset on the road, pinning Mr. Mills underneath it and breaking his back. He was taken to a nearby house and Dr. Earle, of Omemee was called. He found that his back was broken and stated that there was no hopes of recovery. Mr. Mills was about forty years of age and has a younger brother residing in Omemee, who is at present very ill.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. — (United Press).—Nothing happened overnight to check the rallying tendency which developed in Wednesday's late trading, and the active issues made further progress on the recovery in the early dealings.

Steel Common rebounded to 103, against a low of 101 3-8 in the previous session, and proportionate recoveries took place in Baldwin, Can. and other industrial leaders.

The oils were strengthened by the drop of 35,000 in the production of crude for the week ended February 23, which helped to off-set the proposed radical legislation by Senator La Follette.

Industrials continued to move ahead in the first hour, and activity at rising prices spread to a number of the rails, under the inspiration of a further rise in Norfolk, which reached a new 1924 high at 112. Chesapeake and Ohio rebounded to 71¼ against Wednesday's low of 68, but the North-Western issues, particularly Northern Pacific, were weak on January operating statements.

Both this road and great Northern reported decreases of about $500,000 in net over income from January, 1923. Last year Northern Pacific income surplus ran neck and neck with the $5 dividend, and so great a decline in net for the first month of the year was far from reassuring. Great Northern earned about $7 last year, and can therefore stand a greater diminition than Northern Pacific without threatening the dividend.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Feb. 27.—Saturday the mails got through to many of the rural points in Northumberland county for the first time in most of cases since the big storm. Very little shovelling has been done on many roads, and the travelled thoroughfare may lead you anywhere, through fields, around barns, past your neighbor's back door, or anywhere that the mountains of snow will permit. "Fine thing for the crops," said one farmer today, and if that be true, Ontario should flourish as a rich agricultural county another season.

Not Much Sickness

One of the blessings for which everyone is thankful is that not nearly so much sickness is reported as there was at this time last year. Not very much serious illness is reported from country points, and if there had been, it would have been impossible for physicians to get through.

Ontario Fruit Growers' Association

A unique circumstance in connection with the annual convention of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association is that they will not meet in Toronto this year as usual, but instead, go to Trenton tomorrow to combine their meeting with that of the Northumberland and Durham Fruit Growers' Association. The two following days they go to Hamilton to combine their annual meeting with that of the Niagara Fruit Growers' thus helping on the work in both the Eastern and Western sections of the province.

Death of Charles Crowe

A great many old friends at Alderville, Roseneath and other points learned of the death of Mr. Charles Crowe, formerly of Alderville, but more recently of California, with very keen regret. Mr. Crowe came to Roseneath to visit his sister, Mrs. Wm. Lakes, and was taken ill with appendicitis. Two physicians attended and performed an operation and two nurses went out from Cobourg to assist, but notwithstanding skilful medical attention and devoted nursing he succumbed to his illness.

Hockey Game Postponed

The play-off between the Cobourg Collegiate hockey team, winners of their district in the Interscholastic League, was to have taken place on Monday night, but is postponed to a later date.

Mrs. Stillman Gave Address

At an interesting meeting of the W.M.S. of the Cobourg Methodist church, Mrs. Stillman, wife of Rev. R. F. Stillman, pastor of the church, who had spent twenty years in British Columbia in which province there are 50,000 Chinese and Japanese, gave some personal knowledge of the character of the Oriental. Her story of experiences among these people was most interesting and instructive. The topic under discussion for this meeting was "Immigration from Asia," and Mrs. Stillman's address was particularly applicable to the study, which was taken by Mrs. E. Guillet, Miss S. Blegard and Mrs. S. E. Roberts. Mrs. A. J. Gould sang.

Cobourg Lady Died in Toronto

The death took place in Toronto on Sunday of Miss Ellen Butler, daughter of the late Capt. Owen Butler, a former well known citizen of Cobourg. Miss Butler had been residing for some years with her sister, Mrs. Bero, in Toronto. A brother, Mr. James Butler, resides here.

Presentation at Bethesda

A pleasant event took place on Wednesday evening at Bethesda, when the neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Winn gathered at their home to extend them best wishes for a happy future. At an opportune time Mr. Edgar Philp read an address that assured Mr. Winn of the continued friendship of his neighbours and extended to Mrs. Winn a warm welcome into the same circle of friends. In proof of the sincerity of these words Mr. Harold Tapscott and Mr. Alex. Watt presented Mr. and Mrs. Winn with a chair and table. To this expression of regard Mr. Winn made suitable reply.

Many Charges Against Schwab

Israel Schwab, who it is alleged was connected with the robbery at Cold Blow Cottage here a year or so ago, when the house was denuded of rugs, curtains, silver, records, etc., came up at Toronto during last week, where it is stated he was charged with breaking into eighteen different places. One of these was the residence of a son-in-law of Mr. Bert Clarke, of this town.

OTTAWA HOUSE

The speech contains this paragraph. "In opinion of Government, such reduction of such taxation as it may be possible to effect should aim primarily at reducing the cost of the instruments of production in the industries based on the natural resources of Dominion, thereby aiding materially in development of our natural resources, and, through cheap ened production effecting a diminution also in the cost of living."

While the speech does not say it in so many words paragaph will be interpretated as meaning reduction in tariff, on Agricultural implements.

Points from the speech are: Legislation for consolidation of revenue collecting services under one head; stabilization and control of freight rates on grain from the head of Great Lakes to Canadian ocean ports nd thence to Liverpool under consideration.

Further development of inland water transportation routes of vital importance.

Further inquiry should be instituted before final decision reached on St. Lawrence waterway.

That every effort will be made to promote Canadian trade via Canadian ports.

Legislation will be introduced to encourage production of Canadian fuel.

TARPAULINS SAVED STOCK UNDER BON MARCHE FIRE

Tarpaulins judiciously placed by the firemen saved hundreds of dollars damage in the Simcoe street fire on Tuesday night, it was shown today when the stock they had covered was found to be in good order.

The fire broke out in the stock room of the Bon Marche Manufacturing Company, of erected by Bruce Fowler, and caused several thousands of dollars damage there. It was confined to small quarters by the firemen, who are congratulated on the speed and facility with which they spread the tarpaulins over the stock in Brown's Hardware and Record's Dry Cleaners. Not much water came down to the first floor, but it was sufficient to cause considerable damage had it not been for the protective coverings.

FORD'S CHIEF INTEREST WORK.

DEARBORN, Mich., Feb. 28. — Henry Ford leaned over the gate of a little cottage near his home here.

"John," he said to the boy on the other side, "I hear you are causing your mother a lot of worry. What seems to be the trouble?"

Ford then talked to the boy for an hour. The boy's mother has had no more trouble.

Recently someone asked Ford for $2,000,000 to "stamp out the boll weevil."

"What are you going to do with the $2,000,000?" Ford asked. "If ten times $2,000,000 would stamp out the weevil, it would have been killed long ago."

One of Ford's principal hobbies is bread. He has experimented for years with bread, trying to produce a loaf that will suit him exactly. He is pretty well satisfied with a certain mixture of whole wheat and white flour.

* * * *

Ford has no regular job. He even has no regular office.

He turned the presidency of the Ford Motor Co. over to his son, but he is BOSS of the entire works.

He has a luxuriously appointed office, but never uses it. Others are enthroned behind glass-topped desks, pressing buttons, signing contracts, reading mail. He bobs up in one shop and then in another, watching the production of cars.

Most credited Ford myth is the popular belief that he rose from poverty. Truth is, that Henry's father was a well-to-do farmer and justice of the peace. And when Henry reached man's estate he was able to hold down a $150 a month job as a mechanic—and $150 was a lot of money in those days.

Ford personifies authority. Those in his organization who question his decisions find themselves "out" without delay.

He is a hard taskmaster for himself, and expects as much hard work from others as he extracts from himself. He generally is at work two hours ahead of any of his executives.
